Student wanders, wonders over car

By SUE KNAPIC
 Jambar News Editor

One YSU student was left wandering around the M-2 (Lincoln Avenue Parking Deck) looking for his misplaced car yesterday afternoon.

He said he believed he parked his car on level 2C of the deck, but could not locate the vehicle. Campus Police are treating the incident as a car theft.

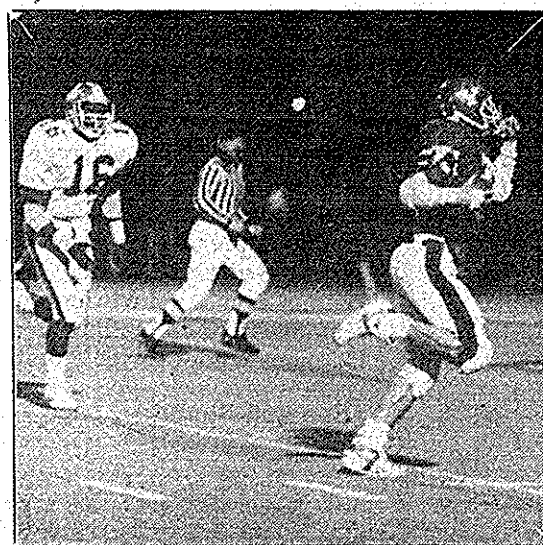

The missing car was described as a 1983 black two-door Chevy. At approximately 2 p.m. the student went to retrieve his car from the M-2 deck. When he couldn't locate the vehicle he requested the help of a parking deck attendant to help him search for his car, stated Campus Police reports.

After the auto could not be located the student called Campus Police and Officer George Hammar took a report of the incident.

Upon investigation of the area where the car was reportedly parked, Campus Police found no broken glass or other signs of forced entry. The student said the missing vehicle had no alarm system.

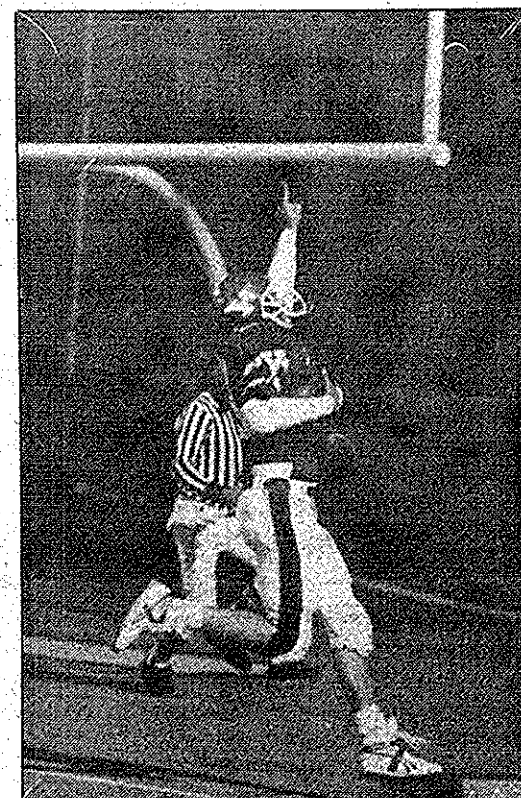

According to reports, a description of the car has been entered into the LEADS (Law Enforcement Automated Data System) and NCIC (National Crime Information Center) computers. This will enable officers to identify the vehicle as stolen if spotted by other police agencies.

University gears for Constitution celebration

Scholar to speak on Ordinance

YSU — The festivities celebrating 200 years since the signing of the U.S. Constitution and the Northwest Ordinance will continue at YSU.

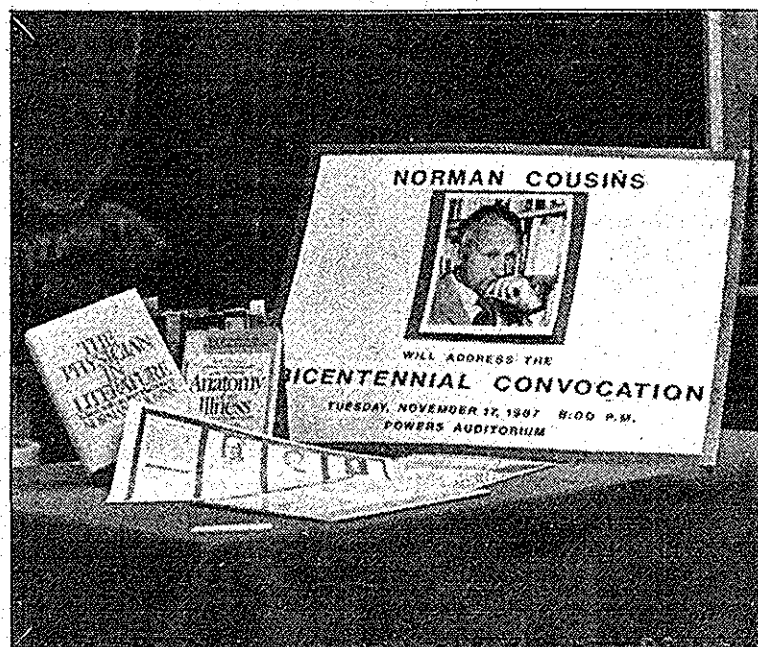

A Northwest Ordinance Observation featuring Dr. Phillip Shriver, chair of the Ohio Bicentennial Commission for the Northwest Ordinance and the U.S. Constitution, will take place at 2 p.m. Monday, Nov. 16, in the YSU Kilcawley Center Ohio Room. The event is free and the public is invited to attend.

Dr. George Beelen, chair, history department, will give the welcome and Dr. Fred Blue, history, will introduce the guest speaker, who is President Emeritus of Miami University.

Shriver will speak on "America's Third Charter — The Northwest Ordinance of 1787." It established the territorial government region north of the Ohio River and east of the Mississippi River and set the procedure to be followed by the regions to become states.

A graduate of Cleveland public schools, Shriver earned degrees at Yale, Harvard and Columbia universities and holds honorary degrees from nine other colleges and universities. After his return from World War II, Shriver taught American and Ohio history at Kent State University from 1947-1965 and became dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Speaker says German-American ties important

By STEVE SIMBALLA
Jambar Reporter

Over one-quarter of the American population claims to be of German descent, noted Dr. Goetz von Boehmer, consul-general of the Federal Republic of Germany, in addressing "German-American Relations Today" last Wednesday evening in Debartolo Hall.

German-American ties are extremely important, the West German diplomat said, "in view of the context of the global political situation." Germany has recently figured prominently in two major areas of worldwide concern: nuclear disarmament and the economy and von Boehmer focused on these issues and their significance in current East-West relations.

"We are on the threshold of a new era in international affairs," said von Boehmer, "with more emphasis on global cooperation and less on the pursuit of national interests. The German people," he added, "are less skeptical than Americans regarding the new openness of the Soviet Union and very optimistic over the new disarmament policies." He said in his opinion, this is due to Germany's geographic closeness to the Soviet Union and their missiles. "The German people are more involved and more nervous and therefore more relieved by the proposed scrapping of Soviet and West German short-range missiles," von Boehmer added.

However, von Boehmer continued, the balance of power still remains an important factor in East-West relations, and American presence and support in Europe is deemed "vital as a safeguard to persevere the freedom of Europe." To this end, he said, West Germany still welcomes the 240,000 U.S. troops stationed there.

Von Boehmer also cited several improvements in West German relations with East Germany particularly in regard to increased economical, transportation and educational cooperation. He echoed West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl's desire to one day reunite with the 17 million East Germans and provide "unity

Celebration grows with tree planting

YSU — The Faculty Forum and a tree-planting ceremony on campus will continue the celebration of the 200-year anniversary of the writing and signing of the U.S. Constitution and the adoption of the Northwest Ordinance.

The Faculty Forum will take place at 8 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 12, in YSU's DeBartolo Hall.

Taking part in the forum will be: Dr. Frederick Blue, history; Larry Esterly, political science and social science; and Dr. Anthony Stocks, chair, economics. Dr. Jane E. Kestner, psychology, will act as moderator.

During the forum, Blue will speak on the Northwest Ordinance, which set up procedures for establishing Ohio and four other states from the Northwest Territory.

Esterly will speak on how the courts have interpreted the Constitution in the twentieth century and Stocks will discuss the Constitution and the American economy. A reception will follow on Nov. 13 and a buckeye tree, which will represent the state of Ohio, will be planted during a ceremony on the YSU campus just north of the Lincoln Parking Deck and south of DeBartolo Hall. Four other trees, each representing a state in the Northwest Territory, will be planted at a later date. Participating in the ceremony will be members of the Bicentennial Committee, faculty of YSU's Department of Biological Sciences, and others.

EDITORIAL

Parking is no small change

People in general don't like change. At YSU, they don't like pennies either.

This is the consensus received by The Jambar from the bursar's office after Friday's editorial suggested that people who owe parking fines should pay the fee in pennies. That suggestion was to protest against the University not having a set policy to collect overdue fines from outside affiliates who abuse campus parking regulations.

A certain question comes to mind concerning this problem — who is to blame for this lackadaisical attitude for collecting overdue charges?

The answer: Parking services and the University for allowing this mismanagement to occur.

The plan: Go to the core of the problem. In the University's case — its pocket.

The fact is the bursar's office handles cash transactions and the cashiers take in all payments — including overdue parking fines.

Allowing people to accumulate overdue parking fines is unfair because the people who pay for parking and obey the regulations have to shoulder the burden — mismanagement is allowed to occur — nothing gets done and the problem continues.

These three points will remain unchanged if the YSU community thinks on the same line as the people in the bursar's office do: "We can't do anything."

This office needs to voice its objections to handling payments in pennies and the other hassles of overdue parking fines.

Paying parking fines in pennies is not an attempt to penalize the bursar's office. But hitting the University in its pocketbook is the best way to get its attention.

The bursar's office as well as others in the YSU community need to air complaints to parking services to make them act and enforce a policy.

Instead, the bursar's office aired its complaints to The Jambar for its editorial — an example of right church, wrong pew, or in this case right University, wrong office.

Since these people in bursar's office aren't willing to change, maybe they should flip for it with one of the several hundred pennies they may receive to see who will count the payment for the overdue parking fines.

So go ahead — push for change in the way parking services collect fines, but make sure you follow the bursar's office's rules and roll those pennies.

COMMENTARY

Speak English if you live in U.S.

It could only happen in America. We took their tired, their poor, their tired masses yearning to be free.

The U.S. has long welcomed political and social refugees and has allowed them to have all the privileges that a native-born American would have.

At different times in its history, America has been a vast repository for incoming Irish, Italian, Polish, Hungarian and a variety of other immigrants.

Today the main influx of refugees is coming from across the southern border, from Mexico and Cuba.

Although these people risk arrest and sometimes even death crossing the border, their strong desire to be citizens of the U.S. remains a mystery to me.

These people have formed tight-knit communities in the southern states and are pushing to have Spanish taught in their schools. Not as a second language, mind you, but as the primary language.

In order to protect our national language, several states have passed laws which declare that English is the only nationally accepted language of the U.S. One of the largest countries in the world has to write laws to protect its language, a language that has been our accepted form of communication ever since the Pilgrims arrived.

Both of my parents left Hungary in 1956 and came to the U.S. because it offered them a better way of life. That was a time when the "melting

ERIKA HANZELY
Assistant News
Editor

pot" theory was still going strong. Although families of 5 different nationalities could be found in one neighborhood, they got along because they had a common goal — to be American.

My parents both speak fluent English and Hungarian, but they raised their children to be Americans, and therefore English was our first language. My sense of heritage was never destroyed because Hungarian was spoken at home, and I was exposed to all sorts of Hungarian culture.

The ethnic identity movement has changed all of this. T-shirts advertise: Kiss me I'm Irish; 100 percent Italian; I'm proud to be a Hunky.

I'm not saying that there is anything wrong with being proud of your nationality, but since we live in the U.S., we should have equal pride in being American. And that means having a common flag, a common government and a common language.

Government begins petition

By ERIKA HANZELY
Jambar Assistant News Editor

A Student Government petition advocating increased library and computer center hours will be circulating on campus starting today.

Representatives from government hope to accumulate 5,000 signatures on the petition that supports an increase of 15 hours in Maag library and 30 hours in the mainframe and PC labs in Meshel Hall.

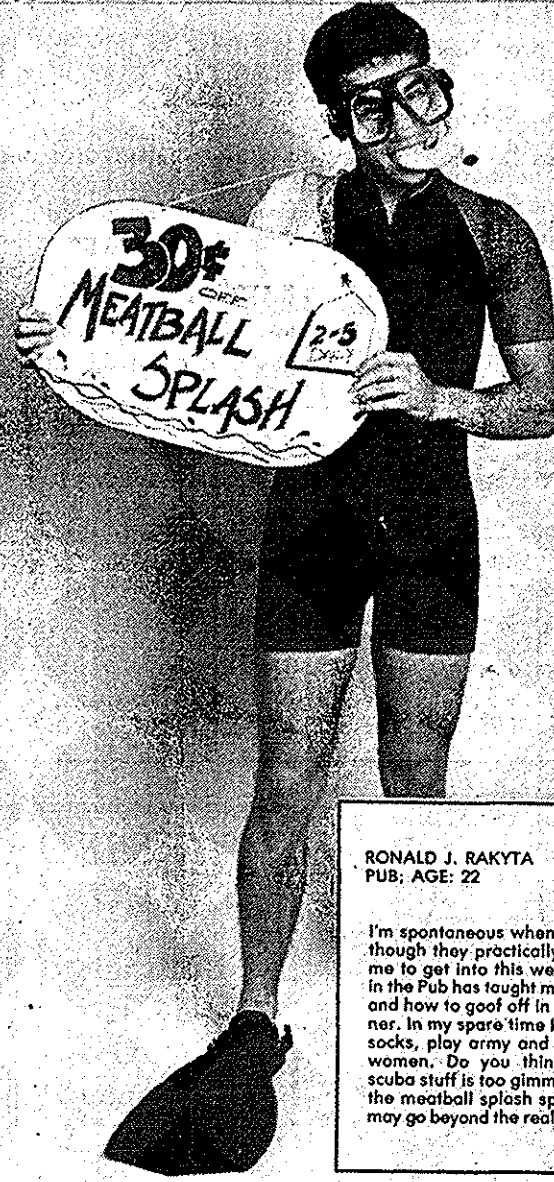

In other Student Government business, the body approved the appointment of Jason Johnson for the position of Representative at Large. Openings remain in CAST, Education and the Graduate School.

The Financial Appropriations Committee is trying to work out a system so that funding would not run out as it did this quarter. Government President Marvin Robinson suggested that the committee revise its budget request from group three, so that they would be allocating "more appropriate" funding.

YSU — YSU's Ward Beecher Planetarium will open a new show, "Stars and Stone: The Forgotten Americans," on Nov. 12.

The show focuses on the rise and fall of the civilizations which existed in the lands of Mesoamerica, now called Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador and Belize. The show will reveal dazzling Aztec cities and Mayan temples, and will delve into the astronomical secrets that produced an accurate calendar and the ability to predict eclipses of the sun and moon.

"Stars and Stone: The Forgotten Americans" will also document native North American skywatchers, viewing the changing seasons from Arizona's canyon walls through serpent mounds in the Midwest to wheels of rock in the high plains.

"Stars and Stone: The Forgotten Americans" provides a rare view of a people whose cultures stretched across 3,000 years, then virtually disappeared.

All Planetarium programs are free and open to the public. Reservations are required and will only be held until five minutes before show time.

Speaker will offer history of Royal Botanical Gardens

YSU — J. Barrie J. Blewett, will give an illustrated history of the Royal Botanical Gardens in Kew, London, England, when he speaks at YSU at 8 p.m., Nov. 16, in the Kilcawley Center Ohio Room.

Blewett, scientific officer at the gardens, is sponsored by YSU's biological sciences department in conjunction with the Ohio Board of Regents' Academic Challenge Program. He will give an illustrated history of the gardens, from their origins as a Georgian Royal Estate to today's world famous modern botanical gardens.

The event is free and open to the public.

The present gardens are a unique blend of palace, 18th century follies, modern laboratories and botanical collections, all held in unity by clever garden designs.

Blewett will highlight major events which have helped shape Kew's development, and the contribution and charm of each individual garden will be viewed.

Kew's out-of-London Garden of Wakehurst Place with its tudor mansion and seed bank will also be introduced by Blewett, who will cover the aspects of greenhouse development from early Orangery to the computer controlled, multi-environment conservatory.

Before assuming his present position in 1983, Blewett was with the Ministry of Agriculture. He is a member of the Institute of Biology and the British Museum Society and is a recognized photographer as well as outstanding biologist.

Blewett will speak to botany classes during his campus visit. At 3 p.m., Nov.

18, he will talk about the changing roles of botanical gardens and the growing importance of botanical knowledge. At 4 p.m., Nov., 19, he will discuss the Kew's research divisions, often regarded by the public as "behind closed doors." Both classes will meet in Room 4014 of Ward Beecher Hall.

Both classroom presentations are open to the public.

Now that you've gotten into Youngstown State, IBM can help you get more out of it.

The road to graduation is paved with term papers, lab reports, cramming, all-nighters and, of course, exams.

To ease that journey and awaken your professors to your exceptional abilities, we suggest the newest member of the IBM Personal System/2™ family: the Model 25 Collegiate.

It's a high-powered personal computer with advanced graphics capabilities, designed to fit on your desk without adding to the clutter. And it comes with a generous 640 KB memory, two 3.5" diskette drives and an aid package every student can appreciate—a big discount, plus Microsoft® Windows 1.04, Write, Paint, Cardfile, IBM DOS 3.3 and a mouse.

Pop in the load-and-go diskette and your Model 25 Collegiate is set to help you write and revise long papers and illustrate your points by combining words and graphics. So your professors will draw favorable conclusions about your work.

Health professors research drug topics

YSU — Dr. Mark J. Kittleson, H & PE, and his co-author, Dr. Mary Sutherland, recently presented a research study before the American Public Health Association Forum in New Orleans.

Kittleson and Sutherland, associate professor of Health Education programs at Florida State University, gave the program, which dealt with the need for quality drug education in elementary schools at the meeting, the largest public health forum in the world. It attracted more than 16,000 public health officials, educators, physicians, and other health professionals Oct. 18-22.

Their paper, "Primary Prevention and Implications for School-based Drug Education Programs," involved hundreds of hours of research to determine the characteristics of successful drug abuse prevention programs.

According to their study, primary prevention in school is successful if the child can be shaped and nurtured before negative health patterns are established and information should start at Kindergarten level and then geared toward the appropriate age levels.

"Drug education, of itself, is not going to help," said Kittleson, adding that "piecemealing" of health programs does not provide the necessary core of values, decision making, and avoidance of peer pressure.

The study presented by Kittleson and Sutherland presented details of the key concepts of primary prevention, the theoretical application of educational concepts to drug abuse prevention programs, and the practical applications of drug abuse prevention programs.

Week of events scheduled for Nuclear Arms Race

YSU — During the week of Nov. 9-15, programs at more than 125 campuses and other sites will be part of a nationwide program entitled "Week of Education on the Nuclear Arms Race: Our Future, Our Choice."

The week of educational activities is co-sponsored by the Union of Concerned Scientists, a national public policy organization with more than 100,000 sponsors, and United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War, a national campus-based organization headquartered in Washington, D.C.

The itinerary at YSU includes: Nov. 9-10, 12-13, films in classrooms and library displays. Also on these dates from 11 a.m.-1 p.m., there will be a display in Kilcawley Arcade.

On Tuesday, Nov. 10, a Peace Pole Re-dedication will take place at 11:50 a.m. between Tod Hall and the fountain. On the same day, from noon-2 p.m., "Imaging for Peace" by the Women's Resource Center, will be in Buckeye I and II in Kilcawley. Those attending are asked to bring poetry, music and prose about alternatives to violence to share and reflect.

ANTHONY GATELARO/THE JAMBAR

At noon on Thursday, Nov. 12, the YSU debate team will debate in room 2068 on "Resolved: U.S. Covert Intervention in Central America is Undesirable."

To wrap up the week's events on Friday, Nov. 13, a free Bread in the Chestnut Room from 8-12 p.m. Three bands, Sacred Hate, Morbid Thrill Seekers and Cutter Snipes will perform.

"What is exciting about the Week of Education is that it belies the cliché that this generation of college students is apathetic about the concerns of the nuclear age," said Howard Ris, executive director of the Union of Concerned Scientists. "We find that they are, in fact, hungry for information about the nuclear arms race, which is why this program along with basic courses in peace and world security studies on more than

In reference to the global economy, von Boehmer espoused hopes that the increasing unity and power of the European Economic Community [EEC or Common Market; Spain and Portugal have now been admitted] should not be seen "as a rivalry with the United States but as an attempt to increase the potential of the Western world." According to von Boehmer, it is hoped that by 1992 "a free flow of goods between participating members of the EEC may be fully achieved."

This may dampen U.S. — German relations as West Germany's current strong economy has already caused some resentment in the present administration. However, an article in Time Magazine said that the recent conflict between Treasury Secretary Baker and West German officials over German interest rates and export quotas is more indicative of an inept U.S. economic policy than lack of German governmental cooperation.

Von Boehmer maintains that a "strong Europe is as important as a strong America in maintaining stability and freedom in the world." That will require "active support from the United States as well as fostering cooperation with Eastern — block nations," he noted. According to Von Boehmer, German-American relations are a key to this goal, and he concluded, "our countries are bound not only by treaties and agreements but by common values of democracy, freedom, free enterprise and respect for human rights."

The presidential elections and the scheduled Reagan-Gorbachev summit have contributed to heightened interest in national security issues, Ris added.

This is the seventh year that the Union of Concerned Scientists, in conjunction with other organizations, has sponsored a nationwide university program on the arms race.

This year's return to local

"teach-in" style events reflects a growing interest in participation in the policy debates on arms control at a grassroots level, according to Lucy Edmondson, UCS public education coordinator. The activities range from panel discussions and debates to film showings and dramatic or musical performances.

In programs involving speakers from a variety of perspectives, topics under discussion during the week include: History of the Arms Race; U.S. Soviet Relations; Strategic Defense Initiative; The Economy and The Arms Race; Psychology of the Arms Race; Morality of the Arms Race; Verification of Arms Control; and How Individuals Can Help Shape the Future. The Union of Concerned Scientists produced discussion guides for a number of topics.

National organizations endorsing the Week of Education are: Better World Society, Church Women United, Council for a Livable World, Educators for Social Responsibility, Lawyers Alliance for Nuclear Arms Control, Physicians for Social Responsibility, and Psychologists for Social Responsibility.

Fellowship offers graduate awards

By ROB CICCOTELLI
Jambar Reporter

The Ohio Board of Regents Graduate/Professional Fellowship Program offers Regents Fellowship awards of $3,500 each year for two years for graduate school to the most outstanding baccalaureate graduates in Ohio.

At least one fellowship will be awarded to a senior from each eligible public or private college or university in Ohio.

To be eligible, a student should have earned a baccalaureate degree at an Ohio college or university holding a certificate of authorization from the OBR, plan to enroll full-time to earn a graduate degree at an eligible Ohio graduate or graduate professional school and be a U.S.

Applicants must rank among the top of the class as of Feb. 1 of their senior year, or percentile placement on professional examinations such as GRE, MCAT, GMAT, or LSAT must be at least 90. Also, complete transcripts of all undergraduate work must be provided.

In addition to an interview, candidates must submit a written essay with the topic and length specified by the OBR. Individuals interested in obtaining application materials for these fellowships should contact Beth Kushner between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, at the Graduate School office, 3001 Jones Hall.

Completed applications and supporting materials should be turned in to the Graduate School office by 5 p.m., Monday, Feb. 1, 1988.

Couch Potato hits bookstores

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

The National Association of College Stores, which from its office in Oberlin, Ohio, tracks sales at campus bookstores, reported in its recent bulletin that it expects the following items to be big sellers among student this fall:

The Couch Potato, "a soft brown pillow (that) is on everyone's 'must' list to keep the TV watched while classes are in session," Corona Beer t-shirts, a $25 alarm clock shaped like a softball that you turn off by hurling against a wall, no-smoking neckties and hairstyles with "the 'Les Miserables' waifish look," described as something that "takes lots of mousse to achieve the uncombed, ringleted, mussed look."

Campus stores nationwide, meanwhile, sold $1 million worth of Domino Pizza Noid t-shirts during the first five days they were offered.

Area band coins term for their music; 'RYHORAR'

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar Entertainment Editor

With a name like The Cutter Snipes, one might wonder what kind of music a band like this plays, or, better yet, if they are any good. The answer to both is simple: hard core and yes.

Actually, they don't really like to say they are a hard core band; they prefer to call their own brand of music RYHORAR — Rip Your Head Off Rock And Roll.

Although Ed Villabona, better known as Sarge, junior, commercial art, the group's lead singer and guitarist, mistakenly thought their former guitarist came up with the phrase, the credit actually belongs to drummer Mark Lesnansky, senior, retail marketing.

"It was after we did a gig at Cedars. We were sitting in the back room and reading all this stuff, because there's graffiti all over the walls," Lesnansky said. He continued. "We were trying to think of what we could call the music. We had the band name Cutter Snipes already. At first I thought it was too long to use," but then Sarge added that it "abbreviated into a word."

The group has been together since June, 1986. According to Sarge, who jokingly said he wanted to be the spokesman for the band like Bono is for U2, "We had a major setback when [our former guitarist] quit the band. Me and Mark used to just go out and play. It was like 'Simon and Garfunkel go hard core.'" But he said that these experiences, just getting up on the stage and playing, helped them improve. This past August, Justin Chearno, who said he is the "better guitarist," joined the band. "I liked hard core but I really couldn't play it and that's why the idea of joining the Cutter Snipes was really scary," he said. Sarge taught him how to play fast on the guitar, which is one of the main elements of hard core; fast, hard playing and, according to Chearno, "Now I can play really fast and they have to slow me down."

They recently added a bassist, known only as Ded Edd. They're really happy to have him, because they say that now their RYHORAR sound is at its fullest.

They said the only time they demo tapes of their songs is their next big goal. They have one now, although they said they want to redo it, for the songs "I Love Milk" and "Dragon Lady." "I Love Milk" was one of their first songs: Said Lesnansky, "It's sort of a parody of all the songs that say 'I hate this, I hate that, I hate my friends.'" Chearno added that "It's so looked down upon to love milk, so it's really agreed is good to see. Lesnansky said that many people consider hard core only a phase, but it's a way of life for them, since they enjoy the music and are trying to make a go of it.

"There's a really big, poser scene lately, a lot of faking," said Chearno, adding "There's nothing wrong with liking music, but you don't need to pretend that you're real cool just because you like it. It doesn't matter how you look — it's what you believe in." He spoke for the others by stating that it doesn't matter what kind of music the crowd likes either, as long as they have a good time.

The Gutter Snipes, as a group, like to have good times, but the music comes first. According to Sarge, "We take our music seriously, but we don't take ourselves seriously." They admit they may not be the best band around, but they try hard and give it their all.

In fact, Lesnansky said that when they first started performing on stage, their motto was "We're the Gutter Snipes. We-s-k, but we mean it." Chearno said they're in it to have fun, not to become rich and famous.

Sarge summed it all up by saying "We're trying our hardest." Then what he said should probably be their new motto: "Practice, practice, practice. Eat, eat, eat. Have fun, have fun, have fun."

actually sit down together as a group to write their own material is when they're eating, which is usually at A&W or Denny's. In fact, they like to spend every Sunday at the A&W in Boardman because, as they all said in harmony, "You get two floats for the price of one." All agreed that eating is one of their favorite pastimes, especially Lesnansky's, who told the tale of how, during one of their gigs, he was eating barbecued chicken and his hands got so greasy that one of his sticks flew out of his hand while he was playing. Getting into a studio to make a great song." One thing they said sets their songs apart from other similar bands is their lyrics. The Gutter Snipes take a light-hearted view about life, unlike some others who write only about political activism and gloom and doom. They write about family life (which is important to all of them), friends, society, and on occasion, some politics.

They feel that the hard core scene in Youngstown is growing because there are more people who are interested in it and they are starting to form bands, which is something this band

YSU wins overtime thriller over Murray, 20-13

By GEORGE J. RUSNAK
Jambar Sports Reporter

The YSU Penguins moved one step closer to at least a tie for the OVC crown with a 20-13 overtime victory against Murray State.

The win raised the Penguins record to 6-3 overall, 4-1 in the conference, and into a tie with Eastern Kentucky for first place in the OVC. The loss for the Racers all but eliminated them from any chance at the conference title.

The Penguins drew first blood in the opening quarter. After an exchange of punts, the YSU offense put together an eight-play, 30-yard drive, which ended in a John Dowling field goal attempt.

The defenses on both sides of the ball then tightened up and they did not allow any more points to be scored in the half. The Racers came the closest to scoring when they tried a 44-yard field goal with 7:22 left in the half. The boot was off to the left, however, and the score remained 3-0 at the half.

Murray received the second-half kickoff. They drove the ball down to the YSU 19 yard line. From there, the Racers' Paul Hickert kicked a 36-yard field goal that tied the score at three.

The Penguins came right back. After the kickoff, the Penguins drove right down to the Murray 27-yard line. The drive stalled there and the Penguins decided to attempt a field goal. The kick was blocked by Murray State's Tim Broady.

Murray State then put together the first touchdown drive of the game. The 12 play, 73-yard drive ended when quarterback Michael Proctor hit Willie Cannon with an 11-yard touchdown pass. The point after by Hickert was good, and with 1:54 left in the third quarter, Murray State led for the first time 10-3.

After the ensuing kickoff, the Penguins drove down to the 30-yard line of Murray only to have Trenton Lykes throw his second interception of the game.

Murray converted this turnover into points. The Racers drove down to the Penguin 33-yard line and upped their lead to 13-3 on Hickert's field goal with 8:13 left in the game.

YSU received the kickoff, but could do nothing with the ball and was forced to punt. It was only a 31-yard punt, but it was muffed by a Murray State player and recovered by YSU's Terrence Tubbs on the Murray 48-yard line.

The Penguins proceeded to move into field goal range, and Dowling hit from 28 yards out to move the Penguins within seven, with 3:26 left on the clock.

Murray could do nothing with the ball on their next possession and was forced to punt. YSU took over on their own 46.

Penguins crack latest I-AA Top 20 poll

It took nine games, but at last our Penguins have earned the credit they deserve on the national scale.

The latest NCAA Division I-AA rankings show the Penguins cracking the top 20 in the number 20 spot. YSU shares the twentieth position with Howard University and Sam Houston State.

OVC rival Eastern Kentucky is in the ninth position in the latest poll, which is topped by Holy Cross, 9-0, the only undefeated team in the top 20.

With wins in their last two games against Morehead and arch-rival Akron, the Penguins can easily move up in the rankings.

Congratulations to Coach Jim Tressel, his staff and the entire Penguin football team, on finally gaining the recognition they so richly deserve.

YSU's volleyball team had another case of being so close to victory, but seeing it slip away. The women spikers ventured to Duquesne this weekend and came away a loser, 3-1. The women are now 3-23 on the season.

YSU took the first set from Duquesne, 15-8, only to drop the last three, 11-15, 14-16 and 13-15.

The Penguins have a long break ahead of them to prepare for the Akron Invitational on Nov. 21. Along with host Akron, the Penguins will face Wright State and Cleveland State.

While on the subject of volleyball, YSU is holding the first-ever YSU High School Volleyball Coaches' Clinic on Saturday, Dec. 5 at the Stambaugh Gymnasium.

Coaches from the area will be on hand to discuss various techniques and ways to improve volleyball programs in high school. In addition YSU head volleyball coach John Mc Ken-

Four passes, three to Lorenzo Davis for 11 yards and one to Elliott Fedd for seven yards, moved the Penguins to the Murray 36-yard line. On a third down and three play, Lykes threw a 36-yard touchdown strike to Maury Bibent. The point after made the score 13-13 with 1:02 left in the game.

Murray was unable to pull off any last second miracles and the game proceeded into overtime.

The Penguins got first crack in overtime. Lykes threw a 19-yard pass to Mike McClone to put the Penguins at the six. On the next play, Lykes found Rod Love all alone in the end zone. The point after was good and the Penguins led 20-13.

Murray also had a chance to score, but their upset hopes were put to rest when on a third and seven, Proctor was hit by Rod Henderson and coughed up the ball. The recovery by YSU's Paul Soltis ended the contest.

Lykes finished the contest with 227 yards on 25 completions and two touchdowns.

Lorenzo Davis paced all rushers in the game with 62 yards on 13 attempts. Bibent and Davis were Lykes' big targets for the day. Bibent hauled in five passes for 92 yards and Davis caught 10 for 74 yards.

The Penguins close out the OVC portion of their schedule at home against Morehead State next Saturday.

na, assistant YSU volleyball coach Joe Conroy and YSU head trainer Dan Wathen will speak on volleyball techniques.

Registration fee is $6. More information can be obtained by calling the YSU volleyball office at 742-1920.

It may still be football season, but basketball time is quickly approaching.

First year head coach Jim Clemons and his squad have been busy preparing for the season opener against the College of Wooster on Nov. 28 at Beechly Center.

Prior to the game, the players that have filled the Penguin record book over the years will don their high-tops to take to the court again.

The fourth annual alumni game is scheduled to take place prior to the Wooster contest. Tip-off is set for 5 p.m.

Last year, players from six decades were represented in the alumni game. The athletic department is asking all former YSU cagers interested in playing to contact the Athletic Office at 742-3482 or 742-3192.

Until next week...Go Penguins!

Thefts

Corporal Mark Adovasio said the vehicle is the third to be reported stolen this quarter.

In other reports yesterday, a student reported four wire hubcaps stolen from a 1982 Buick while parked in the M-1 (Wick Avenue Parking Deck).

The Jambar is looking for students willing to take photo assignments and/or turn in pictures capturing campus life. Those interested may stop in The Jambar office and fill out an application.

Call your mummy.

You remember. She was always there when you were frightened. And if you got hurt, she was standing by with bandages. Wouldn't it feel good to talk to your mother again right now?

Calling over AT&T Long Distance Service probably costs less than you think, too. And if you have any questions about AT&T rates or service, a customer service representative is always standing by to talk to you. Just call 1 800 222-0300.

Sure, your schoolwork and your friends keep you busy. But call home and find out what she's wrapped up in.
