Eight YSU telecommunications students are working the assignments as part of WKBN/WYFX-TV production crews. The students have tape delayed games of YSU home football games. This makes the first year YSU has had such a commitment with both TV stations.

"Our purpose has been to give the students experience in 'real world' situations," Owens said. "They are a terrific group of people. In each case, the assignments are skewed to take students out of the classroom and helping them grow." The purpose was for telecommunication majors to gain concentrated experience as an 'entry level' future endeavors, Owens said.

Colangelo says he serves as student production coordinator for the project and is a member of the crew's pre-production group. The student who works with Studios and White, and together they develop pre-production packages to run during halftime of the games.

"This is a great project that has allowed us to bring the student to the 'real world' and into the production environment," Colangelo said. "As such, we have designed the curriculum to get them involved in all phases of the production including sitting in on-air, however, he said he is satisfied with his experience working behind the scenes. "I'm gone well," he said, "Everyone has the time and learned a lot. It's been a good learning experience and you get to meet a lot of people in the field."

The participating students are helping in all phases of the productions including scripting, directing, planning and producing, and receiving on location experience. The students receive a valuable professional experience in television production.

"The students have done a great job," Colangelo said. "If anything has gone wrong, it's gone well and we're working on it as fast as possible."

We are excited to hear Bruce Beeghly will be joining the Ohio Board of Regents. The former YSU trustee will not, however, disrupt the board’s focus on student success. Beeghly is a strong supporter of higher education initiatives and has a long track record of advocating for student needs. He has been a vocal advocate for increasing access to higher education and has worked to improve the quality of education at YSU.

Beeghly selection is reason for hope

By Henry Gomez

With a fire of his incredibly powerful voice, student Government president, SG President Jeff Parks, reported away from his office. He told the assembly he felt that he needed to take this issue to the public. He immediately called for a vote on the proposed salary increase for SG employees.

The motion carried and the vote was 35-0. The motion was carried by all present.

The meeting adjourned.

Mold tests must continue

Although a Center for Environmental Control and Prevention official said mold was no longer a threat, it will remain a concern. The campus still has several moldy areas that need to be addressed.

The affected areas of the CISP building have been re-opened. The university is currently working to ensure that all affected areas are fully operational. The university has also implemented additional safety procedures, including the use of personal protective equipment, to minimize the risk of mold exposure.

History professor in a league of his own

Citizens League strives to find honest political leaders

BY REBECCA MARQUIS

On campus, you may see a professor who sits behind his office desk, searching for the Citizens League links, he relates the purpose of the newly launched Web site appears on Greater Youngstown's Web site.

Lowell Satre as he sits behind his office desk strives to find honest people to run for office, he said, rattling off, the group's purpose like most people say their favorite topic.

Down scrolled the screen, as Satre read accomplishments one after the other, the League had organized the first ever regional crime conference in Poland, to monitor a threatened made in the state of Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. Recently, the League was teaming up with the League of Women Voters as they too have members from the Court of Appeals. Applicants are reviewing their campaign.

SG plans student forums

BY ROXANNE TORELLA

Student Government leaders hope a new forum will help students get their questions regarding YSU answered.

The Student Government leaders hope a new forum will help students get their questions regarding YSU answered.

The forums will be open to any student. One to two appointed SG representatives will be open for question from the students.

Although members agreed that this would be a good way to connect with students, there were some issues of concern. At the meeting, some representative questioned who would be qualified enough to speak.

Parks said more than 75 percent of SG's members are new. That raises another concern for some members of Student Government. Will they be able to answer the students' questions? That question was also added to the Student Affairs committee's agenda for their next meeting, which will be held at 4 p.m. Sept. 23 meeting.

Parks expressed interest in seeing the plan go forth. "Student government is the voice to communicate with the people on campus who can help."
The two women met after McKibben returned to YSU for her doctorate in 2000. Through their mutual friends, McKibben and Tessier met and quickly connected. McKibben said she suspected that the pair was perfect for each other.

"When I met Tess, she was exactly the same," McKibben said. "I was sure that I had found the one for me."

Tessier agreed, saying, "From the moment I met McKibben, I knew we were meant to be together."

They started dating and soon became engaged. Despite the love and commitment they shared, McKibben and Tessier faced numerous challenges.

Despite being in a relationship for 13 years, McKibben and Tessier have yet to marry legally due to the lack of domestic partner benefits.

"We have been together for over a decade, but we have never been able to make our relationship official," McKibben said. "It's frustrating, but we've learned to live with it.

Tessier added, "We've been through a lot together, but we've never had the security of legal protection.

The couple has faced discrimination and challenges in their personal and professional lives.

"We've had to navigate the legal system and fight for our rights," McKibben said. "It's been a tough road, but we've overcome many obstacles.

Despite the hurdles, McKibben and Tessier remain committed to each other.

"We love each other more than ever," McKibben said. "We will continue to fight for our rights and for the rights of others.

Tessier agreed, saying, "We will never give up until we have the legal protection we deserve."

The couple plans to continue their fight for equal rights and resources.

"We hope to see the day when all couples are treated equally," McKibben said. "We will not stop until we achieve our goal.

Tessier added, "We will continue to fight for the rights of all couples."

Cross country team gears up for season

By Joe Barnes

Cross country Head Coach Brian Garity said this year's squad offers you a chance to realize the conference dream, "because we're the most talented," Garity said. "And they know how to step up and win as individuals." The Penguins are looking to repeat as Mid-Continent Conference Champions in the 2004-05 season, as they did last year, and Garity said the team has the talent to make it happen. "We've got a lot of depth this year," Garity said. "We've got a lot of speed this year." Garity said the team has the talent to make it happen. "We've got a lot of depth this year," Garity said. Doby happy to be back in action

By Dave Devereux

The 2001 football season wasn't too bad for Josiah Doby. The 5-foot, 217-pound junior running back collected a shoulder injury in practice, red-shirted the year, and has allowed him for the entire season. "The worst thing is not being able to help my teammates," Doby said. "That includes all the pain and frustration that comes along with it." But Doby said he is confident about his return to the field and believes he can help the Penguins to maintain their top ten status.
