Libyan speaker considers sources of Iranian unrest

Dr. Hassen Ashhab spoke to a standing room only crowd in Kilcawley Center yesterday on "The Iranian Revolution and its Effects on the Middle East." Ashhab a Libyan citizen and member of the Political Science Department of the University of Michigan, was sponsored by the Organization of Arab Students, the Iranian Student Association, and Student Government.

Ashhab gave an overview of Iranian political history for the past two hundred years. He indicated that the momentous events which have taken place in recent years "crown a long arduous struggle by the Iranian masses against the dictatorship of the Shah and foreign domination and exploitation."

Ashhab indicated that with the overthrow of the Shah's regime, the "democratic revolutionary movement of the masses" is found with the ominous tasks of "rebuilding the economy on a new basis so as to secure national independence and developing the economy in the interests of the Iranian people." These tasks would require reorganization of the agricultural sector, expansion of industry, and perhaps, most importantly, "the restructuring of the state so as to liquidate and eliminate political vestiges of the Shah's regime," he said.

Ashhab emphasized that the fact that the revolution has won its first battle does not mean the problems of the country are over. It is essential, he said, for the various political forces in Iran to unite around a political, social, and economic program "so as to secure the achievement of the long run goals of Iran's people."

During the question-and-answer period which followed his talk, several Iranian students in the audience took exception to Ashhab's statement that the revolution was based on economic discontent rather than religious issues as reported by the American press.

Money for World Vision International

Christian Fellowship raises $400

by Anna Angelidis
YSU's Intersivity Christian Fellowship group raised over $400 in a 30-hour "planned famine" that began at 12 noon, Friday, April 27.

According to Connie Ellison, secretary and treasurer of the non-denominational Christian Organization, most of the money raised will be sent to World Vision International, which will in turn use the money to feed starving, undernourished peoples in other countries.

"The rest of the money will be used to help people through the Intersivity Mission group," she added.

About 12 to 15 members of the Intersivity Christian Fellowship group participated in the fast. These individuals were sponsored by friends and relatives, as well as by YSU students, faculty and staff members.

"People sponsored us for whatever amounts they felt they could give us," Ellison stated.

Nabbed at Lincoln Project

Flasher convicted

by Liz Lane

Judge Lloyd Haynes of the Mahoning County Common Pleas Court sentenced a Youngstown man to 30 days in jail and a $50 fine for public indecency and criminal trespassing on April 19.

The man was apprehended in early April for indecently exposing himself on the main floor of Lincoln Project. He was also verbally abusing girls in the women's restroom in Lincoln Project winter and spring quarters.

According to one of the victims, the man exposed himself on March 27 around 3 p.m. while she was sitting on the main floor of Lincoln Project. The incident occurred near the Phelps Street entrance to the building.

A week later, the man was caught by campus security in the women's restroom. Another victim said when she entered the restroom a man was just sitting in the stall. While she was in the restroom the man began making obscene remarks.

Campus security apprehended the man for criminal trespass. He was charged with criminal trespassing because only persons associated with campus activities are allowed on campus grounds.

The man's original plea was "not guilty," but later changed it to no contest before the trial. According to the victim the man's attorney said his defendant was on campus because he liked to visit the occult bookstore on Lincoln Avenue.

Four girls in all were involved in the trial. Three had to identify him as the man who was in the restroom making obscene remarks. The fourth girl had to testify that he was the man who exposed himself to her. He denied the exposure throughout the trial.

One of the security officers attended the trial. One of the victims said, "Security alleviated some of the tension by telling us what was going to take place in the trial proceedings."

University Forum

The University/Community Forum on Education, which begins May 5 at YSU, will explore through presentations by state, national, and local leaders such questions as: Is liberal education for all or for a few? Does liberal education answer questions or question answers? Where do the humanities function in the university and in the world of work?

Arthur E. Levine, keynote speaker for the forum, is a Senior fellow at the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education in Berkeley, California.

Energy program set

Environmentalist to speak here

Dr. Albert J. Fritsch, representative of Appalachia-science in the public interest, will speak at 11 a.m. in room BO24, Cushman Hall Friday.

He will appear as part of the Energy and Lifestyle Program, May 3 through 13.

The program will include presentations on the analysis of present American lifestyle, projections of future lifestyles, use of fossil fuels, consideration of fossil fuel alternatives, renewable resources, the neglected resource of human energy.

In the light of the recent energy mishaps and energy bill considerations, solar energy emphasis and nuclear fission controversies will undoubtedly play a prominent part in the entire 10-day program.

In addition to Fritsch's presentation he will respond to Stewart Udall's Energy and Lifestyle: The Issues Before Us Thursday, May 3, at St. Charles Hall in Boardman. He will participate in a Telecommunications Conference moderated by Dan Rivers and involving Dr. Barry Commoner and other well known authorities from 3:00 until 5:00 Monday, May 7. This telecommunications will be aired over WYSU-FM.

All students and faculty, as well as friends who might be interested, are invited to attend Dr. Fritsch's campus presentation. The entire Energy and Lifestyle Program, including displays at Southern Park and Eastwood Malls, is open to the public. No registration is necessary for any portion of the lifestyle experience.

Anyone wishing additional information on any specific portion of the program can contact one of the university committee members: Dr. Lorraine Y.

Nutrition Society offers advice to students on ideal weight, diet

by Anna Angelidis

Nutrition week at YSU officially began Monday, April 30, with free diet evaluations given between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Kilcawley Arcade.

Members of the YSU Nutrition Society, sponsors of the second annual Nutrition Week, offered advice to students, faculty and staff on how to maintain their ideal weight and eat a well-balanced diet.

Mary Krupa, vice-president of the Nutrition Society, stated that the purpose of the evaluation is to "help people become more aware of eating the right foods to promote good health."

"Dietetics is more a prevention rather than a cure," she added.

The Nutrition Society will also display several posters drawn by fifth and sixth grade students in the Mahoning and Trumbull County School Systems. According to Krupa, the posters depict a child's version of good nutrition. They will be displayed on the third floor of Cushman Hall all week.

Other activities include the film "What You Are Is Where You Were When" scheduled for 12-2 p.m. Wednesday, May 2, in Kilcawley's Ohio Room. The film deals with handling and understanding the people

Student Council discusses plans for Day Care Center

by Jean Zentko

A committee appointed to look into a day care center at YSU, a guest speaker, and a change in the By-Laws highlighted Monday's Student Council meeting.

Sharon Saadey and Bill Peterson were appointed to work on a committee organizing a day care center, chaired by Bud Marshall. Marshall explained that campus needs for a day care center are prevalent, since as 18 percent of the married students at YSU have children.

According to Marshall, YSU has adequate facilities for a day care center, but funding and details would have to be worked out before one could be realized.

Mary B. Smith, of the University Placement office was guest speaker at the meeting, informing council members of the various services the office offers. The Placement Center also has information on part-time and temporary jobs for students.

Smith suggested students

register with the office, a year preceding graduation, to get a head start on job-hunting, and a large selection of potential job offers.

Council approved a By-Law change eliminating the use of voting machines for student council elections. Voting Booths will be used instead, beginning with the upcoming election May 8 and 9. These booths will be located in Beeghly Center, Kilcawley Arcade, and Engineering Science lobby.

In other business, Council appropriated $330 for Spring Weekend advertisements, sponsored by Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils in conjunction with Student Government.

A committee was appointed to look into courses in sign language, communicating to and with the deaf, and a basic course in braille.

The courses, sponsored by the Liberation for Equality Towards Students (LETS) will be funded by the Finance Committee, if approved.

History Club Presentation
 Wednesday, May 2, the History Club will present Dr. Saul Friedman and his slide presentation of "Jews in America." Dr. Friedman traces the history of the Jewish people and their contributions and tribulations on the American continent. The public is invited to this presentation which will take place at 12 noon in Kilcawley, Room 238.

Special Lecture Committee
 During spring quarter the Special Lectures Committee will begin the process of selecting speakers for the 1979-80 Special Lectures Series, including the Skeggs Series.

As part of its efforts to schedule programs which reflect the interest of the campus community, the Committee is once again inviting students, faculty and staff and submit suggestions for speakers and/or topics. Suggestions may be sent to Dr. Sidney Roberts, Committee Chairperson, in care of the History Department.

"Women in Supervisory Management"

The department of continuing education is sponsoring a one day seminar entitled "Women in Supervisory Management," 9-4:30 p.m., Tuesday, May 15.

Registration is on a first-come first-served basis and will be limited to 25 women currently employed in business occupations, social agencies and government positions. Participants must be either potential supervisors or currently employed in a supervisory position.

Registration fee for the seminar is $70, which includes seminar participation, workshop materials, lunch and coffee breaks. Registration should be received 14 days in advance of the seminar starting date. Participants completing the full seminar will be awarded a certificate from the YSU department of continuing education. Registration fees will not be refunded for cancellations made after May 5.

For further information, contact the YSU department of continuing education's professional development programs division, (216) 742-3358.

High School Senior Day

YSU will host its second annual "High School Senior Day" Friday, May 4, to orient students to educational services and campus life.

Invited are prospective YSU students, those who have applied for admission and those set to enter college in the fall. Officials hope the "red carpet treatment" will help students decide on making YSU their education home away from home.

Some of the activities planned for "senior day" include an organizational fair, where students have an opportunity to meet leaders of student organizations and view various campus displays. Also available will be information on University services such as admissions, career planning, and placement, counseling and financial aids.

Registration begins at 5 p.m. in Kilcawley Center, followed by plans for a "casino night" with prizes; old-time flicks, musical entertainment featuring piano player "Little Joe"; dinner and a disco-dance" hosted by WHOT Raido.

For more information, contract the YSU Admission Office, (216) 742-3150.

Dr. Albert Fritsch will present public Lecture

Dr. Albert Fritsch, director of Appalachia-Science in the Public Interest, Kentucky, will present a public lecture, at 11 a.m., on May 4 in Cushman Hall, Room B024.

Fritsch has been invited here to participate in a ten-day program entitled "Energy and Lifestyle" (May 3-13). According to its sponsors, the program is intended to "reflect on our changing society" and will include presentations on lifestyles, use of fossil fuels, renewable resources, solar energy and nuclear fission.

In his YSU appearance, Dr. Fritsch is expected to discuss America's present lifestyles and projections of future lifestyles. His rich background in the Appalachian country stems from his experience with such groups as the Center for Science in the Public Interest, Interfaith Coalition on Energy, Citizens Energy Project and Science Action Coalition.

For more information on the lecture, contact Sr. Elizabeth Staudt, H.M., YSU department of biological sciences, (216) 742-3606.

Youngstown English Society

A meeting of the Youngstown English Society (YES) is scheduled for Tuesday, May 1, 12-1 in the Faculty Colloquium Room (Rms. 121 and 122). Decisions will be made about the organization's future.

Dr. William Sloane Coffin Speaks

With sponsorship of Cooperative Campus Ministry, Dr. William Sloane Coffin, senior minister of Riverside Church, New York City, will speak at 12 noon, May 1 in the Chestnut Room in Kilcawley Center on the topic "The Arms Race: What's at the Finish Line?"

A former chaplain at Yale University (1958-1976) who believes church leaders should take an active stand on social and political issues, Dr. Coffin has been active in the civil rights and peace movements of the 1960's and 1970's. Dr. Coffin will speak at Central Christian Church at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Further information may be obtained from CCM, 743-0439.

Iran

 The Iranian students strongly felt that the overthrow of the Shah was a religious uprising spurred by Khomeini and his followers. They pointed out that economic conditions in Iran had been much worse in the past and that the people overwhelmingly voted for an Islamic Republic in the election held after the Shah's defeat.

Career Day set to offer material on social services

The Career Planning and Placement Office has planned a career day for all YSU students who think they might be interested in the field of social services. Those who attend will have the opportunity to talk informally with representatives from 20 top community service agencies. They will provide information and answer questions about career opportunities in social work, counseling, mental health, residential supervision, rehabilitation, and program planning. This will be an opportunity to find out what the agencies look for in prospective employees. Also, information about application processes and hiring procedures will be available.

All students (freshman through seniors) in all majors are invited to attend.
 The Career's Days will be held on Wednesday, May 2 from 10-1 p.m. in Kilcawley Rm. 216-217.
