YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio _ Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, noted educator, author and psychologist, will give a public lecture Oct. 16 at Youngstown State University as a Schermer Scholar-in-Residence.

His presentation, "The Lessons of the Holocaust," will be at 8 p.m. in the Chestnut Room of Kilcawley Center, Spring Street.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Dr. Bettelheim is a pioneer in identifying and examining the forces that alienate the individual, and is a critic of the technological world that can separate man from his childhood and then force him to recapture his identity in fantasy.

His most recent book, Surviving, is written from his personal memories of Nazi death camps and relates the oppressive relationships between the SS troops and the imprisoned to current oppressive relationships in a modern technical world that alienates the individual.

Born in Austria, Dr. Bettelheim received his doctoral degree in psychology and philosophy from the University of Vienna. He came to this country in 1939 and since then has been with the University of Chicago.

He is the Stella M. Rowley Distinguished Service Professor Emeritus of Education, Psychology and Psychiatry, and director of the university's Orthogenic School. He also teaches at Stanford University.

Dr. Bettelheim's book, The Use of Enchantment, which endorses the educational value of fairy tales, won both the National Book Award and the National Book

Critic's Circle Award. His other books include A Home for the Heart, The Empty
Fortress, Love is Not Enough, and Social Change and Prejudice.

He is recognized for his work in a wide range of areas, including severely disturbed children, social psychology, childrening and personality disintegration under totalitarian oppression.

The Schermer Scholar-in-Residence Program was established at YSU in 1980 through an endowment from the Frances and Lillian Schermer Charitable Trusts administered by the Youngstown Zionist District of the Zionist Organization of America and B'nai B'rith Mahoning Lodge 339. It memorializes the Schermer family of Youngstown and seeks to advance their interest in young people, education, the Jewish community and the community at large.

Each year, Schermer residencies bring to the campus notable speakers and performing artists who explore contemporary issues and interests in a series of public presentations. The Schermer Program thus serves to extend the academic resources of the University beyond its classrooms and strengthens the link between the campus and local communities.

Patrons are encouraged to use the Wick Avenue Parking Deck across from Maag Library and the Butler Institute of American Art. The deck is open weekdays for all events. Patrons may park on the fourth level and walk across the bridge to Kilcawley Center. There is a $1 parking fee for all events.
