Bookstore, 'Jambar' make the big move

NEW BOOKSTORE

The Jambar will be relocated at 629 Bryson Street beginning Winter Quarter in keeping with the university's expansion plans. Plans were to tear down the building which currently houses the Jambar facilities and relocate the bookstore building on the cleared site. Bids to relocate the bookstore building were too high and the move has been temporarily postponed.

The present Jambar building, at 39 Spring Street, will house other university offices for most of the remainder of the year. The bookstore was moved to a more spacious building on the Northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Grant Street.

The bookstore will be re-opened this Monday, for supply sales and the book buyback. Starting Wednesday, December 15, the bookstore will be open for text sales for next quarter.

The carpenter workshop is also situated in the bookstore building.

A new self-service type of operation that will be initiated and used except for the rush periods. Faster check-out counters will also cut down on the rush to buy books.

The bookstore will remain in this building until the completion of the new Student Center, when the bookstore will move again.

The "new" Jambar building, formerly a home has been divided into apartments and was owned by former YSU instructor, Michael Evans. It stands next to the house Tri-Sigma sorority moved into earlier this year.

The building will also be shared by the Dana School of Music who will use the second floor as a practice area. The Jambar will have the basement and first floors.

The basement will house the darkroom while the editor's office, secretary's office, newsroom, advertising office, and the make-up room will be on the first floor.

Kilcawley 'bust' nets five students on 'grass' charges

Five YSU students were charged with possession and use of marijuana in Kilcawley's Men's Residence Hall the night of November 15.

The students, one sophomore and four freshmen, appeared before the University Discipline Committee on Tuesday, November 30.

All five of them were found guilty and placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the academic year. Four of the students, residents of Kilcawley will not be permitted to live on campus during the 1972 winter or spring quarters.

YSU will air TV by Sept. '72 as part of NE Ohio network

YSU can expect to have television by September 1, 1972, said Stephen Greevich, director of radio broadcasting, if the state can complete its present time table.

YSU, Akron and Kent State have joined together to form the North Eastern Educational Television of Ohio. The transmitter and tower will be located at Salem, and the three campuses will be linked by microwave.

This television station will be educational, funded by the state legislature and the Ohio TV Network Commission. It will be staffed by professional personnel and students.

Greevich said that this new facility will expand education and enrich leisure time. The station will operate much like other educational stations. Morning and early afternoon programming will consist of instructional type shows aimed at the elementary through high school audience.

The evening programs will be public oriented. College level courses as well as other informative programs will be broadcast.

By next fall educational television will be wide-spread throughout Ohio, Greevich said.

Greevich said that there is a possibility that sports may be broadcast by 1974.

At the present time studios are lacking to take care of this type of broadcasting.

The North Eastern Educational Television of Ohio will manage the transmissions.

The state of Ohio has hopes of forming a state-wide network which could be distributed throughout the state to all other educational stations. This YSU-Akron-Kent station is just a part of the vast educational network being instituted in Ohio.

English offers two 'specials'

"Development of the Psychological Novel," and "Parallels in Modern and Renaissance Drama" will be the respective topics for the English department's special topics courses this winter and spring quarters, announced Dr. Mary V. Hare, chairman of the department curriculum committee, Wednesday.

"Development of the Psychological Novel," to be offered next quarter will deal with such authors as Richardson, Austen and James and will be taught by Dr. Mary Alice Budge, assistant professor of English.

The course to be offered in the spring is "Parallels in Modern and Renaissance Drama" which will be taught jointly by Drs. Lewis Rosenthal and James Henke. Drs. Rosenthal and Henke have interests in the Renaissance and in the theatre.

Dr. Henke says that the course will point out the parallels between Renaissance and modern literature, such as the use of violence, sexuality, and grotesqueness in the literature of both periods. He stressed that there seemed to be a fascination with these characteristics in both periods.

Rites held for YSU maintenance chief

Funeral services were held at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at Belmont Cemetery Chapel for Howard E. Rice, 69, who was Building Maintenance Foreman at YSU.

Mr. Rice died on Monday at Youngstown Osteopathic Hospital, after a year's illness.

Employed at the university since 1959, Mr. Rice was the afternoon superintendent stationed in the basement of Ward Beecher Science Hall.

He leaves his wife, the former Margaret Myers.

Dr. Friedrich W. Koknat's Article

Dr. Friedrich W. Koknat, assistant professor of chemistry, has had his article "Chemistry of Polynuclear Metal Halides IX." accepted for publication in the April, 1972 issue of the journal of Inorganic Chemistry. The paper, co-authored by Dr. Robert E. McCarley of Iowa State University, describes the crystal structure of a new cluster compound of niobium.

IEEE

The YSU student branch of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers (IEEE) has elected their new officers for 1972.

Veterans Administration Representative

A special representative of the Veterans Administration will be on YSU's campus next Thursday to help veterans in filing their certificate of attendance forms with VA.

Tom Richards, veterans advisor in the financial aids office, reports that the VA representative will be located in Room 12 of East Hall from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Earns Doctorate

Dr. Edward Mooney, Jr., assistant professor of physics, has earned his Ph.D. in physics, with a nuclear science and engineering option, from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Members Participation in Evaluation

Three members of the YSU faculty will participate in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools evaluation of Howland High School Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, December 5-7. The YSU faculty members are Dr. Wilbert M. Hammack, director of student teaching and assistant professor of education, Dr. Sidney I. Roberts, professor of history, and Dr. Robert E. Ward, associate professor of foreign languages and department chairman.

Tarantine, others, elected to fac. appeals committee

Dr. Frank J. Tarantine, professor of mechanical engineering, has been elected to a one-year term as chairman of the Faculty Appeals Committee.

The three other committee members are: Dr. Frederick J. Blue, associate professor of history to a three-year term, Dr. Thelma S. Miner, professor of English, to a two-year term and Dr. Joseph Kirschner, associate professor of education, one-year term.

The purpose of the committee is to act as an agency for the hearing of faculty grievances received from full and limited service faculty members, including those faculty serving as full-time or part-time administrators.

The Committee will also have the responsibility to make recommendations for improvement of the operation of the University.

Others running for the office of chairman were: Dr. Robert R. Hare, associate professor of English, Joseph J. Koss, assistant professor of economics, and E. Terry Deiderick, assistant professor of marketing.

The length of term for the three members was determined by the number of votes received by the nominees. The person with largest number of votes was elected to fill the 3-year term, the person with the second highest number of votes was elected to fill a 2-year term, and the person with the third highest number of votes was elected to the one-year term.

In the future one new member will be elected each year.

Library phase-out of Dewey will be finished next Dec.

The tedious switch from the Dewey Decimal System to the Library of Congress method which the YSU library has been undergoing since 1967 will hopefully be completed a year from now, Dr. George H. Jones, head librarian, said earlier this week. With the widespread use of computerization many other universities are in the process of switching their cataloging system to the Library of Congress.

Since all published books have a catalog number for the Library of Congress it is quicker and easier to get new books out on the shelves with this system, Dr. Jones said.

It also eliminated the troublesome question as to which subject to place a book under when using the Dewey Decimal System, he noted. He said the students seem unperturbed by the change as the regular staff works on the process whenever they have some free time. Next year the Library Committee will propose the installation of an electronic sensor device for the present library. The electronic sensor which has already been approved for the new library would help alleviate YSU's enormous book loss, estimated at 10,000 volumes per year.

Dr. Jones hopes to use both the electronic device and attendants because just the appearance of security guards discourages deviants.

Speaker on Middle East gives first JSFO talk

Dr. Ailon Shiloh, associate professor of anthropology at the University of Pittsburgh, spoke on the Arab-Israeli situation at the initial meeting of the Jewish Student Fellowship Organization Wednesday.

According to Rochelle Solomon, junior arts and sciences major and secretary of the organization, the fifty members of the university community in attendance also heard Dr. Shiloh speak on the city of Jerusalem, its origins and the origins of the three major religions of the area.

When speaking of the "sick situation" in the Middle East, Dr. Shiloh said, "I personally do not see in the near future any fundamental changes in the situation."

After an absence from campus of more than five years, the Jewish Student Fellowship of Youngstown State University has reorganized under Advisors Dr. Morris Slavin and Dr. Saul Friedman of the History Department.

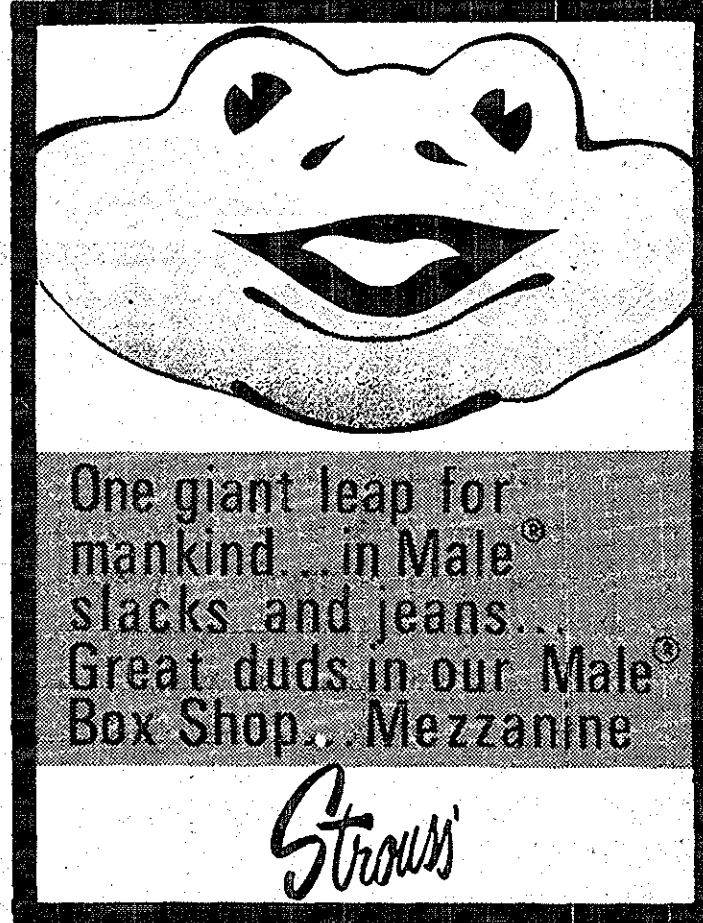

The Fellowship is open to all individuals of the academic community, including faculty and staff, without regard to race, creed or national origin and strives to advance the intellectual, social and cultural interests of all persons on the YSU campus.

During the next several months the Fellowship will sponsor numerous speakers on campus including Dr. Franz Gross, Dean of Duquesne University, Professor Howard Adelson, chairman of the graduate division, department of history, City University of New York; Professor Gerald Meister of Bergen Community College; and Rabbi Armand Chohen of Cleveland's Park synagogue.

The winter quarter will also see the Fellowship sponsor a two-day Israel Arts Festival, with exhibits from that state and four full-length motion pictures to be shown in two evenings.

Friends

This is the time of year when we all think of presents that we can give our loved ones, and the festivities that await us during the holidays.

This is also the time when we look forward to the coming year, and resolve to do some things, and not to do others.

This is also a good time of year to take time out from our daily lives to re-examine the way we live, act, and treat others.

We all-too-often are harsh and critical of others without reason. We are often quick to judge others and gossip about them when we are ourselves have the same or other foibles.

It is too easy to be callous of others' feelings, too ready with a cutting word or look. It is too easy for us to be brusque with those we don't know, and treat them as strangers. Indeed, they will remain strangers until we're friendly with them.

It's hard to be friendly when we're not sure the act will be reciprocated. It seems that the shells we take on in a mass university, in a mass society get too thick for our collective good. Hence, we often feel lonely, and huddle together in closely-knit cliques for a little warmth. Perhaps, if we all are a little more open with each other, a little more ready to smile, laugh, or just talk, we could make this a friendlier place to live and study.

This doesn't mean a "smile" campaign, like that sponsored by local merchants, but it does mean a willingness on our part to really be a friend to someone. Perhaps this could only come with our being more at home with ourselves, a little less afraid of others, and worried about what they think of us. It's hard to be secure, sure of oneself, in this anxious, schizoid, and neurotic world.

However this is one of the principle goals of a liberal education. It seems that it is something that cannot be taught. We must all learn to find ourselves. Others can help us, but we alone can make the discovery.

It isn't easy to do; it takes time, and struggle. How to live well is a bigger problem than a job and an education. It means getting together with ourselves, and our friends. It is a life-time problem, the ultimate koan, or riddle.

But then, that's what life's all about.

Letters to the Editor

Says Poddar is model prof.

Editor of the Jambar:

Assuming the right to express my opinion about faculty members, these are some of the criteria by which I form an opinion of any teacher:

1. Is he aware that I am a human being with a sincere desire to educate myself, or does he perform as if I am blind, deaf, and dumb and my sole purpose here is to occupy time and space?
2. Is he approachable, or does his voice have a condescending tone, do his eyes have a superior gaze, does he behave as if he has a patent on wisdom and no one so naïve as a student could venture to stand in equality?
3. Do I look forward to his class, or does he talk endlessly about matters of great personal interest to him, but which do not focus, knowing that he has a hopelessly captive audience?
4. Does it matter to him if what he is saying is relevant to my life and my generation, or does he peddle his information according to his dearly-beloved lesson plan because without it he would not even know what day it is?

5. Does he listen when I speak, or does he make me feel that if I dare challenge a word of what he has so carefully been trying to teach me that I will have accomplished a sacrilegious blunder?
6. Is the textbook a tool by which I learn to accept what is logical to me and reject the mythical and the prejudicial, or is it regarded as a divine gospel to be devoutly cherished and memorized?
7. Is he here because he feels he is fulfilling a genuine need, or would he likely sell his talents to the highest bidder?
8. Does he earn my respect, or does he demand it?

Sadly, teachers can often be found to exhibit many of the negative qualities described. But, my intention is not to denounce the majority of my teachers, but to praise one.

I have discovered that Dr. Poddar is a superior teacher. His teaching reflects all of the positive qualities of my criteria and more. Until now I have never known the joy and excitement of being in the classroom of a teacher as brilliant, modern, inspirational, and as human.

Those who are preventing Dr. Poddar from remaining on the faculty are cheating the students of this university out of an opportunity they deserve—to learn what it really means to become educated.

Claims OEA 'poll' is one-sided

To the editor of the Jambar:

I am strongly opposed to the spirit of blatant greed and gross impoliteness demonstrated by the local chapter of the OEA.

It is amazing to me that in the name of democracy and academic freedom they hold a poll that offers only one choice and they do not allow for public audit of the ballots. Students should be aware that their reason for existence is a master contract. When their money demands exceed the amount given by the state, the remainder will come from the pockets of the students.

I realize this makes me a "Gestapo Agent" since I am openly attacking democratic greed and free academic impertinence.

Sieg Hiel
Joseph Altinger
Assistant Professor Mathematics

Says writer mistaken on 'poll'

To the editor of the Jambar:

The "poll" to which Dr. Altinger refers is actually our attempt to persuade the faculty to authorize the YSU OEA as its bargaining agent.

The authorization forms will not be publicized by Judge Joyce, who is serving as escrow agent, in order that we can assure the confidentiality of the signature and thereby avoid any risks that a professor might take in signing the form.

We live in an unfortunate situation where many, many professors fear retaliation from their superiors if they identify with a group seeking collective bargaining.

As we have consistently indicated, the YSU OEA will happily submit to a secret ballot election if the administration refuses to accept Judge Joyce's affidavit in February. Our only aim is to provide total protection to the faculty member who signs not to pull off a hoax or engage in a subterfuge.

It remains Dr. Altinger's privilege not to sign the authorization form if he does not support collective bargaining on the campus. With the system we have set up, only the Judge will know what his position is, and he will therefore be spared any possible criticism from those either for or against collective bargaining.

Urge change in 'W' policy

To the editor of the Jambar:

The following letter was sent to Dr. Richley, Chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee. We feel it will be informative to the students of YSU:

Dear Dr. Richley,

At the November 29, 1971 meeting of Student Council, a motion was passed which recommends to the Academic Affairs Committee that the period to withdraw from a class be extended to the end of the eighth week. The motion also recommends that when a student receives a "W" for a class that this grade notation not be included in the student's final record.

I would like to present some points in support of this proposal.

(You may want to consider the supporting points separate from the proposed changes.)

In support of extending the "W" period is the fact that during the first six weeks of a quarter many professors offer only one test, and in some cases none at all. As a result, a student may not have a true indication of his class

Industrial Pollution

Industrial production is increasing about three times as fast as our population, this means an affluent society with a contaminated environment. This does not necessarily have to be true, if industry makes an initial investment in antipollution research.

Industries must find economical ways to achieve useful researching, if we are to be competitive in the international marketplace. This may sound very difficult in the short-run, but is it so very difficult spread over a long-run period?

The technology which is currently available along with 1.5 percent of our GNP could clean up industrial pollution. Water and waste treatment plants, through filtration, coagulation, sedimentation, flocculation, aeration, and other processes can neutralize practically all contaminants.

Republic Steel has constructed a waste-water treatment facility in the Cuyahoga Valley. U.S. Steel developed electrostatic precipitators and since this development have invested approximately $235 million in air and water pollution controls.

The Erie-Lackawanna, Pennsylvania mill of Bethlehem Steel and their new plant at Burns Harbor, Indiana are now cleaning up effluent pollution from steel and other mill operations.

This sounds impressive but the majority of plants are still pollution violators. Until just recently the laws which were made to protect the environment have not been enforced.

Individual and group pressure can cut down on the problem of pollution, but one must not have a negative attitude on every industry which tries to locate in its area.

This negation could cause another form of pollution—social pollution resulting from unemployment. The best criteria now available is that of the federal clean air and clean waters standards, when applying judgment to industries.

More Letters

standing at the end of the first six weeks.

The additional time would allow for more tests and, in some cases, work on projects which are an important part of the class grade.

In support of the second part of Council's recommendation, I wish the following things to be considered. When a class is dropped by the University, the student receives a "W" on his permanent record through no fault of his own. We have also received reports of students mistakenly using other students' Student Numbers (Social Security) when registering.

When the error is discovered, the student whose number was used receives "W's" for classes that were not taken. A mistake in registration or a change in work schedule resulting in withdrawal carries this grade connotating an academic reason for the withdrawal from the class.

If the proposal for dropping the "W" is not accepted, consideration could be given to the idea of using a different grade to denote an administrative reason for dropping a class.

We feel that a grade of "W" has at least some bearing on a student's permanent record and could possibly prejudice future educational and employment possibilities.

Thank you for your consider-

'Neon' will offer more coverage on all fronts in '72, says editor

"I intend to have expanded coverage on all fronts," said Neon editor James Larene, sophomore, arts and sciences, when he was asked about his plans for this year's yearbook.

Larene intends to fulfill his promise with many innovative sections. He will include complete coverage of campus activities and groups.

Feeling that blind students at YSU should have the opportunity to enjoy the book, he will include a page of copy printed in Braille. This is a first for YSU.

The faculty section will highlight the personalities of each faculty member chosen. Larene hopes to have each featured member express his own personal evaluation of 'himself. This concept of personality coverage will be in contrast to the "strictly business" image of the past, Larene said.

In response to faculty and administration complaints that last year's book has too little copy, this year's Neon will contain a much larger portion of copy.

In hope that the selections will be relevant to the 1971-72 school year, the selections will narrate the events that highlighted the year. At the same time, the Neon will feature excerpts from the creative writings of YSU students.

Larene hopes to reconcile complaints he received from Greek organizations who claimed that they didn't have sufficient coverage last year. He is dedicating a large portion of the book to them. Their group photos will be taken in the local community, highlighting their community interaction, he said.

The editor feels that his largest problem lies in getting the students to sign up for the book.

Only 884 books were ordered as of Monday. He feels that the students are wasting their Comprehensive Fee, which includes the book's cost, by not buying the yearbook.

ROTC boys will play soldier this month

The Rangers, an organization comprised of Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) cadets, will be traveling to the Allegheny National Forest Wednesday, December 15 for a three day field training exercise (FTX).

The departure time will be at 9 a.m. and two helicopters are tentatively scheduled to transport the cadets to and from the forest.

There will be instruction in rope work and rappelling, night maneuvers, and patrolling. The exercise will also include cooking some type of freshly killed game, instruction in map reading and a compass course.

The Rangers will also have simulated demolition operation an assault on a fixed position with a withdrawal across a rope bridge, and a night attack on the base camp.

New petition backs Poddar

YSU needs more professors who can communicate with students as well as Dr. Poddar, Mary Saulino, sophomore nursing major, said yesterday.

Mrs. Saulino is currently circulating a petition among the student body urging that Dr. Poddar be retained as a faculty member at YSU.

The petition will later be presented to the Board of Trustees. Anyone interested in signing the petition should contact Mrs. Saulino who will have a table set up from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Wednesday of finals week in Kilcawley Breezeway.

Two depts. offer open tax workshop

The departments of accounting and continuing education will offer a one-day workshop in "Income Tax Preparation" Saturday, December 11, in Room 287 of the Engineering Science Building.

The workshop is designed to help the beginner, as well as the more experienced tax practitioner, gain additional information about current tax laws. Discussion will center on preparing Form 1040, itemized deductions, extra incomes, rents and capital gains and losses.

Frank A. Fortunato, assistant professor of accounting, will be the instructor for the course, which will be offered from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The registration deadline is Thursday, December 9, with the fee set at $10.00. Registration forms are available at the YSU department of continuing education.

Army Captain Ronald Goodell, instructor from the Military Science Department and advisor of the Rangers, said that the purpose of the FTX is to orient the cadets in unconventional tactics and counterguerrilla-type operations.

The Rangers will return by helicopter Saturday morning, December 17.

Fifteen get graduate aid in engineering

Fifteen graduate students have been appointed in the School of Engineering Dr. Karl E. Krill, Dean of the Graduate School, announced yesterday.

According to Dr. Krill, duties of the graduate assistants include instruction, research, and other academic services as determined by the department to which they are assigned.

Awarded assistantships in mechanical engineering are Peter W. Becker, John Bernard Matisi, Jr., Robert R. Ramhoff, and Francis R. Krygowski; in metallurgical engineering are Michael J. Buczek, Michael J. Kramer, Arvind N. Patel and Covilur B. Sampathkumar; in electrical engineering are Cleothus Duncan, Jr., William W. Shope, Andrew Zvilna and Kin Ping Moy; and in civil engineering are Jatin M. Anadkat, Suravit Pitucklimskul and Davendra P. Dave.

Appointments of assistantships are made by the Dean of the Graduate School upon recommendation of the department concerned. The stipend for the first year is $2600 plus remission of tuition and fees, except for the comprehensive fee.

A total of 80 graduate assistants were appointed this year representing a total of $218,400 in financial aid to graduate students at YSU, with $203,200 coming directly from the University. The Youngstown Educational Foundation and the National Science Foundation make up the remainder of the total.

Two-way Bryson gets traffic lights

Bryson Street from Spring Street to the freeway is now open for two-way traffic, spokesman for Mr. John Pletnik, city traffic coordinator, said yesterday.

The spokesman also said that the city sign shop had removed all of the signs that designated Bryson Street as one way except for two signs on Spring Street.

The spokesman also said that the newly-installed traffic signals on Bryson at the corners of Spring and Elm streets will be operational in the very near future.

The opening of Spring Street to Fifth Avenue and the changing of Bryson Street to two-way traffic is being done to facilitate a steady flow of traffic from Elm Street, the spokesman said.

Evening:

a. Classes beginning at non-standard times (i.e., other than the above) will use the above table for the first time shown following their starting time (i.e., M 1700 will use M 1715 which is M/1730-1930; T/1900 uses T/1940 which is T/2000-2200).

b. Classes scheduled only one evening a week (except Friday) will meet that day at the closest starting time: 1730, 1800, 2000, or 2030 (i.e., W 1830 (only) meets W/1800-2000, M 1700 (only) meets M/1730-1930).

Friday evening and Saturday classes will begin at their regular hour on that day for final exams.

Notes:

1. If a student has three or more examinations on one day he should attempt to re-schedule one (or more) of those examinations on another day when the teacher has an examination.
2. Examinations must be held at the hour scheduled because the classroom may not be available at other times.
3. Final examinations are not to be given before the final examination schedule period.

Two SC members will attend Emergency New Voter talks

Two Student Council members will represent YSU at the Emergency Conference For New Voters, which will be held December 3-5 on the Loyola University campus in Chicago, in an attempt to "secure youth representation at next year's national conventions."

The two students representing YSU are Bill Jones, chairman of Student Council and Elaine Pochiro, Student Council vice chairman.

The conference is being sponsored by the heads of 100 student bodies, who hope to achieve "a new beginning for social justice in America's political parties." They have also committed themselves to ending the war, according to James A. Wechsler of the New York Post.

Plans for the conference were conceived by leaders of the Association of Student Governments. The ASG, once considered a bulwark of Nixonism, has steadily become a rallying-ground for students who still chose to operate in the political arena but have turned their backs on Nixon, Mr. Wechsler added.

The conference will include workshops and seminars on the organization of a nation-wide youth caucus network, delegate selection procedures, techniques for challenging state delegations and other aspects of the pre-convention activities.

The conference will have facilities for almost 2000 participants, many of them student editors and campus presidents. The conference will also be open to individual activists.

While the conference participants will be drawn mainly from college campuses, attempts have been made to secure delegates from labor, Black, Chicano and other groups as a "basis for collaboration on a broader front before and during the conventions."

Registration will begin at noon Friday, Dec. 3. No registration fee will be charged at the conference. Free housing will be provided on the campuses of Loyola and Mundelein Universities.

Management for engineers offered

The disciplines of engineering and business have been combined by the Rayen School of Engineering to offer a new course for students who are interested in the business as well as technical aspects of industry.

The Management Engineering program leads to a bachelor of engineering degree and is designed for students who plan careers in technical industry and desire graduate work in the area of business administration.

The typical graduate of management engineering will be qualified to undertake professional industrial engineering work upon entering industry, or continue in graduate studies either in engineering or business administration.

There is no decrease in the engineering science content of the curriculum, but rather a blending of engineering and business courses which create a cross-disciplinary education.

The curriculum combines engineering, economics and business administration courses as well as the 45 hours of general studies required by the University.

Some of the business courses that would be offered in the management engineering program are merchandising and engineering drawing in the first year; engineering computations and elementary accounting in the second year; merchandising principles of economics, social statistics, cost accounting and numerous engineering courses in the third year; and in the fourth year, development of executive ability, problems in industrial management, business law, personnel management, plus courses in advanced economics and engineering.

"I worked hard all summer to get enough bread for a down payment on my new bug. So I'm going to baby it."

You worked hard for that new car of yours. Now all you've got to do is take care of it. Part of it's using the right gasoline. Amoco®. The type most new car owner manuals recommend.

Amoco is specially formulated for your new car's anti-pollution engine. Made to help it run better, longer. And Amoco can double the life of your tail pipe and muffler compared to fully leaded gasolines; spark plugs last longer, too.

Amoco Super-Premium gives you all these benefits plus better mileage than other premiums. It's the only anti-pollution premium gasoline you can buy.

That's one reason why more new car buyers switch to Amoco and other gasolines at American than any other brand.

So now that you've got that new car, use the gasoline you can count on.

You've got a new car. We've got a new car gasoline.

You expect more from American and you get it.™

Students face big question: Where have all the jobs gone?

Wouldn't you like to know where the jobs will be in the next ten years?

Since most students at YSU are in a position to direct their course of studies in almost any direction, this would be a valuable piece of information.

An 80 page report recently issued by the Labor Department attempts to give some answers to the job question. This report takes into consideration, which fields of employment demand an increase in employees and how many people are presently being trained for those positions.

Results of the survey indicate that about 4.1 million applicants will be available over the next ten years for about 2.4 million jobs in elementary and secondary education.

An over-supply of economists is also expected, as only 2,200 positions will be available each year and yet 16,867 people are annually receiving bachelor's degrees in economics.

Employee shortages are now being experienced in the fields of medicine, law and architecture. Annual graduation classes in medical schools must be at least doubled to keep up with the demand. An additional 20,000 physicians per year are needed within the next decade. About 8,000 are currently trained each year.

Law schools will have to graduate about 20,000 per year in order to meet the yearly requirement of 14,500 since many law graduates do not enter the legal profession.

The expansion of architectural employment is expected to reach 2,300 jobs per year. This means a 27% increase in college degrees for architecture must be realized over the current level.

These are only a few of the occupations covered by the Labor Department bulletin. Some findings of the survey were also printed in the September 6, 1971 issue of U.S. News and World Report

Study abroad; earn credit

YSU students can learn to speak Spanish, see Spain, and enjoy the hospitality of a friendly country during the eighth summer school in Spain which will be held at Ciudad Universitaria, Madrid from June 30 to August 8 this summer.

The six week program, which will cost $790.00, will involve intensive study of the language, the culture and the civilization of Spain, and a variety of other courses.

Students may earn a maximum of 12 quarter hours, transferable to any U.S. college.

For further information, interested persons can write to Dr. A. Doresti, Augustana College, Rock Island, Illinois, 61201.

along with a list of 232 specific occupations and their corresponding labor statistics.

An October 29 issue of the Jambar listed YSU enrollment by colleges. From a total enrollment of 14,588, the largest school is Arts and Sciences with about 26% of the students. Within this school are 19 separate departments. The most popular major fields are biology, sociology, psychology, English, political science, mathematics and history respectively.

The second largest school is Business Administration with approximately 22% of the total enrollment. Major fields include accounting, marketing, management, advertising and public relations.

Listed below are several occupations relative to the major fields of study at YSU along with employment statistics from Labor Department bulletin 1701.

| Currently Employed           | Annual Number Of Job Openings |
|------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Accountants 500,000          | Accountants 33,000            |
| Advertising Workers 140,000  | Advertising Workers 5,700     |
| Marketing Researchers 20,000 | Marketing Researchers 2,700   |
| Personnel Workers 110,000    | Personnel Workers 6,900       |
| Pub. Rel. Workers 100,000    | Public Relation Workers 8,800 |
| Sociologists 10,000          | Sociologists 600              |
| Psychologists 32,000         | Psychologists 3,100           |
| Biochemists 11,000           | Biochemists 700               |
| Political Scientists 11,400  | Political Scientists 800      |
| Mathematicians 65,000        | Mathematicians 8,400          |
| Historians 14,000            | Historians 800                |

Current employment figures are based on 1968 estimates and job opening figures are based on projected annual averages.

Because of other aspects of employment availability that are taken at face value. For example, although there will be 800 openings next year for historians, there are 4,000 bachelor degrees being issued this year in the field of history. When viewed in light of this information, the prospects for job opportunities in history are not so good.

Much more detailed information is included in this report. It is called "Occupational Manpower and Training Needs" and can be obtained at a cost of 75 cents per copy from the Department of Labor Statistics, Room 704, Federal Office Bldg., Chicago, Illinois. Make checks payable to the Superintendent of Documents.

review Cry Uncle — just for laughs

By John Manser

Cry Uncle is a funny, sexy movie. Now playing at the Newport, the X-rated picture depends equally on both of its main ingredients to keep the show moving.

It is the best picture of its type I have seen because the movie does not depend wholly on sex to keep audience attention. This is not to say the picture is hilarious, for it is not, yet it is so consistently funny that the overall effect approaches hilarity.

In the odd moments when the laughs subside there is the almost obligatory sex scenes which are handled in nothing resembling good taste.

Since the movie depends on sex so much it could not make it solely as a comedy. This film is not recommended to those who do not enjoy earthy humor or action.

The movie is about a barrel-stomach detective by the name of Jake Masters, played by Allan Garfield, who is employed by millionaire Jason Domic, to track down the perpetrators of a murder for which the latter is blamed. Masters has the help of Dominic's girl Friday who happens to be, of course, a good looking blonde.

Actually the plot is incidental;

it only serves as a rationale for the film's two above mentioned features.

While the plot is only slightly plausible, the acting is much more important to the success of a picture of this type. And, surprisingly enough, the acting is good. I say surprisingly because this genre of movies usually is made on a shoestring budget.

Cry Uncle's production techniques are not that great but, paradoxically, the acting is out of proportion to them.

The prime example is Allen Garfield. To say his character is a slob understates Mr. Garfield's talents for he has turned Jake Master into a skillful, though unconscious, connoisseur of the uncouth.

He is so sloppy that a great deal of the film's humor comes from Master's encounters with the opposite sex. The performance is so good it is almost disgusting.

An able cast supports Allen Garfield and while none are standouts, all are adequate.

Looking at Cry Uncle from a viewpoint of the developments of modern films it seems that we have here the first well-done soft-core porno movie. If such films must be around - and they would not be if a market for them did not exist - let them be more like Cry Uncle.

A NEW NIGHTSPOT—The Bavarian House recently purchased the building formerly known as the Funhouse which was gutted last year by fire. The middle of the structure has already been torn down, making it one long building without divisions inside. The new owners say it will take about four months for complete renovation of the future nightspot.

A&S profs will decide on language requirement

The College of Arts and Sciences' faculty will decide early next quarter whether to retain, eliminate or modify its present language requirement, Dr. Bernard J. Yozwiak, dean, said yesterday.

An ad hoc committee of six Arts and Sciences faculty members will send out papers presenting the positions for retention, modification or possible elimination of the requirement to the A & S faculty, who will then discuss the issue at one or more meetings.

The decision will be made by the faculty in written balloting to follow the meetings. If a new policy is decided upon, it could go into effect immediately. The poll will probably determine this, Dr. Yozwiak said.

Dr. Yozwiak, who was appointed chairman of the committee while he was a professor of mathematics last year, heads the group which consists of Hugh G. Earnhart, acting chairman of the history department, Dr. Margaret I. Pfau, chairman of the English department, Dr. Robert E. Ward, chairman of the language department, Dr. Martin A. Greenman, chairman of the philosophy department, and Dr. C. Earl Harris, chairman of the geology department.

Also being investigated at the present time, Dr. Yozwiak said, is the possibility of offering a general studies major which would be free of a major and requirements. "We'll study the issue and determine if we want to go that way," Dr. Yozwiak said.

Ohio University, Kent State and Bowling Green State Universities have instituted this degree which allows a student to plan his own course studies.

This degree, Dr. Yozwiak said, is generally for the student who feel he knows what he wants to get out of school, has difficulty completing upper division courses or is not in favor of requirements.

KSU's bachelor of general studies degree requires 192 hours and that the student maintain a 2.0 average. No more than 35 hours may be accumulated in one department. This prevents a student from obtaining a major and avoiding requirements.

BGSU's bachelor of liberal studies allows a student to obtain 40 hours in one department.

The University of Toledo has formed a "University College" which awards both B.S. and B.A. degrees, and maintains no requirements. Each student consults an advisor and outlines his own program.

YSU Concert Choir will fill St. John's with music Sunday

The YSU Concert Choir, 80-voices strong, will present its annual Christmas concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in St. John's Episcopal Church under the direction of Dr. Ronald L. Gould, associate professor of music.

The program will include motets, anthems and carols by Sweelinck, Bruckner, Tschernokoff, Billings, von Herzogenberg and Poulenc.

Extended compositions to be performed are a setting of the "Jubilate Deo" from the "Sacrae Symphoniae," 1597 by Giovanni Gabrieli, J.S. Bach's double motet "komm, Jesu komm," and the "Magnificat a sei voci" from the "Vespers of 1610" by Claudio Monteverdi.

Faculty soloists for the latter work include Mrs. Rosemary Raridon and Miss Rose Marie Kascher, sopranos, and David E. Starkey and E. Wade Raridon, tenors. Lee Dettra, instructor in organ, Thiel College, Pa., and the organist-choirmaster at the First Presbyterian Church of Sharon, Pa., will be the organ accompanist.

Instrumentalists will include an ensemble of nine Dana Brass students' trumpet—Louis D'Angelo, Donald Stimple, Charles Way and David Wetmore; trombone—Steven Dalrymple, William Forrester and George Oros; tuba—John Adaway; and baritone—Tom Glines. Strings students are Steven Busonik, cello, and Peter Duca, bass.

The program, a part of the Dana Concert Series, is free and open to the public.

Catch - YSU Who's Sorry Now?

by Carl Basic

One of YSU's better known campus characters and several of his confederates are currently seeking an apology from the administration. They are not meeting with much success.

In order to find out exactly how little success they are having, I went to see the main character of YSU's theater of the ridiculous, Mr. Chick Daly.

"How are you, Chick?"

"Please, call me 'Tweed'."

"OK, Boss. How is the apology hunting these days?"

"Not so good. I went to the executive offices and they sent me to Jones 209. There I was told I had to have my advisor's signature on University Form 4-Q (Application for Apology) before I could register for an apology."

"That's about par for the course."

"After I got my advisor's signature, I found out that all of the apologies were closed and that I would have to get a permit to get into closed apology from the Chairman of the Apology Department, Dr. Morose."

"This is beginning to sound familiar."

"Yes. Then I went over to Dr. Morose's office and found that he wasn't in. I returned to Jones 209 and they told me I would have to get the Dean of the School of Arms and Subterfuge, Alexander Munday, to sign my permit. However, he is on a sabbatical leave. Then I was told to get Dean Dean's signature which presented another problem."

"Yeah, I know. Dean Dean can't write."

"Exactly."

"What did you do then?"

"I got an upperclassman to scribble something across the form and then I took it back to Jones 209."

"That should have taken care of things. Right?"

"Wrong. I found out that my advisor had signed me up for the wrong apology and everything I had gone through had been for nothing. I also found out that the apology I wanted isn't being offered this quarter or next quarter. In fact, they weren't sure it will ever be offered."

"Then what did you do?"

"I disguised my voice and made a phone call to the president of the university and told him that I was the vice-president in charge of grants for the Ford Foundation. I told him that he was doing a fine job as president as exemplified by the fact that there were no student groups on campus protesting any of his or the university's policies. This meant that all of the students must be perfectly happy and if that were the case then he could probably be one of the few men in the world who could be a successful P.R. man for the Communist Party at a National Convention of the John Birch Society. I lauded him for his fine job of getting along with students and told him that because of his fine job we were considering giving YSU a 100 billion dollar grant to be used as a pension fund for the administrators."

"What happened next?"

"The next morning I got a phone call and was told to report to the vice-president in charge of Apologies. When I got to his office he said he was sorry and, in fact, had been sorry for 57 years and that there was no reason for his changing now."

"What did he do then?"

"He gave me an Official YSU Apology Receipt. He told me that the receipt would guarantee me an apology." "How did you know that it was actually an official receipt?"

"It carried the Seal of the University."

Veteran Bird cagers take on Bearcats in opener Saturday

Dom Rosselli's veteran YSU cagers, winners of 30 of their last 0 home games, open the season Saturday night at the Struthers High Field House.

YSU takes on Bernie Matthews' young Bearcats at 8 p.m. with the Penguin junior varsity meeting Vic Kress Realtors from Meadville, Pa. at 6 p.m.

Rosselli has announced a probable starting lineup which includes Little All-American candidates Bill Johnson and Ron Smith, lettermen Greg Merrill and Bill Wells and "super-soph" Bill McMeans.

Johnson, a 5-10 senior and YSU's 8th leading career scorer (1,204 points) will join Merrill, a 6-2 senior at guard. Smith, a 6-4 senior from North Bloomfield, and McMeans, are the forwards. West Virginia University transfer Wells, a 6-5 junior with more moves than a belly dancer, will be in the pivot.

The Penguins will be facing a basically inexperienced St. Vincent squad. Sophomore mentor Matthews, an ex-Duquesne star, guided the veteran 1970-71 club to a 10-13 mark in his first year as head coach. Matthews is banking heavily this season on his three returning lettermen, guards Terry Vrabel and Rich Pasay, and forward Chris Kelley.

Vrabel, a flashy 5-10 sophomore who led Mohawk to the WPIAL Class "B" title two years ago, had a good rookie campaign, finishing first in assists and fourth in scoring (9.1). Pasay (6-2), a part-time starter last year, had a 7.1 scoring average.

Kelley, a 6-6 senior who transferred from the University of Detroit after his freshman year, is the Bearcat ace. He was tops in scoring (15.1) and second in rebounding (9.1).

Matthews will likely tab sophomore Chris Young (6-4) for the other forward slot and select from Al Rankl (6-5), Hank Brown (6-1) or Jim Waldron (6-5) for the remaining starting berth.

The Latrobe, Pa. cagers were triumphant in their season opener Wednesday night, besting Carnegie-Mellon 77-72 at home. The Bearcats were paced by Chris Kelley's 20 points despite having been sidelined the past two weeks with an ailing ankle. Pasay chipped in with 18 while Brown and Young hooped 17 apiece.

The Penguins hold a 30-20 edge in the series and have won the past six meetings. YSU posted 105-73 and 86-64 wins last year.

Rosselli's crew will take a week off for final exams before hosting Geneva on December 11.

The Penguins will enjoy the home court advantage of 10 of their first 12 games.
