Problems With WP

Grade Rules Examined

The entire system and the theory behind the grades of Withdrawn Passing (WP), Withdrawn Failing (WF), and Incomplete (E) is presently being examined by the Academic Council of Deans and the Academic Affairs Committee with possible revisions in the present system to follow.

There are two main parts of the present system which are under scrutiny. The first is the time period which is allowed a student to drop a class with a withdrawn-passing grade. The period is now four weeks after the beginning of the quarter.

Some members of the committee feel that this is not a long enough time for the student to decide if he wants to remain in a class.

Under the semester system the time period was six weeks, and this is the period which is being proposed by many.

On the other hand, some members of the committee have stated that four weeks is too long a time, and the limit should be placed at two weeks. The other part of the present system concerns the penalty of an incomplete class. Under the present regulations a student is given 60 days to complete any work which was not done during the regular quarter. If this work is not completed, the incomplete "E" grade becomes an "F".

Under the proposal, the grade of "E" would simply remain on the student's record. It would not become an "F" if the work was not completed.

Both the Dean's Council and the Academic Affairs Committee are studying the proposals intensely before making a final recommendation to the Faculty Senate Committee.

At the present time neither a WP or a WF are designated by the teacher, but are determined by the Recorder.

A student may not appeal to the Committee on Credits and Admissions and submit a written form to the Dean of the University for the reconsideration of a change from a WF to a WP. Such a petition will be considered only when just cause for the change can be shown.

National Mag Will Publish Sheets' Poem

Georg Richard Sheets, a junior English major, will have one of his poems published in the forthcoming anthology of College Student's Poetry.

This anthology is selected works of the best of over thirty thousand manuscripts received. It is published by the National Poetry Press of Los Angeles, California.

According to a spokesman for the English department, "Mr. Sheets should be heartily congratulated for the honor he won for himself and for the university."

Archibald MacLeish

Archibald MacLeish Will Speak May 14

Archibald MacLeish, nationally known poet and playwright, will speak to the university students on Tuesday, May 14th in Strouss Auditorium at 2:00.

Mr. MacLeish, who will read and comment on his own works, is being sponsored by the Student-Faculty Special Lectures Series, under the direction of Sidney I. Roberts, Associate Professor of History at YSU.

Mr. MacLeish received his A.B. from Yale and went on to receive the Fay Diploma at Harvard Law School.

His works include the famous The Hamlet of MacLeish, The Pot Of Earth, New Found Land, Collected Poems, Songs For Eve, and innumerable others.

He has received numerous awards including the Pulitzer Prize in poetry in 1932 and 1953, a Pulitzer Prize in drama for J.B. in 1959, the Boston Arts Festival Poetry Award in 1956, and the Bollington prize in poetry.

In addition to writing his volumes of poetry, Mr. MacLeish has held the positions of Librarian of Congress, Assistant Secretary of State, Editor of Fortune magazine, and Boylston Professor at Harvard University.

Archibald MacLeish held Frost's old chair at Amherst from 1963 to 1967. In 1968 he published A Continuing Journey, a collection of essays and addresses. A new volume of poems appears this year.

Ticket information will be available at a later date.

Army Selection Team On Campus Tuesday

The United States Army Officer Selection Team will visit the Youngstown University campus on May 9th and 10th, 1968, Lieutenant L. G. Waters, Team Leader, announced today.

The team, from U.S. Army First Recruiting District Headquarters, Fort George G. Meade, Md., will interview interested students at Kilcawley Hall between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., for the Army College Option Program for Officer Candidate School.

Applicants must be a citizen of the United States between the ages of 18 and 27, and have graduated from or be a senior in a college or university.

An applicant also must be in good physical condition, and qualify on the Army's mental test.

Upon successful completion of his training, he is awarded a commission as a Second Lieutenant with a commitment to serve two years as a commissioned officer in the army.

Persons interested in this program are urged to talk to either Lieutenant Waters or Staff Sergeant Walter C. Fafata Jr. during their visit, or see their local army recruiter.

"Anti-Riot" Senators Speak May 9

Two Senators of the State of Ohio Legislature will meet an assembly of faculty and students to speak about Senate Bill Sub. No. 468, the bill dealing with student riots on campus, this Thursday, May 9th in The Engineering Science Building auditorium at 2:00.

Representative Thomas P. Gilmarin will introduce Senator Oliver Ocasek, also a professor at Akron University, and Senator Robert Stockdale, also a professor at Kent State University.

Moderator for the program will be Dr. Philip J. Hahn, Assoc. Prof. of Economics at YSU.

Candidates

Any student with at least two quarters on Student Council and a 2.5 average who wishes to run for President or Vice-President of Student Government must file their petitions in the Student Council office by Monday, May 6th. No petitions will be accepted after that date.

Council To Pay Major Officers

Beginning with the fall quarter of 1968, Student Council will grant scholarships from its annual budget to the ranking officers of Student Council and Student Government.

The purpose of the scholarships is to recognize the service performed by the officers and compensate them for the time involved in executing their duties.

The President of Student Government will get $300, the Vice President $200, and the Secretary $100.

The Chairman of Student Council will get $200 and the Vice-Chairman $150.

Until now, no compensation has been given these officers.

The move is not entirely without precedent. YSU is following the moves of several other universities that have adopted a plan of paying their student leaders. If this program proves successful, it may be extended to cover all Council members.

Nino DiIullo, Senior Class President, was the major backer of the bill. He explained that it would certainly encourage more competent and qualified people to run for the offices.

The bill narrowly passed. The vote was 10 for, 10 against, and two abstentions. Ray Johnson, acting chairman, broke the tie by voting for the bill.

Two Awarded Spanish Club Scholarships

The scholarship committee of Los Buenos Vecinos, headed by Dr. Ward Miner, has announced that Bonnie Mayer and Mary Proch will receive the 14th Annual Scholarships for Study Abroad.

Usually only one scholarship is given, but this year the committee has decided to split the money between the two girls.

Miss Mayer, a sophomore majoring in German, will use her scholarship to study Mozart's music in Salzburg, Austria.

Miss Proch, a junior majoring in Spanish, will study Cervantes, the Nineteenth Century, and the Spanish Novel at the University of Valencia in Valencia, Spain.

The winners, selected on the basis of their chosen projects and their general preparation, will do their work abroad for the duration of this coming summer.

Who is Petula Clark's Youngstown friend? See page 3.

Roaring 20's Is Theme Of Gala Weekend

Spring Weekend, with the theme of the "Roaring Twenties," will start Friday, May 17th, at Yankee Lake with a semi-formal dance featuring the crowning of the 1968 Spring Weekend Queen.

An added feature to this event will be two special spotlights being brought to Youngstown from Cleveland to be used to mark Yankee Lake in much the same fashion as a movie premiere.

The Saturday afternoon carnival in the faculty parking lot will see at least 21 organizations participating in the various food and game booths.

The awards for the best of these booths will be presented at the concert the following night.

Saturday night Idora Park will be open, free of charge, to YSU students with a dance featuring the Groov U in the Cove at the park.

Peter, Paul, and Mary will bring the festivities to a close Sunday night at the Struthers Field House where they will be in concert for the enjoyment of the students.

Tickets will soon go on sale for the weekend at $1 each.

Illegal Advertising
All illegal advertising must be taken down by Monday, May 6. If any illegal advertising is found after this date, the organizations responsible for it may be fined $25 at the discretion of Student Council at Monday's meeting.

Greek News

Miss Susan Squillace, a junior in the School of Education, is the new sweetheart of Alpha Phi Delta Fraternity. She is a member of Sigma Sigma Sorority.

Here we go again with more news from your favorite area of student interest—us.

It was a slow week for people to fall in love. Two AEPHi's made it. Nancy Cohen (AEPHi) engaged to David Mayerson. Steffi Mark (AEPHi) married to Steve Spatz (AKPsi).

Congratulations from all the old Greeks to the newest of the national groups.

Alpha Sigma Tau Sorority became a national chapter on April 20, when 16 founding sisters and ten pledges were installed in formal ceremonies.

The Tri-Sigs also deserve a round of applause for installing seven girls as new activities. The new Tri-Sigs are: Madeline Banja, Cindy Bundy, Barbara Grimm, Flay Lawson, Sandy Love, Janice Santangelo, and Janie Yatsko.

After the ceremony, all the Tri-Sigs broke their diets by going to the King's Table for a celebration feast.

The Tri-Sigs also celebrated their Founder's Day on the 21st of April at Berndt's Restaurant. It honored their 70th Anniversary. Those Tri-Sigs will lose their girlish figures with all this celebrating.

Que Pasa? Is the newest pledge of Phi Sigs named Pete? Are the Sammys really holding out their star baseball player? Which TKE holds the record on getting pinned?

Miss Sandy Rhine, a junior in the School of Education, was crowned Wreath Girl at the 12th annual Dinner Dance Saturday, April 27th. Sandy is currently serving as president of the Little Sisters of Theta Chi and is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

Previn Concert Well Attended

A large number of YSU students and faculty members attended Tuesday evening's concert given at Stambaugh Auditorium by the Houston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Andre Previn.

The concert, the last of the Monday Musical Club's 1967-68 series, was dedicated by Previn to the memory of Mrs. Carl W. Ullman, late president of the Monday Musical Club.

The program included Mozart's Impresario Overture, Benjamin Britten's Sinfonia da Requiem, and Stavinisky's Firebird Suite, ending with Beethoven's Symphony Number 5.

Andre Previn, who is widely known as an excellent concert pianist, and composer, has only recently turned to conducting.

Low-Cost Facilities Available For Campus Group Functions

If a student or faculty member were responsible for securing the facilities for a luncheon or banquet, just exactly who would they see and where would these facilities be available?

To find out where they are held and what the procedure is for making reservations for a room, the person to see is Dean Edith Painter, who is the dean of women. All requests for on campus luncheon or banquet facilities must go through Dean Painter.

The reason for this is that with only one person handling requests and assignments of rooms there is less chance of conflict between two different groups being assigned the same room at the same time than there would be if two persons were responsible for this.

The facilities are scheduled on a first come, first serve basis with no priority given to groups. These facilities are open to both students and faculty.

Asked if there were many banquets held on campus, Dean Painter said, "There are very few banquets per se held on campus but there are many formal and informal luncheons."

Since there is no student union, all banquets or luncheons are held at the cafeteria and Kilcawley Hall.

Talking with Mr. Paul Taylor, who is director of food service for Youngstown State University, he explained it in this manner; "There are three conference rooms available and three dining areas which are open to both students and faculty groups on campus."

He also stated that no group which is not connected with the University is permitted the use of any of the facilities unless they are hosted by a group that is affiliated with the University.

The cost for the use of the rooms is dependent upon the size of the group and if there will be a meal involved or not.

If the function is a dance or something that will not involve a meal there will be a charge to cover the expense of getting the room available. This would involve taking up the furniture and cleaning up after the function.

Mr. Taylor explained, "The preparation of a room before and after a function involves about 82 man hours of work, so there must be a charge to cover the expense."

The charge for a group to use the non-resident dining area is set at $100, the resident dining area is $50 if there will be no meal involved.

The faculty dining area is used mainly for luncheons and small groups of about 50 to 75 persons and is most readily available on the weekends since there are no faculty meals served during this time.

Both Dean Painter and Mr. Taylor feel that most of the students are not aware of these facilities and they also feel that more faculty or student groups should try to take a fuller advantage of these facilities.

Campus Profile

Sister's A Swinger

Sister Agnes Jean Lavin O.S.B., instructor in the Dana School of Music, is actively involved with student and faculty activities through several unique ideas which are sponsored by her home convent, the Order of Benedictine Sisters of Erie, Pennsylvania.

Wears Street Clothes

The sisters of the order have started wearing regular street clothes instead of the traditional religious habits of their order.

Sister Agnes Jean feels that it is much easier to establish a rapport with students and other people that the church is trying to serve.

"Made Us Different"

"The traditional habits set us off as being different," she said, "and students don't act in their normal manner."

For the first two of the three years Sister Agnes Jean has been at YSU she wore the traditional religious habit of the Benedictine Order and lived at Kennedy Christian Convent.

Now Lives On Campus

She now lives on campus in Buchner Hall, the girls' dormitory. She explained that by living on campus she is able to have full time contact with the students.

She is not formally a religious counselor for the campus but through her associations with the Christian Youth movement and the Protestant Council of Churches she is able to work effectively with many students.

On Coffee House Board

She is an honorary member of the board of trustees of the coffee house, where she sometimes lectures on the new trends in the Catholic Church.

New Trends

The new trend of the church is to become an active part of the community in order to be an aid in special problems.

This is accomplished by having the nuns live in small groups in apartments throughout the community rather than a huge group set aside in their own building.

Speaks Again

Sister Agnes Jean will present another lecture at the coffee house on May 29.

Her music interests are varied and she participates in many musical events in the area.

Judged Contest

Recently she helped to judge the piano contestants in the American Art Festival at the Carnegie-Mellon University Seventh Annual Festival of Fine Arts.

Ed Sullivan Appearance

A recent highlight for Sister Agnes Jean and the other sisters of her home convent was an appearance on the Ed Sullivan Show; January 15, 1967.

The sisters were trying to raise money for their order and so petitioned for an audition for the Ed Sullivan Show.

Worked Hard

"We worked very hard for many weeks practicing our songs and we really sounded very professional," Sister Agnes Jean explained.

The sisters had to practice their act mostly on weekends after spending their week days teaching their various classes.

"They granted us a spot on the show before we were half finished with our act."

Many Songs

The act contained songs ranging from folk to popular music and had some dancing in it.

"Sisters '66"

The act called itself "Sisters '66." Forty nuns participated in the act with several playing instruments such as the guitar and drums.

Conducted Group

Sister Agnes Jean conducted the group.

Sister Agnes Jean is a full time instructor in the music department. She teaches piano, piano pedagogy, supervising piano majors in their student teaching, and a sophomore theory class.

Music Degree

She earned her Bachelors in Music and Masters in Music at the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester in New York.

Currently she is working on her Doctorate at Boston University. She is majoring in Piano Performance and Pedagogy and is studying with Dr. Bela Nagy, a specialist in that field of music.

She is truly a "Swinging Nun."

Our swinging Sister takes a bow with Ed Sullivan.

New Breed Witnessed Here

Comment by Michael Novotny
Special Feature to the JAMBAR

The college student today, at least on a national scale, appears to be a new breed, a person who has definite opinions, a person willing to assert his right to be heard. The most often used example, of course, is the student campaign on behalf of Senator McCarthy.

On the local level, here in the Youngstown area, there exists a striking parallel to the Senator in the candidacy of Mr. Robert E. Hagan, running for congress from the 19th district.

Regardless of one's personal political preference, an observer cannot help but be impressed by the tremendous effort put forth by Youngstown State students on behalf of Mr. Hagan.

Campaign headquarters have been set up in a student's home, Youngstown students man the phone, but the most impressive part of student participation is the 20 to 40 students who gather every Saturday and Sunday morning to campaign door to door for Hagan.

In the past few weeks these students estimate they have knocked on 30,000 doors, given out reams of literature, and certainly they have impressed local residents with their interest and determination.

As the election draws near and the time for campaigning draws to a close plans are being made for a final big push this week-end.

Two big parties are being held Saturday night at student homes. One at 111 Wade Street and the other at the Madison House of Divine Metaphysics at 1235 Ford Ave. All potential campaigners are invited.

The big push will start at 11:30 Saturday and Sunday morning with the workers meeting at Mr. and Mrs. Curran's apartment, 701 at the Park V.

GOLFERS NOTCH SIXTH WIN

The University's golf squad is well on their way to another outstanding season under the able tutelage of coach Bill Carson.

The Penguin linksmen's latest victims in a quadrangular match were Pitt, Kent State and Wayne State of Detroit.

The YSU team total of 353 strokes, nine strokes below their closest opponent, the University of Toledo (362), followed by Kent's (368) and Wayne State at 370.

Outstanding in victory for the Penguin squad were Tim Porter, (Cardinal Mooney) who took medalist honors with a sizzling 67, and Tim Miller, a former standout for the Boardman Spartans who scored a nifty 68.

These scores would be treasured by any Sunday afternoon duffer over his home course, but they take on an added measure of importance when it's noted they were scored on Kent State's home course.

The YSU team record now stands at six wins against a single defeat.

If these early season scores are any indication of what is to come then Youngstown State can be counted on to be a formidable foe for any opponent this season.

Youngstown State will compete in the Mid-American tourney on May 29 at Athens.

The Penguin squad will be out to prove their ability to some of the toughest collegiate golf squads in the state.

Mid-June will find YSU journeying to the College division championship in Beaumont, Texas.

Coach Bill Carson's squad is hoping to improve on their 13th place finish as is Tim Miller who finished high among the national leaders.

And who knows, with shooting like they have shown so far—they just might surprise some one!

Netters Stand 2-1

Coach Bob Thompson's Youngstown State University netters chalked up their second consecutive win after an opening loss to Miami.

The Penguin tennis team downed Duquesne University by an 8-1 margin.

They had previously topped the University of Pittsburgh in a 5-4 squeaker.

John Keil (Oil City, Pa.) continues to star for the Thompson men. Keil is undefeated on the season and suffered only one setback last year.

Special Feature for the JAMBAR

Every few years a YSU theater production comes along which, because of its excellence, becomes "the play" to be remembered. Four years ago it was Becket. This year, Tartuffe should replace it as "the play."

Director Roger Nickles has shaped Tartuffe into the best production this reviewer has ever seen presented on the YSU stage. Written in the 17th century by the French playwright Moliere and translated into English verse, this play satirizes the beliefs of a very Catholic French Restoration society.

Director Nickles, however, has brought its theme very close to modern audiences. Besides being entertaining, there is enough substance in this production to ruminate on for a while.

Education is the most specific human characteristic.

stage and costumed. Other members of the cast were David Schultz, Patricia Hodges, Chip LaVogue, Toni Scall, Joyce Zyznar, Skip Koch, George Nelkejich, Paul Kuharich, Bob Thorne, and Larry Anderson (who, by the way, delivers an excellent closing speech to summarize the substance of the play).

This YSU theater production is a must to see. The last performances will be held at the Youngstown Playhouse Arena, Glenwood Ave., tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m.

Mike Brace, as Tartuffe, is unforgettable. His is perhaps the best performance by a YSU player in a very long time. He is a deliciously villainous character, a villain with savoir-faire. In short, Mike Brace at his best.

Kathleen Falot is Dorine, the naughty maid. She also is superb. The advisor, confident, and schemer of the household, she is witty and funny, very funny, her low dote-lage notwithstanding.

The father is played by Chet Amedia. Although not quite at ease in verse, Amedia aptly portrays the figure of the glib, scrupulously religious servant of the Church.

Mara Baker is a magnificent grand lady, a superb French matron with all the finesse and grandeur of the time period. Jeanne Elser is the daughter, promised in marriage to the villainous Tartuffe, but who loves Valere, a gallant young man portrayed with a little bit too much elbow angling by Gary Banks.

Ernie Martin, as Damis, is the fumbling young son, hopeful swordsman, and pathetically ineffectual avenger of the family's honor. Dan Khoury, black cape and all, is the fitting leader of a band of bandits.

Presenting a large cast (eighteen all told), Tartuffe is beautifully

Complaints Up and Down

Highway Is Grief

The flurry of active protest from the students that live in the area being cleared for the Madison Ave. Expressway has temporarily subsided as the work has done the same.

In the past, students living in the area had complained of all the dirt and commotion caused by the workers in the process of the clearing.

Complaints centered around the smoke fumes that engulfed the area in clearing out the houses, tree stumps, and general garbage. The dust created by the activity created more problems for the people attempting to maintain clean living quarters than they care to think about.

Many of the students in the area complained that they were forced to keep their windows shut all day to protect themselves from the dust and dirt.

"We spent eight hours cleaning our apartment," commented one student.

One woman disclosed that her apartment had to be cleaned more often than usual, but the added dirt gave us a "good reason for cleaning."

Looking forward to the future work on the freeway, one man commented, "I couldn't take it; not with more dust and noise."

Some Will Stay
"I like our apartment. I think it is the best one on campus."

This student indicated that he and his roommate are more than satisfied with their accommodations and wouldn't move under any circumstances. They would not permit the smoke, dust, and noise to drive them away.

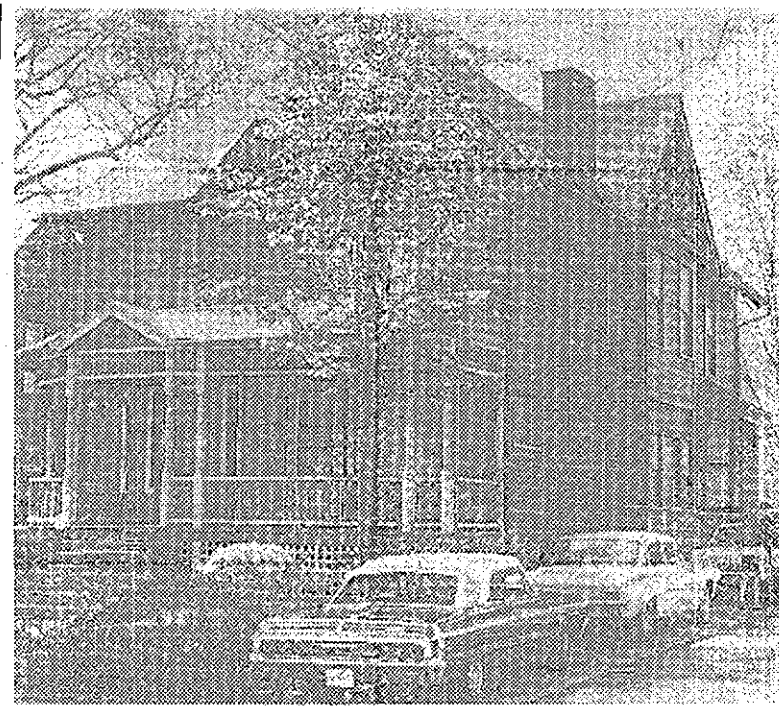

Some of the students of the area complained that they now were left with no parking area. They maintained that it is not the same as the parking problem right on campus, because their problem involved their horses.

Another woman seemed oblivious to the problems related to the construction of a highway when she suggested that she would stay where she was, "because there is no place else to live."

The problem seems to be a cyclical one. As the construction begins, the complaints rise.

Now that the initial process of clearing the rubble out is completed, the complaints will stop for a while. Shortly the second phase of the project will begin. This is when the heavy equipment will move in to clear the lines for the construction, the workers will be there at 8 a.m. pouring cement, and the road beds will be dug.

There is no question that if the residents of the area had reason to complain before, they will really have reason to complain during the second phase of the operation.

If these kids don't make it, neither do we.

These are big city school children. They are partners of all who try to build and keep our cities alive with hope and promise of personal dignity. If we fail these partners, they will fail, as finally will we all.

To the Bell System, they also are customers and, prospectively, many are fellow employees. Those we hire will bring with them attitudes and skills produced by city life and city schools. Their qualities will help shape the quality of our service. And service is our product.

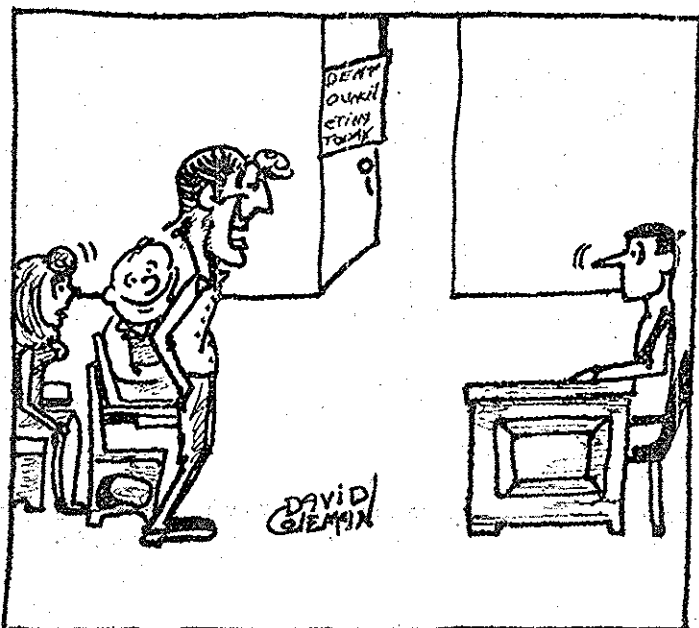

Bell System companies and people are increasingly engaged to help meet the problems of the cities, especially those concerning education and employability. In these areas our skills and other business resources may have extra value. We shall try to keep our deeds outrunning our words.

"I believe we could increase student attendance to council meetings by re-locating the meeting place—like to the Burlesque Theatre!"

Pay For Council

We are glad that Student Council has decided to pay its outstanding members' (see pg. 1). This seems to us to be a big step in the right direction.

Council seats have always been somewhat limited to those few individuals who cared enough to spend a great deal of time with little or no reward for their efforts.

These scholarships will not only benefit these hard-working few, but will make the position of a Council leader a much more valued job.

By doing this, the offices of Council Chairman and Vice-Chairman and Student Government President and Vice-President will become more attractive to a good many more individuals, which might give Council the new blood it so desperately needs.

With Student Government elections coming up soon, the money factor may bring a few more candidates into the race, and it may also stimulate those already running to seek the office with even more zeal than they had originally planned to expend.

We only hope that the scholarships don't draw the wrong type of people . . . those who would only be interested in the money.

In the past, the lack of monetary gain has always acted as a control against such actions. The zeal and interest of the people involved could not be questioned, for they were doing the work for nothing.

Now that things have changed, we trust Student Council is aware of the difficulties that will arise as well as the benefits.

And More Radio

We have been waiting patiently for much too long of a time for something to be done about a radio station for YSU. We could very well accept delay if there were a question as to the practicality or feasibility of such an undertaking, but that question does not exist.

YSU has been throwing away money by paying WKTL $200 a quarter for the use of their studios for our broadcasting classes. The fact is that we are still throwing this money away.

A proposal was made several months ago to establish a carrier current station on campus. A detailed study revealed that the cost of putting such an operation into working order would be less than $700 for the first year.

A quick analysis shows that we have almost paid for our own station in rent to WKTL for three quarters. This does not make sense to us.

Many colleges and universities with smaller enrollments and budgets than YSU already have their own stations.

If we really are to consider ourselves a progressive university, let us make progress in the direction of establishing a radio station now.

Private Drab Talks and Fights

—Chronicle Features

"Hi, out there. How's the wife and kids?" shouted Private Oliver Drab, 378-18-4454, heaving a grenade over the lip of his bunker into the darkness. "Nice night, don't you think?"

"Drab!" snapped Captain Buck Ace. "What in blue blazes do you think you're doing?"

"I'm getting ready for the peace negotiations, sir," said Private Drab enthusiastically. And, cupping his hands, he shouted, "Sure was a scorcher today though, wasn't it?"

His only answer was a burst of small arms fire.

"Shut up!" hissed the Captain. "You want to get us all killed?"

"Oh, gosh no, sir. You know how I fell about that. But I read where the new policy is going to be to 'talk and fight.' And I figured I'd better get in training for it."

"Talk and fight?" said the Captain. "That's the Commie line, soldier. We've got captured documents proving they've been planning just such a strategy for years. Talk and fight! It shows you how cunning and devious and unscrupulous the enemy is."

"I didn't mean to sound subversive, sir."

"Don't worry, son. We're going to meet this threat in the American way. We're going to keep our guard up and continue to press our military advantage in the field."

"I see, sir," said Private Drab, nodding. "We're going to talk and fight. Hey, out there! How about a little peace and quiet . . ."

A mortar round exploded nearby.

"Damn it, Drab, I told you to shut up!"

"I guess you're right, sir. It sure isn't as easy as it sounds to talk and fight at the same time."

"Now you're getting the picture, son," said the Captain, mollified.

"Thank you, sir. And I'd like to volunteer to do the talking."

"The talking?" Captain Ace scowled. "That's for politicians, Drab. You just let those glib-tongued politicians do the talking and leave the fighting to us soldiers."

"Yes, sir. But honest, I'm much better at talking than fighting. You know this thing I've got about not wanting to get killed. Well it kind of interferes with my fighting. But talking. Why, my aunt used to say, 'That boy could talk the paint right off the barn door.' I'm a born talker, sir. Yes, sir. If we can't talk and fight at the same time, I'm for talking first and fighting later. Like when after I get out of the Army and . . ."

"Drab," said the Captain slowly, "either you stop talking and start fighting or I will cut your tongue out personally."

"I still don't see where this 'talk and fight' makes sense," Private Drab said later to his friend, Corporal Partz. "How can you talk peace to a guy while you're trying to blow his head off?"

"The Captain's right, Oliver," said Corporal Partz. "That's why we divide the burden. Some guys do the talking while other guys do the fighting."

"I guess so," said Private Drab. Then he sighed the way soldiers have sighed since time immemorial. "But how come I always get the lousy detail?"

Where's Joe's Car?

Joe College had special permission from the administration of the Young City College to use the faculty parking lots on Alms St. and on Bison St. He was employed as a student lab assistant and needed to cart equipment home. Consequently he got a faculty sticker.

One afternoon after spending many long hours over a hot bunsen burner, Joe went to the parking lot to get his car.

He could not believe it, but his car was gone. He asked the attendant, "Sir, have you seen a bright yellow Corvette in this lot?"

"Whadya say, sonny?"

"I said, did you see anyone stealing my car?"

"Heck, no. Do you think that I'd let anyone steal a car from right under my nose?"

"I've been a parking lot attendant here at Young City College for 20 years."

"You young punk college kids should learn to respect your elders."

"I'm sorry, sir. But it was an awfully expensive car. What should I do?"

"Go see Phil Crisp. He used to be a regular on the Young City Police Department, you know."

"Now, since he took over the college's security department, we ain't had any trouble at all. That Crisp ranks with Sherlock Holmes (when he recognizes a crime)."

Joe made his way over to Kilkey Hall where the chief of the security group had his office.

Mr. Crisp was reading a copy of the latest issue of Action Comic Books. He had his cup of coffee on his desk, and his cigarette was burning. (Doesn't the scene remind you of an old Dragnet episode?)

"Sir?"

"Yeah, kid?"

"Sir, it seems that someone has made a mistake and let my car get stolen from one of the YCC faculty parking lots."

"I have the keys with me, so someone must have jumped the car right in front of the attendant's nose."

"Can you prove it?"

"Well, I know that I did drive this morning and my car is not now where I put it."

"Well, I'll tell you. Your car is perfectly alright. Probably just some fraternity prank."

"C'mon. You can't be serious. My car was stolen."

"You probably just misplaced it," the Chief answered as he picked up his reading material.

"Look . . . Oh, forget it. You probably couldn't find your nose if it were running."

"You get out now, kid, or I'll have you thrown out of school!" Joe really didn't know where to turn. His car was stolen and he got no sympathy from the chief security man of the school.

Joe then went to the only place he thought he could get some assistance; and that was the maintenance department.

Perhaps they saw someone running around in Joe's car. They are the only people that really get around.

It seems that all they do on the Young City College campus is run around in their trucks waving at the coeds. They saw nothing.

Joe reported it to the Young City Police Department and went home to bed. There was nothing else for him to do.

The next morning the rock was gone. In its place was Joe's Corvette. It was painted red and white. The phantom walrus struck again.

Moral: Security is non-involvement.
