Few Jobs For Grads, Students

by Dale I. Peskin

SCANNING EMPLOYMENT ADS—YSU June graduates are realizing that jobs this summer are scarce. Employers blame the nation's economic recession for the job slump.

Board Discusses Social Rules Today

YSU Lowest Tuition In Ohio

There is a new breed of students around the nation's universities this summer. They are determined to change the system from within and anxious to find either summer or permanent employment. Most of them are also out of work.

Both June graduates and undergraduates are finding it increasingly difficult to find jobs this summer. Major companies say that they are cutting back in the hiring of executive, management and labor personnel. All of them blame the nation's economy for the job recession.

Alfred J. Minnotti, director of placement at YSU, foresees no break in the trend. Mr. Minnotti says that the economy seems to be tightening up and good jobs are becoming more difficult to find. Mr. Minnotti says job placement has fallen off about 20% here from last year. He says that companies are afraid to make the move in hiring new executives.

Math and other liberal majors are most affected by the job recession, according to Minnotti. Significant decreases in science and laboratory researchers have developed because of government grant cutbacks. Least affected by the recession are graduates with degrees in engineering and accounting, Minnotti said.

J.P. Mossman, executive vice president of the Youngstown Area Chamber of Commerce, agrees that the economy has had a profound effect on college graduates but says that the effect should be temporary. Mr. Mossman predicts a rise in both the economy and job opportunities at the beginning of next month.

According to Mr. Mossman, employment in the Youngstown-Warren area was down about 1000 in May from the 212,600 employment figure in April. He said that local manufacturing is significantly lower and a trend to cut back executive personnel has also developed. The 10% executive personnel cutback by General Motors has had a significant impact on other major companies, Mossman said. Both labor and management positions are off at General Motors.

The result of the student job recession may be an increase in summer school attendance. Enrollment figures, although not released yet, are expected to soar at the nation's universities despite the closings and strikes at many schools. The unemployment trend has sent the new graduate back to school to take graduate courses and the undergraduate back to campus to gain hours for graduation. It has also left them hard-pressed for money that ordinarily would have been put away

Cites Reasons For Low Fees — No Increase In Tuition

by Spencer Lockson

In spite of rising costs at other Ohio colleges and universities, YSU has been able to maintain the same fees from the time of its inception through the 70-71 academic year.

Inflation alone would seem to drive the university to raised fees, but Albert L. Pugsley, University President, stated that the university has been able to absorb those costs by careful budgeting through the end of the academic year. An increase in fees for the academic year 1971-72 is necessary Pugsley said.

President Pugsley cited two primary reasons for the lack of increases: low cost of maintaining the relatively compact physical facility, and efficiently recruiting and promoting faculty members so as to raise standards yet keep costs down.

The growth of the University in terms of students has not yet manifested itself into physical expansion. Most of the physical growth of the campus is still in the construction stage and will not add to maintenance costs until buildings become operational, Pugsley stated.

Evidence of "careful budgeting" can be seen in YSU's faculty that has been raised in numbers and scholarship while overall costs have been kept down. Members added to the faculty have had the highest qualifications while the percentage of full professors has increased mainly through promotions from within the existing faculty.

Out-of-state students, who recently absorbed a fee hike, still pay less than the other state schools. This year YSU had an $800,000 provision from the state for out-of-state students because the university draws so heavily from surrounding communities out of Ohio. Non-resident students pay $275 tuition per quarter.

The long awaited Student Government Faculty Evaluation is eagerly scanned by (l to r) Nick Bunnag, Chamsu Sirisarnchai, and Pauline Bailey. The evaluation may be obtained by students at the Bursar's Office, first floor, Jones Hall, for $5.00.

State School Tuitions Soar

Average costs of Ohio colleges and universities will increase by 15 per cent during 1970 and 1971, according to James H. McElhaney, director of the Ohio College Association (OCA).

Tuition will average 9% hike and room and board will average a 6% boost according to an OCA survey of 60 Ohio Colleges public and private.

Youngstown State University's tuition and room and board fees remain the lowest of the state supported schools. A list of the costs of state-supported schools are as follows:

	tuition and fees	room and board	total
Univ. of Akron	$600	$1,050	$1,650
Bowling Green	660	1,005	1,665
Univ. of Cincinnati	510 to 750 for city residents	1,125	1,735
Kent State	720 to 900 for Ohio residents	1,023	1,695
Miami Univ.	672	1,050	1,710
Ohio Univ.	660	1,104	1,764
Univ. of Toledo	615	1,185	1,800
Wright State	570	1,260	1,430
Youngstown State	450	925	1,375
Ohio State	630	1,104	1,734
Central State	645	960	1,605
Cleveland State	720	560	1,560

Dr. Dalbec Receives MIT Scholarship

Dr. Paul E. Dalbec, assistant professor of physics at Youngstown State University, has received a Special Summer Program Scholarship from Massachusetts Institute of Technology to participate in a program on "Statistical Physics and Phase Transitions."

The program, which will run July 6-10 at MIT, is being held to gain more information about the theoretical and experimental aspects of phase transitions.

In particular, certain similarities between phase transitions in diverse physical systems will be presented to produce a unified treatment of phase transitions in magnetic, superconducting, liquid crystal and biological systems.

Faculty Evaluation On Sale At Bursar's

by Kenneth Kurjan

The Student Government Faculty Evaluation, originally scheduled for distribution before Spring Registration is available at the Bursar's Office in Jones Hall.

The 11½ by 17 inch booklet, the culmination months of work, is dedicated to the memory of Sylvan Einstein, a past YSU professor.

The evaluations are listed in alphabetical order and include all of the faculty except those who declined to be evaluated and those which the computer threw out because of lack of sufficient data.

The booklet sells for $5.00 to students and $1.00 to faculty members, students must present their YSU identification card to make the purchase.

The booklet comes with a sample questionnaire inside the front along with an explanation as to how to interpret the information.

Jobs Scarce

(Continued from page 1) for next fall's tuition and other college expenses. All in all it has created a unique log jam on the college campus, once the training ground for prospective employers. Now the graduate questions the value of his undergraduate degree and the undergraduate wonders if the college expense is worth it all.

Board To Meet, Consider Rules

by Marilyn Perrin

A report from the special committee to study social regulations for YSU will be heard and acted upon by the Board of Trustees at a meeting scheduled for 10:30 this morning in Pollock House.

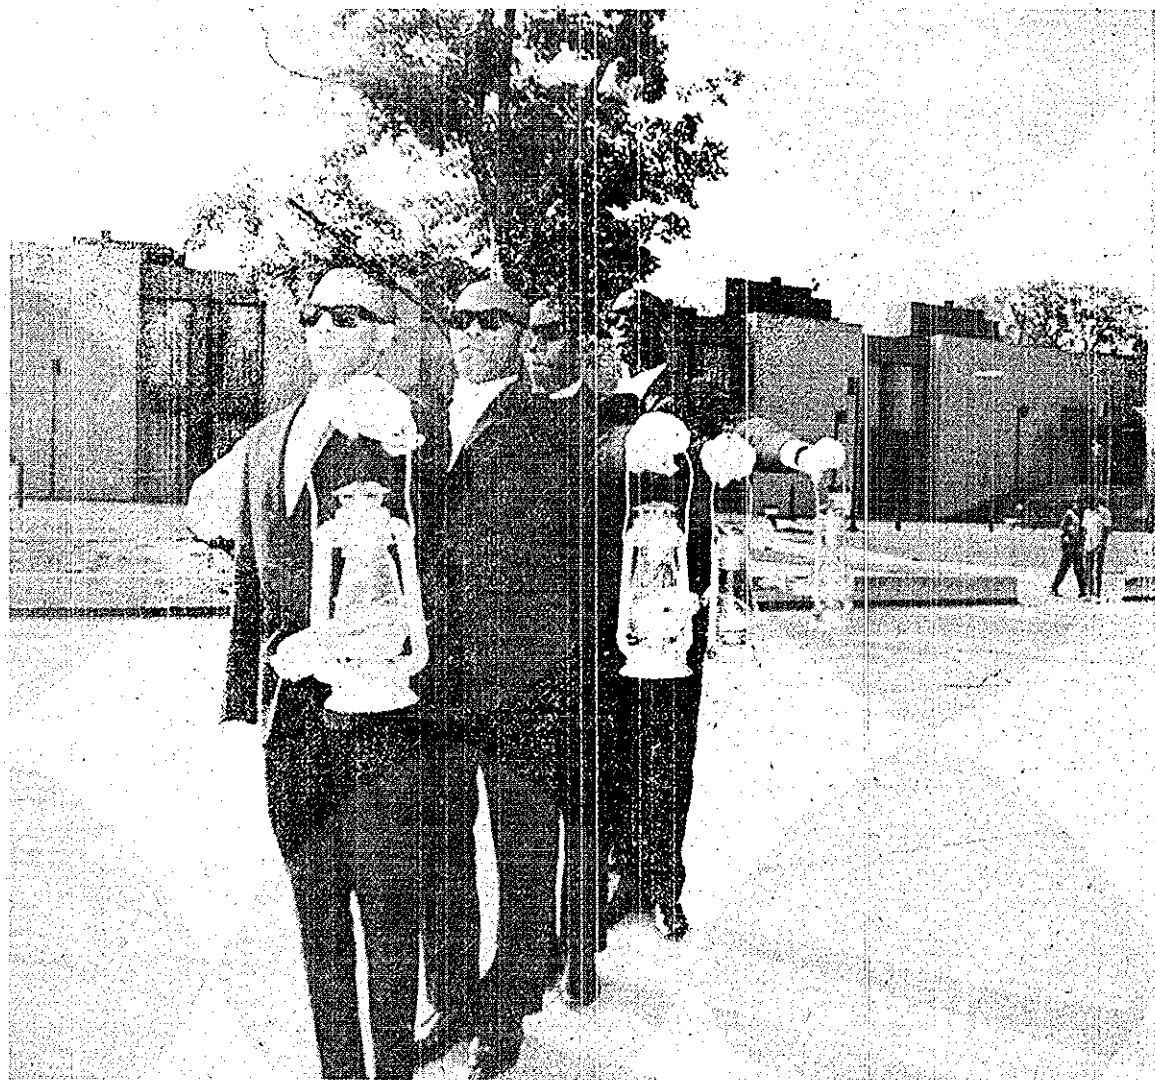

The special committee was formed at the Trustees' April 14 meeting as the University Senate endorsed and revised social regulations presented to the Board were considered incomplete. According to Clarence J. Strouss, chairman of the Board of Trustees, the committee has been working with both students and faculty since its formation.

Although President Pugsley has declined to speculate about specific results concerning the Board's action on the social regulations, he stated that most likely "the Board will issue a general policy statement to govern the attitude of the University."

Also being presented to the Board at today's meeting will be recommendations from President Pugsley concerning a resolution authorizing new parking fees, a resolution authorizing a graduate program leading to the degrees, Master of Arts (Economics), and a resolution to approve the campus master plan.

The election of the new chairman and vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees will also take place at the meeting.

With the exception of one Board member, Mr. Williams, all the Trustees will be in attendance at the meeting, revealed President Pugsley's secretary Mrs. Webster. The meeting is open to the public, including both faculty and students.

Truck Strike And Slow Postal Rates Blamed - Neon Delay As Yet Unsolved

by Denise Murcko

Several 1970 Neons have been distributed to YSU administrative offices, but when students will receive the annual student publication is still a mystery.

The Neon office received their copy weeks ago, and were informed the rest were on the way, according to Ron Elmo, 1970 Neon editor. However, Dominic Zurella, parcel post foreman of the Youngstown Post Office, stated that so far Neons have not arrived in the city office.

Elmo explained that the truck strike and the slower rates of bulk mail were the primary reasons for the delay. He said that due to the nature of the three volume, case enclosed yearbook, makeup had to take place at more than one location; the books were bound and covered at different locations.

The trucker's strike also caused delay in delivery of book supplements in order to be assembled. Adding to this initial delay was the long time period involved in mailing by bulk rates.

He explained that the yearbook was submitted for publication earlier than the deadline, but that "these difficulties were unforeseen and beyond our control."

ON THE HOLE A SUCCESS - Jim Grunenwalt, YSU golfer, holes out on the ninth hole at Avalon Lakes in the NCAA College Division golf meet. Rollins College won the team title and Gary McCord took medalist honors. YSU finished fifth.

Smile!

A photo contest open to all students enrolled at YSU during the summer quarter or the regular academic year will be sponsored by the Jambar this summer.

Black and white photographs of a favorite YSU scene should be submitted by August 15, 1970 to the Jambar, Youngstown State University, 39 Spring Street, Youngstown, Ohio 44503.

Judges will select the four best submitted, based on originality and quality. Winning applicants will receive certificates and their entries will be published in the last summer issue of the Jambar.

Entries become the property of the Jambar with the understanding that the Jambar may use them in one of its publications. Entries must have name, address, telephone, school, year, and major on the reverse side of the photograph.

Merchandising Chairman Named In Business School

Dr. George L. Almond, professor of marketing at the University of Maine, has been appointed professor of merchandising and chairman of the department at Youngstown State University, it was announced today by Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president. The appointment is effective July 1, 1970.

A native of Bloomfield, Mo., Dr. Almond received his bachelor of science degree, master of arts and Ph.D. degrees from the Ohio State University. His major area of specialization is marketing.

Dr. Almond has been a member of the faculty at the University of Maine since 1964, being promoted to full professor in 1966. He is presently chairman of the curriculum committee of the graduate school and chairman of the committee handling university publications. Prior to his present position, Dr. Almond was an assistant professor of marketing at the University of Cincinnati from 1959 to 1963, an assistant professor of business administration at the University of Rochester for one year, and an instructor in the College of Business and Public Service at Michigan State University.

Dr. Almond has been closely associated with the Federal Government, having served as an administrative officer with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Oak Ridge, Tenn., from 1946-48, and again at Oak Ridge and Portsmouth, O., from 1951-54. From 1963-64, he served as a general economist with the U.S. Engineers, Louisville, Ky.

Hunt Named Minnesota Assoc. Prof.

Dr. William H. Hunt, assistant professor of political science, has accepted the position of associate professor of political science at Southwest Minnesota State College.

Dr. Hunt was a subject of controversy after his contract for the 1970-1971 academic year was not renewed. Dr. Hunt stated that this was the only position he has been offered since his dismissal occurred so late in the year.

His plans on leaving are indefinite since the necessary housing and facilities have not been settled.

CAMPUS NOTES

December Grads

December graduates, who have not received their senior sheet are asked to go to their individual schools for evaluation and an "Intention to Graduate" form. Delay may postpone your graduation.

YAF Meets

YSU's chapter of the Young Americans For Freedom will meet at 5 p.m. this Saturday at the Pollock House to elect next year's officers. All members are asked to attend.

Counseling Available

The YSU Counseling Center will remain open, through summer quarter. Available to all students during this period will be the interest tests which have been offered earlier this year.

Anyone interested should contact the Counseling Center in Ford Hall.

Mentors Available

Students who need assistance in their summer course work are encouraged to contact the Mentor Program Office in Ford Hall. This service is free to any student of the University.

Job Slump

As the nation's economy continues to suffer, Youngstown students are finding it increasingly difficult to obtain summer employment. The statistics are showing a 20% cut-back in available jobs since 1969 with small chance for change over the summer months.

It appears that the main source of puzzlement is why the jobs are suddenly unavailable to college students. We feel, along with many economic experts, that the war has been the outstanding force in driving our economy to the distressed condition that is now prevailing in the United States. If blame is to be placed, the Johnson administration would have to be the force which we hold responsible. It is traditional in economics that when a nation is involved in war, the economy shifts to a "guns" situation where the economy is geared to the military needs. During times of peace, a "butter" economy is in effect. This form of economy is centered around the domestic needs. President Johnson attempted to have both a "guns" and "butter" economy adjusting the economics to war abroad and peace at home. We believe that this is an unrealistic and unsuccessful way to channel the economics of a nation. The present crisis of unemployment "tight-money" and other recessionary attempts prove this to be true.

We believe that President Nixon must find a new and more suitable way to correct the economic mistakes of the Johnson administration. The methods being used by Nixon at this time are proving to be inadequate and incapable of returning the nation to economic stability. We are thus unable to see any change in the present unemployment problem until we see change in the present economic and political policies at home, and a trend towards cutting-back United States involvement in foreign nations while immediately ending the war in Southeast Asia.
