'Happy Days' characters struggle to find joy, meaning in existence

by Moira DeMartino

Larry Kale, senior theatre major, is student directing the play "Happy Days" by Samuel Beckett to be presented on Feb. 16 and 17 at 8 p.m. in the Experimental Theatre of Bliss Hall. The drama will be presented free and open to the public through the cooperation of Alpha Psi Omega, the honorary dramatic fraternity and Student Government.

Kale describes "Happy Days" as an absurd drama in which the characters act out their lives trying to convince themselves that they are happy in a world in which there is nothing to be happy about. The play's action centers around a couple: Winnie and Willie, played by Christina Webb, sophomore, theatre major and Martin Smotrilla, senior, commerial art major.

Act one opens with Winnie, the major character, buried up to her waist in a mound of dirt. Winnie goes through her day trying to place meaning into her existence. Winnie laughs, brushes her hair and recites poetry in her struggle to find a meaning to her life while she is enclosed in the dirt mound which symbolizes the life forces that work against her struggle.

In act two Winnie is buried up to her neck and, realizing she has nothing to live for, gives up her struggle to find the meaning of life. Before the curtain comes down, Willie who can hardly move or speak because he is symbolically buried too, crawls to Winnie and speaks her name.

Kale explains, "Winnie represents man's will to have a purposeful life despite discouragement." Willie, although a minor character, is the thing that puts meaning into Winnie's life.

"Happy Days" was first produced in 1961 by Beckett, who wanted his audience to identify with Winnie and realize life was meaningless. Kale believes that since 1961 the theme of existence has been done so often it has become overstated. Kale plans to lighten his version of the drama by emphasizing the irony of the situation and making it somewhat comical.

Kale, a member of Alpha Psi Omega, the dramatic honorary fraternity, undertook directing the play as a personal project. He proposed the idea at an Alpha Psi Omega meeting and was offered the Experimental theatre. "Happy Days" was the ideal choice for Kale's production because it was a favorite and had a small cast and single set...

"I feel theatre here (at YSU) has one function, which is to serve as an activity for student. By doing something more experimental for students we are giving them a chance to see something which the general public might (Cont. on Page 6)

Speaker for lunch series discusses laws governing landlord-tenant relationship

by Anna Angeladis

Is a landlord allowed free access to a tenant's room at all times? Can a landlord raise the rent to "get even" with a tenant who asserts his legal rights?

Tony Ignazio, coordinator of housing at YSU for the past 14 years, answered these questions and several others during Tuesday's fifth Brown Bag Series lecture.

"Until recently, tenants in Ohio had very little clout," Ignazio explained. Then, on Nov. 4, 1974, the Tenants' and Landlords' Rights and Duties Law went into effect, defining the legal responsibilities of both parties.

The law contains one weakness, Ignazio noted, in that it does not regulate or control

Collect dust in ESB

Vehicles remain idle

by Ed Shanks

Not many people know that there are two cars in the Engineering Science Building. There is an old Hillman that was brought to YSU around 1963 or '64 and there is a 1974 Vega, which was donated by the General Motors Lordstown Assembly Plant. These two cars are now the property of the Mechanical Engineering department, where the Vega is used as a sort of a working model or example for classes.

The Hillman was the thesis project of a student back in 1963 or '64, said Donald R. Arnett of the Mechanical Engineering department. According to him, the student obtained the car from a local junkyard, and for his thesis project turned the car into an electric-powered car, by means of some old golf cart type batteries obtained from an area golf course.

"The batteries are no longer able to hold enough of a charge to make a full 18 holes," said Arnett, "The car would make it once or twice around the block on a charge."

But the student that did the project gained experience, he stressed, and that was what the project was for.

The other car, described by Arnett as "probably the only '74 Vega in Youngstown without any rust at all," was donated to the University in 1974 by Lordstown. One student, again working on a thesis, installed a fiber-optics system whereby one can tell, for example, the water in the battery is low, as well as other things.

However, since the car was donated to the University, YSU holds no title for the car. This means that the car cannot be driven on any public streets, or anywhere except private property. "The only place it's been driven (since it arrived here) is on the sidewalks," said Arnett.

The Vega has not been used as an instructional aid as much as the department would like. This is mainly because YSU does not have such equipment as a dynamometer, which is used to check whether an engine is in tune or not. "We tried to get G.M. to give us some testing equipment along with the car," said Arnett, "but they wouldn't." He went on to say that the department simply does not have the funds to purchase such equipment, which he says he priced several years ago as being around $20,000.

The department does have some older dynamometers, but to use these one has to take the engine out of the car. And since there are already engines donated by G.M. and Ford in the lab, there is no point in taking the engine out of the Vega, said Arnett.

So the Hillman sits amidst a pile of discarded steel pieces and under a thick layer of dust. The Vega, with three miles on the odometer, is used by an occasional student as an example in a lecture on carburetion or electronics. And that is where they will probably remain, until YSU ceases to exist.

rents. The Consumer Protection Division cannot accept or investigate landlord-tenant complaints. If the tenant believes the rent is too high, he is advised to contact a lawyer. The suit can be settled in a small claims court, but the tenant's chances of winning are slim.

If, however, a tenant can prove that his landlord is raising his rent or evicting him in retaliation for asserting his legal rights, the tenant can obtain money damages, legal fees and can recover possession of the apartment.

According to the law, a tenant has the right to:

- join a tenant's union to bargain with the landlord about the terms of a rental agreement;
- complain to the landlord about his failure to perform his legal duties;
- complain to a government agency about a landlord's violation of housing laws affecting health and safety;

--know the name and address of the owner of the property and his agent, if he has one;

--at least three days' written notice before the landlord begins eviction processes against him;

--five days' written notice before an eviction hearing in court can be held;

--notice from the landlord when the landlord wishes to end the tenancy.

Ignazio stated that the three day notice before eviction greatly benefits the tenants and merits legal attention. "Some of these other rights under law should be God-given rights," he remarked.

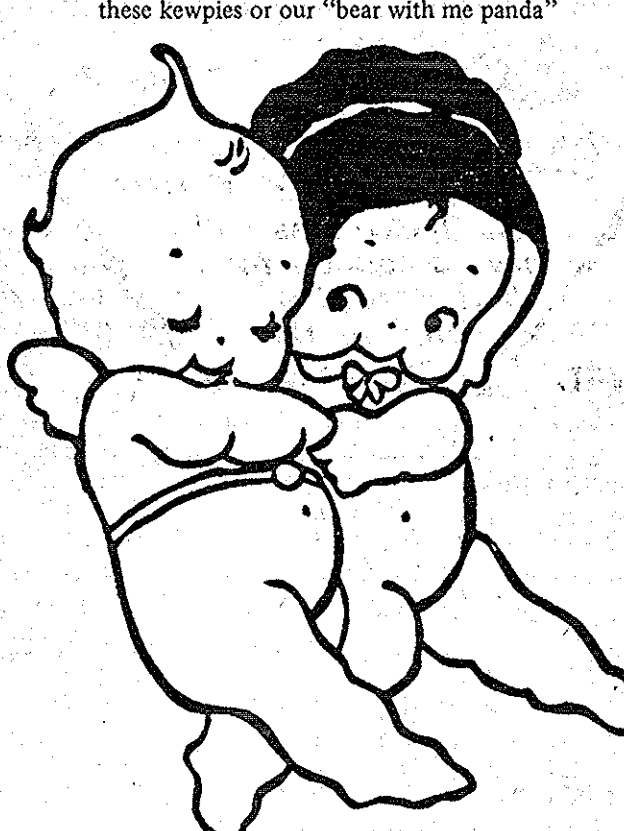

Under the law, a tenant is responsible for:

- keeping the premises safe and sanitary;
- disposing of all garbage in a safe and

Clears up 'misconceptions' Campus group tells of Indian life

by Lisa Armour

"The India Student Organization is a new organization on campus. Its purpose is to increase awareness among the students on campus about India," said Bhaskor Kurada, president of the organization.

He added that the organization is open to any student on campus willing to take part in the activities of the organization. "Some of the activities will be informal get-togethers to exchange ideas, movies, documentaries, dances, and other activities that will teach the campus students about India.

Kurada said that "the India

Student Organization wants to have more cultural recognition and more interaction with the students, so that the students can get to know us better."

He said that there aren't many Indian students on campus and very few students on campus know about them and they want to have their presence felt.

He added that most people have misconceptions about India. "They think it is a land of many people and that elephants walk the streets, but it is not this way. It is quite modern. It has the 10th largest gross national product in the world and is reaching almost total self-sufficiency.

Kurada said that on Feb. 14 in Kilcawley Center the India Student Organization will present Dr. Mishra, expert on yoga.

Kurada said the India Student Organization has only 15 members right now, but that they are having membership drives to gain more members.

He added that there isn't an approved time and day that the organization will meet, but there will be as soon as possible.

Dr. Christensen lecturing on "Geologic Disposal of Nuclear Waste"

YSU student chapters of the American Nuclear Society and American Institute of Chemical Engineers announce the guest visit of Dr. Richard N. Christensen on Tuesday, February 13.

Dr. Christensen, professor at Ohio State University will present a lecture entitled "Geologic Disposal of Nuclear Waste," in YSU's Cushman Hall, Room B031 at 12 noon. The public is invited.

On the same day (Feb. 13), Lt. Steve Drefahl, U.S. Navy Recruiting Officer, will be on the YSU campus to meet with persons interested in nuclear careers in the Navy.

For more information, contact the YSU chemical engineering and materials science department, (216) 742-3020.

Art Department Presenting Workshop

YSU's department of art, together with the Steel Valley Art Teacher's Association (SVATA), are presenting an art workshop for area high school students, Feb. 21 at 4 p.m. in Bliss Hall (room 4002). According to SVATA president, Ron Mistovich, the workshop, entitled "Bring a Student Today," is designed to familiarize upcoming students with the various art programs provided at the University.

The special program will be hosted by Dr. Louis A. Zona, chairman of the YSU department of art and associate professor of art. Other YSU faculty members are scheduled to contribute to the "art awareness" program as well.

In addition to providing students with a more complete understanding of the opportunities available within the art profession, the attending students will also have an opportunity to examine works of art by YSU faculty members. As an end result, students will become more familiar with the different forms of art that are offered at the college level.

For further information, contact the YSU department of art, (216) 742-3627.

Dr. Howard Mettee, Professor of Chemistry to Present Lecture

Associate professor of chemistry at YSU, Dr. Howard Mettee is scheduled to lecture before the Penn-Ohio Border Section of the American Chemical Society, February 16 at 4 p.m. in the Ward Beecher Science Hall (room 212). The lecture, entitled "Light Production in Polanyi Flames," is free and open to the public.

For further information, contact the YSU department of chemistry at (216) 742-3663.

We Will Not Be Ignored

The new state budget was announced Wednesday by Governor Rhodes. While including provisions to aid families paying for higher education, it virtually ignores higher education itself, almost guaranteeing tuition increases in the very near future.

The budget allows for an expansion of the Ohio Instructional Grant Program. It would extend state assistance to families with incomes of up to $20,000 per year. The grants themselves will be larger, to a maximum $720 per year for a state institution.

This expansion of the Grant Program, while laudable and quite overdue, will be offset by tuition increases made necessary by the slight increase (20.8%) of state funds that Rhodes is willing to channel directly to the institutions. At a time when expenses by and for higher education are rising by approximately 25 percent, this increase is clearly not enough.

The budget is now being submitted to the General Assembly for approval. It is time for those concerned; all student at every state school in Ohio, to make the state legislators aware that higher education cannot be neglected. We will not be ignored!

Take Notice

The YSU women's basketball team won again Wednesday night, stretching their unbeaten string to 13 games. At a time when women's collegiate sports are gaining more attention, and deservedly as, this accomplishment must not go unnoticed by the student body.

Coach Joyce Ramsey's Penguins are currently the only undefeated women's basketball in the state of Ohio, and one of the few in the nation. This 13 game unbeaten streak is the longest in YSU history.

And yet, attendance at the games is ridiculously low. The crowd for the last home game numbered about 250. The team is made up of students, like ourselves, and they're playing, and winning, and no one is paying attention.

The next home game is Saturday at 2 pm, and it is important that the student body get out and support this team. It doesn't cost a cent for students.

Regardless of the outcome of the season, this year's women's basketball team will remain a source of pride at YSU for many years to come. Thank you, team, and good luck for the rest of the season.

Poor coverage

To the Editor of the Jambar:
We would like to take you to task for your year-long poor coverage of the YSU's women's basketball team, especially in comparison to the coverage afforded to the men's team. I'm referring specifically to your coverage dated Feb. 6, pages 10-11.

The men's team demonstrated poor shooting in a losing effort against the Akron Zips, but they rated headlines on page 10 with an 8-paragraph basket by basket article.

The women's team, who extended their winning streak to 11 games, only deserved (by your standards) a 5-paragraph short summary buried under a catch-all title of "Sport Shorts". To our knowledge, an 11-game winning streak is no "Short."

We expect this coverage from the Youngstown Vindicator (which we did receive, as evidenced in Sunday's 2/4/79 headlines).

We have attended several women's basketball games and notice the lack of student support as well as the on-going use of the upper decks for other activities during a collegiate game. We can't help but think that this lack of support and lack of courtesy toward the women's basketball team is a direct result of the very poor publicity that the Jambar has given to the outstanding performance of the women's team.

We realize that a college newspaper cannot accurately cover every newsworthy event that takes place and is interesting to its readers. However, an 11-game winning streak is not something which should be overlooked on the sports page. If the men's team had won 11 straight games, we are sure that that fact would receive front page coverage.

This brings us to the real and more general point of this letter—the inequity which exists in the treatment between men's and women's sports.

We are sympathetic to the reader and realize that this topic is not to be treated lightly and that there are many factors, which enter into this discussion.

We, as a former and a present student at YSU feel that the Jambar should treat the campus as a whole community and not simply as a male-dominated group.

Let's give the women's teams the student support and COVERAGE they deserve and need to grow...

Students respond to milk moustache

To the Editor of the Jambar:
This is in response to the "Milk-Moustache" letter. Being mature adults, we find it somewhat disgusting that people would waste time to worry about this issue. The thought of pondering the absurdity of that letter is ridiculous.

What is really important however, are those "Kool-Aid-Beer Moustaches." These come in a variety of colors, shapes, flavors, and are cheaper. They last longer and do not mold or turn slimy-green overnight. In the morning, they still retain that same fresh flavor of the night before.

If those condescending "so and so's" have nothing better to do than write on milk-moustaches they shouldn't be in college. Small wonder most of them are business majors - they should mind their own!

Besides, "Kool-Aid Beer" Moustaches are higher in protein, lower in saturated cholesterol, and free of carcinogens. They also are popular at discoteques, and remain virtually unprejudiced in promoting tooth decay, a handy feature for YSU's nursing students and dental hygienists.

Lastly, for the fair-of-face male or female who is unable to grow a hair moustache, (oh, how gauche) the "Kool-Aid-Beer" moustache becomes the answer. The same applies to really sloppy bald people.

be doing. We need to know what the students want done, in order for us to get it done.

Also, in the quiz section of the February 2 Jambar, it claimed that Alan Shepard was the first man in orbit. I would like to inform the great researching staff of the Jambar that Yuri Gagarin was the first man in orbit, and John Glenn was the first American in orbit. Alan Shepard was only the first American in space, which makes the Jambar wrong on two

Says editorial is outrage

To the Editor of the Jambar:
The editorial printed in the Jambar on February 2, 1979, with regard to Student Council's effectiveness is an outrage!

During the Student Council elections held in November 1978, I, as a candidate, found myself constantly confronted with the same question. The inevitable query was, "What does Student Council do? Why should I vote, nobody up there does anything." My campaign platform was sincere desire to prove to the student body that Council is a working organization, and deserves the votes and attention of the student body.

The actual days of voting prompted the Jambar to urge you and I, and the entire student body to vote. Now, six weeks into the quarter, the Jambar is ridiculing Council's efforts to initiate some small, but useful improvements.

This newspaper has printed numerous editorials and articles urging unity between Student Government, the Cabinet and Student Council. The editorial, "A Charged-Up Council", has a cute title, but defeats not only my personal promise, but also the Jambar's supposed desire to promote a strong, unified Student Organization.

Without Student Council, there would be no funding of any student organization, no committee going to Columbus to investigate our rising tuition costs, few social events and in general, a lack of activity.

Instead of contributing to making Student Council and Student Government a laughingstock, I would like to see the Jambar promote sufficient respect and unity to induce the student body to turn out and vote in all Student Government elections.

I'm sure at one time or another we've all had that certain special instructor that we just could not seem to hit it off with; either a male instructor here at YSU or abroad. Well, I talked to YSU student Dwight Wonklemur, who informed me and a number of other students that a 'favorite' teacher of theirs carrying a negative charge is a certain Dr. Miss Construed, an instructor here. Wonklemur told me that "Construed wasn't running on regular, was a quart low, wasn't playing with a full deck, had holes in her sails, had wind in her jammer, and commuted to school each morning from a nearby leper colony."

I told Wonklemur that the leper colony business sounded like a cheap shot, but he quickly retorted that it was right off the freeway, close to a Quikki-Fill gas station, and could easily be identified by the many red lights shining from the second story windows. Other students confirmed this, as well as a boy scout and an unemployed priest.

I asked Wonklemur just exactly what it was that he did not see fit about Construed. He said in plain enough language that one of her theories about airplane instrument panels being in braille did not communicate too well to the classroom. I queried that the classroom itself physically could not listen too well to an instructor and again asked him what he personally saw wrong with Construed and her teaching credentials. This time his answer was more specific:

"Everything," he bluntly responded. "She just couldn't communicate to me, and naturally had the right of final judgment."

"Well," I said "don't all teachers?"

"Yeah, I suppose they do, but some manage to communicate to the classroom."

"Wrong," I said, "they communicate to the students in the classroom, not the classroom."

"Now that is where you are wrong," Wonklemur continued "some teachers can be so damned good that they can get the walls to respond. The only way Construed could get that type of response was when she held class in the laboratories."

"Well, approaching it from that angle is a bit different," I said.

"No, Construed is not a math professor..." he said.

Quickly interrupting, I told

Wonklemur that we couldn't divulge Miss Construed's department because there is a chance she may read this and be able to find out what she is supposed to be teaching. Besides, YSU is a "family" college and we wouldn't want to upset anyone, especially during prime time.

Finally, Wonklemur left, and I had to decide for myself exactly what it could have been that really bugged him so much about Construed. Well, I did and it goes something like this:

Evidently, Wonklemur knew that Construed was skimming off the top in an American-IndoChina slush fund. Construed either had to own up or pay a heavy blackmail fee. Wonklemur, not fully aware of his power, was inadvertently overcome by an ingenious scheme of Construed's to blacken his name. Construed ruthlessly castrated him from any positions Wonklemur may have had with the University. Construed emerged the victor. However, I also figured that ironically, the ending will be a happy one for Wonklemur, due to the fact that I took Wonklemur's dilemma to several positions of authority here on campus; the profound outcome of several doctors... "Take two aspirins; cheaters never say I've been there too, money talks because two and two is four, and call me in the morning."

THE ARMY NEEDS PART-TIME OFFICERS, TOO.

If serving an active duty commitment after college is stopping you from enrolling in Army ROTC, we have an option for those who want to stay home.

The Reserve option allows you to serve as a part-time officer in your local Army Reserve or Army National Guard unit.

You'll enjoy some of the same privileges and benefits a full-time officer does, while using your ROTC leadership training to build a rewarding civilian career.

And to add to your civilian pay, you'll earn a good part-time income, for working a few hours a month (usually one weekend) and two full weeks a year.

So don't let an active duty commitment cause you to pass up the benefits of Army ROTC. Enroll today. Because the Army needs part-time officers, too.

Football team recruits two W.Va. performers

Two outstanding high school gridders from West Virginia have signed athletic grant-in-aids to attend YSU, announced head football coach Bill Narduzzi. YSU's newest recruits both hail from Wellsburg, W. Va., and starred at Brooke High School. They are Darrell Cheripko, a 6-3, 215-pound two-way end, and Patterson, a 6-0, 170-pound wide receiver and return specialist. Cheripko, an all-state standout and all-league selection, has been president of his class for three years. He is also a member of the National Honor Society and a stalwart on the basketball floor as well. Cheripko will major in pre-med at YSU. He has a 3.0 grade point average and ranks 111 in a class of 447. A talented wide receiver with great speed, Patterson also received all-state recognition and Ohio Valley Athletic Conference laurels. Also a member of the National Honor Society, he will also perform double duty for the Penguins as a kick return specialist. Patterson, who plans to study business administration at YSU, owns a 3.85 GPA and ranks 13 in a class of 447. YSU's two new gridders both played at the same high school that produced two present Penguins—sophomore defensive tackle Marvin Sperlizza and sophomore Robby Robson. "Darrell and Jeff will bring great credentials to our program," said Narduzzi. "They both are two fine young men and exceptional football players."

BULLETIN At press time, the YSU Penguins of coach Dom Rosselli were leading the Leathernecks of Western Illinois, 40-35, at the half. The Penguins were demonstrating their best scoring balance of the season during the first half. Dave Ziegler shook off some early problems with traveling violations to score 12 points and lead the Penguin attack. Bruce Alexander and Steve Miodrag also reached double figures with 10 points apiece. Mitchell Atwood tossed in six points to help the Penguin attack. The Penguins will journey to Eastern Illinois Saturday night for a return match with the Eastern Illinois Panthers. Game time is set for 8 p.m.

All good things must come to an end eventually. But don't think for a minute that the YSU women's basketball team believes it.

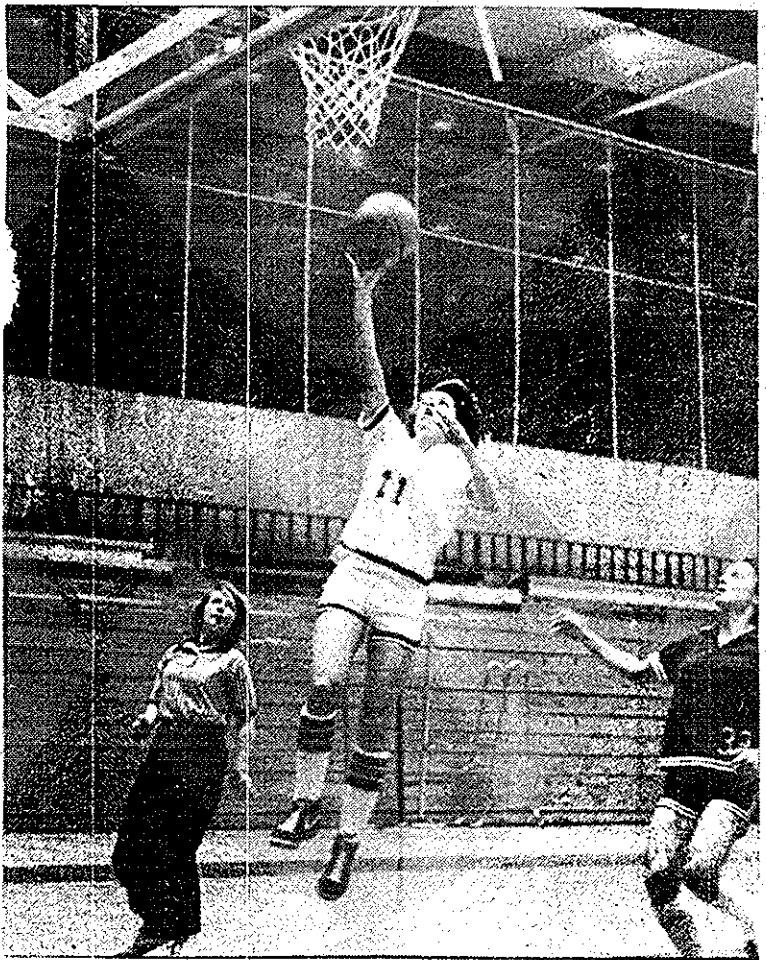

In a sports year where breaking records has become commonplace, the women of coach Joyce Ramsey broke a record of their own Wednesday night. The Penguins extended their unbeaten string to thirteen in a row with a 99-58 clobbering of Malone College. The victory snapped a YSU record for consecutive wins in a season, record tied by the women last year.

The Penguins were not in top physical shape going into the contest. Due to injuries, the Penguins were forced to play without the services of point guards Cindy Diatko and Terry Landgraf. Diatko, one of only two seniors on the Penguins squad, has been averaging nine assists per game and has been scoring regularly in double figures.

It was again the "super soph" combination of Vicki Lawrence and Wanda Grant that carried the Penguins to the record-breaking victory. Grant, who has been averaging just under 19 points per game and 14 rebounds per game, played her usual aggressive game inside and also tossed in 20 points. Lawrence, who was averaging just over 17 points per contest, also had 20 points for the winners.

The Penguins, who love to fast break at any given opportunity, are averaging 76 points per game offensively and are connecting on 48 percent of their shots from the field.

The University of Toledo will provide the opposition this Saturday as the high-flying Penguins, the only undefeated women's team in the state of Ohio, will go after their fourteenth straight victory. The girls need your support to continue on to bigger and better things. Game time for the encounter in Beeghly Center is 2 pm.

Men to face Westminster; women prepare for revenge

After dropping two in a row, Youngstown State men's swim team will be looking for that winning formula this Saturday, Feb. 10, 2 pm, as the Titans of Westminster invade the Beeghly Center natatorium.

The Titans, coached by Gene Nicholson, will bring an impressive 6-2 mark into the meet. Westminster is led by freshman Bill Olmstead (Pittsburgh, Pa.), who is a good sprinter and one of the best around in that event.

Penguin coach Tucker DiEdwardo explained, "Westminster is a good team which has been ranked high in the NAIA. They have very good sprinters and Olmstead is a fine swimmer for a freshman."

The Penguins lost a close meet to Cleveland State last Saturday. As in past weeks, the meet was decided in the final event. The close score, 59-54, is deceiving according to coach DiEdwardo who explained, "We didn't get beat against Cleveland State, we lost."

Looking toward Westminster, DiEdwardo explained, "We have an excellent chance to beat them, but if we swim as poorly against Westminster as we did against Cleveland State, we will not do well."

It's unusual for two teams to have a rematch just two weeks apart, but that will be the case with the Youngstown State women's swim team, Friday, Feb.

16, 7 pm, at the Beeghly Center natatorium, when the Penguins host the Presidents of Washington & Jefferson.

The Presidents will bring a 1-4 mark into the meet, their lone win coming against the Penguins at their home pool, 67-59, back on Jan. 27.

W & J is led by sophomore Carol Henricks who competes in the 50 and 100 yard butterfly events, freshman Stacy Scariot in the 50 and 100 yard free style events, and sophomore Liz Griffin who will perform in the individual medley event.

Penguin coach Gretchen Julian, reflected on the meet and explained, "We swam much better in the meet than the one against Allegheny. The girls worked hard and fought all the way."

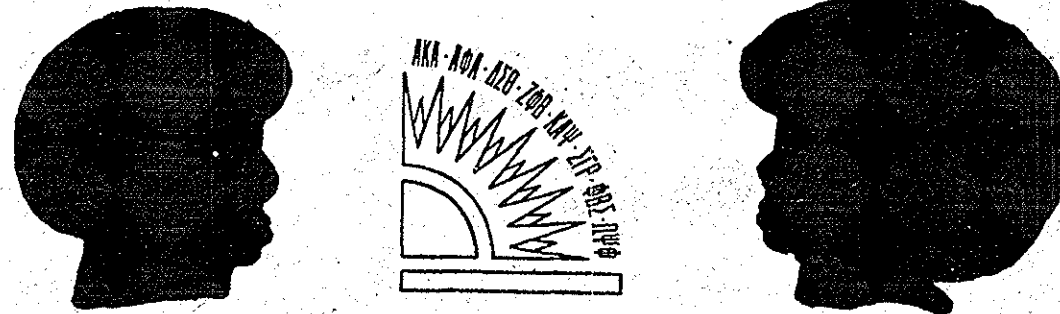

Looking ahead to the rematch with W & J, she explained, "We'll practice hard all week to keep sharp. We know now what to expect from W & J and will be ready. They are a very fine team and it should be a very exciting meet for Youngstown fans."

Wrestling

The fears of YSU coach Norm Palovscik concerning the wrestlers of Kent State, became a reality Tuesday night as the Golden Flashes pinned a 43-5 on the youthful Penguins at Kent.

The Penguins managed to win only two matches in the set.

The Penguins will return to action tonight against Baldwin-Wallace College at Baldwin-Wallace. Match time is set for 7 pm.

Top ten albums of '78

Springsteen's album ranks number 1

by Greg Garramone

I know it's kind of late, and everybody has already mentioned their top ten albums of last year, and close with the worst. Let's but give me a chance to tell you mine. If you disagree, please write to me and let me know. I'll start with the best, then the good, and close with the worst. Let's get to it:

10) Nicolette Nicolette Larson, This lady has been a session singer and a background vocalist for a long time. She won't have to do that anymore. You hear her now on "Lotta Love," a Neil Young composition. There are about six songs better than that one on the album.

9) Stranger In Town, Bob Seger and the Silver Bullet Band-The follow-up to Nightmove, this album is a bit gutsier, a bit more polished than his last one. The band is a bit more involved, but never gets in Segers way. This album is a good time in itself.

8) The Cars, The Cars-Debut album by a band that is kind of rock and roll, kind of New Wave. Though the album was released last year, 1979 will be the year for these guys, a real big one.

7) Comes A Time, Neil Young-He's finally stopped feeling sorry for himself, and, although he made good music then, he's a lot happier now. This one comes close to "Harvest" in quality. "Four Strong Winds" is one of the greatest songs I've ever heard.

6) Running on Empty, Jackson Browne-The guy's come close a number of times to really making it, but this was the one that put him up and over. "The Load-out" has become a kind of concert anthem, the finale to an excellent portrayal of life on the road.

Ten Best Albums-1977

- 1) Aja-Steely Dan
- 2) Out of the Blue-Electric Light Orchestra
- 3) Thunder Island-Jay Ferguson
- 4) American Stars and Bars-Neil Young
- 5) Clanges in Attitudes-Jimmy Buffett
- 6) Monkey Island-Geils
- 7) Stagepass-Michael Stanley Band
- 8) Shiver in the Night-Andy Pratt
- 9) Commodores-Commodores
- 10) Slowhand-Eric Clapton

5) The Stranger, Billy Joel-This is a real "New York" album. You kind of get the feel for the lower-middle class side of the city it shows. Much better than 42nd Street, this album is strong because the songs evolve into each other, from story to story. Not a bad song on the album.

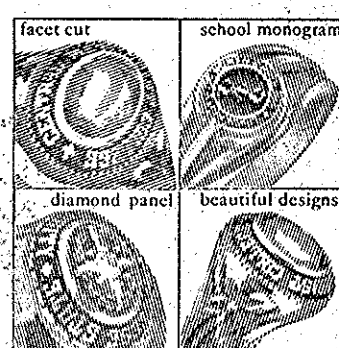

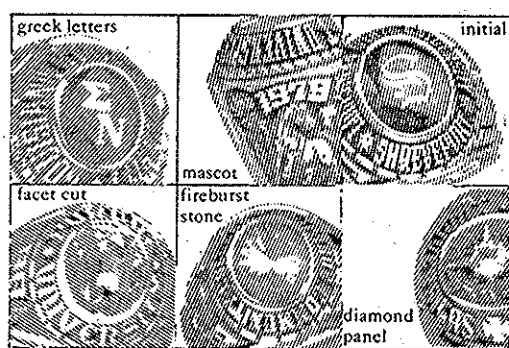

4) Hearts of Stone, Southside Johnny and The Asbury Jukes-Their third album, this New Jersey band has come up with one excellent album after another. Southside Johnny Lyons vocals, Miami Steve Von Zandt's lyrics, and tight crisp sound combine for a rock and roll-blues masterpiece.

3) Who Are You, The Who-legendary band puts out legendary album, the last by the band as we know them. Too bad-this was the best ever.

2) Some Girls, Rolling Stones-Yeah, I guess it is kind of sexist, kind of disco even(Ugh), but it's a good album. "Beasts of Burden" and "Imagination" highlight this excellent production.

1) Darkness on the Edge of Town, Bruce Springsteen-The boss is back, thank God. This angry album is tough, gritty, loud-powerful. A fitting end to his exile, it will stand for a long time as the comeback album done by the Master of Music.

Best Single of the Year-FM, Steely Dan.

Dana School to present two musical maestros

Barry Snyder and Jerzy Kosmala, two accomplished musicians, will present a concert at 8 p.m. on Thursday, February 22, in YSU's Bliss Recital Hall.

Snyder is a solo pianist and chamber musician. He is on the faculty of the Eastman School of Music and is a member of the Eastman Trio.

Ragtime jazz to be held at Stambaugh in March

Monday Musical Club's March 15 presentation of the New Orleans Ragtime Orchestra will bring to Stambaugh Auditorium America's only art form to originate in the United States. The performance of the group which is associated with the Preservation Hall in New Orleans, promises to be one of this year's major musical attractions. Curtain time at the auditorium will be 8:30 p.m.

Students of the history of music insist that no one really knows exactly where jazz was born, although no city in the world is more closely identified with this music than New Orleans.

During the course of the evening's music, the discerning ear will be able to detect the mixture of rhythms from West Africa, the harmonies of European classical music, religious music, including gospel songs and Negro and white spirituals and work songs dating back to the days of slavery.

In keeping with the characteristics of improvisation typical of a ragtime or jazz number, there will be no formally printed program for the New Orleans Ragtime Band. The numbers will embrace the entire spectrum of jazz and ragtime, but the numbers will be chosen and played as the spirit moves the musicians that will make the appearance of the New Orleans Ragtime Orchestra such a popular attraction.

Tickets for the concert are available at the Monday Musical Club Office, 718 Dollar Bank Building, or by telephone at 743-3771 and 743-2717. Prices are $8, $7, $6, and $4. The popularity of this attraction would encourage the early reservation of seats.

Discusses tenant laws

 sanitary manner?
 —keeping all plumbing fixtures which he uses as clean as possible;
 —obeying all housing laws and regulations which impose requirements on the tenant;
 —preventing damage to the premises;
 —keeping appliances supplied by the landlord in good working condition;
 —causing no disturbances to neighbors;
 —allowing the landlord reasonable access to the premises to inspect, make repairs, deliver large parcels, or show the property to prospective renters;
 —give required notice to the landlord when he wishes to end his tenancy.

The landlord, Ignazio warned, can use these duties to "call a cheap shot or to gain an ulterior motive." If, for example, a prospective renter offers the landlord $10 a month more than what he's already receiving, the landlord may try to evict the current tenant. He does this by finding faults with the tenant's maintenance of the premises, even as minor as leaving the water faucet dripping or breaking the toaster.

The landlord also has the right to lawfully evict a tenant when he or she fails to pay the rent when it is due. He is obliged to give the tenant a written notice to leave - either by presenting the notice in person or by leaving it in an obvious location in the room.

 Ignazio stressed the importance of the following landlord duties. He must:
 —give reasonable notice of his intent to enter the premises and enter only at reasonable times unless there is an emergency (24 hours is considered reasonable notice).
 —not abuse his right to enter to inspect the property, make necessary repairs, or exhibit the property to potential renters.

"If a landlord walks in a room while a student is in school, he must have a good reason," Ignazio stated. "This is not allowed by law." A tenant can sue a landlord for this abuse of access, he added.

Students have also been cheated out of their security and damage deposits when they move out the apartment or the house. Some landlords purposely wipe out the money by calling professionals to repair minor jobs.
