Revised Campus Renewal Offered

Newman Club Holds Day of Recollection

The Newman Club will sponsor a Day of Recollection, Sunday at Cardinal Mooney High School. The program will be conducted by Monsignor P. Breen Malone, former assistant at St. Edward Parish here, and present pastor at St. John Parish in Summitville.

The day will begin with an 11 am Mass followed by a "brunch" in the high school cafeteria. During the afternoon there will be two conferences, a question and answer period, and a holy hour.

The regular meeting will be held at 8 pm in the cafeteria. The program will include a recording of the "Missa Luba", a Mass as it is recited and sung in the African Congo. Following the records there will be refreshments and dancing.

Newman Club also sponsors chapel services every Wednesday noon at St. Joseph Church. The weekly sermon is given by Father Kennedy, Catholic chaplain of the University.

YU Library Closing On Thanksgiving

The University Library will be closed Thanksgiving day and Saturday, Nov. 25, but will be open Friday 9 am to 5 pm, Nov. 24.

The library also announced regular circulating books will be due Monday instead of Friday after Thanksgiving holidays to enable students to use books over the week-end.

Library officials also stressed the system of fines for overdue material. The fine for regular circulating books is five cents per day, accumulating until the book is returned.

Overdue reserve materials cost students 25 cents per hour. This fine duplicates every hour for closed reserve books and periodicals. The fine for regular periodicals and pamphlets is ten cents per day.

Closed reserve books, magazines, and bound periodicals may be taken out overnight and on Saturdays. They may be checked out one hour before closing time but must be returned by 9 am the next day the library is open.

Los Buenos Vecinos Plans Christmas Party

Los Buenos Vecinos, Spanish Club, will present a Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 9, at 7 pm in the Blue Room of Pollock House.

The program will include a dinner consisting of typical Latin-American foods. The party is open at a cost of $2 per person with proceeds to be donated to the foreign study scholarship fund.

Those attending are asked to bring a 50¢ exchange gift.

If attending, call Gary Scavnicky (PL-57492) or Eva Benyiczki (RI-36437) before Nov. 30.

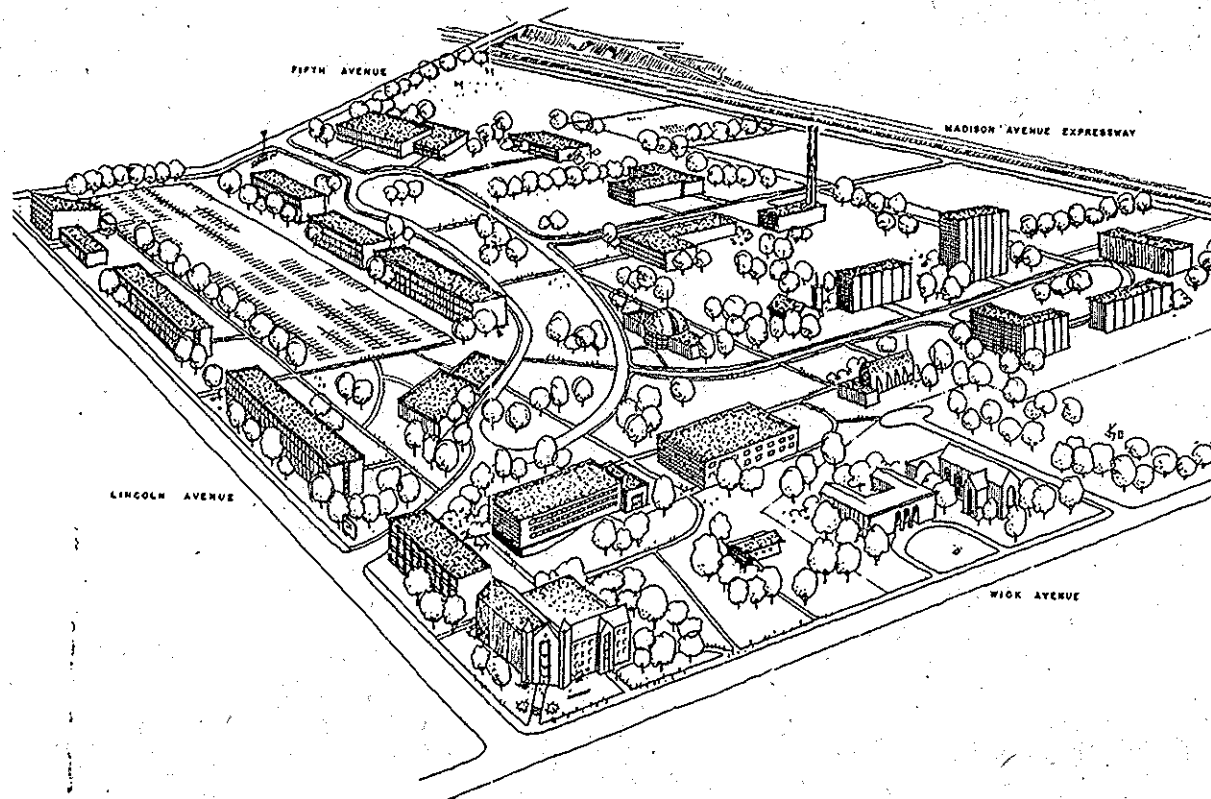

Seniors who have not posed for graduation pictures are to call Abey Studios, ST 8-4069 for appointments. Sittings will be booked until Nov. 10.

Deadline News 'Graphs

THE MATHEMATICS CLUB will meet at noon today in Clingan Waddell Hall. A speaker will be featured.

PRESIDENT HOWARD W. JONES requested all unauthorized students not to park in the lot between the First Christian Church and Butler Art Institute. Several cars have been towed away in the past.

McLean, YU Consultant, Gives Plans

City Planning Group Puts Off Decision To Next Session

City planners Tuesday took under advisement a revised set of plans for University redevelopment calling for the expenditure of $400,000 annually for the next 20 years to create a new campus in an area some 30 acres less than originally proposed.

H.L. McLean, YU teacher and redevelopment consultant for the University, made the presentation to the City Planning Commission at a regular meeting of the group in City Hall.

The University consultant and the planning commission were told last April when the original set of plans was presented that they could get faster action from the federal government if the area encompassed was reduced.

WICK NEW BOUNDARY

The new plans completely exclude the area to the east of Wick Ave. which had previously been designated as the site for athletic fields, maintenance and military science buildings, and a gymnasium.

These facilities would now be constructed in the northwest corner of the campus in an area bounded by Fifth Ave. and the soon-to-be-built Madison Ave. Expressway.

McLean explained to the planners that the new proposed annual expenditure is more realistic since the university has taken in an average of $500,000 a year for the past nine years. Originally, $800,000 a year had been called for.

REDUCE PARKING

He stated that the main reduction was in the amount of parking and athletic playing field space. The new plans make no provision for football or baseball fields. Parking lots designed to hold 900, 320, and 330 cars are in the plans, and McLean pointed out that multiple story parking structures on the lots could accommodate more cars in the future.

In explaining the parking and athletic facility reductions, McLean said that all of the planning had been guided by the principle "that our academic problems come first."

Two 10-year stages are planned for the redevelopment, the first to start next year. Buildings housing facilities for science, language, literature and mathematics, music and fine arts, student and faculty dining, business administration, health and physical education, maintenance, teaching of education, an observatory, and dormitories will all be given priority.

WILL GET ALL LAND

All land for the project would be acquired during the first 10-year phase so that new buildings on the extended campus would not be surrounded by existing homes.

Approval of the plans is expected to come at the next meeting of the City Planning Commission.

Council Chooses Co-chairmen of Snowflake Frolic

Norman Cubellis and Irwin Gittlin, representatives of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, were named co-chairmen of the Snowflake Frolic Friday by Student Council.

The co-chairmen will organize and present this annual dance Dec. 15, at Idora Ballroom from 9 pm to 1 am. The band chosen for the occasion by council is the Warren Covington Orchestra.

In other action, Y.U.S.A. has been asked by council to return the $250 unallocated funds received from council.

The discipline committee announced an error was made on the number of open seats for Student Council in the school of Liberal Arts. Only 3 seats are vacant.

Department Head Attends Conference

Prof. William S. Flad, head of the advertising department, will attend the 18th Annual Advertising Conference in Columbus, sponsored by Ohio State University, Nov. 17 and 18.

The keynote address, "Advertising Responsibilities," will be given by the Honorable Philip A. Hart, United States Senator from Michigan, at the Conference Theatre, Ohio Union.

Other speakers will include George Ramel, marketing director of "The Saturday Evening Post"; Henry T. Heckman, advertising manager of Republic Steel Corp.; and Alvin W. Fargo, president of the Charles W. Hoyt Advertising Agency, New York City.

The Registrar's Office has requested return of a paper cutter and three hole punch borrowed some time ago. They should be returned to Mrs. Braeding at the information desk.

Beware All Men---Sadie Hawkins Day

Sadie's back.

All Capp's Sadie Hawkins Day will begin when Mayor Frank R. Franko decrees the official opening of Kappa Sigma Kappa's 25th Annual Dogpatch Day Wednesday.

The traditional race will begin at noon in front of the library. Campus coeds will chase the unlucky males until they get their men. "Marryin' Sam" Gould, Mahoning County engineer, will marry the couples in traditional Dogpatch style.

The Sadie Hawkins Day Dance will be held 8 pm to 1 am that night at the Eagles Ballroom. A trophy will be presented to the best (worst) dressed boy and girl. Frank Scoccia and the Angles will provide the music and free cider and donuts will be provided. Admission is one dollar.

Pick Elaine Cooper PR Junior Sponsor

Elaine Cooper was elected junior sponsor of Company P, First Regiment, National Honorary Society of Pershing Rifles.

She was chosen by a vote of The Company at the Tenth Annual Sponsor Tea, Nov. 2, and will replace Betty Fabry, retiring senior sponsor.

Miss Cooper is an elementary education major and a member of Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority, Newman Club, Junior Women's Advisors, and Youngstown University Student Association.

Change Draws Comments

"So now they're trying to make us study!" was the cry heard around the university last Monday morning, when students tried unsuccessfully to find the Reading Room of the library. "Where did it go?" they asked while wandering through endless rows of bookshelves.

Finally they came to realize (if you still haven't, then just keep reading) that more shelves had been added and many of the former alcoves removed in order to make more room for additional books.

The change, however, has served more purposes than one. Now when you come in the library, you HAVE to study because you can't find anybody. It also serves to possibly cure the day dreamer who used to sit and watch who came in with whom and where they sat. (Now you can't see who your girl or boy's sitting or studying with!)

Now when you go in the library, there's little you can do except study -- but after all, isn't that what a library's for?

Support IFC Toy Drive

The Toys for Tots drive, sponsored by the Marine Reserves, and conducted on campus by Inter Fraternity Council, began on campus Tuesday.

Similar projects have been attempted at YU with little success. Last Christmas a canned food drive was held by a campus organization, the donations to be given to charity. The response was shocking, practically nothing was given.

This year toys are being collected. They will be reconditioned by the Marine Reserves and given as Christmas presents to needy children in the Youngstown area. Inter Fraternity Council is responsible for conducting the city-wide drive on campus.

We hope they will not face the same apathy which caused past failures. How much time does it take to go to your attic, hunt up a few toys, leave them in one of the barrels on campus? And how much of that time will be wasted when those few toys can make an underprivileged child happy at Christmas?

We aren't ordering, preaching, slamming, or moralizing. We're asking ..... SUPPORT TOYS FOR TOTS.

It is easy to blame past administrations for the part they have played in the current something-for-nothing society, but we are really to blame because the majority of us wanted those things done. The change, then, will come not from within any political party but from within ourselves.

Student Council Elections Require Intelligent Voters

By Rick Collins

The problem of acquainting voters on this campus with candidates of Student Council is complicated by two factors. The factors being a lack of proper campaigning and a haphazard student attitude toward Student Council elections.

The present method of attracting voters leaves many cold. The mere painting of a poster advertising the number of groups to which the candidate belongs plus his point average implies that the more extra-curricular participation or the higher his point average the better Council member he will be. Week after week members of Student Council bemoan that the Student Council elections are, in fact, popularity contests. But on what other basis can a voter base his opinion? Certainly not upon the present method of campaigning.

A possible solution would be a solicited advertisement in the school paper indicating what the candidate intends to accomplish on Student Council, how he feels Council could be improved, and which measures Council has passed that he disagrees with. These ideas could be stated in a political advertisement in the school paper.

An alternative is to improve the posters at least to the point where they include the ideas mentioned in the preceding paragraph. The posters then would be a criterion upon which the candidates worth of Council could be judged. What if the candidate wants no changes of Council? Why then is he running?

The second and most important reason for the current lack of interest in the elections is the attitude of the students toward Council. Nearly all conversations in which Council is mentioned, the dishonor or at least the dishonesty of any one who so much as

The Collegians View: A Survey

"Why did you or didn't you pledge a fraternity or sorority?"

The only way to get ahead is to be in a fraternity. Fraternities help you socially and they teach you what to say and when to say it when dealing with people. Fraternity offers you the opportunity to learn how to live in a group; a group that works together, parties together, shares and lives on equal terms together.

You have the opportunity to be part of a group that can be the best on campus or worst depending on how well its members work together.

Clyde Jordan

I don't belong to a fraternity because I am a first semester freshman, but I believe as many others do that the Greeks are the controlling factor on campus. I will pledge because I like to be in on things that go on around campus.

You can be an independent and do things, but the biggest and most exciting functions are sponsored by the fraternities and sororities.

Bob Breeding

My main reason for joining a fraternity was for the social aspect. Although an independent may look upon the fraternity system as a conglomeration of rowdy boys with no definite end in mind, this is only an outsider's point of view.

The fraternity symbolizes a means of escape from studies. It is a place to get together and socialize with mature individuals of my own age and interests. It serves as a means of discussing problems common to all college students on campus.

In my estimation, the fraternity system and all that it stands for should be applauded everywhere.

Danny Campana

I did not pledge a fraternity because I lack sufficient funds and interest in the Greeks. The time factor also enters into my decision. I cannot see spending up to 20 hours a week for a semester as a pledge.

I feel that I can find better things to do with my time, such as helping to organize the campus independents. I went to another school, and as a freshman I was interested in Greek organizations. But I transferred before I had a chance to become deeply interested in the subject.

I have now attained an age at which I would not care to take part in their hazing. My service time will be enough.

Dave Zimmerman

For the companionship of a group of girls who think and do mainly as myself, sororities serve as organizations in which I can find certain goals to work towards. I believe that at Youngstown even though the Greeks are in the minority they are extremely important to the school. It's the Greeks who make up the majority of most organizations and work for these organizations. Also, if a member of a sorority or fraternity runs for an office, he always has someone behind him.

I suppose here I am thinking of that moral support each and every one of us needs at sometime and I can truly say that one's sorority sisters are always there to give it.

Because YU is a commuting school, a sorority offers the best means to a social life. For me, it would have been hard to meet half the friends I have since I have pledged, but then someone else may look at this in an sets foot within the Council meeting room is included. Attitudes such as this indicate well enough the attitude with which students regard their representatives. Students don't seem to realize that Student Council handles over 50,000 dollars of Your money every year.

Members of the Faculty-Student Discipline Committee could recommend that you be suspended or expelled. Student Council members handle the chairmanships of your dances.

Student Council has the powers to "conduct all class elections and any other election of importance to the entire student body ... to establish necessary discipline regulations, ... and to hear all appeals submitted to it by any individual or group. These powers are extended over all organizations including those in the Secretarial School and all night school groups." (From the Student Council Constitution).

Nearly every extra curricular activity is controlled by Student Council or one of its subordinate groups.

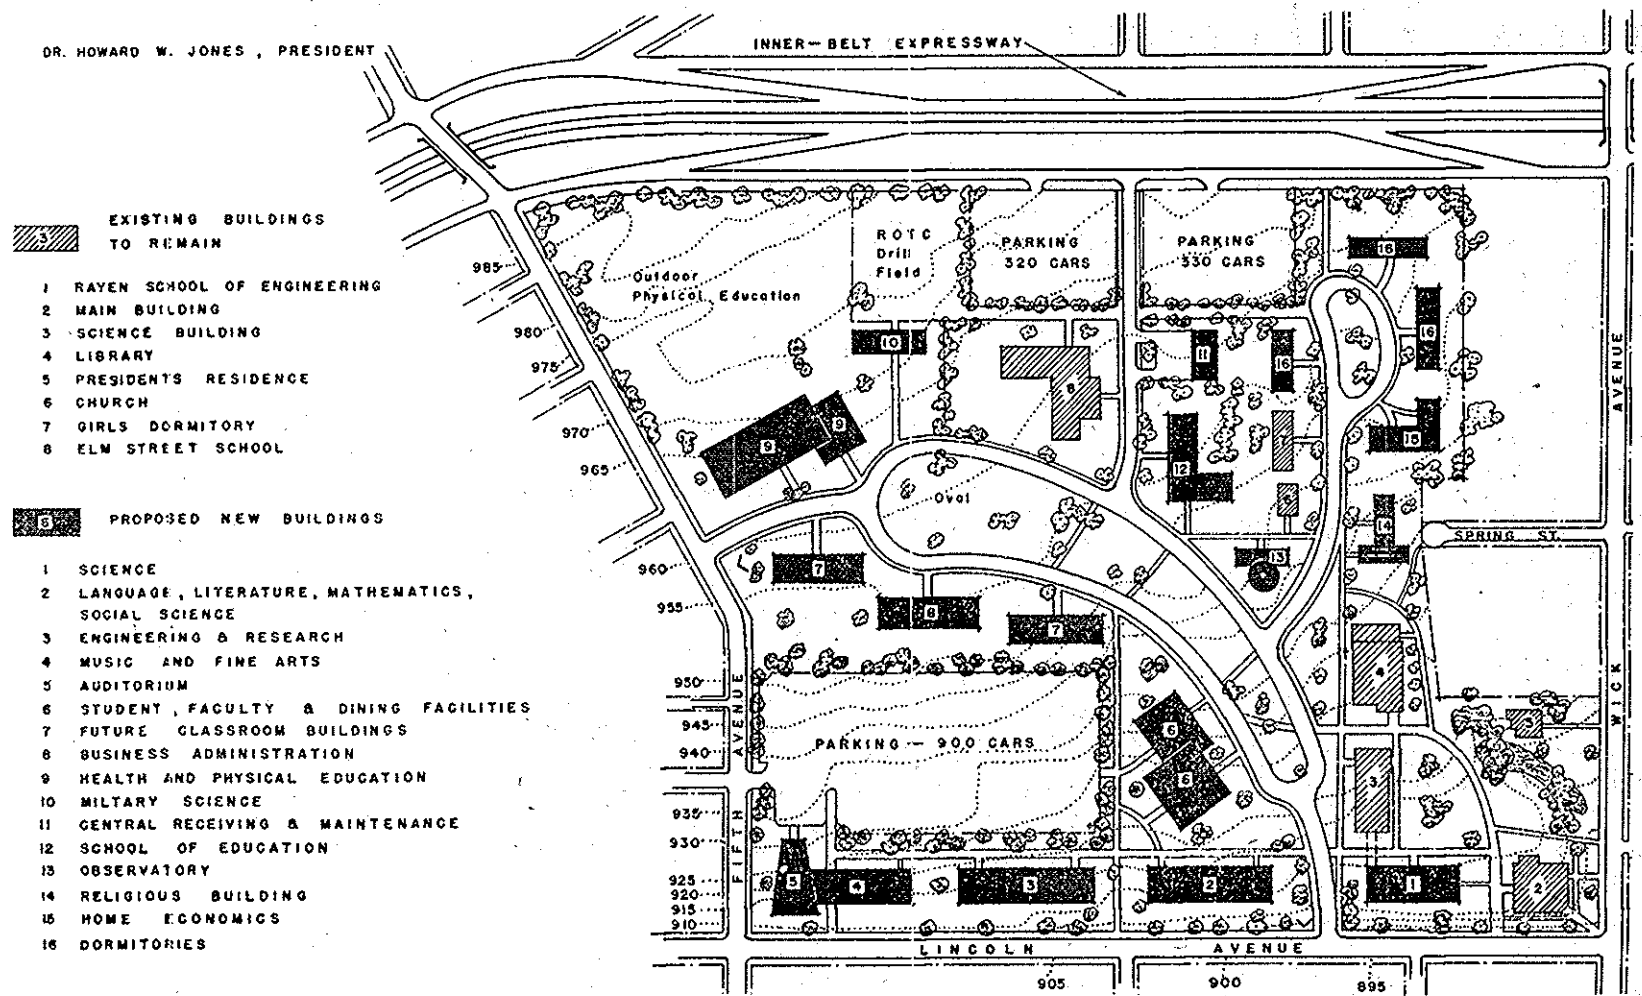

Since Student Council consists of 22 members, if ever 11 members got together and resolved such things as chairmanships, elections of officers, in fact all which they control, a form of despotism would result.

Rumors have existed for some time concerning "the clique". The rumors indicate that this group has dominated Student Council activities for several semesters, corraling all offices and chairmanships. They indicate further that these groups (two fraternities and a sorority whose combined seats on Student Council constitute a majority) permit others to fill important positions only when no one in these groups wants the position.

Now, it is not the policy of this paper to report rumor. It is this paper's duty, however, to inform the students of this University of statements which are as widespread as these. Even members of Council are inclined to admit that the unfortunate situation exists. The only reason for it not being set down as fact is lack of written proof which naturally could never be obtained.

The question is: Do the students want this to continue? Only by encouraging a higher calibre of candidates for the offices of Student Council can it stop.

Did You Know It's the Truth That . . . . .

By Mike Shelley

The teacher was giving a lecture on temperance. On the table were two glasses - one filled with water and the other with alcohol. In his hand was a live worm. Dipping the worm into the water had no effect, but when he put it into the alcohol it dried up and died. "Now Mr. Passan, what lesson do you get from this?" "Well," he replied, "I'm not sure, but I guess if you drink alcohol, you won't have worms."

I like mathematics when it isn't over my head, and I feel the same way about pigeons. . . . Temptation is something which when resisted gives happiness, and when yielded to gives greater happiness. . . . What puzzles most married men is what single guys do with their money. . . . There is a vast difference between a horse race and a political race. In a horse race the entire horse runs. . . . The warden of a Midwestern prison is still looking for the person who placed this sign behind the electric chair, "You can be sure - if it's Westinghouse." . . . "Now John, be a good boy and say 'Ahhh' so the doctor can get his finger out of your mouth."

Ira: "What are my chances with you?"

Jackie: "Two to one. You and me against my conscience."

He was driving her home from the game and it was past midnight, very dark, the road was lonely, and so was the driver. Suddenly the car stopped, the man got out, looked the car over, turned to the girl and said, "What a break. The gas tank seems to be filled with water, and we can't move a foot." The girl gave a sigh and said, "Come inside. This has happened to me before. All we have to do now is sit and argue for awhile and the water turns back into gasoline."

Old man: "Is there a lad, Harvey Lapidus, in your class, professor?"

Prof.: "You just missed him sir. He left to go to your funeral."

"Steinman," he said, "I have a bit of microfilm here that must be delivered to our friends in Tierra Del Fuego in four days. Your chances of coming through alive are one in 167,894. Think you can do it." "I'll try sir," I said . . . . .

YU Offensive Might Drops Gusties, 40-6

By Mike Drapkin

The University gridders, fresh from their most powerful offensive wing of the year in last week's 40-6 victory over Gustavus-Adolphus, take on Texas Lutheran College in the season finale here Friday night.

The Texas Lutheran Bulldogs are to Rayen Stadium boasting 24 men on a squad of some 50. However, almost half of the lettermen are backs or ends in some doubt as to the strength of the Bulldog interior line.

The Bulldogs, like Youngstown, have many freshmen and sophomores on their squad.

Quarterback Miffy Kaese was Bulldog's total offense leader this season as a sophomore. He ran the ball 104 times for a total of 662 yards while missing 10 games due to injuries. In addition, he completed 44 of 83 passes for 595 yards and six touchdowns.

Another junior, halfback Billy Sell, was the rushing leading Texas Lutheran with a 4.7 average per carry on 366 yards gained in 78 attempts. Russell, and halfback Frank Arnold who was second rushing with a 3.6 average, are leading the Bulldogs again this season.

The total offense in 1960, Texas Lutheran compiled an average of 15 yards per game while holding opponents to 205 yards.

Against Gustavus-Adolphus, the gridders totaled 355 net yards during while holding the Gusties to 20 yards on the ground. YU completed their only passing effort, a 67 yard scoring toss from Bill Leshnock to Frank Horvath.

Horvath, having his finest game of the season, gained a total of 104 yards rushing and scored 10 touchdowns to lead the Penguin pack. He has now gained 822 yards this season while scoring 10 touchdowns.

Some 5,000 chilled fans saw the gridders score five out of the six times they handled the ball in the first half. Horvath counted on runs of 24, and 23 yards. YU's other

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 17 - Never Look a gift horse in the mouth! Last week I seemed to be complaining because I was picking seven winners each time, so what do you think happened. The very next time I only had six correct games. Oh well, what are you going to do.

Just like I promised I'm in California - - hiding from the sneers of those who said I was crazy to pick West Virginia over Penn State. How did I know West Virginia would go to sleep in the dressing room before the game?

Not only did the Mountaineers let me down, but Iowa, The Citadel, and Hobart College as well. Looks like I flipped the coin the wrong way on Hobart and Susquehanna as I lost a 35-6 decision.

Iowa made a liar out of me, dropping a 16-9 tussle to Minnesota and Florida State trounced The Citadel, 44-8. Maybe the Southern Conference isn't so tough after all. (The Citadel is the championship team this season.)

Just one more week of football predictions to go, then the scene shifts to basketball. I should come up with some real gems there. The percentages now show 48 wins out of 70 games for a .685 effort for the year.

The winner of the tickets to the Art Guild Theater last week was Joe Kleinerman of 1617 Ohio Ave. He correctly predicted eight of the ten games, missing on Pitt-Notre Dame and Iowa-Minnesota.

Let's try it one more time.

Games for the week of Nov. 18.

Youngstown over Texas Lutheran - The Penguins put on a mighty offensive show last week. They'll want to close out the season on a happy note.

Oklahoma over Army - - The Sooners surprised highly rated Missouri last week and may still be rolling in high gear.

Pitt over So. Cal. - - The Panthers are taking a calculated risk going out on the field, but should finally manage to come out on top.

Michigan State over Northwestern - - If the Spartans don't win this one, they may hang Duffy Daugherty for real this time. Last week he became the third college coach of the year to go the effigy route.

Sul Ross over Howard Payne - - Sounds more like a prize fight than a football game, but it's for real. Maybe I can flip the coin right this week.

Detroit over Arizona State - - The Detroit Titans surprised Villanova last week. Since they've gone big time in football they've been pretty impressive. I've got to go with them here.

Wichita over Dayton - - The Shockers, Missouri Valley champs, should have too many heavy guns for the flyers to handle.

Columbia over Penn - - Buff Donnell's Lions keep rolling along as they top the Penn Quakers. (I hope.)

Clemson over Furman - - The South is always unpredictable but the Clemson Tigers are usually too rough for Furman.

Cleveland Browns over the Philadelphia Eagles - - For the final one, let's really go out on a limb and predict the top game of the pro grid card this Sunday. I'll trade a correct pick here for a pair of tickets to this one.

Grove City Hosts WRA Women Recreation Association members and Miss Kocinski, faculty advisor, will attend a bowling sportsday at Grove City College, Nov. 18.

POVERTY CAN BE FUN

It is no disgrace to be poor. It is an error, but it is no disgrace. So if your purse is empty, do not skulk and brood and hide your head in shame. Stand tall. Admit your poverty. Admit it freely and frankly and all kinds of good things will happen to you. Take, for instance, the case of Blossom Sigafos.

Blossom, an impecunious freshman at an Eastern girls' college, was smart as a whip and round as a dumpling, and scarcely a day went by when she didn't get invited to a party weekend at one of the nearby men's schools. But Blossom never accepted. She did not have the rail fare; she did not have the clothes. Weekend after weekend, while her classmates went frolicking, Blossom sat alone, saved from utter despair only by her pack of Marlboros, for even an exchequer as slim as Blossom's can afford the joys of Marlboro—joys far beyond their paltry price: rich, mellow tobaccos, lovingly cured and carefully packed, and an exclusive selectrate filter. Croesus himself could not buy a better cigarette!

However, Marlboro's most passionate admirers—among whose number I am paid to count myself—would not claim that Marlboro can entirely replace love and romance, and Blossom grew steadily moroser.

"Accept these gifts from Tom."

Then one day came a phone call from an intelligent sophomore named Tom O'Shanter at a nearby men's college. "Blossom," said Tom, "I want you to come down next week for the barley festival, and I won't take no for an answer."

"No," said Blossom. "Foolish girl," said Tom gently. "I know why you refuse me. It is because you are poor, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Blossom. "I will send you a railroad ticket," said Tom. "Also a hard-boiled egg in case you get hungry on the train."

"But I have nothing to wear," said Blossom. Tom replied, "I will send you one suit of cashmere, two gowns of lace, three slacks of velvet, four shoes of calf, five socks of nylon, and a partridge in a pear tree."

"That is most kind," said Blossom, "but I fear I cannot dance and enjoy myself while back home my poor lame brother Tiny Tim lies a-bed."

"Send him to Mayo Brothers and put it on my tab," said Tom. "You are terribly decent," said Blossom, "but I cannot come to your party because all the other girls at the party will be from rich, distinguished families, and my father is but a humble woodcutter."

"I will buy him Yosemite," said Tom. "You have a great heart," said Blossom. "Hold the phone while I ask our wise and kindly old Dean of Women whether it is proper for me to accept all these gifts."

She went forthwith and asked the Dean of Women, and the Dean of Women laid her wise and kindly old hand on Blossom's cheek and said, "Child, let not false pride rob you of happiness. Accept these gifts from Tom."

"Oh, bless you, Wise and Kindly," breathed Blossom, dropping grateful tears into the Dean's reticule. "I must run and tell Tom."

"Yes, run, child," said the Dean, a smile wrinkling her wise and kindly old eyes. "And ask him has he got an older brother."

Finally The Explanation

By Pat McCarren, Bob Ruby, and Juanita Carnivale

Did you know it's only 120 days. Now don't say so what. Let us explain first.

It seems Pat McCarren is slightly Irish and this naturally comes to the fore on St. Paddy's day. This young man is driven all year by the thought that this grand and glorious event is going to transpire in the near future. Furthermore, he is intrigued with this special event to the point where he counts the days, one by one.

Incidentally Patrick did not show up tonight and your other two authors decided to write the facts behind the traditional ending to our column, since neither of us are what you might call Irish (even though both of us like Irish coffee).

But, for those of you who are interested in St. Paddy's day, please remind Pat how many days are left. In fact, write, phone, etc. (anytime of day or NIGHT) Pat that St. Patrick's day is only 120 days away.

Did you hear the little favorite that goes:

I love life and life loves me;
I'm as happy as can be.
A happier man nowhere exists.
I think I'll go and slash my wrists.

"Never underestimate the power of a woman". No doubt you've heard that before. Probably, you've also heard that no good can come from spending too much time in the cafe or snack bar. But now it seems that Carole Hamilton (call her Snacksby) has turned a stroke of bad luck into a good opportunity to do what she likes best ... meet boys.

Here are the gruesome details. Snacksby was coming out of the Snack Bar and apparently was so busy looking at the boys that she didn't see the loose gravel under her feet. She slipped, fell, and broke her foot. Now you can see her hopping across campus, and there are always guys around to volunteer to carry her up and down stairs. Her caddy, carrying all the books, purses, and miscellaneous is Elaine Fretlose ....

Good luck, Snacksby. Hope you don't hit anyone with that cast.

From an independent comes the QUOTE of the week. "I read your column. What could an independent do?"

Good grief, man. Do we have to spell everything out? Try one or more of these. Run for an office, either as a class officer, or for a seat on Student Council. Or why not join and be active in Y.U.S.A.? If nothing else, at least get out and vote in the elections. Membership in groups is also a big help; Circle K, a service organization is looking for members, and the Jambar staff always needs help (believe it or not). There are many jobs on this campus that go unfulfilled, jobs that could serve to acquaint you and others like you with the University and its many facets.

Shuffled Shelves

In case you haven't noticed .... the Library staff has shuffled the book shelves in the study room. We don't object to their moving the furniture and fixtures. What we object to, however, is that it was done without warning, and over a weekend at that. Early Monday morning, we saw several foggy students crash head-long into shelves that are located where aisles used to be. Our deepest sympathy to these people. (See you at the hospital when we have the stitches taken out.)

Speaking of the library, why does every clock in the place have a different time? If you have a class on the third floor, and walk in the front door at, say 10:55 a.m., by the time

Main and the Women's Gym. Here we thought only students were so tired that they fell asleep in their cars.

A birthday card was received in the Jambar office, it was addressed to "the Editor of the Y.U. Paper". Happy Birthday to you D.Q. from "Lola".

Question to D.Q. - - Who is Lola?

We interviewed "Baby Claude Jordan" to find the whereabouts of Fif Cassetto and Paul Carlson on a hayride. Seems that Paul couldn't find the stable so he and his date proceeded to go to a drive-in and drink their refreshments. Now to tell you more about "Baby Claude" he insisted that they were at the hayride but he wasn't to sure they were at the party following ... seems the lights burned out at the party ... Oh my this must have been quite a night all the way around! We sure hope "We, three" are invited to the next one. The hay would be a good place to dig up some dirt for this column!

Did all the girls on campus get this advice from their mothers? Be careful of the man who snores, but be more careful how you find out.

DON'T READ THIS PARAGRAPH:

There is absolutely nothing of any interest in it. In the first place it doesn't say anything. Secondly, we were looking for a filler. Last and not least it's LATE and we want to go home.

LUCKY TUFFERS

"HOMECOMING WEEKEND"

"Boy, is this place packed!"

"Wow! Is the team ever fired up for this game!"

"Him? Why, that's Col. Smythe-Hubertt, the oldest living graduate."

"Get on the float committee, you said ... nothing to it, you said ... a breeze, you said ..."

WHAT DOES AN OLD GRAD LIKE BEST ABOUT HOMECOMING? Next to shaking hands, he likes reminiscing. About fraternity parties, girls, sorority parties, girls, off-campus parties, girls—and, of course, about how great cigarettes used to taste. Fortunately for you, Luckies still do taste great. (So great that college students smoke more of them than any other regular cigarette.) Which shows that the important things in college life stay the same. Parties. Girls. Luckies.
