Recount shows Nakley, Laret election winners

by George Denney

"Officially, I am declaring Ray Nakley and Jeff Laret, President and Vice-President of Student Government respectively," said Council Chairperson Bob Wasko.

The election results were finalized Tuesday, and announced Wednesday at 3 p.m. The decision was reached after the recounting and validating of ballots which did not include an "X" before write-in candidates' names.

Wasko said the recount was a result of a mandate for Council members who decided that the intent of the voters was clear, although technical errors were made.

Before the ballots were validated, Ed Salata led Nakley by 11 votes, 361 to 350. The official count now is Nakley 409, Salata 361. Of the 62 ballots originally invalid, 59 have been validated. The recount did not affect any other race.

Nakley and Laret will assume office on June 20 at noon.

As President of Student Government, Nakley said, "We will move ahead on the day care issue, and improve the academic grievance procedure." He also said, "We need a lot of work on improving the Student Government constitution to better facilitate voting rules. And if we go back to voting machines, there will be less chance of error."

Laret, as Vice-President of Student Government, said he will see that the duties of the office are in the form of leadership for YSU students and not just an informational center.

KCPB schedules films, concerts for summer term

Two concerts, four films, and a trip to the New York Yankee-Cleveland Indian baseball game Sunday, July 6, will be sponsored by KCPB.

The outing to Cleveland, which includes both transportation and Box Seats. Sign-up begins on Monday June 16, at Kilcawley Staff Offices.

Steve Yanek and Jim Ballard, both folk singers, will appear in the amphitheatre with a optional lunch served by Gladieux. Yanek will play on Wednesday June 18, and Ballard on Wednesday, June 25.

The films scheduled for the summer are: Jeremiah Johnson, Sleeper, Fat City, and the Bogart classic, Sahara.

Commencement slated for June 21

Board of Regents director to address graduates

Dr. Edward Q. Moulton, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents, will deliver the commencement address at YSU's fifty-eighth annual Spring Commencement.

His topic will be "Value Added." The ceremonies will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 21, in YSU's Beeghly Center. More than 1,000 YSU students will be awarded degrees at the exercises.

Moulton was appointed chancellor of the Board of Regents, state governing body of Ohio public schools and universities, Jan. 2, 1979. He had served for 24 years at Ohio State University, where he held various faculty and administrative posts, including vice president for business and administration, executive vice president and secretary of the Board of Trustees.

He received his bachelor's degree from Michigan State University, master's degree from Louisiana State University, and doctor's degree from the University of California at Berkeley. Moulton attended the University of Wisconsin and University of Michigan. He was awarded fellowships at Louisiana State, Wisconsin and California.

Beginning his teaching career at Michigan State, he also taught at Auburn University, Alabama, and the University of California. He served as a professor of engineering mechanics and professor of civil engineering at Ohio State.

Administrative posts held there include: associate dean of faculties, director of personnel budget, dean of off-campus education, assistant and associate dean of the graduate school, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, executive

Kissinger, Ford possible speakers for '80-'81 Special Lecture Series

The Special Lecture Committee has announced the prospective lecturers for the 1980-81 program, which could possibly include Henry Kissinger, former Secretary of State and former President Gerald Ford.

Among those definitely included as part of the series are Isaac Asimov, slated for April 30, 1981 and Ralph Nader who will appear November 19, 1980. Columnist Carl Rowan has also agreed to speak, but a date has yet to be set for his appearance. All three have been on the YSU campus before and have been invited to return because their previous lectures have been well attended.

Other possibilities include actor John Houseman and former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young. These speakers, however, have not been scheduled lecture dates.

Kissinger and Ford appearances depend upon the fees they require. Kissinger requires an honorarium of $15,000 plus travel expenses for two security people and Ford has previously requested more than $10,000 for a personal appearance.

The committee is unsure whether Kissinger, at that price, will be part of the series, but has agreed to invite Ford if he will waive an honorarium.

Additional suggestions will be solicited through the Jambor.

Off-campus housing available Womens' dorm deemed unnecessary

by Karen Lynn Klein
This is the second of a two part series which deals with how the University determined that a need for a womens' dormitory does not exist.

Because of the availability of off-campus housing facilities such as the University Inn, The Rayen, YWCA and Buechner Hall, University officials assert that a campus dorm for women students is not needed.

The Rayen, the most expensive of the five dormitories, charges $1,755 during the school year for room and board based on either a single or double room, Donaldson noted.

Though not comparable to Kilcawley on a one-to-one basis, the off-campus facilities are as a whole comparable to that of Kilcawley, according to the study.

As a result, University officials maintain that equal housing opportunities exist for both sexes with regards to the availability and the living conditions of the off-campus housing facilities according to Charles McBriarty, associate vice president of student services.

However, factors not considered by survey McBriarty continued, were the rules and regulations and, where applicable, discipline exercised at the individual off-campus facilities in comparison to Kilcawley.

For instance, $1,717 would cover the cost of room and board based on a double room charge at the University Inn for the nine-month academic school year, said Patty Donaldson, leasing agent for the University Inn and The Rayen. The cost of room and board at Kilcawley for a double room for the same period is $1,450.

Included in the room and board fee is maid service, which is provided only to "the larger areas of the dormitory (halls, bathrooms)" since each resident is responsible for keeping his/her own room clean, she stated.

Also, the Michael's II cafeteria is available to the students and is located in the basement of the dormitory building.

As for rules and regulations, "we have one." Residents are supposed to respect the 11 p.m. quiet hour, she remarked. And with regards discipline, there are none.

The Rayen, the most expensive of the five dormitories, charges $1,755 during the school year for room and board based on either a single or double room, Donaldson noted.

"No services are provided" for the residents except for the Michael's II cafeteria, she continued. The 11 p.m. quiet hour applies here also.

The least expensive housing facility available to female students is the YWCA. Only single rooms are available, Vi Lempka, resident-building director said. However, three different room rates are charged depending on the size of the room. The most available and popular room is the smallest size and costs $1,087 for a nine-month period (price includes cost of meal tickets provided by Michael's II).

"The curfews are 12 m. between Sunday and Thursday and at 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday," she continued. Also, "the girls are not allowed to take male visitors to their rooms and should, at all times, keep noise down so not to bother others."

In addition, strict curfews are enforced and a buzzer-type phone service is provided.

If a resident consistently breaks the rules, she is asked to leave, Lempka warned.

The remaining off-campus facility, Buechner Hall, charges $1,305 for room and board during a nine-month period for a double room, noted Martha Schwing, assistant manager.

And unlike the other five dormitories, Buechner Hall "provides once-a-week maid service for the girls' rooms (bed linens are changed) and for the rest of the building as well," she responded. A cafeteria is located in the basement and a switch board phone service is available.

However, the rules and regulations are more strict at Buechner Hall than at the other five dormitories, "The curfews are 11 p.m. between Sunday and Thursday and 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday," said Schwing.

"Freshmen are allowed one late (pass) per month, sophomores two, juniors three and seniors four, unless the residents present a letter from their parents specifying they do not have to abide by the curfews," she indicated.

In addition, Schwing added, "the only visitors the residents are allowed to take to their rooms are blood sisters and/or mothers."

Those people who consistently break the rules are also requested to leave, she explained.

In comparison to the four off-campus housing facilities, the cost of room and board at Kilcawley during a nine-month period "presently amounts to $1,450" for a double room stated Edna Neal, assistant dean of student services.

As with most of the other dormitories, maid service is provided for all areas of the building except for the mens' dorm rooms, she commented. Clean linens are also provided.

An 11 p.m. quiet hour and dorm room visiting hours make up the rules and regulations at Kilcawley, Neal explained. "The visiting hours are from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. Friday and Sunday."

And, "as a last resort," a resident can be asked to leave if he consistently causes problems, she concluded.

Psychology club growing

Psi Chi to initiate new members

Thirty people will be initiated into the newly formed chapter of Psi Chi, Friday, June 6, 7 p.m. Room 216, Kilcawley Center. Psi Chi, the National Honor Society of psychology, granted the psychology club at YSU a charter to establish a chapter here last spring.

The 30 people being initiated included 24 YSU psychology students, 5 psychology department faculty members and a community practitioner.

Dr. Kenneth Wallace of the Academy of Consulting Psychologists of Youngstown and Dr. Margaret Gittis, psychology the advisor to the club will preside over the initiation.

The new members include: MaryAnn Hinge, Gary James (President), LeeAnn Sarean, Gary Kennedy (Vice-President), Janet Arcari, Kathryn Margala Verdream, Salma Karanough, Ken Hopkins, Carol Kaufman, Regina

Muller, William Carbonell, David Mignella, Wes Hilbert, Ken Howley, Jean Bryan, Helen Koutsourais, Doug Eshleman, Barb Duby, and Helen Kastello.

Affiliating with the new chapter though previously installed as members at other universities are: Dr. Margaret Gittis, Dr. Sally Hotchkiss, Dr. Sanford Hotchkiss, Dr. Jerome Small, Dr. Carl Sweeney, and Dr. Kenneth Wallace.

Expanding horizons

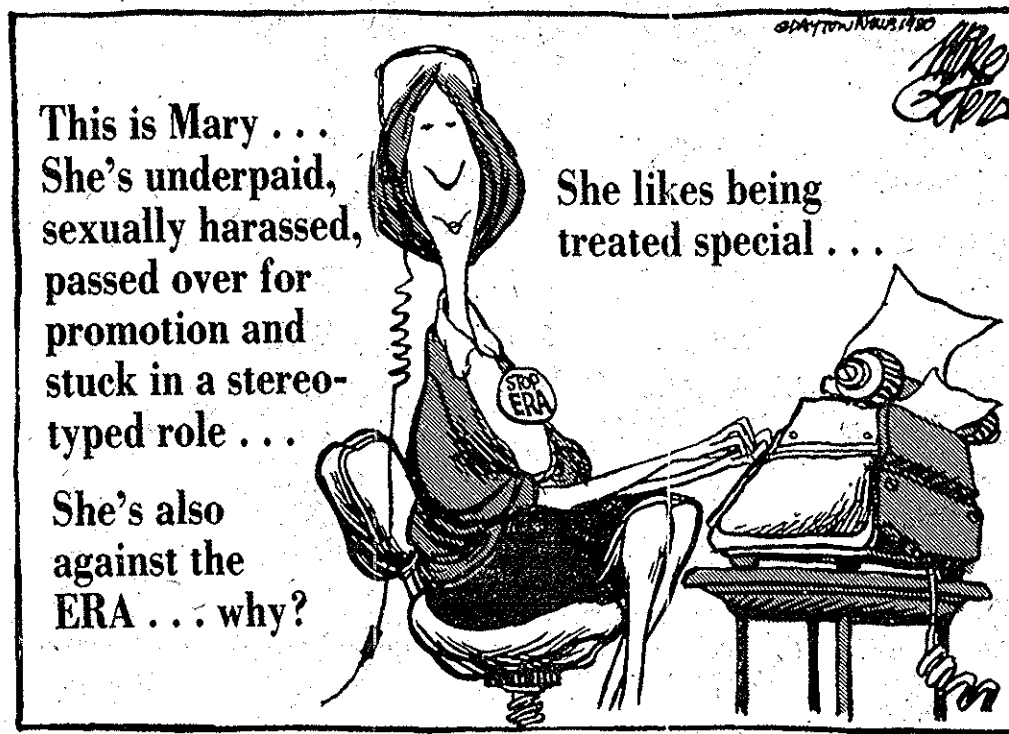

Every vital, living system is characterized by the ability to adapt, expand, and in general, change. In the past ten years, YSU has grown physically, through the addition of new buildings (Maag Library, Cushwa Hall, Arts and Sciences, to name a few) as well as academically, with the expansion of various programs and the addition of new classes.

Yet YSU has benefited most from a very intrinsic and intangible growth process. That growth is the result of the exchange of knowledge, ideas, and opinions, which occurs constantly within the confines of the University community. That exchange is just that—mutual give and take, between students, faculty, and administrators at YSU.

The environment of the University is one of learning and necessarily implies that some form of "teaching" occurs. But, often the teacher/student roles are not strictly defined, resulting in students becoming instructors, and vice versa.

So, while another class of students prepares to graduate as individuals knowledgeable in their respective fields, they can be assured that they too have served to teach, and inform, through direct contact with faculty, or by their often indirect influence on the administration. Such interaction allows for the internal and essential development necessary for the survival of an educational institution.

But, beyond mere continued existence, this intrinsic growth provides relatively contained system with infinite possibilities for the future and makes it a vital, thriving, growing, organism.

Says Council 'chooses' leaders

To the Editor of the Jambar: The student government elections have once again proved to be a farce in what seems to be decisions made by a few key individuals to influence the entire student body.

The fact that Student Council has the power to literally choose who they want for President and Vice-President verifies the reasons why the student body has no respect for Student Council or Student Government.

When elections were taking place, there was a lot of publicity given to the "write-in" candidates and about how to vote for them (writing in their names and marking an "X"). It's my opinion that any college student who is given instructions and doesn't follow them, loses their rights. But yet,

Commends work done by Jambar staff, chief Editor

To the Editor of the Jambar: Regular readers of this letters column know that I do not hesitate to set the record straight or criticize the Jambar for sloppy reporting. I suppose, like most folk, it is easier and more gratifying to do that than to compliment someone. It is about time someone commended the Jambar staff, especially Barbara Janesh, for the superlative job done by the Jambar this year.

On the whole, I have found the Jambar coverage fair and equitable. You have not been afraid to take a stand when you felt one was necessary, and your April 1 issue was great.

I hope next year's staff can do as well. They have big shoes to fill.

David E. Johnson
Program Coordinator
Kilcawley Center

Student Council found it in their realm of authority to validate the votes that were not marked with an "X".

This is definitely a case of bending the rules to their advantage in getting their choice candidate in the office.

Even proving the point more, Student Council decided that all that was needed was a majority vote in what the Student Council by-laws states needs a 2/3 vote. (If a 2/3 vote had been enforced the motion of validating the ballots not marked with an "X" would not have passed with a vote of 15-8).

I'm sure that Ray Nakley, Jeff Laret and their key Student Government supporters foresaw the problems they would encounter as running as write-ins and subsequently, I cannot see why they did not go through the normal procedure to be listed on the ballot by obtaining student signatures on a petition.

Yet, Nakley and Laret went out and passed petitions around to the student body supporting the validation of the non-X'd ballots. They really went through the election process backwards if you ask me.

I wish Student Government and Student Council the best of luck because they are going to need it. The student body has already had a chance to see how ineffective they are and the more action they take the more ineffective they become. They seem to be true politicians at heart as they learn to manipulate decisions and play games while getting absolutely nothing done.

Educator plans to write more plays

Don Elser retires after 34 years

by George Denney

Professor R. Donald Elser of the speech communications and theatre department is retiring this spring quarter, after 34 years of service at the University.

But retirement to Elser means more of an opportunity to "finish plays that I am writing, re-do others and travel with my wife, Lois."

Whatever plans are being made by Elser for his retirement years, the benefits that faculty and students will enjoy because of his efforts in the teaching profession will be appreciated for many years to come.

His efforts at YSU began, however, not as a teacher but as a student. That was in 1931 when YSU was Youngstown College. "At that time," Elser said, "everything was in Jones Hall, including the library." He graduated in 1935 with a major in secondary education with concentration in English, history, theatre and speech.

For six years Elser then taught in three area high schools, Mineral Ridge, Chalker (in Southington), and Greenford, which is in the South Range school system where he now holds a seat on the school board.

During these six years, he wrote and directed many three-act plays which were performed at the schools. Professor Elser said that he became involved in theatre while studying English at Youngstown College. He said there is a direct correlation between English studies and theatre.

Professor Elser spent two years in the Air Corps, from 1943 to 1945. While stationed in St. Louis, he attended Washington University. He returned to YSU as a faculty member in January, 1946, and began teaching speech and English composition in the English Department.

He furthered his education by obtaining a Masters degree in English Literature from the University of Pittsburgh, did graduate work in radio and television broadcasting at New York University and attended the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago during the summer, where, he said, "Music and voice projection were emphasized in most courses I enrolled in."

During his teaching career at YSU, Elser has directed a number of stage productions both in the Dana School of Music, and the Theatre, including Caine Mutiny, Antigone, Gypsy Baron, and Gilbert and Sullivan musicals.

In the 50s, he directed a half-hour weekly radio variety show at WFMJ, along with eight half-hour television productions at WKBN. Along with these activities and teaching, Elser found time to write and produce many one-act plays. He considers five of them, representative of his best work. They are, "Balcony Scene" and "Special Guest" and "Pink Dress" which were tested on stage by YSU students. Names and pictures of casts appeared in the published play books. Also included are "Concert in the Park" and "A Ticket to the City," which was published by Samuel French of New York.

French is the largest publisher of plays in the world, according to Elser, and the year they published "A Ticket to the City," only 20 other one-act plays were published by them.

Elser has received, thus far, over $10,000 in royalties from "Balcony Scene," which he considers his most popular play. Elser also chaired the speech department for 16 years and coached the YSU debate and forensics team for five years.

One of the most important contributions to the University community made by Elser is the FM station, WYSU. "Eleven years ago I persuaded then YSU President, Pugsley, that we needed an FM station." Elser said that he and Steve Greevich, director of broadcasting, who was instrumental in forming a high school FM station in Struthers, co-founded WYSU.

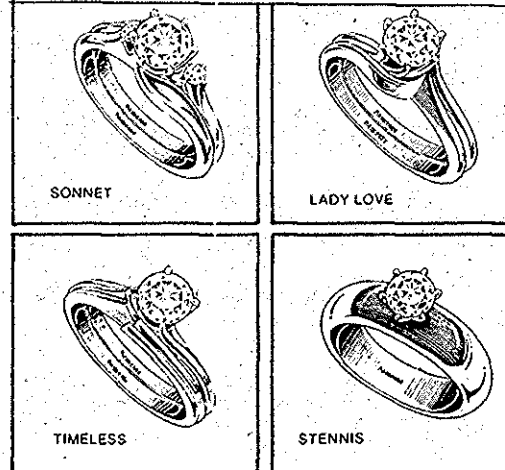

Elser said that the only thing he would rather do than teach, is write. Although it is apparent he has been able to do both equally well over the past 34 years, he will be able to concentrate on the latter during his retirement.

He and his wife, Lois, who is a graduate of YSU, have four daughters, three who have graduated from the University and one who is a student here. One of the graduated daughters is an instructor at YSU in speech and theatre. The Elsers have traveled extensively to Asia, Borneo, India, (Cont. on page 7)

Tough, steady describes three Penguin seniors

by Bill Snier

They have suffered through the hard times and have been around to enjoy the good. The team's record was an impressive 79-30 during their four-year careers and they all played key roles in establishing that mark.

But for YSU senior baseball players Joe Iacobucci, Lee Rudibaugh and Bill Hardy time has finally run out on their college playing careers.

"Our seniors are a dedicated group of young men," said head coach Dom Rosselli. "The best words I can think of to describe them are tough and steady. . . they're a credit to the program."

Iacobucci is the only local product of the trio. A four-year letterman, the veteran center-fielder posted a career batting average of .322 with 23 runs batted in.

"Joe is a consistent percentage hitter who's not afraid to sacrifice himself for the good of the team," said Rosselli. "He can do a lot of things out of the lead-off spot and has been very steady in the field."

Hardy, a Cleveland native, is also a four-year letterman. A good contact hitter, Hardy's most important attribute is his speed. The lightning-fast rightfielder has stolen 26 bases in 28 attempts during his college career and posted a career .308 batting mark.

"Hardy's what I like to call a

Coaches, athletes receive awards at annual banquet

by Ron Anderson

A banquet to honor all winter and spring quarter YSU varsity athletes was held Tuesday night at The Embassy.

All 10 of the sports, along with the cheerleaders, were represented both by their respective coaches and many of the team members.

Guests at the table included John Heidbrink of W/TV, Father Raymond Thomas of the Newman Center, Vic Pacek of the Penguin Club, and Tony Koury and Bob Wasko, representing YSU student government.

Each of the coaches was called upon to both summarize their team's season, and present the various awards to their athletes.

Varsity letter awards were given to the athletes with first-year winners receiving a certificate, second-year winners letter jackets, third-year winners pins for their jackets depicting the sport, and fourth-year winners a plaque.

Numerous other awards,

(cont. from page 6) 'funny duck' type of hitter," said Rosselli. "He has a funny stance that doesn't look very good, but he gets on base. You don't usually notice him too much, but when the game's over you usually find out that he was on base of couple of times."

Hard luck has dotted the career of Lisbon-native Lee Rudibaugh. Knee problems plagued the pitcher earlier in his career and this season a sore arm slowed him. With the ineligibility of Joe Sekora, Rudibaugh was the lone senior on the pitching staff and looked to for leadership... a role he filled well. He posted a career won-loss record of 8-4 with a 3.43 earned run average and 78 strikeouts.

"Injuries really hurt Rudibaugh early in his career and this year," said Rosselli. "But he was the type of pitcher that was always there in the key games and the tough ones. "He never seemed to get the easy games and he always rose to the occasion."

The most glowing tribute to this trio of seniors came from the man who most closely monitored their careers, head coach Dom Rosselli.

"All three boys have outstanding character... even if they didn't have as much talent as they have, they're still the type of boys you would like to have on your team... their enthusiasm for the game is given down to the underclassmen."

Although their baseball playing time might be over, the game of life and a career is just beginning. If the enthusiasm and competitiveness they displayed on the field is any indication of where they're heading, there is a lot to look forward to.

Banquet

(cont. from page 6) including the captain's awards, all-conference selections, most valuable player trophies, All-American selections and academic recognitions were also passed out to the athletes.

Koury and Wasko presented a resolution from Student Council to interim head coach Bill Wolf of the women's softball team, commending team members for winning their third straight state softball championship and for advancing into the AIAW regional tournament.

Elsar

(Cont. from page 5) Malaysia, Thailand, Russia, and most European countries. Elsar expresses an interest in continuing to travel during retirement. He wistfully thought aloud, "You know, I really hope to get to Africa, Australia and New Zealand."

"I have been here a long time," Elsar said, "and a lot of students have passed through my classes. Every once and a while, one will come up to me and tell me how much he appreciated something I said or did for him in a class he was enrolled in many years ago."

"It's this sort of thing that makes the teaching profession so satisfying. To tell the honest truth," Elsar concluded, "there will be times in the future when I'm going to miss it very much."
