YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio - Twelve Youngstown State University faculty members have been granted research professorships for the 1986-87 academic year.

Each year, according to the YSU-Ohio Education Association agreement, 12 faculty members whose unsubsidized research is judged by a committee to warrant support are selected as research professors and are granted a one-third reduction in teaching load.

Those faculty members and their projects are:

- Dr. Ramaswami Dandapani of Austintown, professor of Mathematical and Computer Sciences, "Testing and Testable Design of Microprocessors."
- Dr. Leslie S. Domonkos of Canfield, professor of History, "Columbia University Project on the Renaissance."
- Dr. Gary L. Green of Youngstown, assistant professor of English, "The Language of Nightmare: The Colonial Origins of American Gothic Fiction."
- Dr. James T. Henke of Youngstown, professor of English, "Gutter Life and Language in the Early 'Street' Literature of England."
- Dr. Russell A. Maddick of Campbell, associate professor of Art, "Painterly Painting The Move from Canvas to Plywood Support."
- Dr. Pietro J. Pascale of Pulaski, Pa., professor of Foundations of Education, "Longitudinal Study of Drug Use/Abuse Patterns in Northeast Ohio: A Log Linear Analysis of High School Students 1977-1986."
- Dr. Mary Ann Pitman of Youngstown, assistant professor of Foundations of Education, "Cognitive, Social and Motor Behaviors and the New Age Home Schooled Child."
- Dr. Stephen E. Rodabaugh of Youngstown, associate professor of Mathematical and Computer Sciences, "Probability Axiomatics, Generalized Realizations, and Generalized Representation Theorems."
- Dr. Robert L. Rollin of Boardman, associate professor of music, "Composition and Preparation of Performance Materials for Four New Musical Works Involving Diverse Chamber Music Media."

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio - Youngstown State University's Chapter 199 of the Delta Nu Alpha, international transportation fraternity, recently elected new officers for the 1986-87 year.

They are: Kenneth J. Raub of Niles, president; Jeanette Winning of Youngstown, vice-president; Randall A. Dettmer of Canfield, secretary; H. Howard Pincham of Youngstown, treasurer; and John D. Bancroft of Hubbard and Paul D. Hickson of Youngstown to the Board of Directors.

The chapter recently took an extensive tour of the Packard Electric Division of General Motors Corp. in Warren.

The two-hour tour and slide presentation was conducted by Deryl Porter of Cortland, superintendent of Transportation and Customer Services for the plant.

Kirk J. Pace of Warren, current president of the YSU chapter, presented Porter with a "Certificate of Appreciation."

The objectives of Delta Nu Alpha are to promote and develop knowledge, advancement and professionalism in the field of transportation and logistics. Chapter 199 is sponsored by the Management Department of YSU's Warren P. Williamson, Jr. School of Business Administration.

Chapter advisor is Joseph C. Long of Liberty, associate professor of management.
