Sports Editor Lauds Team

Although the NAIA national basketball tournament will reach its zenith tomorrow at Kansas City, we back at the University have yet to recover from the thrill and the shock which we felt as the Penguins defeated College of Steubenville and earned the right to represent Ohio in the national event.

The memory of that game will always bring back a feeling of tension and pride; tension because of the closeness of the game and pride because of the way in which our players conducted themselves, whether they would have won or lost.

For the first time in the history of this institution, the pride of having a team represented in a national basketball tournament is realized. The taste of victory is sweet; but the rewards are even sweeter, and regardless of what the Penguins did or will do in Kansas City, we back home are proud of them and Coach Dom Rosselli.

As Coach Rosselli has stated repeatedly, the success of the team has been TEAMWORK. At any time during the tournament playoffs someone could have played the crowds, and the urge to "steal the show" was ever present, but the feeling of the boys, the "ATTITUDE" as Rosselli calls it, was one of cooperativeness and of team play. That is how the Penguins made it to Kansas City.

The announcement of Dom Rosselli as Ohio College Coach of the Year, as released by the Columbus Dispatch, and the added reward of being named Ohio NAIA Coach of the Year, by the eleven teams represented in the Ohio NAIA, makes us as happy as it does Dom. "It couldn't have happened to a nicer guy", is the old saying, and it fits in here well. Rosselli deserves the awards. He has just completed his 13th season as basketball coach, and oddly enough NO. 13 was his lucky season.

The differences between coaches was evident during the final game of the District 22 playoff between Steubenville and Youngstown. As the game reached the final and critical stage and the lead bounced back and forth with each basket scored, the tension became nerve wracking.

Coach Kuzma of Steubenville was up pacing the floor. He argued with every decision against his Barons. At one stage his protesting almost earned him a quick shuffle out the doors.

On the other side of the floor sat Rosselli, calm, worried; yes, but still level-headed and hopeful. After the buzzer ended the game and the players swarmed Rosselli, then he let go the tension and anxiety in that moment of thundering applause and uninhibited joy displayed by the 3,000 fans gathered there.

And then Kansas City and the national playoffs. At Kansas City the Penguins stayed at the Aladdin Hotel. They left Youngstown last Saturday and were scheduled to play their first game on Tuesday of this week.

The Campus Voice

By Patty Jo O'Brien

Everyone has heard the phrase, "I'm working my way through college to gain a lot of knowledge." Parents especially, feel that this is an advantage to the student. However, students have different feelings. Following is the opinion of five students who are in this classification:

Dorothy Daley, Sophomore

"I feel that a person receives a feeling of satisfaction in being independent of financial aid from my parents. Working while going to college helps a person to become responsible. One acquires a sense of value concerning money and to spend their money sensibly."

Bill Birmingham, Sophomore

"I think that working 40 hours a week and going to school full time is a disadvantage to the student. A full time job takes too much time and energy, thus causing a student to become discouraged and over-burdened. Assignments fall behind and the student finally drops out of school. In most cases, the student never completes his college education."

John Andreyko, Junior

"Working your way through college has its advantages. A student who pays his own tuition realizes that his efforts will all be in vain if he does not apply himself. However, the matter of time consumed in working and the pressure of always trying to find time to prepare for studies are basic disadvantages."

Bob O'Neil, Senior

"It is an advantage for a student to have his own money. Working while going to college also gives the student a sense of responsibility. When one knows that he can depend on a salary, he feels secure. Along with security a person develops confidence. He takes a pride in working for something worthwhile, such as a college education."

Marty Moran, Junior

"I feel that my job will give me a better understanding and appreciation of the career I intend to follow. Along with the experience I'm gaining, I am learning a lot about the kind of people I will be associating with in the future. I also enjoy my work."

Deadline Is April 1 For HORIZON Copy

By Dick Hixson

Material to be considered for publication in this semester's Horizon must be submitted to the editorial staff by April 1, it was announced this week. The literary magazine will be on sale on campus the first of May.

Prospective authors are again reminded that the type of creative writings the staff is looking for are short stories, critical essays, poems and literary criticism. The subject matter is left solely to the writer.

Students, regardless of class rank, university school or major field of study are invited to submit their writings. Contribution boxes are situated in the library and main building near the entrance to Strauss Auditorium.

All material will be reviewed by an eight-member staff, including Richard Hixson, Keith Scott, Peg Tiller, Jean McClure Kelly, Sam Sanfilippo, Mary Jean Hodor and advisors, Dr. Kelsie B. Harder and Dr. Jayne Harder.

THAT DOES IT!

Lawyer: What's to be different about this will?

Mr. Henpecked: I'm leaving everything to my wife, providing she marries again within the year. I want someone to be sorry I died!

ENGINEER'S ANGLES

By Two Engineers

Deciding to give up studying for tests and doing lab reports, we return to the crypt to see what's going on in the lower confines of this illustrious edifice.

First of all, we would like to extend our thanks and congratulations to everyone who helped make our open-house a huge success.

We understand that some of the men forgot their talks on the apparatus or setup they were in charge of when those fast stepping high school girls came through. Maybe some of the guys aren't as dead as they let on to be.

Dance Is Planned

We have just received a report that the O.S.P.E. Dinner Dance is coming up in the near future. We will have full details on it in the next issue.

After the reports of last year's fiasco, we're sure all you red-blooded engineers will want to put on your best bib and tucker, and attend.

It seems that last year a couple of the boys were seen doing a hot jitterbug. Now this doesn't seem too bad; but, what were their dates supposed to do meanwhile?

Clean It Up

We have been noticing lately, the condition of some of the classrooms. Come on you guys, what do you say?

Let's throw those cigarette and cigar butts in the wastebasket, or other convenient receptacles placed there for that purpose.

The cleaning women are working to give us clean rooms to study and hold class in, let's give them a hand.

We understand there is a certain 'electrical' by the name of George who is getting ready for the Fourth of July. He was seen recently shooting sparks into the air. Tremendous display you had there, lad.

Surprise, Dean Charignon! We are not going to be nasty this issue. The reason for this is that we wish to graduate sometime. So, we've decided to lay off for awhile.

—This one comes from the University of Minnesota Ivory Tower. A home ec. major was asked on a test how she would solve the problem of making a small room appear larger. She answered: "To make small rooms appear larger use thinner wallpaper."

Is It Lagging?

Is school spirit lagging? You might consider this a ridiculous question since an attendance record has been set at the South High Field House this year.

Attending sports events is just part of this thing called school spirit. Participating in other organizational events of the University is also a means to show whether or not school spirit is lacking.

For example! Several weeks ago, the engineers held an Open House. The event was open to the entire student body, not just the engineers and their families.

Yet, ask any engineer. For the two day period that the Open House was held, the attendance did not equal that of a minor high-school basketball game.

To take another example. The University's Student Forum has also been struck by the non-attendance plague. Twice a month the Forum presents talks by noted members of the faculty and, in some cases, out-of-town speakers of renown.

The story is the same. Through no fault of their own, these speakers deliver their talks to a practically void audience.

Other organizations are also faced with this same dilemma. It can even be narrowed down to fraternity and sorority meetings.

These groups work hard in order to put on these programs for the benefit of the students of Youngstown University. In return for their hard and well done effort, they get none of the satisfaction of someone appreciating their work.

Because of the spirit displayed at the basketball games resulted partly in an outstanding team, there is no reason why the same amount of spirit guided in the direction of these other activities shouldn't result in the same climax.

Why not extend some of it to these meetings? Let's do something about it!

Student Council Notes

The following is the Spring budget for Student Council as drawn up by the Finance Committee and approved by Student Council and the Student-Faculty Finance Committee.

The money used for this budget is part of the student fees, of $5, which you pay each semester; therefore it is the purpose of this budget to give a direct benefit to the activities having the largest potential number of participants or an indirect benefit to activities commonly available in comparable colleges and therefore felt by the majority of students to be desirable.

The Finance Committee, in consideration of the above, supports only those activities which are open to all students who are qualified by interest and talent, regardless of the courses or departments in which their academic work is taken.

Due to an increase in enrollment we have made increased allocations to the groups and to the Student Council program to meet with the demand of more participants in the various activities.

MIXING COLLEGE AND MARRIAGE

Mixing college and marriage can sometimes be a little nerve racking. Upon the arrival of his second child, a student at Northern Oklahoma Jr. College, called his friends with the news,

The UCLA library has decided not to fine Carry and Susan Volkman for the overdue books. The library cancelled the fines when it learned that the twin girls used the books to prepare for appearances on the "$64,000 Question" television show. The books proved valuable too; the Volkman twins bowed out of the show after winning $16,000.

POP CORN POPPER

A pop corn popper is the only cooking equipment a dormitory coed had on hand, but if she follows the lead of young women who attend Texas State College for Women, she can be quite a cook.

Boiling water for coffee or tea in the popper is elementary, but the coeds made oyster stew, pudding, chili and chow mein in theirs for midnight snacks, and use the popper to warm rolls, boil eggs and made cereal at breakfast time.

Stick to the popper for making pop corn, too, they advise. One coed tried to use her electric coffee pot to make pop corn, with sad results.

IT'S GREEK TO ME

By Pat Hrinko and Pat Gubany

The Greeks wish to extend their sincerest congratulations to Coach Dom Rosselli, Ohio's Coach of the Year, and the most tremendous basketball team, Youngstown University has ever had. We hope that you will have the very best of luck in Kansas City. We know that no matter how you do, we of Youngstown University will be very proud of you. Best of luck, Men!

A highlight of this weekend will be the Kappa Sig's "St. Pat's Hop" to be held at the Eagles on Saturday, March 16.

Congratulations to the girls on their choice of sororities.

PHI MU

In honor of the 105th birthday of the Phi Mu sorority, a founder's Day banquet was held at the Youngstown Club. Both the actives and the alums were present at the affair. It was good to see all the old Phi Mu's and to hear of their latest happenings.

Mary Jo, you're blushing! Could it be the reflection of your red velvet dress? Oh, yes - Roses are red, violets are blue; Carnations are pink, aren't they Lu?

Plans are made for the final rush party which will be held Sat. night at Pollock House. Chairman of the affair is Peggy Crea.

Plans are being made for the Phi Mu convention at Ohio University March 29, 30, and 31. This year the actives have decided to take all the new pledges with them for an enjoyable weekend on a college campus. Oh, the OU campus.

We sure celebrated Washington's birthday. We had a party with the Phi Gams and what a blast. The PG's put on a little skit and all we can say to a certain Larry is "What a built!"

Somebody with nerve should ask Dolly Lenton why she sat out in front of the Phi Gam Room.

Anybody interested in a jitterbug lesson? See Ada.

Several parties are being planned. The closest in sight is one with the PRs next Sat.

Plans for the "Sing" have been made. The musical director this year is Nancy Zamrick.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The Sig Eps first rush party for this season turned out to be quite successful. Business taken care of, the party was adjourned to surroundings with better atmosphere. The second party will be held in the very near future, and reports have it that it will be "different."

Best wishes are due Brother Bucky Shields, who recently, bravely faced the bonds of matrimony. Also, Congrats to Fred Anderson and his new pinmate Beverly Link.

All the brothers are looking forward to the coming basketball competition with nearby chapters of Sigma Phi Epsilon. The tournament will be held in Pittsburg, tomorrow, and an intriguing invitation is sure to draw a large number of participants.

The invitation read as follows: "bring your mug, a buck, and a blanket!"

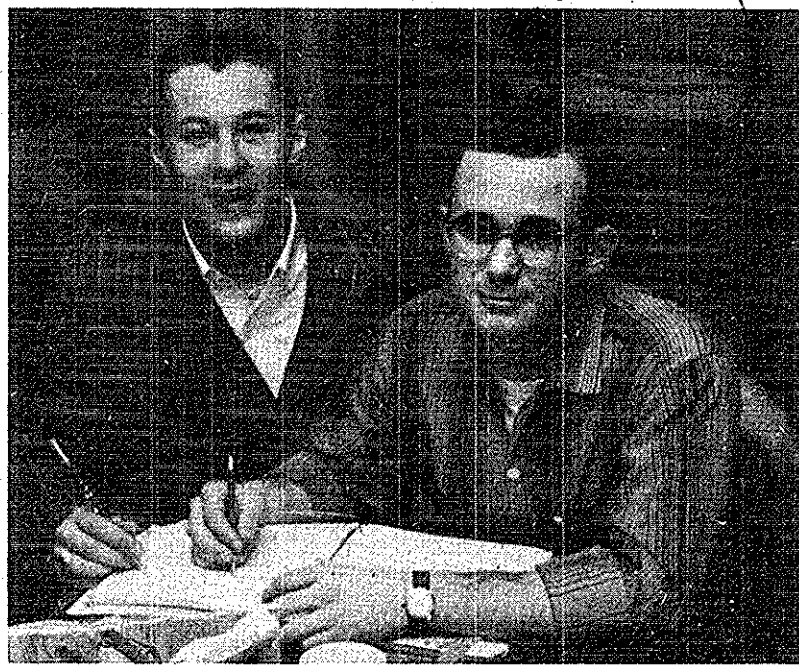

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

The weeks of March 17 and 23 will herald two big events for actives and pledges alike. They are the formal installation of the pledges into the bond of Tau Kappa Epsilon on the 17, and the installation banquet and dance on Sun. March 23.

Also in the future for Teke is the national Teke Bowling Tournament. To participate in this, the team bowls with a "qualified" observer and then sends their score in for the contest.

It was a bad night for active Frank So when the pledge class, having previously voted him "the person from whom they had taken all they could" mobbed Frater Frank and took him for a ride. Frank had his sweet revenge on March 8, when the pledges "caught it".

Joe Ula, Steve Mondora, Jim Buckner and John Bradshaw went up to the Ice Follies last weekend and from what we gathered they had a good time.

It seems that a "bunny rabbit" from the show came over and sat on Mondora and Ula's laps. Although the fellows couldn't see her face, they tell me she had a very soft and sweet voice. WOW!

A party with the Beta Sigs on March 7 was enjoyed by all. Also, a belated happy birthday is due Robert Buckner, president of Teke.

If you haven't been approached by a Teke pledge yet, about their raffle for a 4 speed, 4 speaker, HiFi VM changer, you must be pretty hard to find. Tickets are still available from any Teke pledge.

Looking at Teke sports, the basketball team has a record of 7-1 with Howard Williams piling in 37 points the other night. The bowling team is in second place in the intramurals.

THETA CHI

The second rush party of the new semester for Theta Chi was held March 6 at Willow Ranch. The evening consisted of a square dance with the Delta Chi Sorority. A most enjoyable time was had by all.

Cal Strouble demonstrated his musical ability by giving his interpretations of hill-billy yodeling. Nice going, Cal. Thanks to brother Bill Bigley on the fine job he did planning the party.

Theta Chi would like to congratulate all the brothers who took full participation in Religious Emphasis Week.

The brothers of Theta Chi wish brother Bill Beeman a speedy recovery from his recent operation.

KAPPA SIGMA KAPPA

The new actives of Kappa Sigma Kappa are having a St. Pat's Day Dance, March 16 at the Eagles Ballroom. The restrictions on Lent have been lifted because St. Pat's Day falls on a Sunday this year. Everyone is welcome to attend stag or drag. Dress will be informal.

Four brothers are traveling to Washington, D.C. this weekend. I wonder why? Ask brothers Moran, McCullough, Schiffer and Ray Glozer.

Watch for the Kappa Sigs to do something real big, real soon.

Brother Wollitz has taken the big step and Kay Harmon is sporting a big beautiful ring. Congratulations Kay and Chuck.

Tues. night, the Youngstown Kappa Sigs threw a party for the Defiance Kappa Sigs. A great time was had by all and another party is being planned soon.

Kappa Sigma Kappa Alumnae Willard Webster received state wide recognition upon the fine way in which he handled the NAIA Tournament in Youngstown.

NU SIGMA RHO

A farewell party was held last Fri. for Nick "Runt" Rosian who reported to the Army the following Mon. The brothers all wish him the best of luck.

The Nu Sigs held their first rush party on Feb. 19 at the "frat" house. The entertainers for the evening were Sam Trafficant and Ralph Donofrio.

The installation banquet for new members was held on Feb. 23. Dean Gillespie was guest speaker and gave a very inspiring speech to both old and new members. The spaghetti dinner was brewed by Al Matzye, Tony Jannetto, Jack Menosky and Doctor Glenn.

PHI LAMBDA DELTA

The Phi Lams wish to extend a sincere welcome to their new pledges and look forward to the day when they will become their new sisters.

If you still have sand in your shoes, don't be alarmed, it's just left over from the Phi Lam Calypso Party. The sisters showed their talent as they entertained the rushees in the Phi Looking Around...

By Tim Bowser and Bill Sponsler

Now I lay me down to sleep-- Hah! We should be so lucky. The Z-B is in shambles, and our exuberant team has drawn more spirit from the student body than anyone thought possible, - eh, Fran?

While we're on the subject of basketball players, we thought we'd mention Judy Millards' little experience in "mistaken identity." Enough said Jude?

We have a new section to add this issue. It's our own YU Hit Parade. After extensive polling among hundreds of music lovers on campus, we have compiled the following as this week's Top Tunes:

Number 4 - Rumble label - "Slaughter on Wick Avenue" - Exhausted Chugdin, and his Bagpipers.

Number 3 - Bomb label - "You Go to My Head" (dinner music - Toscanini & his Comets - theme from "Creature from the Black Lagoon")

Number 2 - RCAMElvin label - "The Little Dutch Mill on Blueberry Hill - near the Hollywood Freeway Blues" This is by "Skinny" Domini, and the Symphony Orchestra.

Number 1 - Potrzebie label - "Throw Mama from the Knish - Don't Leave Her Hungry Behind" - Pink Lee and the Mantovan Orchestra.

We thank the Dana School of Music for their assistance in accumulating this valuable (?) information.

And now, let's get on to some other fursluggener subject. If you can tear yourself away from the ptomaine foundry long enough, we suggest you visit your local flicker palace and catch Tino Robustelli and Chuck Wollitz in "Around the Kazoulp in Forty-leben Light Years." Filmed in Europe, the dialogue is entirely in Swiss and Turkish, with African subtitles.

The highspot of the picture for us was Robustelli's imitation of Pablo Picasso singing "Blue Suede Feet." The plot is a simple one of peasant life on Mars. Patty Higgins, who plays the part of a Venusian Gastropod, (whoee-such a gastropod-yumm), gets the most out of the role with her tender nuances that may be missed by those who are not familiar with peasant life on Mars. However, it is not much different from peasant life on Venus, hmmm?

Chuck Wollitz, making his film debut in this, may well be the find of the year. The part of Gino, Chucks girl friend, is played by Kay Harmon, and done to a fore thee well.

News Flash: Bill Beeman, Bob Mondok, Bob Lafferty, Ruth Navin, Judy Appleman, and Sandy Sherwood were taken to Gebush Hospital with "Creeping Meatballism." Their condition is questionable.

In keeping with the present trend in humor, we offer this joke(?): Two little German boys were walking through the mountain country with their mother. As one of them suddenly pushed her off a cliff, he chortled to the other, "look Hans, no Ma!"

Cieec, sucha Kamenka!

Lam Calypso Way. Many thanks, Pat Vivo, for the helping hand.

The Phi Lams are looking forward to celebrating their 30th Anniversary as the first sorority on campus.

The Phi Gam party and the Kappa Sig Dance will highlight the weekend for the sisters.

SIGMA DELTA BETA

The brothers of Sigma Delta Beta had their second rush party of the season on March 11 at Sheban's. Everybody left with nothing but praise. The next party is scheduled for March 24.

The time is fast approaching for the drawing for the portable TV. If you haven't gotten your ticket, better see a Sig Delt and get one. YOU may be the lucky winner.

For some time now brother Tony Pannazzo has been begging everyone for a movie projector. He claims he has some movies to show, but he doesn't have a projector. Can someone help him?

There must be something going on out near Salem. Brother Dom Marino says if you ain't been to Pointville, you ain't been at all.

PHI GAMMA

The Phi Gams had a joint party. (That is, a combination rush party and social with the Delta Chi's). Everyone had a real blast and they'd like to thank all the girls for a terrific time. Some of the fellows are wondering what happened before the party.

Well, that time of year is here again with everyone swearing off the weeds and liquids. Cookie Cagna, (the diplomat extraordinary), Marve Minneman, Jim Crowe, Don Infante, Don Brothers, Don Miller and Ike McHugh are giving up the fair sex!

Two weeks ago the P.G.'s had a party and fine time with the Phi Mu's. The skits presented sure shook the audience up a little. Larry Baytos was "entrancing" as Boop-Boop-De-Boop.

Jim Hudson and Bill Burby were spreading stories about Herb, Mac and Ike.

Will, whoever is moving Bernie O'Reilly's car all over the campus, please keep their hands off? It's so easy to get parking tickets that way!

The Phi Gams are still raving about the Mardi Gras. Paul West, Jack Schoessel and Chuck Ratcliffe are still worrying about the "baby on the floor"! Congratulations, Tom, for a fine job!

Jay-Jay, will you please throw Dick Price and Frank Gugliotta out of there at 9:45 p.m. on Tuesday evenings? They're never on time for meetings.

Art Moore scored 31 points to lead the Phi Gams to a decisive victory over the Sig Eps. Art, by the way, is pushing the top in the intramural scoring race.

The new members were to have played the older contingent for a "keg of frothing beverage" last week. There is also a party planned with their Phi Lam sisters. Those get-togethers always turn out to be record-breakers!

GAMMA SIGMA

The Gamma Sig's were pleasantly surprised to hear of another Gamma Sig-Kappa Sig wedding in the offing. Congratulations to Kay Harmon and Chuck Wollitz.

Karl Mogg has added another "dissertation" to his list, we think this is the best yet, Karl!

Saint Patrick doesn't have anything on the Gamma Sigs. Happy Birthday to Kay Harmon, JoAnn Kaschak and Pat Quinlan.

Cookie Korody is spending a lot of time at the hospital these days ... Get well real quick, Bill!

Prof. At Oxford Univ. Tells Of Differences In College Life

By Barbara Hoover

During Religious Emphasis Week, the students and faculty of Youngstown University had the pleasure of hearing talks by Dr. Roy S. Lee, a specialist in the field of psychoanalysis and religion. Dr. Lee, who has been head of the Oxford University Church since 1947 and having previously done research work there, pointed out some of the main differences between college life here and in England.

Oxford and Cambridge are under a tutorial system of education. Each student is appointed to a tutor who has several students studying under him.

The student at Oxford or Cambridge "reads" in his own particular field, zoology, history, etc., - attending only those lectures which he or his tutor feel will be of special interest to him.

No tests are given on the lectures but on the broad field of studies. While facts are important, their main interest is in how well you handle the material.

It is expected that the student have an adequate background in the general subjects before entering the university. Dr. Lee said that the goal of an education at Oxford or Cambridge is to "teach the person to be a student."

The student at either of these colleges he felt were more serious about their work than many of the students at our universities.

There are, however, the provincial colleges which are patterned more after colleges in the United States. One follows a course of study leading to a degree similar to that here.

Technical schools provide advanced training for the student interested in fields such as we find included in the school of Business Administration. No degree is offered, but the student receives a diploma upon completion of his course of study.

Dr. Lee was born in Australia and studied at Sidney University. He did research work at Oxford, but returned to Australia to continue his studies at a theological seminary in Australia.

Before World War II, he journeyed back to England where he has resided since.

During the War, he was a chaplain at No. 1 Casualty Station. He witnessed all the raids that were made there during the War. Dr. Lee was also overseer of religious broadcasting of the B.B.C. during the war.

Since he has been made head of the University Church at Oxford, he has made several trips to the United States.

Dr. Lee is married and has two daughters, one of whom is a scholar of Lady Margaret Hall College. Dr. Lee has also written several books, among which are FREUD AND CHRISTIANITY AND PSYCHOLOGY AND WORSHIP.

He: "How about a kiss?"
She: "Sir, I have scruples."
He: "That's all right. I've been vaccinated."

Jet's Jargon

With the increased enrollment at the University the administration has complied by increasing the Athletic Program. Track, which has been missing from the YU scene for several years, is again to become a major spring sport.

Mr. Carl S. Christensen is taking the reins of the tracksters. As yet definite plans for practice have not been formulated but Mr. Christensen hopes to begin formal practice in about two weeks.

Mr. Christensen graduated from Springfield College and received a Master's Degree from the University of Illinois. While at Illinois he assisted in coaching freshman sports.

Coached Overseas

Upon leaving Illinois he entered the army and coached track teams in Germany until his arrival here at Youngstown University last Sept. He has been coaching the Penguin Junior Varsity Basketball team during the season.

All men interested in track are requested to contact Mr. Christensen in room No. 9 of the Annex. No experience is necessary, just the will to run.

The amazing point about the NAIA playoff was the fact that only one senior played on the four teams. Paul Yoder, of Defiance, was the man who was playing his final games.

Does Superb Job

Jim Smith, the Steubenville center was superb during the tournament. Smith has the ability to cage almost any shot he sends up. When it comes to clearing the boards he does a fine job.

This writer can't figure some of the tricks that Smith pulls. I don't know whether Smith stays just within the law on his roughness or the referees turn their bad eye toward the section of the floor that Jim occupies.

The trickiest man, next to Smith, was Cox of Wilmington. He also stayed just inside the law. In the first game Cox and Smith were taking turns pulling dirty tricks on each other. These two showed their mastery during the congestion under the boards.

Congratulations Offered

Special congratulations should be extended to Dom Rosselli for his selection as "Coach of the Year." The comeback that the Penguins made from last year was phenomenal.

The development of several key performers meant the difference between an erratic team to the polished team with all-around class that we have this year.

Herb Lake and Bob Atterholt have improved with each game they have played since entering the University. Mickey Yugovich has developed into a fine defensive player to match his shooting skill.

Charley Moore has finally recognized the fact that he is a good scorer and this added to his defensive skill has made him a feared performer in every game.

Roy Taylor who made the climb from obscurity to stardom, showed with his wealth of experience that experience can make a great difference on the team.

STEADY, OLD BOY

After watching a drunk try without success to get his key into the front door keyhole, a passerby suggested that perhaps he could handle the key for him.

"Never mind, wise guy," the drunk mumbled indignantly, "I can hol' the key all right — you jusht hol' the house!"

Sporting Views

By Ron Vanatsky

Coach Dom Rosselli's powerful Penguins, whose fascinating hardwood play is as smooth and exact as expert Swiss clockwork, finished off district play with a tremendous triumph in the NAIA District 30 finals at South Field House last week by toppling Steubenville's towering Barons, 59-58, to capture the Buckeye State diadem.

Not totaling in the Penguin's exhibition victory over Western Reserve in a Dick Kadis fund tilt, the boys rolled up an astounding record of 21 wins against only three losses, two of which were avenged in return tilts.

The Cardinal and White lengthened its win streak on the home floor to 19, and ended regular play with 11 consecutive triumphs.

Steubenville Wins

On Monday, March 4, in NAIA first round action, Steubenville romped over Wilmington 83-64, and the Penguins walloped Defiance 91-69.

"Big Orange", Mickey Yugovich, freshman ace from Wilson High, set a new mark for first year players when he banged in 25 points, upping his total to 444 markers, which broke Herb Lake's one-year-old record of 420.

The locals gained a big 47-29 half-time margin, then coasted to victory in the second half. Lake's hook, Atterholt's set, and Taylor's jump shots all found their target as the fans saw terrific offensive fireworks.

Lake Gets 20

Lake, the Midland, Pa., flash, garnered 20 points for runner-up honors and the big boy grabbed off 23 rebounds to lead in that department. Charley Moore and Atterholt did some fine defensive work for the Penguins. Jim Ladd, a 6-2 junior, led Defiance with 6 fielders and 6 charity tosses for 18 points.

In the big game, it was perfected, polished teamwork that brought Rosselli's hardwood wonders the state title and a berth in the national tourney at Kansas City.

3,000 Watch

Another packed house of 3000 wild cheering fans saw what was probably the most thrilling game in Y.U. cage annals.

After Atterholt dunked in a two-pointer with 50 seconds left to shove the Penguins on top, 58-56, the audience was in a state of nervous tension and complete suspense until the final buzzer sounded.

Big Jim Smith, 6-6 Baron sensation, dropped one in from up close to knot the count with 24 seconds remaining. Then he fouled Yugovich at 0:09, but Mickey missed the free throw in a "one and one" advantage.

Is Fouled

However, in the act of grabbing his own rebound he was fouled by sub Dave Buckenheimer, and with terrific tension on him, dropped the initial toss, then missed the second, but Youngstown had its victory margin with 5 seconds left. The clock then stopped with one second remaining.

Putting the ball in play, the Barons made a full-court throw and the contest ended in a wild scramble for the sphere.

The fans started a hysterical demonstration, and Coach Rosselli was lifted on the shoulders of several players amid popping of flashbulbs and boisterous screaming and cheering, as the deliriously happy fans went unrestrained.

See-Saw Game

It was a see-saw game all the way, with the Penguins holding a scant two-point margin at intermission, 29-27.

The five Youngstown starters played the whole game, and four of them scored in the double figures as the boys displayed a very well balanced attack.

Yugovich led the pack of Penguin scorers with 16 points, and hard driving Jim Smith topped Steubenville with 25 points. He grabbed 25 missed shots to lead in the rebounding department, also.

Grab 81 Rebounds

Smith and Herb Lake, two of the top four NAIA rebounders in the nation, grabbed off 81 rebounds between them in two nights.

The 6200 fans that witnessed tournament action saw two extremes in coaching methods in Dom Rosselli, and Hank Kuzma, Steubenville mentor. Kuzma almost never sat down during the contests, continually waving his arms and yelling to his players, and the fans got quite a kick from watching him.

Rosselli, on the other hand, was as quiet, calm, and easy-going as ever, getting off the bench only during timeouts.

Receives Award

Smith, Steubenville's 6-6 junior standout from Homestead, Pa., received the tourney's most valuable player award immediately after the contest.

He was presented a trophy by Willard L. Webster, Y.U. athletic director and head of this year's NAIA District 30 tournament.

In an interview with this writer after the title contest, Kuzma, now completely calm and serene, said, "You've sure got a great box-office."

"Hope You Win"

"I hope you win at Kansas City," Kuzma's Barons incidentally, have compiled a 42 game winning streak at home.

In two other late season contests, the Penguins also came out victorious. On Feb. 25, at the Field House, in a NAIA tuneup tilt, the potent play-makers toppled St. Francis of Loretta, Pa., 76-67.

In the first half the Penguins couldn't find the hoop at all and went to the dressing room at half time two points down, 32-30.

Rebound

They rebounded after intermission, however, as Yugovich led the attack by scoring all his 18 markers in the second half of the contest.

He was high point man for the locals while Charley Moore added 14 tallies. St. Francis, for whom Maurice Stokes, NBA sensation and former All-American played his college basketball, was paced by Ron Nixon's 20 points.

In the Dick Kadis exhibition fund contest with Western Reserve on Mar. 7, the classy Youngstowners rolled to another victory, topping the Red Cats from Cleveland, 78-64.

Without Expense

The game was played completely without expense, and a total of $1400 was donated to the fund. Yugovich hitting on almost 60% of his shots swished 26 tallies through the net and led both teams in scoring.

Fichter's 20 points paced Western Reserve, on whom Youngstown had doubled the count at halftime 42-21. Subs finished out the contest as the Penguins gained a final margin of 14 points.

Y.U.'s win over Steubenville evened Coach Rosselli's cage record here at 154-154, besides gaining for the Penguins Ohio title and a NAIA berth at Kansas City.

FEATURE Dom Rosselli Is Named 'Ohio Coach Of The Year'

By Ron Vanatsky

Featured in this issue of the JAMBAR is Dominic Rosselli, the man whose teaching, coaching, and fine all-around sportsmanship have brought him the honor of basketball's "Ohio College Coach of the Year" for 1957.

It is a very richly deserved award for Dom, one of the most likeable and interesting sports personalities in the Buckeye State.

Under his skillful and steady tutoring, the Youngstown University Penguins, winningest cage squad in Ohio, have rolled to a berth in the NAIA national championship playoffs at Kansas City, besides spreading a fine reputation for the University throughout the Mid-west with their clean but hard play.

Is Native Ohioan

Rosselli is a native Ohioan, born in Youngstown and educated at Lincoln, Wood Street, East High, and Rayen High schools. Dom loved sports as a youngster, and found active participation in them more exciting than just watching.

He also sold newspapers on the side, and was a familiar hawk at Champion and Federal Streets downtown.

At Rayen High, he was taught the fundamentals of football and basketball by Harold Lansing and Johnny Russ, and was captain of the two sports squads his last two years in high school.

Entered Geneva

Gaining the enormous total of eight pounds, he was a grid sensation, being a fleet-footed, hard-driving, and quick-thinking quarterback who gained a spot on the All-Pennsylvania football squad, while weighing only 129 pounds!

Dom was captain of the basketball and grid squads at Geneva, besides being very active in intra-mural sports. He received accolades of all sorts, gaining championship honors in badminton, paddle tennis, and volleyball.

Ping Pong Champ

He was ping pong champion for four years, and did an iron-man stint with his softball team by pitching every game played for four years and leading them annually to title honors.

The diminutive fellow graduated from Geneva in 1939 with a "B" average and a major in Education. He came to Y.U. soon after and coached the basketball team for two seasons before leaving for the service.

In 1946, after four years of Army duty, he returned to his position here and is now completing his 13th year of tutoring the cage squads, besides head baseball coach, assistant grid mentor and men's intramural sports director.

Has Many Friends

Dom's amiability, easiness, and fine sense of fair play have gained him many loyal friends on the campus, besides a large contingent of followers in the Tri-State area.

If you happen to be around his cozy office, particularly on a Friday, you may hear him answer the telephone, usually ringing every few minutes, with the quip, "Hello, this is Joe's Fish Market," or something of the sort.

Has Favorite Tale

A favorite tale Dom relates goes like this. Upon hearing through various sources that YU has good prospects for a most successful cage season, local friends of Dom's being ardent sports enthusiasts, phone him to get the scoop on the team.

The fans ask, "I hear you have a pretty-good looking team up there this year, Dom. Is that correct?" Whereby Rosselli answers, "You're sure right, we've been getting our uniforms cleaned every week."

Good Team Work

In talking about the story behind the Penguins' unprecedented success this season, Rosselli pointed out the boys' smooth, coordinated, and unselfish teamwork.

He said that high team spirit comes from taking pride in participating and doing your best always.

This year's squad, he said, had that spirit from the start, and it took an influential stronghold in each boy individually, keeping him driving and fighting all the time.

Dom stated that you've got to have this earnestness 100% to win ball games, and it looks like the whole squad has been fully embodied with it.

Stems From Youth

Dom's zeal for coaching and active sports participation stems from his youth, when, although usually without the price of admission to games, he followed the keen rivalry between Rayen and South, the lone football squads in the city at that time.

He usually managed to see the contests somehow, selling various objects as seats to the fans, or using other means of fundmaking, but the main thing is, his eagerness for sports developed enormously through his zeal for seeing some of these great old teams in action.

Then, in taking part in athletics, he began to love "to duel instead of watching." His interest in his teams today reflect this intense feeling.

Lauds Fine Work

In giving credit to others, Rosselli lauded the fine work of Carl Christian, assistant coach who led the reserve squad to a repeat performance of last season's record gaining a 12-1 mark, Willard L. Webster, University Athletic Director; Bob Suchora, manager; Ed Lariccia, Dom's 14 year-old nephew who assisted Suchora; Ken Brayer, team statistician; and Chuck Perazich, publicity director.

Anyone else who helped the team reach their NAIA state championship status is gratefully acknowledged, as this season has been the greatest in Youngstown University history.

is Active

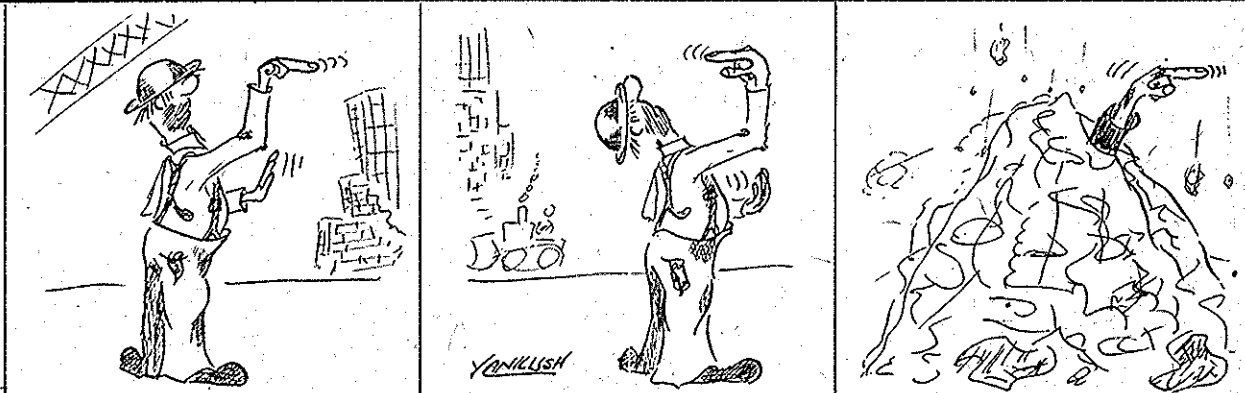

Dom takes to carpentry as a spare time activity, expanding this more fully in the off-season by building homes and engaging in other projects during the summer vacation.

Being a very modest type of fellow, Ohio's top collegiate coach continuously tries to pass off to the team any plaudits directed toward him.

When asked how he felt about his "Coach of the Year" selection, he stated, "It's the most wonderful feeling a coach can have." He praised his assistants and said, "The boys made it all possible with their all-around, top-notch play, and sportsmanship."

The former Army captain's family consists of his wife, Constance, and four lovely children. These include three daughters; Roseanne, 14; Mary Louise, 11; Stephanie, 9; and a spry two-year old son, Dom Jr., or "Chipper," as he is affectionately nicknamed.
