SPRING FEVER - When the thermometer rose to "spring like" temperatures this week, YSU students took advantage of the weather and engaged in outdoor activities. We wonder if scenes like this will ever be repeated as the inclement winter weather finally returned Thursday evening.

Decks improve parking situation

By John Lencyk
Staff Writer

The completion of the parking decks is "evidently changing the traffic patterns in the university area" according to Mr. Donald Schwartzmiller, supervisor of the parking lots.

"There's been an easing of congestion in the Wick Oval lot and the lines of cars waiting to get into other lots have decreased" said Mr. Schwartzmiller, in an interview Wednesday. He cautioned that the situation must still be studied.

In a week long check of the various lots, conditions have indeed improved. Mr. Fred Bartoletti, parking attendant at the Wick Ave. (Lot S-3), said that before the deck opened the line of cars waiting to get into his lot extended to the public library. "Now at the most there are only 6 or 7 cars waiting even at peak periods." The situation is still changing at present with the opening of a private parking enterprise Wednesday on land which was formerly part of S-3. Its effect on student parking is not yet known.

Mr. Joe Jennings, attendant at the Bryson Street lot (S-4) added that the total extent of the changing traffic situation "won't be known for awhile." Student preference, proximity to classes and force of habit were mentioned by Mr. Jennings as reasons why the older parking lots are still utilized and the parking decks are yet to be filled to their 1,250 car capacity.

The number of cars in the parking decks (S-7) has increased daily during the past week. Last Friday, the day after the official opening of the multi-million dollar structure, it held approximately 200 cars. On Monday and Tuesday a 50 to 100 car increase was noted.

The upward trend seemed to be definitely established on Wednesday as Mr. Horace Shotts, attendant (S-7), reported over 550 cars were housed in the decks. His feelings are that the parking decks will definitely see full service when the Technical and Community College begin expansion on the dirt lot (S-6) now adjacent to the decks. This lot is scheduled to close on March 6.

Cagers gain NCAA bid; will meet Gannon Tuesday

The Penguin cagers have accepted a bid to the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament this past Tuesday. "It is a little odd," said Coach Dom Rosselli after learning that his hoopsters will meet the Gannon College Knights for the third time this season in the Mid-East Regional tournament play-offs to start at 8 p.m., Tuesday in Akron. The winner of this game will meet Cheyney State Friday evening.

All six of the seniors (the "Super Six") were in tournament play two years ago when they bowed to Philadelphia Textile 79-52 in first round competition and then lost to Cheyney State 94-91 in the consolation contest. This is the 11th time that the Penguins have been in post season play. The furthest YSU has gone in tournament play was in the

Gov't seats, referendum on ballot Mon., Tues.

YSU students will elect 18 Student Council and 12 Senate representatives and vote on a referendum requesting President Albert L. Pugsley's resignation in student elections Monday and Tuesday.

Profiles of candidates running for both bodies may be found on page six.

The referendum, "Be it resolved that President Pugsley resign and/or retire at the end of the current calendar year," was a result of Monday's Council meeting.

President Pugsley yesterday had no comment.

Bill Jones, chairman of Student Council, said yesterday, "A yes vote on the Pugsley Resolution affirms the student's belief that a university must exist as a community which is sensitive to its people and expresses most urgently no confidence in Mr. Pugsley's performance in that area."

He continued, "While the framers of the resolution see little hope for change, a yes vote should not imply that that possibly doesn't exist. It's simply the most democratic means we have to make known a belief which affects the welfare of so many people."

Voting booths will be set up in Room 103 of the Lincoln Business Building, in the lobby of the Engineering Science Building and in the Kilcawley Hall breezeway, according to Skip Davis Student Council elections committee chairman. Students may vote from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 5 to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Each student must present a student I.D. card with a current sticker affixed to it and one other identification card. A driver's license, social security card, or charge card will be acceptable, Davis said.

Deep Purple and Buddy Miles Band set for concert

A concert with Deep Purple and the Buddy Miles band on April 9, at 8 p.m. at Struthers Fieldhouse highlight upcoming activities sponsored by Student Council.

The concert will be opened by recording artists, Atlanta, who are presently touring with the groups. Buddy Miles, who was ranked in the top ten list of drummers by Playboy for 1971, will perform several pieces which include "Changes" for which he is well known. On the same billing will be Deep Purple, who recorded "Hush" & "Kentucky Woman." Ian Gillian, lead singer for the group, was Christ in the rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar" will also appear with the group at Struthers.

Tickets for the Buddy Miles and Deep Purple concert are on sale now at the University ticket office. The office will be open during finals week and Spring Break with regular business hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Other events planned for Spring quarter is Spring Weekend activities. The theme for this year's weekend will be "Nostalgia." Events of the weekend may be curtailed considerably due to the planned closing of the large cafeteria due to construction of the Student Center. If construction moves ahead as planned the Major Events Committee of Student Government is planning to move the weekend dance to an off campus location.

Faculty Art Show

The YSU Faculty Art Show will open 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 4 at Butler Art Institute. Refreshments will be served and the Japanese film "U Rye-O" will be shown at 9 p.m. The show will run from March 4 to 26.

SCOPE Meeting

SCOPE, Students Committed to Other People, will hold an organizational meeting at 3 p.m., Tuesday, March 7 in room 222 of the Pollock House. All current members and anyone interested in joining the volunteer organization are urged to attend.

Drug Center Volunteers

Mr. Larry Conti, chairman of the board for the new Drug Center needs two male and two female students from YSU to volunteer services. The students will have the opportunity to live at the center. Anyone interested should contact Dr. Kiriazis in the sociology department.

Career Library

A Vocational and Careers library is available to all interested students at the counseling center located on the first floor of Ford Hall. Mrs. Mary Ann Dobrich, director of the Testing and Counseling Center, announced there will be a graduate student present on Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. to aid any student in need of assistance.

First inter-staff newspaper to be published on campus

The first inter-staff newspaper on campus, The YSU Reporter, will be published today Stuart Aubrey, Director of Personnel, reported today. The paper's circulation will be limited to the 430 full-time classified employees at YSU.

The Reporter is being put out by the University Relations Office free of charge. Mr. Aubrey is the acting advisor and editor. The majority of the articles will be written by staff members; however, there is a committee of contributing writers. Fifteen volunteer reporters wrote articles for the first issue.

The four-page paper will attempt to acquaint the staff with pertinent news. For example, it will contain articles on fringe benefits or pay raises. It will also include personal news notes such as births, deaths, marriages, new appointments, and retirements.

For the first year, the paper will be published quarterly and distributed on campus, but Mr. Aubrey hopes it will eventually become a monthly publication to be delivered at home via the mail. The paper is, in part, a result of several members of the staff requesting something of this nature. They feel it will be instrumental in bringing fellow employees together.

Mr. Aubrey commented that there is a lot of ground work yet to do, but he feels the paper is worthwhile project, and anticipates the YSU Staff Reporter will be successful.

Students collect food and clothing for flood victims

A small group of YSU students are contributing their time and services to collect relief for the flood victims of diaster-torn West Virginia and the Charles Shurtump Construction Co. has donated five trucks for delivering the goods this Sunday.

Over 90 people have died and more than 5,000 are believed homeless as a result of the flash flood which struck the West Virginia mining regions, Saturday afternoon, when a small dam broke unleashing the waters of Buffalo Creek.

Contributions of non-perishable foods, bedding, good clothing, boots, raincoats, soap, toilet articles and small furniture are being solicited from the sur-

Anyone wishing to donate items are asked to bring them to one of the following addresses: Alpine Ski Shoppe, 3800 Southern Blvd.; 89 Melrose Dr., Boardman; 1823 Volney Rd., Youngstown; 262 Richards Dr., Liberty; and the Sigma Sigma Sigma House on Bryson St. Local pick-up of items is available by calling 788-8134, 747-5002 or 788-5468.

AAUP, OEA send joint letter to Pugsley requesting election

A letter requesting an election date of April 10 to determine who should be the sole collective bargaining agent for the faculty was sent to President Pugsley and the Board of Trustees last week, announced Dr. Robert Hare, associate professor of English and chairman of the AAUP collective bargaining committee yesterday afternoon at an AAUP meeting.

The joint letter was signed by Dr. Esther Niemi, associate professor of economics and president of the local chapter of the AAUP and Dr. Bhagwati Poddar, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology and president of the YSU chapter of the OEA.

The key speaker at yesterday's AAUP meeting was Dr. Faud K. Suleiman, Executive Director of the Ohio Conference of the AAUP who spoke on collective bargaining.

Dr. Suleiman noted that all the state universities in Ohio are looking to YSU because it is probable that Youngstown will be the first university in the state to obtain collective bargaining for the faculty. There is no law in Ohio regarding collective bargaining for faculty members and what happens in Youngstown could set a precedent for the entire state.

Dr. Suleiman said that such universities as Wright State are waiting in the wings for action at YSU and the day after the Board of Trustees approves collective bargaining, if they do so this year, their AAUP will probably request that the faculty there be given the right to bargain collectively.

Speaking on why the AAUP should be preferred over other bargaining agencies, Dr. Suleiman said that "man for man" the AAUP has more talent and ability to bargain well than any other agency.

He noted the AAUP's long tradition of protecting academic freedom and promoting on faculty sharing in decision-making would be non-negotiable items.

Dr. Suleiman believes that an important aspect of collective bargaining is the maintenance of professional dignity. By having an agency to bargain collectively for him, it would save the professor the need to beg for salary increases himself, said Dr. Suleiman.

YSU sponsors seminar on careers here Saturday

There will be a seminar on career opportunities in computer and engineering technology presented by YSU beginning 9 a.m., Saturday, March 11 on campus.

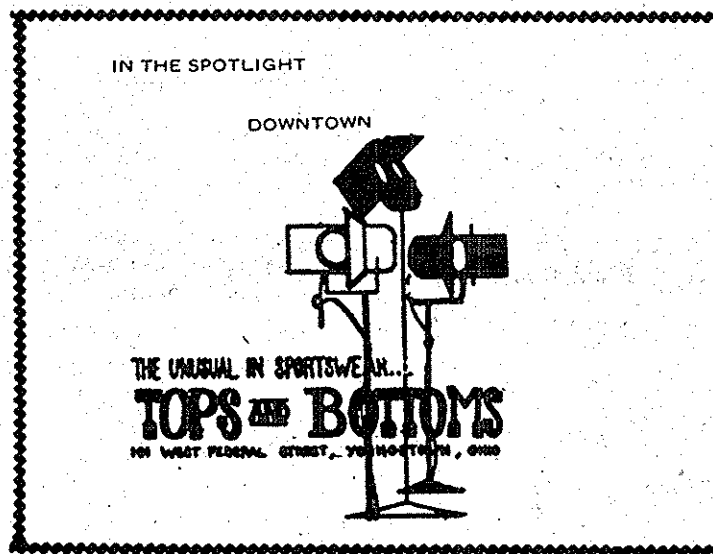

The seminar for high school students, parents and high school teachers, will open with registration at the Kilcawley Student Center at 9 a.m.

The day will include speeches by Dr. Nicholas Paraska, dean of the Technical and Community College, President Albert Pugsley, Youngstown Mayor Jack C. Hunter, Dr. J. Phillip Richley, Director of Highways for Ohio, and Dr. Victor A. Richley, chairman of the department of engineering technology.

There will be demonstrations in civil, computer, electrical, mechanical and metallurgical laboratories.

The day will conclude with informal discussions with university and industrial personnel.

'Five Times Around the Sun' topic for planetarium anniversary show

"Five Times Around the Sun" will be the subject of the last YSU planetarium show of the year. The show will celebrate the fifth anniversary of the planetarium with a potpourri of astronomical entertainment.

The audience will view the sky from the North Pole and the spectacle of the Northern Lights, after which they will be transported to South America to see the stars and constellations of the Southern Hemisphere.

Featured in this special anniversary show will be the introduction of several new projectors, one which shows the sky as it would appear if the eyes were sensitive to radio waves. This projector was developed at the YSU planetarium and is the only radio sky projector in the world.

The planetarium showings will be the following dates and times: 2 p.m., Thursday, March 9; 8 p.m., Friday, March 10; 2 and 8 p.m., Saturday, March 11; 8 p.m.,

Friday, March 17; 2 and 8 p.m., Saturday, March 18; 8 p.m., Friday, March 24; and 2 and 8 p.m., Saturday, March 25. Reservations to any of the showings may be made by calling the planetarium 747-1492, Ext. 406, between 1 and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday. There is no admission charge but due to the limited seating capacity reservations must be made.

President of Indian group speaks at Kiwanis meeting

Jitendra Shah, a senior metallurgy student and president of the India Association of YSU, spoke before the North Side Kiwanis last Monday at the 20th Century Restaurant.

Shah's speech, entitled "India After Independence," dealt with the governmental heads in India and the part the youth are beginning to take in political affairs.

He pointed out that India's youth show a "strong desire to enter the fields of engineering and science and the government is encouraging youth to seek education in their areas." However, he also feels that it is hard to really understand the feelings and attitudes the young people hold.

Shah also talked about the caste system in India which is being abolished through education. In his own personal experience in job-seeking in India, Shah said he did not find discrimination or much conflict because of his religion.

Volunteers needed to help direct summer program

The Lutheran Services Brethren Volunteers need college-age people to work for two weeks as directors of summer activities for the South Side Summer Day Camp Program, and are asking YSU students who are interested to apply.

Pattie Williams, who is coordinating the effort, said the program will run for 12 weeks during the summer, but since the work will be unpaid, they are only asking students to work one or two weeks.

Volunteers will work directly with inner-city children and high school age counselors.

Events include overnight camping, field trips, arts and crafts, drama, swimming, films, and all sports. Hot meals will be provided.

Anyone interested should contact Miss Williams at the Lutheran Services, St. Luke's Church, 104 Evergreen Ave. or call 788-2472 no later than April 1.

Cagers

against the University of Pittsburgh as they went down to defeat 82-66 last Tuesday evening in Pittsburgh before some 2,600 fans. At least 1,200 of those fans were Penguin rooters.

Bill McMeans led the scoring for the Pens with 24 points, followed by Ron Smith with 19 points, and Billy Johnson, who was all over the court in his usual style, with ten points.

The Penguins played very well as they worked in their shots for 42.9% and were 75% from the charity stripe. Pitt went wild in the second half in their field goals as they shot 56.3% total and 80% from the foul line.

The Panthers stole the ball twice and made three 22 footers in succession to put the Pens out of the game in the final few minutes. It was chancey round-ball for the Panthers as they rarely worked the ball to the basket. YSU was the better team Tuesday in finesse all through it didn't show in the outcome.

Concert

Wilson shows will be appearing with rock and roll/rock group, Sha Na Na. Sha Na Na appeared at Woodstock and will perform at the concert. Negotiation on the Sha Na Na contract is taking place now and should be finalized by the end of the quarter.

The Buddy Miles-Deep Purple Concert will not be held in the new Beeghly building because of administrative problems. Student Council is investigating the possibility of having the spring concert there, but they don't feel that auditorium will be free for non-academic use.

The carnival for the weekend will be held on Saturday evening as in the past with plans to encourage more groups to participate. Due to the financial loss encumbered with the concert with Ike & Tina Turner, Idora Park will not be rented this year. Declining student interest is also was a factor in the decision to eliminate Idora Park as the location for the activities.

On March 10 the movie "Catch 22," based on the novel by Joseph Heller will be shown in Strouss Auditorium starting at 8 p.m. and will be shown only once that evening to the seating capacity of Strouss Auditorium which is 500 people. Admission is free to any student, faculty and staff who present their I.D. card.

Parking

Mr. Schwartzmiller concluded that "it will only be a matter of time before the parking decks are filled and I'm glad to hear that already some students are changing their parking habits." With the changing patterns "the students will no longer have to arrive on campus an hour early just to find parking vacancies," Swartzmiller added.

Your Move

The referendum calling for President Pugsley's resignation placed on next week's student elections' ballot clearly calls for a response from each YSU student.

Council members themselves have admitted that this gesture was, at least in part, intended to draw attention to the issues on which they have not received satisfactory response from the president. Admittedly, there are many and most of these are valid and deserve positive action from the administration. Why is there no doctor on campus? Why was the transfer of funds for the day care center and the Cooperative Campus Ministry Free Clinic refused? Why was there a negative response on the request for the installation student "courtesy phone" in the Kilcawley lobby?

All these issues and many more could have been placed on the referendum ballot for student consideration. Council chose to ignore this step which would have permitted them to present to President Pugsley and his administration a sampling of student opinion which he could not, in good conscience ignore.

Student Council calls itself a representative body but how often have they bothered to garner the opinions of their constituents? Their efforts last fall in taking a poll of the students were indeed laudable.

The issues which Council claims are of major importance except the bookstore were listed by less than 50 students on this poll, which, notably only 380 students participated in. Not a great sampling, indeed!

We do not dispute that a doctor on campus, a free clinic, day care center, courtesy phone and information on the budget and bookstore profits are services that YSU students deserve. The Jambar has editorialized in favor on nearly all of these issues in the past and still backs these views.

We stress here, as we did last Tuesday, that this grave action on the part of Student Council, asking for the resignation of the University President, was not the appropriate step. If Council wishes to see these proposals become reality; mustering support for these issues is the next logical step.

Council's power base is theoretically the student body. When Council can show they have the support of their constituents, and the administration refuses to seriously consider student proposals, then Council will have grounds to question the tenure of the university president.

We urge all students to acquaint themselves with their representatives and to familiarize themselves with the issues.

Letters to the Editor

Says Pugsley unfit as president

To the editor of the Jambar:

By calling for the resignation of President Pugsley the students have shown unusual courage. While many of us have talked about his unfitness to be president of this University, or any university, none had the boldness to confront the issue.

The issue of President Pugsley's retention should not be viewed only in the light of his specific actions cited by Mr. Jones and Mr. Simko, but also in the light of his abysmal performance in the last five years. His administration with all too willing assistance from lackeys in the faculty has been reactionary and oppressive. Far from promoting participation by the faculty and the students in the making of decisions which affect their lives, President Pugsley has consistently sought to centralize power in his own hands. A university is not a closed corporation, but this is how Pugsley has viewed the University. The corporate chieftains who sit on the Board of Trustees instead of restraining such arrogant use of power have rubberstamped every action of President Pugsley and his administration. This has to be stopped if this University is to ever become an outstanding institution of higher learning.

I applaud the students' call for President Pugsley's resignation. It deserves the support of us all. Sincerely,

Bhagwati P. K. Poddar
Assistant Professor of Sociology

Asks students to keep Caf clean

To the editor of the Jambar:

On Monday evening, signs were posted in the cafeteria containing the following messages: "Think About the Next Person, Clear Your Tray" and "Keep Your Cafeteria Clean, Return Your Tray." This new policy of self-bussing in the cafeteria was initiated by students, not the administration. It is an effort to show positive action by YSU students to do something to improve their campus. Please cooperate.

Health and Safety Committee

Calls Pugsley uncooperative

To the editor of the Jambar:

Monday's editorial entitled "Overkill" showed quite clearly that the editor has no understanding of the frustration and lack of cooperation Student Council has experienced in dealing with President Pugsley. My intent here, however, is not to defend Student Council. The important issue is whether or not President Pugsley is acting effectively as president of YSU. Is President Pugsley concerned about the welfare, safety, and convenience of the student body at YSU? He refuses to hire even a part-time doctor. This shows very clearly his amount of concern for student safety and welfare.

Our placement center is one of the worst in the state. This being so, in addition to current state of the economy, makes it nearly impossible for a YSU graduate to find a job. President Pugsley refuses to do anything to remedy this pathetic situation. Other state universities provide student services that we haven't even heard of!

President Pugsley refuses to allow Student Council establish a day care center despite the obvious convenience it would provide. He refuses to cooperate with faculty groups and Student Council in providing any comprehensive breakdown of the budget.

In general, he functions as though the student body doesn't exist. Monday's editorial stated that these were insufficient reasons to call for President Pugsley's resignation. I simply cannot understand this for it would seem that anyone who realizes the extent of Mr. Pugsley's non-responsiveness and refusal to consider the needs of students must certainly see that he is not the man we should want to act as president of this university.

Questions logic of 'Overkill'

To the editor of the Jambar:

Last Tuesday the readers of the Jambar were treated to a most valuable if not unique, educational privilege; the opportunity to encounter a piece of writing produced by a contaminated, if not condemned process of thought. Clearly evidencing this malady was the editorial entitled "Overkill."

As an assistance to those who wisely discarded this grotesque attempt at an editorial, I shall utilize some essential yet contextual passages as evidence of my allegation of mental contamination. The editorial stated that the President was not the "proper target" for Council's attempt to alter the "lack of cooperation and the inadequacies of the bureaucratic machinery." Extending this variety of "thought" would have us ceasing to elect our top government officials as they are not the proper "targets" for the government's failings, indeed perhaps trolls are. As former President Truman pointed out, the President is where the buck stops. Who better to indict than the man responsible?

Somewhat later in the editorial we are informed that Council ignored its "numerous faux pas." Are we to construe that the proper preface for every Council motion is a declaration of fallibility? I'm sure Council is willing if the administration would do likewise.

The Editor follows this bit of buffonery with the allegation that rescinding the penguin resolution evidences a fault in Council's representative nature. In our quest to understand the mentality behind this sophomoric comment, it is important to reflect on the reasoning exhibited in the fifth paragraph of the editorial. It states that Council at first passed; then, when widespread student opposition emerged, rescinded, the purchase of the penguin. Somehow the Editor feels that altering its position to reflect its constituents expressed desires does not exhibit Council's representative nature. Action that reflects the desires of others is the definition of repre-

Freshman Dave Burkholder, guard, said, "I think its great experience for a freshman to have the chance to play."

Other players on the roster such as Ron Beaver added, "We can win. If we play Akron and beat them we can beat any team in Evansville." Well, you summed it up Ron.

NCAA tourney inspires Pens to deliver comments

by Dan Dunmire
Sports Writer

Excitement is going to the NCAA tournaments and the Penguin hoopsters' enthusiasm alone may carry them to Evansville.

Billy Johnson, guard, senior, sums up how the Pens expect to do in the tournament. "We know we can win this one. When we were sophomores (speaking of the Super Six) we weren't sure of ourselves, now we know we can win and we are going to beat Gannon."

Ron Smith, forward, senior, said "we have a better team this year and a better chance to go all the way. If the team can play like we have been playing in the past few weeks we can go all the way."

Rich Denamen, forward, senior, stated, "I hope we make it to the finals in Evansville. I am getting married the day after so I hope we make it because it would make a great vacation."

Guard Chuck Montgomery, senior, feels that, "as sophomores we weren't ready. I think that we reached our peak right now. I hope we can face Akron again because we will beat them this time."

Jeff Skeeles, forward, senior, looked back through his college days and said, "Its been a good four years. This seems to be an

Gannon coach is confident team can 'do job' vs. Pens

"That's the way the tournament drawing went and you can't do anything about that," was the comment made by Coach Dave Markey of the Gannon College Knights yesterday as he felt that his team could "do the job" against the Penguins.

Even though Gannon was beaten twice by the Pens, Coach Markey felt cautiously confident that the third time would be the charm for his Knights.

Commenting on his team's performance last week he said, "We played Youngstown a week ago and I thought we had them then but they were able to bounce back. I am very impressed with them."

"I don't plan to do anything new. We will do what we do best and it is kind of late to try something different," Markey added.

Coach Dom Rosselli said yesterday, "It is the breaks of the game that determine the winner. Usually the winner is determined by the breaks in the last few minutes of a contest, like the Pitt game Tuesday night."

Coach Rosselli went on to say that breaks can be very funny and a couple of bad plays could turn a victory into defeat. Speaking about Gannon, he said, "We know each other and there will be a lot of tension in the game. We could have easily lost twice but we didn't. Now we must play like we did lose."

Catch YSU--

What's Next?

by Carl Basic

Earlier this week the Student Council apparently decided to see what they could do to shorten President Pugsley's visit here at YSU. This move took almost everyone on campus by surprise—except me.

There were a few hints that something like this was in the wind. This reporter overheard a conversation between two council members during which one told the other, "We have to get rid of the last of the three 'P's'. We've already gotten rid of Painter and Penguin."

That wasn't much of a hint. However, when a council member tried to put a classified ad in the Jambar, I became a bit suspicious. The ad read:

WANTED—One university professor. No qualifications except that politically he must be a member of the new Wisy-Washy. Apply in person Student Council office, Kilcawley Hall.

I may only be an undergraduate, but when I saw that ad I knew that something was up.

Now that council has made this unprecedented move, I wondered what was next. In order to find out what council's next move would be I visited with the Arch-chancellor of Council, Mr. Brillo Smith.

"Hello, Brillo. What is council going to do if President Pugsley is forced to resign?"

"We are going to party, man."

"No, I mean what will your next political move be."

"First, we are going to pass a bill providing tenure for council members and then allot ourselves salaries of $15,000 per quarter."

"Have you ever thought of running for congress?"

"No. After that we plan to secede."

"From the university?"

"No, from the union. We are going to take the campus and certain other essential areas of the Northside and form our own country. Anyone who comes to our country from the outside will have to pay exorbitant prices for parking and food. They will be treated as second class citizens and will not be able to question our executive decisions even though our decisions may affect them."

"This is beginning to sound familiar. You mentioned certain other essential areas of the Northside, what sort of essential areas?"

"Well, St. Elizabeth's, Sparkle Market, Marco Polo, the Hillside Grill and my apartment."

"I see, Brillo, but suppose the federal authorities decide they want YSU to remain in the union and try to force you back?"

"Do you really think that the federal government would waste an atomic bomb on YSU?"

"I don't know, there seems to be an awful lot of wasted things around here already. What benefits will accrue from secession?"

"Not many, but it will be a step in the right direction."

"What do you mean?"

"Maybe it will show some of the people around here what we already know to be fact: A man doesn't have to be a genius to run a university, or a country—any fool can do it."

"OK, Brillo. One last question, What will you call this new country of yours?"

"What else—'Northern Country'."

review Uriah Heep in concert

by Elrod Ponder

In the Greening of America Charles Reich said the youth culture communicates through its music, and nowhere has this been better evidenced than at last Wednesday's Uriah Heep concert at Stambaugh Auditorium. There was a unique feeling of communion among the two sellout crowds which was remarkable considering the fact Youngstown has always been a hotbed of apathy and disinterest.

What brought the people together was the music, and the music was just fantastic throughout. Youngstown's Brainchild opened the first show with an exciting display of instrumental versatility which really loosened-up the crowd and made everyone realize that this concert was going to be something special. In particular the playing of drummer Dave Freer and organist Ronnie Lee (who sounds a lot like Donny Hathaway) was superb, but guitarist Larry Paxton stole the show with a tuba solo on "Sugar Boogie" that has the audience standing on the seats and cheering deliriously. All the members sing excellently but the harmonies between Larry, Ode Cook, and bassist Bill Bodine were really surprising.

Unfortunately Uriah Heep couldn't quite get the sound-mixing right causing most of their vocals to be garbled and indistinguishable. However, the dazzling guitar antics of Mick Box more than compensated for the mechanical foul-ups. In performing their music the Heep expend a tremendous amount of energy and though the group has been touring for three months they put everything they had into Wednesday's two shows.

Most of the audience was unfamiliar with the group's music but everybody got off on the driving bass and drum work while the lead singer did some interesting things with the mikestand ala Rod Stewart. The crowd seemed to enjoy the song "Gypsy" more than anything else, so the group used its bass riff to lead into a smashing finale. The writer was personally unfamiliar with the group's material, most of which was similar to that of Humble Pie (which is to say it was just splendid), but what mattered was that the audience enjoyed and appreciated what the musicians were into and everybody had a good time.
