mittee, and the Newman Student Organization. His accumulative point average is 3.2.

His platform includes: a Student Activities and Public Relations Committee, a student operated radio station, block selling of tickets to campus events, annual open-air art show, recreation room and laundromat facilities for Kilcawley residents, Council newsletters, fair distribution of committee chairmanships, student evaluation of teachers, feature movies on campus, and more big name groups on campus.

Peter Isgro, a junior majoring in Philosophy, is running unopposed for the office of Vice-President.

He is now serving as a Liberal Arts Representative on Council, Omicron Lambda Constitution Committee, I.F.C., and Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity.

Parking Petition Goes To City Council Wed.

Plans to present the JAMBAR parking petition to City Council on Wednesday of this week were postponed due to the fact that council does not meet during election week.

The petition calls for parking to be permitted on Bryson, Lincoln and Arlington Streets.

The petition will be available for signatures in the JAMBAR office Monday and Tuesday.

On Wednesday, May 15, a member of the JAMBAR staff will have the petition registered as official business to be brought up at the Wednesday night meeting.

At that meeting the petition will be presented to the members of City Council and they will be asked to consider carrying out what the petition requests.

Beside the list of signatures on the petition, notation will be made regarding the recent outcome of a referenda question on the Choice 68 ballot. In that election 84 per cent of the 2,900 students who voted approved of parking on Bryson and Arlington Streets.

The latter has been largely incorporated into his present work on logical analysis.

He is mainly concerned with rigorous logical techniques for the analysis of propositions ordinarily expressed in a natural language.

The manuscript of this book, entitled "An Introduction to Logical Analysis," is nearly completed.

Arab Group Will Sponsor Bashir Talk

Mr. Tahseen Bashir of the United Arab Republic will speak in Strouss Auditorium at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, May 15. The talk is being sponsored by the Organization of Arab Students.

The lecture will center around the current conflict in the Middle East, with films on the subject and a question-and-answer period to follow.

He has held the positions of Librarian of Congress, Assistant Secretary of State, Director of the Office of War Information, and Boylston Professor at Harvard University.

He held Frost's old chair at Amherst from 1963 to 1967. In 1966 he published the book and documentary film The Eleanor Roosevelt Story, which won the Academy Award for documentaries in that year.

His most recent work is a collection of essays and addresses entitled A Continuing Journey. A new volume of poems appears this year.

Tickets will not be necessary for this lecture.

With Greek Mixer only a day away Franny and Zoocy took time out to go to the fraternity and sorority houses to see if the Greeks are getting in shape for their fulfilled day.

We first stopped at the Theta Xi house where Vince Distazio was in practice for his specialty, the broad jump.

We then traveled to the SAE house where Tom Joyce was practicing the pole vault without the pole.

We then took a quick trip to Wick Park where Josa Desimone was in practice, by herself, for the three legged race.

We then traveled to the ZBT house where Alan Silverman and Chuck Daubner were practicing for the relay races.

Our last trip was to the SAM house where they are practicing softball for next season.

Student Council Highlights

By Ray Johnson, Vice-Chairman and Penny Laakso, Secretary

The Cardinal Room was the meeting place of Council on Monday, May 6. Beginning at 3:30 p.m., Council discussed the following:

LaRUE RESIGNS

Denny LaRue, who has been on Council longer than any other present member, announced his resignation. He also announced that he was withdrawing as a candidate for Student Government President.

TWO VETOES

President Ken Tomko vetoed two measures, the scholarships for officers, and the fine for illegal advertising. Both motions were resubmitted to Council and passed with greater majorities.

COUNCIL SHOCKED

Dennis LaRue shocked Council by threatening to filibuster unless Council agreed not to pass the scholarship measure. Chairman Bob Ziraffi had to declare a 5-minute recess to restore order. Parliamentary Procedure offered a way to avoid the filibuster and a roll call vote was taken. The scholarships for officers were approved by nearly a 2 to 1 majority.

TUTOR SERVICE

The possibilities of creating an on-campus, student-sponsored tutoring service was suggested by Mike D'Onofrio. Such a service would be available to all students. It was suggested that the student tutors be paid $2.00 an hour. Mike will present the idea to Council after further study.

FINE REVISED

The $25 fine on illegal advertising which Council passed last week was revised to a $5.00 fine on the first offense and a $25 fine thereafter. Since some confusion has resulted in the interpretation of the by-laws, the section concerning advertising will be rewritten by Rich Brienza.

THANKS

We would like to thank Denny for the extraordinary service he has given Council and the student body during the last 2 1/2 years. Penny and Ray.

REMEMBER TO VOTE for Student Government President and Vice-President as well as Spring Weekend Queen. Voting will be from 9:00 to 5:00 on Monday and Tuesday, May 13 and 14. Booths will be set up in Jones Hall, Kilcawley, the Engineering Building, and the Science Building.

Nearly An Inch of Paint

Kilcawley's Painted Rock

Students relax by the rock.

Three years ago, when the site for Kilcawley Student Center was being excavated, a large piece of limestone was unearthed. For several months it lie on the sideline as Kilcawley rose to its completion.

And then it was moved to a permanent position in front of the cafeteria, flanked by the fountain on one side and the "Paul Gregory Memorial Ice Rink" on the other. No longer was it just a chunk of limestone. It became "THE ROCK."

But even as late as last spring the Rock remained basically untouched. It was at that time that a JAMBAR editorial bemoaned the fact that on any other campus the Rock would have worn a thousand different hues from the day it was given a permanent place.

That same evening the Rock got its first coat of paint. And it got a different coat every night after that for a week.

Recently the Jambar Staff decided to examine the rock for the purpose of determining just how much attention has been placed on the rock in the application of paint.

The actual amount of paint that has been used to cover the rock is hard to determine, but a random sampling shows that in some sections of the rock there is from 1/4 to 3/4 of an inch of paint.

If all the layers of paint could be counted, their would be at least 40 layers covering the surface of the rock.

Nearly every organization on campus has used the rock to promote some type of idea to the student body of YSU. Some organizations such as the Circle K (whose paint presently covers the rock) use the rock as a means of advertising the fact that their organization is active on campus.

Other organizations have used the rock's splendid location to promote a thought. The most recent example of this was the feelings of remorse and tragedy expressed when the rock was painted black after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

There are other values of the rock that are probably overlooked. The rock serves many students as a meeting place that is away from crowded buildings and busy street corners.

In the winter the rock usually adds a little color contrast to the drab and dreary surroundings.

In short, the rock means different things to different people, but as a whole YSU students can be proud of the fact that our rock is unique to our campus.

In the years to come most of us will have graduated and gone our separate ways, but The Rock will stay as a symbol of YSU, wearing the colors of organizations and expressing the random thoughts of the students

Remember that the elections for the Spring Weekend Queen and the President and Vice-President of the Student Body are to be held this coming Monday and Tuesday

Spotlight On

Omicron Lambda Fraternity

(Editor's Note): This is the first in a series of articles dealing with the campus organizations that play an important role in the daily affairs of Youngstown State University.

Founded in 1932 at the old Youngstown University, the Omicron Lambda Honorary Biological Fraternity was originally called the Henry Fairfield Osborne Club. The late Dr. Donald Marcey, a professor at the University, was very active in the organization and supported the activities of the group.

Tried National

In the latter part of the 1930's, an attempt was made to organize Omicron Lambda into a national honorary biology fraternity with Youngstown as its base.

Several contacts were effected with heads of interested colleges.

It was a time of social and political unrest, however, and nothing resulted from these efforts.

Financed by Dues

The activities of the local group are financed entirely by the dues contributed by members. Each member pays $2.50 per quarter.

Money from Dues

The money is used to carry out administration duties and to provide for field trips for instructional purposes; and also to set aside funds for the scholarship award (a gift of $25.00) and for the inscription of the winner's name on the plaque, which now hangs in the new wing of Ward Beecher Science Hall.

The annual award goes to the senior in Biology, a member of the organization, with the highest point average in Biology over the four years.

Officers Evaluate

The Fraternity advisers and officers evaluate the grades of the graduating seniors.

The selection is determined on the basis of the Biology grades.

Needs 15 Biology Hours

In order to become eligible for membership, a student must have completed fifteen quarter hours of Biology.

This is a prerequisite for making application.

Applications are made available at the beginning of each quarter.

Committee Decides

The membership committee reviews the applications and decides which persons are eligible on the basis of their grades.

"There are two classes of membership: provisional and active," explained President Marty Schwebel.

"Provisional members must have a 2.5 average in Biology.

"Active membership requires a 3 point average in Biology.

"These students whose point averages are between 2.5 and 3 can be accepted as provisional members; those with averages of 3 or better, as active members."

Few Class Differences

"There are very few differences in the privileges of the two classes. The major difference exists in the fact that provisional members are not permitted to hold office, but are entitled to vote."

Pledge Period

Just this year, a new program has been initiated in which the new members are introduced into the organization two weeks prior to their induction—a sort of orientation program.

"It is a good idea for incoming members to get acquainted with the other members, to know about the organization and some of its activities," declared Schwebel.

33 Members

Omicron Lambda is an honorary

Marty Schwebel

fraternity for Biology majors. Its members number 33—6 girls and 27 boys.

Marty Schwebel is a laboratory assistant in Biology. Almost all members have been or are now laboratory assistants.

The other officers include Jim F. Ralston, Vice President; Mary Jane Focht, Secretary; and Theodore Pysher, Treasurer.

Bio Prof Advisors

Two Biology instructors, Miss Aurora M. Morelli, M.S., a former Vice President who attended the University in the early 1960's, and Mrs. Doris E. Cannon, M.A., are the faculty advisors.

Experiment Tried

Between the last two quarters, a new experiment was tried out by the fraternity.

Members visited area high schools and spoke at assemblies, classrooms, meetings held after school with science clubs. They estimate that they have contacted nearly 400 students.

Interest Was Purpose

The purpose was to interest them in, and answer their questions about, the many opportunities which are becoming increasingly available to them in pursuing a career in Biology.

Will Repeat Visits

The fraternity hopes to repeat this practice annually, since great interest was evidenced.

Many of the high school teachers expressed a desire to see it continued, and hope for their return. The students need to know what to take up in college, and what their high school background on Biology should be.

During the course of the year, several speakers have addressed the fraternity, including Mr. Joseph P. Bachant, a wildlife ecologist for the state of Ohio, Dr. Angelo Riberi, an open-heart surgeon.

Since some of the members are interested in medicine, an attempt is made to get at least one speaker from the medical field and Dr. George W. Kelley, Jr., Chairman of the Biology department, talked on summer at a biological station.

1968 Neon:

A Job Well Done

Copies of the 1968 Youngstown State University yearbook, the NEON, started arriving at the homes of students this week.

Hard Work

After long months of organization, reorganization, research, co-ordinating, planning layouts, taking photographs, writing explanations for the various sections, and making sure that the correct captions correlate with the correct photographs, the staff of the Neon, headed by John Hitchcock and Bonnie Hawkins, presented the fruits of their labors to the student body for their evaluation.

Mixed Emotions

Some people were very pleased with the output, while others were extremely critical.

Despite the sincere attempt on the part of the editor and his staff to please the entire student body, it is impossible to please everyone.

However, the product does demonstrate the great amount of careful planning that the staff undertook to produce the book.

Sentiment on Record

A yearbook is basically a sentimental venture. It is the record, for posterity, of all of the events and accomplishments of a given year.

In the future, students will take the book out to renew memories in private, at reunions, or to show to their children.

Memories Depicted

The memories are delightfully depicted in this issue—the dances, the queens, the sports games won and lost.

All of the students will eagerly devour the Spring and Winter Weekends, The Homecoming, and the many other activities to see if their pictures were snapped by the photographer or to see if they can find themselves in a crowd of students.

Everyone will find some memory to take with them of the "good old days at YSU".

3,000 Paid

Over 3,000 students paid one dollar to have their copy of the Neon mailed to their homes. This innovation was added to improve the method of distribution.

Attractive Book

The book is attractively bound in red leather with the seal of the university engraved in silver.

The somewhat sophisticated design of this issue is in sharp contrast to the semi-psychedelic orange and yellow cover of the 1967 yearbook.

38th Annual

The 1968 issue is the 38th one to be published.

It opens with a brief explanation, accompanied by photographs, of the "history of a growing university."

60 Years of Learning

This section traces the "60 years of learning" at YSU, from its foundations in the Youngstown Association School to its present position as a state university.

Has 10 Sections

The book is divided into ten sections: history, the dedication, administration, activities, Greeks, organizations, royalty, who's who, sports, and the senior class.

Each Explained

Each section receives an explanation and contains humorous photographs and many, many memories.

Job Well Done

The book is very well constructed, and the staff can look at it as a job well done.

It is something that the students of YSU will be proud to show to students of other universities.

Each person who examines the Neon will have their own reactions; but good or bad it now rests with the past issues as part of the history of Youngstown State University.

Complaints Unfounded, Say's Braden

PENGUIN'S GOT IT MADE

Is Pete Penguin happy? This seems to be among the most salient questions in the minds of University students since the bird arrived on campus two months ago.

Many students feel that Pete isn't content in his new surroundings and feel sorry for him. (See Homer and Jack's interview in the Tuesday Jambor.)

Likes Animals

"I like all animals and feel sorry that he (Pete) is kept in his pen ally and psychologically contented, acts normally as far as public appearances, is relatively safe from external danger and has better facilities here than at the Pittsburgh Zoo. Zoo officials told Braden that whenever a penguin honks or wags his tail, he is happy. And this is Pete eats smelt, a fresh water fish from Lake Erie that the YSU cafeteria purchases for him.

Pete's consumption of smelt was cut from three pounds a day to two pounds because he was getting chubby, said Braden, implying that Pete's appetite is indicative of his health.

It costs $.50 a day to feed Pete, he added, a total cost of only $27 since he arrived.

Braden said that Pete also takes vitamins.

Doesn't Need Companion

From zoo officials, Braden also found out that it is not necessary for Pete to have a companion.

If someone is meandering by the cage, or is feeding or watching him, this is sufficient food for his "psyche".

Zoo officials also told Braden that when Pete returns home for the summer, there is a 90 percent chance he will be by himself.

This is to keep Pete from spreading or catching any disease, said Braden.

Doesn't Like Sun

Says Braden in regard to Pete's still only occasional entrances into public view, "I think he doesn't like the sun."

"He stays in his cubby hole because it's his home," he added, "just like you stay in your home."

Pete Has It Knocked

Pete apparently "has it knocked". Although the zoo in Pittsburgh offers air-conditioning for him (which isn't much since Pete's variety of penguins can adapt to any weather), it provides only half the play area YSU's shelter does.

Braden and Mike Wholehan, Phi Sigma Kappa brothers, just take care of Pete on weekends, while Henry Dalverny works diligently in providing the fatherly touch as Braden's stand-in during the week.

Dalverny, an ardent devotee of animals, has work at the Pittsburgh Zoo and knows how to take care of penguins. Pete's cubby hole is cleaned two or three times a day. The pen, pool and filter system is cleaned every 10 days. The water continually moves and is always clean.

Has It Made

Thus, with three men taking care of Pete, the bird has three daddys. We as humans are thankful if we have one. So don't feel sorry for Pete, he has it made. Feel sorry for yourself!

all day," said a student glaring into Pete's cage confine near the library.

He added, that although he thought it was cruel to keep him in a cage, at least he'll be able to go on a summer vacation (Pete will be taken back to the Pittsburgh Zoo for the summer).

Doesn't Seem Happy

A companion of the sad onlooker remarked: "I thought it was a good idea in the beginning (bringing Pete here), but he doesn't seem happy here."

Even this JAMBAR reporter felt a twinge of sorrow when Pete waddled from his rhombus-shaped white house and stood in the doorway overlooking his pool of water.

The black and white bird shook both three-toed feet, moved his head side to side curiously, clacked his pointed beak several times, then went back into his cubby hole to again rest on his stomach.

Braden Disagrees

But Frank Braden, the main promoter of the idea to bring a live penguin to Youngstown, disagrees with the people who think Pete is unhappy.

Pete IS Happy

According to Braden, weighing every aspect of penguin attitudes, he feels that Pete is happy, physiologically and psychologically contented, acts normally as far as public appearances, is relatively safe from external danger and has better facilities here than at the Pittsburgh Zoo.

Pete On Diet

When Pete first arrived, he was fed twice a day. Meals were increased to three times daily: morning, afternoon, and early evening.

what Pete has been doing, stressed Braden.

The University's baseballers have posted nine victories in 11 outings so far this season.

The Penguins, under the tutelage of Coach Dom Rosselli, have proved to be a versatile foe for all takers this year by combining hard hitting, sound pitching, and heads-up base running.

Woodrow Wilson High School's Tony DelBene is setting the pace in batting.

The hard-hitting centerfielder's .480 average accounts for 12 hits in 25 appearances.

DelBene leads the team in total bases, with 18 sacks, and is a co-leader with Nick Gesacion and Brad Lawson in RBI's with seven.

Brad Lawson, a product of Boardman H.S., ranks second in batting with a .467 mark.

Lawson is the team leader in stolen bases with nine in the nine games he has appeared in, and also leads the squad in total hits with a mark of 14.

Nick Gesacion ranks third in the list of hitters with a .391 mark and is second in the stolen bases category with eight pilfered sacks.

The fleet-footed Penguins have netted a total of 26 stolen bases in 11 games.

The pitching corps is led by sophomore Mike Malley's 4-0 mark. Malley has started three games and finished three, including two shut-outs.

The side-wheeling Malley is joined by southpaw Don Leshnock to form a powerful mound staff.

Leshnock, who stands 3-0 for the season, has whiffed 35 batters in 27 innings and appears to be on his way

Ad Students Display Wares On Local T.V.

Last Wednesday, Mr. William S. Flad's Advertising 628 Class appeared on WFMJ's "Tele-View" program at 9 a.m. The program centered around the advertising courses in the Advertising and Public Relations curriculum at YSU.

Ken Allen, moderator of the program, interviewed Mr. Flad and the students, and they discussed advertising and its applications.

The students displayed some of their advertising layouts. Since the show was in color, the audience got a chance to see the layouts as they would be seen advertising a product.

Today Mr. Flad is in Pittsburgh with some 45 advertising students visiting KDKA-TV and "Ketchum, MacLeod, and Grove, Inc.," Pittsburgh's largest advertising agency.

After the educational part of the day the students will see the Pirates play Philadelphia as guests of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Circle K Installs Honoraries

The YSU Chapter of Circle K recently installed several honorary members at a recent dinner-dance for their exceptional service to the campus, the community, and the chapter.

Mr. Sylvan Einstein of the Advertising-Public Relations Department, Mr. Louis Miller, and Mr. Marvin Peskin were all installed as honorary members of the service fraternity.

Certificates of Appreciation went to Dean of Women Edith Painter and her secretary Mrs. Kitty McCabe for "unselfishly rendering their assistance to Circle K and for their thoughtfulness in helping Circle K brotherhood."

The Newman Student Organization was presented the Einstein-Painter Service Award for the non-service campus group performing the best service project over the past year.

Sam Bounces For Local Heart Fund

The Beta Phi Chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu national social fraternity will kick off its national public service project, "Bounce for Beats", on Thursday, May 23. The project will be a three-day marathon basketball bouncing event to raise money for the local Heart Association.

Thursday the Sammies will bounce on the Central Square downtown. Friday they will move their operations to the Boardman Plaza, and they will end their project Saturday at the Liberty Plaza.

In addition to collecting money on the spot, the Sammies will solicit for pledges to the Heart Fund, which could be phoned in to the Heart Association offices.

to another record-breaking year in that category.

Between them, Malley and Leshnock have started seven contests, completed six and whiffed 68 batters in 53 innings pitched.

Of these five team leaders, four are listed as underclassmen.

In fact, Brad Lawson and Nick Gesacion are freshmen, and Mike Malley is in his second-year of collegiate competition.

Don Leshnock is listed as a junior, and Tony DelBene is the one June graduate.

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR FELLOW YSU STUDENTS

We are writing this letter to urge all of our fellow students to support Ray Johnson in the coming election for the office of Student Body President.

We have all been involved in student activities at YSU in various capacities over the past few years, and from our "active" point of view Ray would make the better President.

Ray's platform includes programs to get the entire student body really involved in all the campus activities... Let's all get behind the active candidate—

RAY JOHNSON.

FROM THE HALLS OF PROTOZOA

This column, normally a treasure house of twinkly quips and slapdash japey, has now been appearing in your campus newspaper for fourteen years, and if I have learned one thing in these fourteen long years, it is not to try to be funny in the last column of the semester. With final exams looming obscenely close, you don't want jokes; you want help.

So today, foregoing levity, I give you a quick cram course in the subject you are all flunking. I refer, of course, to biology.

Biology is divided into several phylla, or classes. First is the protozoa, or one-celled animal. Protozoa can be taught simple things like bringing in the newspaper, but when shopping for pets it is best to look for animals with at least two cells, or even four if your yard has a fence around it.

Another popular class of animals is the periphera—a shadowy category that borders often on the vegetable. Take, for example, the sponge. The sponge is definitely an animal. The wash-cloth, on the other hand, is definitely not.

Next we come to the arthropoda, or insects. Most people find insects unattractive, but actually there is exquisite beauty in the insect world if you trouble to look. Take, for instance, the lovely insect poems of William Cullen Sigafos—Tumbling Along with the Tumbling Tumblebug and Fly Gently, Sweet Aphid and Grats My Mother Caught Me. Mr. Sigafos, alas, has been inactive since the invention of DDT.

Our next category is the mollusca—lobsters, shrimp, and the like. Lobsters are generally found under rocky projections on the ocean bottom. Shrimps are generally found in a circle around a small bowl containing cocktail sauce. Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades are generally found at any counter where Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades are sold.

I mention Personna Blades because the makers of Personna Blades pay me to write this column, and they are inclined to get edgy if I neglect to mention their product. Some get double edge and some single, for Personna Blades come both in double edge style and injector style.

Mind you, it is no burden for me to mention Personna, for it is a blade that shaves quickly and cleanly, slickly and keenly, scratchlessly and matchlessly. It is a distinct pleasure to shave with Personna Blades and to write about them but sometimes, I confess, I find it difficult to work the commercial into a column. Some years ago, for example, I had the devil's own time working a Personna plug into a column about Alexander the Great. The way I finally managed it was to have Alexander say to the Oracle at Delphi, "Oracle, I have tasted all the world's pleasures, yet I am not content. Somehow I know there is a joy I have missed." To which the Oracle replied, "Yes, Alexander, there is such a joy—namely Personna Blades—but, alas for you, they will not be invented for another 2500 years." Whereupon Alexander fell into such a fit of weeping that Zeus finally took pity and turned him into a hydrant. . . . Well sir, there is no question I sold a lot of Personnas with this ingenious commercial, but the gang down at the American Academy of Arts and Letters gave me a mighty good razzing; you may be sure.

But I digress. Back to biology and the most advanced phylum of all—the chordata, or vertebrates. There are two kinds of vertebrates: those with vertical backbones and those with horizontal. Generally it is easy to tell them apart. A fish, for instance, has a horizontal backbone, and a man has a vertical backbone. But what if you run into a fish that swims upright or a man who never gets out of the sack? How do you tell them apart? Science struggled with this sticky question for years before Sigafos of M.I.T. came up with his brilliant solution: offer the creature a pack of Personna Blades. If it is a fish, it will refuse. If it is homo sapiens, it will accept—and the more sapient, the quicker.

And now you know biology. And now, for the fourteenth time, aloha.

Helpful In Change-Over

YMCA Aids University

Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, at a recent Faculty Senate meeting, expressed his appreciation to the Board of Directors of the YMCA for their assistance in the change-over to a State University, and for the part they have played over the years in the University's development.

When approached as to why he paid the "Y" such a tribute, Dr. Pugsley said it was to recognize their "... helpfulness in disposition of university interest which had been made possible to the University to become a part of the State Organization."

Dr. Pugsley also commented that the Y.M.C.A. has always been helpful to the University.

Y.S.U. began in 1918 as a night school in the Y.M.C.A., and it was sponsored by the "Y". The only subject taught was law.

In 1920, the State of Ohio empowered the school to grant the degree of Bachelor of Laws. In the same year, the school offered a four-year course in Business Administration.

In 1921, the school changed its name to the Youngstown Institute of Technology. The College of Arts and Sciences came about in 1927, and in 1928, the name Youngstown College was given to the institution.

In 1930, the degree of Bachelor of Arts was conferred for the first time.

The Dana School of Music, which had its beginning in Warren in 1869, became a part of the University in 1941.

The William Rayen School of Engineering came into existence in 1946. Two years later, in 1948, the School of Business Administration was started.

It is interesting to note that Youngstown College was sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. until 1944, when control was transferred to the members of the Corporation of Youngstown College; and in 1955, it was rechartered as The Youngstown University.

During its early years, the university also had a number of homes. It started in the old Central YMCA building, later occupying various sites on Wick Avenue before the Main Building was completed in 1931.

In 1952 and 1953, the Library and the adjoining Tod Hall were built. In 1959, the Science Building was completed. More buildings were added until the University stands as it is today.

In roughout the growth of Y.S.U. from a night school of a few students to the present enrollment of 13,000, the YMCA has been a great help, and it was for this record of service that President Pugsley expressed his appreciation.

P.O.D. MEETING

ISO NEWS

Last Friday the organization held elections for next year's officers. The new President is Uwe Haushalter who during his two years at Youngstown has proven to be one of the most outstanding and constructive members.

One of the two masters of ceremonies for this year's Variety Show Uwe is currently serving as the clubs Corresponding Secretary.

The vice-presidency was won by Mukuntray Kamdar of India. Kamdar transferred from Bombay at the beginning of this quarter and is majoring in Civil Engineering.

Laura Herbst, USA, this year's Historian, was elected Recording Secretary for the coming season. Linda Brewer, once again was unanimously endorsed as the Corresponding Secretary. Linda is the one person that the ISO cannot do without (she knows the English language, she can type, she is cute and intelligent).

Miss Vera Seman of Czechoslovakia received a standing ovation after her unanimous election for the position of Social Chairman. Vera is a freshman in Education. She is the very beautiful girl that everybody is asking about. We are positive that she will perform her duties excellently.

is majoring in Chemical Engineering.

Last but not least, our Public Relations Officer, Suheil A. Yacoub (The little Prince or Prince Sue Sue) Suheil has transferred from the Northwestern state college of Oklahoma. He is a junior in Business Administration. Currently he is serving as the Social Chairman of the Organization of Arab Students and a member of the Publicity committee of the ISO. To all the officers we wish a very fruitful year.

He stated that he will work to bring the campus, the university, and the Student Government to the Student. He also plans to establish a campus activities committee to create and stimulate campus activities.

Music on Campus

Andrea Kley, Wade Raridon, director, John Cole, accompanist, Nicholas DeToro, and Andy Cverko look over score during rehearsal.

Colas (Nicholas DeToro) gives advice to Bastienne (Andrea Kley).

By Nicholas J. DeCarbo

On May 17 and 18, the Dana School of Music Opera Workshop will present a one-act opera, "Bastien and Bastienne," by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Starting time for each performance will be 8:00 p.m. in the Dana Recital Hall. Accompaniment will be furnished by a small orchestra made up of members from the Dana student body.

Members of the cast include: Bastienne, a shepherdess, played by Andrea Kley; Bastien, her lover, represented by Andrew Cverko, and Colas, a supposed Magician, played by Nicholas DeToro.

All are voice majors at the Dana School of Music. Wade Raridon is director of the opera, with Sandra Murko as rehearsal accompanist.

A synopsis of the story is as follows:

Bastienne, a shepherdess, is lamenting the fact that after a quarrel her shepherd lover, Bastien has, as she imagines, deserted her for the rich lady of the manor.

She seeks the aid of Colas, reputed a magician, who advises her to win Bastien back by making him jealous.

The young shepherd arrives, prepared by a previous interview with Colas to be reconciled to Bastienne, only to find, however, that Colas now reports her fickle. After an absurd incarnation in which he calls upon his magic arts to help them, Colas leaves the lovers together.

Their quarrel proceeds until Bastien threatens suicide; but Colas, on his return at last, finds them again in one another's arms, full of gratitude to the author of their happiness.

The opera is free and all faculty and students at YSU are encouraged to attend.

"Silence," bellows Colas, the magician, (Nicholas DeToro) as he concocts a magic love potion for Bastienne (Andrea Kley), and Bastien (Andrew Cverko).

Bastienne and Bastien proclaim their love, as the magician smiles approvingly.

Question of Policy

On Monday and Tuesday of next week, two candidates will vie for the honor and duty of President of Student Government. Both have announced their platforms, and have circulated their literature. Now it is up to the students to decide who their new leader will be.

It has been customary in the past for the Jambar to endorse the candidate of its choice, but our intended choice (Dennis LaRue) is no longer in the race. He has resigned from Council and has quit the field. (see last Tuesday edition page 1)

This places us in the harrowing position of either switching our support to one of the remaining candidates, or maintaining a neutral attitude during the contest.

Such a decision is far from easy to make. To remain neutral in such an important election is weak in many respects, and yet to back a "second-choice" candidate would be still more feeble, in that it would force us into an unhealthy compromise.

If, for example, we should choose another candidate, the most he could expect would be a "best-of-what's-left" type of support. And as we firmly believe LaRue to be the most capable man for the job, we cannot in all honesty and fairness throw our support to one of the remaining candidates.

We are by no means recommending a "Donald Duck write-in." Both of the other candidates exhibit ample qualifications for the position. It is, as we have said, a matter of policy compromise . . . a compromise we do not care to make.

And so it is with some regret that we choose the lesser of two evils, and elect to remain neutral for the balance of the campaign. For it is our belief that a newspaper's policy is its backbone, and it is upon defense of this that we base our decision. We feel that we could only do harm to both the remaining candidates and ourselves by reversing our selection at this late date.

Both the candidates are more than capable of winning with or without our support, for in the final analysis it is you, the student body, that has the last word. —MTS

Our Man Hoppe

Officer Nabs A Looter

Arthur Hoppe

—Chronicle Features

"Sorry about this," apologized Officer Albert Law, Badge No. 378-18-4454, leveling his service revolver at the young man lugging a television set out of a shattered store window. "But my orders are to shoot looters on sight."

"Hold on," cried the young man hastily. "How do you know I'm a looter?"

"Because you're looting," said Officer Law. "Now if you'll just hold still . . ."

"But the law says I rate a trial," said the young man desperately. "You got to uphold the law."

"It's the only reason I joined the force," said Officer Law truthfully. "I love the law." A frown crossed his honest face. "But my orders are to shoot looters on sight." He raised his gun again.

"Wait a sec, I'm innocent till proved guilty," said the young man. "You got to find me guilty of looting before you can shoot me as a looter."

"That makes sense," said Officer Law thoughtfully. "Okay, you are charged with violation of Section 409B of the Penal Code, to wit, looting. How do you plead?"

"Not guilty," said the young man firmly.

"I'll testify first," said Officer Law. "Now I saw you, the defendant, emerge from this said broken store window with this said stolen television set . . ."

"I object," said the young man, "on the grounds there's no evidence to show the set was stolen."

"Objection overruled. You got the evidence in your arms."

"Let me testify. See, I was walking along, minding my own business, when I spot this television set in the window and I say, 'Hey, I better take that somewhere for safe-keeping before the looters get it.' So I . . ."

"I object," said Officer Law. "I object to the idea anyone would buy a cock and bull story like that."

"Well," said the young man defensively, "it's the best I could do on short notice."

"The defense rests. The prosecution rests." Officer Law was silent a moment. Then again he raised his revolver. "I find you, the defendant, guilty as charged."

"Hold it," said the young man. "I want to appeal on the grounds I was inadequately represented by council, improperly informed of my rights and . . ."

"Oh, shut up," said Officer Law, scowling.

Then he brightened. "Say, how'd you like to cop a plea? Look, my orders are either to shoot to kill or shoot to maim. If you'll plead guilty, I'll put a bullet through your ear lobe and we'll call it square."

The young man thought for a moment. "Okay," he said at last. "But, good God, don't miss."

"I think you did the right thing, dear," said Officer Law's wife after he'd told her of his adventure over supper. "But it just goes to prove what I've been telling you for years."

"Now don't start nagging me about that again, honey."

"Well, if they're going to want you to be arresting officer, prosecutor, judge, jury and executioner all at the same time," she said righteously, "you really ought to screw up your courage and ask them for a raise."

Young City Council

Once again we return to those thrilling days of yesteryear when we only had the Young City Council of Students to contend with. Now it seems that we have executors and legislators both. We may blow a gasket contending with all this, but we shall begin with a saga of one member of the Council of Students who couldn't take it.

Donny LeRock was a nice kid. Once in a while he came up with some strange ideas, but he was a pretty good egg.

A couple of years ago, Donny decided to try to become a member of the infamous Young City College Council of Students. Donny got a few of the thinking students to support him, and he was elected.

Donny got to the first Council of Students meeting at Y.C.C. and was appointed to the Rules Committee. Apparently everyone thought that the young kid with the weird ideas couldn't do anything as Rules chairman. They thought he would just occupy himself with paper work.

Donny got a copy of the rules from Mrs. Dike and Dean Gibbey, advisors to the Council of Students. Then he started to read them. He found that there was some sort of rule that all the Y.C.C. groups had to file reports every spring on what they were doing.

In the past none had enforced this rule, and none knew what any of the Y.C.C. groups were doing. Donny wanted to know.

He announced at one of the Council of Students meetings that the groups had to submit the reports or else they would die. Everyone smiled and forgot what he said in the next few minutes.

Donny didn't forget. Donny never forgets.

One day after all the groups were to have had their reports in to Donny, Donny announced in a Council of Students meeting that some of the groups had neglected to turn in their reports.

Donny explained that they all must die. He demanded that justice be met and they all should be killed. Donny almost got killed.

Donny kept reading the rules of the Rules Committee, but everyone said the rules should only apply when the Council of Students wanted them to apply.

Donny argued that the rules of the Rules Committee should apply to everyone. Apparently Donny didn't understand politics. Politics means that everything is fair if a majority agrees that it is fair.

Donny couldn't understand why some things were fair for some, but not fair for others.

The next year some more groups failed to turn in their reports, but they were killed. Donny couldn't understand why the groups that year were killed and the ones the other year weren't killed.

Next someone tried to pass a bill to pay the guys that ran the Young City Council of Students. Donny decided that the bill wasn't exactly fair, so he decided to try to get the other members of the Council of Students to vote against it. He failed.

Later Donny decided to run for the job of Chief of the Young City College Kids. He tried to get all his friends to support him.

While he was trying to apply his interpretation of the word politics, some of his opponents also tried to apply their interpretation of that same word.

They started accusing Donny of not really knowing what the word fair meant. They tried to make everybody think that he thought that things should be fair for the little groups, but not for the big groups.

After so many years of causing trouble over the interpretation of this one word, Donny decided that he was fighting a losing battle.

If you walk along the campus today, you might see Donny LaRock over by the walrus cage beating his head against the concrete. He feels that he is accomplishing more this way than at the Council of Students meetings.

Letter To the Editor

To the Editor of the JAMBAR:

The Madison House of Divine Metaphysics, Ford Avenue Academic Extension thanks the Jambar for helping expose our organization to campus scrutiny. The Tuesday Jambar has provoked even more student and faculty interest in our activities. There are, however, a few points we would like to clarify in the interest of objective journalism. Through no fault of the Jambar staff, minor ambiguities existed in the aforementioned article.

The Madison House has not as yet been granted its charter. Our constitution was submitted and accepted, and permission to organize was given the organization.

We are not endeavoring to transport Pete III to the North Pole. We feel the South Pole would be more appropriate.

Our baseball team could be considered fast rising only if the standings were held upside down.

We extend our appreciation to the students and faculty of Youngstown State University for the acceptance and help we have received.
