Aid money exists for YSU students in need

Editor's Note: This article is the third in a series of three concerning financial aid at YSU.

By SUEANN HINES
Jambar Copy Editor

"Approximately 50 percent of all YSU students are on some type of financial aid," said William Collins, director of scholarships and financial aid at YSU.

The over 13½ million dollars that YSU awards each year comes in the form of grants or scholarships, loans or employment.

To apply for scholarship based on academic excellence and/or financial aid based on financial need, students must submit a completed Scholarship and Financial Aid Request Form (SFAR) to the scholarships and financial aid department.

To determine eligibility for financial assistance based on financial need, and thus supplement the SFAR, a confidential statement must be submitted.

The financial statement (College Scholarship Service's [CSS] Financial Aid Form [FAF], American College Testing [ACT] Program's Family Financial Statement or Financial Analysis Service's [FAS] Confidential Financial Supplement [CFS]) needs to be completed and forwarded by April 1.

All students seeking financial aid based on need should apply for a Pell Grant. Students can apply for the Pell Grant by marking the appropriate area on the FAF or FFS to show that they desire the necessary information released to the Pell Grant program.

The Pell Grant is a federal program intended to provide a "floor" of financial assistance for eligible students.

The current awards range from $150-$1,830 for Ohio

Students require aid

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE — Most Americans believe they can't afford to go to college without getting some kind of financial aid, a major education group said.

As Congress debated cutting federal student aid programs, the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) released the results of a nationwide poll showing almost seven of every 10 Americans think college would be "out of reach" if they couldn't get aid.

CASE has sponsored the poll for several years. While about the same percentage of Americans — 68 percent — said they needed aid to go to college in 1983, an increasingly percentage this year think college tuitions are rising so fast that higher education is getting "out of reach" of most people.

Special Projects investigates parking expansion

By LISA M. SOLLEY
Jambar Managing Editor

Student Government's Special Projects and Research Committee announced that they will begin looking at the possibility of expanding parking facilities at the University during yesterday's meeting.

The Representative-At-Large position was also filled during the meeting.

Sue Ivan, chair of Special Projects and Research, announced that the committee will look at the parking and traffic problems at YSU. The committee will speak with parking officials and discuss the feasibility of expanding parking areas around campus.

Ivan also said the committee will talk to security about the crime survey that was conducted fall quarter 1986. The survey will be updated and possibly sent out to students living on the North Side, according to Ivan.

Sam McKinney, junior, A&S, was unanimously voted in to fill the Representative-At-Large position.

Second Vice President Amy Otley also appointed three students to advisory committees: Sue Ivan, junior, F&PA, was appointed to the Personal Security and Traffic and Parking Committees; Traci Wiley, freshman, education, was selected to sit on the Traffic and Parking Committee; and James Repasky, senior, W&S, was chosen to the Fee and Charges Appeals Board Committee.

The Election Committee also reported that Government elections will take place May 13 and 14. Persons interested in running must have 50 signatures and attend two meetings.

Workshop aims to advise undetermined majors

By SUEANN HINES
Jamber Copy Editor

Floundering in a sea of career options? YSU Counseling and Career Services have gotten together to throw a net to the many undetermined majors at YSU.

The Undetermined Majors Workshop will be held in April and cover a four week period.

The participants will be required to attend four sessions, one a week at 50 minutes each, throughout the workshop.

The sessions will cover such areas as assessing interests and values, gathering major and career information, discovering decision making skills and learning more about facilities for this decision making at YSU.

This is the first time a workshop aimed specifically at undetermined majors has been tried at YSU.

"Choosing a major and career is not passive work. The problem is they [undetermined majors] are sitting around waiting for a thunderbolt to strike them — you have to work at choosing a major," said Dr. George Letchworth, director of Counseling Services.

Thus the sessions will be "like classes," he said. "The students are going to be actively involved" and be required to do "interesting and relevant homework," such as a take-home self-assessment test.

The participants will also "talk to faculty in their area of interest about what classes they should be taking," said Lynda Smith, graduate assistant at Career Services.

There will be "group activities, not lecture" during the sessions, Smith added.

But the information received will go beyond the classes, said Smith. The students will discover what's available at YSU in terms of career information resources.

Smith said the sessions will begin first with helping the students in deciding on a career field and then narrowing into a specific area of study.

There are "a lot of undetermined majors at the University, generally they are freshmen and sophomores," said Letchworth.

It is a universal problem, added Smith. Some colleges fulfill the need of helping undetermined majors by having classes, seminars and workshops, she said. The YSU workshop is "experimental to see how YSU students respond to what is a universal need."

There are three sections available for the workshops: Monday, April 6, 13, 20 and 27, from 2-3 p.m.; Monday, April 6, 13, 20 and 27, from 4:30-5:30 p.m.; and Tuesday, April 7, 14, 21 and 28, from 1-2 p.m.

Participants are required to attend all four sessions in the section they choose.

A maximum of 25 people will be in each section, said Letchworth. A section will be split to accommodate more students if there is an overflow.

All undetermined majors and those who aren't sure about their major and/or career are asked to sign-up for the workshop in the Counseling Services Office, Room 3046 Jones Hall or call the office at 742-3057.

AIDS prevention alters lifestyles

Editor's Note — This article is the second in a two-part series concerning the AIDS dilemma and YSU.

By MELISSA WILTHEW
Jambar Editor

Medical researchers are working furiously to find a cure for the dreaded disease AIDS. Until a cure is found, people everywhere are altering their sexual behavior.

Numerous articles and documentaries paint horrid images of the disease, forcing many to think twice. Preventative measures are serious business and are becoming a way of life for those concerned.

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, precautions are recommended in preventing contraction of the disease. Such ways include:

- Don't have sex with multiple partners, or with persons who have had multiple partners (including prostitutes). The more partners you have, the greater the risk of contracting AIDS.
- Don't have sex with persons with AIDS, members of the high-risk group or persons who have had a positive result to the HTLV-III antibody test.
- Don't use intravenous drugs. If so, don't share needles or syringes.
- During sexual activity use condoms which reduce the possibility of transmitting the virus. If so, avoid the exchange of body fluids.

- Avoid practices that may injure body tissues.
- Avoid oral-genital contact.
- Avoid open-mouthed, intimate kissing.

Members of the high-risk group are homosexual/bisexual males, intravenous drug abusers or sexual contacts of members of these groups.

AIDS has been named the number one priority by the Public Health Service. Doctors are keeping a close eye on the symptoms which have been outlined by researchers.

According to the Ohio Department of Health, symptoms of AIDS include:

- Unexpected weight loss of more than 10 pounds in less than two months;
- Unexplained fever that has persisted more than a week;
- Blotches or bumps on or

Kidnapping threat remains present

It's as if America thought Terry Waite, English hostage negotiator, was immune to the iron grasp of the ever-present terrorist kidnapppers.

We watched as each time he flew to the torn section of the world and tried to "talk" out the situation. He tried to show the kidnapppers that abducting American citizens and taking a photograph with guns pointed towards their head was not the way to express a point.

He warned the American press to be calm and wait for news instead of constantly prying. Even Waite turned out to be the victim of the endless game of kidnapping.

Well, Waite wasn't immune — and he found that out the hard way.

Not only are American citizens in Beirut, Lebanon, unsafe but those that try to help them. What does America have to do in dealing with the kidnapppers?

We've tried negotiating, bargaining and asking politely — but to no avail. President Ronald Reagan even sent a Bible to Hojatolislam Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of the Iranian Parliament. As if these people wielding machine guns and tossing Molotov cocktails could understand the true meaning of peace and the words of the scripture Reagan printed on the inside.

The Bible could in no way have any effect on the thinking of Rafsanjani and his people. In past weeks he has justified the abductions. "The people of Lebanon are so ignored and so oppressed that they have no other defense for themselves other than this," Rafsanjani stated.

Thus, their best defense is to kidnap foreigners.

It's been several weeks since we've heard about the condition of the kidnapped. Many Americans are wondering if our government remembers they are there.

So, in a few weeks when terrorist kidnapppers make headline news we'll sit back and watch the images on television as professors, bankers and business executives disappear.

America has warned, threatened and negotiated long enough. Our country should take a firm stance — one way or the other.

COMMENTARY

Catholic church should review the indications of the times

It's been said that the Catholic Church is pitifully out of tune with the times. In fact, I've often heard people joke that the hierarchy of the Catholic Church consists of the finest minds of the 18th century.

Considering they only recently decided that Galileo was right about geocentricity, this is more understatement than insult.

Even ignoring this, I can understand some of the criticism being leveled at the church for being outdated.

I mean, they won't even let women consider being priests, and the men they get have to be celibate (they can't get married) and chaste (they can't have sex).

These two points in particular have always bothered me, especially when you consider that to get married in the Catholic faith, you have to go to classes conducted by a priest.

I mean, I know these guys take counseling courses and everything, but there are some things only experience is going to teach. You can't learn everything in class.

Deans honor high school seniors

YSU — A total of $36,000 has been awarded to 24 graduating high school seniors, under YSU's second annual Dean's Scholarships, in recognition of their academic achievement.

In addition to the $1,500 scholarships for each of these incoming freshmen for the 1987-88 school year, another $36,000 in Dean's Scholarships has been renewed for the first recipients, who will become sophomores next fall.

Additional scholarships in the next two years will increase the total to $144,000 for 96 students, four in each class level in YSU's six undergraduate schools and colleges: College of Applied Science and Technology, College of Arts and Sciences, Warren P. Williamson, Jr. School of Business Administration, School of Education, William Rayen School of Engineering, College of Fine and Performing Arts.

The Dean's Scholarships are renewable for up to three years providing the recipients continue to meet the criteria established by their particular school or college.

Because the individual schools decide which students will receive the scholarships, each has its own set of requirements that the students had to meet.

Following is the list of incoming freshmen who are recipients of 1987-88 Dean's Scholarships:

Commentary

Continued from page 4 world" experience by taking internships. I don't know how that would work in this case, but it is a thought. (Pair them off with nuns?)

And this is an issue which could become more and more prominent. The Feb. 23 issue of Newsweek features a pair of stories with some pretty alarming statistics which, if accurate, could force the Catholic hierarchy to do some serious thinking.

With all the concern about contracting AIDS, the issue of homosexuals in the clergy has cropped up. A Maryland psychiatrist, former priest Richard Sipe, conducted a study which indicates that 20 percent of the 57,000 U.S. Catholic priests are homosexuals. Half of them are sexually active, he added.

Moreover, other therapists place the figure closer to 40 percent.

Also, a sidebar to this story deals with the flip side. From his 25-year study, Sipe believes that 20 percent of the Catholic clergy are heterosexually active.

Let's see here. Out of 57,000 priests, that's 11,400 gay priests in a faith that has no place whatsoever for homosexuals, with 5,700 of those practicing what they don't preach. You can double both figures if the 40 percent estimate is accurate.

Then you have another 11,400 priests — who aren't even supposed to date — fooling around with women, often with unhappy results for both.

Gee, lots of fellas must have missed that day in class at the seminary. Maybe their instructors had better make attendance mandatory, at least when they cover this subject. Hey, it works for YSU professors.

Truthfully, I've never really bought that stuff about marriage possibly interfering with a priest's commitment to God. A doctor's chances of getting called out in the middle of the night are even higher than a priest's, and they manage. Both spouses just have to be prepared for the sacrifices which may be necessary.

I don't know that I'm qualified to comment on gay priests, but regardless, the Catholic Church had better be prepared to do some serious thinking.

Who knows? They might even make it to the 1850s.

Student models down New York runway

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar Staff Reporter

One YSU student will soon have the chance of a lifetime — to travel to New York City to compete with top models from around the world.

Sonja Fajack, sophomore, WSBA, has been chosen by the John Robert Powers Modeling agency of Akron to attend the 27th Annual Modeling Association of America International Convention this April.

Fajack began modeling nine years ago at age 12. She said that a friend of her mother's was involved with a fashion show and "because I was really tall and skinny for my age, she asked me if I wanted to be in the show."

Her memories of the outfit she had to model aren't very pleasant ones. "I had to wear these really ugly red bib overalls which were too big," she said.

After that first experience, she continued modeling off and on throughout high school, doing photo sessions and making appearances for various agencies and companies.

She said she's never wanted to devote her career to modeling because she wants to continue her education, but also because of the pressures that are involved.

There is a highly competitive streak along with immense pressure to stay thin in the field of modeling, she said.

Fajack continued by saying that something as simple as a change in hairstyle can cause problems. "A perm, a color, a cut, a trim — anything you do differently you have to clear with [your agent]."

Modeling does have a good side, though. Fajack loves the travel, although it's mainly been limited to major cities in Ohio and Pennsylvania. She said she also likes the idea that she gets to meet new people.

She's met actors, race car drivers and soap opera stars, among them Michael Damian, a popular star on The Young and the Restless.

This past summer, Fajack was involved in a few area pageants. Although she really doesn't enjoy pageants due to their competitive nature, she entered because she "thought it would be something different to do for a change."

She won the title of Miss Tin Pan Alley, which garnered her a spot in the "Ten 10's" contest, a yearly event held in Niles.

Although she didn't win the Ten 10's competition, she was singled out by Maureen McCarty, director of the John Robert Powers school, who was in attendance that night.

McCarty asked Fajack to attend the school's summer program. While there, Fajack perfected the techniques essential to modeling, such as a more professional form and attitude.

Fajack will need those skills when she attends the convention in New York. "Hand and body movements, position, strength and poise are what the judges are looking for," she stated.

Fifty students of varying ages were selected by the Powers school to compete in New York. The event takes place April 8-13 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Fajack doesn't expect to win over the other 4,000 contestants, but she's excited about going because she thinks it will be a great experience and a lot of fun.

On Wednesday, the first day of the event, the runway competitions will be held. Clothing is essential, along with poise while walking.

Even the slightest fault or error can cause disqualifications, of which the contestants are not informed. Fajack believes the contestants aren't told so they won't get discouraged and give up.

On the second day, the models create their own commercials and perform them in front of the judges. Fajack's spot is a Weight Watcher ad, where she wears a large padded dress, then

Women's multiple roles featured at program

By MELIA DAVIS
Jambar Staff Reporter

On April 4, a group of area women's organizations will be presenting the second annual Women's Day in Kilcawley Center.

The program's theme for this year is the multiple roles of women. The day will consist of a film, workshops, lunch and a panel discussion.

The program will begin with a film, One Fine Day, which highlights the accomplishments of women from Emily Dickinson through Geraldine Ferraro.

"The workshops are geared toward women as volunteers, as entrepreneurs and politicians," said Mary Catherine Sanders.

Sanders, co-chair for the publicity committee, is involved with the committee in planning and organizing Women's Day. The committee consists of 20 to 25 women.

The Department of Continuing Education is handling sending out 5,000 registration forms to past members. "YSU has been fantastic in helping out," added Sanders.

According to Sanders, there are six sections of topics to choose from. Three are held in the morning and three in the afternoon. The women choose two they would like to attend.

The topics for this year's workshops are "The Changing Life Course of American Women," "Successful Communications: You didn't hear what I meant to say," "Unleashing Your Leadership Potential," "The Women Entrepreneur," "Women in the Political Arena" and "Developing Media Skill."

Women's Day started two years ago when the Junior League of Youngstown sponsored a workshop on women's concerns at St. John's Episcopal Church.

Representatives of several women's organizations were invited to attend.

According to Sanders, 150 women attended last year's program and the year before. "I would like to see more YSU women involved though," she explained.

Speakers for Women's Day 1987 include Sandy Dibacco of Trumbull County Joint Vocational School; Barb Ludwig of YSU Continuing Education; Pamela Stanley of Youngstown Area Chamber of Commerce; and June Lucas, 58th District, Ohio House of Representatives.

The program will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. The registration fee for Women's Day is $15, which includes coffee, rolls and lunch.

Women interested in attending the program should contact the Continuing Education office before March 18.

Students win at computers

YSU — It was a duel of mind-over-machine when a team of four YSU students competed in the Association of Computing Machinery Scholastic Programming Contest last Wednesday in St. Louis.

YSU's team came in 11th place out of 23 teams. The team included: Jesse Booher, senior, engineering; Tony Clacko, senior, math and computer science; John Dalbec, junior, NEOUCOM; and Bob Kramer, senior, math and computer science.

The contest brought together winners of 12 regional contests who competed for awards, prizes, scholarships and bragging rights.

The 23 teams represented colleges and universities from the United States, Canada and Europe. Their goal was to see how many of eight programming problems could be solved in six hours.

Faculty advisor for the team was Albert J. Klein, math and computer science.

Tenney honored in scholarship

YSU — Applications are now available for this year's Gina Tenney Memorial Scholarship Award.

The scholarship was designed to provide financial assistance to students who fulfill the following requirements:

- a GPA of 3.4 or higher.
- sophomore standing.
- a declared major in Fine Arts or Humanities.
- involvement in extra-curricular activities.

Applications may be picked up for this year's award in Room 3094 Jones Hall. The application, along with two references, is due on or before Monday, March 2, in the same room.

For additional information call ext. 3536.

The scholarship was named in Tenney's honor after her death in December 1985.

Tenney made significant contributions through her active involvement in Student Council and Students Serving Students.

Matrimony Bureau reveals women's chances

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE — Women who graduate from college actually do stand a very good chance of getting married, the U.S. Bureau of Census said.

Female college grads at age 25 have an 89.1 percent of chance of marrying before they reach age 65, said the bureau's Jeanne Moorman, whose findings contradict a widely publicized study out of Yale and Harvard last year.

Some people, she added, have greeted her findings with a sense of relief.

A female doctoral student wrote to thank Moorman for disputing the Yale-Harvard study, which, she said, "set back women's desire for education 100 years."

The father of three women in their 30s called Moorman to thank her for setting him at ease.

David Bloom, one of the Yale-Harvard researchers, said he would not comment on Moorman's findings since he hadn't seen her report.

The two other researchers on the project did not return a reporter's phone calls.

Moorman said her study is more accurate than the Yale-Harvard forecast — which said only 52 percent of the female college grads who were single and older than age 25 would marry by the time they reached 65 — because she used a "life table" like the ones insurance companies do.

Moorman added the Yale-Harvard study didn't account for the fact that "the spread" around the average marrying age "is wider for college grads than it is for high school grads," she said.

"The Yale study," she explained, "assumed (the statistical curve for marrying) was the same as for high school grads."

"High school graduates marry at an average age of 21, and college grads marry at about 24, but the college grads also marry at 26, 27 and well beyond," noted Moorman.

Moorman decided to research the problem after being asked repeatedly to verify the Yale group's findings.

"I didn't see evidence to support their conclusions," Moorman said, adding that she and many acquaintances married after graduating from college.

Moorman finds that, educated, or not, women have better chances of marrying, even in upper age brackets, than the Yale-Harvard study suggests.

She also found that the better-educated a woman is, the more likely she is to get married.

At age 30, single high school grads still have a 55.9 percent chance of marrying.

If the grads have some college experience, the rates goes up to 59.7 percent. A college grad has a 66.3 percent chance, and a graduate school grad has a 67.8 percent chance of marrying, Moorman found.

Yet she advised that, "people shouldn't take these studies too seriously. It's always one person's view of the future."

"People shouldn't make lifetime decisions based on them. There's no way of telling that 'this is what's going to happen.'" removes it to reveal a bikini.

Model

Photo posing takes place on Friday. The competitors will wear a simple black leotard and tights, and according to Fajack, "demonstrate posing positions, showing a certain number of positions in a certain amount of time."

On Saturday morning, the models will apply their own make-up for different photography shots. Make-up must be applied correctly for black and white, color, daytime and evening photography.

A ball will be held on Sunday, the final night of competition.

Studio 54 is the site of the ball, but Fajack says "everything will be over too fast, because [the models] have to be in by 10 o'clock."

Fajack will rely heavily on sponsorship to help pay for the trip. She tries to repay her sponsors by donating her time to them, such as passing out handbills or greeting people.

She'll be transferring to Ohio State this fall, to major in fashion merchandising. After graduation, she said she hopes to become a buyer for a major department store or open up her own shop.

She would like to work in men's wear because, as she jokingly states, "a lot of guys really don't know how to coordinate their own clothes."

Up until the competition, she'll continue attending YSU, where she's "almost a junior," working on the Surf's Up committee and getting ready to move to Columbus in August.

She'll also be going to Daytona Beach for Spring Break. She's really not supposed to be going, because of the risk of getting tan lines, but she's going to go anyway.

"In high school, modeling took a lot away from fun activities and now I think it's time that I had some fun," she stated.

When she heads for New York in April, she'll be going in the right frame of mind. "I'm going with the attitude that if something comes out of it, then something comes out of it. I'm going to go shopping and have a ball."

Poll

Most respondents, reported Dr. Walt Lindenann of Opinion Research Corp., which conducts the survey for CASE, also favored more federal aid for students from low-income and middle-income families.

Students who didn't even know about the survey seemed to agree with its conclusions.

Sandy Esche, a freshman at South Dakota State, said she wouldn't be in school without her College Work-Study job, and monies from a National Direct Student Loan, a scholarship and a Pell Grant.

Louisiana State junior Vivianne Berkley explained, "I was in the Army, and they pay me every month that I'm in school. But I still need the Pell Grant and Guaranteed Student Loan I get."

Hawaii Loa College junior Gail Livoti, who describes herself as from a "middle income" family, believes that without aid "there'd be so many people out of school, and I'd probably be one of them."

CASE and others, of course, hope the survey results will help persuade Congress not to pass the aid cuts President Reagan requested in early January.

"Any time you have a reputable survey — and this group is reputable — that demonstrates greater public support for programs, it adds strength to those programs in Congress," said David Evans of the Senate education subcommittee.

In his proposal for the 1987-88 federal budget — which extends from Oct. 1, 1987 through Sept. 1988 — Reagan asked Congress to cut federal higher education spending to $4.8 billion, down from $8.7 billion in fiscal 1987.

The president wants Congress to eliminate the College Work-Study, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, National Direct Student Loan and State Student Incentive Grant programs, while cutting funding for the Guaranteed Student Loan and Pell Grant programs.

"It's in the hands of Congress," noted Sherri Hancock, aid director at Central State University in Oklahoma.

The president said aid cuts would help reduce the federal budget deficit. "As a taxpayer," Hancock said, "I'd like to see the deficit reduced, but being an advocate for students, I think it's unfortunate that the budget changes will affect largely the middle-income family."

Surf's Up week takes campus by storm

By DEB SHALIS
Jambar Entertainment Editor

Look out YSU — "The Wave" is here!

Surf's Up IV has arrived, with plenty of activities scheduled for everyone throughout the week of surf, sun and fun.

Movie fans can see a variety of summer films throughout the week, including Jaws at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 24 in the Pub, Club Paradise at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 25 in the Chestnut Room, and Spring Break at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 26 in the Pub.

Tickets for the annual Surf's Up Dance go on sale at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 25 in the Kilcawley Center Arcade. I.D.'s are required to buy a student ticket, priced at $3. Sales will continue Thursday if tickets are available, but no more than 2,000 tickets will be sold for the dance.

Jimmy Buffet fans, take heart — this year's Surf's Up Comedy Concert features none other than . . . well, not quite.

Singer Buffet may not show up on campus this week, but his music — along with the comedy of Charlie Wiener and the Wienerland Orchestra — will be heard at 11:30 Wednesday, Feb. 25, in Kilcawley Center's Chestnut Room.

Wiener's show focuses on music-oriented comedy, in which he uses popular music with his own lyrics.

Wiener has opened for major acts such as Eddie Money, Starship, Cheap Trick and the Michael Stanley Band, and appeared in comedy clubs around the nation.

Don't wait until the dance to put on your bathing suit. Beeghly Pool will take on a beach-like atmosphere during the Surf's Up Pool Party, beginning at 1 p.m. Friday, Feb. 27 in Beeghly Center.

Seats will be available for spectators, but students are encouraged to take part in the raft races and big splash contests. Lifeguards will be on duty during the party.

Alumni Jazz Ensemble debuts

By PAMELA GAY
Jambar News Editor

Roll the drums and roll back the years! Twenty-four professional musicians who have made history with the YSU Jazz Ensembles over the past 18 years will headline a free concert at 8 p.m., Monday, March 2, in the Chestnut Room of Kilcawley Center.

The newly formed YSU Alumni Jazz Ensemble will make their premiere appearance, sharing the program with current Jazz Ensembles I and II, all under the baton of Tony Leonardi, jazz director.

The Alumni Ensemble was conceived and organized by two graduates of YSU's Dana School of Music and former ensemble leader. See Jazz, page 13

Bachelor's degree from YSU in 1983, the same year Crist received his Master of Music degree here. Crist is currently a Dana School music instructor.

To assemble the grad group, letters were sent to former Jazz Ensemble members living within a 100-mile radius of Youngstown who are still active musicians.

The letters brought "yea's" from 24, who represent the history of the University's renowned jazz program.

Two alumni performers were among the original ensemble. They are Gary Watson '71, band director at Cardinal High School in Middlefield and Phil Wilson, '77, band director at Bluffton High School.

Wilson, along with former lead trumpet player Bill Bodine, now bassist on television's "Star Search" program, were instrumental in getting YSU Jazz Ensemble Director Leonard to form the first band in 1969.

Jazz Ensemble I will feature a new composition by sophomore trumpet major Mike Kamuf entitled "Wish You the Best."

— AT THE BUTLER —

YOUNGSTOWN — On March 1, 1987, "Mainstream America: The Collection of Phil Desind" comes to the Butler Institute of American Art, Youngstown and runs through April 5, 1987.

This exhibition of 331 contemporary American paintings will involve the entire upper level galleries. The collection covers the 20th century and includes virtually every approach to narrative painting by artists of established historical reputation and by those of strictly regional reputation.

The common thread which links the works together by such varied reputations as Nell Blair, John Baeder, Roger Madearis and Robert Bigner is a unique vision offered in a sauce of Rawess technique, which, if not based upon strict academic precedent, is certainly inspired by representational traditions from every corner. But before one considers the collection to be narrowed in its reliance upon the narrative, one needs only to know that the collector's approach to representation has been "shotgun." When choosing a painting Desind says, "I find that, in my case, I've become consciously aware of how the painting fills me the very moment I see it and it has been known for me to buy a painting within four or five seconds or fifteen seconds. So I have purchased a great many works almost immediately."

Friends of American Art will host the opening reception for Phil Desind from 7-9 p.m., Sunday, March 1.

The "An of Film" Series begins at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 26. It includes two dramatic short films by black filmmakers Sandler and Yany. "Remembering Thelma," a poignant portrait by producer Kathie Sandler of Thelma Hill, a dancer, teacher and artist who influenced several generations of dancers and choreographers and "Rich" by S. Terriano Yany, a story of a high school senior determined to leave his inner city neighborhood for college despite his mother's desire for him to accept a menial job that she thinks will assure his security.

The museum is open Tuesday and Thursday through Saturday 11 a.m. - 4 p.m., Wednesday 11 a.m. - 9 p.m., Sunday 12-4 p.m.

Lecture follows Planetarium show

NEWS SERVICE — An illustrated lecture, "The Soviet Space Program — A Formula for Success," will be presented at 9 p.m., Feb. 27 in the YSU Planetarium by Richard Pirko, a Planetarium consultant in electronics design. It is free and open to the public.

Those attending the Feb. 27 showing of the Planetarium's "Pilots of the Purple Twilight," are invited to remain for the lecture. Reservations are only required for the Planetarium show.

Penguins end season on sour note

By BRIAN J. MACALA
Jambar Sports Editor

The YSU Penguins went into last night's game with the Murray State Racers with the thought of shutting down the Racer's two outstanding players Donny Mann and Jeff Martin.

The Penguins effectively shut down Mann, but Martin ran free and led Murray State to a 77-68 victory over the Penguins last night in Murray, Ky.

Martin paced all scorers in the contest with 28 points, 18 in the second half. Mann came in to the game with a 15.8 average, but was held to only 12 tallies in the game.

The Racers scored the first points of the ballgame and never looked back, leading by as many as 20 points in the game. Coach Mike Rice's cagers didn't let Murray build their lead any higher and cut the Racers' margin to as few as six points in the waning moments of the game.

Murray effectively took the Penguin's star junior Tilman Bevely out of the game. The Racers played many defenses against the forward and held him to only 15 points, far below his Ohio Valley Conference leading 23.8 points per game average.

However, the night wasn't a total loss for Bevely. The standout cager became only the fifteenth player in YSU history to score 1,000 career points. Bevely needed only 10 points to reach this goal coming into the game. For awhile it looked like he might not make it, especially after being limited to only four first half points.

But Bevely came back and entered his name into the book when he hit a three-pointer midway through the second half.

The Racers came into the contest with a six game losing streak following their loss to Akron Saturday night.

The Racer team that had lost six straight did not show up last night however. Murray played multiple defenses in the first half that confused the Penguins. They played tight on Bevely while leaving the middle open, but the Penguins were unable to capitalize on the open lane and missed some key lay-ups in the first half.

Senior Robert Johnson turned in a sterling performance, staying out of foul trouble in the game. Johnson's 18 points paced the Penguins. Guard Johnny Robinson added 12 points to YSU's total.

The Penguins fall to 11-16 overall and 4-10 in the league heading into the OVC Tournament.

Record list lengthens

YSU's standout forward Tilman Bevely is now another name in the YSU record books. Bevely scored his 1,000th career point last night during the OVC match against the Murray State Racers.

Ladies fall 64-55 in road game

By MARK S. ARP
Jambar Sports Reporter

The YSU Lady Penguin's hopes for an OVC playoff bid were shattered last night in a heartbreaking loss to Murray State, 64-55.

Coach Ed DiGregorio's squad played to a 31-23 lead at the half, but their lead slowly whittled away as the Lady Racers answered with 41 second half points to seal the victory.

In the first half, the Lady Penguins led by as many as 14 points, and despite constant double and triple teaming defense on Dorothy Bowers, the junior standout netted 12 tallies before intermission.

The Lady Penguins defensive press figured to be the difference in the first half as it converted 3 steals into 6 points for YSU.

The second half proved to be an entirely different ballgame. The Lady Racers, who only shot 8 of 21 from the field in the first half, rallied to overcome the 8

Gulas readies baseball team

By BRIAN J. MACALA
Jambar Sports Editor

In last Friday's edition of The Jambar, we introduced a new column devoted entirely to YSU Intramurals. That column will be in each Friday issue of The Jambar.

Taking its place in the Monday edition will be an article devoted to YSU athletic activities, called "Penguin Potpourri." This is the first installment in our "Potpourri" series, just another example of how we hope to keep all you Penguin fans aware of events in and around YSU sporting events.

While most attention this week will be focused on the upcoming OVC Tournaments for our men's basketball team, you'll have to forgive Greg Gulas if the tournament isn't foremost in his mind.

In addition to serving the university quite capably as Sports Information Director, Gulas is also head baseball coach. The Penguin diamond men are less than a month a way from departing on their annual Spring Break road trip to southern colleges. In preparation for the upcoming campaign, Gulas has had his squad hard at work practicing all winter quarter.

Coach Gulas has his men working on their throwing, batting and running, every night in Beeghly Center. Besides the fundamentals, the baseball team is working out another way in preparation of the campaign — aerobics.

Cindy Willshaw leads the Penguin ballplayers in their aerobic workout. Willshaw also works in the basketball office and is majoring in Fitness Management. She has been leading Gulas' squad through their nightly workout for over a month now.

"The aerobics will give the guys more flexibility and endurance in their season. They are all in good shape," Willshaw was quoted as saying after a recent aerobics workout with the team. "They work well together. They're a great bunch of guys," she added. Gulas will find out if the aerobics will help out soon.

Not to be outdone by Gulas is Jack Rigney. In addition to running intramural events on campus, Rigney also coaches men's and women's track and field and cross country. He has the privilege of being YSU's first men's track coach since the program was discontinued in 1957. This year also marks only the second year that ladies' track has been offered in YSU history.

Building a program from scratch isn't easy, but Coach Rigney has received good response to his calls for track athletes to come forward. As of now, some 70 people have expressed an interest in participating in track and field events at YSU.

"There is a need for a track team," Rigney said. "Track will give an opportunity for many of the outstanding track athletes in the area to attend YSU."

Swimsters place fifth

By GEORGE RUSNAK
Jambar Sports Reporter

Over the weekend the YSU women's swim team participated in the tough Penn-Ohio Swim Meet at Cleveland State. The Lady Penguins finished in fifth place over all.

"I thought the girls swam very well," stated Coach

Tammy Swearingen. "Carla Moser, Pam Straniak and Carla Sipka swam their best times of this season," she added.

Sipka took first place in the 100m butterfly. Her winning time was 1:00.9. She also finished second in the 100m and eighth in the 200m freestyle. In addition, the senior captain garnered point halftime deficit.

The turning point of the contest occurred when Rona Poe hit a layup with 10:27 remaining.

The bucket gave the Racers a 43-41 edge and they didn't trail the Lady Penguins for the remainder of the game.

Sheila Smith led the Lady Racers with 18 points. Guard Holly Baker and center Gerilyn Feth chipped in 17 and 16, respectively for Murray.

Bowers led all scorers with 20 markers and Tanja Simone followed with 12 points for the Lady Penguins.

The Lady Penguins close out their season at 6-8 in the OVC, 13-14 overall.

Grants

Continued from page 1 residents and up to $2,300 for non-residents.

Ohio students with family incomes of less than $25,000 should apply for the Ohio Instructional Grant (OIG), which is based on need, by filling out a separate form. Notification of the results of the application come directly from the Ohio Board of Regents in Columbus, usually within two months.

Early submission for the OIG, preferably in February, usually means early notification.

The Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant is a federal grant for students with exceptional need. The current grant range is from $100-$4,000.

The National Direct Student Loans (Perkins Loan) are federally and university sponsored. The federal government provides 89 percent and YSU provides 11 percent of the loan fund.

The above ratio is the same for Nursing Student Loans, limited to nursing program students.

Nursing scholarships are also awarded to academically strong nursing students from low income families. The program is federally funded.

The college work-study program involves need-based work grants for part-time, on-campus employment.

Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL) are loans from banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions.

Students may borrow up to $2,625 per year each year of their first two years and up to $4,000 per year their remaining undergraduate years, not to exceed a $17,250 total.

Plus Loans, like GSLs, are also made from lenders such as banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions. Parents of students may borrow up to $4,000 per year for a total of $20,000 for a dependent undergraduate student enrolled at least half-time.

YSU also offers many private donor scholarships and grants each of which set individual criteria for their awards.

Swim

Straniak placed seventh in the 100m and eighth in the 200m breaststroke. Moser captured eighth in the 50m and placed sixteenth in the 100m freestyle event. She also finished seventh in the 100m butterfly.

ly and ninth in the 100m backstroke.

Kay Walter ranked sixteenth in both the 50m and 500m freestyle competition and twelfth in the 100m backstroke.

In the diving competition, Sherrie Zimmerman attained seventh place in 1m diving while teammate Nadine Churnik finished seventh in 3m and eighth in 1m diving.

No home meets are scheduled for this year, but Rigney hopes to bring two meets here next year. The team kicks off the year on April 4, in the Case Western Invitational.

Coach Rigney also asks that those that have signed up for track remember that two important meetings are coming up. All men and women sprinters and middle and long distance runners have a very important meeting at 4 p.m., Feb. 27 at Beeghly Center. All members will have a meeting at 4 p.m., March 6 at Stambaugh Stadium. For more information get in touch with the coach at 742-1909.

Football coach Jim Tressel has just completed a very successful recruiting campaign. "I'm really pleased. We got 10 athletes from the area. We're very fortunate to get them," Tressel commented after the recruiting season was completed.

Highlighting the recruiting announcement was word that former East High and University of Miami standout J.C. Penny was returning home to finish out his collegiate grid career with YSU. Although he won't be eligible to play in the coming season, Penny will be enrolled here starting this spring.

"I was contacted after the Fiesta Bowl [in which Penny's Miami Hurricanes played this past January] that he was interested in coming to YSU," Tressel said. "He put his priorities in order. He'll concentrate on his academics while sitting out his season [due to the transfer]."

Vince Carfora of the Youngstown Inner City Sunday Softball League has asked me to announce that the league is accepting new teams for this year. For more information get in touch with Carfora at 758-3882.

Until next week...Go Penguins!
