The Commencement Speaker

DR. ALLAN W. OSTAR

Dr. Allan W. Ostar, President of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU), has spent almost all of his professional career working for the advancement of public higher education.

He became the first full-time Executive Director of AASCU in 1965. In November 1979, he was named President of the Association. The AASCU has a membership of 335 state colleges and universities, with a total enrollment of more than two million students.

Initially, much of the emphasis of Dr. Ostar's office was directed toward the transition of the state colleges and universities from primarily teacher education institutions to today's multi-purpose, comprehensive regional institutions. Today, he continues to stress constructive planning for the future in response to changing educational and societal needs.

Before joining AASCU, Dr. Ostar was Director of the Joint Office of Institutional Research (JOIR), which he organized to serve the member institutions of the State Universities Association and the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

Prior to his seven years of service with JOIR, he was a member of the University of Wisconsin faculty, assistant to the dean of the University Extension Division and Director of the Office of Communication Services. In addition to serving the university in many communications and public relations capacities, he was a member of the Committee on Public Relations for the National University Extension Association, and later became its Washington representative.

Early in the 1950's, he was a member of the executive staff of the Commonwealth Fund, a major New York City foundation concerned with medical education. Other professional experience included journalism and consulting in education, health and communication fields.

He did his undergraduate work and part of his graduate work at the Pennsylvania State University. He has completed most of his doctorate work in mass communications at the University of Wisconsin.

Since 1968, Dr. Ostar has been awarded honorary doctoral degrees from 12 colleges and universities for his outstanding contributions to public higher education. He is the recipient of service and achievement awards and in 1975, he became an Alumni Fellow of Pennsylvania State University and received the World Peace Through Education Medal, International Association of University Presidents.

In addition to his duties as President of AASCU, he serves on numerous national education committees, boards and commissions.

Dr. Ostar is listed in "Who's Who" in the South and Southwest, in American Education, in America and in the World. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi and other honorary and professional organizations.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

ACADEMIC REGALIA AND CEREMONY

The gowns, hoods, and caps worn in academic ceremonies today are relics of clothing worn in medieval times by students and professors. In the early universities—Bologna, Paris, Oxford—the undergraduate students had no prescribed academic dress but wore their usual clerical or ecclesiastical habits. The professors wore more colorful academic regalia than their modern day descendants. Probably the gowns and hoods were worn for warmth in the unheated halls where the lectures were delivered. From the sixteenth century on, there is a change to somber black and it is only in the hoods worn in academic processions today that the warmth and color of medieval academic pageantry is retained.

The hoods representing degrees granted by various colleges and universities have linings (turned to exhibit their hues to the fullest advantage) in the colors of the granting institutions. In addition, the facing of the hood represents by its color the discipline in which the degree has been granted; white for arts, letters, or humanities; golden yellow for science; purple for law; green for medicine; lemon yellow for library science; orange for engineering; drab for commerce or business; light blue for education; pink for music; brown for fine arts; apricot for nursing; dark blue for philosophy; scarlet for theology; citron for social work; sage green for physical education. It is possible, also, to determine from the length of the hoods the type of degree held by the wearer—quite long for the doctor's degree, medium for the master's, short for the bachelor's.

Since 1895, in the United States, the colors and types of caps and gowns have been largely standardized; in 1932 the code was revised to some extent, and in 1960 it was revised once more. A few American universities have adopted gowns other than black in color, and in European universities there is more diversity in cut and in the cap than prevails in the United States. Trustees and administrators of American colleges and universities, too, may wear regalia which is different from that commonly worn. The trustees of Youngstown State University wear a specially designed cardinal gown.

The bachelor's gown is worn closed; the master's gown is worn open or closed, depending partly on its tailoring; and the wearer of the doctor's gown has the privilege of wearing it open or closed. The sleeves of the three types of gowns are of different lengths and cuts, and in addition the sleeves of the doctor's gown have three horizontal velvet stripes. The doctor's gown also has vertical facing of velvet in front. The stripes and facing may be either black or in the color representing the field in which the wearer has received the doctorate.

There are different opinions about the origin of the caps worn in academic ceremonies. One view is that the "mortar board" is in actuality adapted from the wooden square used by masons. Another is that it stems from the ecclesiastical or clerical head covering of the medieval period. The tassels worn on the caps may or may not be of the same types. In some institutions all masters' and bachelors' tassels are black; in others the tassels, which are the same as the colors of the facings of the hoods, reflect the degree received. The tassels worn by doctors may be black or gold thread.

There is something of the same adherence to tradition in commencement processions that exists in academic garb, although each institution has the right to adapt the ceremony to its own requirements. The chief marshals lead the line of march, followed by the president, the speaker, trustees, and other members of the party to be seated on the platform. Then follow the faculty and the candidates for degrees. The procession at the end of the ceremony follows the same order.

Recipients of University Honors will receive special insignia, consisting of golden honor cords placed around the shoulders.
