

Budget is discussed in Council meeting

by Sherry Williams

Budgetary matters continue to be discussed as Student Council has called two special meetings to review budget recommendations.

Council began their discussion of the Student Government budget and student organization funding at last Monday's meeting, (the last regular meeting of the quarter), but objections were raised and it was decided that one meeting, with Council members having a chance to look only briefly at the budget, was not sufficient time. A special meeting was called for Wednesday, May 24, to give Council members a chance to review the budget requests.

Tony Koury, Student Government president, said Council met Wednesday and reviewed and approved much of the budget, but another meeting has been called for next Wednesday. Koury said Council should have made their approvals by then to complete the budget hearings.

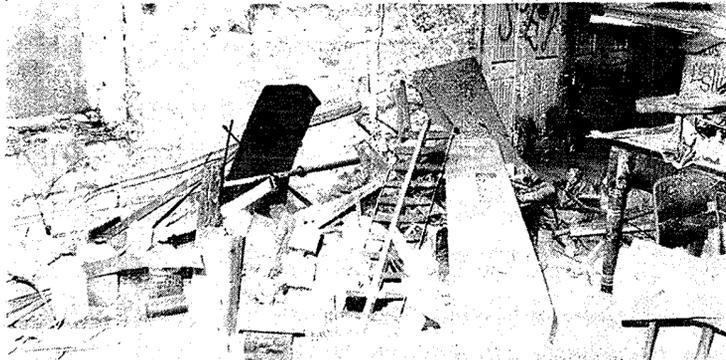

The General Fee Subcommittee made recommendations to the Budget Committee that Student Government be allocated $69,000, but Koury said the Budget Committee intends to give only $59,000 to Student Government. Last year's Student Government budget was $59,000.

About the discrepancy between the General Fee Subcommittee's recommended allocation and the actual allocation from the Budget Committee, Koury said, "There is no way that we will be able to maintain all of our programs at our present level of operation. If all we are given is $59,000 we will definitely be hurting."

The greatest increase in the Student Government budget comes from increased stipends to pay Student Government employees, who include the president, the vice president, the chairman of Student Council, the vice chairman of Council and the secretary of Student Council.

The president and vice president of Student Government will now be receiving stipends for 12 months instead of 9 months as it was in the past. This year Koury will be receiving $2104, where as last year's president received $1250. The $2104 figure reflects the $1250 stipend received in the past, plus $750 for tuition, plus $104 for an additional month of service. This year's Student Government president and vice president will be serving a 13 month term due to the new constitutional revision which sets the term of office from (Cont. on page 7)

FIRE HAZARD? - This is the way Room 16 looked when fire inspector Roy Infante inspected Rayen Hall Wednesday. He found several instances of violations of fire codes, and the University has seven days to clean these areas. photo by Sharon Blöse

'Very poor housekeeping'

Hazards found in Rayen Hall

by Ed Shanks and Sharon Blöse

"Very poor housekeeping" was the overall comment made about the basement of Rayen Hall by Roy Infante, Youngstown Fire Inspector, after an inspection was made of the building on Wednesday, May 24. Infante determined that the conditions in the basement were a definite fire hazard.

Infante described poor housekeeping as piles of litter and trash and general unclean and unsafe conditions. The basement of Rayen Hall is currently in this state.

In a letter to Raymond Orlando, director of the physical plant, Chief Fire Inspector John G. Zarnary listed the following hazards found in Rayen Hall by Infante.

There is an accumulation of trash and very bad housekeeping in rooms 14, 15, 16 and 19. Two oxygen cylinders located in room 16 are not secured by chain tie backs, and flammables such as film fix, stop bath, developer, paint thinner, and lacquer reducer are not stored in a fireproof cabinet. The door to room 16 also exits inwardly.

An electric plate cover is needed for a fixture in the ceiling in room 14, the art department wood shop, and film chemicals are stored in jugs on shelves and not in fireproof cabinets.

Flammable chemicals are stored improperly in room 15, the Jambar dark room, and two light fixtures in the ceiling are in need of repair. Two electric heaters in the room must be removed.

The east door of the first floor of the building is chained shut, and extension cords in the Jambar office run across the floors.

The safety and/or fire hazards listed above are hazards, said Infante, for several reasons. Oxygen cylinders have to be secured with chain ties to prevent them from falling or being knocked over and possibly exploding. Oxygen cylinders also become "missiles" in a fire, said Infante, and are dangerous.

Flammable chemicals must be stored in metal fireproof cabinets to prevent them from being spilled accidentally. Flammable chemicals can also explode if exposed to fire.

All doors exiting rooms must exit outwardly and not inwardly.

Defends investigative press

Anderson cites government power

by Naton Leslie

Jack Anderson, investigative Washington reporter and self-acclaimed "muckraker" lectured to an audience of approximately 500 on Wednesday evening.

Anderson's presentation was part of the YSU Artist Lecture Series.

Anderson claimed, "My particular profession is to be an investigative reporter," which he defined as a journalist whose task it is to uncover the news and try to "dig out what the government wants to cover-up." Anderson noted that the government "seeks to keep us from learning the facts."

The journalist also spoke in defense of the investigative press. He pointed out that although the first story written by an investigative reporter is not complete, it serves to open an entire affair or scandal. He illustrated this point by stating that the first story on Watergate was printed in 1972 and the first story about the Korean scandal and Korean businessman Tungsten Park was written in 1975. Both of these stories, Anderson concluded, developed as a result of these early stories. He added that it is the investigator's "function to sort of break the ice."

Anderson went on to argue the necessity of a free press. He said that when a dictator rises to power, the first move is to "seize the press," realizing, Anderson asserted, that control is not possible without controlling the press.

Anderson outlined the power structure of American government by stating that the "Sovereign is the people - not the government or the president." He said that government officials sometimes overlook or forget that the people are sovereign, adding that it is the press who must act as "watch dogs" to ensure that the government does not take this power from the people. However, Anderson warned, if the press loses the support of the people, it can no longer be effective.

Throughout the presentation and during the question and answer session that followed, Anderson attacked different aspects of the Federal government and American business interests.

While discussing President Carter's performance in Washington, Anderson described him as "a sincere boy scout" when the executive office requires "a surgeon." He added that "at the end of his term, he may even be competent."

He also spoke out against the "nebulous tyranny of bureaucracy," the medical profession, auto mechanics, the legal profession, and the Energy commission.

At the conclusion of his speech, Anderson was given a standing ovation.

Photography Contest/Exhibit

The Kilcawley Center Art Gallery will present its second annual Photography Contest and Exhibit at 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 30 through June 9. Kevin Fahey, art gallery spokesman, said over 80 different works will be exhibited by students and faculty for judging. Gallery hours are 10 a.m.-8 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m.-3 p.m., Friday.

Student Teaching Seminar

The YSU Student Teaching Office announces an evaluation seminar set for 1 p.m. May 31 for all teachers and principals engaged in YSU's spring quarter student teacher/cooperating teacher program. The seminar will be held in Cushwa Hall, room B-031.

Lebanon Lecture

"Lebanon and the Middle East" will be the topic of a lecture set for 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 31, in Room 216, Kilcawley. The lecture will be presented by two speakers, Dr. Elias T. Saadi, chairman of the American-Lebanese League and Joseph Sheban, president of the Kahil Gibran International Foundation. The lecture is sponsored by the YSU Lebanese Student Organization and Student Government and is free and open to the public.

Laboratory Technology

The Allied Health department announces that it is now taking applications for a two-year medical laboratory technology program. Applicants should register in the Allied Health department, room 1072, CAST, no later than June 7, 1978.

Women's Field Hockey

Students interested in trying out for the women's field hockey team for fall quarter are requested to fill out a general information questionnaire before the end of this quarter. Forms are available at the physical education office, Beeghly 307.

Bilingual Students

The Bilingual and English Speaking Student Organization is encouraging students, especially bilingual students, to attend its meeting from 4-5 p.m. on Friday, May 26 in room 253 Kilcawley. The organization has been formed to help meet the needs of bilingual students on campus.

Alpha Phi Delta

The pledge class of Alpha Phi Delta fraternity recently held a car wash at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Belmont Avenue. The pledges worked from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and made $95 which was donated to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The car wash was one of several community projects in which the fraternity participates.

Wolf for National Mammal

Two animal charity groups are sponsoring a petition to make the northern wolf national mammal of the U.S. and to help save this much maligned and threatened animal from endangerment. As national mammal, the wolf would represent the freedom of the outdoors. Recently, the Alaska department of fish and game has called for an 80 percent extermination of the Alaskan wolf. If this occurs, it will quickly make this proud and friendly animal an endangered species. If interested in the petition for national mammal or more information, call Ed Powrie at 757-1707.

Rayen Hall

All fixtures must have plate covers, and extension cords must not run across traffic areas where they can be walked on and possibly frayed.

Exit doors cannot be chained shut. Exits must be available in case of fire.

Infante said that the art department seemed to be the greatest violator in the safety hazards existing in the basement of Rayen Hall. Rooms 14, 19 and 16 were used by the art department when it was housed in Clingan Waddell Hall. The department has recently moved to its new location in Bliss Hall.

Dr. Jon Naberezny, chairman of the art department, was unavailable for comment when the Jambar went to press Thursday.

Ron Aey, physical plant training officer, accompanied Infante on his inspection of the building. Aey commented that since all academic departments had moved out of Rayen Hall and that no regular classes are held there, he and members of the physical plant do not have a reason to enter the building and be aware of the existing conditions unless contacted by someone. Maintenance and cleaning people, however, are still in the building.

The Youngstown Fire Department was contacted on Tuesday, May 23 by two Jambar reporters concerning the conditions in Rayen Hall. Infante made his inspection the next day, and the letter to Orlando was issued on Thursday.

Orlando was out of town on Thursday, and was unavailable for comment.

Zamary added in his notice of the safety hazards in Rayen Hall to Orlando on Thursday that "In the interest of public welfare and safety, we trust that the above violations will be remedied within seven days upon receipt of this letter."

The steps in cleaning up the basement and removing the fire hazards were outlined by Aey. "First, we try to determine who is responsible," said Aey. In this case, the main responsibility falls upon the art department, noted Aey. Naberezny was contacted by Aey on Thursday and notified to salvage what the department wanted from the basement of Rayen.

"But the responsibility eventually falls back on the physical plant," Aey added. A work order has already been issued by Aey to Richard Weber, superintendent of maintenance, who will be in charge of the clean-up operation.

Aey and Infante will then make a follow-up inspection of the building after the clean-up has taken place.

Orientation to familiarize emergency staffs to YSU

In an effort to improve emergency communications, the YSU physical plant is sponsoring two seminars to familiarize area ambulance services and fire stations with the YSU campus.

The first seminar is the Second Annual Public Service Ambulance Orientation Program scheduled for 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Wednesday, May 31. According to a letter sent to area ambulance services by Raymond Orlando, director of the physical plant, the purpose of the program is to help familiarize ambulance personnel with the campus, its structure, how to gain quick access to the buildings and the quickest route to travel to the buildings.

The program will be held in Kilcawley Center, and will include a historical slide presentation of the history, present and future of YSU. Each ambulance company will receive a large campus map coded to help the ambulance dispatcher, and a book of building diagrams prepared by the physical plant showing the floor plans of each building. The diagrams highlight major entrances, elevators, ramps, and dock areas.

The second seminar is The Third Annual Fire Department

Hongisto to speak; former Cleveland chief of police

Richard Hongisto, former sheriff of San Francisco County and former chief of police of Cleveland, will be lecturing at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 31, in Schwebel Auditorium, Engineering Science Building.

Hongisto, while in office in Cleveland, made public certain alleged unethical actions that he purportedly was asked to perform. Consequently, he was fired as chief of police by Cleveland Mayor Dennis Kucinich just 100 days after Kucinich referred to him as "The best law-enforcement officer in the country."

The dismissal of Hongisto has sparked a mayoral recall drive in an effort to oust Kucinich from office.

Hongisto has a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary social science from San Francisco State University, and received his masters degree in criminology from the University of California at Berkeley. He is currently a doctoral candidate at the University of California at Berkeley.

Hongisto has appeared on the Tom Snyder program, Tomorrow, and one 60 Minutes.

The lecture is co-sponsored by Alpha Phi Sigma, the honorary criminal justice society; the Pre-Law Society and Student Government.

Orientation Program. The dates for the program are June 5, 6, and 7. The three days have been scheduled so all three shifts who cover a fire station may attend the seminar. Youngstown fire stations No. 1, 2 and 7 normally respond to a University alarm.

The purpose of the program is to acquaint firemen with the new buildings that have been added to the campus, such as the new Arts and Sciences Building, and with newly-remodelled buildings.

Ron Aey, training and safety officer, will coordinate and narrate both the ambulance and fire seminars.

Aey said the campus maps and building diagrams are issued to the ambulance and fire companies so they will have a knowledge of the campus layout. The fire companies, especially, will know the location of electric and gas shutoffs. Radiation areas, such as the north end of Ward Beecher Science Hall, are also noted on the diagrams.

The reason for the diagrams, noted Aey, is so fire personnel will be familiar with the building before an actual fire breaks out. (Cont. on page 12)

Applications open for coordinator in faculty program

by Barbara Janesh

Applications and nominations for the position of Coordinator of Faculty Development are being accepted by Dr. Earl E. Edgar, vice president of academic affairs.

The job of Coordinator, according to a memorandum issued by Edgar, is to help faculty "to improve their teaching skills and to further their pedagogical development."

The position is provided for by Article 11.2 of the YSU-OEA Agreement, which states that "a member of the bargaining unit shall be designated Coordinator of Faculty Development."

Duties of the Coordinator, as stated in the Agreement, will include consultation with and assistance to faculty members in improving their instruction when they request it, and the development of workshops, classes, and seminars in instructional improvement, open to faculty and graduate students.

In addition, the Agreement states that the Coordinator will consult with faculty and administration concerning development of teaching diagnostic instruments, and conduct research to improve teaching diagnostic instruments and procedures.

Aside from being a faculty member, applicants for the position must have "some interest and/or experience in the general area of faculty development," according to Edgar's memorandum.

The Coordinator, to be appointed by Edgar, will receive (Cont. on page 7)

Stipend increase

The greatest increase in the Student Government budget for next year comes from increased stipends.

While the combined cost of this year's stipends was $3,500, next year's stipends will be $5,272.

Starting next year the president and vice-president will be paid for 12 months of work instead of 9.

The president's stipend will be increased from $1,250 for nine months to $2,104 for 12 months. Tony Koury, president of Student Government, explained that the president will receive $104 a month for 12 months. An additional $750 will be given in tuition. The position of student body president is a time consuming job. The position is worthy of a higher stipend. However, $750 is a rather hefty increase even for such a demanding position.

Unlike the position of president, the job of vice president is far less demanding and far less time consuming. This year's stipend for the position was $400 for nine months. Next year it will increase to $1,292 over a 12 month period, $750 of this will be in tuition. Such an increase is unreasonable and absurd. Koury has stated that the vice president will be given extended duties. It is doubtful, however, that the position's duties can be extended to justify a $892 jump.

The stipend of the chairman of Council is being increased from $1250 to $1350.

This breaks down to an $11 a month raise which isn't unreasonable. Likewise, the stipend increase for the secretary of Council was raised only $20, from $250 to $270.

The final Student Government stipend, that of vice chairman of Council, was raised only $10, from $350 to $360. Although this position received the smallest increase it is also the position which has the fewest duties. For the most part the vice chairman fills in for the chairman, should the chairman ever miss a Council meeting. A stipend of even $350 for what is merely a "stand-in" isn't necessary.

Student Government is trying to find ways to trim its budget from the $69,000 it was hoping to receive from General Fee money, closer to the $59,000 figure the University Budget Committee wishes to grant it. A good place for Student Government to look for excess spending would be in Student Government stipends.

Guz Says

Something new

by Guz Scullin

Some smart people think that television is "the idiot box." Bullmuffinmakers to them! TV is the best thing to happen since buggy whips. TV cares; it constantly changes to meet the demands of the viewing public. As a matter of fact, I have found out what some of the new shows will be this fall. Here they are.

Mr. Ice: A sitcom about the trials and tribulations of a funeral director. The show is fairly lively, and moves well. It will be seen on Tuesday nights at 8 p.m. a dead time usually for a new show, but critics feel that the success of this show will be an open and shut case. The first episode introduces the characters of Mr. Ice, the mortician; his wife, Shelly (who is frigid in her sexual performance); and their dog, Spot (as a running gag, Mr. Ice will tell the dog to "roll over and play dead"). This show sounds like a real winner; it probably won't appeal to all those stiffs who think that TV is "the idiot box."

Another new series set for this fall is The Fred Silverman Show on NBC. Silverman will be the new programming director at NBC this fall, and he feels that people will want to know his life story. The show has been sub-titled How to Earn $2 Million a Year Filling Airheads with Trash. I for one would really love to know more about the man behind such classics as Charlie's Angels, Three's Company, Laverne & Shirley, and other intellectual shows. Silverman's co-host will be former rock singer Paul Revere.

The Joey Show will be yet another spin-off of All in the Family. I you remember, Joey was Mike and Gloria's son. Since the parents have left the series, executives at CBS hated to see the child out of work—so Joey is getting his own show. Although the child is unable to speak, he will, nonetheless, be the sole star of the one hour show. The first episode will have Joey dreaming that he is at the dentist's office. The dentist will tell Joey that he does not have enough teeth yet, and for him to come back when he is older. Another episode has Joey dreaming that he is going for his driver's license test. But he is told that he is not old or tall enough to drive. Another episode has Joey dreaming that he is trying to buy 7 percent beer, only to find out that he is not old enough to buy even 3.2 percent beer. And some people call TV the idiot box! Ha!

This fall The Jack Webb Comedy Hour will also premiere. If you'll recall, Jack Webb played Sgt. Joe Friday on the old Dragnet series. In his new show, Webb will fill our TV screens for one hour telling some of his favorite jokes. Clint Eastwood will be the co-host for this show.

There will also be some good specials on this fall. CBS Reports: Sex and Its Affects on Population Growth, will be aired in October. CBS also plans a special with Walter Cronkite as the host. The special will be cleverly titled The Walter Cronkite Special. One the show, Walter will tap dance, sing in a monotone voice, and do some of his famous bird calls.

ABC plans a special with Barbara Walters. The subject will be Speech Impediments and News Reporting. She will also interview Harry Reasoner.

So, for all you smarty pants who say TV is the "idiot box," I just have to say two words -- "oh, Yeah?"

Letters:

To the editor of the Jambar:

At the last Student Government meeting—Monday, May 22—the subject of the budget report was brought up. Council was expected to pass an eleven-page report with approximately 21 issues in Group I Account and 44 organizations and/or events in Group II Account with only three minutes allowed to deliberate on each item. This was the result of a motion passed several weeks ago. How could Council effectively deliberate (three minutes on each item) on a budget when copies were distributed to the members at this meeting? Why should we, as the student population, take Council's gross inefficiency and negligence?

Council records show there have been large increases in the Group I Account, which deals with Student Government's office supplies, stipends, speaker's fund, etc. But there was only a $29 increase in Group II Accounts since last year, which deals with student organizations who are asking to be allocated funds for the fiscal year of 1978-79. Why is the increase in Group I Account substantially larger than the increase in Group II Account?

Furthermore, I do not agree with the thought of stipends being used to pay the tuition, possibly books, etc. for the president and vice president of Student Government. I think most students will feel as I feel. Why should our general fee be used in the personal improvement of a few, when it does not benefit the student body as a whole?

A special Student Council meeting was called to discuss and vote on the budget report at the last Council meeting, and any organization who wanted to discuss their allocation of funds might have found it difficult to do so because of the short notice. I really think that this raping of students must cease at YSU, especially when done by elected representatives of Council and Government.

Club is for seperated, divorced DARE helps start new life

by Molly Gerchak

"We help each other get it together again after the trauma of getting a divorce," stated Pat Budak, president of DARE, a self-help group for the separated and divorced.

She said that she started going to DARE meetings after she separated from her husband because, "I was not ready for dating, yet I needed something to do and somewhere to go."

"It's good, when you go to a DARE meeting. It's not as threatening as a one-to-one social relationship," she added.

She explained that DARE is not meant to be a social group, "but a group of people does tend to make it a social gathering."

DARE's prime objective is to help the newly divorced or separated person realize that others have gone through the same experience, but are now happy and well-adjusted individuals, Budak said.

She said that the group meetings usually consist of small discussion groups, guest speakers or a rap session, and the topics are relevant to the divorce experience and its ramifications in a person's life.

Budak said that the rap sessions deal with such topics as single parenting, improving one's self-image, managing finances, sex, loneliness, women's need to work, men's visitation rights or any other problem a divorced person might encounter.

"We emphasize the positive aspect of divorce," Budak said. "Even when the experience is traumatic and painful, a person should learn from it and make it work for, and not against, him or her."

She said that DARE members learn from each other's examples and mistakes. It helps them to realize that their behavior or feelings are not abnormal.

Budak said that DARE started as a local non-sectarian group approximately two years ago at the Newman Center, YSU. The meetings are now held at the Boardman Christian Church on the Boardman-Canfield Road. The meetings are held on the second and fourth Thursday of each month at 8 p.m.

She said that 40 to 70 persons attend the meetings, the age group ranges from the 20's to the 60's and the proportion of men to women is about equal. "There is a good cross section of ages, profession and education," she said.

There are no membership fees and no dues to be paid. A $1 donation is asked from each person attending the meeting for coffee and donuts.

A free newsletter is published once a month and can be obtained by calling 758-1184. Budak emphasized that DARE is not a social club. "We hold an all-day workshop once a year, a children's Christmas party and a children's picnic, but we don't have any dances or parties for the adults," she stated. She said that DARE is not an abbreviation for anything. She said, "To us it means, DARE to start a new life for yourself, DARE to change."

Student charter presented

Nuclear Society formed at YSU

A student branch of the American Nuclear Society has been formed at YSU, and the presentation of the charter was received recently from Dr. Walter Meyer, past president of the ANA.

Ronne Proch, junior, engineering, is president of the student chapter and Joseph Leone, junior, engineering has been named as vice president.

The student branch of the ANS is provided the opportunity for students interested in nuclear science and engineering to become involved through active participation in ANS activities on-all levels.

The organization was formed last October, but received their charter on May 15 at their inaugural dinner. Present at the meeting were representatives of Rep. Charles Carney and Mayor J. Phillip Richley, Dr. John J. Coffelt, and the organization's advisor, Dr. Leslie V. Szirmay, associate professor of chemical engineering.

Dr. Meyer said in his inaugural speech that the energy crisis in the United States could only be solved through the use of nuclear power. He further stated that nuclear plants are pollution free and have no dangerous radiation.

Education night sponsored for veterans in Kilcawley

YSU's veterans affairs office and the federally-funded Veteran Cost of Instruction Program are sponsoring a "Veteran Education and Training Night," Wednesday, May 31, at 6 p.m. in YSU's Kilcawley Center. The program is free and open to all area veterans.

Veterans will have the opportunity to become acquainted with various supportive agencies and programs within the Youngstown vicinity. "Too many able vets are either sitting on their rears collecting unemployment or hustling down at the pool hall. I hope this training night will alert some to the benefits available to them in the community," says Rick Berger, veterans representative at YSU.

In order to inform the veteran of local resources and supportive agencies, area representatives will be present to answer questions on state and federal benefits; educational training, and employment information; and college, trade or vocational school enrollment procedures.

"Many eligible veterans are currently not using their education benefits provided by the G.I. Bill," explains Berger, "and they stand to lose the opportunity to ever utilize those benefits. A veteran has only ten years from his date of discharge to use those educational benefits."

The U.S. Veterans Administration pays varying amounts to attend school, depending on the number of credits carried and the number of dependents. Payments are tax-free. Vets are eligible for a month-and-a-half of benefits for each month they served on active duty. If a vet served at least 18 months, however, they are eligible for the maximum of 45 months of schooling benefits, keeping in mind that all rates are paid on a monthly basis for only those months enrolled.

A veteran attending YSU full-time, may receive up to $396 per month with two dependents. Eligible disabled veterans have their tuition, fees and books paid for by the Veterans Administration. In addition, they can receive a monthly check of up to $329 with two dependents. The number of vets attending YSU on a full-time and part-time basis totals approximately 1100.

Since the U.S. is no longer involved in a Vietnam-type conflict, those who enlisted in the armed services after December 31, 1976, are not eligible for the GI Bill, but are qualified for the Post-Vietnam Era Veterans' Educational Assistance program.

Each person entering military services has the right to enroll in and make contributions to the educational benefits program at any time during the person's service on active duty. Contribution to the program will be accumulated from service persons, electing to participate in the program, with the VA matching the service person's contributions on a two-for-one basis. A service person can present up to $2700 with the government chipping in $5400.

For more information on either the Post-Vietnam Era program or the veterans training night, contact the YSU veterans affairs office at (216) 742-3507.

June to June instead of May to May. Koury and Dave Bozanich, vice president, began serving their terms in May and will serve until next June.

Likewise, Bozanich will be receiving $1292 - a $500 stipend, $750 to go towards tuition, and $42 for an extra month in office. Last year's vice president received $400.

The $750 for tuition will be given to the president and vice president in the form of a voucher and will not be reflected in their pay checks.

The chairman of Student Council, John Carano will be receiving a $1350 stipend, up from $1250 last year. The vice chairman and secretary of Council will be receiving $360 and $270 respectively. These positions will still be funded for a nine-month period.

Koury said he feels the raise, for president actually equivalent to one year's tuition, is justified because the job has changed considerably in the past five years, and it has become a position of much responsibility. Also the raise as reflected in a year's tuition is justified because, "It would be robbing the student if he (the president) is away from his job as Student Government president by getting another job," said Koury.

Not taking into account the $750 tuition allowance and $42 for extra time in office, the vice president is receiving a raise of $100, but the vice president will have extended duties which justify the increase, said Koury.

For winter, spring sports

Sports awards presented Tuesday

by Bill Snier

Awards were presented in twelve winter and spring sports during the First Annual Spring Sports banquet held at the Chestnut Room in Kilcawley Center Tuesday night.

Head basketball coach Dom Rosselli presented awards to Dave DelBene as the most valuable player on the baseball team and to All-American Jeff Covington in basketball. As Rosselli so aptly put it, "there was no question about who these two awards should go to. Rosselli also presented four-year awards to DelBene and Dave Dravecky in baseball and Covington, Gerald Parks and Frank Andrews in basketball. YSU faculty member Sister Elizabeth Staudt also presented special awards to the graduating seniors on the basketball teams. They were wooden plaques decorated with newspaper clippings concerning each individual's performances.

Tennis team coach John Keil presented his most valuable player award to Butch Thomas who compiled a 13-1 record in singles matches this past season. Women's basketball team coach Joyce Ramsey made it clear that "I wish I could give a most valuable player award to each member of my team" before she presented the award to playmaking guard Jayne Petrek.

Head swimming coach Tucker DiEdwardo presented most valuable player awards to Barb Wynn for the Women's swim team and Tom Bosse, who clinched a first place in the national meet in his event. He also commented on each individual's past performance and his impressions of them as individuals and performers.

Pauline Noe presented her award for most valuable player on the state champion softball team to junior Andrea Zbydniowski. She also singled out assistant coach Linda Marker for her many contributions to women's athletics at YSU.

Rifle coach Sgt/Major Robert Fairchild presented his most valuable player to Al Snow, who broke a school record in one tourney this season. Fairchild also presented a special award to Snow for breaking that school record.

Wrestling coach Tom Cox presented his most valuable player to senior Don Heman and stressed how much he meant to the YSU wrestling program in the past four years.

Gymnastics coach Helen Mines presented her most valuable player award to Linda Weigle who was the first YSU gymnast to qualify for a regional berth.

WKBN sportscaster Jim Campbell served as master of ceremonies with YSU Athletic Director Paul Amodio and Mr. Don McCloud also making a few remarks. Football coach Bill Narduzzi also presented awards to Don McCloud and Ron Pentz as four-year men.

The YSU tennis team will be bringing their 1978 season to a close this weekend when they participate in the Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Championships at the University of Rochester in New York.

The Penguins will be hoping to improve on their sixth place finish of last year when they competed in the Eastern Championships with thirty-six other schools. This year's tourney will include forty schools with powerhouses such as the University of Maryland, Columbia, Notre Dame, Penn State, and pre-tournament favorite Rollins

College of Florida.

The Penguins go into the tourney after a very successful campaign with a 14-3 record under second-year coach John Keil.

Playing against nine Division I teams and four small colleges and Division II powers the team racked up an impressive record of conquests. This record includes upset victories over Mid-American conference power Toledo and probably the season's biggest win over N.A.I.A. National Champion Mercyhurst, which ended a six year home win streak for the

Two women players emerge as team's 'backbone' for year

by Rick Robinson

The 1978 Women's softball season is over, with YSU's women capturing the ultimate prize, the state championship.

With all of the excitement and expectations that took place at the beginning of the season, as to whether or not the Penguins could better their excellent performance of the previous year, two players emerged as the backbone of the team, Andrea Zbydniowski and Jill Harmon.

Third baseman Andrea Zbydniowski in her first year at YSU as well as one the team became the dominant force in the Penguin offense. Andrea is originally from Cleveland where she attended Cleveland South H.S. She later attended Cuyahoga Community College before coming to YSU this year.

Andrea as described by coach Pauline Noe "started the season as a very quiet but steading influence on the team, as the season progressed her influence at the plate and the words of encouragement she had for her teammates often provided the edge needed to win the game."

Andrea's "influence at the plate" was nothing short of brilliant. She's the type of player who always seems to get the big hit when the team needs it and this she did continually throughout the season.

Andrea finished the season with 27 hits, 2 walks and a sacrifice. She batted .443 on the season and belted out 7 round trippers with 20 RBI's for the Penguin women.

When asked how she felt going into the championship game against Kent State Andrea replied, "Confident, I could see that all of my teammates were psychd up for the game, and this gave me the confidence I needed." Andrea's confidence combined with a homer and a base clearing triple proved to be the decisive edge in the Penguins 5-2 victory over Kent.

Andrea feels that senior, and four year letter winner, Cindy Surazer was a steading influence on her this season. "this was my first time playing in the infield and Cindy helped me alot.

Coach Noe feels that a lot of Andrea's success was due to her own dedication to the game. "Before a game while the opposing team was taking batting practice, Andrea would be on the bench watching the other team looking over their lineup (Cont. on page 9) and choosing spots to place the ball when the game started." This as any sports fan knows is the mark of an excellent hitter, and Andrea is certainly that.

As a fitting tribute to Andrea's outstanding performance this season, she was awarded the most Valuable Player award at the YSU Sports Banquet Tuesday night.

Pitching is 90% of the game, as the well known and often used cliché states, and as usual it proved to be true again this season for the Penguin women. The other half of the talented one-two punch for the Penguins is Jill Harmon. Jill proved to be the master of the mound this season as she won 9 of the Penguins 12 victories this season.

Harmon a first year player from Canfield sparkled on the mound this season, finishing with a 9-2 record including the victory over Kent State. Coach Noe describes Jill as being "the gutsiest player on the team." An excellent evaluation of a player who started the season with an injury and re-injured herself in a game at Baldwin Wallace at mid-season, but still came back to lead her team down the stretch with steady and effective pitching.

Jill also did her share at the plate this season batting .389 and banging in 11 RHI's. With statistics like those it's little wonder why YSU will be expected to repeat their performance next year.

Both Andrea and Jill were standouts on this years YSU women's softball team and are looking forward to next year, but two very important players will be lost next season due to graduation, Cindy Burazer (CB to her teammates), and Judy Rutz.

champions. The Penguins also defeated arch-rival Kent State twice during the season, with their last match of the season being a 9-0 whitewash of the Golden Flashes.

The Penguins will lose only one player from a team which, over the past two campaigns, has compiled a 23-4 record. Bob Green will be that missing player, but it is hoped that Rob Adsit, who was forced to sit out this season with a broken wrist, will return, to action next season and pick up the slack left by the departing Green.

Individually for the Penguins, Butch Thomas had the team's best record in singles matches with a 13-1 mark. Kurt Kamperman and Green were 10-4, Scott Miller 8-4 and Brian Hunter and Bill Dunn were 8-6. In doubles matches, the team of Kamperman-Thomas had a 10-2 record, Dunn-Green 9-4 and Hunter-Miller 8-3.

Students underestimate power of evaluation forms

by Barbara Janesh

"You [the students] have a voice in these [faculty evaluation forms], and it comes through," said Beverly J. Wire, administrative assistant to the vice president of personnel. "You underestimate your power," she continued, explaining that results of the evaluations are used by the administration, academic deans, and department chairpersons, in determining faculty promotions and the rehiring of limited service instructors.

Wire explained that the personnel office distributes the evaluation packages, compiles the returned data, and distributes the results to the individual faculty member, appropriate chairperson and dean.

The personnel office is also the "keeper of the files," said Wire, explaining that the office maintains the evaluation records of faculty members for a mandated three year period (YSU-OEA Agreement, Article 11.6). At the end of the three year period, the instructor has the right to remove the evaluation records from his file.

Approximately 1000 packages containing evaluation forms equal in number to the amount of students enrolled in the class are distributed each quarter, said Wire.

Evaluations are usually administered during the eighth or ninth week of the quarter, and once received by the personnel office, take up to four weeks to process.

"We look at every sheet, checking to make sure they have been filled out properly," Wire explained. The sheets are then processed through a computer scanner and the responses are tallied. Wire then makes a test edit, checking for accuracy in the computer's computations.

Wire explained the tallying process:

On the evaluation form, students answer questions about their instructor's performance with the following code: A=almost always, B=frequently, C=more often than not, D=occasionally, and E=hardly ever.

In the tallying process, each A equals five points, B equals four, C equals 3, D equals two points, and E equals one point.

The responses for each question are totaled, and this sum is divided by the number of students who responded, resulting in a mean score for the instructor.

The instructor's median score, the figure which reflects the middle of all the responses received is also tabulated.

This is done for each course level (500, 600, 700, 800, 900) that the instructor teaches, and a composite score is also made.

The department mean and median scores and the University mean and median scores for each question and course level are also tabulated.

The information, when compiled and recorded on a summary sheet, reveals how the instructor performs at each course level and how he performs overall. It also shows how well he performs in relation to other faculty in his department, overall and in similar course levels, and also how he rates in comparison to faculty throughout the University.

Scores can range anywhere from 1.0 to 5.0 with individual faculty scores usually ranging from 3.8 to 4.4, said Wire. She added that "we [the personnel office staff] are very pleased with the results."

Reports of the mean and median scores are distributed to the faculty member involved, his department chairperson, and the appropriate dean.

The dean and chairperson can use this information to advise the instructor. Results are also used by the chairperson in determining whether or not a limited service instructor (hired on a quarterly basis) will be reappointed.

Evaluation results also reflect the "quality of an individual's performance," which, according to the Agreement, is a basis for determining promotion to the ranks of assistant professor, associate professor, or professor.

Geology department gets Feld fossil specimens

by Naton Leslie

The YSU geology department recently received a donation of fossil specimens from Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Felds of Austintown.

Feld's father was employed as a stone mason, and collected fossils in his work. The fossils included trilobites, crustaceans (sea crabs), brachiopods (sea mollusks), gastropods (sea snails), and crinoid (sea lillies).

The prize specimens in the donated collection are the tops (heads) of the crinoid plant and a four-foot long specimen of the Cephalopod Endoceras, an ancestor of the modern-day squid and octopus. This size of Cephalopod is a rare find, and the fossil will be mounted for display in the geology department.

Oh for a book and a quiet nook
With the green leaves whispering overhead
Either indoors or out
Or the street cries all about:
Where I may read all at my ease
Both of the New and Old
For a right good book, where to look
Is better to me than Gold.

The YSU physical plant works together with the Youngstown Fire Department in matters of fire safety and hazards on campus. All reports made by the fire department are sent to Orlando and Aey. Infante noted that YSU does not have a regular fire inspection scheduled, as do schools, offices, hospitals, nursing homes and businesses on the near north side, his jurisdiction. If an inspection is to be made of any building at YSU, a complaint first has to be received by the fire department.

Infante also said he believes a full-time fire inspector should be scheduled for the YSU campus on a regular basis.

The fire chiefs of each shift will have meetings with their men and will discuss strategy on how they would handle a fire on campus. By having the diagrams, the fire departments can formulate a plan of action and be prepared for an emergency.
