Historical Background

The historical background for the Human Resources/Personnel Office is hard to assess. In the earlier days of the college (before becoming part of the State system in 1967), President Howard Jones maintained a small administration even though the university was growing. During Jones' time as President, there wasn't a dedicated human resources department on campus. Hiring appears to have been very informal and specific details were probably handled under the business manager, P. Calvin Pickard.¹

After the University became state-supported in 1967, President Albert Pugsley (who succeeded Howard Jones) established a larger administrative organization. This included a Director of Personnel under the Administrative Office of Financial Affairs in 1969.² Once the Ohio Education Association (OEA) became the faculty union (in 1973), Dr. William Swan was appointed as the university's Faculty Personnel Administrator and the position was moved to the Administrative Affairs department. The Financial Affairs department still included a personnel administrator for the non-teaching staff and administrators.³

Personnel operations were centralized in 1977 with Taylor Alderman named as the Vice President of Personnel. It was at this time that a full Human Resources/Personnel Department was realized.⁴ Since then, various presidents have come and gone but most of them have kept the Human Resources department under the auspices of Finance and Administration Division. In 2015, YSU President James P. Tressel placed the Human Resources department under the new administrative division of Legal Affairs and Human Resources.⁵

Scope and Content

These files are arranged in alphabetical order by last name. Most of the files relate to faculty members and occasionally staff or administration. The subject area or department of personnel is listed within each person's file. Some employees may have more than one department/subject listed or only have the related department/subject listed based upon the materials in the file. The dates of the personnel files reflect the date of the material in the file and not necessarily the time that person was employed at the University. Caution should be exercised in using these files in determining the extent of a person's employment at YSU, as the dates are often sporadic, have gaps or had items added after the person left the university. Most of the files include: a head shot or some other photograph, curriculum vitae, hiring form, a letter of welcome (from Phil Snyder director of University Relations), newspaper clippings, news release forms, student evaluations, and/or obituaries.

It may be of interest to note the amount of material which originated during the Institution's change over from a privately-funded university to a state funded university. This could be a reflection of new administrative standards of being a state funded organization. The establishment of an actual personnel office was surely a result of such, coinciding with an increased hiring budget. There was also a decent amount of retirement during this time. Many senior member of staff (some of whom had been affiliated with the University since the 1920s and 1930s) may not have felt comfortable with the changes they saw coming. When the university was small, it was more of a close knit community, lacking layers of bureaucracy that can create an impersonal atmosphere. The shift to research was also more pronounced with the start of a Graduate School. This may have increased the burden of teaching with added pressure for faculty to publish and apply for grants.

Colophon

This collection came in two accessions; however both were stored in the same place in Jones Hall and kept in a similar order before coming to the Archives in 2003. Once the collections arrived in the Archives and Special Collections, they continued to be stored together. The original collections contained over 13 boxes. Four of the boxes were created by faculty members who were either retired from service or deceased by the time the records were transferred to the Archives. The rest originated with the Human Resources/ Personnel department. It is not known how long these records were in Jones Hall or how the faculty-created files came to be stored with the Human Resources files.⁶

During processing, it was decided to combine the two collections, since both had similar (if not the same) material. In so doing, researchers would be spared from having to look for personnel files in two separate collections. The files were also packed tightly within the boxes which made the boxes unmanageable. The collection was enlarged by spacing out the files.

This collection was processed and finding aid was written by Lisa Marie Garofali, who has a M.A. in History and 10 years of experience working in the YSU Archives and Special Collections.
