

The Corvinian Library. History and Stock. By Csaba Csapodi. Transl. by Imre Gombos. Studia Humanitatis, I. Budapest: Akademiai Kiado, 1973. pp. 516

This volume is truly a labor of love. Dr. Csaba Csapodi has devoted almost a lifetime to the history of the Bibliotheca Corviniana, the famous library of the Renaissance king of Hungary, Matthias Corvinus (1458-1490). His patient and exhaustive research, assisted by his scholarly wife Mmeklara Gardonyi Csapodi, have enriched Hungarian Medieval and Renaissance studies for decades. The large number of articles describing their thorough search for lost volumes of the Corvinian Library attest to their success. A few years ago they also published, with the assistance of UNESCO, a superbly illustrated volume (Bibliotheca Corviniana. The Library of King Matthias Corvinus of Hungary, Budapest, Corvina Press, 1969), which summarized the state of their research at that time.

Dr. Csapodi's latest work is a definitive study on this subject and will be, in all probability, the last word on the library of king Matthias for several generations. It is a reference book of inestimable value. The work is divided into two parts. In the first section the author discusses the history of the library, its size, ~~and~~ development and destruction, as well as the previous estimates of its stock. The second part consists of the reconstructed Repertorium of the volumes, which, according to the author, were part of this famous collection.

In the discussion of the growth and decline of the Corvinian Library, Csapodi sees four distinct periods. The first stage of development extends from the election of Matthias in 1458 to 1472. The king probably had a few books of his own at the beginning of this period and might have inherited volumes from his father, Janos Hunyadi, and from the collections of previous Hungarian kings. Yet, the number of books Matthias had in 1458 could not have exceeded 100 volumes.

Thus this collection, which eventually surpassed almost all libraries of its time, with the exception of the Vatican, had a most modest beginning. Under the influence of Archbishop Vitéz Janos, his nephew the poet Janus Pannonius, and the Italian humanist Galeotto Marzio, King Matthias began earnestly to collect a library. This first period in the history of the Bibliotheca Corviniana ended with the disgrace and tragic death of both Vitéz and Janus Pannonius and the acquisition of almost all of their books by the king through confiscation. This is how, for example, many of the Greek volumes of Janus became part of the royal collection. Csapodi estimates the number of volumes to be between 500 and 600 by the end of this phase. The second period covers the years 1473 to 1484. After a slow start the number of volumes increased, especially after the arrival of Queen Beatrix of Aragon, and reached about 1000 books. The third stage, 1485-1490, witnessed the peak of development in the history of the collection. After the capture of Vienna in 1485, Matthias Corvinus was at the height of his power, spent lavishly on books abroad and employed scribes and illuminators at Buda, so that the yearly increase of manuscripts is placed at about 150. Thus the total number of manuscripts in the royal library proper is estimated at about 1,500 to 1,600. To this number the author adds 300-400 incunabula and calculates that about 150 volumes were ordered but never delivered to Buda due to the sudden death of the king. Csapodi concludes that the total stock of the Bibliotheca Corviniana ranged between 2000 and 2500 volumes. These numbers seem a little inflated and a more conservative estimate would be more realistic. The fourth and final stage extends from the death of Matthias in 1490 to the Battle of Mohacs (1526). This period can be characterized as one of lingering decay. Not only did the successors of Corvinus neglect the continued growth of the collection, but some volumes were squandered, previous orders remained undelivered and the scriptorium of Buda fell into

Kedves Laci!

Még januárban megkaptam kiadványaidat: a tanulmányaid másolatát. Mindezeket köszönöm. Elolvam őket, nagyon érdekesnek és értékesnek találom őket. Különösen kiválónak találtam az "Ecclesiastical Patrons" c. cikked, mert nagyon jó áttekintést és elemzést adsz a korról és az összeköttetéseket is kidomborítod. Érdekel ki tőmben az egész Mátyás elleni lázadás is a Janus Pannonius színpadon. Ennél tervezel egy tanulmányt? Szerintem nagyon érdekes téma lenne, mert megvilágítaná a Mátyás iránymutatást és az ellenkező elkövetéseket is.

Különben hogy vagyok? Remélem mindenki jól van. Nálunk is minden rendben van. Fellegemnek volt egy műtétje januárban. Ez kissé zűrzavart okozott nekem a gyerekek miatt. Szűcsrebe azonban nagyon jó orvosunk volt és minden nagyon jól sikerült. Most már jól van és visszatértünk a régi rutinkba.

Mit csináltok a nyáron? Nálunk még bizonytalan minden. Talán lehetőségem lesz egy nyári európai utra, ez még egy körülménytől függ. Másfél évben itt maradnánk Columbusban. Abban az esetben ha kéznél van Neked a Budapestre érkező charter járatokról egy prospektus, nagyon hálás lennék ha egy példányt nekem küldhetnél, vagy meg tudnád adni a címet. Clevelandi vagy torontói indulópontra mindkettő jó lenne.

Örülök ha hírd adnál Magyaroktól. Addig is sok üdvözléssel

Pali

P.S. Ha kedvetek lenne Columbusba jönni 1-2 napra, week-endre, vagy egy konferenciára (vagy hírem alapján lesz valami történelmi konfer.) nagyon szívesen látnánk vendégekben a családdal együtt. Nálunk van alvóhelyiség is és ezt szívesen felajánljuk. Konferencia kb. ezeken az időpontokon vagy csak fellegeddel - valamilyen programban benne vagyunk. Pali

Kedves Laci!

Igazán nagyon jó volt veled megint találkozni! A gyűlések között itt-ott még volt alkalom "beszólni" egy kis magánbeszélgetést is. Azt hiszem majdnem minden résztvevő jól érezte magát. Talán ennek a gyűlésnek a legmaradandóbb értéke, hogy többen személyesen is megismerték egymást, kik eddig csak hallásból/írásból tudtak egymásról. Ebből kifolyólag, talán megszületik, idővel, egy rendszeresebb, életképebb magyarságtudományi légkör egyetemi szinten.

De most nem erről akarok írni, hanem az ITT-OTT találkozó programjáról. Még az itteni együttlét alatt mondtam, hogy írásban is felkérünk egy előadásra. Egy "népszerű," azaz, nem túl tudományos előadásról volna szó, ca. 40 perces. Címnek jó volna "Mátyás Király és a Magyar Reneszánsz." Az előadásokkal összekötött nyaralási hetünk, augusztus 28-tól szeptember 4-ig lesz megtartva. Előadásod pontos idejét még nem tudom biztosan, de azt hiszem, hogy a hét első felében lesz. Mindenesetre, Lake Hope, Ohio állami parkja nincs túl messze (relatív fogalom!) Youngstown-tól, így ha véletlenül nem tudtok egész hétre lejönni, akkor egy nap alatt oda-vissza lehet vezetni és közbe még egy előadást levágni és egy ebédet bevágni. Ennek dacára, remélem az egész hétre eljöttök. Aránylag olcsó (megint relatív fogalom) nyaralási lehetőség és tényleg gyönyörű a vidék. Együttal, a társaság is érdekes és jókedvű. Közbe, az előadásokkal egyidőben, gyerek programokat is rendezünk. Tehát jó kikapcsolódás minden szempontból. De nem az a célom, hogy itt egy propaganda brosurát írjak! Csak nagyon jó volna, ha ott lennétek Lake Hope-on arra a hétre. (Elszállásolás miatt irjatok Bőjtös Lászlónak. Címe: 7000 Hilton Rd., Brecksville, Ohio 44141).

Kérlek ird meg minél előbb elhatározásotokat, mert szeretnénk véglegesíteni a programot legkésőbb június 25-ig. Mi már csak április 30-ig vagyunk itt Bloomingtonban, aztán még május 5-ig eltudtok érné Clevelandban (cim: c/o Nádas, 1425 Grace Ave., Lakewood, Ohio 44107), de 6-án indulunk Magyarországra. Csak június 15-én érünk vissza. Ettől kezdve, egész aug. 20-ig Portlandban lesz a hadiszállásunk (cim: c/o Éltető, Dept. of Foreign Languages, Portland State Univ., Box 751, Portland, Oregon 97207).

Évát és a gyerekeket csókoljuk, Téged szeretettel ölel,

Dear Professor Domonkos,

On behalf of the Executive Committee, and the YSU - OEA bargaining unit may I extend our very real appreciation of the outstanding job you have done for the Negotiating Team in the past.

You have been both vigorous and painstaking in a job which is too often thankless and time-consuming.

I wish you a successful and happy academic year, and hope you will consider serving on other committees in the future.

Dear Dr. Domonkos:

Several members of the Faculty Evaluation Committee have resigned their positions on the committee. Appointment to this committee is no favor. Nevertheless, the Faculty Evaluation and Improvement Committee is one of the most important assignments within the University. If we are to upgrade the quality of instruction, we need an objective, fair program of evaluation and it is this committee which wrestles with that difficult task.

I know your commitments are already extensive. However, I can think of no better person that I would wish to appoint to that committee than yourself.

On behalf of the YSU-OEA, would you please accept the position of Member of the Faculty Evaluation and Improvement Committee. I would be happy to speak with you about this matter.

Sincerely,

Dear Les,

I received your generous "language reference" in good time; thank you very much for your help. If my application fails, it will certainly not be because of doubts concerning my Hungarian.

Thank you too for the renewed offer of assistance with respect to ECE. I should like, in fact, to rely on your judgment - particularly on matters medieval. I have in my possession now a review copy of Bonfini's Rerum Ungaricarum Decades, Tomus IV - Pars II (a 1976 publication of the AK, edited by Margarita and Peter Kulcsar). Do you think we ought to review one volume of this famous work? And if so, would you be interested in the task? In any event, I look forward to receiving your revised article and the book review you^r undertook for Tom.

Again, my sincere appreciation. Carol and the children join me in sending our very best regards to you and your family.

Dear Laci and Eva:

The day spent in your lovely home, the luncheons, and receptions will belong to the most affectionate memories of my academic life. I was delighted to see your lovely house in impeccable order, carrying out the tradition of the "URI" family of old Hungary. Eva is not only a charming, elegant, pretty lady but a better cook than Mr. Szathmary of The Bakery in Chicago, who pretends to be a descendant of Bishop Szathmary, a historical figure well known before Laci.

Like it or not, the highlight of my meeting was to be with your children--impeccably dressed, sophisticated and well-behaved Katica and Piroška, full of feminine coquetterie, and Istvanka, learned and serious like his father.

Laci's study room was the most impressive. They say the greatest ideas are conceived in small places.

The reception with canapes, champagne, wine and all kinds of goodies shared by top faculty and university officials was greatly appreciated. It reassured me of my firm conviction about the appreciation Laci has gained from his colleagues and peers. I did not fail to mention to several distinguished people that Laci is expected to go to Warsaw where he is going to play an important role as a member of the United States delegation.

Once more, I would like to thank you for the hospitality and with all my love for the children and for both of you, I remain,

As ever,

Dear Professor Domonkos:

Recently New Viewpoints published POLITICS AND SOCIETY IN TWENTIETH-CENTURY SPAIN, edited with an Introduction by Stanley G. Payne, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin. This book is a volume in our Modern Scholarship on European History series, edited by Henry A. Turner, Jr.

Spain has had a unique and highly complex political history in the twentieth century, ranging from old-style liberalism to moderate authoritarianism, liberal democracy, violent revolution, semi-fascism, and back again to moderate authoritarianism. This book elucidates the relationship of sectors of Spanish society and various political groupings to these phases and changes.

Because we believe that POLITICS AND SOCIETY IN TWENTIETH-CENTURY SPAIN is a good book that deserves your attention, we are sending you a complimentary examination copy. We hope that after you examine the book you will adopt it for use in any of your courses for which it is suitable. Also, we would appreciate your taking a moment to fill out the enclosed post-paid comment card.

Dear Les,

It was good to see you again last week and kind of you to offer your services as reviewer, referee, etc., as I assume responsibility for the Hungarian section of ECE.

On my return to Virginia, I found forms for the Fulbright I must apply for under the terms of my IREX application. It appears that I need a "language reference." This presents some problem, since my Hungarian friends in Hungary alone have heard me speak at length and have read my letters. I am aware that it has been some time since our year together in Budapest, but I wonder if you would be willing to fill out the enclosed form for me? I have enclosed a copy of my IREX proposal (which I am altering a bit to meet Fulbright requirements). Since the reference must be sent to the Office of Education from here, you would have to return it (as soon as you are able) either to me or, if you would prefer, to :

FROM OTHER SHORES:

LEE CONDON

I am applying for a fellowship from the International Research and Exchanges Board for the period 1 September 1977 to 1 June 1978 in order to complete the research for a book entitled From Other Shores: Exile and the Regrouping of the Hungarian Left, 1919-39. This study in intellectual history will constitute a sequel to the series of ten articles I have published on radical Hungarian intellectuals, 1900-19, the research for which was completed in Budapest under a 1970-71 IREX fellowship.

This proposed investigation began as a study of Lajos Kassák and the circle of writers around the journal Ma ("Today"). Such a study seemed to be a logical extension of my earlier research, because as leader of the avant-garde left during the First World War, Kassák led a Young Turk revolt within the radical camp; he and his followers censured the pre-war left for its purported lack of authentic revolutionary zeal. Supported by a grant from the American Council of Learned Societies, I began my research on Kassák at the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace during the summer of 1973. In the initial stages of my work, I was most intrigued by the rebel artist-writer's life in Vienna. Having fled the White Terror that followed in the wake of Admiral Horthy's accession to power in 1919, he published Ma in the old Kaiserstadt from 1920 to 1925. As I became convinced that exile had added a new dimension to Kassák's radicalism, I began to think in terms of a broader study of the Hungarian intellectual emigration.

During the summer of 1975, I pursued my research in London, supported by a grant from Madison College. As a result of my work there, From Other shores took definite shape. My resolve to consider the impact of exile on the regrouping of the Hungarian left was strengthened by a long interview with Paul Ignatus (himself an exile and a leading member of the inter-war left), whose essays constitute the indispensable starting point for my efforts.

I shall begin my book with a chapter on those intellectuals in exile who did not return to Hungary, at least until after World War II. Among these men, most of whom were closely associated with either the Karolyi or the Kun government, were Oszkár Jászi, Pál Szende, György Lukács, Béla Balázs, Andor Gábor, and Jenő Varga. From Vienna, Berlin, and Moscow, in emigré publications (e.g., Bécsi Magyar Újság, Világosság, Diogenes, Új Hang) or in "tolerated" Budapest forums (e.g., Századunk, Társadalmi Szemle, Condolat, 100%), they fired verbal salvos at the Horthy government. Yet, for all their fervor and intelligence, their "letters from afar" (the title of Balázs's column in Új Hang) seemed increasingly remote from Hungarian reality.

The major part of my book, therefore, will be devoted to those intellectuals (mostly younger men) who were repatriated in the mid-1920s, after a government amnesty. More specifically, I shall focus on László Kassák, Gyula Illyés, and Attila József. Kassák was the pivotal figure, "the doyen of Hungarian revolutionary writers," as Koestler once observed. Arrogant, but talented, his influence was pervasive. Hated by some, admired by others, this remarkable man could not be ignored. Indeed, "Kassák als Erzieher" might well serve as a title for my work. Both Illyés and József began as his protégés.

Gyula Illyés's populism was a product of his early life on a Trans-danubian puszta and his experiences in Parisian exile (1921-26). Having begun his literary career as a contributor to Kassák's Ma, he associated himself with the surrealists during his stay in the French capital. Yet, Illyés never became a cosmopolitan or a "French" writer; as he himself has observed many times, the view from Paris afforded new perspectives on his homeland. Paradoxically, his physical distance intensified his spiritual proximity. In 1926, he returned home to be a Hungarian writer, rooting his opposition to the political-social order in the soil tilled by the dispossessed peasant masses of Hungary. Ever since, his social criticism has represented a unique synthesis of European sophistication and peasant understanding.

Attila József was not, strictly speaking, an emigré, but from 1925 to 1927, he did live and study in Vienna and Paris, a sojourn that was to prove decisive for his future thought. Born in Budapest and raised amidst urban poverty, Attila was instinctively rebellious, but it was not until he came into contact with Viennese radicals and Hungarian emigrés such as Kassák, Lukács, Balázs, and Anna Lesznai, that he began to transcend his youthful nihilism and to turn to political commitment. After returning home, he edited (with Paul Ignotus) Szép Szó, the organ of Hungarian urbanism - the principal radical alternative to populism. Like some members of the Frankfurt School in Germany, he regarded it as his special task to bring together Marxism and Freudian psychology (he had heard Freud lecture in Vienna) in a combined assault on the citadels of power. It is, then, with populist and urbanist radicalism and their symbiotic relationship to exile that I will be principally concerned.

Having lived and worked in Budapest for one year, I am well acquainted with that great city's libraries and institutes. My research would be carried on at the Országos Széchenyi Könyvtár, the Fővárosi Szabó Ervin Könyvtár, the Magyar Tudományos Akadémia, and the Academy's Institutes of Historical and Literary Science. It would be particularly helpful for my purposes to be attached to the Institute of Literary Science. I should like to be able to confer on a regular basis with scholars such as György Bodnár, who helped me very much five years ago; Farkas József, the Kassák scholar; Miklós Béládi, the Illyés scholar; and several others. Having corresponded in recent years with Erzsébet Vezér at the Petőfi Museum of Literary History, I would make every effort to take advantage of her considerable knowledge of twentieth-century Hungarian intellectual history. At the Institute of Historical Science, I would benefit from discussions with Miklós Lackó, who has done some excellent work on the populists and Péter Hanák, who possesses a wide knowledge of modern Hungarian history. I am also well acquainted with the necessary sources. Although Hungarian collections outside of Hungary are very fragmented, I have exploited them fully. In order to complete my research, I must have the access to sources that working in Budapest alone would afford.

The study I am proposing would provide Western readers with the necessary background for a fuller understanding of a number of creative writers and social thinkers of European stature. Moreover, since no full-scale study of the inter-war intelligentsia presently exists, it would supplement the work done by me and others on the "second reform generation" and thus provide a more complete account of the development of twentieth-century Hungarian thought. And perhaps something more. If, as I believe, the political exile has become the symbol of our troubled century, a critical analysis of intellectuals in exile could shed light on what is arguably the master key to the complex intellectual history of our time.

Kedves Lajos!

Kedves Barátaim!

Sajnos, mindezideig még kevés választ kaptam előzetesen kiküldött felkérésünkre, amelyben kértük, hogy vegyetek részt a november végi /nov.26-28/ Magyar Találkozó, Magyar Kongresszus tárgyalásaiban.

A Magyar Találkozó műsorra kitűzött két legfontosabb témakörének tárgyalási menetét rendszerbe foglalva, most megküldöm azzal a kéréssel, hogy a felsorolt témákból egy egy tetszés szerinti előadást, vagy hozzászólást vállalni sziveskedjete.

Amennyiben a felsoroltakon túlmenően a tárggyal kapcsolatos más kérdésekről kívánnátok előadni, kérem, közöljétek velem.

Az előadások tartamát cca 15-25, de inkább 15-20 percre tervezzük, amelyeket rövid vita (személyenként 3-5 perc) követne. Ha előadástart hosszabb terjedelmű lenne, kérem azt velem közölni, hogy a végső egyeztetésnél, amennyiben több idő állna rendelkezésre, azt tekintetbe vehessük.

Komoly tanulmányokat a Találkozó során következő évkönyvben teljes egészében közreadunk, még akkor is, ha az előadók az időkorlátozás miatt az anketon nem tudnák tanulmányaikat teljes terjedelmükben előadni.

A Magyar Találkozó meghívóját október 15-ig nyomdába kell adnunk. Miután abban előadóink nevét és előadásaik címét is feltüntetjük, sziveskedjete nb.válaszotokat mielőbb, de legkésőbb levelem kézhezvételétől számítva egy héten belül megküldeni.

Természetesen előadás vállalása nélkül is hívjuk és várjuk a magyarul érző és gondolkodó, a magyarság megtartásáért és fenntartásáért aggódó és dolgozni kívánó magyar testvéreinket tanácskozásainkra.

Előre is hálás köszönetet mondok szives közreműködéseitekért.

Baráti szeretettel ~~velem~~ :

Dear Les:

Sorry for my replying to your letter of August 19 at this late date. But, I've really been wrapped up tight all summer long on work connected with my association with the American Society for Environmental Education out at Park Forest South, Illinois (Governors State University, College of Environmental and Applied Sciences).

Meanwhile, I've heard from John and his part of the project is coming along well. What's more, I believe that he found the information he was looking for in regards to how people lived during the Hunyadi era. And, as to a source for a study grant, my application is now under serious consideration by the Translation Center of Columbia University.

My biggest and most frustrating obstacle, of course, is that there are only so many hours a day that a man can work and just so many days in a week. I'm sure that you know what I mean.

With kindest personal regards and best wishes to you and the family, I remain,

Cordially yours,

Paul Pulitzer

P.S. Incidentally, my brother-in-law, Joseph Horvath, got his Masters (History) and has accumulated quite a number of credits already towards his Doctorate. So, in the event you should ever hear of any opening for a teacher, please let me know. The job market here, of course, is practically non-existent.

Re: Request for additional information and documentation.

We have now had an opportunity to review your manuscript in detail and find there are some instances in which, given the encyclopedic nature of the work, we must ask for specific information or documentation.

We are enclosing a list of queries which we would appreciate your answering within ten days of receipt of this letter, in order that we may meet the publisher's summer production schedule.

Your prompt attention to these matters will be very much appreciated.

Dear Friends of the Medieval Institute:

During the 1976-77 academic year we are introducing a medieval colloquium along the successful lines adopted in many departments.

Each month in which we do not have an outside lecturer, a member of the Notre Dame faculty will present a paper. The idea is for us to get to know one another better and to learn from each other.

All interested faculty and graduate students are cordially invited to attend and to participate.

Papers will be duplicated before the session so that everyone will have a chance to look at them before the presentation; this should make for a good discussion after the talks.

I realize that any regular time will conflict with some schedules, and though this is unavoidable I do apologize. We will meet Wednesdays at 3:30 pm. in the Medieval Institute.

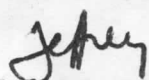

Thus the mmm (monthly meetings of medievalists) will continue this year with a combination of lectures and colloquia (rather than lunches).

This year we have scheduled Professor Fairweather from Toronto in September; Ralph McInerny has kindly agreed to present the first colloquium in October; and Brian Stock from Toronto will speak in November. In the spring, John Freccero from Yale will speak. We welcome, desire, and earnestly solicit you to participate. We should be able to have at least three more colloquia this year in addition to those indicated. Please volunteer, lest ye be volunteered!

Dates of meetings will be announced each time in advance, together with the topic to be presented.

With best wishes for a happy year,

Sincerely yours,

Jeffrey B. Russell

AUTHOR'S QUERIES - HISTORY OF HIGHER EDUCATION

- ✓ 1. P. 7, l. 11: Could you please supply a brief statement identifying the "forest schools".
- ✓ 2. P. 7, l. 13: "Higher education, including Hindu tradition." These lines are ambiguous. Is this the kind of higher education which took place in the forest schools, or is it the kind of higher education generally received by 7th century B. C. Brahmins?
- ✓ 3. P. 7, l. 16: Whom, generally, were Tols established? When Parishads?
- ✓ 4. P. 8, 1st par: When, approximately, did Hindu Vedic tradition revive and Buddhist influence decline?
- ✓ 5. P. 9, last par: Could you expand on the Ancient civilizations of the Americas, i.e., explain briefly how scholars know that "some form of higher education must have existed in all three ofcultures"?
- ✓ 6. P. 12, top par: There is need for some clarification here. Does the last sentence in this paragraph (The utilitarianismmethod of inquiry) refer to the rise of the anti-Sophist movement which is discussed in next paragraph?
- ✓ 7. P. 13, bottom of page: Could you please provide general dates for Hellenic and Hellenistic periods.
- ✓ 8. P. 14, l. 10: Could you suggest brief identifying statements for the schools of Epicurus and the Stoics.
- ✓ 9. P. 14, l. 25-26: Please explain the "certain degree of institutionalization in the master-student" relationship.
- ✓ 10. P. 15, l. 1-2: When did the Ptolemy rulers establish the Museum in Alexandria?

Author's queries - Access to Higher Education - #2

- ✓ 11. P. 16, l. 15: Dates for the Republican period.
- ✓ 12. P. 19, l. 4: Could you provide a bit more information on the Patriarchal Schools?
- ✓ 13. P. 19, l. 7: The point here would be stronger if a few of the "extremely scholarly individuals" were identified.
- ✓ 14. P. 19, l. 22-23: Could you provide a more specific indication of when the Persian Academy of Gondeshapur was established and flourished?
- ✓ 15. P. 20, 2nd full par: A brief description of the nature of the religious division between Shiite and Sunnite would clarify the differences in educational orientation.
- ✓ 16. P. 22, first sentence of last paragraph: First sentence of last paragraph: "The rise of the earliest universities....." In Western Europe?
- ✓ 17. P. 24, ll. 15-16: Could you explain the relationship between the Cismontane and Transmontane universities, and their relationship to the University of Bologna.

- ✓ 19. P. 30, ll. 18-21: Could you add a brief description of the curriculum in a gymnasium, lycie, or grammar school which was influenced by Italian humanist educators and Northern scholars.
20. P. 31, l. 19: English translation for "cujus regio, ejus religio"? Will the English translation alone suffice?
21. P. 35, l. 1-3: If not associated with universities, with whom (what) were the "original minds" associated?
22. P. 36, l. 4: When was the University of Halle founded?

- ✓ 25. P. 40, bottom of page: Could you clarify the French "academies" - were they responsible for designated geographic or academic areas, or both? The statement "France was divided into educational districts representing certain faculties" suggests both geographic and academic division.

Dear Les:

I am very pleased to send you the enclosed and to let you know that John Eckenrod, our associate, will be leaving for Europe next week to go to work on and to complete the film script version of the Hunyadi story. He returned recently to personally brief me on developments and to let me know what he needs (background information) in order to help expedite his part of the work in the project.

While in Europe, John finally managed to meet with George Pizer, the famous French film producer. When John presented the Hunyadi scenario, Pizer waxed enthusiastic and requested an immediate film script, which, as you know, happens to be an absolute requirement to close a deal. Consequently, John plans to get it ready within 90 days for submission. Upon its submission and approval by Pizer, we will be prepared to enter into a formal and legal contract which will guarantee us a cash advance payment and a participation in the profits of what Pizer envisions to be a $10,000,000 film production. In the meantime, we have already copyrighted John's scenario or story outline for protection.

This also means now that, while John works on the film script, I must move forward in the preparation of the final book manuscript so that its availability will coincide with the film production (Film + Book = $$$$$). Accordingly, we now have our hands full to get the job done without further delay.

1. What John needs specifically, and which is not so easy to get it seems, is some background information, in English, on how people lived during the 15th century in Hungary (clothes, food, customs, music, and the like). The rest, I have and will translate it for him.

2. What I would like to ascertain beforehand, is whether it would be possible for me somehow to qualify for a grant to help offset the cost involved in going to Hungary to complete the research, the translation work, and the book manuscript. For example: to what source would you go, if you were faced with this same problem? Are there any Hungarian organizations who would consider backing us? Any other kinds of sources?

As we have now reached a critical point, and can now rest assured that we are concerned with a very serious project, your advice would be appreciated. So, please give these points some real hard thought and let me know what you come up with. It is urgent. It is important.

With kindest personal regards and best wishes to you and to your family, I remain,

Cordially yours,

Paul

My dear distinguished friend, Dr. Maday:

Congratulations on a very nice issue of the Hungarian Studies Newsletter, Spring 1976. I read it with great interest and was particularly pleased about the various book reviews.

I noted with great interest the book review you did on a book by L. S. Domonkos, The State of Education on the Eve of the Battle of Mohács on page 8. Dr. Domonkos was here at the University to prepare for another conference which he is going to give at St. Louis University on the significance of the Battle of Mohács in European History.

I would like to take the opportunity with this letter to recommend Dr. Leslie Domonkos, Ph.D. to serve on our Advisory Council. He is extremely active and represents the younger historian generation. Possibly you could suggest this to Professor Molnar and to the Board of Directors and Officers to consider the nomination of Dr. Domonkos to serve on the Advisory Council. I will be in this country till August 26, then I will be in Europe at the University of Salamanca for one month, returning on October 1. With very best wishes,

As ever,

Dear Les:

I just returned from a very enjoyable and educational trip abroad, including a visit to Hungary...which was the best of all. Needless to say, while in Budapest, I scored some constructive points regarding our Hunyadi Project and learned that a) - a three-month sojourn in Hungary would be most desirable to complete the project; and that b) - the translation work stumbling-block could easily be resolved over there at one half the cost. For these reasons, I need and request the benefit of your advise and, perhaps, your immediate cooperation.

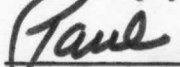

How, for example, could we make arrangements for me to obtain an "invitation" to go to Hungary to complete the research work on the Hunyadi Project? That is to say, an "official invitation" through academic avenues? Why such an invitation is important, is self-evident as it would help expedite cooperation on all levels. Of course, housing or financing is not needed, along with the invitation, as I can take care of that part very well. In fact, I already have a place to live with one of my relatives residing in Budapest.

Would you please give this idea some solid thought, Les?

While in Paris, I met with my associate, John Eckenrod, who is still over there and I was pleased to learn that he is negotiating with a French film group and that, this well-known group, is very interested, indeed, in the Hunyadi Story. I expect to hear more about this from him real soon.

With kindest personal regards and best wishes to you and to yours, I remain,

Dear Les -

It was good to get your newsy letter a couple of weeks ago. If I hadn't been so busy finishing my paper for Kalamazoo (!) I would have written right away.

I am really pleased about your invitation to Warsaw! I'm sure you have thought of IREX for travel monies, but did you know that the ACLS also offers travel grants to eastern Europe?

The year here has dragged along painfully. We seem to be no closer than before to ending the search for a Provost and I am unhappy to be so heavily involved in the administrative concerns of the university. I think the stresses of the year showed in my Kalamazoo paper - it was not very good I'm afraid. In any case I am enclosing my two most recent articles to show that I have not completely abandoned scholarship!

Our summer plans are now pretty firm.

I'm going to be teaching in Summer School and continuing to look for a Provost.

$1800 worth of Orthodonty for our daughter pretty well rules out much of my vacation this year, so we have given up the idea of a Bicentennial binge.

Yes, the news that your health is good and that Eva has recovered is very good to hear. I am sorry that we won't be able to get together this summer. But — you never know when I am liable to be off to some place where our paths will cross,

With fond best wishes,

Hi godfather,

I got your letter yesterday. Well only 3 weeks to go. I graduate May 12th. of course I'm going to spend at least 3 days with TERESA. I've got 16 DAY LEAVE almost 1/2 a month to spend at home and to see everybody. I'm coming up in my uniform. I've got my orders to where I go after my 16 day leave. I'm going to KANSAS. FORT LEVENWORTH, it's a maximum security penitentiary for military personnel. You know MURDERERS and people like that. I'm going to live off post with 8 other guys so no need to worry about it. If KATHY and STEVE go on that WALKATHON, more power to them. meaning it was MURDER for me walking up and down really steep hills. Where will they walk to.

How's the temperature up there? Down here at 9:00 AM it gets to be in the mid 80's. AROUND 11:00 - 5:00 it gets to be in the low 90's. So you can see how HOT it is down here.

DID you find a LAWN mower yet?

How DID the EASTER egg hunt go? DID anybody get a RABBIT OR A DUCK?

So until next time I write I'll

MARCH 8.

How come you haven't been writing?
I've been waiting for some of your letters.

Did you get my picture yet? If not then it will be there in a few days. So, now I got 2 badges 1 is a sharpshooters medal the other is an expert in Grenades.

Count Down has started and we have 10 days left for graduation. I can hardly wait.

Today is a nice cool day outside, mostly cloudy but it's still nice.

Now I got guard duty inside the barracks (time 2:35 AM) it's O.K. there's about 7 of us in here and we're listening to a tape. I guess I got lucky and got out of work today. Tomorrow we have R.T., physical training for 1 1/2 hours and shots. Jus. those 2 things. So now I'm bored, what's new up there? How's Kati, Ivan and Peroska?

Today's going by so slow sometimes I feel like going to sleep.

Last night 5 guys from a different company were chasing one of our guys with a lead pipe and ball bats. From what I heard he was running his heart out and calling for the drill sergeant. Finally a drill sergeant came but he only caught 4 out of the 5 saying it he ever saw them here again he'd shoot them.

AND ANOTHER GUY FROM A DIFFERENT COMPANY WENT OUT NIGHT FIXING. HE WENT WILD WITH HIS M-16 AND TRIED TO SHOOT SOMEBODY. THE DRILL SERGEANT TOOK HIS 45 AND SHOT THE KID IN THE BACK OF THE NECK. HE DIED THE NEXT DAY, THAT DAY WAS YESTERDAY. THEN THERE WAS A FIGHT AT A CLUB. A KID FROM OUR BARRACKS GOT THE DAYLIGHTS BEAT OUT OF HIM. THIS HAPPENED SATURDAY, HE'S BACK TODAY. HE'S GOT 1 TERRIFIC BLACK EYE AND A BUSTED JAW. HE WAS BEATEN WITH ROCKS AND KICKED AROUND BY 3 OR 4 PEOPLE. WHEN ALL THIS HAPPENED I WAS IN MY BUNK ASLEEP, BECAUSE I DIDN'T FEEL GOOD THAT DAY. THEY CAUGHT THE GUYS WHO STARTED THE FIGHT. 2 GUYS FROM OUR BARRACKS ARE IN TROUBLE, ONE OF THEM IS GETTING AN ARTICLE 15, WHICH IS BAD, MEANING REDUCTION IN PAY, NO PROMOTION, IT'S REALLY BAD THE OTHER GUY IS GETTING A COURT MARTIAL FOR HAVING GRENADE STRAP ON, LIVE AMMO AND SOME CAMO PLOGE STICK IN HIS LOCKER.

SO I GUESS THE 3RD HEAD IS JINXED.

Thank you for your review of Csapody's book. It will probably appear in the spring, 1977 issue. The paper you mention interests me, but it is unlikely that we could publish it before the fall of 1977.

The spring, 1976 issue is ready and will be mailed out soon. The fall issue will be a special one, containing articles related to the Revolution of 1956. There may be as many as 6 or 7 of these including ones from Ferenc Vali, Peter Gosztony, Thomas Aczel and other prominent people.

I cannot go to St. Louis mainly because I will probably have a paper to give that same week in Regina, Saskatchewan. But I plan to go to Washington in December. Perhaps I will see you there.

The fall, 1976 issue of the Canadian-American Review of Hungarian Studies will commemorate the 20th anniversary of the Hungarian Revolution of 1956. Preparations for this number are progressing satisfactorily. Articles have been received from several scholars, including Professor Ferenc Váli of the University of Massachusetts, and Dr. Péter Gosztony, the Director of Switzerland's East European Library. Additional articles are expected from Professor Béla Király of Brooklyn College, Professor Thomas Aczél of the University of Massachusetts and a few others. By all appearances, the issue promises to be an excellent, interesting publication. It will make an ideal volume for home reading or for a gift to an English-speaking friend. Extra copies of this issue will be printed for those who wish to purchase some.

Other news from the Hungarian Readers Service.

Preparations have been started for the editing of the spring, 1977 issue. Several articles have been received from authors and are now being revised or examined by our editorial advisers. It seems that two or possibly three studies in this issue will be by Hungarian women who have distinguished themselves in scholarly or literary activity in the West.

The Review's editorial staff and, especially, its executive manager, Dr. Ferenc Harsár, are continuously trying to recruit new subscribers. This work is imperative because only through improving the Review's finances can we enable it to survive and expand in a world of rising production and mailing costs. Now that our journal is preparing for its fourth year of publication, no one can excuse himself or herself for not subscribing by saying that our effort will be a flash in the pan (magyarul: szalmaláng) affair. Given cooperation from both authors and our readers, we will continue to offer more and better material in the Review. But it cannot be done without money.

At present, the financial situation of the Review is satisfactory. Because the journal's editors, manager and advisers, as well as the authors, receive no remuneration whatever, our costs are limited to the cost of printing, mailing and some secretarial help. More and more these costs have to be covered from subscriptions. Unfortunately, some of our supporting subscribers are no longer backing us by their donations and many people have allowed their subscriptions to lapse. This is why new subscriptions are most important. Both teachers and private citizens can do us a great favour if, in addition to subscribing personally, they would request their college, university or municipal library to order the Review.

Complaints have been received from several of our subscribers about the content of some of our articles and the subject matter of our issues. Most of the complaints were ill-founded. They resulted from a misreading of a few words or sentences which have appeared in the Review. Other complaints concerned personal views expressed by one or the other of our contributors. We wish to remind everyone that neither the Review's editorial staff, nor its manager, endorse the views expressed in the Review. The Review is a scholarly (as opposed to a political or civic) publication in which scholars can freely present the results of their researches and express their opinions. Nor can we control the contents of any issue. We can only print a selection of those studies that are sent to us for publication by scholars. Naturally, we try to publish only those that reveal the best scholarship: sound research, original ideas, flawless presentation etc. It may be interesting to note that this year only about 10% of the studies submitted to the Review have been found good enough for publication.

Miscellaneous news.

The fall, 1976 issue of the Canadian-American Review of Hungarian Studies will commemorate the 20th anniversary of the Hungarian Revolution of 1956. Preparations for this number are progressing satisfactorily. Articles have been received from several scholars, including Professor Ferenc Váli of the University of Massachusetts, and Dr. Péter Gosztony, the Director of Switzerland's East European Library. Additional articles are expected from Professor Béla Király of Brooklyn College, Professor Thomas Aczél of the University of Massachusetts and a few others. By all appearances, the issue promises to be an excellent, interesting publication. It will make an ideal volume for home reading or for a gift to an English-speaking friend. Extra copies of this issue will be printed for those who wish to purchase some.

Dear Laci:

Please find enclosed your article with my corrections. Please go over again and try to clear up certain expressions I questioned.

Most important is uniformity. Do you want, Faculty of Arts, that what you were using... then let's have Faculty of Theology, Faculty of Medicine and Theology.

The Nations also should be capitalized.

Why don't you look up Garlandia, may-be you could accept that method, if I did not commit the same mistakes of spelling differently.

Main objection...it is too long. You are a Résumé and not a translation. I left out certain passages....If you wish you may like to retype it. It will be only one heading and three subheading separated with I. II. III. the way I indicated. I do not insist on retying, you may like to retype headings and paste up the entire material.

WED. 29TH

DEAR GODFATHER, & GODMOTHER

I'm glad that you wrote. I've been meaning to write you a long time. However I've been busy. I'm stationed here at Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. The only Disciplinary Barracks in the United States. I'm a guard here not a prisoner. I work the 1 to 9 shift from 1 in the afternoon till 9 at night. 3/4 of the prisoners here are black 1/8 are spanish speaking and another 1/8 are white so blacks rule. I was working inside with the prisoners for a while until they closed down a wing for repairs.

There are over 1300 prisoners here. Each wing (there are 8 wings) has over 200 cons. Sometimes when there is very few guards I use to walk the tiers by myself. These wings are like an 8 story building. The rooms of the prisoners are very small 8 feet wide 9 feet high and 9 feet deep - just a one man cell. There's only enough room for 1 bed 1 small cabinet locker where they keep their clothes a sink and a john. Sometimes when I'm alone walking the tiers I do tend to get scared because these guys would kill you in a heartbeat. For instance I found 2 cons with manufacturing weapons.

They had these safety razors with the plastic peeled back the razor stuck out about 1/2 of an inch. That could cut your jugular vein in no time. It happened last year a con surprised a guard and cut his throat. When the guard went to the hospital the doctor said he couldn't come any closer to cut the main artery in the throat.

SURE WE HAVE A TIGHT SECURITY SYSTEM
WHEN EVER THEY LEAVE THEIR CELLS AND COME BACK WE MAKE A THOROUGH FRISK SEARCH.

ANYWAY THEY CLOSED DOWN 4 WING FOR PLUMBING REPAIRS SO THEY PUT ME IN THE CONTROL. NOW ALL I DO IS OPEN AND CLOSE
THE GATES TO THE CELLS. THE GATES ARE ELECTRONIC SO IT'S JUST A FLIP OF THE WRIST.

I'M NOT LONELY ANYMORE EITHER WHEN I GOT PUT IN CONTROL. THERE WAS A GIRL WORKING UP THERE WE HIT IT OFF RIGHT FROM THE START.
SO HOW'S EVERYBODY IN THE FAMILY DOING?
ALRIGHT I HOPE.

I FORGOT TO TELL YOU I BOUGHT MYSELF A MOTOR CYCLE BACK IN JULY 1965 TRIUMPH.
BUT I HAVEN'T RIDDEN IT IN 3 MONTHS ITS IN THE SHOP BEING REPAIRED I SHOULD HAVE IT BACK IN 2-3 WEEKS.

WHEN I GOT HOME BACK IN MAY I DID
CALL YOU TO SEE IF YOU WERE HOME BUT NO ONE ANSWERED THE PHONE. I'VE BEEN TRAVELING AND KEEPING BUSY WHILE I WAS ON LEAVE. I'LL CATCH YOU NEXT TIME.
WELL I GUESS THAT'S IT FOR NOW

TO: Contributing Authors, Editorial Advisors, Consultants and Reviewers of the International Encyclopedia of Higher Education

FROM: Asa S. Knowles, Editor-in-Chief

DATE: October 27, 1976

It is a pleasure to report that preparation of the Encyclopedia is nearly complete, with ninety-eight percent of materials in the hands of the publisher. It now appears that there will be eight to ten volumes, depending upon space required for the glossary of terminology and index. The estimated wordage is approximately 3,000,000. Barring unforeseen events, the publisher expects to have the Encyclopedia ready for distribution in May, 1977.

At this time, I want to express my gratitude to the 2,000 or more scholars, members of the editorial advisory board, consultants, higher education administrators, government officials, and international educators in nations throughout the world who have assisted in the collection and compilation of information for the Encyclopedia. It is my hope that the Encyclopedia will become a major international reference work used in all nations of the world.

Those persons who have specific contracts with me as contributing authors, reviewers, advisors and consultants will receive their compensation, as agreed upon, directly from the publisher (Jossey-Bass Inc., Publishers) when the Encyclopedia is published.

In the course of preparing the Encyclopedia, a unique collection of information, basic documents, books, and other types of printed literature have been collected from nations throughout the world; and, of course, a great deal of information has been compiled through research. Recognizing the value of this collection and the importance of maintaining these resources, as well as the expertise which has been developed, Northeastern University has established the Center for International Higher Education Documentation as a division of the University Library. All Encyclopedia materials are now deposited in the Center and are being cross cataloged, with a sizeable collection owned by the University.

The new Center is under the direction of Mrs. Joy W. Viola, Senior Editor of the Encyclopedia. She is assisted by three members of the present Encyclopedia staff: Mrs. Solveig Turner, National Systems Editor; Mrs. Hazel Williamson, Educational Associations Editor; and Mrs. Kathryn McIntyre, Project Secretary. The Encyclopedia will actually carry the imprint of the Center and will be its first publication.

Whereas there are many documentation centers on higher education and numerous area studies centers on other college campuses, there are very few centers of international higher education documentation in existence anywhere which offer a global perspective on academic fields of study, major educational associations, research centers, institutes and documentation centers, national systems of higher education the world over, and international academic and administrative policies and procedures. The Northeastern Center will have, therefore, a unique opportunity to serve the international community in the realm of comparative higher education.

In the months ahead, you will be receiving further information about the publication of the Encyclopedia and the development of the Center. At this time, however, may I again thank everyone who has been involved in this project for your splendid cooperation these past four years. Without your assistance, this project could never have been completed.

Dear Les —

I'm enclosing a copy of a recent article which took me a bit ~~of~~ out of a field I am comfortable with. But maybe you'll find it interesting.

This has been a summer devoted largely to the service of Mamma and the God of Scholarship has had to wait a bit. We're paying for Beth's orthodonty and painting the outside of the house, so I'm teaching in summer school and in a couple of short courses at USC. We plan to go in August to San Diego for a week to the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Branch of the AHA, then for a week to Lake Arrowhead in the mountains about 150 miles from L.A. We've taken a cabin there for a real vacation.

What progress have you made on a travel grant to Warsaw this September or October. I hope all is going well in that regard.

I will be coming to the Mid-west at some point again this fall but do not yet know my schedule to see whether I will be able to come to Youngstown. I'll keep you informed.

Sue and the children are well. Beth is in Summer School preparing for Junior High!

Kedves Éva, Laci és gyerekek!

Új értelemmel töltött évek, és a sokaság állandó munkája, és a mindennapi tevékenység között az ember oly nehezen jut egy kis erre való szabad időre. No meg a sok munkától felgyomlott stressz-undorom van, és az, ami általában bűnös, remélem, neptársajátos.

Első sorban azt kívánjuk Nektar hívására, hogy mihamarabb el kezd a bajok és betegségek, amikről nagy örömmel kapott karácsonyi leveleiben Laci beszámolt.

A szerződés nagyon jó, és a munkájuk.

Nagy örömmel, hogy nemcsak a tavaszi munkájukig tart, hanem a nyári munkájukig is. És a nyári munkájukig is tart, és a nyári munkájukig is tart.

bizony aligha jutunk valaha is túl az Óceánon - így mindig van az a remény, Nektar lesz alkalmatok ide látogatni.

Mi jól vagyunk, az ideig tartó eddig - lepropaganda! - a sokaság fennállása, kisebb betegségek nélkül mind el, még Manira is valószínűleg jobban bírja, mint az utolsó pár évben (amikor megfellelően megint építkezni kezd! mintha nem csinálnánk évek óta!). A két szemre nézve, és nem csak a Tiszta Iskolákban van - Galéria most végre az új, Babókat is bevezetjük, neptembertől ő is elkezdi a robotot!

Férfiakat most nem tudok kiadni - csak karácsonyi óta van ^{Kellemes nűsvéti} fényképezés (a fényképezés, és még nem tanultam meg elég jól fényképezni, hogy megfelelő képeket csinálhassak. De nagyon van biztosan valami fog, JOHNS HOPKINS. Born 1795 in Anne Arundel County, Maryland of Quaker parents. Having accumulated some capital working for his uncle in a wholesale grocery store, he (with two brothers) established a grocery business, Hopkins and Brothers, in 1822. After retiring from the grocery firm in 1847, he became a magnate in banking and railroading. When he died, 1873, he left a fortune of $10,000,000, of which four and one-half millions were devised to The Johns Hopkins Hospital, and three and one-half million to found The Johns Hopkins University. The University opened in 1876.

MARK HOPKINS [the man on one end of the Log]. Born in Stockbridge, Mass., 4 February 1802, he was the grandson of another Mark Hopkins, an officer in the American Revolutionary War. Mark, the educator, graduated from Williams College, and from the Berkshire Medical School. After a very brief period of practice in New York City, he left New York City to return to Williams where he accepted a chair in moral philosophy (1830). In 1832 he was licensed to preach, and in 1836 became President of Williams. His tenure in the college presidency lasted until 1872, when he resigned; but on leaving the presidency he retained his professorship until his death in 1887, and his pastorate of the College church (appointed 1836) until 1883.

Of more than 1,760 Williams alumni living at his death, Hopkins had taught all but thirty.

Dr. Teller Says Soviets Had One First— Father of H-Bomb Miffed

"ENERGY AND CONFLICT: The Life and Times of Edward Teller," by Stanley A. Blumberg and Gwinn Owners. (Putnam. 492 pp. $12.95.)

REVIEWED By JOHN BARKHAM

Whether he likes it or not (and he doesn't), Edward Teller is known as "the father of the H-bomb," which goes far to explain why, though one of the world's foremost theoretical physicists, he has been ignored by biographers till now. In the Fifties and Sixties, when public opinion was mostly left-leaning, Teller was regarded as the begetter of an ultimate weapon which threatened the destruction of life on this planet. His much publicized controversy with the late Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, developer of the A-bomb who resisted work on the H-bomb, earned Teller a great deal of public opprobrium, a residue of which still lingers.

This even-handed biography, written by two self-styled liberals who disagree with Teller on some points, offers the reader a number of surprises which help to clear the air. Teller cooperated with them by granting interviews and offering access to his papers, insisting throughout that he wanted no secrecy and was perfectly willing to take their criticism. Official secrecy, he still maintains, harms the U.S. more than it does the Soviet Union.

Soviets Exploded Theirs First

For the general reader the major shock delivered in this book is the news that the Russians exploded an H-bomb before the United States did. Quoting from what appear to be unexceptionable sources, the authors give the date of the first successful Soviet test as 1951 and ours as the following year. The first Soviet deliverable hydrogen bomb was detonated on Aug. 12, 1953, and ours on Feb. 2, 1954.

So much for Teller being "the father of the H-bomb." Soviet scientists, including present dissident Andrei Sakharov, have a prior claim to that dubious honor. This being the case, the reader should ask himself: what would be the position of the U.S. in the world today had Edward Teller not devised a similar weapon for this country?

Teller was one of a group of brilliant Hungarian-born scientists who came to the U.S. because of the rise of Nazism in Europe. So numerous were they and so remarkable in the field of theoretical physics that Teller, Szilard, Bethe, von Neumann et al were collectively known as "the Martians." What historians may find paradoxical is that, while the development of the atomic bomb in World War II was hailed as a patriotic triumph for Oppenheimer and his colleagues, Teller's development of a hydrogen bomb was excoriated by many Americans a decade later. In 1970 students at Berkeley actually branded him a "war criminal" and had to be stopped by the police from burning his house down.

Deserves Praise, Not Blame

Though Berkeley has returned to normality, such public obloquy has left a deep scar on Teller and his family. Even his public reconciliation with Oppenheimer in 1963 seems to have left some of his bitter-end opponents unmoved, though among his professional colleagues he has won international recognition. The authors quote extensively from interviews with Teller's colleagues, some of whom disapproved of his work on thermonuclear fusion yet concede his brilliance. A few believe he is "paranoid about the Russians."

In recent years Teller has urged the use of atomic explosions to produce oil from shale and has advanced other ideas for the domestic production of energy. Meantime he worries about Soviet superiority in thermonuclear weaponry. "The Russians are ahead of us and they are going to be ahead of us for years to come," he asserts.

The likelihood is that he is not exaggerating. If he takes the Russians more seriously than most of his colleagues, it should be remembered that he arrived in this country as a refugee with first-hand experience of totalitarianism. His biographers, to their credit, appear to have realized that Teller deserves more praise than blame, a verdict posterity may well confirm.

Drága jó Gyermekeim, Laciók és Istókék!

Szerencsétlen, érekezttem meg hála Istennek! Egy óra késéssel indultunk El-ből, s több mint egy óra késéssel érkeztünk Pestre, Egy kajnos nem találkoztam Ka-táninivel, mert 1 óra mulva in-dultak ^{vegyes a gép} "Bb" mác "beteltek" őket.
Utam nem volt túl kellemesnek mondható, de azért kosynak sem.
Egy egyéb ótoddával voltam körül-bélve. Elöttem két kis gyerek (2 és 4 éves) piros a Mama, mellettem egy 5 éves lányka + a Papa. Mögöttem egy másik család 3 kedveltem kosy szaraj inkább kóppant élénk fia, 8-12 évesek. Míg éjféli után is, mikor aludni szerettem volna, állandóan káncuroztak és rugták az ülésemet. 1 kor megkeitem a szülőket, h. szedjék kissé ráncba őket, de magyarázom mondván "oda sem rántották". A három kicsi elől

A verendai asztalra fölött volt. Néha vettem szíve.

primán aludt. Gyokkal nagyon össze barátkoztam. A nagyobb folyton kérték az Apját, H. "vigyük egy a néni magunkkal"; miúgy Lay nevetve felelte: "szívesen, ha a néni eljön". - A reptéren Mle néni, Rott Klári, Baba és Csaba vártak. Csaba autóval vitt "kaja". Katónéni laká-sában a nővére (Annuska) várt fejével. Megható volt Kato néni mennyi szeretettel, gondoskodással várt. Utánunk csokor, "isten hozott" cédulával, - jegre hűtött italok, parfé, - frissen darált kávé stb....
Több gépelt oldalon egy csomó
"hasymalati utasítás", ami jól jön, tekintve hogy nem vagyok szél, "handi". A lakás nagyon kélves, de még ^{kecske} idegenül érzem ma-gam benne és este felel ^{haza} ^{mennyi} leljes sötétség van a ház körül.
Majd kell hogy elem lámpást ven-
nem. - Vasárnap, megerkezem után átjöttem Mle-hez. És 6 órakor a Rothók és Kaju is átjöttek.
Tegnap (hétfőn 5-én) d. e. elintéztam

a jelentkezőt, pernyeváltást és utána eljöttem Mle-hez. Vele és
R. Babával kimentünk a temetőbe.
Szegény Anyu nagyon hiányzik a Lakásból.
Szurdán folytatom "kapuciól" azaz K. n. től.
Az egyéb keddi napot Mle-vel töltöttem.
D. e. egy csomó eljárást végeztünk.
Mle-nek minden pontosan fel volt jegyezve, nyugtató felre leve, a temetéstől, Bátor szegőre is a nekem járó összegről. Igazam pedánsan intézett mindent. Kalap Te!!
D. u. elmentünk együtt Csabához. Neki egy kis javítás kellett, nekem Csaba ^{lecsiszolt} 2 fogamat is próbát vett az újra, ami hothnap helyre is lesz. Gyerekkorára bele ment abba, hogy a két ^{vető} fog elől porcelán legy a fognyakat kiveve, ahová a "blamó" jön. Tettél vele, mert a két végén egy hétre elutazik a kis fiával. - Ha szesya jön két veszőnek egykor. Hisz Celle koncertre is ha sikerül jegyet kap-nia, így július 30-án (pont utolsó nap itt) veszőnek legedre az ünnepi játékokra. Kát nem kedves Tölük?
Csaba után még fel mentünk Mle-vel a váiba kicsit kóricálni, cukrárdába és elláti nénihez, mivel majd vasárnap a T. kikat, azaz partitall kató nagy műve után, megjünk majd ebédre.

Művelni aludtam! Mama együtt mentünk be a városba. Szépenk volna egy bőnyeg becsüst fogadni, - de csak 2 het szünetet levő ott, most vakációzik. - Kisít lágtunk bent, megbeszélünk együtt, ^{sele} a háza ment spélytáymri, on szeddig émi jöttem háza s átöltöymri, most hiedeg vadborára helyülünk Lede nyekhez. Emereik a Balatonhoz me mekültek le a nagy kánikula elől.
Borjalmas höség volt elő két nap, de tegnap elég jól lekiült is máma is kellemes.
Holnap Budához van az összes unokatestvér meghívva. Engelmeytek is mind jönnek állítólag. - Pénteken Julia menikek helyülök.
Gyíike is Pesten van is ott levő. - Most speremvésen levősgáyott máj. Jól négy ké is primán le van sülve. Vele kedd este soltunk kétálmri a Gellért hegyen. -

Gyermekeim! Nagyon sokat gondolok rátok. A fehérségek mindenütt nagy sikeet aratnak. Gyerekök mind nagyon tetszenek! Levelem tartalmát mondjátok el keilek Ica és Böpsi né-ninek s ök a többieknek. - Hőndör kácit fogok imádkozni a műtét napján. Lacókaim a két lista lle sténinek meg van is nem kell. - Nagyon sok szerető vagyok a család. Aprajju.

Drága Lacókám és Évikém!

Boldog voltam mikor tegnap befutott az első beszámoló rólatok. (12-én írtad Lacókám s én 20-án szóltam kékhez.) Egész eláult a gyűvencem mikor olvastam hogy kifukkadt a gumi g. kerék s milyen könnyen baj lehetett volna. Mindig tudtam hogy „Szévéke” egy ügyes abony, de most különösképpen boldoggá lett, h. azt beéjonyitotta. Ittlenek legyen hála! — Napjaim igen kellemesen telnek, dacára a nagy kánikulának. Azt mondják ilyen tartós meleg (napközben 30-34°) több mint 100 éve nem volt.
A Duna elhívesítően alacsony. Vasárnap fűződöttünk benne Alsó-Godón a Ledkókkal s egész messze le gyalogoltunk mig végre nyakig ért a víz. Eddig a legtöbbit velük váltam együtt. Igazán arányosak, s nagyon felkarosnak.
Emerevel eddig sajnos csak kétőre voltunk együtt. Nagy, munkában vannak, belül átáztatják kebeit a lakást.
Faltörés is volt, mert a garázstól székényt szelcsitették ki, most festenek. Jóval folyik a munka. ~~Csak kétőre voltunk~~ együtt. 9-én itt voltak nálam vacsora után, 17-én pedig kivitték vacsoráim Ledényiekkel a Gellébe. Jó volt a hangulat, sokat nevettünk. — Évikém, sajnos a kocsi kóp jóslat eddig nem vált be s ha csak csoda nem történik, kifutok az időből!! A csoda csak Lolo lehet, aki tegnap óta Pesten van, - de persze még nem ta-lálkoztunk s nem is bizony, hogy fogunk, s ha metán fogunk is, akkor is kérdés tévünk-e egymásnak? — Kató néni lakása egy „Hauptteller”. Kém helyesen van beszámoló, „testhez álló kis otthon s ami ebben a kánikulában fontos, kellemesen hűs. Most már hogy jobban kiszámoltam magamat erre, nagyon szeretem és nem félek.
Cionkákékkal, mint az volt Laciól látható, s szomb-ton ebédeltünk együtt a váiban s utána nálam voltak sütemény és tejszó. Annácska ma is utazott L.-országba a kis lányához. A listát elkérte s azt mondta majd ő beszélt a két könyvetet s amit tud, kiküldött. - Kedves volt és csodálatos nekem kópiát

Ami kalotti bizonyítványaiól és az általa össze-írt listáról. Ezt úgy láttam jobb lesz meggyőznie, mert Méménivel a dolgok még sem mennek olyan simán. - Ő és gyermekei ugyanis azt szeretnék volna, hogy az ima szöveg s ő a "ellenőrzésként" ők kapják meg a többi perpa szöveget s a másik álló-órát, amibe én természetesen nem mentem bele. - A Rosenthal porcelán (76 támpa, 5 csésze) és néhány oszított pohár kivételre az engedélyt megkaptam. Az egyik holmit ő is szíves mind vidékre vitte a tatarozás miatt, s akikhez vitte, azok nyaralnak, s így nem lehet hozzá jutni.
De azt mondják az Sparmüvészeti Múzeumban hogy a kivétel, ^{mincs időköz} köve, ^(ha engedélyezik) próbál túl sokat nem intéztem. - Mémé néni 16-án ment haza a Balatonra. Barátságosan váltunk el, de azért nekem keserű a szíjam íze, ők pedig csaloódottak.

Ha igaz, úgy holnap ^{után} indultok N. Y. ba. Biztosan ma-gyon kedélyesen lesztek együtt s a gyerkőcök is fogják elvenni az együttléteket. - Sokat gondolok hisz Mándia.
Vajjon hogy sikerült a műtét? Úgy féltem őt a hosszú útól! Micsé várom oda éneket, ők máj valószínűleg elindultak, - de ha nem, úgy természetesen nekik is szól levelem és fudymak kívánok boldog születés-napot! - A fogam hála Égnek szép és jó lett. - Mama kispilót. Baba néni és Babával Kiscell-re esti hangversenyre. - Múlt szedán is voltunk. Akkor R. Klári néni, az Ö Emeséje és fejeivel. - Nagyon hangulatos volt. Mindenké változatlanul kedves, helyes hozzáim, - jölerik a sok szeretet, amivel körül-vesznek. Emex próbál szombat este a "Largit-szigetie jegyet" szerezni a "Pillango-kisasszonyba". Japan főszereplő-nő és dirigenssel.

Égnek hálek várjátok a megadott időben Cleve-landban! - Addig is sok sok meleg csók és ölelés úgy a Gyerkőcöknek, mint a Nektarok. Mamiatok-XX becsüst akartak kihívni, de az nem tudott jönni

Dear Dr. Domonkos,

Holy Greetings to you in the name of Jesus: "It is in him that I live and move and have all my being."

I have to write you this letter because there are many things in my heart that I want to share with you and your wife. Even though I don't know ~~her~~, she has to be a pretty special person to have such a wonderful husband as you. Behind every good man there is a good woman that pushes and helps him, even if it just to help him spend his money.

I have met many professors since going to U. S. A. but none ever surpassed you and my "Dear Dr. Martin Greenman"

I looked forward to each class, ^{because} you made it so meaningful to me.

I am so glad ^{that} in the process of time I was able to be included as one of your students.

God has placed his love in my heart and all I want to do is to share this love with others; to love the unloved, to reach the unreached and to help the unhelped. This love, this joy, the peace of God transcends, instantiates and bursts through my whole being.

my prayers are ever before

Remember Only What You Do
For Christ Will Last.

You may build a cathedral

You may build a skyscraper grand and tall.

You may conquer all the failures

You may seek earthly power and fame.

The world may be impressed by

Soon the glories of this life will ^{All} pass ~~away~~.

and only what you've done for Christ

Chorus

Remember only what you do

Remember only what you do

Only what you do for him

Warm Our Hearts
 With Thy Love

Oh, God, who made the summer and warmed the earth with beauty, Warm our hearts with gratitude and devotion to our duty,
 For in this age of violence,
 rebellion and defiance
 We've forgotten the true meaning of "dependable reliance" —
 We have lost our sense of duty and our sense of values, too,
 And what was once unsanctioned,
 no longer is taboo,
 Our standards have been lowered and we resist all discipline,
 And our vision has been narrowed and blinded to all sin —
 Oh, put the summer brightness in our closed, unseeing eyes
 So in the careworn faces that we pass we'll recognize The heartbeat and the loneliness, the trouble and despair
 That a word of understanding would make easier to bear — Oh, God, look down on our cold hearts and warm them with Your love,
 And grant us Your forgiveness which we're so unworthy of.

The World Would Be A Nicer Place
 If We Traveled At A Slower Pace

Amid stresses and strains much too many to mention,
 And pressure-packed days filled with turmoil and tension,
 We seldom have time to be "Friendly or Kind"
 For we're harassed and hurried and always behind —
 And while we've more "gadgets" and "buttons to press" Making leisure hours greater and laboring hours less,
 And our standards of living they claim have improved And "repressed inhibitions" have been freed and removed,
 It seems all this Progress and Growth are for naught, For daily we see a World More Distracted —
 So what does it matter
 if man reaches his goal
 "And gains the whole world but loses his soul" —
 For what have we won if in gaining this end We've been much too busy to be Kind To A Friend, And what is there left to make the heart sing
 When life is a Cold and Mechanical Thing
 And we are but puppets of controlled automation
 Instead of "joint heirs" to "God's Gift Of Creation."
