JAMBAR Named Best Paper

Captures Four Awards At College Press Meet

THE JAMBAR was named the best newspaper and received three other awards at the third meeting of the Penn-Ohio Collegiate Press Association last Saturday at the Shenango Inn, Sharon, Pa.

In gaining four out of the nine awards presented, THE JAMBAR repeated in the "Best Newspaper" category, also winning the "Best Editorial", "Best Front Page Layout", and "Best Column" awards.

Pattens, Hiram College publication, earned awards for the best sports story, best feature story, and best photograph. The "Best Cartoon" award went to the Rocket of Slippery Rock College.

Awards Culminate Day

The full day's program consisted of discussion groups, panel discussions and talks by two veteran newspapermen. The awards were presented after dinner. Some 70 college students represented six area colleges at the event.

The awards were sponsored by area industries and the Industrial Information Institute and all entries in the various newspaper categories were judged by the journalism department of Ohio State University.

Mickey Kaiser, retiring JAMBAR editor, received the best newspaper and best front page layout awards, both sponsored by the Cooperweid Steel Co.

The judges cited THE JAMBAR for its "good editorial variety and professional appearance."

Judge Editorial Best

John Hernandez, acting Editor of THE JAMBAR, was presented the award for the best editorial which was titled "Automotive Annihilation. The award was sponsored by the McKay Machine Co.

Former "Looking Around" writers John Poulson and Sam Sanfillippo won honors in the best column division.

YU Awards Scholarship At County Science Fair

Youngstown University offered for the first time the Youngstown University Science Scholarship amounting to $300 for the best exhibit in the fields of biology, physics or chemistry. The scholarship was offered last week at the 1959 Tri-County Science Fair held at Fitch High School.

Many interesting educational science exhibits entered by students of grades seven through twelve from high schools in Mahoning, Columbiana and Trumbull Counties were on display.

Exhibits were judged by scientists on creative ability, knowledge gained, scientific thought, thoroughness, skill, clarity and dramatic presentation.

In addition to the Youngstown University Scholarship the Women's Auxiliary to the Mahoning Valley Society of Professional Engineers gave a $50 cash award for the best exhibit in the categories of chemistry or physics. Omicron Lambda Honorary Biology Fraternity of Youngstown University gave a $25 award for the exhibit in biology which was judged the best.

No JAMBAR Friday!

There will not be an issue of the JAMBAR on March 27 due to the Easter vacation. We will resume publication with the April 3 issue. Deadline for this issue is March 27. A happy Easter to all from the JAMBAR Staff.

Announce Rise In Tuition for Next Semester

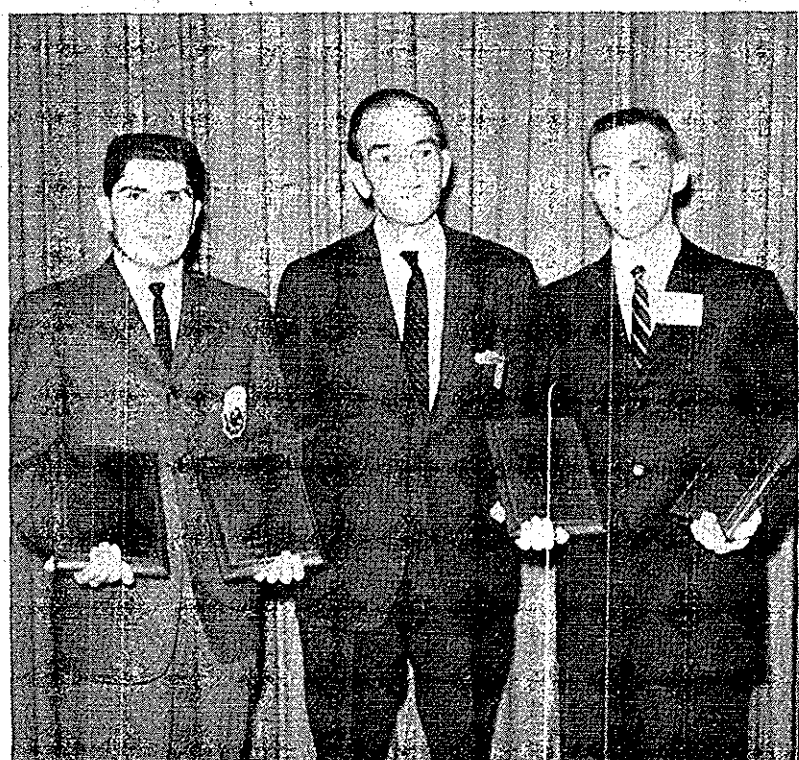

An announcement has come from President Jones that beginning with the fall term the average Youngstown University student will pay approximately $60 more per school year, or $30 more each semester.

Dr. Jones said that while tuition will be raised from $12 to $16 per semester hour virtually all fees will be dropped with the exception of the laboratory fees, so that actually tuition will be approximately $2 more per hour than that of this semester.

Student Fee Cut

One of the fees to be discontinued will be the $27.50 student fee paid each semester. It will now be included in the tuition cost.

The new system will greatly facilitate the bookkeeping work and clerical work in connection with the registration of students.

WINNING TEAM: John Hernandez, Jambar Editor, Prof. Harold Crites, Adviser, and Mickey Kaiser, retiring editor, pose with the four awards captured by THE JAMBAR in press competition.

English Major Presented Woodrow Wilson Fellowship

Mary Jean Hodor, a senior majoring in English, has been honored with an appointment as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow, by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, a branch of the Ford Foundation.

Mary Jean has picked the University of Michigan in which to finish her studies toward the ultimate goal of college teaching.

Each fellow chosen by the Foundation receives a living allowance of $1,500 plus the cost of tuition and fees.

This year's Wilson Fellows were chosen from 7,000 candidates, all nominated and all rigorously screened by committees of faculty members. Candidates came from over 700 undergraduate colleges.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation is seeking to enlist promising undergraduates for studies in college teaching towards solving education's most urgent problem - the critical shortage of qualified teachers.

Valley Tales Depicts Merchandising Epic

In an industrial community, merchandising is as important as any other link in the economic chain, for it is by merchandising that the finished products reach the people who need them. On this weeks Tale of the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys we see a typical merchandising situation of the era that long preceded the singing commercial and the animated television cartoon. The title of this weeks tale, heard Sunday the 22nd and Saturday the 28th, is "The Dashaway Washing Machine".

Tales of the Mahoning and Shenango Valleys are presented by the Industrial Information Institute and are heard on seven area radio stations each Saturday and Sunday. Also the Industrial Information Institute has recordings and special programs available for use in area schools.

Chaplains Convey Easter Messages

Rev. Linder Says:

Who among us has not at times alternated between feelings of hope and despair? It is all part of the problem of growing up, and the cultivating of a mature faith. On the one hand, our lives are being threatened constantly by questionable motives, wrong decisions, and the acquiring of an inadequate or faulty philosophy of life. Then, before we realize it, we are confronted with the challenge of a great faith, either by what we read, or by what we experience or see in the example of other people.

During Passion Week and at Easter, as we follow the Biblical account, we see dramatized once more the alternating currents of experience in the life of Christ and His disciples. First, there is the denial and betrayal of Jesus by His disciples, ending with the crucifixion at Calvary. Then, after three days of despair, we are made aware suddenly of the mystery and the redemptive quality of the Resurrection, with its hope that transcends our doubts, our fears, and our lack of faith.

One of two verses, written by an unknown author, reiterates this principle of alternation and redemption: "Calvary and Easter."

A song of sunshine through the rain,
Of spring across the snow;

A balm to heal the hurts of pain,
A peach surpassing woe.

Lift up your heads, ye sorrowing ones,
And be ye glad of heart,
For Calvary and Easter Day
Were just three days apart.

Rev. Albert L. Linder
Protestant Chaplain

Father Petric Says:

Several years ago there were some eight suicides on college campuses. They happened at our more prominent universities. No, the news did not make all of the headlines. What good would that have accomplished?

However, there must be a reason for anyone committing suicide. What would cause a young, college man or woman to take one's own life? One student put it in these words: "They have offered us the arts and sciences, and at the same time they have utterly destroyed our faith."

That is indeed a very sad commentary. And yet, one wonders if too much isn't sacrificed in the name of "progress." Faith is no insult to one's intelligence; rather, it complements it. The great intellects of the world all had tremendous faith in the Almighty. What's our "modern education" trying to accomplish when it endeavours to destroy the very root of all knowledge? What's it trying to prove? At what cost?

Dangerous "Isms"

Materialism, pragmatism, agnosticism, atheism... these are the things that are great obstacles to the young minds in our schools. Material suicide is terrible enough, but how much greater is the mental, the spiritual suicide caused by these degrading "isms"! Our students need the necessary tools to combat all this. We have the moral obligations to provide them with the tools.

Where do we find these tools? In Christianity! Christ claimed He was God! He proved His claims by His sinless life, by His miracles and prophecies. And then He sealed His claims with the most astonishing of all miracles... He conquered death... "He is risen; He is not here!"

Make a resolution for yourself this Easter. Always endeavour to be intellectually honest, whether your

The Campus Voice

By

Vilma Terle

Hi again! Today we've brought the situation with the students Union to the students. Here is what a sampling of them have to say.

Gail Shacter

Is a foreign language and drama major who is from Rochester, New York and a second semester freshman. "I think that a student union on this campus is a very good idea. It would not only profit the school but it would profit the students. Other schools have unions and they have worked out very well. This union should include a juke box for dancing, a snack bar, rooms for organizational meetings, ping pong table, swimming, bowling lanes. The only way we could have such a building would be if all the campus cooperates and keeps it a place of which we could all be proud."

Jim Sekinger

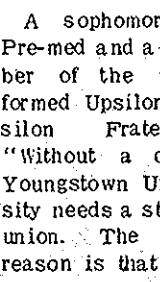

A junior majoring in business administration. "Our first problem in planning a student union is how big it should be and next what it should contain. A snack bar, ballroom, reading room and music room are all good ideas and would give students a place for recreation and change from the daily school life. Since card and chess players have been "removed" from all other areas of our campus maybe a Student Union would be a place for these activities as well. These card players may find however, that it is administrative policy rather than crowded conditions that cause them to be constantly moved out."

Peggy Opsitnik

A Business Education major from Struthers believes "We definitely do need a student union in which a student may spend his leisurely time between classes if he does not wish to go to the library. This union would consist of a main lounge which could also be used for club meetings. It should be open from 10 in the morning until 10 at night and possibly weekends. It should have a chess and card room, snack bar, swimming pool, a room for dancing and showing movies. As a freshman I really look forward to the day when this wonderful place will help contribute to making this a real CAMPUS!!"

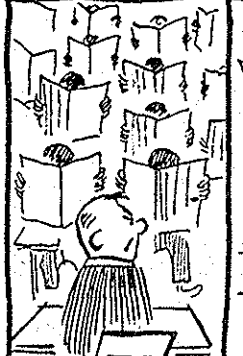

Allan Blau

A sophomore in Pre-med and a member of the newly formed Upsilon Upsilon Fraternity. "Without a doubt, Youngstown University needs a student union. The main reason is that Y.U. needs to promote a more "closeness" among the students. It should include at least a lounge, a game room, and a snack bar plus several large meeting rooms. The Student Union at Penn. State is an integral part of each student's college life. It is a place where student's gather together to play ping-pong, pool, eat, or just talk and relax. Besides being just a place to gather it served to relieve the tensions and pressures of school work."

Nosmo King Finds Animals Can Teach a Lesson in Life

By Frank Court

Love for animals is a virtuous gift, and one that not every human being has the privilege to be endowed with. Many of us have the pleasure of owning pets, either four-footed or feathered, and we realize the companionship that they can afford us. It is truly wonderful, when someone opens the door to his home and his heart, and admits a creature of the animal world to find shelter and love within its walls.

Yes, it is wonderful to be gracious to animals, but often times a person carries this affection entirely too far.

We find such a person in Nosmo King, campus introvert. Nosmo cannot tolerate people. This is due, mainly to the fact, that people cannot tolerate Nosmo. He stands for everything that is uncouth and repulsive. Although, he does attend classes at the university, he does not mingle with any of the students. He sulks in corners and glares at the friendly young men and women that are smiling and enjoying life.

Home To Oswald

Occasionally, a student will approach him and bid him the time of day. But Nosmo does not return the greeting. Instead, he grunts a foul oath or sticks his tongue out at the considerate student. Then he rushes hurriedly home to the only friend he has, his pet lizard, Oswald.

But Nosmo was not long to have the friendship of Oswald, because last night Oswald killed himself. For years, Oswald has been a drunkard, and last night, while in a drunken stupor, mistook a bottle of wood varnish for his old home brew. He died fast, but he had a beautiful finish.

Nosmo, filled with compassion, placed his little friend in a beer stein and set him on top of the coffee table. Kindly students, hearing of Oswald's death, came by to pay their last respects. As they filed in, one by one, Nosmo greeted them saying, "What shall I do? My dear little friend has gone and left me all alone. Now I have no one; nobody to love me and to fill my many weary hours with happiness. Oh, why didn't I associate with people?"

Too Late, Pal

Sobbing to the students, he confessed, "Why didn't I try to be friendly, and join campus organizations? Why didn't I take an interest in my school and volunteer for committees? Why did I spend my money on jelly beans and jaw breakers instead of contributing it to the library fund? Why did I have to hate people and do mean things like stomping on students lunches and pouring acid down their backs, when they were bent over, drinking at the water fountain? Now, I am alone in the world without one friend to call my own."

Turning to the students, who were now weeping sympathetically at Nosmo, he said to them, "Ah, but all is not lost, I see that I do have friends. You considerate students will be my friends. The door of my shabby house is open to you." Pointing to the kitchen, he said, "Go to the kitchen where there is food and drink for all and help yourself."

Wild Free Loaders

A wild scream rang through the house and Nosmo was trampled by racing students stampeding for the kitchen. Nosmo, picked himself up from the floor and smiled, because he now had friends.

After his new found friends had suitably satisfied their hunger, Nosmo called them all to his side and said, "Dear, sweet, considerate new found friends, I have a problem to which I must have an answer. What shall I do with my late pet lizard, Oswald? Shall I bury him in my tulip garden, or shall I cremate him in the incinerator with tomorrow's garbage? Oh, please, dear new found friends, what shall I do with his remains?"

At that point, a young male student standing in the back of the room, consuming the last bite of a double decker peanut butter and salami sandwich, cried, "Stuff him and keep the party going."

Appeal for Sane Pledging

Next week our campus will be the testing ground for neophytes of thirteen fraternities of Inter-Fraternity Council. This same situation arises each year, so the news value of it is at a minimum, but the far reaching implications of this ritual has campus-wide effects.

Pledging has been defined as the period in which a person, in this case the man pledging a fraternity, tries to prove his value as a human being and his ability to perform several menial tasks with finesse and self-confidence. It also gives him a chance to become better acquainted with the men of the fraternity, which aids him when he becomes a member.

If you have occasion to run into one of these pledges, notice the tremor of his hands as he approaches an active. Notice how he will strive with all the power within him to please and serve the active. He is under a tremendous mental strain.

Fraternities should consider the implications this treatment might tend to have on the pledge's point average and his sense of well-being. In most instances the pledge is an underclassman, either a freshman or a sophomore. He is not yet adjusted to the college system. Making his pledge season exceptionally rough only adds to his troubles.

We are not criticising the pledging of men into fraternities. We do believe that it can hinder the pledge in his school-work if not properly conducted within the bounds of common sense.

Let's Return to School

College is a place to learn, to observe, to think and criticize. It is a place to learn to formulate opinions and have the perseverance to abide by them.

But this is not happening. College students are not bothering themselves to learn these fundamental tools of a free thinking person. They are more interested in fraternities and sororities and their social life. Who cares about West Berlin? Who cares about Russia? Latin American and the other trouble spots in our world? Not the college student, social life must come first.

How many students bother to read the weekly newsmagazines? A daily newspaper? Few, if any.

Youngstown University does not even sponsor a debate team. An organization such as this would be a wonderful breeding ground for furthering discussions of world importance. But a few students think it's too much bother, because they have dances and parties to fill their time.

Some people just don't care, maybe that's why radio networks are filled with rock and roll, and T.V. stations are overcrowded with westerns. College students should care, but many don't. They are to be the leaders of tomorrow.

Keep Christ in Easter

Easter is coming upon us again and Lent will be terminated for another year. Does Easter mean anything or is it just a date that signifies the beginning of the second semester social season. As Christians, Easter is our most important feast. It is our basis that Christ was God and not just another mortal man.

Yet, Easter has taken its place as just another holiday where relatives and friends get together. Easter has become an ordeal instead of the happy joyous feast it is meant to be. Christ has taken a back seat to Peter Cottontail and Easter finerys.

Why is this? Greed perhaps or maybe just plain laziness. Whatever the reason, it is no excuse. Is money so important that not one day of the year men can void their mind of money and turn to giving honor and glory to God.

It is up to the individual himself to make a sincere effort to help give the honor and praise due to a feast of the first caliber.

Student Drive Nets $4,000 Towards Library Build-Up

Students of our campus have made a contribution of approximately $4,000 to the Student Library Fund through class-room solicitations, contributions from various campus groups, a gift voted by the Student Council and a gift from the senior class, Dr. Howard W. Jones, president of the university, reported.

Dr. Jones said that the student response was so much better than he had anticipated it would enable him to raise his library budget from $23,000 to $31,000 for the coming year.

George Jones, librarian for the university, explained to the student committee that the library budget enables him to keep up fairly well on the new single books published each year but that he is unable to purchase the large sets of old scholarly works which older university libraries have. Jones said that these books are very expensive.

Consider First Purchase

The first books to be bought with student funds will be a 52-volume set of Denis Diderot's "Encyclopedia" which contains all of the written knowledge of the Eighteenth Century, especially all of the new writers and new ideas of that time. The set will include 11 volumes of plates published in 1780. Another purchase will be "The Berichte der Deutschen Chemische Gesellschaft" the magazine of the German Chemical Society which contains all of the epic-making papers of eminent German chemists since 1868.

The purchase will include from 1868 to 1940. The cost of the Encyclopedia is $690 and of the magazines, $1,180.

The plan is to purchase a single set of books for one or more departments each year - books which it would be impossible to buy from the library budget. The books will bear a library plate indicating that they were purchased through the student library fund.

Students and faculty members who have been active in the student fund drive are: Gerard Repasky, student chairman; Agnes Biscan, student co-chairman; Diana Stizza, Edward Wall, Alan Hegedus, president of Student Council; Dale Cunningham, president of the senior class; Dr. Gordon O'Brian of the English faculty and chairman of the faculty library committee; Prof. John Gillespie, dean of men and Prof. Philip Hahn of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Chemical Society Will Meet in A-V Room

The American Chemical Society will hold a meeting at 8:00 p.m. March 20 in the Audio Visual Room of the Library. The speaker of the evening will be Prof. Louis F. Hatch of the University of Texas. He will lecture on gas chromatography.

Students of the university are cordially invited to attend this lecture. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

The Eastern Ohio Western Pennsylvania Associate of the American Chemical Society includes Grove City College, Theil College, Youngstown University among others.

33 "Excited" Girls Pledging Sororities

Thirty-three co-eds have pledged themselves to the four national sororities on Youngstown's campus. On March 11th, excitement ran high as the girls received their bids, and went to meet the girls they will soon call sisters.

Alpha Omicron Pi welcomes Joyce Bardinello, Mary Lou Citaldi, Anita Earle, Kay Hart, Bernadette Polisso, Marda Sebastian, Pat Shaffer, Kathy Schunn, Sandra Smoyer, Elinor Walsh and Judy Withers.

Beta Sigma Omicron's new pledges are: Kaye Albright, Martha Bone, Joyce Coble, Betty Fabry, Jo Hanna, Linda Kramer, Doreen McCleery, Marlene Mogish, Maureen Moore, Eleanor Novotny, and Elizabeth Susor.

Phi Mu's prospective sisters are Patricia Planinshok, Pat Shook, and Darla Jean Titus.

Sigma Sigma Sigma announces that Margery Behrens, Annette Cioffi, Grace Di Fiore, Marilyn Dillon, Rosemary Hackett, "Sissy" Kopp, Nellie Jo Moses, Susie O'Neil, Phyllis Oleksak, "Butchie" Shon, and Doty Williams are in the new pledge class.

United States Film First On "Cinema 16" Cultural Series

With the final approval of the 1959 budget, Cinema "16", a series of Foreign Culture films, has become a project on our campus.

Cinema "16", under the chairmanship of Dennis Byron, will present the first film in its series, Grand Hotel, United States, on March 25 in the Audio-Visual Room of the library. Admission is free of charge and the film starts promptly at 3:30 p.m.

The following is a list of the films scheduled and the dates of their showing:

- March 25 - Grand Hotel, United States
- April 1 - Moussorgsky, U.S.S.R.
- April 8 - Topaze, France
- April 15 - La Strada, Italy
- April 22 - The Threepenny Opera, Germany
- April 29 - The Belles of Saint Trinian's, England G. Bernard Shaw, England
- May 6 - The Young and the Damned, Mexico
- May 13 - The Imposter, Japan
- May 20 - Chaplin Festival "B", United States

W.B. Yeats: A Tribute, England
The Cinema "16" Series is a student activity presented under the auspices of Student Council, and planned by a committee of students. Those assisting Byron are Andrew Stanekovich, Alyce Jane Thomas, and Jerry Weikert.

The scene pictured above are typical of those seen last week as old man winter bravely fought to remain in the picture. Several area deaths were attributed to the snowfall which caused many minor accidents. One pleasing note Spring officially begins tomorrow, March 21.

Junior Prom Chairmen Announce Few Changes

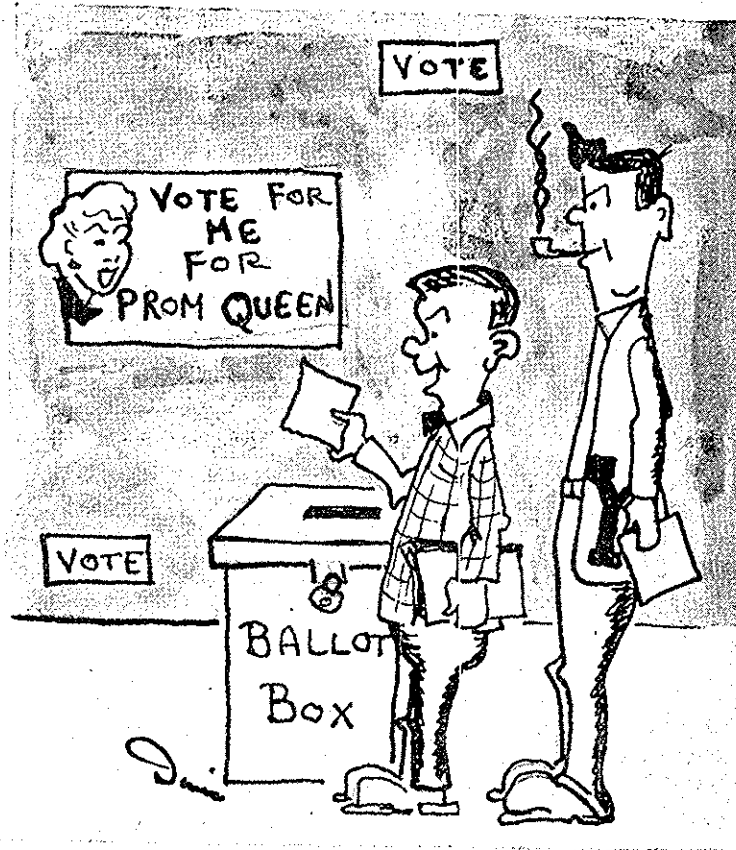

The co-chairmen of this year's Junior Prom have announced that there will be a number of changes for the 1959 edition of the gala campus event.

Frank Guarnieri and Gene Lupi, co-chairmen, proposed the following changes: The crowning of the 1959 Junior Prom Queen will be held on a specially erected platform in the center of the floor instead of on the bandstand as in previous years.

The theme of this year's dance is "April in Bloom" with decorations depicting the blossoming of spring.

Penguins Make Good Show In Kansas City Tourney

The Youngstown University Penguins gave Tennessee State a battle for their life last Wednesday evening in the Kansas City tourney before bowing to the powerful A&I quintet 89-80 in the second round of NAIA play.

The Penguins held the two-time champions to a 47-47 deadlock at halftime mainly on a 57.5% shooting from the floor. Tennessee kept pace on a brilliant performance from Dick Barnett who canned 20 of his 29 point total. Another factor was the accuracy from the foul line with an 11 for 11 performance. Youngstown only received one foul in the entire first half.

Keep Pace

Youngstown kept pace with nine minutes left by trailing by one, 69-68. Braces of fouls by Lake and Gordon made it 79-76 with 4:05 left. Here Tennessee went into stalling tactics. It was the first time they froze the ball in their 12 game tourney history. It paid off with another victory.

The final percentage was 47% for the Penguins and 43% for Tennessee. Fouls were about even with Y.U. cuning 14 of 18 and the State boys 15 of 20.

Lake High

Rebounds played a big role in the victory with Tennessee grabbing 54 while Youngstown could garner only 38. The State boys height controlled the boards. Barnett grabbed 15, Herb Lake 13, in their personal battle.

Lake led the Youngstown scorers with 24 points despite a swollen eye from a rebound scrape. Beanie Gordon dumped in 18 while Jim Cramer and "frosh" Bob Chuey had 12 apiece.

Penguins Edge Wolves

In first round action at Kansas City, Youngstown edged the Northern (South Dakota) State Wolves, 85-76. The game was close throughout, with the Penguins maintaining a slight lead most of the way.

With Herb Lake out because of fouls, the Northerners spurred for ten straight points to narrow the lead to 87-84, with 7:52 left. Cramer then fouled out for Youngstown.

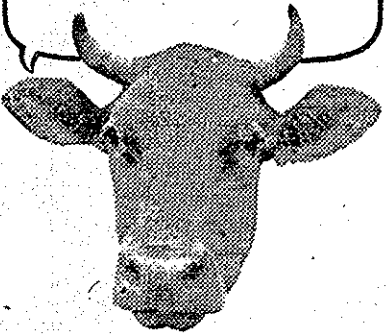

McElroy Stars in Clutch

With 2:24 remaining the Penguins were still ahead by three points. Then Howie McElroy came through with two important fielders and Roy Taylor dumped in two fouls to ice the game.

Youngstown outscored Northern from the field, 37 to 24 but almost lost the game at the foul line, the South Dakota team hitting on 28 of 35 attempts while the Penguins made 11 of 17.

Herb Lake finished with 28 points, McElroy had 15, Jim Cramer 12, and Mickey Yugovich 11.

Trackmen Run Sat. In Dennison Relay

Youngstown University's track team journey's to Granville, Ohio, for the Dennison relays Saturday.

The squad will enter all the events with a few veterans heavily counted upon in the Penguin plans. Ray Carter, Ray Coleman and Dominic Chick comprise the nucleus of Lou D'Orio's track squad.

Carter, a veteran of three years, specializes in the dashes, under 10 seconds for 100 yards, along with the broad and high jump. Counted upon to lighten Ray's load in the dashes is Alfonso Sufold.

Coleman to Jump

Coleman holds the school record in the broad jump with a 23'1" effort last spring. Coleman is also the top high jump prospect, capable of leaping six feet. Another record holder on this year's team, with a 43'7" heave of the shot put, is Dominic Chick. Chick bettered that mark but lost the event.

Having already proven himself an outstanding performer, is freshman hurdler Wally Boyer. Wally gained a third place in the highly competitive Pitt relays two weeks ago in the high hurdles. He also runs the low hurdles.

John Morley and William Bingham are counted upon for the distances; William Bailey, Wendell Ponder and Ed Domitrovich in the pole vault; Ed Yaugo, Butch Morelli and Tom Deley in the shot.

Although the complete schedule hasn't yet been released, two meets, at Hiram, April 10, and Slippery Rock, May 2, are set.

Kansas City Quotes...

Herb Lake made the 2nd team spot in the NAIA all-tournament team. This makes the third year that Herb made either first or second team. Two players from Tennessee A. & I. made the first team this year. They were Dick Barnett and John Barnhill.

Tennessee State won the NAIA touney for the third year in a row last Saturday by beating Pacific Lutheran, 97-87, in the final. This gave Tennessee an unprecedented record of 15 straight tournament game victories.

Tennessee State set two other records, most points scored in one game, 131, against Illinois Normal and most field goals in a single game, 55, against the same team.

Dick Barnett of Tennessee State received the most valuable player award. He set a career record for the touney by tallying 390 points in 15 games. This is an average of 26 points a game.

Coach Dom Rosselli was quoted in a Kansas City newspaper as saying this after the Penguins played Tennessee, "You have to disregard scores when you talk about how strong A. & I is, its the finest club we've played all season. And I'll say this, if you take the top 20 teams in the nation and play them against Tenn., Tenn. would come out on top about fifty percent of this time. They dominate the boards, and as a result you have to fight so hard for rebounds that you tire. Any team would tire against them, and when you tire it affects your shooting and rebounding in the late stages."

QUE'S QUIPS

By Jim Quilty

As far as many of the even most ardent followers of Youngstown University athletic fortunes are concerned, nothing remains for them in this category of competitive sports for the remainder of the school term. They have the impression that spring is that time of the year when young men's fancies definitely turn to thoughts of ... you know the rest.

However, the sports program in the spring of the year is more extensive than in any other period. Checking the list of intercollegiate sports we find baseball, track, tennis and golf along with full scale spring sessions on the agenda. The support given these aforementioned items needn't be mentioned simply because there isn't any.

Take for example baseball, the great American past time. The Penguins, with superb pitching and fine hitting, finished state champs in the playoff held here last spring. In attendance were no more than 200 persons, some 25 from the university itself. That's water over the dam, one might say. But the same thing will probably happen this year.

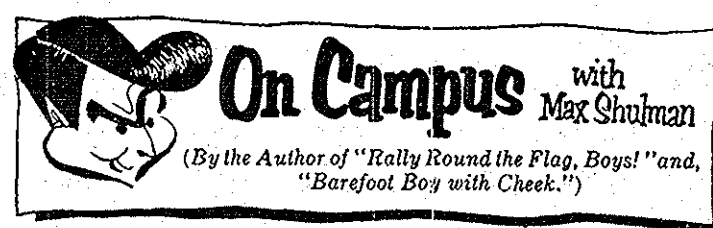

The cindermen have a squad of better than 25 men working out with the first meet scheduled at Dennison University this Saturday. A few standout performers from last year's team plus some promising newcomers make the outlook for a successful season quite bright.

Track coach Lou DiOrio hopes to send a small contingent to the Ohio relays at Ohio State next month but no definite word is in yet.

Baseball practice began this week upon Dom Rosselli's return from the NAIA meet at Kansas City. Prospects for a repeat performance of last year's state crown are good with a host of veterans on the roster.

The schedules have been drawn up for both tennis and golf. As in track and baseball, prospects are exceedingly bright.

Spring grid drills open in two weeks. Coach "Dike" Beede is at the reigns for another year.

THE TRUE AND TYPICAL CASE OF CHATSWORTH OSCEOLA

You all know, of course, that every engineering senior is receiving fabulous offers from dozens of corporations, but do you know just how fabulous these offers are? Do you have any idea how widely the corporations are competing? Let me cite for you the true and typical case of Chatsworth Osceola, a true and typical senior.

Chatsworth, walking across the M.I.T. campus one day last week, was hailed by a man sitting in a yellow convertible studded with precious gemstones. "Hello," said the man, "I am Norwalk T. Sigafos of the Sigafos Bearing and Bushing Company. Do you like this car?"

"Yeah, hey," said Chatsworth.

"It's yours," said Sigafos.

"Thanks, hey," said Chatsworth.

"Do you like Philip Morris?" said Sigafos.

"Of corris," said Chatsworth.

"Here is a pack," said Sigafos. "And a new pack will be delivered to you at twelve-minute intervals every day as long as you shall live."

"Thanks, hey," said Chatsworth.

"Does your wife like Philip Morris?" said Sigafos.

"She would," said Chatsworth, "but I'm not married."

"Do you want to be?" said Sigafos.

"What American boy doesn't?" said Chatsworth.

Sigafos pressed a button on the dashboard of his convertible and the trunk opened up and out came a nubile maiden with golden hair, flawless features, a perfect disposition, and the appendix already removed. "This is Laurel Geduldig," said Sigafos. "Would you like to marry her?"

"Is her appendix out?"

"Is her appendix out?" said Chatsworth.

"Yes," said Sigafos.

"Okay, hey," said Chatsworth.

"Congratulations," said Sigafos. "And for the happy bride, a pack of Philip Morris every twelve minutes for the rest of her life."

"Thanks, hey," said Laurel.

"Now then," said Sigafos to Chatsworth, "let's get down to business. My company will start you at $45,000 a year. You will retire at full salary upon reaching the age of 26. When you start work, we will give you a three-story house made of bullion, complete with a French Provincial swimming pool. We will provide sitter service for all your children until they are safely through puberty. We will keep your teeth in good repair, and also the teeth of your wife and children into the third generation. We will send your dentist a pack of Philip Morris every twelve minutes as long as he shall live. . . Now, son, I want you to think carefully about this offer. Meanwhile, here is ten thousand dollars in small, unmarked bills, which places you under no obligation whatsoever."

"It certainly seems like a fair offer," said Chatsworth. "But there is something you should know. I am not an engineer. In fact, I don't go to M.I.T. at all. I am a poetry major at Harvard. I just came over here on a bird walk."

"Oh," said Sigafos.

"I guess I don't get to keep the money and the convertible and Laurel now, do I?" said Chatsworth.

"Of course you do," said Sigafos. "And if you'd like the job, my offer still stands."

Speaking of engineers, the Philip Morris company makes a filter cigarette that's engineered to please the most discerning of filter smokers—Marlboro, the cigarette with better "makin's." More flavor plus more filter equals more cigarette!

BEATEN BUT WE LOVE 'EM: The Penguin basketball team was warmly welcomed back to Youngstown after recently losing in the second round of the NAIA national championship at Kansas City. We are all very proud of Dom Rosselli and the boys for a highly successful season.

Looking U Around...

By Pat McCarren and Frank Guarnieri

Happy three days after St. Patrick's Day, it will not come again for 362 days. We hope we make it till then. Look out!! Here comes more poetry (?)

Life is very dark and dank
Inside of a septic tank
Nothing is so endearing
As a career in Sanitary Engineering.

"Twinkle Toes" Lupi will dance at the Junior Prom.

What group of engineers built the fantabulous fence around the Ole' Obidokie Swamp?

Not that we scare easily, BUT we are planning an excursion to Canada scheduled to start Jan. 1, 1960, and end "after the war." You know the old saying .. "A live coward beats a dead hero."

All the flag manufacturers are crying that they have half-a-million 49 star flags in stock, and now that Hawaii has made the grade - who is going to buy all those new outmoded flags? Any takers?

If you happen to be making out a will this week, leave your dictionary to the JAMBAR. Then die soon!!!

We wanted to do some further research on Nostradaums last week, but all books on him were out in circulation. And that was three days before the story hit the street. Imagine what it is like now!

CONFUSION SUPREME -- The JAMBAR office at 3:00 p.m. on any Friday.

Congratulations to the basketball team. They ought to know Kansas City like the palm of their hands now.

We would also like to extend all our best wishes to the Junior Prom Queen attendants. Good luck ladies!

Did you ever go into the Snack Bar at 3:00 p.m. any day? The debris on the floor and tables is disgraceful! It looks worse than the monkey house at the zoo. We are supposedly "educated" people!

Besides the debris on the floor, there are books, coats, boots and hats left there. Those things cost money!

Student to Attend New York Advertising Week Convention

Alpha Mu Honorary Advertising, Public Relations, and Merchandising Fraternity, will select an outstanding student to attend the Ninth Annual Inside Advertising Week, to be held April 5 to the 10, at the Hotel Biltmore, New York City.

The student selected must be a graduating senior, majoring in Advertising with a 2.0 over-all average, and a member of Alpha Mu. The student must agree to report his trip to the senior advertising class. The report must also be written and contain a minimum of 1,000 words.

Those participating will benefit by meeting and discussing advertising methods on a national level with top executives in the field, by making valuable contacts with advertising leaders, by attending post-graduate courses in advertising as taught by some of the most outstanding advertising men in the country.

Meet Top Executives

Top executives from Grey Advertising Agency, McCann-Erickson, Esso Standard Oil, Look Magazine, McGraw-Hill Publishing, National Broadcasting Company will conduct five panels, Direct Mail, Magazine, Newspaper, Outdoor and Television Advertising. A job-finding forum will be conducted by Mr. John H. Ryder at the Advertising Club of New York.

The Ninth Annual Inside Advertising Week is being sponsored by the Association of Advertising Men and Women, and the Advertising Club of New York. Sixty-five leading Colleges and Universities, have been invited to attend. Among these are: Youngstown U., Harvard U., Michigan, and Ohio State Universities, Dartmouth College, Columbia and Cornell U.

Inside Advertising Week was founded for the purpose of showing the nation's top advertising students from the country's leading Colleges and Universities - a glimpse of the advertising business, its aims, and ideals. It is hoped that the students attending will be better able to make the jump from the classroom to his job in the industry with ease.

Advertising Week will be climaxed by a Dinner Dance at which will be chosen Miss Inside Advertising Week of 1959.

Council Cracks Down On Card Players

A student whose identity is felt best concealed has been put to work in the library for alleged card playing against Student Council restrictions.

This student must work a total of five hours in order to settle his debt. He has been a three-time offender of the card playing rule.

The Discipline Committee of Student Council has stated that even greater penalties will be handed to further offenders.

Award Offered to Best Governing Body

The Third Annual Student Government Achievement Competition will be open this month under the co-sponsorship of the U.S. National Student Association and the National Self Government Competition.

The winning student government will receive the Richard Welling Memorial Prize. A plaque and a check for $100, for having the program or project which has developed the greatest awareness and knowledge of students responsibilities as leaders in society.

The entries will be judged in four major areas of student activity; contribution in fulfilling the goals of the educational institution, development of student social awareness and citizenship responsibility, development of intracampus relationships, and development of extra-campus relationships.

Open Competition

The competition is open to the student governing body or related groups in any member of USNSA. There are no restrictions on the number or length of applications. Each competing program, however must be in effect during the current academic year. All entries should be mailed to the USNSA Student Government Achievement Competition, 3457 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia 4, Pa., and must be postmarked on or before April 20, 1959.

The Welling Memorial Prize and plaque will be presented to representatives of the willing student government during the Twelfth National Student Congress, to be held next August at the University of Illinois.

Horizon Announces April 5 Deadline for Coming Issue

Time is running out for the Spring edition of HORIZON. Students interested in submitting poetry, short-stories, essays or artwork are asked to keep in mind that the April 5 deadline for material is fast approaching.

Something special has been prepared for the contributors of HORIZON this year. The Youngstown University English Society is offering creative writing awards to be presented to the authors of the best poem and short-story to appear in the combined Winter and Spring issues of HORIZON.

Awards: $25.00 - best poem
$25.00 best short-story
Judges: Prof. Thelma Miner, Mr. George Jones, Prof. Thomas Gay

Highly Successful

The HORIZON has been published once each semester, since it first appeared in 1957. It's contributors are representative of all the major departments of the University. In addition to it's wide circulation in Youngstown and surrounding areas, the HORIZON staff maintains an exchange program with the literary magazines of universities and colleges throughout the country.

Material may be submitted to Horizon by contacting any member of the staff, or by dropping the contribution in the HORIZON boxes, which are situated in the library and outside the Registrar's office in the Main Building. Material also will be accepted at the Information desk in the Registrar's Office.

Men's Fashion ...

Big Prom Weekend Demands
Beaux be "Fashion Wise"

One of a Series:

No matter whether you plan to "bird dog" or have your own date, that weekend just around the corner is still THE prom weekend and is just as important to the dateless as it is to the dated. Many consider that this is the biggest competitive weekend of the season. If you have a date, we hope you have made the essential arrangements, if not, get with it.

In case you didn't notice it over the winter holidays, the new styles in formal wear have caught on. The man with a madras or regimental stripe bow tie plus cumberbund was the rule. In fact, the popularity of these sets have given the man a chance for personal expression on the dance floor.

Those of you who own a tuxedo will want to know the latest formal wear fashions. The new black silk shantung lux with a satin shawl collar is by far the most flattering and popular. The weave of the fabric affords the wearer comfort in both winter and summer. Running second to the black shantung is the mid-night blue or black tropical cloth made up with the shawl collar in satin. Either one will look great set off by one of the new tie and cumberbund sets.

Formal Shirt a Must

Be sure to wear a formal shirt with a formal suit. Your everyday white shirt just won't do; nor do you have to suffer in one of those stiff cardboard-like jobbies. You'll find comfort as well as good looks in one of the new pleated soft bosom shirts.

As far as suits are concerned, there is a soft look. Unfinished worsteds dominate the scene with soft tweed -- not bulky -- rising in favor. In top circles, a few cashmere herring-bones are seen. Colorwise, blue is the big shade.

With suits like these, supplement your oxford buttondown collection with a few subtle textured broadcloths. In colored shirts, blue still wins hands down, but the big trend is toward the candy and hairline stripes. One can't go wrong with a few of them in the dresser drawer.

Incidentally, if you want to, and are a member of the hat wearing fraternity, the narrow snap brim with the single crease down the center is par. Russet brown or soft olive tones are favored.

U. of Southern California
Offers Chemistry Contest

Students of chemistry, biochemistry and chemical engineering may be interested in the 1959 contest in colloid and surface chemistry announced by the University of Southern California.

The contestants may enter either a report on a research project conducted by themselves or an essay on the subject. "The contribution of Irving Langmuir to colloid and surface chemistry". Langmuir, American Nobel Prize winner in chemistry, passed away less than two years ago.

Cash Awards

The best essay and the best report will receive each prizes of $500 and the second best $200 each, under contest regulations. Honorable mention prizes are $50.

The deadline for submitting entries is July 1, 1959. Entry blanks may be obtained immediately by writing to Prof. K.J. Mysels, Chemistry Department, University of California, Los Angeles 7, California. The prizes will be awarded by a panel of anonymous judges and will be distributed September 1.

Groups Reminded That Petition
Required to Advertise Activities

Any student or group of students who wish to publicize an event or activity, must first receive permission from an authorized person. This person shall be the Chairman of the Student Council Discipline Committee or the Student Faculty Discipline Committee.

In order to receive permission to advertise the student or the representative of a group must fill out a form in Dean Gillespie's office. On this form he must tell what the group wishes to advertise, what event they are advertising and the type of advertising, be it posters, letters etc. If permission is received the student or group may proceed to put up their posters, letters, etc. The group may not advertise the event before ten SCHOOL days prior to the event. The group must also remove all forms of advertising within two school days following the event. If this is not done the group is in danger of losing its right to advertise again.

The only authorized places to advertise are the wires in the main building and engineering school; and the entrances to the snack bar and the cafeteria. All forms of advertising must be either attached to the wire or placed on the wall with cellulose tape. Any form of advertising which implies permanence, such as stapled down, nailed down, etc., will be torn down.
