YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio - The Geography Department at Youngstown State University will hold a workshop for some 35 area elementary and secondary school teachers May 22. The day-long event will feature presentations from two nationally known educators as well as presentations by the YSU Geography faculty on classroom strategies and techniques.

Dr. Robert Morrill, head of the Geography Department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, will open the workshop with a talk on "Interdependence in Geography" at 9:30 a.m. in Room B07980 of Cushwa Hall. Morrill is currently vice president of the National Council for Geographic Education and co-author of the recently published Guidelines for a Geographic Education.

Dr. Jack Hamilton, visiting professor at Northwestern University, journalist and author of Mainstreet America and the Third World, will conclude the morning with a 10:30 talk on "Bringing the Third World to the Classroom." He is on campus as part of the Wean Scholar-in-Residence program.

Afternoon presentations by YSU Geography faculty will deal with "Maps and Places," "Scaled Mapping from Field Trip Experiences," "Patterns in the City" and "Satellite Imagery." Participants will also have the opportunity to tour Geography Department facilities and meet informally with the workshop presenters.

Mailed May 15, 1987

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio - John F. Greenman, one of the area's leading newspaper executives, will be guest speaker May 21 for the annual dinner of Chapter 143 of Phi Kappa Phi, the national honor society.

In addition to inducting 74 students, the society will announce several scholarships and make awards to two alumni, a faculty member and a retiring faculty member.

Greenman, who graduated from YSU in 1972, was editor of the student newspaper, The Jambar, then was a reporter for The Vindicator and Warren's Tribune Chronicle, where he became editor in 1983. For the past year he has been assistant managing editor for metropolitan news at The Akron Beacon Journal, which recently won a coveted Pulitzer Prize for news coverage.

He has won reporting awards from the Ohio UPI Editors, Ohio Associated Press, and Cleveland and Akron Press Clubs, and is a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Associated Press Managing Editors and National Conference of Editorial Writers.

He and his wife, Dr. Mary Alice Budge, YSU professor of English, reside in Youngstown. They have two sons.

Phi Kappa Phi recognizes superior scholarship in all disciplines, high achievement and good character. It was founded in 1887 at the University of Maine. Chapter 143 has been active on the Youngstown campus since 1972 and has initiated more than 1,000 students, faculty and alumni. It also sponsors the Phi Kappa Phi Distinguished Lecture Series.

Its $500 scholarship is being presented to Rochelle Anzevino, Youngstown, the chapter's nominee for the National Fellowship.

Scholar Awards of $400 will be presented to Sherry Brennan, Girard; Suzanne Clair, Vermilion; and James Ameduri, Boardman.

Honored as "Distinguished Alumni" will be Constantine Economus, Youngstown lawyer, and Suzanne Foster, curriculum specialist with the Youngstown public schools.

Dr. Mervin Kohn of Boardman, professor of Management who is retiring, will be honored as "Emeritus Life Member."

Initiated into membership from the faculty will be Dr. Gary M. Salvner of Boardman, associate professor of English.

New officers installed will include Dr. Howard Pullman of Pulaski, Pa., associate professor of accounting and finance, president; Dr. Barbara Wright of Canfield, chairperson of Health and Physical Education, president-elect; and Dr. Harold Yiannaki, Boardman, YSU registrar, member of the executive board. Dr. Barbara Brothers, Youngstown, chairperson of the English Department, will receive the Past President's Award.
