FOR RELEASE: IMMEDIATE

Mailed October 12, 1987

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio - An extraordinary Caribbean cruise combining education and enjoyment is being sponsored by Youngstown State University.

The March 26-April 5 voyage is a fascinating trip into the Mayan history of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula and Central America, with experts giving shipboard lectures and leading excursions to many Mayan centers and restored ruins.

The Easter season trip is aboard the Sun Line's five-star flagship, the Stella Solaris, and concludes with a visit to George Town on Grand Cayman Island, one of the jewels of the Caribbean.

Ted Pedas, YSU Planetarium lecturer, helped design this Mayan cruise. He has been a lecturer/astronomer for many Sun Line cruises and last spring coordinated a similar trip on which travelers viewed the equinox from a Mayan ruin.

One of the authorities on this cruise will be Dr. Warren Young, chairman of YSU's Department of Physics and Astronomy.

Other internationally recognized faculty aboard will include Drs. Harvey and Victoria Bricker, professors of anthropology at Tulane University; Dr. Anthony Aveni, professor of astronomy and anthropology at Colgate University; Drs. Barbara and Dennis Tedlock, cultural anthropologists at Boston University; and David Brown of the Cousteau Society.

After leaving Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the Stella Solaris will visit Playa del Carmen and Cozumel in the Yucatan, Isla de Roatan and Puerto Cortes in Honduras, and Santo Thomas del Castilla in Guatemala.
