City football to continue at Stambaugh

By BRIAN J. MACALA
Jambar Managing Editor

Night football games by Youngstown City Series schools at Stambaugh Stadium will continue despite problems with violence at last Thursday's Rayen-East football game.

The Youngstown Board of Education, meeting in special session yesterday, voted unanimously to continue night play by the city's five high schools.

The incident in question occurred following the Rayen-East contest. Numerous fights broke out following the game in nearby McDonald's and the University Food Convenient Store parking lots.

The Youngstown Police Department reported that somewhere between 700-750 students and young adults were milling around on both sides of Fifth Avenue. Fifth was closed between Spring Street and the E.B. Service Road when pedestrians continually darted back and forth from sidewalk to sidewalk, placing themselves and motorists in danger, YPD reported.

Fights broke out in the restaurant and parking lot and YPD patrolmen were forced to call for assistance when the situation became uncontrollable. YSU Police forces were not called in to assist due to the fact that Campus Police jurisdiction ends at the stadium side sidewalk.

YPD reported that 12 arrests were made, including three on young adults not enrolled at either school.

Lt. John Gocala of YPD, recounted the events of Thursday night to the Board of Education. He stated that the closing of Fifth Avenue placed many YSU students at an inconvenience as they were leaving the Lincoln Avenue Deck following night classes. He stated that many elected to remain on campus until the situation was under control.

Gocala stated that the incident was "the worst I've ever encountered at a football game."

YSU director of Campus Police, Richard Turkiewicz, ad-

ressed the board as well and said that he favored not moving City Series football games to an early starting time as had been suggested as a remedy to the problem.

"The majority come to the games to enjoy themselves," Turkiewicz said. "The minority must not dictate to the majority."

Turkiewicz added that three arrests were made on campus, but no arrests were made in the stands of the stadium. It was reported that several incidents occurred in the stadium concourse, but Turkiewicz cited that these were minor scuffles and nothing more than pushing matches.

Dr. Earnest Perry, chairman of the YSU Board of Trustees, also spoke before the Youngstown Board of Education. Perry stated that he also supported keeping a night schedule for City Series games.

"I am insulted when someone suggests cutting out night football," Perry said. "We should not give in and have the majority be held hostage by the minority. We have to deal with the ugly mess here."

The decision to continue night football was reached after the board decided that there was no workable alternative for the immediate future. Plans to switch to an earlier starting time and to switch games to Saturdays were shown to be in conflict with the

Voinovich to visit during voter drive

By DEBORA SHAULIS
Jambar Editor

The campaign trail leads to YSU this week for Cleveland Mayor and U.S. Senate candidate George Voinovich, who will visit the campus Thursday as part of YSU Voter Registration Week.

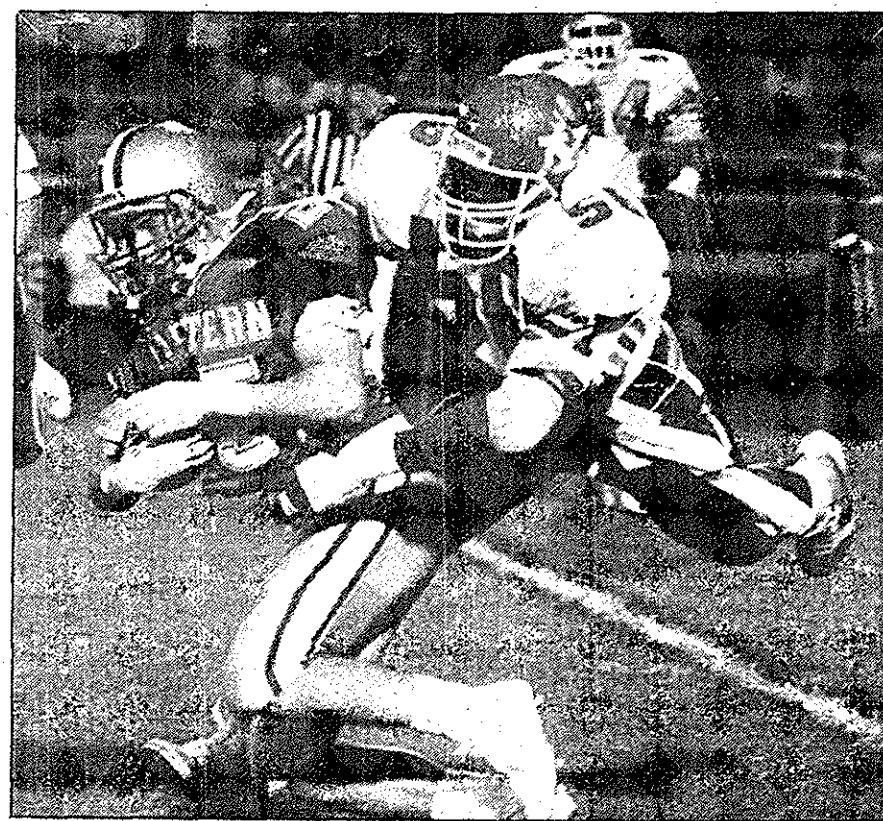

Voinovich will speak on concerns of college students at 3 p.m. in the Scarlet/Carnation Room, Kilcawley Center. His appearance and the registration drive are sponsored by Student Government and Special Events.

Like Amy McFarland, current president of Student Government, Voinovich will be encouraging students to register for the upcoming November elections. The Republican mayor is running against incumbent Democratic Senator Howard Metzenbaum.

"It's one thing to register the students to vote. It's another thing to actually get them out to vote," McFarland said.

Student Government is tackling the first of these two problems with YSU Voter Registration Week. Members of Student Government and the county Board of Elections will register students every day this week at a table in the Kilcawley Center Arcade area. If weather permits, registration will

Government holds first meeting, discusses policy

By MARALINE KUBIK
Jambar Assistant News Editor

Student Government held its first official meeting this quarter, addressing such matters as the attendance policy for student representatives, office hours, the location of mailboxes, the reports of various committees and the procedure for nominating students to the Board of Trustees.

Students interested in being appointed to the Board must be Ohio residents who have completed at least 24 quarter hours at YSU, not 12, as previously stated by The Jambar, be full-time students in good standing and be able to complete the full two-year term.

Nominations must be made by the elected representatives of each school who may be contacted through Student Government.

As for attendance, student

Accident, scuffle mar opening

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar News Editor

The first day back to school turned out to be a real bang for two YSU students, as they were involved in an automobile accident in the Wick Avenue Parking Deck.

According to Campus Police reports, Kenneth Williams of Warren, was "traveling south and turning east into the aisle that is a continuation of the Wick Avenue entrance."

Jeffrey Remmick, junior, CAST, had "just entered the deck and was going straight through the intersection," the report stated, when Williams, driving a 1987 Chevette, ran into the side of Remmick's 1984 Camaro.

The report said Remmick "swerved to the right to avoid being struck," but was still hit by Williams' approaching car. The report noted that Williams told Officer Frank McGuire he "is not familiar with the parking deck."

In another campus disturbance occurring Friday, Sept. 23, Elayne Isom, junior, education, was arrested in the bookstore for resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

The police report stated that Officer Sally Barnes, who was working in the bookstore, was called to a cash register by employee John Weber, sophomore, CAST, because he "anticipated trouble" from Isom.

The report stated Isom had been returning books in the bookstore on Sept. 22 when she "became belligerent with two of the cashiers."

After she had received her money on the 23rd, the report said Isom wanted to personally return the books to the back office of the bookstore.

Weber led Isom and Barnes to the office whereupon arrival, the subject "started into the office where the money safe is kept." When Weber told her she couldn't enter, the report stated Isom "became loud, directed profane and abusive language to Mr. Weber, telling him to take his f---ing hands off of her."

At this point, the report stated that Barnes stepped in, identifying herself as a Campus Police officer and telling Isom not to enter the office. Isom "directed the same language to Officer Barnes," the report said.

Barnes told Isom to cease and desist or she

Campus activities continue during return days to classes

By JONI DOBRAN
Jambar News Editor

The first day back to classes can be hectic for students, but for University staff members it can be worse, due to confusion, long lines and general melee.

George Conner, Director of the YSU Bookstore, said things ran smoothly and at a fairly normal pace for the beginning of the year.

"I didn't think our lines were any longer than they have been in past years, Conner replied. "In fact," he added, "I think they went a little faster because our equipment was working well and there were no breakdowns. That's what causes things to back up."

According to Rosemary Cremens of the Bursar's Office, there were no computer breakdowns in Add/Drop, either.

"It was just a normal day, for the first day of school. Everything went very smoothly," she said.

She noted that the biggest problems will arrive within the next week or the following week when people try to drop classes below the full-time level or withdraw completely.

With the percentage tuition loss, students are

Retrieve files, events by computer

By DONNA PARKER
Jambar Reporter

YSU students are now able to view their permanent YSU record or a calendar of YSU events by accessing one of two database systems on the computer center's mainframe, SID (Student Information Directory) or YSUEVENTS.

SID allows a student to view his/her own demographic data, permanent record and current class schedule. Steps have been taken to provide for maximum security of student information files.

One step is to limit SID access to computers that have been placed near the Registrar's Office in Jones Hall and at the Information Center in Kilcawley.

Another protection is that you must type in a valid student identification number and birth date to access SID. To prevent continuous attempts at guessing information in order to gain access to someone else's data files, all unsuccessful attempts are logged and reported to the registrar daily.

If a student finds data he/she feels is incorrect, instructions are given on the video-display screen on how to get the information corrected. Also, a student who does not wish to have his/her files available on SID may request privacy by filling out the proper forms at the Registrar's Office.

Another feature of SID allows a student to indicate if they would like to have a representative from Career Services or Student Serving Students contact them.

YSUEVENTS is a public-access event calendar that does not require a password for entry. When accessing this system, one can view all confirmed, non-academic events scheduled for the current week, as well as those scheduled for the following two week period. The name of the event, the time and room number or area where the event will take place will be listed on the computer screen.

The calendar can be accessed weekdays 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. from any terminal on campus or any PC connected to the mainframe in Meshel Hall. Any PC equipped with a modem can also access YSUEVENTS by calling 742-7128.

The procedures for accessing these systems were demonstrated for Student Government members on Sept. 21 by Thomas W. Doctor, computer center director and Dr. Harold Yiannaki, registrar. Amy McFarland, Student Government president, suggested that any student having questions regarding YSUEVENTS or SID should contact the Student Government representatives for their particular school or call the Student Government office in Kilcawley Center.

A quick reference guide to computer center facilities and pamphlets explaining how to use YSUEVENTS and SID are available at the Students Serving Students Office in Jones Hall and also in room 209 of Meshel Hall. Doctor said, "We're trying to get pamphlets in the hands of

Editorial Actions tarnish precious medals

The games haven't ended, yet the medals won by athletes at the 24th Olympiad already are tarnishing.

It's not oxidation that is causing the medals to lose their lustre. Attitudes and actions are defacing the coveted prizes.

Take, for example, the actions of a Korean boxer, his trainer and staff after losing a match to another boxer. All of them turned on the referee at the end of the match and the boxer staged a sit-in inside the ring for approximately one hour. The Koreans claim that the fight decision is just another ploy designed by the United States to cheat them out of medals.

According to a recent article published in The New York Times, Soviet athletes are being punished for finishing below the expectations of that country's planning committee. This group sets the number of medals that the country's athletes should receive and how many of each should be won.

Other countries have known for many years that Soviet athletes have been compensated for winning. The Times article, however, disclosed that Soviet athletes lose half of their bonus for winning a silver medal if they were expected to win a gold.

American athletes are not exempt from bad attitudes either. Two members of the swimming team were dismissed last week after winning gold medals in Olympic competition.

It seems that the exuberant swimmers, having gone out to Seoul's honky tonk section to celebrate their victory, pulled a prank that didn't sit well with the police. The duo was arrested for pulling a cement block, adorned with a lion's head, from a building and carrying it around town with them.

These examples prove that a good number of Olympic athletes have blurred vision when it comes to the focus of the games. The Olympics are supposed to be the pinnacle of achievement for the best amateur athletes. They should not be the center of hard feelings, bad conduct or careless behavior.

Hopefully the 1992 Olympics will feature winners instead of these losers.

Dislikes sign on religion

Dear Editor:

It is pleasant to return to campus in the fall, but it seems that an academic lapse is noticed. The University is a place where the student comes to expand his/her mind. The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, seems to have missed that.

Their sign in Kilcawley, "Know God/Know Peace" is sound in an opinionated way. I hope that people who know God, do indeed know peace, and it would be nice if they would introduce me, some day.

However, they cross an intellectual gulf in "No God/No Peace." Here, they imply that if our God is not acknowledged by the Communists and the Buddhists and anyone else who has a different theology, there cannot be peace in the world. This is the same theory held in the dark ages and at the time of conquest of the Americas, where people who were not Christian were not worthy, and we could take their land.

God may bring you individual solace, but in this day and age we do not force him on our own citizens, let alone on the rest of humanity. Let's start the new year with a keen eye out that we don't make mistakes of this nature.

Freshmen tips prevent obviousness

There is nothing quite like a the fall season in Northeast Ohio. The signs associated with the season are all in place to herald the coming of autumn.

The nights are getting colder, the birds are preparing for their trip South and most noticeably, the freshmen have invaded YSU.

I really don't want to pick on freshmen — after all, we were all once in the same position — but it just seems so easy to spot a freshmen on campus anymore and that troubles me. I know you want to be as inconspicuous as possible at YSU and look cool like we upperclassmen.

So, being the great humanitarian that I am, I've decided to give our green brothers and sisters a bit of advice on how not to be labeled a freshman.

First off, for crying out loud, take those checkerboard Student Serving Students folders and hide them. It is a lot easier to wear a sign on your shirt reading "I am a freshman." I have seen kids holding folders such as these ask someone how to get to Cushman Hall and be given directions that lead only to downtown Youngstown. Better yet, dip them in gas and strike a match.

Next, you know that brand new, spiffy knapsack Mom bought you for your books? Take it and leave it out in the rain for a week or attach it to the back bumper of your car and drive around for awhile dragging it behind you. Rough it up. Spill stuff on it. Next to a SSS folder, a brand new knap-sack is a flashing "freshman" neon sign.

Seminar stresses handicap hiring

YSU — The positive aspects of hiring the handicapped need to be emphasized, says one University organization that is reaching out to the community with this message.

The Handicapped Support Group, in conjunction with the University's Counseling Services Office, will sponsor a one-day seminar on hiring practices and the handicapped at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 5, in Kilcawley Center.

Area employers, employment agencies, politicians and interested persons are encouraged to participate in the seminar.

John Powell, president of the Handicapped Support Group, said the goal of the seminar is to get input from the community so that a comprehensive employment guide for the handicapped can be compiled.

This guide, which will be published at a later date, will include guidelines for conducting a job search, resume and cover letter writing, overcoming objections and concerns of employers in hiring a handicapped person and ability presentation.

The seminar will also assist employers, said Powell, because it will help eliminate conflicting recommendations.

For more information or to register for the seminar, contact Powell at 545-0707.

Memorial service planned

A memorial service for Dr. John Coffelt, president of YSU from 1973 to 1984, will be held at noon Thursday, Sept. 29 in the Chestnut Room, Kilcawley Center. Coffelt died Sept. 1 in Houston, Texas, at age 63.

Coffelt came to the YSU less than a year after it became a state-assisted university.

He died in Memorial Hospital, where he had undergone surgery for an aneurysm.

He graduated from the University of Denver and Colorado State College. He earned his doctorate at the University of Colorado and was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree from YSU in 1984 for his long and devoted service.

In Youngstown, he served on many civic committees, boards and organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce, Hospital Association Board of Trustees and the Butler Institute of American Art Board of Directors.

Commentary

Just because you might carry a SSS folder or have a new knapsack, most upperclassmen will not hate you, but if you do the following, you're liable to have an enemy for life.

Please follow the arrows in the decks. It's easy enough. We learned arrows in first grade.

But it never fails. Come the first day of school there's some (censored), almost always a freshmen, coming down an up ramp. Then they swear at me for being in their way. How do I know they're a freshmen? There parking sticker is stuck to their window and now a permanent feature of their car.

Another way to spot a freshmen? Look at how they dress. An upperclassmen is the one who looks like he's been on skid row for a few months. A freshmen looks like they just finished a modeling job for either GQ or Cosmo.

Ladies and gentlemen, I have no quarrel with you wanting to look nice but, guys, is it really necessary to wear 18 gold chains and $300 shoes to your weather class? Gals, take it easy on the make-up — and let's both go easy on the aftershave and perfume. I've walked into classrooms thinking there was a toxic chemical leak. Go easy or I'll call the EPA.

There are other ways to spot freshmen. They are always 15 minutes early for classes, sit in groups in Arby's and lose their cars in the Wick Deck. Follow this handy guide upperclassmen and you can become an expert at spotting freshmen (remember you need a license and they must be in season).

Now, I've poked some fun at the freshmen and I'm sure they'll hate me now. Take it easy, 99 per cent of you aren't noticable, but if you happen to be the guy in a green Maverick in the Lincoln Deck last Thursday — I know what you are.

United Way sets goal of $45,000 for campus drive

By MARALINE KUBIK
Jambar Assistant News Editor

People helping people is what the United Way is all about, explained Philip Snyder, News Service director and YSU United Way Employee Campaign Committee member.

"Over 89 cents of every dollar is used to provide needed service in our own community," Snyder emphasized. "Alcoholics, the handicapped, the sick, the poor and the lonely [in Youngstown]" are all helped by the more than 30 organizations partially funded by the United Way, Snyder explained.

Last year 554 faculty, staff and administration members donated $43,682 to the United Way, Snyder said, estimating that more than half of all University employees contribute. "I wish we had 100 percent [of the employees contributing] but we don't," Snyder said.

This year's goal is $45,000 which, according to Snyder, is up from last year's goal of $41,000. The Youngstown area's goal is $3,000,000, which will be distributed to various agencies according to specifications outlined by volunteers, "people like you and me," Snyder emphasized.

University employees can easily contribute through a payroll deduction plan, Snyder said, but payroll deduction isn't mandatory.

"Some give cash, for some it's a one-time thing," Snyder explained. Students can also make one-time contributions by stopping in at the News Service office, room 119, Tod Hall. "All gifts to the United Way are tax deductible," Snyder added.

This year's campaign ends Oct. 24, said Snyder, urging all University employees and students to make their pledges and one-time contributions now.

Math lab moves to Cushwa Hall

By MARK S. ARP

If your math classes aren't adding up, don't despair. The Math Lab is here to help you improve your skills.

The Math Lab, which was previously located in the School of Education, has been moved to Cushwa Hall, room 3091.

Under the guidance of Robert Ciotola, coordinator, the Math Lab is staffed by approximately 20 undergraduate students, along with two graduate assistants.

The Math Lab tutors the following mathematics courses only: 506; 508-13; 515-16; 520; 525; 550; 570-2; 580-1H and 642, formerly 542. No appointments are necessary and students are encouraged to walk in when seeking help.

The Math Lab will be open on Wednesday, Sept. 28 at 9 a.m. for the first time this quarter. Fall hours will be Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.; Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

For additional information, call 742-3274.

would be arrested, the report continued, when Isom "told the officer that she didn't have to do a f--king thing that she didn't want to do."

The report stated that Barnes took Isom to the gift area, telling her she was under arrest. Isom began a struggle with the officer, which led to the overturning of a glass display.

When Barnes radioed for assistance from Officer Jeff Kosec, the report stated Isom "knocked the radio from the officer's hands."

Both officers subdued Isom with "necessary force," stated the report. She was then handcuffed and walked to the Campus Police station, then transported to City Jail.

New assistant lights path of involvement

YSU graduate likes familiar setting

By DEBORA SHAULIS
Jambar Editor

The future's looking bright for YSU's newly-appointed Student Activities Assistant and the students she will assist during this academic year.

Leslie Bright says she feels right at home, being a 1987 graduate of YSU, and hopes to help other students get a well-rounded view of college.

"I'm comfortable here," said Bright, and "I'm here to help all students."

That comfortable feeling wasn't something she experienced during her entire college career. Bright first attended Ohio University, where she said she was not very active in campus life. After transferring to YSU, she immediately joined a sorority.

"I started enjoying YSU a lot more once I got involved," Bright said.

As Student Activities Assistant in charge of organizations, Bright is in charge of this year's Student Involvement campaign. The theme of this year's campaign is "Searching for Something," and Bright is responsible for helping students find the activities they are interested in.

Flyers were sent last month to incoming freshmen, who were asked to specify the types of organizations that they would like to join.

As students returned their letters, Bright began to sort them out and make appointments with these students. The students see Bright to learn when these groups meet and how to join. Bright said she hopes to finish these appointments with new students by mid-October.

Bright said each organization also will receive a list of students' names once the return letters have been sorted. That way groups also have an opportunity to contact students, she said.

Another project Bright is overseeing is the annual Organizations Fair, which takes place Wednesday in Kilcawley Center. The event acquaints students with the various campus groups — 115 in all — and "gives organizations a good chance to be seen," Bright said.

Bright said she is concentrating on freshmen students now but wants to get all students involved. She said she'll be working on overall student participation as the year progresses and wants to see more minority students become active in campus groups.

Upperclassmen need to get involved too, Bright added. Students who have completed their first year of college are accustomed to their class schedules and studying time, she said.

"You're getting more comfortable so you're ready to get into more things," she said.

Besides her position as activities assistant, Bright also is the adviser to YSU's National Pan Hellenic Council (NPHC). Comprised of eight national black fraternities and sororities, NPHC is the governing body and is similar to the Pan-Hellenic Council.

Though structured like other Greek organizations, Bright explained that black fraternities and sororities have different pledging guidelines. NPHC is active in the Greek Activities Council at YSU, she added.

Director focuses on ethics Lecture to examine business world

YSU — The term "business ethics" is not an oxymoron, declares Robert Allan Cooke, director of the Institute for Business Ethics at DePaul University.

Cooke will be the speaker for the Thomas Colloquium on Free Enterprises, set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 4 in Kilcawley's Ohio Room.

His lecture is titled "Business Ethics: A Libertarian Perspective — Good Ethics Is Good Business."

In a pre-lecture interview from his DePaul campus office, Cooke explained he does not believe American business ethics have changed substantially in the past 100 years. "There is a just a greater sensitivity to business ethics today," he adds.

"I see ethics as a set of public social skills, and I believe that they can be taught," Cooke said. The greater sensitivity has led to presentation of a number of lectures, seminars, conferences and lectureships dealing with the topic, according to Cooke.

He said he sees a "very positive trend" in business toward better business ethics understanding. Cooke pointed out that among the subjects discussed are the ethics and handling the conversion to high-tech operations and the impact such changes have on workers. Other topics include businesses' responsibility in the area of education for the public.

Cooke received his doctorate in philosophy from the University of Chicago and is a member of the program committee for the Society for Value Inquiry. He is on the executive board of the Corporate Responsibility Group of Chicago, the Society of Business Ethics, the advisory board of the Center for Business, Society and Ethics at Carlow College in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Literacy Club and the Executives Club of Chicago. He also is an academic adviser for the Heartland Institute.

The IBE at DePaul was formed in Jan. of 1984 as a joint effort of the College of Commerce and the College of Liberal Arts

WHAT AM I DOING HERE?

"Oh boy, another Wednesday. Hmm - seven o'clock, I really hate Wednesday. I hate every school day. Come to think of it, I detest high school in general! 7:15 a.m., I'd better run or I'll get my fifth tardy, and you know that means—DETENTION. There it is, school, or should I say, Alcatraz? Sign ups for homecoming committee? Who needs it? I'll let those fun-loving jocks and their prissy cheerleader girlfriends form the committee!"

And so it was, four years of bad attitudes and grades to match! Now that PAC, the Program and Activities Council, has entered my realm it has become quite obvious why I hated my high school years and virtually everything connected to them. I never participated in anything! How could I expect to have friends, and most of all, pride when I made the best years of my life the worst?

Zap! "College? What am I doing here? Never mind, pal, you've gotta find Cushwa Hall pronto! Phew, rough class, maybe I'll check out that student union, Kilcawley Center. Hey, who's that guy with the microphone? He's funny. What does his shirt say? The PAC. There's a few more PAC t-shirts. They seem to be a fun bunch. Maybe I'll ask one of them about PAC. OK, I will! You say that you program activities for students, and PAC has 175 members? What a great way to meet people! Where do I sign?"

Thus began what one would call "a new life." Yes, as odd as it seems, I really had no idea why I was attending college. I knew one thing for certain though, if college was going to be another four years like high school I could do without the hassle. Contained in this thought is the key to the importance PAC plays in my student life.

The importance of PAC in my student life is that the Program and Activities Council provided a much-needed mental transition. I needed confidence in myself. I needed an edge that would somehow transform a one-time bad attitude high school senior with little self esteem into a studious college freshman ready to promise himself a new outlook on school.

Sure enough, not long after I joined that Council I noticed a change in my attitude. I began to enjoy school because the monotonous rigors of constantly grinding my nose in the books were broken up by mind-easing PAC programs. The somewhat "high" feeling involved each time I would help put together a program carried on through the day. My enthusiasm in the classroom was unequalled. As for my grades, they too rebounded to where I have pride in myself (a thought few can truly entertain!) That pride has given me an edge — an edge of knowing I take advantage of the University programs to better myself.

With this pride came my reward, self-confidence. One proud day of my life was being asked to be a chairperson of one of PAC's clubs. By taking this step, my advisor showed her confidence in my abilities. Why was it important? Is not the true test of one's self-confidence allowing others to confide in him? Yes, at that moment, I knew where I stood as a student. A promise to gain knowledge, to increase my persona, to increase my abilities so that one day I could take my place as an adult in society. PAC has been there in my student life from the beginning, nudging me on. PAC will continue to serve me even after my graduation.

As I recall the days before my high school graduation, I am sad that I did not chance being involved. I shudder to think of how well those four years would have been. No matter, I am a college student now; one who looks forward to school and an ever-increasing role of PAC in my student life.

Mac Crum
New Membership Chair

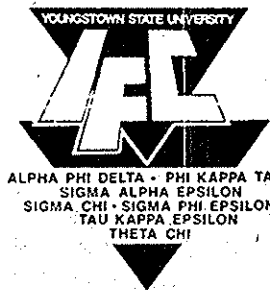

The "PAC" is always seeking energetic and creative students who want to get involved. There's lots to do! The "PAC" is comprised of eight committees who are hard at work behind the scenes selecting campus entertainment, working with performers, creating campus videos, determining the film series, holding noontime rock and jazz concerts, creating student marketing campaigns and developing informal workshops, just to name a few of their many activities. Each committee welcomes freshmen to graduate students from all majors who are in good academic standing.

To become involved, stop in the "PAC" office located on the upper level of Kilcawley in the flamingo pink student organizations area and say, "I'd like a 'PAC' interest form!" It's that easy!

Professor banned after episode of name-calling

A Georgia Southwestern College professor lost a Sept. 12 court fight to get back into a classroom from which he was barred for calling one of his students a "black bitch." U.S. District Judge Duross

Fitzpatrick ruled that Georgia Southwestern President William Capitan could suspend Prof. Allen Towery without pay for fall term as punishment for making the remark in an argument with student Ginerva Dennis about her grade last March. Towery, Fitzpatrick said,

"showed a lack of discipline when he used a particularly egregious expression."

Capitan thought so last March when GSC suspended Towery with pay. In June, a faculty committee recommended, suspending the professor without pay for the term.

In response, Towery sued GSC, claiming the suspension violated his right to due process and that his career and reputation suffered as the result. He asked for $250,000 in damages and to start teaching again this fall.

University. Emanuel Catsoules, superintendent of Youngstown city schools, had recommended that the board move the remaining games to a day schedule if it could be worked out with the University.

Following the vote, Perry, who is also the physician for the East football team, said that although he was happy to see night football maintained, the Board of Trustees would act in YSU student's best interest should the violence continue and students were placed in danger.

Perry said that presently, YSU provides clean-up services and security at the games in return for a rental fee of $2,000.

City Series schools have played at Stambaugh Stadium "for four or five years," Perry reported. Cardinal Mooney High School and Ursuline High School, neither of which is affiliated with the City Series, have played at Stambaugh since the stadium's opening in 1982.

Phil Hirsch, director of Student Activities, stated that operations in Kilcawley Center went "very well."

"I walked around quite a bit, to see how things were running.

There were a lot of people who were relieved there wasn't a strike," Hirsch commented.

He added that there were no significant problems, crediting the organization of the day's activities to Kilcawley employees.

U.S. may cut off loans to colleges with high debts

By The College Press Service

The Reagan administration has again proposed not to make college loans to students who attend colleges where a high number of people have defaulted on loans.

It also wants to make banks that have made a lot of "bad" student loans assume some of the risk of default.

The proposals — published in the Sept. 14 Federal Register — will become an official rule if they're not challenged within 90 days.

Bruce Carnes of the U.S. Dept. of Education, in announcing the proposals, released figures showing that 10 percent of the banks making student loans had at least one of every five loans it made in default.

Those banks, said Carnes, generally made loans to students attending private, for-profit trade schools.

Former Secretary of Education William J. Bennett, who has in the past termed the student loan default rate "intolerable," said termination was the most severe sanction an institution could face. "Other, lesser sanctions would also be available."

The proposed rules would require the trade schools to disclose state licensing and certification requirements, and the pass rates and job placement rates of their graduates.

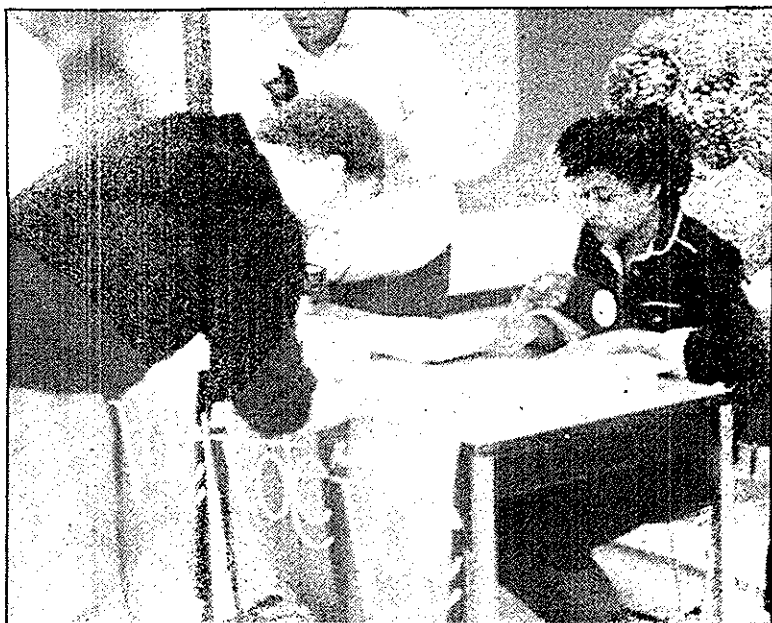

The schools also will have to provide pro-rated refunds to students who do not complete their programs if the new rules are enacted.

Bennett has charged the training schools with ripping off students. "Too often the only thing they get out of these schools is debt."

The administration drew a vehement reaction from trade schools when it first floated the idea last spring. School lobbyists protested most defaulters were relatively poor students who couldn't afford to go to more traditional colleges or universities.

The General Accounting Office, Congress's investigative arm, also has found students default on their loans most typically because they don't have the money to repay them.

Registration

take place outside Kilcawley Center in the campus core.

Many students believe that it is too late to register or that they had to vote in the May primary election in order to vote this fall, McFarland said.

It is not necessary to have voted previously, she added, and there is still time to register for the November election. The only requirements are that voters are at least 18 years of age and residents of the state.

According to McFarland, other state schools are participating in voter registration drives this week.

Campus organizations can participate as well by taking part in a registration contest.

The group that returns the highest number of completed registration forms to the Student Government offices this week will receive a $100 first prize, with a $50 prize going to the second-place group.

It is not necessary to be a deputy registrar to register voters, McFarland said, so Student Government is sponsoring the contest in order to reach more potential voters. "Not only are they in a contest, but they're registering students. They're putting YSU on the map," McFarland said.

Interested groups can pick up registration forms from the Student Government offices, located on the second floor of Kilcawley Center. Pennsylvania students cannot be included in the contest but may obtain registration forms from Student Government.

Class rolls up odds on stock market game

YSU — The Office of Continuing Education is putting the odds of learning about the stock market in your favor.

Continuing Education, in conjunction with Butler Wick & Co., will offer "YSU's Stock Market Game," beginning Sept. 26.

The game, the first of a planned sequence, will allow players to "trade" on the New York, American and over-the-counter exchanges in a computer assisted simulation of regular Wall Street trading activity.

Dr. John R. Loch, director of continuing education department, said this is the first time the game has been offered and administered locally. The game will include three in-class sessions held on campus.

The class sessions are set for 7 to 9 p.m. Sept. 26, Oct. 3 and Oct. 10. The classes will offer logistics of playing the game, putting together a portfolio, selling short, buying on margin, the effects of the new tax laws on stock investments, puts and calls and other investment strategies.

Each participant is given a hypothetical $100,000 to begin the game. The mythical money can be used to purchase any of the 5,300 listed stocks. Participants can buy Monday

YSU alters King Award requirements

YSU — Requirements for the Martin Luther King Inner-City Achievement Award have been expanded.

The grant-in-aid program was established by the YSU Foundation, and was originally offered only to graduates from Youngstown City and Parochial Schools, but the geographic location requirements have been changed.

Applications now will be accepted from graduates of Warren City Schools and the Youngstown Diocesan-operated John F. Kennedy High School in Warren.

The award, up to $750 per academic year, is made to students who have a financial need, which cannot be met satisfactorily from other scholarship grant or loan programs. Those applying must meet the geographic requirements and must be a student in good standing. A 12-hour minimum class schedule is required. Funding is granted on a pro-rated basis for part-time students.

A request must be completed, noting a desire to participate in the Martin Luther King Inner-City Achievement Award Program. Applications are available from the Scholarships and Financial Aid Office in Jones Hall.

Ethics

and Sciences. In a report paper, Cooke stated: "One of the objectives of the institute is to facilitate research on fundamental problems in business ethics and to provide leadership in developing a research agenda for the discipline. Another is...outreach and dialogue among leaders in business education, government and labor who are interested in dealing with the moral dilemmas facing businessmen and women."

Among the national companies Cooke has worked with are Ameritech, Illinois Bell, the National Endowment for the Humanities and the National Realtors Association. He serves as a consultant for Arthur Andersen & Co., one of the nation's "big eight" accounting firms. He also has worked with the Financial Executives Research Foundation on fraudulent financial reporting.

Cooke said his Libertarian view will present an interesting look at today's business practices, and notes he is not entirely convinced so-called "insider trading" is a bad policy for the economy.

Cooke has several publications to his credit concerning the business field and related topics.

The YSU lecture will be followed by a question and answer session. Cooke also will appear at other YSU events during his visit here.

Music graduate strives for album success

By TERRY BYERS
Jambar Reporter

Success is no longer just a dream or an unreachable goal for one particular YSU graduate. It's a reality, as well as an ongoing experience.

Steve Pappas graduated from the YSU Dana School of Music in the summer of 1986 with a degree in music education. For most people, attaining their degree would be the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. For Pappas, this was just the beginning of his rainbow.

Immediately after he graduated, he began teaching at Sheridan Elementary School and Stambaugh School in Youngstown, where he presently is an elementary music specialist teaching kindergarten through eighth grade. "My responsibility to the kids, when it comes to music, is to expose them to all various types of music and to give them a good general background in music, as well as to leave them with a feeling that you're their friend," said

Pappas.

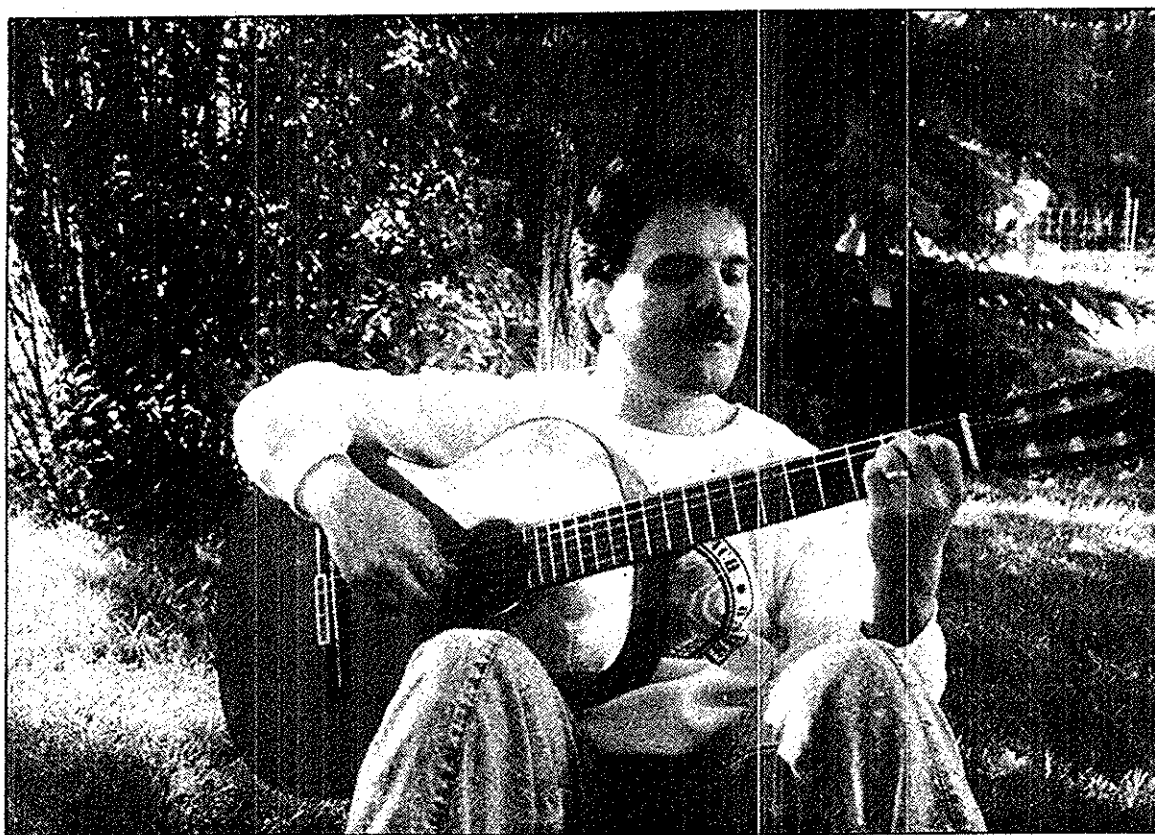

In addition to teaching for the Youngstown Public School System, Pappas maintains two guitar studios, where he gives private instruction.

Pappas did not have teaching as his goal when he first began college. "My goal was to be an athlete, but then I had an accident and so I gave up on sports," said Pappas.

Growing up in a musical family, Pappas developed a love and appreciation for music. He began to study the guitar as a teenager. While taking lessons on the electric guitar, Pappas happened to hear a recording of the legendary flamenco guitarist, Sabicas.

Inspired by what he heard, Pappas enrolled at the Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music in Winchester, Virginia to study the classical guitar. "I knew I couldn't go to college to study the electric guitar," he said. After attending Shenandoah College, Pappas returned to Ohio to complete his studies

Jambar Entertainment Reporter

Lunchtime at YSU can become more enjoyable with the help of the YSU music department.

YSU's Dana Concert Series along with the Butler Institute of American Art will once again present the "Music at Noon" concert series starting Sept. 28.

The half-hour brown bag concerts will be held at 12:15 p.m. each Wednesday through Dec. 7 in the Butler's Beecher Court. All concerts are open free to the public.

The Dana School of Music is starting its fall season with several concerts including "Music at Noon" which provide students with the opportunity to perform in front of an audience.

Wendell Orr, who is responsible for organizing the series, is one of the many performers scheduled for the eleven week program. The series includes

Season opens with West Side Story

By ROB CICCOTELLI
Jambar Entertainment Editor

The 1988-89 University Theatre season will offer entertainment and practical experience for members of the University community with a wide range of interests and talents.

The theatre will kick off its season with six performances of Leonard Bernstein's musical West Side Story beginning Nov. 10, in Bliss Hall's Ford Auditorium.

According to Michele Lepore-Hagen, University Theatre, West Side Story will be highlighted by musical direction by John Simsic and choreography by David Jendre. The director for this play will be Dr. Dennis Henneman.

University Theatre casting priority will be given to current YSU students but auditions are open to all interested persons.

Lepore-Hagen noted "It would be exciting to work on any aspect of a play like West Side Story." She added that help is welcomed in many areas from behind the scenes stage work to the musical production.

Anyone interested in becoming involved with University Theatre should call or drop by the University Box Office in Bliss Hall. Auditions for West Side Story are being held this evening and Wednesday from 4 to 6 p.m. in Ford Auditorium, located in Bliss Hall.

Other productions scheduled for this season include Modigliani, a drama by Dennis McIntyre and Shakespeare's A Midsummer Nights Dream. Tickets reservations for the University Theatre are

Parody pokes fun at classic works

Jump Off the Cliff Notes: A Parody
Bart Books $4.95

By LAURIE DELANEY
Jambar Entertainment Reporter

Jump Off the Cliff Notes by Gina Cascone and Annette Cascone is not a book to be taken seriously. However this parody of popular study guides may offend some readers.

The book's summaries of classics such as Moby Dick, A Tale of Two Cities and Hamlet can be considered by some to be tasteless.

Some of these entries are extensive and include sections entitled "About the Author"; "Who's Who ...", character analyses and "What Goes Down", summaries of the books. Review questions are also provided.

These subdivisions exaggerate many aspects of the authors' lives as well as their works.

In the "About the Author" section of The Old Man and the Sea for example, the reader is told that, "Ernest 'Papa' Hemingway was born on July 21, 1899, with only one eyebrow..."

As for the summations, one can be sung to the tune of "The Beverly Hillbillies" while another follows the melody of "Old McDonald Had a Farm"; yet they follow the storylines of the novels the synopsis.

Conversely, the study questions do not relate to the novel being discussed. For instance, a review question for The Scarlet Letter asks, "What union could God never bless?" The answer is

"Charles Dickens and a pencil". It is apparent that Dickens is the main target of criticism in this book as he is ridiculed in almost every selection.

Some of the entries are one-liners like the one for Romeo and Juliet: "They're dead".

Another section is made up of illustrations entitled "Favorite Books of the Rich and Famous". For instance, Sylvester Stallone is partial to English Made Simple.

Jump Off the Cliff Notes is light reading that can be a humorous escape from a heavy course load.

Its satire is insightful as well as callous. However, the sensitive reader should beware, this book does contain profane language.

Most people with Pappas' talent and ability would be happy just to be a teacher. And although Pappas loves and enjoys teaching in the public schools as well as teaching privately, Pappas is a composer of music, and his real love lies in playing the guitar and in composing for the instrument.

Over the past year, Pappas has been compiling a repertoire of his own original guitar instrumentals, which utilize classical guitar techniques. Many of these pieces are based on Pappas' own life, ranging from "Margaree," "Memories of Cape Breton," inspired by a trip to Nova Scotia to "Refuge," which is reflective of the Biblical Psalm 91.

For the past seven months, Pappas has been recording with the intent to record his compositions as solos, many of the songs have grown to include orchestras. Assisted by synthesist Dan Page, the duo has put together a "duo" representative of a soon to be compiled LP/cassette, entitled Winter's Passage, which is to be released on Pappas' own label.

Since June, his music has been heard on several radio stations, including WQED in Pittsburgh, and WCSB in Cleveland.

Artist revives folk-rock social commentary

By ROB CICCOTELLI
Jambar Entertainment Editor

The second release from Michelle Shocked, Short Sharp Shocked is a collection of autobiographical songs written about her early life in Texas.

According to a press release, she chose her name because, "Shocked" was her reply to the Republican National Convention in Dallas where she was arrested in 1984". She said, "Michelle Shocked" because that's the way I felt. That said it all".

The overriding style of the album is a soothing mix of rock, folk and blues. It is a refreshing revival of 60's music mixed with 80's lyrics.

From first glance at the cover photo of riot police subduing a citizen, it is clear that Shocked is making a statement about social injustice. This statement is carried throughout the album with songs such as "Graffiti Limbo" and "Black Widow".

"Graffiti Limbo" uses a blues riff while talking about a subway graffiti artist in New York who is arrested for his art and is subsequently strangled to death by the policemen who apprehended him.

This song gains power as Shocked recites the story as an aside from the lyrical flow of the song.

"Black Widow", at its onset, creates an image of a lonely woman that relates to the literal Black Widow spider. Interestingly, the poetic structure of the verse provides the listener with a perspective on life and its tribulations which might parallel that of a spider. It also produces a feeling of how insignificant each of us is given the vastness of the universe; showing how our place in the world is like the spider's.

Another piece worthy of particular note is "Anchorage", a ballad involving a letter from an old friend. Though the theme of this song is a common one, its soothing acoustic guitar and subtle violin inspire personal reminiscence. It is moving in its optimism that friendship can be strong enough to span the years and many miles.

Overall this album is a vivid reminder of the power that folk ballads once utilized to elicit social concern.

Penguins run pass 13th ranked Panthers, 33-13

YSU running game led by Hawkins, Davis

By RICK GEORGE
Jambar Sports Reporter

No matter who Jim Tressel puts at running back he is guaranteed that an excellent running back will be handling the ball.

With leading rusher J.C. Penny out of the game on Saturday against Eastern Illinois because of a thigh bruise, in stepped the veteran Lorenzo Davis and the kid Leo Hawkins. They combined for 271 yards and four touchdowns as they led the way for a YSU 33-13 victory.

Davis, who had not yet had a 100 yard game, finally broke out as he put up 122 yards and two touchdowns. Davis' experience and talent took over the game from the outset as he dazzled the Panthers.

Hawkins, who made his debut at his natural position running back, surprised everyone as he galloped for

JOHN CHARIGNON/THE JAMBAR

There he goes again: Leo Hawkins took advantage of his first start by rushing for 149 yards and two touchdowns. Hawkins got the start because of J. C. Penny's thigh bruise. Hawkins' fellow running back, Lorenzo Davis, rushed for 122 yards and two TD's.

By RICK GEORGE
Jambar Sports Reporter

Just as rain ends a summer's drought, touchdowns are the cure for scoring droughts. That is just what YSU did on Saturday night at Charleston, Illinois as they scored five touchdowns and marched to a 33-13 victory over the Eastern Illinois Panthers.

The man who was the surprise of the game was sophomore running back Leo Hawkins who filled in for the injured J.C. Penny.

Hawkins rushed for 149 yards and two touchdowns while fellow running back Lorenzo Davis picked up 122 yards and hit paydirt twice.

With the Penguins notching their first victory of the year, Head Coach Jim Tressel was elated with the win.

"It feels great to get in the win column, but it makes you happy for just one night," said Tressel. "We have to now look forward to the Akron game."

The Penguins set the tone early as Eastern Illinois quarterback Eric Arnold fumbled on the first play of the game and cornerback Jason Price recovered. Four plays later Hawkins went over from three yards out to put YSU up 6-0 (Darren Morgan's kick failed).

On YSU's second possession, Lorenzo Davis put the visitors up 13-0 on a 19 yard scamper and before the half ended Davis would find the end zone again on a 17 yard run to let YSU lead 20-7 at intermission.

To begin the second half, the Penguins received the kick and on the second play Hawkins knocked down defensive players as he rambled 64 yards for a touchdown.

"I just fought to stay up and finally I broke away," said Hawkins.

YSU would score one more time in the period when quarterback Chris Gamble hit tight end David McIntosh for 14 yards to make it 33-7.

YSU quarterback Gamble said he felt good about the win.

"It feels better winning than losing," said Gamble. "Tonight we made very few mistakes, and the offensive line opened up the holes for our running game."

"As far as next week goes, we'll practice hard and come ready to play next Saturday."

It wasn't only the YSU offense that rose to the occasion of playing the 13th-ranked Panthers. Although Eastern Illinois scored 13 points, only seven of them were given up by the YSU defense.

The Panthers scored their last touchdown on a blocked Ken Kubus punt with Eastern Illinois' Bob Howarth running 31 yards for the score with 8:50 left in the game.

Eleven inducted into YSU's Hall of Fame

YSU — When Head Coach Jim Tressel entertains the Akron Zips on Saturday, YSU will begin the day in dramatic fashion with the induction of 11 new members into the University's Athlete's Hall of Fame.

The fourth class of inductees includes six former football players, two men's basketball players, a baseball player, a women's basketball player and a contributor.

This brings the total of Hall Of Famers to 43.

Inducted were Don Calloway (football), Jeff Covington (men's basketball), Dave Davecky (Baseball), Bob Gibson (football), Wanda Grant (women's basketball), Bob Housteau (football), Billy Johnson (basketball), Carmen

Cross country teams struggle

YSU — The Penguins' men's and women's cross country teams posted 11th and ninth place finishes, respectively, at the Malone Invitational.

Tom Borton led the men's team just as he had done last week with a 42nd finish with a time of 33:21 in the 10k(6.2 miles).

Greg Cisneros finished 83rd with a time of 34:19 while Phil Orlando was timed at 34:48.

Renay Falibota led the women's team with time of 21:49 in the 5k(3.1 miles). She finished 57th while her sister Carol Falibota placed 69th at 22:35 with Santina Belcik having the same time finishing in

Penguins split pair with Slippery Rock over weekend

By RUSSELL FARMINTINO
Jambar Sports Reporter

The YSU baseball team kicked off their 1988 season on somewhat of a good note by splitting a doubleheader this weekend with Slippery Rock, winning the opener 10-2 and losing the nightcap 17-5. The doubleheader signaled the start of the season for both schools.

In the opener, it was all Penguins. YSU got on the board first when DH Mark Tinney scored in the bottom of the first without the benefit of a base hit. A hit batsman, a walk, and a wild pitch enabled Tinney to score.

Slippery Rock answered the YSU tally with two of their own in the top of the fourth inning. A leadoff walk was followed by a home run by shortstop Craig White. The two-run blast gave Slippery Rock a 2-1. Shortly thereafter, YSU starting pitcher Jim Timko was relieved by Doug Harrah.

The 2-1 lead by Slippery Rock proved to be a short-lived one, however, as the Penguins scored seven times in the bottom of the fourth to salt the game away. Four singles and three walks fueled the outburst with the key blow delivered by catcher Jim Sotlar, who smashed a grand slam. After four innings, it was 8-2, Penguins.

The Penguins closed out the romp with single runs in the fifth and sixth innings. A walk, a single, and a sacrifice fly by Rob Armstrong plated a run in the fifth while doubles by Paul Totoni and Chris Durkin plated the final run in the sixth.

Facing the YSU attack were Dean Cicoretti, who had two singles and a double, and Durkin, who had a single and a double. Harrah paced up the victory on the hill by hurling 2 2/3 innings of scoreless ball.

Unfortunately, the Penguins could not keep it going in the second game as they were routed by Slippery Rock, 17-5. The Penguins were never in this game as Slippery Rock scored eight times in the first, twice each in the second and third innings, and five times in the fourth to take a 17-0 lead by the time YSU batted in the bottom of the fourth.

The Penguins spoiled the shutout attempt by Slippery Rock in the bottom of the fifth. Singles by Jim Ciambotti and Joel Brennan along with a wild pitch and an error plated two runs to make it 17-2, Slippery Rock.

The Penguins then proceeded to score three times in the bottom of the sixth. Two walks and an error preceded a bases-clearing, three-run triple by Brennan to close out the scoring. Brennan paced the way for the YSU, collecting two of the team's four base hits.

PENGUIN NOTES

Four basketball players return to Cleamons' squad

Practices don't begin until Oct. 15 for Jim Cleamons' basketball team but that doesn't mean that there's no basketball action taking place.

Cleamons lost four senior players from last year (Tilman Bevely, Jim Gilmore, Mike Solmen and John Robinson), but also departing are Cortney Gilmore, who transferred to Grambling, Matt Anderson, who transferred to a junior college, and Scott Hollywood, who started 15 games for the Penguins last season.

Returning to the team for sure this season are Tim Jackson, Clarence Ray, Steve Hanousek and Aundra Brown, who was redshirted last year. One of the key players Cleamons will be adding to his roster is Kevin Haddock, who transferred to YSU last season.

Cleamons said he's not too excited about the start of the season because the fall recruiting season started Sept. 17 and will end Oct. 7.

"The only thing I'm really excited about is recruiting a legitimate center," said Cleamons. "That's the one thing we're still lacking — getting ourselves a legitimate post man."

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL: The volleyball team's trip to the Cannon Invitational didn't turn out the way Penguin fans would have wanted it, with YSU going 1-3.

The Penguins beat Mercyhurst but were beaten by Ashland, Buffalo and Cannon, who ended up winning the tournament.

Officials needed to referee games

YSU — Intramurals has yet to start but the deadlines and team captains clinics are starting to get closer.

Three sports will be holding their team captains clinics in the Scarlet Room in Kilcawley Center on Thursday, Oct. 12, 1988. The captains for Flag Football will be meeting at 6 p.m., while Team Handball will meet at 7:30 p.m. and Floor Hockey at 8:15 p.m.

The Intramurals Office also announces that the particular officials for these sports will also have a mandatory discussion and examination at the same site and time.

Officials for intramural games are paid between $4-6 a game.

Students looking for information and employment applications should contact the Intramurals Office, Room 103 Beeghly Center (742-3488), prior to Oct. 6, 1988.

opportunity to find out what facilities are available, and when." Bob Walls, Student Government vice president, suggested that a booth be set up at the annual Organization Fair to demonstrate the new systems and increase student awareness to computer center facilities.

Al Clare, associate director for systems development of the computer center and Mike Hrishenko, information center analyst spent approximately one and one-half years developing YSUEVENTS. Doctor cautioned that reservation of facilities still requires contacting the appropriate office; reservations cannot be made through the computer. Further questions regarding the use of YSUEVENTS should be directed to Hrishenko at 742-7215.

SID was also developed over the past two months by Clare, in conjunction with the registrar and his staff. Other developments are also being looked at according to Yiannaki.

According to Yiannaki, YSU is looking at developing a touchtone telephone registration process that he hopes will be able to be introduced about a year from now. Touchtone telephone registration would help to eliminate a trip to the University and the long lines often currently encountered by students during registration periods.

YSU currently has an on-line transcript file for all students and that as of winter quarter 1989, all paper files will be replaced by electronic transfer of information.

representatives may miss two meetings per quarter, with the third absence resulting in dismissal from Student Government. Arriving late or leaving early results in one-half absence and all legitimate absences must be approved by 3 p.m. the day of the meeting.

Office hours for all student representatives must be determined and posted by next Monday.

The Publicity Committee also reported that the Oct. 14 Homecoming bonfire has been replaced with a pep rally that will be held at 8:30 p.m. in the Chestnut Room.

Student Government meetings will be held 4 p.m.—5:30 p.m. every Monday in room 2068, Kilcawley Center. Anyone interested is encouraged to attend.

Backs

149 yards and two touchdowns and left Eastern Illinois stymied.

Hawkins was switched to the defensive side of the ball at the beginning of the season as he became the backup at nose guard.

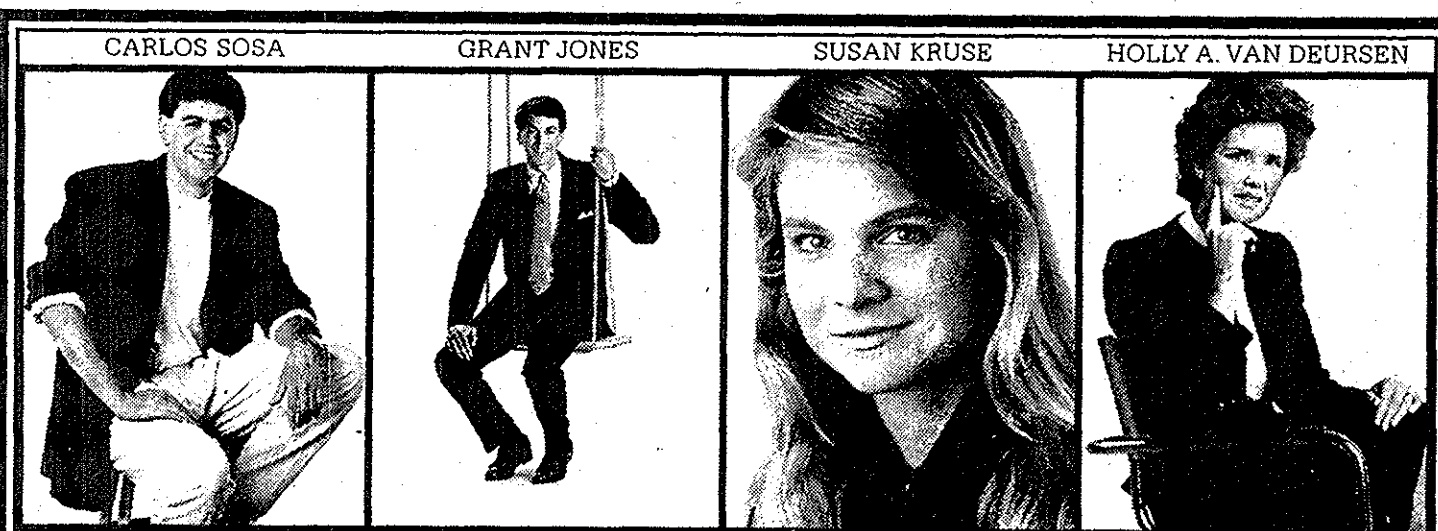

Hawkins was pleased with his performance on Saturday, which included a punishing 64 yard touchdown run to open the second half.

"I feel I played very well, but it was just a start, as I still have much to learn," said Hawkins.

Tressel was happy with the play of Hawkins, a graduate of Austintown Fitch High School.

"Leo is a great back and an unselfish player," said Tressel. "We will be seeing more from him in the future."

The "vet" and the "kid" sure did a number on the defense as they will be heard from again.

MIT, Structural Engineering.

Analyzing and designing bridges. Developed working model of a double span arch bridge. The HP-28S helps him analyze structural stress and geometry. It's the only calculator that lets him do both symbolic algebra and calculus. It features powerful matrix math and graphics capabilities. And HP Solve lets him solve custom formulas without programming. With more than 1500 functions, 32K RAM and both RPN and algebraic entry, the HP-28S is the ultimate scientific calculator.

University of Virginia, Finance.

Studies fluctuating stock and money market trends. Assisted head trader in Yen at Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The HP-12C with RPN lets him analyze prices, ratios, net present value and internal rate of return. He can even create his own custom programs. The HP-12C is the established standard in financial calculators.

UC Santa Cruz, Marine Biology.

Studies behavior of blue whales and effect of environment on distribution of marine mammals. The new, easy to use HP-22S has a built-in equation library with solver, giving her access to the most commonly used scientific equations. Statistics with linear regression. And algebraic entry. The ideal student science calculator.

University of Michigan, MBA candidate.

Assisted on pricing projects for GM. The HP-17B offers easy algebraic entry. Plus time value of money, cash flows and linear regression to analyze budgets and forecasts. HP Solve lets her enter her own formulas and solve for any variable. Hewlett-Packard's calculators are built for your success. Look for them at your campus bookstore. Or call 1-800-752-0900, Ext. 658E, for your nearest dealer. We never stop asking "What if..."
