Football scrutinized by Senate investigation

by Pete Joy
Jambar Staff Writer

The curtailment or perhaps even the elimination of YSU's football program was discussed Friday, as the University Senate moved to investigate the future of campus football.

Sponsored by Kip Rondy, student Senate member from T&CC, the motion cited a lack of interest in the football program at YSU. Rondy estimated the cost of football at $100,000.

The committee created by this action is to be composed of an equal number of students and faculty not involved in the athletic program. A report from this committee is scheduled to appear on the Senate floor in March.

Dr. David Bertlesen, assistant Dean of Student Affairs, when questioned about this proposal responded, "Whether or not football should be eliminated, personally I find it hard to justify intercollegiate athletics from an academic perspective given the budget crunch."

Bertlesen continued that the public relations value of football is hard to show given the attendance at the games. As an alter-

Council sidelines motion on football expenditure

by Ann Bryson
Jambar Staff Writer

A move to petition for the transfer of football funds to the development of a post for a full-time doctor, day care center, and increased student employment on campus, marked yesterday afternoon's Student Council meeting, its first session of the quarter, and the first official meeting of new members.

This motion was decided to be held until next Monday's meeting, however, at which time Council will decide whether or not to send a letter to the Senate Committee on abolishing campus football. It was also suggested that a representative from the Athletic Council be invited to address Council so that both sides of the argument can be clarified before final action is taken.

Joan Kraynanski, Junior, A&S, who introduced the move, argued that football at YSU in the past "has been used as a public relations tool to attract more students. A day care center or a campus doctor can attract more people to the university than the football team can."

Kraynanski pointed out that such a move would help decide the direction of the university's austerity program already in its beginning stages, and urged that the need for football on campus be seriously considered by Council. According to Council President Skip Davis, the present football program utilizes approximately $169,000 which might be better channeled into other projects of more value to a greater number of students. The football program now directly benefits only 1% of the student body, or chiefly the members of the team.

It was also discovered just prior to the beginning of the new quarter that due to erroneous counting, Council had been short two members. New members selected are James Villani, Senior, A&S, and Bob Black, Junior, Engineering. Villani, who was present, was seated at yesterday's meeting. Black will be seated next week.

In other Council business, members passed a motion to draft letters to Ohio Senators and President Richard M. Nixon opposing the stepped-up bombing of targets in Southeast Asia.

Confusion over admission to university-sponsored films was also cleared up at yesterday's session. Rick Kost, Senior, Business, explained that any student with a validated I.D. card is allowed to bring one guest. This rule, however does not apply to any campus concerts.

Further business saw Council organize to poll all students in regards to their status as commuters or campus residents. The survey will be conducted in hopes that an accurate count of how many students living on or near campus will sway university officials in their decision of the need of a full-time doctor on campus.

Police storm New Orleans hotel; find no trace of rooftop snipers

by Austin Wilson
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS AP - Heavily armed police rushed a rooftop hotel bunker Monday afternoon in a search for snipers who killed six persons and wounded 17 others. But they found no trace of the gunmen who began shooting and burning more than 24 hours earlier, and the officers began combing the hotel.

At one point there was a report that one gunman was trapped in an air-conditioning duct, but a search turned up no one.

A police radio commander said after the assault on the bunker: "The roof is secure and there is nothing up there." Another policeman said officers would begin a floor-by-floor, room-by-room search of the hotel, which was evacuated earlier.

The officers climbed to the roof of the 18-story Downtown Howard Johnson Hotel, cautiously approached the concrete elevator shaft where the snipers were believed holed up and fired through a doorway.

Wielding axes, police forced open the door and other officers followed with repeated rounds of automatic fire.

There was no immediate indication that the fire was returned.

Three policemen fell, apparently hit in the legs by ricocheting bullets. None was believed seriously hurt.

About 10 feet from the elevator shaft lay the body of a sniper, killed Sunday by police marksmen who flew over the rooftop in a Marine helicopter. The flight by the helicopter was one of several made in an attempt to flush the gunmen out. The police remained clustered around the bunker for about 15 minutes. They forced open two hatches atop the roof of the shaft, firing more shots into the bunker.

Police appeared perplexed by the disappearance of the snipers from the rooftop. There also was confusion about just how many snipers remained alive.

"Where in the hell could he have gone?" asked Capt. Edward LaPorte. "They were there at 4 o'clock this morning."

Events Subcommittee recommends innovations

"We are looking for programs with variety, changes that students would be interested in," summarized Dr. Daniel J. O'Neill, chairman of the Special Events Subcommittee of the University Senate, when questioned about the future of the Artist Lecture Series and related events.

O'Neill, assistant professor of speech and dramatics, outlined three general proposals dealing with the future of YSU special events. The first suggestion is to attain matching grants to provide additional non-university funds for the Series. Possible sources of these monies are the Ohio Arts Council and the S & H Foundation, as well as like organizations.

N. Vietnam forms anti-aircraft units in expectation of further bombing SAIGON AP — North Vietnam announced Monday that hundreds of anti-aircraft units have been formed by the home guard and militia in the Hanoi and Haiphong regions, the main targets of last month's massive U.S. air raids.

The announcement, broadcast by Hanoi radio, suggested the North Vietnamese are expecting new air attacks north of the 20th Parallel if the peace talks just resumed in Paris break down again. President Nixon stopped the bombing north of the parallel on Dec. 30, in a step obviously tied to resumption of the peace negotiations.

Radio Hanoi said the new anti-aircraft units were being formed to "deal more stunning blows to the U.S. air marauders." The official government radio added that "more artillery units have been set up in Hai Hung and Ha Bac provinces" — west and northeast of Haiphong — by militia forces.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command announced that five American tactical fighter bombers accidentally bombed Da Nang air base Monday, resulting in injuries to 10 Americans and a South Vietnamese base guard.

Dana will present Trombone Choir and Horn Quartet

The YSU Dana Concert Series will present the Trombone Choir and the Horn Quartet in recital tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Dana Recital Hall.

The Trombone Choir is under the direction of Vern Kagarice, assistant professor of music, while the Horn Quartet is directed by William Slocum. Members of the Trombone Choir are Richard Howenstine, Jr., Ronald Krauss, Jeffery Howell, Steve Dalrymple, Jim Troup, Joyce Roth, Daron Wollam, Jim Masters, John Mahin, Jim Berlyoung, William Forrester and Steve Logan. Horn Quartet members are Gordan Campbell, Charles Little, William Rasey and Niki Zito.

cluded eight servicemen and two civilians, the Command said. The accidental attack damaged about half a dozen U.S. AC119 twin-engine gunships and a helicopter. Four 40-foot fuel tanks also were destroyed in the bombing.

Earlier, the command had reported that the explosions that rocked the air base shortly after dawn were the result of an enemy rocket attack. Seven hours later, that report was withdrawn.

The command then announced that an investigation showed that five Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers, "flying above a heavy overcast, accidentally dropped 34 500-pound bombs at Da Nang air base."

The command said it was not known what caused the accident, which still is being investigated, but other sources said it was the result of pilot error apparently compounded by the overcast skies. The intended target was suspected North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions near Da Nang.

Student center may house art works---

Kilcawley rejected as gallery site

A proposal by the Student Art Association (SAA) to establish a student art gallery in Kilcawley basement has been rejected by Nick Leonelli, Director of Campus Planning.

Leonelli met last week with Russel Maddick, assistant professor of art and SAA advisor, and John Naberezny, Chairman of the Art department, to discuss the problem. They came away from the meeting agreeing that such a project is not feasible at the present time.

Leonelli cited several reasons for preventing the art gallery. From becoming an immediate reality. "It is better to keep the SAA out of Kilcawley basement for the time being because in five or six months they will have space in the new student center," he said.

The Kilcawley student center addition will have space for student artworks on the first floor, and will feature an area for both paintings and sculptured works. The lighting and general facilities, Leonelli said, will be much better than it would be in Kilcawley basement.

"Three years ago the SAA was given that space for a student art gallery and it didn't work out. Also there is the additional problem of the laundry which is used by students living in the Kilcawley dorm," he added.

Leonelli also said that if the art gallery was present at Kilcawley, it would present various security problems. "For example," he said, "who would be liable if an artwork was stolen or destroyed?"

Leonelli further backed his case by pointing out that the SAA and the art department haven't pressed the issue because "they realize that it's the wrong thing to do." He also said that by the time Kilcawley basement could be fixed up properly, its time of use would be greatly limited.

ACTION recruits volunteers in community-wide interviews

"We try to create a lack of the need to be there," remarked ACTION representative John Chapman, who will be recruiting for Vista and the Peace Corps at the Placement Office (located in the Administration Annex) from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, January 12, and Monday, January 15.

Chapman will be working with Mike Feeney, a former Peace Corps volunteer in Tunisia, in the interview operation which will include a community wide recruitment drive on January 13 and 14, at the Voyager Inn from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

A Vista volunteer for 1 1/2 years on a Cheyenne reservation in Montana, Chapman characterized Vista and the Peace Corps as a viable alternative to the present scarce job market situation. Though participants in these two programs are furnished with a living allowance, Chapman emphasized this type of work as, "providing persons with the opportunity to realize the full potential of their skills and knowledge."

Vista works in the poverty communities of 49 states. Requested by the individual communities, Vista sends in workers to, as Chapman described, "listen to the people and help achieve what is needed." Working with community leaders, volunteers help set up various programs, such as food co-ops, medical clinics and small businesses. Opportunities exist in Vista for people with most types of educational backgrounds, and particularly those with business or nursing experience.

Volunteers for Peace Corps

presently work in 61 developing third world countries. Especially seeking people with technical skills, construction experience, or agricultural backgrounds, the Peace Corps provide volunteers, "To work for the countries," concluded Chapman.

These two agencies, funded by the Federal government, provide volunteers with language instruction when needed, or appropriate training to prepare workers for their jobs. It takes up to 6 months to process applications, and Chapman urges students who may wish to become a part of this program to schedule an interview at Mr. Minotti's office in the Administrative Annex.

CCM offers group therapy; encourages self-examination

Opportunities for personal exploration and growth are now being offered by Cooperative Campus Ministry in the Newman Center Conference room.

The program is under the supervision of Dr. Straughan L. Gettier, minister-at-large of the First Unitarian Church. Group leaders for the program are Shelia McDonald, a former clinical associate of the Suicide Prevention Service of Marion County in Indianapolis, and Suzie Roth, a former graduate of YSU. Both McDonald and Roth are members of the International Transactional Analysis Association.

Transactional groups are comprised of at least four and not more than eight people. Roth remarked that differing from psychoanalysis the therapist is actively involved in this program.

McDonald is the group leader of two new sessions to be held on Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and alternate Wednesday evening sessions from 7:00 p.m.-10 p.m. She characterized the program as one wherein the individual defines his own goals and discovers his own problems. Persons wishing to enter either of her groups should phone McDonald at 758-7039.

Roth is presently the leader of a continuing group, meeting on alternate Tuesday evenings from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Roth stated that the purpose of transactional analysis is to help a person effect change in himself and not adjustment. She illustrated this point with the example of a person who may use 25% of his total energy being nervous. The program in this case is designed to enable the individual to free this non productive energy for productive utilization. Those desiring to enroll in the Tuesday evening group may call Roth at 759-2003.

Drop Football

At Friday's University Senate Meeting a motion was passed forming a committee to study the viability of the university's football expenditure. Student Council will consider a motion at the next meeting to petition the transference of football funds elsewhere. These actions certainly merit support.

Estimates of the football budget range between $100,000 and $300,000 per year. This bloated budget is difficult to justify, especially in view of the financial problems that are plaguing our university. YSU cannot afford the luxury of a football team that draws few fans and brings little to YSU besides a few more students on football scholarships. We are still in need of a functional job placement center, a day care center, a doctor on campus, and many other more relevant items. This money could also be used for hardship scholarships for those who cannot afford rising college tuitions.

We must also be concerned with football's value as related to a university, and its supposed purposes. The myth that football builds character has been destroyed by many knowledgeable social scientists and psychologists. This point is amplified by Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes, a man whose very actions serve to compromise and contradict the values which he proselytizes on the summer lecture circuit.

The view that football is a microcosm of society is equally as absurd, for if the rampant violence, injuries, and man to man battles of football occurred in the streets of Youngstown, the participants would spend a few years making license plates.

These objections, along with the mindless, fawning form of patriotism exhibited at every football game, serve to supplement the serious economic objections to YSU football raised earlier.

The continuation of the football program at YSU is not in the interests of the student body, as a whole. The program seems to run contrary to the goals of higher education as we perceive them.

The university is faced with a fourth down, ten yards to go, regarding its football program. We suggest that YSU punt.

funds are underway.

The second recommendation is to link cultural events directly with an educational experience. For example, a famous pianist would be hired to perform with Dana students or a talented actor or actress would engage in thesbian activities with those students so oriented. This would, O'Neill insists, be "an added dimension to our program."

A third proposition is to combine the Student Speaker Fund with the Artist Lecture Series to provide some sort of joint "University Forum Series." To accomplish this, the Special Events Subcommittee is working in cooperation with the Student Speaker Fund committee headed by Judie Krygowski, a senior in Education. O'Neill claims that this endeavor is to act "as an adjunct to our present program." It will not enlist celebrities but rather academicians to address the campus on salient points within their respective fields.

"We are in the planning stage," claimed O'Neill when quizzed about the progress made in implementing the above proposals. There are currently two ad hoc committees studying the prospects. The first was formed to deal with Ohio Arts Council grant possibilities, and is headed by Dr. William Binning, assistant professor of political science. The second ad hoc committee concerning the joint University Forum Series employs Krygowski and Patricia Bleidt, assistant dean of student affairs.

"With the current economic pinch, we should combine resources in all imaginable ways to serve all interests in the university community...not just the faculty, and not just the students," explains O'Neill, "We are trying to discover where funds are available and then to use these funds effectively."

WYSU starts thirteen week series called 'Black and Unknown Bards'

WYSU-FM (88.5 mh), the fine arts radio station, started the broadcast of a thirteen week series of programs on black literature in America last Saturday.

The series called "Black and Unknown Bards" from a poem by James Weldon Johnson, was written and narrated by Sr. Mary Conroy, O.S.U., limited service faculty member at YSU and General Superior of the Ursuline Sisters of Youngstown, from Sister Mary's classes. A native of Youngstown and a graduate of Ursuline High School, Sister Mary received a bachelor of science in education degree from YSU, a master of arts degree in English from Marquette University and a Ph.D. in English from Notre Dame University. She also conducted research at Yale University on the James Weldon Johnson Collection of Negro Literature.

Prior to joining the YSU faculty in 1968, Sister Conroy was a teacher, dean of girls, and registrar at Cardinal Mooney High School for six years and a teacher at Ursuline for two years.

She specializes in 20th Century American Literature and American Negro Literature and her dissertation was on "Claude McKay: Negro Poet and Novelist."

Produced under a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the series begins with an introduction entitled "Folk Stories and Spirituals," then January 13 "Early Black Writers" from the American colonial period; January 20, "Slave Narratives" by Frederick Douglas and others; January 27, "Paul Lawrence Dunbar;" February 3, "Charles Waddell Chesnut;" February 10, "Background to a Harlem Renaissance;" February 17, "Jean Toomer's 'Cane';" February 24 "Claude McKay's 'Harlem Dancer';" March 3, "Claude McKay's 'If we must die';" March 10, "The 1930's of Brown and Bontemps;" March 17, "The 1940's and 1950's - Richard Wright and Ralph Ellison;" March 24, "Modern Black Poets;" and March 31, "Recent black Drama."

An historical and literary study, the program uses narration with illustrations read by students native Bertlesen favors limiting the traveling radius of the team to lower the expense of having a football team.

Vice President of Academic Affairs Dr. Earl Edgar, presiding over the Senate in the absence of President Pugsley, handled the lengthy debate on the proposal to establish a new degree, Bachelor of Science in Applied Science. Though Senate members raised questions to technical errors in the proposal's wording the motion to create this new degree passed. As a result students of the Technical and Community College will be enabled to continue at YSU and receive a four year degree

A proposal by the Academic Affairs Committee to increase the length of time a student may change a course from credit to audit to the end of the eighth week failed. Considered by many Senate members to be a "cop-out", the vote expressed their attitude that the real issue lies in the Pass/Fail, Credit/No Credit proposal scheduled to appear on the Senate floor this February.

In other Senate action, a motion by the Curriculum Committee to add more courses caused some controversy.

A move was initiated by Dr. William Swan, faculty Senate member and chairman of Foundations of Education, to delete from the list of courses Psychology 620; Women: A Psychological study. Though Swan based his motion on the grounds that the course was discriminatory, in Swan's words, "against men and those people not sure of their sexes," the motion failed.

Rifle team blasts Dayton; Gene Ellis leads conference

The YSU Rifle Team defeated Dayton University 1324-1090 in their fourth win of the season, narrowing the gap between YSU and league leading Gannon College.

Junior marksman Gene Ellis scored 280 points, giving him an unofficial average of 269 points per match, placing him in first place in the Lake Erie Intercollegiate Rifle Conference, a first for YSU in four years.

Other team members' scores were: Captain Ron Kline, 268; Chuck Ramser, 261; Lane Galey, 261; Rich Adams, 258; Paul Wytko, 257; Rick Blomstrom, 245; Dave Daugherty, 236; Russ Semchee, 236; Tom Owens, 235; Ed Fill, 221.

Dayton's highest score was Mark Kammer's 259. Their loop record is now 0-3.

The Penguins opening match of the second round of league play will be a handicap tournament with John Carroll University on February 2.

YSU swimteam downs Ind. in opening meet at Beeghly

Youngstown State won 12 of 13 events as the Penguin swimmers defeated Indiana University of Pennsylvania, 70-41, Saturday in the inaugural meet at the Beeghly Physical Education Center.

The dual meet, first of the season for both teams, was highlighted by Keith Landsness' record breaking performance in the 200-yard individual medley.

Landsness, a freshman from Akron Firestone, was clocked at 2:10.4, beating the old YSU mark by five-tenths of a second. The former record holder, teammate Tom McGee, a junior, swam the distance in 2:10.9 last season.

YSU's Dick Tatsch, a senior from Alliance, was the only double winner in the meet, winning the 200-yard freestyle at 1:56.9 and the 100-yard freestyle with a 51.4 clocking.

Dan Fritz earned Indiana's only first, in the 200-yard backstroke.

Coach Bob Leahy, pleased with the performance of the Penguin swimmers, will prep them for Friday afternoon's meet at Thiel.

IN WITH THE NEW — Student Council president Skip Davis contemplates new business in Council's first meeting of the quarter.

Jaworski completes 2 TD passes as North bows to South 33-30

From the television came "now at quarterback, Ron Jaworski, of Youngstown State, Ohio." It was a big moment for YSU and local football as "Rifle Ron" started the 2nd quarter of the Senior Bowl, in Mobile, Alabama, at the helm of a North squad composed of great college football stars from the entire nation.

And it was an even bigger moment than anticipated since Ron accounted for two 48-yard touchdown passes and two drives that culminated in field goals. His quarterbacking accounted for 20 of the North's 30 points, in a losing effort, as the South came out on top, 33-30.

Tony Adams, Utah State, started at the North quarterback slot, but Buffalo Bills' Coach Lou Saban, coaching the North all-stars had seen enough of Jaworski in practice last week to give both quarterbacks equal playing time in the game. Adams played the 1st and 3rd quarters, Jaworski the 2nd and 4th.

Jaworski's two TD passes came in the 4th period, after the North had trailed, 16-30, at the end of the 3rd stanza. But for a couple of penalties and time running out, it was very possible that Jaworski would have pulled off the win.

"Rifle Ron" completed 12 of 25 passes for 195 yards. Adams recorded 3 of 12 for only 31 yards. Ron's coolness under fire, he had to really scramble 4 times, and his quick and crisp pass release had to impress the professional scouts that were attending in abundance. And, of course, that Saban played Jaworski equally with Adams, the nation's leading offensive player, proves that Ron was certainly not out-classed by the stars from the 'bigger schools.

In fact, opinion of local football followers and even of one of NBC's announcers during the game gives Ron a decided edge over the other three all-star quarterbacks.

This is the biggest honor ever accorded a Penguin griddier, and it is not too far-fetched to anticipate Ron's bringing even more honor and notice to YSU in the future.

A civilian pilot's license for a few good college men.

We pay.

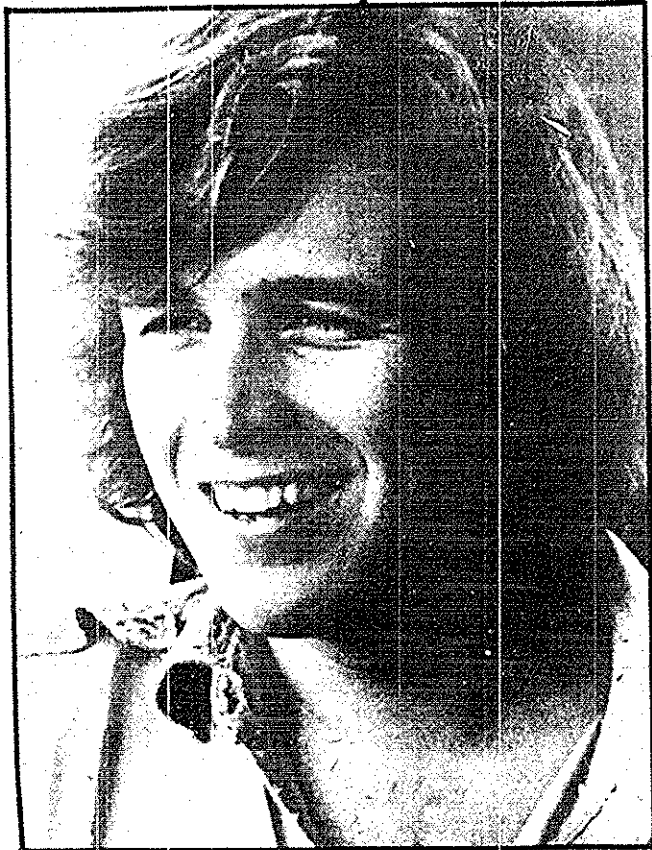

Learn to fly while you're still in college. The Marines will pay the bill— about $900 worth— of lessons— for qualified members of the Platoon Leaders Class. You'll also be earning a Marine-officer's commission through PLC summer training at Quantico, Virginia. And after graduation, you may be one of the few good men who go on to Marine pilot or flight officer training. Get the details from the Marine officer who visits your campus.

Penquins topple Alliance in best effort of the season

It seemed like old times Saturday, as the Penguin roundballers blasted Alliance College, 74-61, for the 2nd win of the year. The Birds hit Alliance with excellent shooting, good defense and perhaps their best team effort of the season as they measured the Eagles for the 2nd time this year.

The most important factor of the contest was the strong and consistent rebounding by the Penguins, a factor missing in their earlier six games.

Billy Wells, with 20 points and 15 rebounds, had his best game of the season and showed his winning form of last year.

Phil Gaston, with 16, and Dave Burkholder, with 15, followed Wells in the scoring picture. Gaston also gathered in 13 rebounds.

Ron Romine, returning after being ineligible for the first quarter, filled in for the injured John Reed and the Birds began to show fine floor-play and teamwork. Romine's experience will be a big asset to the Birds in the future.

Playing very little, due to an injured ankle, Bill McMeans showed some good defensive work against the Eagles' big men.

The Birds will host Cannon Wednesday night, hoping to pick up another win and to remain in the winning column.
