Security apprehends alleged murderer

By SUE KNAPIC
Jambar News Editor

Campus Security officers apprehended a suspect charged Monday in connection with the shooting death of a woman whose body was found near campus Sunday. According to Campus Security reports, George Mitchell Jr., 34, 196 W. Warren Ave. was arrested in connection with the shooting death of Michelle Jackson, 36, 134 W. Lane Road, whose body was found on the east-bound service road of 680 and Fifth Avenue.

Det. Joseph Fajack of the Youngstown Police Department filed a charge of aggravated murder against Mitchell early Monday morning.

Campus Security officers were notified that a shooting had occurred on I-680 and Fifth Avenue by a message transmitted by the Youngstown Police Department over the scanner, the report stated.

Campus Security reports also stated a cab driver, Michael Girardi, had been following the suspect (a black male wearing a dark coat, white cap and dark pants). Girardi reported to the Security officers that he followed the suspect east along the service road into the Wick Oval area.

In pursuit of the suspect, Campus Security officers went to the Hollow area behind Bliss Hall where they "observed a black male subject run out of the wooded area onto Walnut Street just north of Emerald Street," according to the report.

Cpl. Mark Adovasio and officer Sally Barnes exited their vehicle after pulling their service revolvers and yelled to the subject to stop and lie face down on the ground, the report said.

After the officers repeated this command three times the subject stopped and turned towards the officers with his right arm raised, holding a gun, said the report.

The suspect then slowly lowered his arm and tossed the weapon onto the M11 parking lot, according to the officers.

At this time, the Youngstown Police Department was enroute to the area. YPD arrived at the scene shortly after Security apprehended and handcuffed the suspect. The YPD then transported the suspect downtown.

Government tackles agenda

Student Government tackled a full agenda Monday afternoon by adopting two resolutions and approving funding requests for four separate organizations.

A portion of the meeting was devoted to business discussed in last Monday's Government meeting, which was contested because of the body not having a quorum. A quorum is the official amount of representatives needed to conduct official business. Two-thirds of the body must be present.

Child care specialist calls for loving cooperation

By ERIKA HANZELY
Jambar Assistant News Editor

American families need to put more emphasis on "cooperation, lovingness and kindness" according to Dr. Benjamin Spock, world famous author on child care, who spoke at Kilcawley Center's Chestnut Room last night at 8 p.m.

Spock, a popular baby and child care specialist, wrote the book, Baby and Child Care, which has sold 28 million copies and has been translated into 26 different languages.

Babies and burping were not the only subject of Spock's lecture, however. Entitled, "Raising Children in a Nuclear Age," Spock's lecture dealt with the increasing stresses on the American family, and their consequent results.

Spock said that our "excessively competitive" society, combined with the lack of an extended family, and the American idea of "super kids", is contributing to the high teen-age suicide rates and to the rise in divorce.

Spock said that Americans bring up their children to be too competitive and too intent on "getting ahead." He used as an example of this, children who are being taught to read at the age of two when no one has established any benefits for this premature education.

"Life should be for fun, games should be for fun and the home should be more important than the workplace," said Spock.

Spock said that assembly line work destroys creativity and satisfaction, and this stress in the workplace is then brought back to the home. Spock suggested that the government subsidize women who stay at home with their children, or those

Education act makes it harder to get student loans

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

As the summer rolled on, Terilynn Sanford began to panic. When the University of Texas junior didn't receive a letter confirming her Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL), as she had the previous 2 years, she called the financial aid office. This year, they told her she didn't qualify.

"I can't go to school without a student loan," she said.

After some frustrating maneuvering, Sanford finally was approved for a GSL and will continue her education this year.

Sanford is not the only student finding that getting a loan this year is much harder than last fall, observers around the country reported last week.

As many as 20 percent of the students nationwide who got

Tuition covers many costs

By DAVE CONTI
Jambar Reporter

At the start of each academic quarter, most students have one major thought on their minds: the increase of tuition and where money goes. This question is seldom answered.

To attend YSU this quarter, most students paid a tuition fee of $540. This fee does not include parking, or hours in excess of 16. This fee includes an instructional fee of $425 in addition to the general fee of $115. These two fees are the basis of how our money is used, as well as why the cost of tuition is on the rise.

The instructional fee is used to help run the University. This fee only accounts for 27 percent of the total amount of money YSU will use to pay bills for the 1987-88 year.

The $16 million from the instructional fee is part of the $59 million that will pay the salaries of faculty and administration, student workers, fringe benefits, supplies, equipment, repair, maintenance, utilities, other occupancy expenses and various

See Tuition, page 9

GSLs in 1986 won't be able to get them for this school year, Dr. A. Dallas Martin Jr., of the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators, reported.

The reasons can be found in the new federal Higher Education Act of 1986, most of which is just going into effect this fall.

Those students, said Martin, must take out more expensive loans, such as parental loans, personal bank loans, or Supplemental Student Loans that come with higher interest rates and begin accruing interest soon after they're issued, compounding the rising costs of college education.

"This is going to be a tough year for a lot of students," said University of Nebraska, at Omaha, financial aid director Phil Shreves.

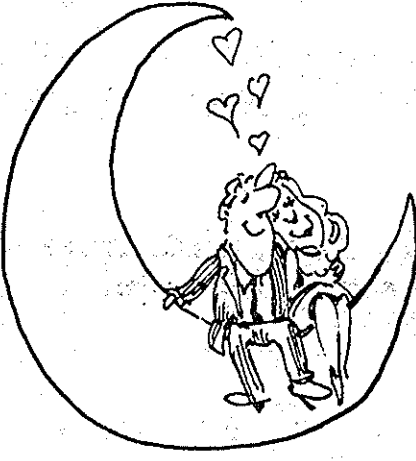

Thirty-five percent of the UNO students who received GSLs last year won't receive GSLs this year, he estimated. Of the remaining students, Shreves said, "only a few will have total eligibility."

To determine if a student could get a GSL in the past, financial aid counselors figured in the student's and parents' income, the number of dependents in the student's family and the number of children in that family that were in college.

Now the new Higher Education Act requires the counselor to include other money — like home values and investments — in deciding if the student needs a GSL.

As a result of adding in the "other sources of income" to a family's wealth, many families

Mental health day set to erase stereotypical views

YSU — "Mental Health Awareness Day," sponsored by YSU's Student Government in cooperation with the Co-op Live-in Grace Foundation Group, Co-op Consumer Support Group and Help Hot Line, has been set for Oct. 7 at YSU.

The purpose of "Mental Health Awareness Day" is to help erase some of the stereotype beliefs concerning those who are mentally ill and to make the public aware of the oppressive conditions that sometimes surround them.

The program will open at 1:30 p.m. in the Ohio Room, Kilcawley Center with an introduction, followed by three speakers: Dr. George Letchworth, director of YSU's Counseling and Health Services; Dr. A. James Giannini, psychiatrist at Northside Medical Center of Western Reserve Care System; Irene Halverstadt, social worker at Woodside Receiving Hospital and Grace Sheehan, coordinator for the Co-op Live-in Grace Foundation, a family support organization.

An open forum at 3:15 will conclude the program.

Film festival on sex to be held

YOUNGSTOWN — In conjunction with National Family Sexuality Education Month which supports parents as the primary sexuality educators of their children, Planned Parenthood of Mahoning Valley will sponsor a family film festival for parents and their pre-teen and teenage sons and daughters.

Supported in part by a grant from Warren Junior Crafts, the film festival will be held Wednesday, Oct. 14, 4 p.m. at Planned Parenthood of Mahoning Valley, Inc., 418 S. Main Ave., Warren, Ohio, for the convenience of Trumbull County residents.

"Choices: The Mating Game," an innovative videotape intended to help young people make responsible choices in relation to their emerging sexuality will be shown.

Lucy Cailor, Education Director, will answer questions and a packet of educational materials will be given to those attending. Reservations and a $2 donation are requested to cover the cost of the materials. Reservations will be accepted until Oct. 9, 1987 by calling the Education Department at 788-6506. Those unable to attend the program may also call the Education Department regarding information about purchase of the "Parent Packets" and also Planned Parenthood's new book How to Talk With Your Child About Sexuality.

Balanced budget is only way to solve deficit

By BRIAN M. RAMSEY
Jambar Contributor

A balanced budget amendment to the Constitution is the only way to correct the deficit problem, Nobel Laureate James M. Buchanan told an audience in Kilcawley Center last Thursday.

Blaming Congress for a strong inclination to create budget deficits, Buchanan, winner of the 1986 Nobel Prize for Economic theory, spoke to a crowd of more than 200 people in Kilcawley's Ohio Room about "The Political Economy of Deficits."

During his speech he repeatedly urged the public to call for a constitutional amendment which would require a balanced budget, because he said that he feels legislators cannot resist the political pressure of their constituents to increase spending without increasing taxation.

To help the audience understand how our government and those of all other representative democracies (except Switzerland) have become dependent on deficit spending, Buchanan gave a review of past economic history.

In America, for nearly 150 years, until the time of the so-called Keynesian revolution, "The principal of a balanced budget was an effective part of our fiscal (financial) constitution, a part of the old-time fiscal religion," Buchanan said.

Buchanan explained that the original philosophy of Keynesian economics was to use deficit spending to stimulate economic growth during recessions with the intent of raising taxes during economic expansion to repay the debt created during the recessions.

"When Keynesian economists suggested using the federal budget as a primary tool to stimulate the economy, they forgot to ask themselves if the principle would work in a representative democracy where elected officials are responsive [as they should be] to the demands of their constituents," Buchanan added.

"The predominant view of economists came to be that there was no basis for the old principle of a balanced budget, that there was no justification for attempts to balance the budget...and that the budget should be used as the primary tool to achieve macro-economic objectives such as full employment or economic growth," said Buchanan.

"Once having indicated to our political leaders that budget deficits may be justified in certain circumstances, these political decision makers almost naturally decided to create deficits in fair weather and foul," said Buchanan.

Buchanan said that the first time the federal government borrowed money without making any attempt to pay it back was World War II.

"It wasn't until the 1960s that deficit spending became politically acceptable as the norm," he added.

According to Buchanan, what he feels is morally wrong about permanent, mounting deficits is that, "Basically what we have is

Seminar teaches fire prevention techniques

By NEWS SERVICE

"Play it safe...plan your escape," is the 1987 theme for Fire Prevention Week which is being held this week. This year's event focuses on home fire escape planning and preparedness, and encourages families to set aside time during the week to develop and practice a home fire escape plan.

In observance of Fire Prevention Week, the University is offering Fire Suppression and Detection Seminars on Oct. 6 and 8 for faculty, staff, students and the public.

Each ninety minute session will be led by Ronald P. Aey, associate director of YSU's Facilities Maintenance Department. Aey has more than 16 years of experience in the field of fire

University seeks United Way goal

YSU — The University Community is urged to turn in pledge cards for YSU's 1987 United Way Campaign, which ends Oct. 23.

As of September 30, 134 persons at the University had pledged a total of $13,558 or 33 percent of this year's goal. The YSU United Way Employee Campaign Committee hopes to raise $41,000 this year toward the Youngstown Area United Way's goal of $2,750,000.

Last year, YSU faculty and staff members pledged a total of $39,800.

Those who did not receive a pledge card are urged to call extension 3130 to obtain one.

Nearly one of three people in the greater Youngstown area will receive some direct service or aid from one of the more than 30 United Way agencies in the coming year.

Time has come for support

The YSU Penguins should be applauded for their first home victory against Northeastern Saturday afternoon. The Penguins have taken their share of criticism over the past few years. Jim Tressel, second-year head coach, took some lumps after a 2-9 1986-87 campaign — now he deserves a little praise. Trenton Lykes, senior quarterback, re-wrote the YSU record books on Saturday by breaking Ron Jaworski's passing record of 4,612 yards. Lykes was 24-35 for 235 yards on the day and stands by himself with a total 4,835 yards. Lykes is also the only player in YSU history to complete over 400 passes. The best news is, this is only the third game of the season and Lykes has seven games left in a YSU uniform. Many students use the excuse that if YSU had a good football team, they would be supportive and show school pride like other "real" colleges. Well...let's go, put your money where your mouth is. The team is 2-2 on the year, they beat BGSU, a power in the Mid-American Conference, and they have a quarterback who just broke a record set by a standout professional football player. If that is not enough for YSU students and it is Buckeye ball you are looking for, you had better travel south and plan on spending a little more money on tuition.

Although one home victory does not a playoff team make, it is a start in the right direction and the Penguins deserve to hope for that promised support.

Think of the consequences. You may have fun actually cheering for the home-town team; you may even attend a tail-gate party or loosen up enough to do a little partying; even go so far as to wear a YSU sweatshirt. God, the possibilities are just endless.

Maybe that is going a little far. Apathy is the foundation at this University. Apathy is actually the lifeline at YSU. People, organizations and administrators are accustomed to the lack of emotion.

As a matter of fact maybe the football team is way out of line in trying to improve, trying to give YSU a winning team, trying to give a Mr. Rogers' attitude to a pathetic, apathetic University located in a closed-down steel mill town.

The time for change has arrived and it is now up to the students on this campus to jump on the bandwagon or to keep sinking on the U.S.S. Apathy.

In a newspaper interview, two of the players talked of their happiness about the victory, but also expressed concern over the need for improvement. With an attitude like this, it would be hard to call a team losers, regardless of its record.

Stop being ashamed of the University and show some Penguin pride.

COMMENTARY

Apathy plagues Drive-thru U.

Can you believe there are actually students that graduate from YSU and have never seen the inside (or the outside for that matter) of Kilcawley Center? Others have never attended a football or basketball game, read The Jambar (pick one up, they're free and lately full of hot topics) or God forbid buy a Neon (YSU's yearbook).

Some students have never "done lunch" in the Wicker Basket, joined the Mug Club in the Pub or participated in any YSU activity.

Now, you do realize the number of active student organizations at YSU exceeds 160 social and academic clubs? This figure does not include Homecoming, Surf's Up, or Student Government, to name a few.

The student leaders at YSU have coined a term that would make a fourth grade English teacher proud — apathy.

It's a way to classify the behavior of the vast majority of students at YSU.

You know, the ones that complain to their friends and neighbors about a tuition increase, the chronic parking problem or any other campus issue. (Those seem like logical channels to achieve answers and results.)

But it doesn't matter what it's called, it boils down to an attitude problem that stinks.

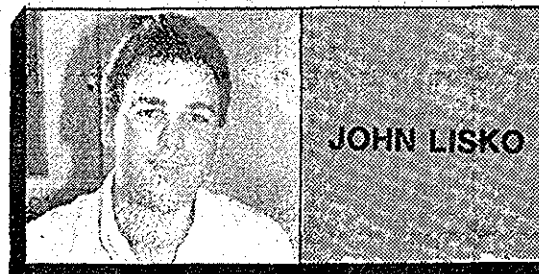

I think that instead of trying to write a commentary that will instill some form of life (no matter how primitive) into these deadbeats, I should say to hell with them and applaud the student leaders.

Student leaders: these are usually the chairmen of major events, presidents of clubs and organizations, or even active members who work nonstop.

These are the people who are on campus when the sun comes up and are here when the parking decks close.

They're involved in everything and anything.

These are the people who receive the recognition that they deserve, whether it be through a job or an award.

JOHN LISKO

And their peers, the deadbeats, attribute this success to luck.

That four letter word, luck, is obsolete.

Believe me, I can think of a few four letter words to respond to that one.

Freshman take note.

Rome wasn't built over night and becoming a leader doesn't just happen.

Today's campus leaders are tomorrow's community leaders.

Now is your chance to start taking advantage of the wealth of resources that are available to you at YSU.

Who wants to hear that I was supposed to go to OSU or I'm going next year. You're here now, and that's the bottom line.

You can sit back, be miserable and watch reruns of Leave it to Beaver and The All New Dating Game, or make something of yourself.

I'd suggest the latter.

Why not go through fraternity or sorority rush? (Yes Greeks, you read it in The Jambar. Go through rush!) Social fraternities offer an opportunity to become more involved in campus activities. They also allow people to become associated with a network that is alive at YSU — the Greek system.

Academic fraternities exist in virtually every major and enable students the opportunity to develop themselves as leaders and to make connections that will be important in the future.

Cites complaints on Jambar errors

Dear Editor,
The facts you cited in your editorial "Government does not compute" were correct. Let me applaud you. Your keen eye and sharp tongue are an inspiration for all. It permits one to expect absolute perfection while disregarding any depression or errors made by us lowly humans. You proved to your readers your ability to give criticism by the shovelful, but is it possible for you to receive any?

If so, what excuse do you use when ads, scheduled to run in Friday's paper, are instead placed in Tuesday classifieds? For example, the Phi Kappa Tau's jungle party. How many people showed up for their annual event on Tuesday only to find out they were three days early. This gives one much confidence and reassurance to advertise in the Jambar. It also questions your leadership ability.
What excuse do you use for the error in YSU parking statistics? The graphic in Tuesday's paper showed no parking problem at all. But your way out was to reprinting a new graphic and print that you "...regret the error..." As a competent editor of The Jambar, how could you permit these errors to slip past your "keen" eye?

I am curious for an explanation but remember the following: claiming ignorance of what is printed in The Jambar is no excuse. Citing this was your first paper is no excuse. Not having enough time to prepare is again, no excuse.

There's Student Government where you can be a cabinet member, a representative or Academic Senate. Standing committees like Homecoming and Surf's Up bring life to the campus for weeks during the year; and so on....

Many community leaders refer to YSU as the best kept secret around. Low cost does not mean low quality.
How many of you buy your clothes at designer outlets and don't think twice about the money you save?
The opportunities that exist at YSU are endless and it's up to you to make the most of them.
The current leaders of YSU deserve applause; stand up and be counted, for you are few and far between.

Future leaders shouldn't be afraid to take risks; take advantage of what you're paying for.
And make the most of what is probably the most significant experience of your life...your college experience.
Good Luck.

Groups call for Rush order

By VANNESSA MOSES
Jambar Creek Editor

The Sororities and Fraternities here on the YSU campus are quickly rushing around trying to get the last minute details on Rush.

The three nationally sponsored sororities have been hard at work all summer long, on what is termed Formal Rush. Panhellenic Council would like to encourage all women to sign up for Rush.

To sign up for sorority rush, interested women should see Pucci Castor or Lynn Haug in Staff offices located on the second floor of Kilcawley Center. The registration fee is $3. Interested rushees can also sign up Thursday night at the first Rush party. The first party begins at 6:00 in the Special Lectures Lounges.

Fraternity Rush was kicked off Monday, September 28. There was a Rush Reception in the Ohio Room of Kilcawley Center, which was immediately followed by an open house at each of the fraternity houses. Fall Rush, which is sponsored by Interfraternity Council will continue through October 9.

Once again, Rush, is a campus involvement, excitement, and friends that will stick by you through sick and sin.

The Foundation recognizes President Truman's high regard for the public trust, his lively exercise of political talents, his broad knowledge and understanding of the American political system, and his desire to enhance educational opportunities for young people.

Harry S. Truman Scholarships are awarded on the basis of merit to students who will be college juniors in the 1988-89 academic year and who have an outstanding potential for leadership in government and related public service. To be considered, a student must be nominated by her or his college or university using the official nomination materials provided to each participating institution.

Each scholarship covers eligible expenses in the following categories: tuition, fees, books, and room and board, to a maximum of $6,500 annually for up to four years. Two scholarships will be awarded to each of the 50 states. YSU is permitted to nominate two students for the scholarships. Students who are interested in applying may get an application from the Student Activities office in Kilcawley Center. All nominated students will receive an application in the mail. We must have your recommendations no later than Monday, Oct. 5, 1987.

For information, contact Rich Delisio, Kilcawley Center, no later than Monday, Oct. 5, 1987.

Board calls competency tests unfair

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Making students take "competency" and other kinds of standardized tests tends to make courses "narrower" and keeps minority students out of colleges, the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB) said last week.

The tests, SREB researcher Rodney Reed of the University of California at Berkeley said, should be used only as "diagnostic" tools.

Instead, Reed found schools used them "to pass irreversible judgment" on students' ability and motivation.

Reed's study of what happened when students in Louisiana and North Carolina took competency tests also discovered they took a toll on minority high school students.

More white students pass the tests on the first try, the study revealed.

Some 97 percent of white high school juniors passed North Carolina's reading test on the first try between 1978-85, compared to 82 percent of the black students.

Similar results were found on the math exam.

Without passing scores, students cannot advance to upper level course work, or graduate.

The National Security Agency is looking. We're in search of new professional relationships with both Mr. and Ms. Right. What we offer in return is a unique career that may well be the answer to your personal desires.

What we offer is certainly different. At NSA, our threefold mission is critical to our country's security. We process foreign intelligence information. We safeguard our government's communications. And we secure our nation's computer systems. A mission of that proportion requires a diverse range of leading technology and talented professionals.

Currently, NSA is searching for Mathematicians, Computer Scientists, Language Specialists and Electronic Engineers.

Our Mathematicians work with applied and pure math. They apply—and create—a host of advanced concepts from Galois theory and combinatorics to probability theory and astrodynamics.

Computer Scientists discover a variety of projects and technology that is virtually unparalleled. We use literally acres of computers, including hardware from every major manufacturer. Applications include everything from communications software to artificial intelligence.

Language Specialists in Slavic, Near East, and Asian languages contribute to our mission in many ways. NSA linguists tackle the challenges of translation, transcription and analysis. They use both their language skills and their knowledge of world events.

Electronic Engineers also find a vast array of specialties from Signal Processing and CAD/CAM to Speech Processing and Computer Security.

The mission is vital, the variety staggering. And the benefits are also impressive. Our employees enjoy competitive compensation plus the many advantages of the Baltimore-Washington area.

If you're in search of a meaningful career with variety and distinction, look to NSA. Schedule an interview through your College Placement Office. Or write to us at the address below.

Officials explain cost hikes

COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

A number of college officials went to Washington recently to explain why student tuitions are rising so fast.

Speakers from Washington University of St. Louis, the University of Missouri, California at Los Angeles and the American Council on Education, among others, paraded before the House Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education Sept. 14-16 to defend themselves against U.S. Secretary of Education William Bennett's assertion that many tuition increases are unnecessary.

"Department of Education officials have criticized campus officials because tuition has been rising faster than inflation in recent years," complained UCLA's Dr. Kenneth Green.

"However, what they have not (said) is that campuses are allocating more funds for student aid because fewer college students are now eligible to participate in various federal aid programs."

"In most instances," said Arthur Hauptman of the American Council on Education, "the increase in aid has been financed by larger tuitions charged to all students. This is sometimes referred to as the Robin Hood effect."

University of Missouri President C. Peter Magrath conceded that tuition in Missouri has gone up an average of 11 percent during the 80s, as the Consumer Price Index (CPI) has risen an average of only 5.3 percent.

Shooting

 According to published reports, the victim, Jackson, had been heading eastbound on the service road to I-680 at approximately 7 p.m. when her car was rammed from behind.

Witnesses said Jackson's car spun out of control and hit a fence while the other auto struck a concrete island and blew out its front tire.

According to witnesses' reports, the gunman got out of his car and approached Jackson's auto. He allegedly fired at least four shots through the driver's open window. Jackson was pronounced dead at 7:20 p.m. at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Published reports state that the shooting was a result of an ongoing argument about money. Mitchell is being held in the city jail.

YSU urges use of bike racks

JAMBAR REPORTS

If you are one of those students who rides a bike to school, you may not be aware of all the bike rack locations on campus. Bike racks are scattered around campus specifically for safely securing bicycles.

According to a recent memo from the Grounds Department, "Bikes that are chained to trees, light posts, fences, etc., will be removed and taken to the Security Department."

Tuition

miscellaneous items.

Investments, transfers, surcharges, student fees and charges, and state appropriations, all add to the $59 million YSU will use during the year.

For three years the instructional fee has remained the same. It was raised last year in order to meet the costs of inflation and to give our faculty a raise. This increase was only seven percent.

The general fee accounts for the rise in tuition this year from $110 to $115. Many student groups and facilities obtain their only means of support from this fund, while about half add to their portion of money through funds they earn themselves. Each student attending YSU helps pay for the student activities and services found on campus. These include auxiliary enterprises such as: inter-collegiate athletics, Kilcawley Center and WYSU-FM. Each of these enterprises receives a percentage of the general fee which is supplemented by money they are able to raise.

Student activities and services which benefit from the general fee are: Career Services, student publications, Student Government, Intramurals, Day Care Services, Counseling and Health Services, Scholarships and Financial aids, the Marching Band, the Special Lecture Series, the shuttle, Forensics, the Dana Concert Series and others. Each of these services receive a percentage of the fund. Only half are able to add to this fund.

One question students may have is, who decides how much is given to each group? The answer deals with a General Fee, Review Committee and the group to receive funds. Each group yearly submits a request for the amount of money they feel that they require. This amount is then studied by the Committee.

Charles McBriarty, chair, along with Marvin Robinson, president, Student Government; Carmelann Alfano, education; Robert Nischwitz, business; Kim Orr, CAST; and Carol Sorenson, education, review the requests and make recommendations.

From 1977-80, the general fee remained at $55, increasing in 1981 when day care facilities were added. In 1982, the fee was increased to $70 to pay for Stambaugh Sports Complex. This figure remained until the 1985-86 year when the addition of WYSU-FM and the YSU shuttle service forced the fee to $110.

Past tuition hikes have been made in the general fee to meet needed improvements in student activities.

McBriarty said that students can find relief in the fact that "YSU has one of the lowest general fees in the nation."

Educator, author to highlight event

YSU — Irene Bandy, assistant superintendent of public instruction, Ohio Department of Education; Betty Edwards, noted educator and author; and a special program in support of education by four NASA officials will highlight the annual fall In-Service Day for Mahoning County teachers and administrators on Friday, Oct. 9.

Bandy will be the keynote speaker as part of the Dean's Eminent Educator Lecture Series, addressing the roles of the educator in "Kids Are for Car-ing." A question and answer period for administrators will follow. Most of the sessions will be held in Kilcawley Center.

Edwards, of California State University, will speak on "Tapping the Creative R-Mode," (a talk on art in education) at 10 a.m. in the new addition of the Butler Institute of American Art. Her presentation is open to the public as well as area teachers. YSU will host the event, geared for educators involved in teaching grades K-12.

Ron Thomas, director of the Space Station Systems at Lewis Research Center, and a Mahoning Valley graduate, will be recognized at the event.

The In-Service planning committee will offer a series of one-hour concurrent sessions of a wide range of interest areas from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Educators from the county school systems, community agencies and YSU faculty will be the speakers.

Representatives from the "Ohio Professional Bookmen of America" and computer companies will offer teachers the opportunity to review new educational materials.

"But — no, no. They (the government) spend trillions of dollars for nuclear arms. The government is neglecting all the important things while worrying about intimidating all the other countries."

In order to change this, Spock advocated civil disobedience, cautioning his audience that this would not require anything "outrageous or dangerous."

He advised his audience to be more politically active, to persevere in order to change the political climate and to vote discriminately. According to Spock, the majority of Americans are in favor of disarmament, yet they elect presidents who continue the nuclear arms race.

the financial appropriations chair, about requests for travel funds from four organizations.

The African American Student Leadership Corp. requested $955.10 to travel to a regional conference at Ohio University. Government denied the request for the full amount, but granted the group $225.50. The representatives would not grant $732.60 for mileage covering 1110 miles and three vehicles.

The Intercollegiate Programming Team was granted $251.90 to attend a programming competition in Louisville, Ky.

The body also gave unanimous approval, after discussion, of $208.88 for Alpha Epsilon Rho, the honorary broadcasting fraternity to travel to a regional conference at Ohio University. Questions arose about the group wanting to send eight people to the conference, but the body approved funding for the full amount.

The final group, the Society of Women Engineers requested $315.26 to attend a regional conference at Ohio University. The request was approved, but one no vote was recorded, citing 15 group members was too many people to send.

Government also gave unanimous approval to two resolutions.

The first resolution calls for the Special Projects and Research Committee to assist in forming an ad hoc committee to look into four reports that have been developed on day care on or off campus for YSU students.

After a lengthy discussion, the body gave unanimous approval to form a committee and have a report prepared no later than Feb. 1, 1988.

The second resolution approved was to transfer $1,000 to the Substance Abuse and Alcohol Support Group (S.A.A.S.G.).

Student Government has always sponsored National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness week, but this year the S.A.A.S.G. offered to handle the event.

Therefore, Government voted to transfer the funds that had been budgeted for that event to the group.

In other Government action, Second Vice President Amy Otley announced that WSBA representative Jim Moran, chair of the discipline committee, had resigned and will be replaced by Cindy Peters, WSBA.

Loan

look like they earn too much to qualify for the low-cost loans.

"We've had more denials as GSL eligibility has gotten tighter," said Don Davis of Texas' financial aid office.

The Higher Education Act of 1986 also raised the maximum annual GSL from $2,500 to $4,000.

Particularly hurt by the new requirements, said Dan Davenport of the University of Idaho financial aid office, are graduate students and older students.

Income from teaching or research assistant jobs now is added to a student's assets when determining GSL eligibility, Davenport said, reducing or eliminating loans graduate students received in the past. "Non-traditional" students also must declare their spouse's income, also cutting or eliminating loans, he added.

Despite the tighter GSL eligibility requirements, Martin said the financial aid picture "looks pretty favorable," since students still have access to other, though more expensive loans.

"We thought we'd see a decrease in total available funds," Davis said, "but there's just as much money and there are just as many students applying for aid. We've processed as many, or more, applications as we did last year."

"We're funded at the same levels as last year," Davenport added. "Frankly, this is a more stable year than last year," said Colorado College financial aid Director Rodney Oto.

Martin contended that although the U.S. Department of Education continues to approve financial aid, students are not receiving as much assistance as they have in the past.

Much of the actual dollar increase, he said, is used to pay off defaulters' loans.

Changes in aid-distribution have created "an increasing student indebtedness," Martin said. The Pell Grant program, once the dominant form of federal student assistance, has been slashed. Loans are now the dominant form.

"There has been no increase in true student aid," said Martin. "This has not been a growth industry. There are actually fewer dollars to go around."

"High-ability students from low-income families are not being served," Martin added. "That's a loss of talent we're not providing for. It's unfortunate."

Terilynn Sanford almost counted herself as one of the unfortunate students who couldn't afford college this year.

"I was afraid I'd get shut out," she said, but, with Davis' help, Sanford reapplied and will receive a GSL to continue her schooling.

"I'm praying for that check to get here," she said. "I haven't been able to buy books yet 'cause I only have $20 to my name at this point."

the intergenerational transfer of debt — those of us who live here and now are using goods and services that members of tax-paying groups in future generations are going to have to pay for."

We are, as ultimate political decision makers choosing to enjoy benefits without the cost, thereby shifting these costs onto those who cannot now express their opinion even indirectly through the voting booth.

Buchanan said that the effect of continued deficit spending will be that competition for funds will drive interest rates up. This problem is compounded by the fact that much of the debt of the 1980s is held by foreigners, he added.

Buchanan said that permanent deficit spending has another drawback.

"In 1986 alone the budget deficit was $2000 per tax-paying unit. At an interest rate of just 10 percent, this permanently reduces the effective purchasing value of each tax-paying unit by $200, to pay for 1986 alone."

Buchanan warned that, "We have been, in effect, financing our debt with Japanese savings. This foreign source of funds may shift dramatically as the dollar falls in international value and may create major problems for us in 1988 and beyond."

Buchanan said that legislation such as the Gram-Rudman-Hollings Bill will probably not be effective in the long term because the enforcement part of the bill has been struck down by the Supreme Court.

Since the Court's decision, the only thing lawmakers have been able to agree on has been to extend the deadline for a balanced budget by another three years, he added.

Since GRH is legislated Buchanan predicted that it would eventually be ignored by Congress.

"Without a balanced budget amendment we may expect that there will be occasional reductions in the deficits like there were last year, but never a reduction in the outstanding debt," he said.

This is not Kansas anymore — it's YSU's Homecoming

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar Entertainment Editor

Looking for something to do because classes have already got you down and it's only the third week of school?

Take heart and cheer up, folks, because Homecoming '87 is ready to get underway.

"There's No Place Like Home-coming" is the theme this year, based on the film classic, The Wizard Of Oz. Like the 1939 movie that continues to treat audiences of all ages, YSU

Homecoming '87 will be a melting pot of exciting events, thrills and excitement.

"Over The Rainbow" is the theme for Homecoming's opening celebration, which will start at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 13, under the portico of Kilcawley Center. Dorothy, the Scarecrow, the Tin Man and the Cowardly Lion will be on hand to help kick off the events.

At noon, University President Neil D. Humphrey will officially open Homecoming, with assistance from Youngstown Mayor Pat Ungaro. Others taking part will be members of the Homecoming Court, cheerleaders, coaches and members of the Penguin football team.

Student Homecoming Chairperson, Vicki Spirtos, junior, CAST, will be assisted by Opening Ceremony Coordinator, Madonna Barwick, sophomore, A&S, Mid-Week Activities Coordinators Chrissie Bond, sophomore, A&S, and Phil Commins, junior, WSBA, and Contest Coordinators, Sam McKinney, junior, A&S, and Michael Thomas, junior, A&S.

The Homecoming Dance will be held at 9:30 p.m. in Kilcawley Center's Chestnut Room. It's being billed as a come-as-you-are party (everything from tuxedos to jeans) and features live music from the band Astra.

Many events will be taking place during the rest of the week, including a Dr. Eldoonie Medicine Show in the YSU Arcade starting at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 13; a rock concert featuring the band Avant Garde in the Chestnut Room of Kilcawley Center starting at 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 14; impressionist John Roarke will perform at noon in the Chestnut Room on Thursday, Oct. 15; a Star Search Talent Show will be held in the M-20 parking lot from 5 to 7 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 16, concluding with a bonfire with music provided by the YSU Pep Band.

Crowning of the Homecoming King and Queen will take place Saturday, Oct. 17, at halftime of

Review

Someone To Watch Over Me sneak preview is rich

By JAMIE OWEN
Jambar Reporter

Saturday evening's sneak preview of Columbia Pictures' "Someone To Watch Over Me," written by Howard Franklin and directed by Ridley Scott, treated its packed house to a movie bountiful in convincing character portrayal, full, warming scenery and a wide range of music.

Sting croons a ballad as night in New York opens the movie, the camera slowly moving down from a full shot of the light-be-speckled city to the apartment of Michael Keegan (Tom Berenger, the vampire from Fright Night), whose wife is having a party in honor of his recent promotion to detective.

The scene suddenly shifts to a crowded, posh nightclub where Clair Gregory (Mimi Rogers), a stunning, rich socialite, wanders into the club's deserted art gallery only to witness a brutal murder.

Like a Sheldon novel, the two plot lines eventually meet when Keegan is assigned to the murder and has to keep Gregory under protective observation. They soon become entangled as Keegan, after a personal threat to Gregory by the killer-at-large, tries to comfort the distraught woman with a hug and ends up spending the night.

The viewer, throughout the action so far, can revel in the richness with which each scene is shot. The lighting and mood set by the camera makes the otherwise cold, clean, marble-walled apartment of Gregory just as inviting and comfortable as Keegan's Bronx apartment and (and then make it just as bloody, as things develop). In the same vein, the Wagner and Beethoven constantly playing in the Gregory home is as relaxing as the more contemporary music heard at Keegan's place and the big band music during other scenes in the movie.

As with any schmuck who fools around on his spouse, he's bound to get caught — and caught he is. After a superb scene where Keegan's wife Elie (Lorraine Bracco) ends their cards-on-the-table confrontation with a good left hook to his jaw, we discover that the killer has been keeping close tabs on Keegan as well as Gregory. In a series of scenes that developed much too quickly to match the sit-back pace of the rest of the film, the killer traps Keegan literally into choosing between Gregory and his wife and family in an on-the-edge-of-the-seat climax.

Although this release contains some characteristics of other films, like the domestic taste of Hanna and Her Sisters and an attempt at the intensity of Fatal Attraction, it holds its own. The characters are played, though not magnificently, well enough so that at least one doesn't note anything negative about their performances; the plot line is not entirely predictable; Keegan's rich New York accent is very well done and Gershwin's "Someone to Watch Over Me," done by Roberta Flack during the credits, is a pleasant way to leave the film. The movie is certainly entertaining and is worth the $4.

YSU win over Huskies is 'dog-gone' good

By MARK S. ARP
Jambar Sports Reporter

A crowd of 8,795 fans braved the cold and rain Saturday afternoon to cheer the Penguins on to a 29-14 victory over the Northwestern University Huskies.

It proved to be an eventful afternoon for YSU backers as earlier in the day, 12 new members were inducted into the YSU Athletic Hall of Fame and later in the afternoon, quarterback Trenton Lykes rewrote the record books.

The Penguins' victory was highlighted by the record-breaking performance of senior signal caller Lykes.

Lykes became YSU's all-time leading passer as he collected 253 yards through the air, completing 24 of 35, two for TDs. Lykes surpassed Ron Jaworski's previous record of 4,612 yards to run his total to 4,835. He also became the first player in YSU history to go over 400 completions for a career.

The Penguins took the opening kickoff and drove 76 yards, with the help of a Huskie roughing the kicker penalty to paydirt. Lorenzo Davis was the table-setter, getting the Penguins in scoring position on a 34 yard jaunt. Lykes then took to the air on an 11 yard strike to Elliot Fedd, capping off a 10 play drive for the first score of the game.

The Huskies bounced back and mounted an offensive attack of their own, as they marched 75 yards in 10 plays. The Huskies connected for 47 yards on their first play from scrimmage on a Jim O'Leary pass to Ray Gee. Brian Walker finished off the Northeastern drive on a one yard plunge.

The two point conversion failed and YSU led 7-6.

Inside linebacker Paul Soltis set up the next Penguin score, recovering a Huskie fumble on the Northeastern 21. John Dowling later connected on a 25 yard field goal, his first of two in the contest, bringing the score to 10-6.

YSU picked up another two points in the second quarter when a Northeastern center snap on a punt attempt sailed over punter Bill Sansone's head. Sansone alertly recovered the ball, and ran out of the end zone, giving YSU a 12-6 edge.

Receiving the free kick after the safety, YSU marched 51 yards to their second touchdown. The drive was highlighted by Lykes, engineering air strikes to Maury Bibent, Lorenzo Davis and Fedd. Fedd once again was Lykes' target on a nine yard completion for the score. After Dowling's PAT, YSU led 19-6 at halftime.

The Penguins received the second half kickoff as well and drove 70 yards in 12 plays.

Archie Herring and Steve Jones highlighted that march with receptions of 14 and 16 yards respectively. YSU ran the score up to 26-6 on a one yard

Golfers up fall record to 33-10; spikers post first win

This past weekend was perhaps one of the busiest in YSU history. In addition to our fine football team being in action, the YSU cross country teams, tennis team, golf team and volleyball team were in action; also, 12 new members were inducted into the YSU Athletic Hall of Fame. It certainly was a red letter weekend for YSU Athletics.

The Penguin golf team upped its fall record to an impressive 33-10-0 mark. The team finished third with a team score of 393 this weekend at the Wooster Invitational. Slippery Rock won the event with a 383 team total.

Once again Scott Karabin led the Penguin linkers with round scores of 76/76 for a 152 total, good enough for third place overall at the meet.

Brian Garman placed second on the YSU squad with a 157 total. Teammate Scott Walker finished two strokes behind him with a 159 score. Gary Buttar added a 160 stroke score to the Penguins scoring and Scott Gladysz and Ed Sowers each carded 162s for YSU.

The Penguins round out their fall schedule next weekend at the Buckeye Fall Classic at Ohio State University.

YSU's Lady Penguin volleyball team posted their first win of the campaign while participating in the Lady Zip Invitational at the University of Akron.

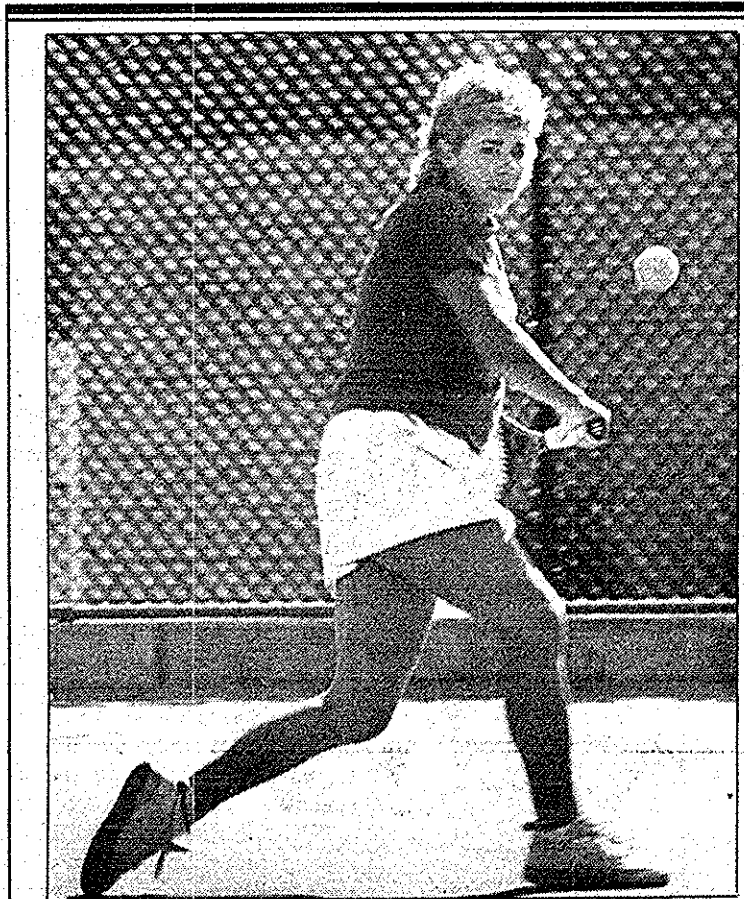

YSU opened the tourney with a win over Marshall. After dropping the first two games by scores of 15-7 and 15-12, YSU bounced back with straight wins by scores of 15-1, 17-15 and 15-13.

YSU then dropped a match to Wright State by scores of 15-7, 15-4 and 16-14. Cleveland State was YSU's next opponent and the Penguin spikers took the Lady Spartans the full five matches before meeting defeat. Host Akron was YSU's final foe in the tourney and took YSU in four games.

The ladies record is now 1-7 on the season and 0-2 in the OVC. YSU ventures to Kent State this Wednesday.
