1944 Neon Under Way

By Dina De Blasio

The 1944 Neon staff has been organized with Marie De Molli and Sally Hull as co-editors, and the annual is well on its way to completion. Other staff heads are:

John Guju, business and advertising manager; Judy Megala, feature editor; Frank MacArtor, class editor; Mary Riddle, photography director; Mary Kay Buckley and June Grimsley, associate art editors; Dina DeBlasio, publicity director; Leonard Caccamo, circulation manager; Rosalie Mehit, head of typing staff, and Jane O'Brien, chief copy reader.

There is only a very limited supply of Neons and the policy for sales will be "first come, first served." The price is $2 and the full amount must be paid in cash when the order is placed. You may place your order immediately with Leonard Caccamo or any of his committee, Marcia Welsh, Jack Mehler, Angela Vagnozzi, Helen Humphrey, Sylvia Stroup, Marge Thomas, or Ted Hendrickson.

College Library Drive Again Proves Success

The annual drive of the Friends of Youngstown College Library that you have been hearing about during the past two months has again been a success. Now, you may be thinking there will be a great load of books coming into the library for there is all that money to spend. That is not quite true. The Library is always buying books and receiving books. The expenditure of its book funds is spread out over the whole year and not confined to a great spending spree once a year.

Since the first of 1944 the Library has prepared for your use almost six hundred new titles. Knowing that you like to browse through new books, we have had a display shelf built which you will find standing to the right of the circulation desk. Here we are placing a cross section of the new books as they are prepared for your use. Look through them and if you find any that appeal to you charge them out. You will find on the right now everything from Lewis' "Gideon Planish" to Hungerford's "Transport for War" from Keleman's "Medieval American Art" to Barger's "Automotive Mechanics."

As sort of by-product of the annual drive the Library receives a great many books as gifts. Frequently these books are duplicate copies of those the Library already has, and it is not advisable for the Library to catalog them. Since many of these books are what we call "recreational reading" we have placed them in your lounge so that you may read a story or two. Sorry we can't supply you with comic books as someone suggested, but we think these will serve the purpose of providing relaxation for your leisure moments as well.

Eat, Learn at I. R. C.'s Luncheon Meetings

How would you like to eat and learn at the same time? You would? Then come to the International Relation Club's luncheon discussions on Mondays at 12:00, Room 112.

Professor Reid will be our special guest on April 3, and will review the U. S. foreign policy in Lippmann's "Shield of the Republic." Everybody is welcomed to this important meeting.

Omicron Lambda Shown Movies

A series of 100 colored slides of the West Coast were shown to members of Omicron Lambda, honorary biology fraternity, at their weekly meeting held on March 24 in Room 311. The slides were shown by Mr. Lindley Vickers, Mill Creek Park naturalist.

The slides were taken by Dr. Frank M. Semans in his travels through California, Oregon and Washington State. Dr. Semans was former head of the Youngstown College biology department and is now an entomologist with the U. S. bureau of entomology and plant quarantine with headquarters in San Francisco. He is the husband of Mrs. Catherine B. Semans, dean of women.

29 Pledge Greek Organizations

Twenty-nine pledge members accepted into social sororities and fraternities were announced by Pan Hellenic Council last Friday at the conclusion of the spring rushing season.

Phi Lambda Delta sorority led the social organizations with 10 new pledges.

Those accepting were Katherine Baron, Phyllis Carter, Floymae Faucett, Betty Hunter, Jane Jones, Connie Jordan, Frances Patsee, Lola Raption, Betty Stoner, and Virginia Wilkos.

The seven new Phi Sigs announced at the opening of bids were Louis Burkheimer, Jin Hammond, Frank Mac Artor, Arseny Meinick, Ed McQuillen, Jim Quay, and Harry Williams.

Kappa Sigma Kappa added five new pledges. Those announced by the fraternity are Joe Miklas, Albert Ortenzio, Steve Patrick, Gale and Jerry Watt.

The Alpha Deltas pledges added are Murilla Burkett, Dorothy Foley, June Kostyk, Rose Rozich, and Theresa Mattinat.

Jacqueline Padmore, Gladys Peppel, and Sally Fitzcarr are the new Gamma Sigma Sorority pledges for the spring semester.

Alpha Iota Entertains Pledges March 26

On Sunday afternoon of March 26th, members of the Alpha Iota sorority entertained their pledges at a "record get-together" at Buechner Hall.

During the afternoon the pledge services were held and the pledge "edict" was given out. Keys with white and blue ribbons were given out, symbolizing the key to the sorority. Large blue and white plaid hair bows were distributed as favors to the pledges. Josephine Smith, pledge captain, was in charge of the affair.

Recently $5 was given to the national headquarters of the sorority in their drive for the Red Cross.

will provide a "cushion" for post-war years

Tau Kappa Nu Enjoy Trip to Cleveland

Over the weekend of March 10 and 11, members of the Tau Kappa Nu Business School sorority spent a delightful weekend in Cleveland, Ohio, where they stayed at the Hollenden Hotel.

On Saturday evening the group attended the Ice Pollies and topped the evening off with a dinner party at Lucciano's Restaurant in honor of Miss Desdemonia DeCapita's birthday.

The girls left Youngstown from the Eire station Saturday morning and returned Sunday afternoon. Those who attended included the Misses Desdemonia DeCapita, Marge Purrey, Aurora Fortunata, Angela Gamberale, Anita Marinelli, Sophia Millich, Mary Ellen Rist, and Elvera Rossi.

Marion Speerbrecher and Doris Matlos, members of the sorority and Miss Grace Geiger, faculty advisor, were unable to attend.

New pledges of the sorority are as follows: Nancy Crish, Rose Perry, Carmel Guerriero, Jean Whitstone, and Irene Zelinsky.

YoCo Business Girls Check for OPA

On the afternoons of March 15, 16, and 17, a group of sixteen Business School girls could be found walking the streets of Youngstown's North side district, checking up on grocery stores in connection with the Office of Price Administration.

Mr. Lamar K. Donahay, OPA district price representative, got in touch with Mr. J. B. Williams of the Business School, looking for a group of volunteer workers who would give their help in aiding the OPA in their present survey on ceiling prices. As the survey now stands, in eighty-seven percent of the 438 retail food stores investigated in Youngstown, at least one type of violation has been found in the 10 items checked.

Afternoon classes were dismissed for the following girls who took part: Martha Consider, Josephine Corvino, Rose Ferry, Ester Gallatin, Wilma Gordon, Elvera Guerio, Marilyn Lyden, Adeline Parisi, Jane Riebe, Mary Ellen Rist, Jean Russell, Madalyn Schontz, Josephine Smith, Genevieve Tomko, Jean Whitstone, and Jane Wood.

Strictly Instrumental

Want to know where a lot of the students were the afternoons of Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday? Down listening to that "sentimental gentleman of swing." We all listened to Tommy Dorsey's music and find it very smooth—now here are some facts about his life:

"T. D." was born in Shenandoah, Pa., and spent his childhood there. In 1936 he started his own band, which was his greatest ambition. He has been considered tops ever since.

Red Cross Dance to Be Held Tonight

By Jane O'Brien

Chillun, let's get together and dance—and for a worthy cause too! The Red Cross drive for funds is in full swing at YoCo—or at least will be tonight at the Pioneer Pavilion.

We all know how badly the Red Cross needs our contribution in this drive to raise funds to care for the needs of servicemen and women throughout the world.

Modest Men Molested By Frantic Co-eds

By Bill Harnevious

Outnumbered by over three to one, the forty some male students of the college are being treated like kings by the female majority numbering nearly 200. Men of the college are going crazy. Soon they will have to make a difficult decision and ask for a date to the Junior Prom. A rumor is circulating that the girls are taking the liberty of doing the asking. This is a good plan! Try it.

College men have appropriately selected three charming junior class ladies as candidates for the junior queen. The Misses Connie Taylor, Peg Tessani and Beverly Benjamin are the trio from which the queen will be chosen by an impartial judge. The remaining two will be attendants.

Committees have been working furiously to make the Junior Prom a success. The elaborate Marble Room of the Stambaugh Auditorium is where the affair will be staged on April 22, 1944, with dancing from 9 to 2. Music will be furnished by a very popular band, the name of which is being kept secret as part of the suspense of the publicity campaign.

Girls are urged to invite the fellows and maybe everyone will be satisfied. The boy won't be hurting any girl's feelings because he can always say "She asked me first!"

Now in wartime the Red Cross has a two-fold job to accomplish. It must care not only for the afflicted civilian but it must also lend assistance to all the armies of freedom wherever their cause may take them.

The Red Cross has told of its fight again and again, and we have listened—now we must DO! Each and every one of us can afford the 50 cents they ask for the privilege of attending this benefit. Many boys of this college are serving in the armed forces. If these boys were to ask you individually for 50 cents to save his life, you couldn't refuse. He is asking you now through the Red Cross. Can you turn 'aside' this plea?

As Young America, we as college students, should feel it our solemn duty to do our part in furthering this project. Since this is not a date affair all of you "manless women and vice-versa should have a swell time at this dance. "The joint is jumpin," so let's jump where it will do the most good—at the PIONEER PAVILION!

The committee for this dance includes: Ginny D'Isa, chairman; Ted Hendrickson, co-chairman; Marjorie Thomas and Patricia Welsh, entertainment; Mary Kay Buckley and Bob Burke, publicity; Marge Nicewaner and Bob Hansen, refreshments.

Remember gang—Pioneer Pavilion—tonight! For riotous fun the right way, be at the Red Cross benefit dance! Hope we'll see you there.

AMERICAN HEROES BY LEFF

Seriously wounded by an exploding grenade, Marine Gunner Angus R. Goss of Tampa, Florida, braved point-blank enemy fire to charge an enemy machine gun emplacement in a cave. Single handed, he wiped out Japanese gunners and snipers with a sub-machine gun, saving the lives of his unit. Angus Goss is dead—leaving a Navy Cross for "indomitable fighting spirit and extreme courage." If such heroism doesn't deserve an extra War Bond, what does?

With the Greeks

By Barbie Hannon

Well, children, the time has come! Your days of being sought-after like mad are over. You are no longer the happy queen or king of the campus whom everybody is nice to. The bids have been given out and answered. Now you are a pledge and life is miserable for you (at any rate, it is supposed to be).

Our Greek organizations are still having their usual good times, and spring's arrival is making this very easy and pleasant.

PHI LAMBDA DELTA

The Phi Lams aren't doing anything cosmic at present, but plans are in the air for a theater party. Last Monday they held a business meeting.

ALPHA THETA DELTA

The Alpha Deltas held a social meeting at the home of the president, Helen Humphrey, last Saturday night. Plans were discussed for a party in honor of the pledges.

Jean Raub, Alpha Delta, was married last week to Lt. Glen Marsteller.

GAMMA SIGMA

A business meeting was held on Friday to discuss a spaghetti dinner to be held at Carosella's followed by a bowling party to be held at the McKenzie Alleys on Tuesday, March 28.

Plans are also being made for a party with the Phi Sigs, but nothing definite has been decided.

Dana's Column

Biggest and best news for Dana-ites was the announcement by Mr. Hoffmann of the reoccupation of the main music building. It'll seem like old times again, only without some of the old people. Even though Mickey and Harold, our gallant custodians, have been kidding the music students about their handicaps, we're sure they're going to pitch in and help get things in ship-shape order, so that we can set May 1 as our moving-in date.

Congratulations are in order this time to the Myeroviches upon the arrival of a brand new baby girl. Her name is Carole Lynn and with the combined talent of her parents she really ought to go places! Mr. Myerovich is now getting special training at cadet school, and with fingers crossed, is hoping to get home sometime in June or July to see his family.

March 31, 1732 marks the birthday of a great composer, Josef Haydn, born in Rohrau, Austria. He had a rather unfortunate incident in his life. He married Marie Anna Keller, the eldest daughter of a wig-maker, in lieu of her sister with whom he had fallen in love but who had entered a convent. The unhappy marriage with this quarrelsome woman lasted for many years until Haydn, of touching patience and unshakable endurance, was relieved by the death of his Xantippe. In his typically good-natured humorous way, he made for his Maria a witty musical "monument," in the round "Ein boses Weib allein" . . . (The test reads: "There is only one single wicked woman in the world; the trouble is that everybody thinks she is his own.")

The next music club meeting is to be held on Tuesday, April 4. Music and discussion of the Romantic period of music are to be the themes of the meeting.

LOOKING AROUND WITH NOSEY NED

The seniors are contemplating when at least one senior bought an engagement ring during his last year. Gee, fellows, where's your romance?

Did you notice that rushing didn't have the same zip as it had previously? SHERMER used to complain when nothing was happening around the school. He should try writing one now.

HOWARD EDSALL dropped in to see us Tuesday after his operation which kept him in the hospital for several weeks. Hope we'll see more of you HOWARD.

JACKIE SMITH and TESSIE PAGLIASOTTI cleaned the lounge the other day on their own volition. Is it asking too much of you to keep it clean?

NOSEY NED'S HIT PARADE:

- MARIE DE MOLLI—for her splendid work as co-editor of the Neon. Marie has worked unceasingly in whipping plans into shape for our year book which WILL be out!
- FRANK MacARTOR—big man on the campus this semester. Frank's work on the Neon and Junior Prom is more than enough to keep him busy—and, oh yes, in his spare time he finds time to get in Delta Epsilon and juggle desks for Mrs. Bridgman.
- MARJORIE THOMAS—for just being inspirational. One of the prettiest assets of the Gamma Sigs, Marjorie slaves away most of her time in chemistry lab, but still finds time to decorate the lounge occasionally.

LIMELIGHT

(By Lotus Koken)

La-dies and Gen-tle-men! The win-nah—Mr. FRANKLIN L. MacARTOR! (Mac to you.) For submitting the most appropriate name, in the opinion of the judges, for our training plane, Frank MacAr-tor holds the Limelight today. Even without his original name for the plane, Frank is deserving of the Limelight for reasons we shall point out directly. When asked where and when he got the inspiration for the name, "Penguin Patroller," Mac says he was just sitting in his office (he has one all his own because of assistantship in chemistry) and the idea came from out of a clear, grey sky. Well, that "wherever it came from, we all agree that "Penguin Patroller" is a perfect name for the training plane YoCo intends to finance.

Now for some important statistics on our hero. Before the interview, our acquaintance with Frank was a mere "Hi, there!" affair. However, from facts gained during the conversation and from his many friends, we learned that Frank is a good sport and a right guy. His major is in chemistry and he is a junior. In fact, Frank is president of the junior class and is knocking himself out to make the Junior Prom a huge success. That it will be, that it will be.

Frank is working for his bachelor of science degree in chemistry. He intends to take graduate work for a Ph. D. in the same field. Frank has a real ambition: to do research work in plastics.

Mac has many irons in the fire. He is president of Phi Epsilon chemistry frat, is active in Religion and Life Club, is class editor for the Neon, and is a Phi Sig pledge. Mac's scholastic standing earns him membership in Delta Epsilon, honorary scholastic fraternity.

Collecting old keys is Frank's hobby. His favorite indoor sport is heckling pre-med students. He is a member of that fantastic foursome: Mac, Jack, Cac and Sac. (You figure it out!)

Another interesting tid-bit is that Frank makes frequent trips to Columbiana to see someone named Alice.

Frank's swell sense of humor completes this picture of a "good sport" and "right guy." Here's wishing him and the "Penguin Patroller" best of luck.

DEAR STUDENT BODY:

THE HEAT'S ON! Who put the finger on Nosey Ned? Did you notice in the last issue how the old boy had quieted down? And, incidentally, did you see where they put his short column—up in a corner on page four? Don't tell me he's losing his P. A. (public appeal)? By the way, did you notice how he changed his style? Nosey Ned forgot all his slander and bright remarks. He went in for big words and grapevine gossip—just sissy stuff, in other words.

We have a big suspicion that the authorship has passed from a man to a woman. The old writer probably got disgusted and gave up. That column will gradually die and no one will miss it. I don't think (evidently). Yes, I guess that boy is on his way out, so you kids don't have to worry about all your sins being made public gossip and your names being dragged through the mud. Let this be Nosey Ned's epitaph.

Yours truly,

HILL HARNEVIOUS.

Somewhere in the South Pacific

HOWDY, EDITOR:

Not being able to locate the whereabouts of some of my college friends, I'd like very much to have you send me a list, if available, of some of the fellows who were seniors during the years 1942-43 and who are now in the service. Being in the first group of E. R. C.'s to leave the college, I had little opportunity to keep in touch with them.

Perhaps you may be interested in knowing just where some of YoCo's boys are being sent. Well, as for me—I'd been stationed at Noumea, Caledonia, for a short time and found the place quite interesting. With Noumea went the Southern Cross, and that's one thing I've been missing . . . At Guadalcanal I got my first impression of a battle area. I visited the American cemeteries for the army and the marines as well as a small Japanese cemetery nearby. Swimming at Lunga Beach was like swimming at Lake Erie—just as secure, for I don't think Tojo will ever strafe that beach again.

Because my present location is a combat area, censorship doesn't permit its revelation. It's a jungle area and plenty dense. In order to build our finance office we had to go out into the jungle and cut down trees to be used as tent poles and supports for the office. Right next to our tent we have our fox-hole which accommodates about 12 of us. We've often spent half the night in one and it isn't too pleasant. If Dr. Seamons still pursues his study of entomology, then he may be interested in learning that we have six to eight-inch centipedes down here. If you get bit by one, you'll rest for a few days. That's why we spend about 10 minutes each night going through our netting to see that none of them spend the night with us.

I'm closing now and again I ask that if you can answer my request, I would appreciate it very much. Thank you.

I remain,

A former student,
PVT. JOE SPURIO.

MESDAMES:

Please do not quote me, but I believe Jambar, dated the 29th of September, must have reached me via Pony Express.

Noting the staff, I deem the salutation apropos.

You may have read somewhere how newspapers, magazines, brochures, pamphlets, love letters and periodicals are passed from hand to hand among soldiers in overseas stations. After perusing each item minutely, I carried Jambar over to the Service Club, and placed it on one of the reading tables, knowing well that many would stop and reap the benefits of a well-written college paper.

A few days later, I espied a native passing by who appeared deeply engrossed in something that he was reading, an occasional smile flitted over his bronzed countenance. Needless to say, this aroused my curiosity (which, incidentally, is almost as keen as a female's), and I hailed this citizen of Iran. Upon hearing my summons, he halted and slowly walked over to where I lay on a two-inch Persian rug. "Whatchoo readum, Johnnie?" I queried in my best pigeon English. Johnnie, fearing that I might deprive him of his joy, reluctantly refused to oblige, but by gentle coaxings he finally passed over to me a Jambar (issue of Sept. 29, 1943), and proudly pointed to Jean Loney's excellent column, "Looking Around."

Enough of this prattle, but honestly, Jambar brought back faint memories of fond days past. Thank you ever so much.

Gratefully,

WALTER BURA.

Manpower Problem

"The national manpower problem is not primarily one of numbers. It is a problem of skills and ability."

With these words, Capt. Harry A. Badt, USN, told graduates of the first Navy V-12 class at Hobart college, Geneva, N.Y., a principal reason behind the college training they have received. Capt. Badt was speaking at a special convocation of Hobart and William Smith colleges to graduate the first V-12 class and a few civilian students, and to honor the Charles University of Prague Czechoslovakia, in a ceremony of salutation.

"Nowhere today," Capt. Badt continued, "is there such a demand for high technical proficiency as in our military organizations. The Navy uses about every type of professional competence that finds expression in civilian life. And, in addition, it requires men of highly specialized training of other kinds. Naval officers must be men who have the best education available."

Capt. Badt cautioned the men not to belittle their status of reserves, telling them that the Navy, without reserves, has never won a war.

Freshmen Lose Contest To Wildcats, 42-32

The basketball game played at the Y. M. C. A. between the Wildcats and the Freshmen aroused a great amount of interest in the school. With Mr. Pannier, the "Y" gym director, refereeing, a clean and hard fought game was played.

The Freshmen took the tip-off with Ortenzio sinking the first basket. The first quarter went by at a fast clip. At the end the Freshmen were ahead, 16-8, through the efforts of Jerry Watt, who made four one-handed pushshots from the center of the floor.

During the second quarter the Wildcats evened up the score with Edward James Whalen contributing some nice shots. The score stood 22-22.

At the beginning of the third quarter the Wildcats jumped into the lead, with Whalen controlling the ball off both backboards. Lucich made some tricky hook shots from the side for the Freshmen. The third quarter ended with the score, 34-26, in favor of the Wildcats.

With players tired on both sides, the fourth quarter scoring was about even. The game ended with the Wildcats leading, 42-32.

Top man for the Wildcats was E. J. Whalen, who poured 25 points through the hoop. Jerry Watt, making 15 points, was high score man for the Freshmen. The Freshmen are anxious for a return engagement with the high-riding Wildcats.

* Service Shorts ***

By Grett Rothmund

YoCo had another big week last week when the army invaded our stately halls. Everywhere you looked there was the army, everywhere there was the army there were YoCo co-eds, and everywhere there were YoCo co-eds there was the army! Personally, there's something about a uniform—

Yes, there certainly is something about a uniform and when you put Leo Mogus inside of one then you really have something. Leo was that shining star in college whom all high school basketball and football boys gazed at so enviously. He helped to give YoCo its good name in both these sports. He's now wearing the khaki with two stripes on his sleeve and he's on his way to Fort Benning in Georgia. But, ah yes, he misses Mitch and Ferl.

Buldozdy's boy, Carl Beda, is here. He's going Georgia way too. Going down to woo the southern belles, we hear—via the army air corp.

But here is a choice bit of gossip. Tech. Corp. Jerry Kahn is home and he is not engaged. Again, the gossip might not be so choice. The way you had to fight your way through all those women to get to him the news must have leaked out somewhere. Jerry's in the ski patrol out in Colorado—the only one of its kind. And girls, if you want to make a good impression on him, please address him as "corporal"—none of this "private" stuff for him.

That wolf from Miami Beach is here. Yes, you guessed, it's the Kappa Sigs' own Mike Yatsko. Mike is small, but his motto is that old adage, "All good things come in small packages." Ummm, inclined to agree, Mike.

Mike's brother, Ed, was here the week before. He's all navy. (We can't forget the navy.) Jimmy Sullivan, aviation radioman in the navy, was a visitor with Mike and two weeks ago Seaman Second Class Orville Snyder (Dutch) visited YoCo with the Phi Lambs.

We're still keeping tabs on Lou Dolan. Staff spies saw him down at the Grill last Tuesday night. In the old days Lou was a Sig Delt president, Sigma Delta Beat president, president of Student Council and editor of the Neon—a man after Helen Humphrey's heart.

With Ed Cavanaugh home, the Sig Delt could have a re-union. Lynch, of the air corps, was here, too, which brought the total of four Sig Delt—Dolon, Planchak, Cavanaugh and Lynch.

Too bad there were no actives to give them a rousing welcome.

Ed "Ted" Williams got in from Colorado last week. This column seems to be a charm. Ted is the second person to be mentioned as being stationed somewhere in the column one week and the next week to be home.

YoCo has two former students in the pre-dentistry in the army. Gordon Hopes is at Cornell and in September he enters Ohio State for his pre-dentistry, while Reginald Sanders, who is home, is already at Ohio State in pre-dentistry.

A card came to the Jambar from Neeley. Says Neeley: "I got my Easter suit, but it has not been tailored yet!" — Oh, quit being modest, Neeley. You know you look good in blue.

During the past week two of YoCo's alumni have been reported as casualties of war. Bob Wetmore was reported injured and Johnny Paulo of the coast guard was reported lost in action.

News can be turned in at any time at the Jambar office.
