Senior Examinations: There will be no separate period for senior examinations. Seniors will take their final examinations according to the schedule given above.

Board Approves NEON Measures

Measures designed to alleviate the long-standing problems of yearbook distribution were approved earlier this week by the YSU Publications Board.

To avoid a shortage of the 1968 YSU NEON this year, the Board has decided to have all full-time students sign up for their yearbook.

Each full-time student will be required to give his full name and home address plus $1.00 to a NEON representative at a table outside the Cashier's Office in Jones Hall.

The $1.00 will cover packaging and postage and will entitle the student to a NEON which will be mailed to him or her at the address given.

Part-time students desiring a NEON will pay the $1.00 packaging and postage charge plus $5.00 to cover part of the cost of the book.

Neon editor, John Hitchcock, stated that he was pleased with the decision since he was relieved of the responsibility and worry of distribution of the yearbook by students.

He added that there could now be no complaints concerning prejudiced distribution or non-reception of a NEON, for it will all be handled by the printer in Kansas City.

The addition of the dollar fee will eliminate the confusion of on-campus circulation, and will insure delivery of the yearbook to those de-

Those students planning to graduate within this school year (67-68), and who have applied for graduation will be eligible to vote. Plastic I.D.'s must be presented at Strouss Auditorium. Both full and part time students, who are Seniors, are permitted to vote.

Draft Law May Change Student Deferments

Many male students may receive the surprise of their lives shortly when they find out they have been reclassified 1-A by their draft boards.

Most students now attending Youngstown State have not complied with all requirements to obtain their draft deferment for the 1967-68 academic year.

A new Selective Service law approved on July of this year makes it mandatory for all male undergraduate students to fill out both the old

Presidential Draft Order Sought by Lewis B. Hershey

S-109 form and a new SSS-104 form. There has been little publicity regarding this added requirement, so many students have not yet complied with the new regulation.

All male students should obtain the SSS-104 form at the Records Office. Each student is responsible for getting the completed form to their draft boards before the deadline of January 1st.

According to the new law, students are automatically deferred upon completion of the requirements until they graduate or until they turn 24 years old.

This law will drastically change the plans of students who plan to go to graduate school, for the law allows only one year for further studies after the undergraduate level. For additional information, contact your local Board.

YSU Student Disciplined For Article

The Faculty - Student Discipline Committee on Wednesday reprimanded a student for plagiarizing a men's fashion article which was published in the November 3 issue of the Jambar. In addition, the student was barred from writing for the Jambar for the remainder of the year. A record of the action was forwarded to Dr. Coffield, Dean of the University.

The action followed a hearing before the full membership of the Committee. W. J. Gutknecht, of the department of Business Administration, is chairman. On the committee are three faculty and three student members. The Dean of Men and Dean of Women are members, ex-officio.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Any student organizations interested in having time on the YSU Radio Show devoted to their group should write to Rick Miller care of YSU Radio Show in Killcawley. All groups will be given consideration with no bias.

James A. Misavage Named As Acting "Review" Editor

James A. Misavage, of Sharon, Pa., a senior English major, has been appointed Acting Editor of the Penguin Review, campus literary magazine. The appointment was made at the Monday meeting of the Publications Board, on the recommendation of Mrs. Jean Kelly, Faculty Advisor of the Review.

The action provided that Misavage would be confirmed as Editor as soon as the Board receives evidence that he has read and understood the Board's regulations concerning the responsibilities of editors of student publications.

According to Mrs. Kelly, the Penguin Review will appear twice this year, once in the winter quarter and once in the spring. She commented that when the budget is submitted, it will be substantially under last year's. The review, under the name of Horizon, appeared only once last year.

Mrs. Kelly told the board that she had four applicants for the editorship, but that two were sophomores who would have a chance at the position later in their student days, and that one, a senior in education, would be hampered by a commitment to a student teaching program in the winter quarter.

International Students Visit YSU At Christmas Season

Youngstown State University is sponsoring a Christmas program for the State Department through A.I.D. (Aid for International Development). Thirty-five graduate students from other Universities will participate, in which four to six of them will be female, the rest male. The program begins at noon Dec. 22 and ends at noon Dec. 30.

Two American students who will be given $16.00 per day for a total of $128.00 are needed for participation in the program. $6.00 per day will be forfeited for registration, food, etc., leaving a balance of $10.00 to be used as the student desires. There will be no other expense involved in the participation of the program which will consist of:

1. Visits to Sheet & Tube Research Center, one of our T.V. stations, Lordstown, these are some of the field trips scheduled.
2. Mornings will be spent in two-hour sessions on such topics as city government, mass media, management/labor, the future of Youngstown, and deviant behavior.

3. Evenings will be spent in leisure time activities such as a reception by the Federated Women's Club of Youngstown, International Party planned by the International Student Organization of this campus.

Christmas Eve and Christmas Day will be free time for the American Student. Homes are being sought for the 35 participants for Christmas day. Anyone inviting one of these students for Christmas day would find this day greatly enriched.

If you are interested either in the scholarship or in entertaining an International Student in your home on Christmas Day please contact the International Student Office, Room 114, Kilcawley Center. Students applying for scholarship will please write out a statement as to why they would like to participate. Selection will be made on December 6.

If there are any further questions please contact Mrs. McDonald, International Student Advisor.

Greek News

Now that everyone is well fed and well rested after a large Thanksgiving dinner, we must again resume the troublesome task of furthering our education by returning to the hot spot of education, Youngstown High School. Very little has changed since before Thanksgiving break, except this week there is a Jambar staff which means more Greek News. Now everybody has something to read during recess!

This is the time of year when everyone falls in love, maybe because people feel sorry for everyone else. But, nevertheless, people are still falling in love, with or without a thanksgiving.

Circle K Gives Plaque to YSU

On Wednesday, November 29, at 10 a.m., President Kenneth Miller of the Circle K Service Club presented a large stainless steel plaque to Youngstown State University.

The plaque, which is approximately 28 by 32 inches in size, has the new seal of YSU at the top and below the dates of establishment: 1908 Youngstown College; 1955 Youngstown University; and 1967 Youngstown State University.

The plaque replaces an older one in the glacier-aged rock which has become a traditional landmark in front of Jones Hall. The rock itself is in memorial to the men of Sheet and Tube who lost their lives in World War II.

President Albert L. Pugsley, President Emeritus Howard W. Jones and many city and university officials were present for the unveiling.

Food For India Drive Begins

On Wednesday, December 6, students from I.S.O., Gamma Sigma Sigma, U.C.C.F., Newman, Circle K, Alpha Phi Omega, Pan Hel, and Student Council will be led by Gail Polenik, chairman, and faculty advisor, Prof. Sylvan Einstein, in participation in a second nation-wide Food for India Drive in commemoration of UNICEF's eleventh birthday.

Last spring, in 50 colleges across the United States, one meal was voluntarily omitted by over 30,000 students to help UNICEF help India. Nearly $20,000 was raised and forwarded to the Nobel Peace Prize-winning United Nations Children's Fund for its Applied Nutrition project in India.

UNICEF's Drought Relief in the first six months of 1967, UNICEF provided $4,446,000 in drought relief to Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, and Madhya Pradesh, stressing three essentials: food, medical supplies, and drinking water. UNICEF's assistance included 4,342 tons of skim milk powder and 4,500 tons of a corn-soy-milk mixture; raw materials for the production of 28 million doses of typhoid-paratyphoid vaccine; eleven heavy-duty well-drilling rigs; pumps, chlorinating units, and water analysis kits; 69 four-wheel vehicles; 430 motorcycles; 11,763 drug and diet supplement sets for health programs, and a variety of donations from national committees and private companies in the form of special foodstuffs, drugs and vitamins.

Need Vision To Continue.

The disastrous two-year drought in the Indian states of Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, and Madhya Pradesh appears to finally to have broken.

In Bihar, the hardest hit of the three states, the rains came just in time to avert a third calamitous year. As reported by Prem Shanker Jha of the Hindustan Times, the time for sowing the rice crop had nearly passed and "there was a growing sense of desolation among the people" when finally, in the second week of July, heavy clouds rolled in from the southwest and soaking rains began to fall. Grass has already sprung up for the starving cattle to feed on. By November there should be a rice harvest, and, if all goes well, a second crop can then be planted.

Ambassador Chester Bowles recently said, "The temptation now is to assume that the crisis is over and no more help is needed. I wish it were true. Now is the time to build buffer stocks so that famine becomes impossible. Now is the time to assist with food so that scarce foreign exchange reserves can be used to sustain the economic momentum that is just beginning. We must have the vision to continue what we and India have started."

MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Ushering in the Christmas season, the Concert Choir of Youngstown State University, the Festival Chorus of St. John's Church, and the Dana Artists' Series Orchestra, will present Vaughan Williams' "Hodie" (This Day), on Sunday, December 3, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. at St. John's Episcopal Church on Wick Avenue, across from Jones Hall.

This outstanding choral and orchestral work will feature as soloists, Gloria McMaster, Wade Rardon, and Harry Switzer, with Mr. James Elson conducting the Artists' Series Orchestra.

The entire concert Sunday, will be devoted to a performance of "Hodie" by Ralph Vaughan Williams. The cantata for Christmas was written in 1953-54 when the composer was 82 years old.

One of Vaughan Williams' most radiant works, "Hodie" amounts to a Christmas anthology, and demands a variety of musical style and mood: ancient and modern, primitive and sophisticated, sweet and astringent.

Combining a gigantic orchestra utilizing a full complement of strings, woodwinds and brasses, along with organ, piano, harp, and a large per-ussion section, this outstanding work should enhance Christmas spirit on our campus.

Y.S.U. students and faculty are admitted free with presentation of an I.D. card.

Added Attractions

Adding to student participation in campus activities in preparation for the Christmas season, the Dana Brass Ensemble will present the Leroy Anderson "Suite of Christmas Carols," on Tuesday, December 5, at 1:00 at the student cafeteria in Kilcawley Hall.

In addition, an informal singing of popular Christmas carols will be presented on Wednesday, December 6, at 12:30 p.m. in the cafeteria, featuring the combined choruses of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia and Sigma Alpha Iota, honorary music fraternities on campus. Join in the Christmas spirit by attending and supporting these presentations.

RED BEAM ROOM

I won't go into business when I graduate because:

- a. I'd lose my individuality.
- b. It's graduate school for me.
- c. My mother wants me to be a doctor.

Can't argue with c), but before you check a) or b)—pencils up! There have been some changes. Drastic changes in the business scene. But changes in the vox populi attitude regarding business . . . especially on campus . . . just haven't kept pace.

Take the belabored point that business was not a jollyish. The men who run most of the nation's successful firms didn't arrive by nepotism, by trusting an Ouija board, or by agreeing with their bosses. Along the way, a well-modulated "No" was said. And backed up with the savvy and guts today's business demands.

In short, individuality is highly prized in much of the business world—the successful much. Even when the business is big. Like Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System.

We provide communications equipment for our Bell System teammates, the Bell telephone companies. This takes a lot of thought, decisions, strong stands for our convictions, (and sometimes some mistakes . . . we're human, every 160,000 of us).

Individuality pays off. Not only in raises, but in personal reward as well. Like an engineer who knew deep down that there was a better way to make a certain wire connector—and did. Or a WE gal who streamlined time-consuming office procedures, and saved us some $63,000 a year.

Rewards and accolades. For saying "No." For thinking creatively and individually. For doing.

Not every hour is Fun Hour, but if you've got imagination and individuality—you've got it made. With a business like Western Electric. We'll even help you answer b) with our Tuition Refund program. Come on in and go for President!

Presidential Draft Order Sought By Lewis B. Hershey

WASHINGTON (CPS)—Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey is recommending that President Johnson issue an executive order making it standard procedure for disruptive antiwar protestors to lose their draft deferments.

Although the proposed executive order has not been made public, its intent reportedly is to "tighten up" sections of the draft law which outline when a Selective Service registrant should be declared a "delinquent." Delinquents are reclassified and placed first in the order of call.

The proposal follows a letter which Hershey sent to local draft boards in late October recommending that those who block entrances to army induction centers or obstruct military recruitment on campuses be drafted first. If the executive order is signed by the President, this plan, which now is only a suggestion by Hershey to local drafts, will be clearly spelled out as standard procedure.

An official at Selective Service headquarters said the Hershey proposal has been turned over to the Bureau of the Budget—where all proposed executive orders are initially sent—and is now in the processing stages. The proposal is now being reviewed by the Department of Justice prior to being sent to the White House, he said.

The Justice Department could quickly end consideration of the proposal by declaring it unconstitutional. Since Hershey's letter to draft boards has been made public, there have been numerous charges that reclassifying protestors is a violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

A Selective Service spokesman said, "This office has received no formal notice from the Attorney General that this document (the letter) is unconstitutional. Unless we receive such a notice from the Justice Department, we will have no further comment."

No New Policies

Hershey said his letter to local boards contains no new policies, but is rather a recommendation that the present draft law be strictly enforced. The relevant section of the Selective Service Act says that who "knowingly hinder or interfere or attempt to do so in any way by force or violence or otherwise" with the Selective Service system should be declared delinquents and face penalties or reclassification. The proposed executive order presumably would explain this section of the law in more specific terms and order local draft boards to declare registrants delinquent accordingly.

Hershey emphasizes that the existing draft law says deferments should be given only to individuals who are acting in the national interest. He says those who interfere with military recruitment are not acting in the national interest.

The Selective Service director's views have been sharply criticized by scores of college newspapers, clergymen, several Congressmen, and numerous organizations, including the American Association of University Professors and the American Civil Liberties Union. The Washington Post suggested in a recent editorial that Hershey should retire.

The fate of Hershey's proposed executive order may well be determined by what the Justice Department decides. The Department ruled on a similar question in January, 1966.

Life Unsweet For Army Team

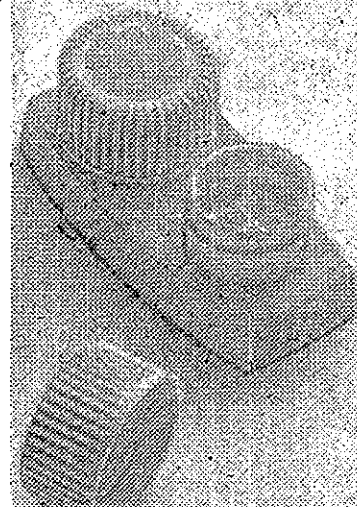

WEST POINT, N.Y. (CPS)—Cadets at the United States Military Academy have expressed their dissatisfaction with a Pentagon decision that the Army football team cannot take part in a bowl game this year.

The Vietnam war was one factor. Cadet dissatisfaction was particularly acute because the Naval Academy and Air Force teams have played in bowl games in recent years without interference from the Pentagon.

SENIOR CLASS ELECTIONS

Senior Class elections will be held on December 4 and 5.

You and your family are cordially invited to attend Kilcawley Mens Residence Hall's third annual Christmas open house on Sunday, Dec 3, from 2 to 6 p.m.

Law and Policy

At that time, Assistant Attorney General Fred M. Vinson Jr. said that "as a matter of both law and policy, sanctions of the Universal Military Training and Service Act cannot be used in any way to stifle constitutionally protected expression of views." He said reclassification by the Selective Service System could not be used against demonstrators "where the conduct involved is the expression of an opinion, even if the method of expression transgresses the law. If there is no transgression, then no sanction can be invoked. If there is a transgression, then the sanctions which attach to it are all that should be applied."

Vinson's opinion was handed down after several draft boards attempted to reclassify University of Michigan students who staged a sit-in at the Ann Arbor draft office. The action by the draft boards was also ruled illegal by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. The judges held in unanimous opinion that "it is not the function of local boards in the Selective Service System to punish registrants by reclassifying them I-A because they protested as they did over the Government's involvement in Vietnam."

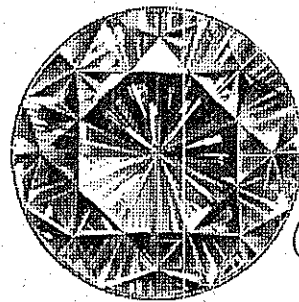

The Court also held that "it is the free expression of views on issues of critical current national importance that is jeopardized. On such topics perhaps more than any other, it is imperative that the public debate be full and that each segment of our society be permitted freely to express its views. Thus the allegations of the complaint in this case that the draft boards have unlawfully suppressed criticism must take precedence over a policy of nonintervention in the affairs of the Selective Service."

Since Hershey's letter to draft boards was sent out, at least two students have said they were reclassified I-A as a result of their involvement in protests against the war and the draft.

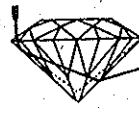

A University of Utah student, Henry Lowell Huey, lost his student deferment after participating in an anti-draft protest in October. Huey and five other students were arrested as they attempted to block the doorway of the Armed Services and Entrance Examining Station in Salt Lake City. Utah State Draft Board Director Col. Evan Clay said Huey's I-S deferment was discontinued in accordance with Hershey's letter.

In Tulsa, Oklahoma, John Rattiss, a student at the University of Oklahoma, was reclassified I-A for alleged involvement in Students for a Democratic Society, a group that regularly protests the war and the draft. He has been involved in anti-war demonstrations, but has never been arrested.

Sports Scene

By Mike Foley

Saturday, November 18, the YSU football squad ended a season of four wins and five losses, beating a highly touted Gustavus Adolphus team by the score of 21-19. Because rain, snow, and ice fell throughout the evening only a small crowd attended. However those in attendance were faithful until the closing seconds. About 100 students joined the cheerleaders in creating an atmosphere of uninhibited spirit, and the YSU Marching Band proceeded with a well-rehearsed half-time show. Throughout the game the stadium shook as the SAE cannon boomed its loud symbol of victory.

Although the Golden Gusties of Minnesota were rated a larger and stronger team than the Penguins, the dedicated arm of Joe Roth, the spectacular sprints of Dick Adipotti, and Ken Kacenga, and the powerful effort of Ray Briya, kept the opposition at bay throughout the contest. Even the size of the Gustie line was not enough to withstand the attacks of such men as Gene Ferro, Ralph Sandine, Gary Horvath, and Jim Smart.

Statistics

As a fan looks at the win-loss record it is possible to be deceived, but without any question our squad was victorious, for the statistics prove them so: In net yards Youngstown beat the opposition by a 3,0038 to 2,420 yard margin; In total rushing Youngstown conquered by a 2:1 score with 2124 to 1068 yards; Youngstown's passing game was also victorious with a 46.1 per cent completion effort to the 42.5 per cent success of the other side. The effort of our squad and the numerous victories which can easily be seen merit a hearty congratulations from the student body and the best of luck to the senior ball players.

Basketball

The prospective view of the 1967-68 basketball season is one of national interest. This year's team is better than last year's team, and that merits even greater attention. Tomorrow evening our team will be the guests of an always tough Akron University Zipper squad. Next Thursday evening the Penguins open their home season at South High Fieldhouse as they take on Villa Madonna.

Spirit

Although YSU has many fine athletes and is constantly involved in exciting intercollegiate competition, the question is, Will the students show the will and spirit needed for victory? This year our basketball team can be nationally ranked and a NCAA Tournament participant if the student body supports them. South High Field House seats about 4500 people, let's fill 4000 of the seats and bring spirit once again to our campus.

Our athletic games are for the students of this University, not those people who are willing to pay for the best seats in the house. If the students participate in mass there will be no question of where they are and where they should be. Initiative has been taken to create a cheering section; the cheerleaders have even added an additional two members to their squad to create a little humor and unique excitement.

Because of the need of parking facilities for staff and members, First Christian Church regrets that it cannot accommodate student parking in its Spring Street lot. Therefore, First Christian respectfully requests that the students refrain from parking in the lot across from the church on Spring Street to attend University classes. The custodian has been authorized to have violators towed away. Cooperation with this necessary policy will be greatly appreciated.

Rifle Pledges Set For First Year Competition

The University's Pershing Rifles Unit, Company P-1, is looking forward to the coming drill season with great enthusiasm. Their drill team, considered to be one of the finest in the Tri-state area, has been bolstered by the addition of 30 new Pledges this fall.

These Pledges will get their first taste of competition as they vie for trophies against John Carroll University, Kent State, Akron, Toledo University, and Bowling Green at the annual Pledge drill meet this Saturday, Dec. 2, 1967, at John Carroll University.

It will be the first drill meet for the Company under the command of Michael Lucas, the commanding officer. Jeff Johnson, Platoon Leader, and Julius Bergiel, squad leader, will also receive their "baptism of fire" at this meet.

The company's new sponsor, Miss Margie Sfara, along with Miss Kathy Mehle, will represent the Brothers of Company P-1 and accept the trophies.

Placing Students Becomes More Difficult Every Year

The Placement Office faces a difficult problem—the absence of sufficient facilities in which visiting business and industry representatives can conduct interviews.

The Placement Office was established in 1948 for the purpose of aiding graduating seniors in finding employment. It has grown from a one room office in Jones Hall to its present facilities at 39 W. Spring Street.

The facilities have, over the years, been gradually expanded to meet the needs of the increasing student enrollment. In addition to aiding graduating seniors, its director, Mr. Alfred J. Minotti, helps students to find part-time, summer or seasonal employment.

The Placement Office, however, is not involved in campus placement. This job is handled by Mr. John E. Wales, Director of Financial Aid.

The staff of the Placement Office includes: Alfred J. Minotti, Director of Placement and his assistant, Isabelle Miller, Director of Teacher Placement, and Carol Bates, Director of Part-time and Summer Placement.

Each year large numbers of students make use of the facilities offered to them. Mr. Minotti estimates that about 850 to 900 graduating seniors are assisted each year. A comparable number of under-graduates are also aided.

Students hoping to graduate in June should apply for interviews as soon as school resumes after the quarter break. "The sooner they apply," Mr. Minotti stressed, "the more advantageous it would be for them."

TOURS & JOBS IN EUROPE

Now it is possible to have an exciting, fun-filled, low priced tour of Europe & a paying job anytime during the entire year. Your choice of job & country with wages up to $400 a month. For a booklet with all jobs, tours & application forms send $2 (handling & air mail) to: Dept. K, American Student Information Service, 22 Ave. de la Liberté, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

All graduating seniors are interviewed by Mr. Minotti and Mrs. Miller, for general counselling and advice before going for the job interviews.

Recruiting for seniors will be done twice a year under the quarter system, instead of once a year as had been the policy under the semester system. During this period representatives from various businesses and industries from all parts of the country will visit the campus in search of potential employees.

Interviewing schedules have not yet been completed. The Spring interviewing sessions will last from January 2nd to April 30th, 1968. The 1968 Fall dates have not as yet been set up. Mr. Minotti said that they would probably run from some time in October to some time in November.

Over 200 companies regularly visit the campus for interviews, as well as over 50 representatives of school districts from all parts of the country, each year.

ISO News

The International Student Organization recently sponsored an International-Intercollegiate Guest Day which was held on November 11, 1967.

The afternoon was highlighted by a speech on the "Real and Ideal of Democracy" presented by Mr. Abe Harshman, who is a prominent member of this community.

Mr. Harshman was recently elected to the Youngstown Board of Education, and the Mayors Human Relations Committee.

In addition a one act play was presented by the Youngstown University Players, and the presentation of gag awards took place. Following the dinner Mr. Jon Naberezny, chairman of the Art Department, presented slides on Art entitled Expression of the Times. The evening closed with a Discotheque Dance.

Among the colleges attending were College of Wooster, Marietta College, Hiram College, Otterbein College, and Kent State University.

Co-Chairmen for the event were Bunchird Tantayanongul, Pornsit Sriorathakul and Sunee Saguansin. Mr. Zouhair Tabbara presided as master of ceremonies.

Due to the lack of sufficient facilities, many other companies do not visit the campus. If the space needed for interviews and conferences were increased, the Placement Office could offer a larger selection of the opportunities for the student body. Presently the Placement Office conducts its interviews in the facilities offered by Jones Hall, Pollock House, and Kilcawley Student Center. should contact Mr. Minotti at his office and he will provide them with the necessary forms for job applications.

Topless Crisis Arises

By Roger Gugliucello

The current trend towards toplessness will ultimately ruin our economy. This will not seem so ridiculous a statement if you consider the following points.

- 1) One of America's biggest industries, namely smut, will go broke. No one in their right mind will sit and read publications such as Adam, Man, Gent, and Playboy, when all they have to do is step outside and see the real thing.
- 2) Movies and T.V. will become obsolete. Once again, with so much action going on outside on the streets, anyone who will sit home and watch the Three Stooges either hasn't reached puberty or is a sexual deviate.
- 3) With the fall of T.V., the largest source of advertising will be gone. Without advertising, many products will lose a great amount of money, along with a greater amount of tax write-offs, and ultimately they will then fold.
- 4) After toplessness, the next trend will probably be complete nudity. Therefore, in addition to the almost total demise of the textile industry, we must also consider what will happen to those cities that endure hard winters. From the months of September-April, cities such as New York, Philadelphia and Chicago will be ghost towns. New population centers will switch to Florida and the South West. Here the harbors are not adequate and consequently trade will suffer.

5) Since the First Lady must keep up with the fashions, the Nation's Capitol must be moved down South. Could you imagine the Lincoln Memorial in Atlanta, Georgia?

These are only a few of the things that can happen if the current fashion trends are allowed to continue. The only solution is to cover up. This is not easy for the average American male to stomach, but it is our patriotic duty.

Pot Testimony In House

WASHINGTON (CPS)—The two men in Government who have the most to say about what the Government's policy on what marijuana ought to be offered sharply differing testimony before a House sub-committee about what should be done to pot-users.

Members of a House sub-committee on government operations, hearing the testimony early this week, showed a distinct preference for Narcotics Bureau Commissioner Henry Giordano's view that pot-users are criminals and should be subject to long jail terms and stiff fines.

The Food and Drug Administration, When Dr. James Goddard, chief of suggested that laws concerning marijuana use might be too severe, some of the sub-committee members took him to task as though he were a pot-pusher himself.

Goddard told members of the sub-committee, "I don't think we should make criminals out of the individuals who abuse" the drug.

Strongly Disagreed
 Giordano, testifying the following day, strongly disagreed. He conceded that existing penalties for possession of marijuana are severe, but he said they should remain so even if it means making a criminal out of a pot-user. The criminal penalties for smoking pot are a deterrent to its use, according to Giordano. He said that if Congress decides to lessen the penalties, "the statistics on the use of the drug will go right through the roof." He added, "To say on the Federal level that we shouldn't have strong penalties for possession just doesn't make sense to me."

Several congressmen suggested there was no need for the committee even to think about reducing the penalties for possession of marijuana. Rather, they said, Congress should be thinking about making the penalties for possession of LSD much more severe, while leaving the marijuana law alone.

Under present laws someone with marijuana in his possession is guilty of committing a felony and may receive up to 10 years in prison and a $20,000 fine for his first offense. Federal laws regarding LSD now say that agents may do no more than seize a user's supply of the drug.

Both Agreed
 Both Goddard and Giordano agreed that LSD is far more dangerous than marijuana and that efforts should be made to close the gap in the penalties with respect to the two drugs.

Although Goddard refused to suggest what penalties should apply to pot-users, he indicated "they should be like those now applied to LSD." Giordano said applying the LSD penalty to marijuana "would increase the problem tenfold."

During his testimony Goddard denied reports that he had said he wouldn't object to his daughter smoking marijuana anymore than he would to her drinking a cocktail. He said United Press International misquoted him.

"I did not say that I would not object to my daughter smoking marijuana. I did not, and I do not, condone the use of marijuana. I did not, and I do not, advocate the abolition of controls over marijuana. I did not, and I do not, propose 'legalizing' the drug," he insisted. Nevertheless, sub-committee members were not willing to let the matter drop.

An Excuse For Indulging
 Rep. Florence Dwyer (R-N.J.) said many of her colleagues have told her that young people "have referred to Dr. Goddard's reported views as an excuse for indulging in this narcotic."

She also criticized him for recommending a review of the existing laws concerning marijuana, especially during this time of "social upheaval." She remarked that "it is very damaging for a man in your position to make such a statement. Young people interpret this to mean he thinks marijuana might not be harmful."

Rep. Robert Dole (R-Kans) told the FDA commissioner that statements attributed to him "have caused wide-spread anxiety."

Giordano agreed that Goddard's remarks were unwise. "We can almost trace the rise in the use of marijuana from the time the public started receiving reports that marijuana is no more dangerous than alcohol," he said. "There is no question that permissive attitudes have brought about an increase in the marijuana problems."

Causing Concern

Marijuana is causing concern today, Giordano suggested, because "it is moving into the suburbs, and into the middle and upper strata of our society." He added that, "our investigations have shown that the problem is developing around the various colleges of the United States and in this respect we are dealing with a different kind of user." On college campuses, "it is usually the beatnik type, the hippie type, or the dropout type who is involved," he explained. Giordano said that of 60,696 drug addicts in society today, about 90 percent started on drugs by smoking pot. "It's a stepping stone. But this does not mean everybody who smokes a marijuana cigarette will go to heroin."

Both Goddard and Giordano said the use of pot should be controlled, but the FDA commissioner recommended cutting off the supply as the primary means of control. Giordano said that in addition to cutting off the supply, the threat of a criminal penalty for possession should be retained as a deterrent to the use of pot.

The Bureau of Narcotics handles the enforcement of marijuana laws, while the FDA's Bureau of Drug Abuse Control enforces laws against LSD and other hallucinogens, amphetamines, and barbiturates.

The Elf Speaks

The Snow Cometh

As I was saying before I was so rudely interrupted . . . T'was a cold, cold day. The snow fell that day for the first time. The weather bureau said that it was the first legitimate accumulation this year. There was an illegitimate accumulation several days before, but the straight-laced weather bureau refused to recognize it, as it was not included in their forecast.

Students meandered into classes humming "The Days of Runny Noses", obviously a product of some other great mind unconnected with this university. Professors wore galoshes and students wore rubbers.

It was a jolly day with only several near disasters (it was reported that Paul Gregory was seen moving gracefully across the snow, waving the cross-like scepter in his hands, and was almost run down by several members of the General Philosophy Department). (That was an "in" joke . . . if you missed it, consult any bad dream by Jack Southern).

I had made my way to YSU's campus by sled. It was pulled by a retinue of Huskies, all of whom were Elementary Education Majors and hailed from Campbell. I "parked" my strong beasts of burden (they were very strong—I was riding down wind) at least five blocks from our unapproachable-in-bad-weather campus.

The walk to end all walks began. For the average YSU student, two inches of snow poses no great threat to their security. Admittedly, they may get their sneakers a bit wet and may even dampen their white socks, nevertheless they still can find their respective ways to class without encountering any real difficulty (except, perhaps becoming lost along the way).

while some student was being placed in an "iron maiden."

It was grisly and I awoke in a cold sweat. The sweat froze and although I claim no allegiance to the "flower set", I found myself nevertheless wearing beads.

I staggered to my sled and Huskies, only to find my beasts of burden had been invited to a Pan-Hel tea. Without transportation and visibly shaken, I endeavored to obtain assistance.

No one, unfortunately, ever even considers what might be running around at one's own feet. I know this for a fact, since only the recent cold weather has forced half of the female student body into wearing underwear.

Gaining attention proved to be impossible and my only recourse was to abandon my sled (called "Rosebud") and begin a walk home.

I arrived at my cave frozen solid. My mother was most distraught and reminded me that I could easily have accepted Walt Disney's offer to play opposite Hayley Mills in "The Elf Goes Hawaiian".

I found it necessary to fabricate a story in order to circumvent further "I told you so's". Which only goes to prove that if you are in a similar situation, that your mother, too, may become the necessity of invention.

In addition any full-time students interested in supplying a new school motto for Y.S.U. should contact the ELF, JAMBAR office, 119 Kiltawley Student Center, before the end of the first quarter. The Latin Department has successfully translated our present motto—Animus Liberatus—as "Let the Animals Go Free", and it is my opinion that such a motto is unbecoming a state university.
