Why walk alone? Service experts at escorting

By JOSEPH MOORE
Jambar Reporter

Are you alone as you wander through the shadows and funnels of light across campus to the parking deck, or to some dark lot, to your car? You don't have to be.

YSU's Campus Escort is available to students, faculty and administrative personnel to help them feel more secure and to help prevent nighttime attacks.

"No student should ever have an excuse for walking alone after 5 p.m.," said Marvin Robinson, president of Student Government. "Going on the statement that there's safety in numbers, you shouldn't have the fear of taking night classes and getting attacked on campus."

That's why Campus Escort has been in existence for seven years. This year, the service will employ 15 students, each of whom will work 20 hours per week. Half of their training is provided by Campus Escort, and the rest comes through information provided by Student Government.

Robinson said that students can call 742-3591 and pre-arrange meeting places with escorts, or just call when they need accompanied to their destinations. Escorts with two-way radios and large flashlights will walk with the caller to wherever they're going on campus, and the escorts can venture off campus as far as two blocks past Wick Park, and from Belmont Ave. to Wick Ave.

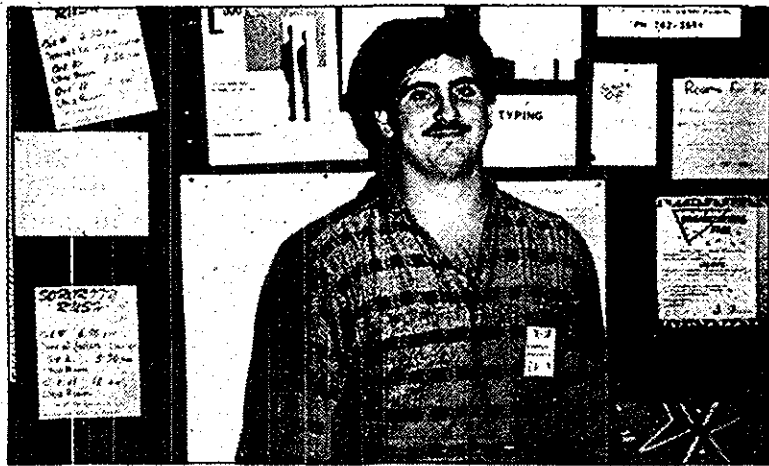

The service is available from 5-11 p.m., Monday through Friday, with special daytime arrangements offered in certain instances.

As far as Robinson can recall, there has never been an incident involving attacks while accompanied by an escort.

Peak hours for the escorts usually come between 7 and 8 p.m. and 9 and 10 p.m. From 1983-84 to the following year, usage doubled, and in 1985-86 the escort service was used an additional 30 percent. With more and more people using Campus Escort, the budget has been hiked to nearly $20,000 for the upcoming year.

The success of the program has, in part, helped make YSU the safest campus in Ohio. So take advantage of it. There's no reason to walk alone at night.

Todd Vreeland, Supervisor of Campus Escorts

Jambar begins brand new year

This is the first day of your YSU pursuit. One that will take you through a path of adventures, challenges and experiences. For the most part, those experiences will be pleasurable. But a time will come for not so pleasurable experiences — you may not do so well in a particular course or you think all the studying isn't worth it.

Clubs, organizations and campus services abound at YSU, and if you need help chances are you can find it — if you want it.

The Jambar Orientation Issue was designed as an informative aid not only to freshmen but to all ranks and to be used as a reference guide throughout the course of the year.

The Jambar is published twice weekly appearing on campus Tuesdays and Fridays — this is the only time a Jambar issue has appeared on the first day of classes during fall quarter.

The Jambar urges students to take advantage of these services because they were designed with you in mind. Inevitably, The Jambar may overlook some services or organizations. We will do our utmost to do a story throughout the year on those which were overlooked.

One question frequently arises that is not academic or social but one that will forever boggle the minds of YSU students. The time has come for an end to the quizzical faces and the plea of, "What is a jambar?!"

Save your breath, the famous question will get answered here and now and no one will lose any sleep. Way back in 1930, the first Jambar editor wanted to make the student newspaper name unique not only to the University but to this area.

The steel industry, a long-ago mainstay of the Mahoning Valley since the late 1800s, was the key to finding a name for the campus newspaper.

In the steel mills, the jambar was an instrument used in the steel-making process.

The Mahoning Valley was known for its unique Welsh puddle furnaces which were only used in this area. The jambar was an instrument used to get the steel out of the molds — thus The Jambar.

The steel mills have disappeared, but a namesake lives on. For 56 years The Jambar has been serving YSU, this year will be no exception. The Jambar will gladly accept questions, suggestions and comments at exts. 3094 or 3095 or stop by the office in Kilcawley West, underneath the Bookstore.

The best of luck to all YSU students and we look forward to serving you.

Campus Security stands guard

By MELISSA WILTHEW
Jambar Editor

Often times this University department is overlooked until its services are needed. It is then this department becomes an immediate necessity. Campus Security, the department responsible for the safety of YSU, is a 24-hour operation. With a force presently totaling 21, campus security is housed in the small white building located on the north side of Spring Street, between the Alumni House and North Annex.

Campus Security officers enforce Ohio laws and University rules and regulations.

To aid in protecting the campus, 25 red-and-white emergency telephones are scattered throughout the campus to be utilized in case of emergency. Also, an additional 15 telephones are being installed.

Campus Security's Sgt. Ralph Goldich said the campus emergency phones are "a security plus." The emergency number to dial on these phones, or any of the beige campus phones, is 3333.

As the emergency phone is picked up the location is immediately known at the security department and assistance is sent.

Additionally, the television monitors in Stambaugh

Stadium and Beeghly Physical Education Center are used for enforcing safety. Campus Security keeps an eye out for suspicious situations.

Between 4 p.m. and 10 p.m. Monday through Friday student and faculty ID checks in Stambaugh Stadium and Beeghly will be enforced. According to Sgt. Goldich this new safety measure will aid in keeping non-privileged people out of these areas.

Besides the usual duties of combating crime, the security department's duties include crime prevention, education, medical emergency coordination, campus patrol, criminal investigation and traffic supervision.

Helping hand Center assures freshmen smooth sailing

By SUEANN HINES
Jambar Copy Editor

Ask any seasoned college student if they would like to relive their freshman year and chances are you will hear a resounding "No!" But then ask an upperclassman who has participated in YSU's Student Enrichment program the same question and you're likely to get a whole different picture of that dreaded freshman year.

YSU's Student Enrichment Center (SEC), headed by the Director of Special Student Services, Mary Ann Echols, offers incoming freshmen a chance to ease their way into college life. The center provides a supportive base, a place where the new student can feel a part of something on campus.

All too often, freshmen students go through their first year in college feeling alone and out of place. By participating in SEC, students adjust to college better and faster, enhance skill development, become motivated to participate in campus activities, and SEC aids its students in achieving their educational goals.

SEC participants prepare a personalized "development plan" which they use to guide them through their freshman year. The plan contains academic, career, and personal goals. The student tries to meet these goals with the help of peer assistants, faculty mentors, and support services.

Peer assistants are paid underclassmen who have undergone an intense summer training session. The assistants meet with the freshmen students on an individual basis once a week. At this time they aid the freshman in formulating and carrying out their development plan. They also offer the student a friendly face in the crowd, someone with whom they can share their frustrations about college life.

Faculty mentoring is the second area of help for SEC participants. The faculty mentors are volunteers from the YSU faculty who make themselves available in the Student Enrichment Center. The mentors consult with the students on educational matters, answer questions about requirements, and offer student advice on how to be more at ease with their professors.

The SEC program has been "very effective" since its beginning in 1983, said Mary Ann Echols. Follow-up reports on SEC participants reveals that the students in the program, which lasts through their first year at YSU, have higher retention rates, that is, their drop-out rate is lower. Also, SEC students in general have a higher GPA and they complete more hours that they attempt compared to students not in the program.

And finally, SEC students are encouraged to use YSU's resources through the area of support services. With information and referral, the students learn how to make the educational system work for them.

To be a part of the SEC program, simply drop in at the Student Enrichment Center, located below the YSU bookstore. The short application and interview you must complete could make a world of difference in how you remember your freshmen year in college.

Unsure feelings swept away by Minority Student Services

By MELISSA WILTHEW
Jambar Editor

The feeling is similar to how a freshman feels on the first day of classes — somewhat confused and scared.

Minority students, who also may feel this way, shouldn't despair but seek help from the Minority Student Services located underneath the Kilcawley Bookstore in Kilcawley West.

The office provides personal counseling and advisement, information, referral and assistance in resolving difficulties related to your education.

The Minority Student Services office is also responsible for overseeing and coordinating activities and services related to minority students at YSU.

In addition, this service maintains and distributes information on special opportunities for minority students.

Statistics show that approximately 8 percent of YSU's total student population are minorities: Afro-American, Hispanic, Asian or Pacific Islander, American Indian or Alaskan native. Membership in these minority groups entitles a student to the services of the minority office.

As a minority student you may find yourself facing a barrage of challenges.

Special features of the Minority Student Services office include the Minority Student Focus newsletter containing information concerning cultural events and outstanding accomplishments of minority students.

Another special feature open to any student who demonstrates awareness and concern for the welfare of minority students is membership in the Minority Student Advisory Council.

Minority Student Services has set up procedures for any student who has complaints concerning racial discrimination.

A three-phase process, the procedure includes an informal, formal and appeal step.

The informal step involves consultation with Ed Twyman, advisor of Minority Student Services, to verify the validity of the complaint.

The formal step involves forwarding the complaint to the University's Affirmative Action office and Director Barbara Bacon. The director will then prepare a complete investigative report of the complaint, including recommendations for resolution.

If the student is still not fully satisfied with the action, a written appeal may be sent to the President's office.

University President Neil D. Humphrey may then appoint a committee to review the appeal.

The procedure was adopted by the University's Board of Trustees, according to Twyman. "It spreads a message that the University does not condone racial discrimination," he said.

For more information regarding minority student services call ext. 3538.

A general policy adopted by the Board of Trustees in 1983 investigates alleged harassment.

Any questions regarding the sexual harassment procedure may be answered by calling the Affirmative Action office at ext. 3370 or the Student Services office at ext. 3532.

Incognito

First day tips to be really hip

By LISA M. SOLLEY
Jambar Managing Editor

This is Biff, your roving reporter, reporting to you from Youngstown State University on the first day of fall quarter.

The scoop of the day from the center-staged institute of higher learning is the topic of freshmen. Wait, maybe that should be rephrased to incoming students. However one says it, the fact still remains that any upperclassmen will be able to spot them from a mile away.

This reporter is ready and willing to give the "new" handy, dandy college kid a few pointers that could save them from humiliation in front of mass quantities of people.

The kind of pointers you won't receive from any orientation class anywhere on campus.

So, here is your introduction on how to come to college incognito so no-one will know you're a freshman.

1. Don't wear your new school shoes and new school clothes during the first couple of days.

2. PLEASE! Follow the arrows in the parking decks. It never fails, someone always goes the wrong way the first day.

3. Remember what level you parked on in the decks so you don't get lost and can't get home because you can't find your car.

4. DON'T carry your Students Serving Students folder around — dead giveaway.

5. Try not to be over-anxious for class by having two sharpened pencils and a pen with your notebook open waiting for your professor to begin class.

6. If you must look at your map, try to do it inconspicuously. Glance at the map in the bathroom and get an idea where you're going, or place the map in a book and casually flip through the book to look where you're going.

7. When you run up in between classes to buy your books, don't have an astonished look on your face when you see the lines are two miles long.

8. Try to pick out the "right" upperclassmen to ask where a building is. Don't stop someone who is in a hurry — students have died for less.

9. Try to expand your acquaintances. Don't hang out in Arby's with your old high school clique, and don't stand in Kilcawley and say, "Wow, they have an Arby's in here."

10. Don't be amazed at a student eating food or drinking a pop in class. After all, this isn't high school.

If you follow this ten-step approach on how to come to college incognito so no-one knows you're a freshman, you may be able to pass for a confused sophomore at least.

Office helps handicapped students overcome obstacles

By SUEANN HINES
Jambar Copy Editor

Floor urinals are coming to YSU. Big deal, you may say to yourself, well it is a big deal if you're one of the many handicapped students attending YSU.

Physically handicapped students have numerous problems compared to those of the non-handicapped. Problems like finding a parking space when the reserved spots are filled with non-handicapped people's cars. Problems like turning a door knob when you don't have the use of your hands or arms. And problems like getting from Cushman Hall to Bliss Hall in ten minutes using a manual wheelchair.

YSU's Office for Students with Disabilities was created to deal specifically with these and other obstacles faced by handicapped students on campus.

The office, which falls under Counseling Services, is at the disposal of any YSU student with a physical disability, ranging from those with diabetes, to the blind, and to the temporarily disabled.

The students are sometimes referred to the office by faculty, counselors, or other students. Often, however, the students enlist the aid on their own. The office then offers the student a vast number of services such as personal, academic, and vocational counseling; assistance with test taking and library searching; and help with early registration. The office also serves as a liaison between the students and the different University departments and with community agencies.

The lack of handicapped parking at YSU is one problem that has been improved in recent years:

"There just seems to be an ample amount of places, particularly in the Lincoln Deck," said Dr. George Letchworth, director of Counseling and Health Services.

Other problems, such as access to different classrooms, are being eliminated as various buildings on campus are being renovated.

Obstacles still remain for the handicapped, however. One sore spot is the small, all-handicapped parking lot on the west side of Jones Hall:

"This is a key building for just getting information. You pick up registration materials, admission materials, so it's easy for people just to use that to drop in. Handicapped people have enough trouble, don't take away their parking," said Letchworth.

Letchworth urges anyone who thinks they can benefit from the office's assistance to inquire in the Counseling and Health Service office located in Jones Hall, Room 341.

Emergency? Service cures what ails you

By SUEANN HINES
Jambar Copy Editor

If you ever get stung by a bee on campus you don't need to call your mom for help; the five registered nurses at YSU's Health Service office will be glad to mother you back to health.

The Student Health Service, located in Room 200 on the first floor of the Beeghly Physical Education Center, has been designed to serve the emergency health needs of YSU students.

According to Health Service Supervisor Stevana Wilson, the most common injuries the nurses treat are burns, bruises, and cuts. Colds and the flu are, of course, prevalent during winter quarter.

Although drug abuse has come to the forefront of the media's attention, Wilson says that the instances of drug overdose on campus have been next to none. Health Service nurse, Dolores P. Hall, recalls only one case in the past two years.

The Health Service not only offers treatment, however; much literature and information on common ailments is also available in the office. And if you plan on taking an activities class, you must pick up a health evaluation form for the necessary physical.

The Student Health Service will be repeating last year's Health Fair. The fair will be held on November 13 and 14 in Kilcawley Center and will feature such free services as blood testing, diabetic screening, blood typing, and hearing tests. Local chapters of Planned Parenthood, The American Lung Association, and various other organizations will be on hand to offer information about their services.

The response from community organizations has been great, said Wilson. Student involvement at last year's fair was excellent and with this year's larger variety of services, Wilson foresees an even larger turn-out.

With the coming Health Fair and the incoming freshmen, the nurses in the Health Center have their hands full. Their hours at the center will be 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Career Services opens future doors

By MELISSA WILTHER
Jambar Editor

The whole point of attending college — to obtain a marketable degree — is often overlooked amid hours of studying, running from class to class and maintaining a minimal amount of sanity.

Graduation day arrives and the well-prepared college student finds himself without employment.

Career Services was designed especially so graduating YSU seniors don't find themselves holding a diploma and at the same time be at a loss for income. Career Services, located on the third floor of Jones Hall, encourages seniors to register at least three quarters prior to graduation allowing for interviews with companies visiting our campus.

"Our job is to train you," said Chuck Whitman, director of Career Services. "Our office is an extension of the educational services of this University."

"We can help the student do a more efficient job search," he added.

Career Services also offers seminars on the job search process, resume writing, and interviewing techniques.

The seminars, offered at various times throughout the year, are scheduled for the following times during the first two weeks of school (each of these will be held in Room BO24, Jones Hall): Office Registration at 10 a.m. Friday Sept. 26 and Tuesday, Sept. 30; Job Search at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30; Resume Writing at 10 a.m. and Interviewing Techniques at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 1.

The seminars are also available on videotape in the Media Center, in the basement of Cushman Hall, by scheduling an appointment in Career Services.

To gain the greatest benefit, Whitman suggested that students view or attend the seminars in succession.

Also in the Career Services office is a Career Information Center containing career planning books, pamphlets and articles.

Discover, a career guidance computer, can help all ranks of students. The computer contains hundreds of occupations and thousands of educational institutions for the student learner and adult learner.

Appointments to use the Discover computer may be made by visiting or calling the Career Services office at ext. 3515.

Employment opportunities for all YSU students are posted outside of Career Services, divided into degreed and non-degreed employment.

Did you know...

— Career Services offers tips on all aspects of writing a resume.

— Career Services offers instruction on how to get through those grueling job interviews.

— Career Services offers a bulletin board listing of full and part-time jobs available.

— Career Services offers the Discover computer that will help students ease through the career decision-making process.

— Career Services offers career planning and placement for YSU alumni as well as current students.

STUDENT VOICE

Welcome, As president of Student Government, I would like to welcome all new and returning students to YSU.

I encourage you to take advantage of the many opportunities available here at YSU. As you read this special edition of The Jambar you will be introduced to many of them.

As the representative voice of the student body, we in Student Government strive to make sure that the issues that concern students are resolved.

Student Government actively implements a variety of programs as a service to the student body. Homecoming, voter registration, Campus Escort Service, Big Brothers/Big Sisters Day, The Great American Smokeout, quarterly blood drives, alcohol awareness, an annual communications seminar and discount ticket vouchers.

Student Government also provides funding for registered student organizations that meet the Universities requirements to receive funds. Programs are always added according to the needs of students. Student Government also serves as your advocate in student academic grievances.

Through our membership in the Ohio Student Association, we participate in the legislative process when action has an impact on higher education.

Through your input, you can play an integral part in the success of Student Government this year.

Student Government provides a wide variety of experiences and opportunities to enrich the education you will receive in the classroom. I urge you to become involved in University-wide advisory committees, Student Government or our many programs.

For more information, stop in the Student Government offices on the second floor of Kilcawley Center or call ext. 3591.

Good luck and have a wonderful year!

Center counsels problems of YSU community

To a first-day freshman, the YSU campus can look like a never-ending maze. But to freshmen and upperclassmen alike, the University system can become unbearable with confusing twists and turns.

The YSU Counseling Service is on campus to help students identify, assess, cope with and/or change those factors that are troubling them.

Professional counselors are available for student consultation to discuss problems — whether a concern about academic work, choosing a career, personal affairs or a physical handicap.

The center's staff consists of counseling psychologists and a testing coordinator, each an experienced professional specializing in working with college students.

Information obtained in the course of counseling remains confidential and in no way reflects upon the student's academic record.

Greek organizations rush for new members

By VICTORIA FIGUEROA
Jambar Reporter

Everything has to start somewhere. In the case of YSU fraternities and sororities — one of the most active forces on campus — it all begins with Rush.

"Rush is an exciting, hectic, get-acquainted time where members of the fraternities and sororities, and rushees (prospective members), meet to see if they click," said Monica Orsini, co-rush chairperson of Panhellenic Council.

According to a report in USA Today, membership in fraternities and sororities nationwide has nearly doubled since 1975. Here at YSU, that trend seems apparent, said Orsini.

"People are realizing that if they just go to school, they're missing out on a lot." More than 100 freshmen women have asked for information on joining a sorority, even before the start of the school year, she added.

"We lure new members to the Greek system by 'selling' them what we have to offer, and by telling them how joining can round out and expand their college experience," she said.

For example, a main goal of fraternities and sororities is to promote high scholastic standards. In fact, many groups have minimum academic criterion higher than that of the University's minimum. Members often assist each other in tutoring, group studying, and minor academic guiding to insure the scholastic excellence of its group, said Richard Bianco, of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

Also, many campus leaders are members of Greek organizations. These leaders include high-ranking members of student government, honor societies, advisory councils, University committees and student publications.

Also, within the group, there is great opportunity to take on leadership roles. Many of the fraternities and sororities at YSU are self-run by their executive council, who in turn report to their national councils.

"The skills you learn from being involved and belonging to the groups helps to prepare you for future jobs, to budget time wisely, organize, and work with several types of people.

"It sounds like a lot of work, and there is some commitment involved, but there is time for fun also," said Orsini.

Several social events are hosted by the groups. These events include a fall kick-off dance, Winter Formal, Greek Week, Greek Sing, and an all-Greek picnic. There are also several other social gatherings which are exclusive of each fraternity or sorority and include Christmas parties, hayrides, sleep-overs and spring formal banquets.

Another way for female students to be part of the Greek system, without having to join a sorority is for them to join any of the little sister organizations of the fraternities on campus.

"The social life of a Greek member here at YSU is great. It makes you see another side of the University that you thought could not exist," said one third-year member of a sorority.

What type of person joins? The type of person who joins a sorority or fraternity is one who wants to get involved in their school, or one who wants to upgrade their college experience, said Orsini. "We're not looking for one type, but many types who combine their talents together."

"One very important part of Greek life is the opportunity to do many community-oriented service projects. This is one area that many overlook," she said.

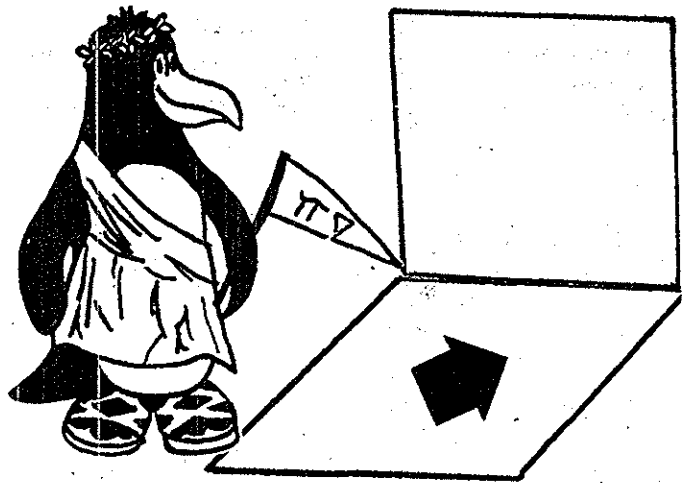

"I would advise that those who are even the slightest bit interested and even doubting persons to check out what fraternities and sororities have to offer," said Bianco. They are under no obligation and if they join there is nothing grave they have to do — hazing is against the law, he said.

Rush season is upon us and it's time to see what it really is all about.

Office introduces students to YSU

By LISA M. SOLLEY
Jambar Managing Editor

Helping others is what it's all about.

Taking a person with a fear of the unknown and introducing them to a new educational world is what Students Serving Students is all about.

The program was founded in 1980 and is currently directed by Pat Bleidt. SSS has 17 student assistants, who meet with incoming students, explain university policies, conduct tours and help students throughout their first year at YSU.

Bleidt said the SSS office begins the year with approximately 45 percent of the newly enrolled students having made contact with the SSS office and increases its total to 95 percent by the middle of the quarter.

According to the SA's, the most popular questions ask by incoming students are academic inquiries.

Students are paired off with SA's according to their major. The biggest task for the pair is planning the student's fall schedule.

The SSS office is equipped for handling all students registered on the campus and their services are not limited to just freshmen.

Once the scheduling obstacle has been tackled, the SA's help to solve other needs or problems ranging from parking to financial aid to recreational questions for the students.

The student assistants stressed the fact that they don't always have answers for the students, but they can make referrals to have the student's questions answered.

Bleidt explained that the SA's always call the students and try to keep tabs on how the student is adjusting academically and socially, to college life.

"The student assistants aren't just there to help a student with scheduling, but they're there to help a student adjust to a new surrounding and to be a friend if needed," noted Bleidt.

ISSO offers services to all

By PAMELA GAY
Jambar News Editor

Have you always assumed that if you're not an international student, the International Student Services Office (ISSO) didn't concern you? Well, you assumed wrong. Because the ISSO is concerned with anyone, international or non-international, who is looking to broaden his or her education.

"If a student is interested in broadening or enlightening their education, the best thing they can do is to get involved with international activities," said Susan Khawaja, coordinator of ISSO.

The ISSO has made getting involved with international activities at YSU very easy. For instance, there's the International Coffee Hour held from 3-5 p.m.

every Thursday in rooms 121-122, DeBartolo Hall. This activity is cosponsored by the United Nations of Youngstown.

There's also the Volunteer International Peers. "This 'big brother/big sister' group helps See international, page 25

C a m p u s F a c t s

Youngstown State University

"There is no question in my mind that the single most important responsibility of state government is education."
Governor Richard F. Celeste, Youngstown State University, February 27, 1986.

Fact: Governor Celeste instituted a 4 percent cap on annual instructional fee increases at all Ohio state universities. As a result, instructional fees at Youngstown State University have increased only 4 percent during the last three years. This is far below the excessive 52 percent increase of the final three years of Jim Rhodes' last term.

Fact: Under Governor Celeste, Youngstown State has received over 126 million dollars in state instructional subsidies, 41 percent more than during Rhodes' last term.

Fact: Governor Celeste initiated the Selective Excellence Program which rewards those programs that have the potential of being nationally recognized. At Youngstown State, over 780,000 dollars was awarded to programs in management, education, speech communication, computer sciences, English, and biological sciences.

Fact: Under Governor Celeste, Youngstown State has received over 28 million dollars for capital improvements including funds for Meshel Hall and the renovations of Beecher Hall, Cushman Hall, Maag Library, and DeBartolo Hall.

Fact: Governor Celeste created the Thomas Edison Program which links Ohio's academic institutions and businesses together to create innovative 21st century technologies. To date, 49 million dollars in state funding has been matched by an equal amount in private funding which will provide new economic opportunities for Ohio graduates.

YSU welcomes new food service

By LISA M. SOLLEY
Jambor Managing Editor

Besides a book and a beer, there is another four letter word that college students live for — food.

Food can be an essential factor for students if they must remain at school from 8-5. Other essential factors concerning food are the quality and the price.

Both essential factors were met head on when the University signed a new dining contract, replacing Pilot Food Service with A.R.A. Campus Dining Services.

Campus Dining is responsible for food service in the Brass Rail, Terrace Room, The Wicker Basket and campus catering.

Campus Dining Service will be making changes starting fall quarter that will give the students the option of purchasing meal plans.

Five different plans are available for YSU students. The meal plans are designed such that students have the opportunity of purchasing a meal packet at the beginning of the quarter.

Depending on the plan purchased, the student can then use a photo I.D. when purchasing a meal rather than paying cash on the spot.

The 19-meal plan is designed specifically for those students living in the residence hall. The cost is $460.00 per quarter and includes breakfast, lunch and dinner Monday-Friday and brunch and dinner Saturday-Sunday. The calendar days for the 19-meal plan are dinner on Sept. 23 — dinner Dec. 12.

The three meal plans for commuting students are the 15-meal, the ten-meal and five-meal plans.

The 15-meal plan includes breakfast, lunch and dinner Monday-Friday at a cost of $390.00 per quarter. The calendar days for the 15-meal plan are dinner Sept. 23 — dinner Dec. 12.

The ten-meal plan which costs $340.00 per quarter consists of any two meals per day Monday-Friday. This meal plan runs from Sept. 23 — dinner Dec. 12.

The last option, the five-meal plan entitles the student to only lunch Monday-Friday at a cost of $190.00 per quarter and runs Sept. 4 — Dec. 12.

Students can eat in the Brass Rail, which will extend its hours in the fall. If the students want to eat in the Terrace Room or the Wicker Basket, they will be able to participate in the cash equivalency program.

ENTERTAINMENT

Swing into Kilcawley's Pub for food, fun

By DEB SHAULIS
Jambar Entertainment Editor

So, you meet a few friends between classes and find out they're going to catch a movie later. They tell you to meet them in the Pub.

You thought the Pub was just pizza and beer, right? Wrong! Nothing goes together better than food and fun, and the Pub is the only place on campus that offers both.

The Pub is the site of many on-campus activities throughout the year, thanks to Pub Programming. Members of the programming board schedule activities in conjunction with campus-wide affairs as well as the Pub's own programming.

Movies and live bands can be seen in the Pub from time to time. The Pub also sponsors contests and games occasionally. The Pub's wide-screen TV is available for Monday Night Football and other televised events, and the Pub's stereo system is always playing your favorite music.

Besides the Pub's own activities, Pub Programming also works with student organizations in planning campus-wide events. Comedy Week and Surf's Up are only two of the many events the Pub has been a part of in past years.

The Pub Programming Board is always open for suggestions from the student body. If you have an idea in mind, stop by the Pub and share it.

The Pub is located in Kilcawley Center behind the Copy Center and is open weekdays and Saturdays.

Tune in to Kilcawley's Listening Room

By DEB SHAULIS
Jambar Entertainment Editor

If music is your addiction, get a quick fix at YSU's Music Listening Room, located in Kilcawley Center.

The Music Listening Room's directory features a variety of music, including rock, jazz and classical. You can bring your favorite album or tape if it's not in the Listening Room's directory.

Simply make your selection at the desk and give the counter person your student I.D. card. You will receive a set of headphones in return. Hook up in one of two adjoining rooms to hear your favorite music.

Change Kilcawley opens Graphic Center

By DEB SHAULIS
Jambar Entertainment Editor

It's out with the old and in with the new, as YSU's all-new Graphic Center opens September 26.

Formerly the Craft Center, the Graphic Center meets the needs of today's students by offering posters, banners, silkscreening and more, all done at reasonable prices by professionals.

Other services available at the Graphic Center include buttons, headline typesetting, and flyers. Additionally, the Graphic Center features a sign shop, formerly located in the Copy Center. Banner paper and poster supplies will also be sold in the center for the do-it-yourselfer.

The Graphic Center is located on the second floor of Kilcawley Center near the Bookstore and is open Monday through Friday.

For more information, stop by the Graphic Center or call Sherri Hill, Graphic Center Coordinator, extension 3560.

Loosen up in Kilcawley Rec Room

By DEB SHAULIS
Jambar Entertainment Editor

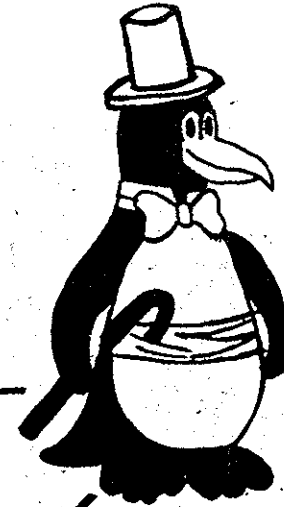

As the old saying goes, all work and no play makes Jack or Jill a dull person. For anyone who needs a break from studying or has some time to kill, YSU's Recreation Room is just the ticket.

Located near the Pub in Kilcawley Center, the Recreation Room offers a variety of games, including pool, ping pong and bowling, for indoor sports enthusiasts and spectators alike.

Minimal fees are charged hourly for rental of equipment, and a waiting list for pool tables is used on a day-to-day basis.

Take your thinking cap off for a while and unwind in the Recreation Room — college life wasn't meant to be all work and no play!

Butler offers art in YSU's backyard

By DEB SHAULIS
Jambar Entertainment Editor

Perhaps your idea of relaxing isn't bumping elbows in a crowded bar or sitting in front of the television. If your tastes are more refined, visit the Butler Institute of American Art.

Works by nationally and internationally renowned artists are displayed throughout the year at the Institute, located on Wick Avenue across from Bliss Hall. In addition, classes in art and art history are also offered for children and adults.

Current shows at the Institute include American Works on Paper: 100 Years of American Art History, which ends October 19, and Fireworks: American Artists Celebrate the Eighth Art, which runs through October 26. Classes in watercolor painting, Academic Drawing and Oil/Acrylic Painting begin in October and last from 6 to 15 weeks. The Institute also offers one day workshops in felted or ribbed basketry, adult/children workshops, and a free six-week Survey of American Art class.

The Institute also has openings in its Docent Training program for anyone interested in becoming a teacher or tour guide.

Candidates must attend a minimum of seventeen classes during the Docent Training Program, which runs from September 16 to December 2. For more information, call the Institute at 743-1711.

Stop in Kilcawley for atypical art

Splash bash wipes 'em out

By LISA M. SOLLEY
Jambar Managing Editor

YSU isn't the most noted northern university for its great sports programs or outstanding academic programs. However, it is a famous northern university for throwing one of the hottest beach parties in the dead of winter.

Surf's Up is an annual beach party bash, taking place in mid-February. Students don surfer jams, huraches and sunglasses to enter a summer beach party indoors, while four feet of snow usually awaits their exit.

Surf's Up begins with a week-long event of festivities that include an airband contest and fashion show.

The week of entertainment and events ends on Friday night with the beach party of the year that sees Kilcawley Center transformed into a sizzling hot beach front with lotsa beer, music and dancing that wipes most students out.

Last year's party recorded the highest wave ever as over 2,000 students jammmed into Kilcawley. A.C. McCullough was spinning dance hits in Arby's, which was dubbed the Pink Flamingo Room for the evening.

Last year, Governor Richard F. Celeste presented an official proclamation to YSU students, declaring the campus the state beach of the week throughout the state of Ohio.

Surf's Up advisor Lynn Haug is busy preparing for the 1987 event and will announce plans and issue applications for Surf's Up chairpersons in future issues of The Jambar.

If you are interested in being on the Surf's Up committee, seek an application at the information center on the second floor of Kilcawley Center after the announcement for Surf's Up has appeared in The Jambar.

Never a dull moment with PAC

By LISA M. SOLLEY
Jambar Managing Editor

Okay, enough with all of the academic question answering, scheduling, parking and advising at YSU. Now lets turn the tables on the flip side of college life — THE SOCIAL SCENE!

YSU has many organizations and hosts numerous activities for students to kick back and relax during their free hours.

If your looking for entertainment or an organization to become involved with, look no further than the Programs and Activities Council.

The Programs and Activities Council (PAC), is an organization opened to all YSU students who are creative, energetic and looking for fun, according to PAC coordinator Lynn Haug.

Haug deems the PAC as the most active organization on the YSU campus, and they have a mile long list of credits to back this statement.

The PAC is comprised totally of students who provide the YSU community with a variety of entertainment throughout the year. The organization has various committees under the direction of chairpersons who report to Haug. The committees are solely responsible for setting up events from top to bottom. Thus, human relations, communication and organizational skills are perfected.

Students will work behind the scenes selecting entertainment, organizing informal workshops, hosting campus tournaments and contests, creating campus videos, holding noon-time rock and jazz concerts, selecting student film series, creating advertising and student marketing campaigns, to name a few of the various activities the PAC is involved in throughout the year.

Some of the committees of PAC are as follows:

— Video Arts which will create campus videos and commercials is chaired by Woody Molinaro; — Rock & Jazz Club which will bring top bands in to perform at noon in the Chestnut Room, Kilcawley Center and is chaired by Gary Cercone;

— Minority Interest will sponsor a variety of entertainment from top performers and is chaired by Lorrie Raines;

— the Film Series will show weekly films in the Pub and Chestnut Room throughout the quarter;

— throughout the year recreational tournaments are sponsored on campus;

— Brain Drain Workshops include jazzercise, cooking, body building and other informal, informational workshops and is chaired by Karen Stewart;

Main Stage sponsors special festivities and promotes comedians, lectures and Chiller Week is chaired by Carol Sorenson;

— Blood Drives are featured quarterly with the Red Cross;

— the College Bowl where students compete in the Master Trivial Pursuit;

— Promotion is chaired by Roseann Montanary;

Dike and Irma Beede stitch football's first penalty flag

By JONI GRIFFITH
Jambar Sports Editor

Youngstown College was slated to play Oklahoma City on October 16, 1941, at the Rayen High School stadium — a game that eventually changed the course of football as we know it today.

Before that game, referees blew a horn attached to their wrists to signify a penalty which would stop the play. But Coach Dike Beede couldn't distinguish one horn from another.

So, on the night before the game, Coach Beede interrupted his wife Irma's tomato canning and asked her to fetch her sewing kit — he had an idea. Irma sewed together four triangles of red cloth from Gretchen Beede's halloween costume with four triangles of white cloth from an old bed sheet. A curtain weight was sewed to the corner of each flag.

"Irma can't hear the horns in the stands," Beede explained to the referees. "If you fellows would drop one of these flags whenever there's a penalty, I think we'll have a better game." Youngstown College won the game and three of the officials threw away their flags. The fourth, head linesman, Jack McPhee kept his.

McPhee was credited for throwing football's first penalty flag but quickly discounts that. "I'm a Scotsman, I never throw anything away," he said. "There were four officials in that game. I held onto mine, so I got the credit."

McPhee was, however, responsible for the flag's adoption outside of Youngstown. In 1943 or '44, McPhee can't remember when, he tossed that red and white flag in Columbus during a crucial play between Ohio State and Iowa. In the stands sat the Big Ten commissioner. By the end of the week, the flag was a standard tool throughout the conference. By 1948, the NFL adopted the penalty flag.

A sporting goods company called Irma Beede the "Betsy Ross of Football." Coach Beede wasn't impressed, he was just glad to be rid of those horns. Beede once offered McPhee money for the surviving flag, but he refused the offer. They did, however, compromise and donated the flag to the College Football Hall of Fame.

During the dedication ceremonies for the flag, McPhee told Beede, "That was a pretty good idea, even if your wife did think of it."

YSU names new soccer coach

Youngstown State University has announced recently the signing of new soccer coach Joseph Frivaldi.

Frivaldi becomes the fifth head soccer coach in the 14-year history of the sport at YSU, replacing George Hunter who posted a 25-75-5 record while at YSU.

Frivaldi, a native of Hungary where he was a member of the Hungarian Junior National team, played professionally in Austria with Vienna Sports Club.

He played two years in the German Bundes League for the Alemania Aachen and two years in Belgium for the Olympic Charlers Club and also one year for F.C. Rouen in France and four more years with the S.C. Waregem team of Belgium.

He began his coaching career with R.C. Jodoiene in Brussels, Belgium and coached for one year at the F.C. Castuche Club and two more at the R.C. Enghien Club.

Most recently he has been assisting the Boardman Youth Soccer program.

YSU Athletic Director Joseph Malmisur is pleased to get a man of Frivaldi's calibre.

"We are very fortunate to add to our athletic program a soccer coach with the playing and coaching ability of Joseph Frivaldi," Malmisur said.

"We believe that he can be the type of coach who can take our program to great heights."

Intramurals open to all students

The YSU Intramural Department offers over 84 sports activities throughout the school year for men, women and co-recreational teams. A few of the team activities include touch football, basketball, volleyball, innertube water polo, walleyball and many more. Dual and individual competitions include racquetball, tennis, badminton, pickleball and many more.

The programs and activities are open to all YSU students at no additional charge. Teams are made up of on-campus organizations, independents, fraternities and sororities. If a student desires to compete in a team sport but is unable to form a team, the Intramural Office will assist in team placement.

The Intramural Department also sponsors Just For Fun activities which include Run For Fun, Bike For Fun and Swim For Fun. T-shirts are awarded to runners and bikers who log 500 miles and swimmers who log 50 miles in a three quarter time period.

Each year an Intramural All Sports Championship Team is selected based on a point system which includes participation points and bonus points for finishing in the top four places of each activity. All students are encouraged to compete.

Camping and backpacking equipment can be borrowed by students at no charge. A 48-hour advanced reservation is mandatory and all equipment loaned is on a first come-first served basis. For additional information, contact the Intramural Office, Room 302 of the Beeghly Physical Education Center or call 742-3488. Intramural Recreational Handbooks are also available to all students.

Join the YSU football team for its next home game on Oct. 11 at 1:30 when they kick off their OVC opener against Tennessee Tech.

Tutoring services tackle problemsBy PAMELA GAY
Jambar News Editor

Fall quarter — a time when just about all students are ready and eager to tackle a new academic year. But just in case that eagerness begins to wane because a course is becoming a little too much to handle, don't despair — you can attempt to revitalize that eagerness by signing up for a tutor.

YSU offers its students a Learning Assistance Center, which is made up of the Math Lab, Reading Lab, and Writing Center. These labs, all located in the School of Education building, are operated by their respective departments and tutors are available to work with students on an individual and small group basis.

For tutoring information and hours of these labs, call: Writing Center — Sherri Zander, coordinator, at 742-3055; Reading Lab — Joan Sonnett, coordinator, at 742-3182; Math Lab — Robert Ciotola, coordinator, at 742-3274.

YSU also offers Student Tutorial Services (STS). A branch of Student Services, STS provides tutoring in such subjects as chemistry, physics, psychology, economics, biology, accounting — in other words, any tutoring not offered by the Learning Assistance Center.

Located in Dana Hall, STS provides a personal tutor and regularly scheduled appointments with that tutor for the duration of the quarter.

For assistance in obtaining tutoring in 500- and 600-level courses, and some upper division courses, call Coordinator Joy DeSalvo at 742-7253.

new international students land on their feet," Khawaja said. The volunteers show new international students around campus and, in general, help them fit in, Khawaja said. There are currently eight volunteers right now, she added.

For those students who want to study or travel abroad, ISSO is there to offer advice. "We advise students on planning overseas travel and overseas educational programs," Khawaja said.

"For those students who can only wish about going abroad, we can show them ways of adding an international component to their lives if they come in to see us," Khawaja said.

ISSO also offers the entire Youngstown community WorldFest Week, an annual campus program designed to increase global awareness. The week includes lectures, seminars, exhibits and an International Night full of ethnic entertainment, displays and food booths.

Aside from what ISSO offers non-international students, the office serves as the primary campus liaison with agencies of the United States and foreign governments concerned with international exchange. Students from over 50 countries pass through the ISSO doors.

Counseling

The center provides a relaxed, quiet and confidential atmosphere and professionals who take the time to understand.
An additional function of the center is testing that may be done in conjunction with the counseling.

Any fees for testing are associated with the national testing programs. Counseling services are free to all YSU students. Appointments may be made by calling ext. 3057 or by stopping the center office in Room 341, Jones Hall.

PAC

— PAC also needs students with expertise in graphics, advertising, copy writing and marketing.

All students, part-time or full-time, from freshmen to graduate-level in good academic standing are welcome to join the PAC.

PAC committees usually hold informal weekly meetings in small groups.

"PAC only asks that you give an honest effort and assist with whatever responsibilities your schedule permits," explained Haug.

If you are interested in being part of the PAC, stop in at the information center, located on the second floor of Kilcawley Center and ask for a PAC interest application.

Meet with the PAC new membership and hospitality committee chaired by Vicki Spirtos and Dean Fairman.

student to obtain a ticket for the cash equivalency of their meal to be used during that time in one of the other restaurants.

Several eating schedules will be offered by Campus Dining Service to accommodate students' schedules. However, if the student purchases a ticket for breakfast, it must be used during breakfast hours or the ticket becomes void.

Service schedules are as follows: breakfast — 7 a.m.-8:30 a.m.; continental breakfast — 8:30 a.m.-10:45 a.m.; lunch — 11 a.m.-1 p.m.; lite lunch 1 p.m.-4:15 p.m.; dinner — 4:30 p.m.-6:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday: brunch — 10:30 a.m.-noon; dinner —

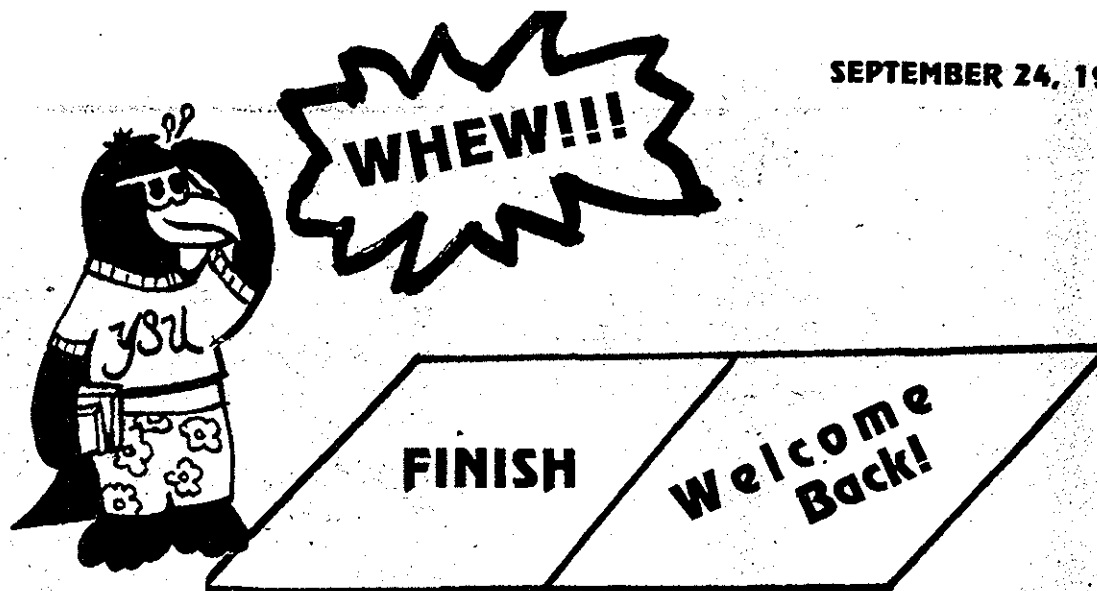

4:30 p.m.-6 p.m.

The casual meal rate is as follows: 7 a.m. until 8:30 a.m. — $2.95; 8:31 until 10:45 a.m. — $1.75; 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. — $3.75; 1:01 until 2:30 p.m. — $2.75.

This time schedule must be observed in order for the cash equivalency program to be used.

All three restaurants will feature new menus. The Brass Rail will serve 7 a.m. — 6:30 p.m., The Terrace Room will be open from 7 a.m. — 2:30 p.m. and the Wicker Basket will serve from 11 a.m. — 2:30 p.m.

Students may purchase these meal tickets throughout the first week of fall quarter. For more information on these meal plans call the food service office at 742-3000.

6. A. All students are required to complete the English Placement Test and no student is permitted to register for a second quarter of classes without having taken the test. Contact the English Department at ext. 3415 for scheduling to take the test.

7. A. Obtain the proper paperwork from the department of the desired major. Your transcripts will then be transferred from your current major to the department of your new major. It would be wise to consult with your advisor before making any final changes.

8. A. Used books may be bought at Circle K Student Book Exchange in Room 2089, second floor of Kilcawley Center (in the back of the Student Organizations offices); the Kilcawley Bookstore located on the second floor of Kilcawley Center; and Campus Book and Supply located on Lincoln Avenue, next to Williamson Hall.

9. A. If you purchase the wrong textbook for a class or drop a class and no longer need the textbook, the book may be brought back along with the receipt and the add/drop slip listing that class.

10. A. Take the desired book or books to the main floor of Maag Library and show the library help your student ID card with your fall quarter validated sticker on the back. They will then place a computer bar code on the back for identification purposes. A YSU student may take out as many books as needed.

11. A. Every YSU student must have a complete physical and submit to the nurse's office the proper form signed by their physician.

12. A. Besides the parking available in Wick Parking Deck and the Lincoln Parking Deck, mud lots exist behind Wick Parking Deck along Walnut Street and at various locations around campus. Lots are marked F (faculty), S (staff), M (mixed for faculty and student), V (visitor), MC (motorcycle) or HCP (handicapped). Those with special parking needs may contact the University Parking Services Department in the Campus Security Building or call ext. 3546.

13. A. Lockers may be obtained at the Campus Information Center on the second floor, Kilcawley Center or by calling ext. 3516.

14. A. The ticket office for sporting events is located at the North entrance of Stambaugh Stadium on the second floor or call ext. 3482.

15. A. Tickets for on-campus performances may be obtained at the ticket office on the first floor of Bliss Hall, directly across from Ford Auditorium. Student discount ticket vouchers for off-campus performances at the Youngstown Playhouse, the Youngstown Symphony and Monday Musical Club may be obtained from the Student Government office, second floor of Kilcawley Center.
