YSU Spring Fling to be held; crafts fair, concert featured

by Greg Garramone

A free concert, the Spring Crafts fair, and the first "rock" mini-concert highlight YSU's Spring Weekend, running from Wednesday, May 17 to Saturday, May 20. The Spring Fling, which is the theme of the festivities, is sponsored by the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils, in conjunction with Student Government and the Kilcawley Center Program Board.

The event opens on Wednesday with "Playfair," three hours of non-competitive games. Mark Shanley, coordinator of student affairs, states that "The people I have talked to that have taken part say it's fun, but they can't describe it. It's supposed to involve a bunch of games for lots of people." "Playfair" starts at 11 a.m. in the Kilcawley Chestnut Room. Admission is free.

Also on Wednesday is a free concert featuring the First National Rotagilla Band. This concert was originally scheduled for Winter Weekend, but was cancelled due to inclement weather. "At that time," said Shanley, "we had planned to charge $2 for admission, but since the event was cancelled, we can use the funds from winter quarter and make the concert free." The band is playing for three hours, starting at 8 p.m., in the Kilcawley Chestnut Room.

The Spring Crafts Fair begins Thursday and runs through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. The theme of the fair is "The Return of the Renaissance Man." Approximately 30 area craftsmen, some of whom are YSU faculty members and students, will be demonstrating and selling their crafts. The crafts include macrame, printing, stained glass, and needlepoint. The fair is jointly sponsored by the Spring Weekend Committee and the Kilcawley Crafts Center, under the direction of Janet Sofranec. Saturday will be community day at the fair, and the public is invited. There is no charge for admission to the crafts fair.

The Intramural Superstar Competition, based on the TV show Almost Anything Goes, begins Thursday at 11 a.m. The event features the top 12 intramural teams at YSU, both male and female, and will be located on the center campus, south of Kilcawley.

Steven Baird, the strolling Boston street singer who has played at YSU before, returns Thursday to walk around campus and perform from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. He will also play on Friday, dividing his time between an outdoor cafe and the Pub.

The outdoor cafe, featuring Shisk-kabob, salad and soft-

Change to semesters studied

Students asked for opinions

by JoAnn Nader

The student opinion survey on the early semester calendar is currently being conducted at registration. Eighty per cent of the students registering are responding, according to Dr. Nicholas Paraska, chairman of the Ad Hoc Calendar Committee.

The final results of the student survey will be tallied next week. Questions on the student survey were written by the committee with the aid of Dr. Steve Redburn, urban studies.

The Ad Hoc Calendar Committee was formed by President Coffelt last October to analyze the possibilities of an early semester system and to forward recommendations either for or against the system to the Academic Senate.

The committee hopes to make its final recommendation by the end of spring quarter, said Paraska.

The committee recently polled faculty and the results were in favor of the early semester system. If the new system would go into effect the fall of 1980, it would require a whole revamping of the current curriculum, but this would give each department a chance to review the courses, said Paraska.

"I suppose the committee would pay a little more attention to the faculty's views than to the student's because a number of the students answering the questionnaire aren't going to be here if the system goes into effect," commented Paraska. He added that the students' viewpoints would be considered.

When asked if the reasons for changing systems was merely to jump on the semester bandwagon as Akron, Kent, and Miami Universities have, Paraska said that if the semester system was chosen, it would be because the system is better academically.

However, he added that because of the medical school consortium with Akron and Kent, the other universities' changes could not be overlooked.

If YSU were to change to semesters, school would begin after Labor Day and end sometime in May. Classes would meet for 15 weeks, plus a week of finals.

Student Council discusses committee replacements

by Irene Taylor
Student Council reporter

Reports on Student Council committee replacements and assignments were the focus of yesterday's Student Council meeting.

Although Marita Novicky, chairman of Council's Discipline Committee, was not present at Council, her statement on her removal from the committee work of the Discipline Committee was read at Council. The statement said she was not resigning as chairperson of the Discipline Committee but removing herself from the committee work because of accusations of bias. The Discipline Committee was investigating the possibility of misconduct of students and Student Council members in the recently held elections.

In related action, Council approved a request from the Discipline Committee to move the discipline investigation to the publicity committee. The discipline committee wants the publicity committee to create "guidelines in order to prevent incidents of this kind in the future."

Student Council Chairman John Carano appointed an Ad Hoc Committee to "deal with the problems of student grievances." The committee will find solutions to complaints which were collected at Council's Gripe Booth, and also seek ways of publicizing the complaints and solutions to the student body.

Dean Charles McBriarty, Student Council advisor, provided an answer to the question of student refunds from the General Fee because of Kilcawley's winter closing. McBriarty said, "No refunds will be given because the winter activities are being executed during spring quarter." He also noted that monies left in the General Fee at the end of the year go back into a fund for student projects such as Kilcawley Center and the parking decks.

F. Lee Bailey to speak at Stambaugh Thursday

Criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey who recently withdrew as chief counsel for California newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, will be the guest of YSU's Special Lecture Series on May 18.

Bailey's address, "The Defense Never Rests," will be at Stambaugh Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. The lecture is free and open to the public. No tickets are required.

The flamboyant Bailey, who has tackled some of the toughest cases on record, including the defense of Dr. Sam Sheppard, the Boston Strangler and Captain Ernest Medina, is also a best-selling author.

A native of Massachusetts, Bailey was educated at Harvard and at Boston University's School of Law. He also served in the U.S. Navy as a fighter pilot and the Marine Corps as a legal officer.

A self-described maverick of the courts, Bailey candidly admits that his high rate of criminal case acquittals doesn't necessarily mean that those clients found innocent were indeed innocent. "When the system does right, it's by accident. . . . When it doesn't do right, innocent people are hurt," he said.

A believer in criminal scientific methods, such as the use of the polygraph test, Bailey has also put forth a major effort against the use of the police lineup. He has found over the years that the criminal justice system is, in his words, "intolerant of change, because the people who are in it are usually more jealous of their positions than they are interested in justice." He observed that "As the wheels of justice grind on, innocence becomes progressively less relevant."

Bailey's address is expected to highlight life in the courts and the future of American criminal law.

Allocations

For the last several weeks organizations which are requesting funds from Student Government for the next fiscal year have been meeting in budget hearings with the Budget Committee of Student Council.

The Committee will make recommendations to Student Council on the feasibility of all the Budget requests. Council will then vote on the requests.

Unfortunately this will not take place until next Monday, which is Council's last meeting of the year.

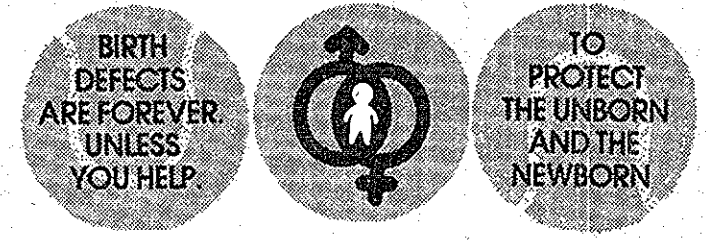

Approving the budget requests at such a late date leaves no time for organizations to register complaints about the amount of funding they have received.

The amount of general fee money which is to be allocated to individual student organizations is an important matter. It is not something that should be done in a hurry or at the last minute.

Ideally, budget approvals should be conducted earlier in the quarter. Last year's budget was proposed by March.

Since that is impossible to do this year, some procedure should be developed to allow dissatisfied groups to have a chance to be reheard. Informing an organization of its approved allocations at this late date and leaving it no process for appeal is far from just.

Salutes Intramurals
To the editor of the Jambor:

Having been involved in intramurals deeply the last four years, we find it necessary to applaud the effort of one person who means a great deal to the entire intramural program. She often remains behind the scenes until a need arises and then she always responds with total co-operation.

To Mrs. Barbara Shimko, the Kilcawley Diseases proudly salute you for your time and effort spent on us and the rest of the program. The entire system would suffer from your loss.

Prediction Coming True?

To the editor of the Jambor:

Having read the article on Greek System Loses Support in your May 12, 1978 issue of the Jambor, I am reminded of the prediction I gave to various members of the greek systems at least five years ago. I predicted the greeks around campus would slowly fade into the past if constructive efforts were not made to keep alive tradition that goes back 100 years or more. There was a time, not too long ago, at YSU where being a greek member was the excitement of pledging, rushing and striving for recognition in the community through community participation in events that brought not only favorable publicity, but also self-satisfaction of a job well done. Remember the competition of the float building, the home beautification, the pride jackets and various fund raising events? Today the main event is sports. Intramural competition is great and should be continued, but it does not draw attention to the public eye as would be the case in community participation. There are many projects that can be helped by greek involvement. Senior citizen projects, fund drives, and crime prevention projects are just a few that require help and afford constructive publicity for the greek movement.

Forget the now emphasis on booze and broads that seems to be the main event with today's greeks. It's no harm to

Guz Says

Paul McCartney is a fake!!!

by Guz Scullin

Last Friday I wrote a letter to the editor about the articles the Jambor ran about the Beatles. I said that I thought Paul was dead, and I wanted to have the facts. Well, I was accosted by the editor Friday, and she told me to do the story, to find out if Paul really did die, and to get some dope on the fake Paul. I guess they want the fake McCartney framed for drugs (pun, refer to last sentence - see, it is funny, you may now laugh). So, I spent a sleepless weekend researching the matter. Today, the facts. And remember, you read it here first!

Paul McCartney died on September 17, 1977. Sorry, but it is true. He was involved in a freak accident with two cars and three rikshaws. The accident took place in Asbury Park, New Jersey on a sunny day. The weathermen had predicted rain for that day - but they were wrong. This is a documented fact, the weathermen were wrong, I can prove it! McCartney was pronounced "dead-on arrival" on September 21, at Adam Holy Hospital in San Diego. There is much confusion in this fact. The wreck was in New Jersey - why then did they take him to a hospital, clear across the country, in San Diego? There are two popular theories. The first theory holds that Adam Holy Hospital had fine room service, and great food - McCartney wanted to go there. The other theory holds that McCartney felt like driving around. Hmmm, there is something fishy there!

The accident was covered-up from the press; there were only six people who knew about the accident. All six were involved in the accident. I talked to one of the people involved, Sally Krawleyrew.

"Oh, it was so awful! Paul's rikshaw was doing about 35 mph; it came to a four-way intersection; I was stopped. Well, everyone at all four corners went at the same time. Paul's rikshaw smacked into the car. I got out of my car, because I wanted to get to Paul as fast as I could. But I was hungry, so I went to the restaurant, and ate a four-course meal. Then I shopped for a new outfit. By the time I got back to the scene of the accident - Paul was gone. He was so cute!"

Ms. Krawleyrew has been quiet about the accident because she has been threatened. She has received phone calls from a nasty person. The person has a deep voice, and talks with a lisp. The nasty man calls daily at 3:08 p.m., although one day back in the spring of 1972, he called at 3:09 p.m. (rumor had it his watch stopped). His message is always the same.

Ring, ring. Miss Krawleyrew will pick up the phone and say, "Hello, have a nice day!" The voice of the man will then say, "Thank you. Is this Mith Krawleyrew?"

"Yes, indeed it is."

"I have a threat for you."

"Oh, could I please hear it?"

"Yeth, the threat is thisth.

If you ever mutter a word about McCartneyth death, you will have bad luck, and you may even get hurt."

"OK, thank you for informing me. Goodbye." Then, she will hang-up the phone.

Coming Friday, more about the truth of McCartney. Be there, aloha!

practice this, but don't make it the main event for greek rushing. If the greeks don't clean up their act, in a few more years they'll fade away as a passing fancy.

Quarter vs. Semester

To the editor of the Jambor:

It seems clear to me that there are certain groups on campus who are determined to change YSU to the semester system, even though no valid reasons for such a change have been shown. There is no question but that the quarter system best suits the needs of our students. In a recent survey, some 90 faculty agreed with me. It is clear that students do also. Perhaps if faculty and students who feel we should not go through the demoralizing battles of changing systems (only to end up with one which less serves society) will contact me, we can form a group to help convince the President of the folly of this move.

was appointed to replace Tony Koury, Student Government President, as chairperson of the Budget Committee. Also assigned to the committee was Savvas Papacostas, Council's new representative at large.
 Koury announced tentative plans for new Student Council and Student Government offices. "We've asked Kilcawley Center to reassign to us the conference room to be offices for the president and vice-president of Student Government. The office now occupied by the President and Chairperson will be occupied by the Chairperson, vice-chairperson and secretary of Council. The outer office now occupied by the Vice-President and Vice-Chairperson will be an office of Council. Koury also said that his cabinet positions will be announced "hopefully next week."

The volunteer committee to help the Ecumenical Coalition's Save Our Valley Campaign, which was appointed last week, was disbanded yesterday. According to Jim Brink, committee chairman, Jeff Raiger, coalition representative, said that the Coalition had all the volunteers it needed for its up-coming telephone campaign and didn't need Council's help. Raiger had addressed Council two weeks ago seeking volunteers for the campaign.

Council approved the Finance report, which requested the transfer of $935 from frozen student organization accounts to the Student Government publicity fund, student discount ticket fund and contingency fund. Council also approved a line transfer from the Afro-American Chorale from their music fund to travel account and a $100 allocation to the Arab student organization for a speaker.

 In addition to Baird, Sgt. Pepperoni, a one-man band, will also make roving performances at the cafe and the Pub on Friday. Baird and Sgt. Pepperoni will also perform Friday night in the Pub from 9 p.m. until midnight. Admission is free.
 Also Friday night, the Cat and Company Disco Show goes on at 9 p.m. in Kilcawley's Chestnut Room. Admission is free to the show, which features dynamic sound and lighting systems. The show played at the Spring Kick-Off Dance, noted Shanley, and was very popular.

Saturday is YSU day at Idora Park. Students, faculty, staff, and their families can ride all day for just $2. All that is needed is a YSU ID. "This is the first time we've been able to get the families of those people that work at or attend YSU involved in a University function like this," said Shanley.

Closing out the spring weekend is the first "rock" mini-concert ever at YSU, featuring Hot Head Slater. A Connecticut-based band, Hot Head Slater specializes in hard-driving rock and roll. Admission is $2 for the concert, which starts at 8:30 p.m. in the Kilcawley Chestnut Room.

Users get caution about 'The Pill'

Birth control pill users have received a strongly-worded caution with their prescription as a result of Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations effective in April.

A brochure warns women who smoke that they risk "serious adverse effects on the heart and blood vessels," and advises smokers to use another type of contraception.

The leaflet will be dispensed each time a prescription for the pill is filled, and also warns of potential hazards of liver tumors, heart attacks in women over 40 and damage to the fetus if the pill is taken during pregnancy.

FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy recently said that women who both smoke and use the pill are 10 times more likely to die of a heart attack or other circulatory disorder than women who neither smoke nor take the pill.

FDA regulations also require manufacturers of the pill to incorporate the new warnings in information given to physicians.

Colleges required to inform pupils of school services

(CPS)—Colleges and universities who get student aid monies will now be required to give students detailed information about the school's programs, services, and financial aid, following regulations issued by the U. S. Office of Education.

Financial aid personnel must tell students about all available student aid, including the programs open, application procedures and eligibility requirements. Students will be informed of their "rights and responsibilities," including standards for continued eligibility and payment procedures.

Colleges and universities must detail information about their own academic programs, costs of attending the school, tuition refund policies and student retention rates.

Institutions also must keep records of Federal funds received and spent for five years, or longer if the funds are involved in audit questions. In addition, schools must conduct "comprehensive" audits of the use of administrative cost allowances and then submit audit reports to the Health, Education and Welfare Agency.

Identity unknown

Girl searches for 'twin'

by Sharon Blase

Sharon Kay Smith, freshman, CAST, has a twin on campus. But Sharon does not have an actual twin; what she has is a girl, somewhere on campus, who looks exactly like her. Exact enough that the look-alike's friends talk to Sharon, expecting their friend to answer, and Sharon's friends talk to the look-alike expecting Sharon to answer.

Sharon, who is majoring in medical assisting technology, is 5 foot 4 inches tall. Her hair is short and light brown, and her brown eyes smile at everyone she meets. Right now she is looking for her "twin," in an effort to get her identity cleared. "I don't know who this girl is," Sharon said; "I don't even know her name. But I'd like to meet her."

The whole mistaken identity problem began for Sharon in the middle of fall quarter. "People would walk up to me and start conversations, and I'd have to tell them that I didn't know them. They were awfully puzzled for a while, until they figured out that I was not the other girl."

Sharon doesn't mind having someone else on campus that looks like her. "We really can't help it. We both just decided to come to YSU." But she added that "It's kind of fun. I get to meet all kinds of new people who are looking for the other girl."

Although Sharon has never met her double, she would like to "just to see if we really do look alike. Maybe we would be compatible people and might even become friends."

One day Sharon even kept an appointment meant for the other girl. "This guy had a message for the girl who looks like me. He said to meet another girl in Kilcawley Center. I thought he meant me, so I went and met her. The girl I saw in Kilcawley straightened everything out. She was expecting the other girl all the time."

Sharon doesn't feel that this case of mistaken identity has caused her any problems. But she does think that: "It's kind of scary when you think about it, having someone else who looks just like you."

Pam McCoy, freshman, business, is a friend of Sharon's. She has seen the mysterious double on campus, and once she almost called to the girl, thinking it was Sharon. "I've known Sharon since grade school, so I didn't think I could make that kind of mistake. But I did. I really thought that the other girl was Smith."

Pam thinks that the two should wear some kind of name tag or identification on their coats "so we can tell them apart. It's awfully confusing right now having two people that look alike" she added.

Will the two ever get together? Sharon thinks she may pass her double on campus someday, and start talking with her. "I may have seen her already and didn't know it. We may not look alike at all."

Sharon's ultimate solution to the problem is simple. "Maybe I'll dye my hair," she said.

Youth Vote

(CPS)-The fabled "youth vote" that was to have changed the face of American politics with the lowering of the voting age in 1972 simply hasn't shown up yet.

The Bureau of Census in Washington, D.C. reports that a lower proportion of people under 35-years-old voted in the 1976 election than in the 1960 elections.

Only 49 per cent of 18 to 35-year-old eligible voters actually voted in 1976, versus 60 percent in 1960. But those younger voters now represent about 40 per cent of the entire electorate, up more than 28 million people since 1960.

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS - - Three YSU astronomy and physics professors examine a model of the universe as they ponder the ultimate question; does life exist outside mother earth? (Left to right) Ted Pedas, Dr. Warren Young and Dr. Ed Bishop.

"We are not alone."

YSU profs discuss UFO possibility

Although they don't subscribe to the scientific theory of UFO's and extraterrestrial beings, a group of YSU astronomy professors will admit on a feeling level, that "we are not alone."

Dr. Warren Young, coordinator of physics and astronomy, put it best when he said, "There's so much territory out there, it would be an enormous waste of real estate to have it uninhabited."

Reports of unidentified flying objects have numbered in the thousands - most proven to be natural phenomena such as airplanes, dirigibles, meteors, and planets. But thirty per cent of the reports remain a mystery.

The U.S. Government officially began its UFO inquiry in 1947, when the investigative arm of the Air Force was ordered to determine if UFO's were a possible threat to the U.S. The public investigation was terminated in 1969, based upon the recommendations of the Condon Report, an Air Force-sponsored group from the University of Colorado. The report's finding: "U.S. National Security was intact." But to this day, no one has been able to concretely explain the unnatural phenomenon that continues to exist.

Regarding the believability of UFO's and the possibility of life elsewhere, YSU astronomer Dr. Ed Bishop said, "It's like saying do I believe it will snow in the next five days? I certainly believe the mechanism for snowing is potentially there, but I don't have the vaguest idea of it's going to happen. As for other life in the universe, the mechanisms are there, but I don't have any definite opinions one way or another."

With the boom in science

Excerpts from letters on file at the Veterans' Administration office in San Antonio, Texas:

"Unless I get my allotment soon I will be forced to lead an immortal life."

fiction literature and movies in recent years, the marketing of such a product has been a phenomena in itself. YSU Planetarium Lecturer Ted Pedas said, "I think there's an anti-science feeling among the general public because science has failed to give them the answers they're seeking."

Explaining the craze over two of the biggest box office film productions, Star Wars and Close Encounters of the Third Kind, Pedas said "People are looking for ways to escape; an escape from the day-to-day routine. I think that's the reason we have all these cults and all the interest in pyramid power. We're at that point in our civilization where people no longer want answers from acknowledged sources."

He continued, "If Star Wars would of come out seven years ago, it would not have had the appeal because there were other issues catching the public's attention. Today, there are no real burning issues causing nationwide concern"

And why are UFO's catching public attention today? Young said part of it is a "lack of imagination of our so-called creative people. Someone gets successful and they all do the same, rather than exploring new territory on their own." All three YSU profs agreed that the marketing of the UFO phenomenon has to do with timing. There were the religious films of the 1950's, James Bond flicks in the 60's and the disaster movies of the early 70's. They've all come about like the style changes of clothing.

The group of YSU astronomers pointed out still other forms of escape, but warn against the credibility of the pseudo-sciences such as astrology. "Relying on it at all is a measure of idiocy," said Young.

Student Art Show opens

YSU RADIATES CULTURE

by John Gron

The 42nd Annual Student Art Show again has proven to be the one of the most enjoyable highlights of the season. The show, which opened May 7 and runs through May 21 at the Butler Museum of American Art, radiates the talent of YSU students and the developing culture of Youngstown.

With much diversity, the 174 pieces presented in the show reflect the individual, personal styles of each particular artist who entered. This is especially evident of the many drawings, weavings, paintings, sculpture, and graphic designs of the students.

YSU students as a whole, however, reveal a great need to express their feelings through their Impressionistic, Surrealistic, and Realistic works. Among the allegories, a piece entitled 5 Reasons-Billboard, by Steve Browning, sheds an idea of the times by using the image of a five dollar bill incorporating the words "In God We Trust" into the words "Five Reasons To Conserve Electricity." The work stimulates humor for those who look upon it.

Another amazing and talented artist is Bill Hoza, whose work reflects the effective labeling style of Jasper Johns, yet brings forth an individual pronounced style of his own. Hoza's work alone is a good reason to go to view the show.

Besides the many drawings and lithographs, the large paintings at the entrance of the show truly reflect the talent of YSU students. Entering the main hall of the second floor, one can almost immediately see a painting by Vic Leone, president of the Art Club of YSU, entitled Nuvole I. The painting, of brilliant blues and whites of clouds and sky, gives the observer a feeling of being lifted off the ground into the almost whimsical atmosphere of the painting. This work, in particular, might be compared to the work of Salvador Dali.

Others, such as the work by Anne McKelvey, may be compared to the earlier works of Pablo Picasso whereby he used the Orient as a motif in developing the linear style of his early Impressionistic works.

Among the talent shared with the observer, one's love for musical allegories can also be shared in the works of Carl E. Dominic and of Mary Kidd. Dominic uses pop art to express a Rock character in a painting entitled Marvin, while Kidd uses tone and linear movement in a pencil drawing entitled Everybody's Alone, a work which expresses the meaning of the title almost immediately.

Of the many pieces exhibited, the weavings and wall hangings also express the ideas and inner feelings of the individual artists. An untitled woven wall hanging by June Bennehoof, using two different textures of white fibers, creates the effect of an almost Neolithic idea of purity and lightness of the inner soul. Others include a natural jute wall hanging entitled Primitive, by John Gron, which suggests an African tone, an almost "VooDoo" effect. The piece reflects the mysticism and supernatural beliefs of the artist.

The Butler Museum of American Art cordially invites all to view the show any time until May 21. Many faculty members at YSU have commented on the show as being the best the University has ever had. With all the paintings, sculpture, drawings, and three-dimensional pieces, the show truly presents the talent of the students at YSU. The artists previously mentioned are just a few of the many, many talented artists represented in the 42nd Annual Student Art Exhibition. It would be worth your while to view the talent of "Today's" artists.

Women top Wooster, Cedarville; YSU to face Kent St. in semifinals

by Bill Snier

Many events throughout the state fell victim to the waters of spring this past weekend, including the Ohio Association of Intercollegiate Sports for Women state tourney in Dayton where the YSU women's softball team was vying for a state championship.

The Penguins have reached the semifinals of the tourney, but rain washed out Sunday's semifinal and championship games. The women entered the semifinals by defeating the College of Wooster, 11-0, and by white-washing Cedarville, 3-0, on Friday afternoon.

In Friday's opener against Wooster, the Penguins combined great defense with some timely hitting to crush the visitors. The Penguins had fourteen hits to the College of Wooster's five to highlight the victory.

The game was scoreless until the third inning when the Penguins put together a string of singles which were good enough for three runs and a 3-0 lead. From there, the Penguins picked up five in the fourth inning and three more in the fifth for the final count.

Jill Harmon captured the win for YSU, but "it was a super defensive effort that carried us to victory" according to head coach Pauline Noe.

Individually for YSU, Cindy Burazer had two hits in three trips with two RBIs. Andrea Zbydniowski knocked home three runs, and Vicki Lawrence had a perfect "three for three" game with two RBIs.

In Friday's second game with Cedarville, a scoreless tie after seven innings forced the game into extra innings.

The YSU women came up in the top half of the eighth inning and immediately scored three runs to seal the verdict. Denise Amado, who went "three for four" in the contest, opened the eighth with a single. Andrea Zbydniowski and Cindy Burazer were safe on Cedarville errors to load the bases. Judy Rutz, who was also "three for four" in the contest, then singled to drive home two runs and Ronie Prince hit a sacrifice fly for the third Penguin run.

The Penguins were again sound defensively with Cedarville getting only six hits to the Penguins nine. Cedarville also committed three errors, two of them in the eighth inning, which cost them in the final count.

Because of Sunday's heavy rains, the outcome of the tourney is uncertain. Three of the original seeded teams still are in the running for the championship: Miami (O.), Kent State and YSU.

Miami, the number one seed, will face the winner of the Wilmington-Central State, which was suspended by rain with the score ties at one run apiece in the third inning of play. ## Penguins sign third recruit; Zeigler inks letter of intent

YSU's successful basketball recruiting campaign this spring gained still another victory with the announcement that Dave Zeigler, the United Press International's Class AA Player of the Year, has signed a national letter of intent to attend YSU.

A 6-5 first-team All-Ohio forward from Coshocton High School, Zeigler concluded a brilliant career with 1,004 career points.

"We feel we have recruited one of the outstanding forwards in the state of Ohio," said YSU's head basketball coach Dom Rosselli. "Dave Zeigler is an excellent basketball player who also excels in baseball. He is a quality student and a first-rate individual, and we are proud that he has decided to attend Youngstown State."

Zeigler, who netted 527 points this season, averaged 28 points and a 13.7 rebounds per contest in his senior year. A two-year letterman, he was chosen as the MVP of both the Cardinal Conference and the All-District squad. YSU's newest cage recruit led the conference in scoring with a 30.6 average, and scored 30 or more points six times during the season. His best effort came against Malabar High when he ripped the nets for 40 points.

A strong shooter, Zeigler shot 56 per cent from the field and 76 per cent from the foul line. He was named MVP of the prestigious North-South All-Star game in March as a result of a brilliant 33-point performance. His play in the District V All-Star contest also resulted in that game's MVP award.

An all-around versatile athlete, Zeigler is also an outstanding baseball player and carries a 3.5 grade point average in the classroom.

Baseball

The YSU baseball team topped Cleveland State 4-1 last Thursday to continue their winning ways. The Penguins overall record now stands at 13-7. The Penguins face Mercyhurst on Wednesday.
