

Margie Is Queen—

1968 Homecoming Queen Margie Sfora

Homecoming Tonight

YSU's 60th annual Homecoming celebration begins tonight at 7:30 in the Arlington Street Student parking lot with a pep bonfire.

Immediately following the bonfire, there will be an informal dance held in the school cafeteria. At the dance, a spirit trophy will be awarded to the group that furnishes the most wood for the bonfire.

Music will be provided at the dance by the New Hudson Exit and the Boys and Ivy. The cafeteria will be decorated to maintain the theme of the Homecoming weekend—Around the World in 80 Days. The smaller section of the cafeteria will be made over to lend the effect of a coffeehouse. Free cider and donuts will be served at the dance. Mrs. Edith Painter, Dean of Women, has made a special concession for the evening to permit the coeds of YSU to attend this special event in slacks or bermudas if they choose to do so.

Saturday's activities will be kicked off with the Homecoming parade scheduled to begin at 10 A.M. on Federal Street. The procession will move through the city to end on Bryson Street by the Kilcawley Student Center.

Saturday afternoon during the halftime activities of the football game, Miss Margie Sfora, Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority, will officially be crowned the 1968 Homecoming Queen. She will be crowned by the President of the YSU Alumni Association.

Saturday night's semi-formal dance will be held at the Yankee Lake Ballroom. The main band for the evening will be the New Breed. A special floor show will be presented at 10:30 that evening by The Five Stairsteps and Cubie.

The weekend will ring out Sunday night with a live concert at the Struthers Field House beginning at 8 P.M. by Motown recording artists, The Four Tops.

Tickets for the Homecoming weekend may be purchased at the Student Council office all day today for two dollars per person.

Acting Major Events Chairman for the weekend is Michael Wholehan, and the weekend coordinator is Howard Zecher.

Prexy Questions Group's Validity

Activities of YSU's newly organized Community of Concern, including its right to invite speakers and possibly including its right to enter a float in Saturday's Homecoming Parade, were halted yesterday—temporarily at least—by President Pugsley.

The organization is an outgrowth and re-naming of last year's Students and Faculty for Peace. Dr. Chaplain Morrison, Associate Professor of History, a faculty member of the group, is sometimes considered as its faculty advisor. Other activities presumably either halted or suspended by President Pugsley's edict includes, besides the Homecoming float, the sponsorship of a campus appearance of Virgil L. Musser, Democratic candidate for Congress for the 16th Congressional District (Boardman-Canfield area) at 2 p.m. Tuesday, October 29, in Dana Recital Hall.

It was suggested last night by members of the group that Musser's sponsorship might be changed to some other organization in order to prevent a cancellation.

President Pugsley's action took the form of a letter addressed to James Hagan, President of the group, questioning the status of the Community of Concern as a chartered campus organization and suggesting that a proposed speaker, an official of the Dow Chemical Company, could address the group only under an invitation "as private individuals."

Dr. Pugsley further stated that the group may issue no invitation "as an organization until you have been approved."

The speaker in question is James A. King, manager of the Midwest Region Recruiting for Dow Chemical. He has not yet responded to the group's invitation. He is expected on campus for two days next week, and was (Continued on Page 8)

Council Calls off Meeting

A secretary of the City Council reported that a large group of students arrived at City Hall for the Council meeting Wednesday night, apparently in support of recent efforts to have the parking zones around the University changed.

The Council Meeting, however, had been canceled because of the death Sunday of County Commissioner John Palermo.

The secretary stated that the local news media had been informed Tuesday that the meeting would not be held. No mention of the cancellation was made in the Vindicator or on the Radio and Television stations.

Classes Cancelled—

Rats In Lincoln

Several instructors who have classes scheduled in the basement of the Lincoln Hotel have refused to hold classes there because a rat entered the classroom on Monday, it was learned yesterday. Classes in those rooms have been indefinitely relocated.

Mrs. Nan Hogue, instructor in Communication said that Monday morning she heard an uproar in the classroom across the hall from her in Lincoln Hotel. When she entered the room, she saw a rat running among the students.

Later, Mrs. Juliette Gagliardy, also an instructor in communications, dismissed her classes in Lincoln basement after she had heard that a rat had been seen in the building. She told the students they would not have class until the room was changed to another building.

Mrs. Gagliardy said she didn't believe it was right that students be "exposed to a rat bite of disease." She also said she was pleased with the "prompt action of the University" in moving the classes.

Once the registrar was informed of Mrs. Gagliardy's ultimatum, steps were quickly taken to transfer the classes to another building. By Wednesday morning the classes were scheduled for Rayen School.

The University rents the rooms from the Lincoln Hotel. Mr. Anthony Ignazio, Director of Student Housing, said the University has difficulty in getting better conditions from the hotel since it already has been approved by state inspectors meeting a minimum in Hotel codes.

Mrs. Gagliardy commented that she felt "students should be aware of the slum conditions, but that duplicating them in class wasn't necessary."

Rowan Speaks Strouss Packed

by Denise Lovrinoff-Arnold

The Honorable Carl T. Rowan, nationally syndicated negro columnist and former director of the United States Information Agency, addressed a standing room only crowd of more than 1,000 persons yesterday in Strouss Auditorium.

As he began his speech on "New Frontiers in Race Relations," Mr. Rowan joked about Governor George Wallace's visit Wednesday to Youngstown. Rowan commented that he had no worries about speaking in Youngstown because the city

"ran out of rocks and toilet paper yesterday."

"Reason," he said, "is more powerful than emotion." "This has to be the time when Americans prove they are more than just a bundle of glands and that they are capable of rational thinking."

He declared that the United States spends too much money on foreign policy while it allows dissension to rock its walls.

Business Administration Dept.—No Ph.D.'s - No Grad School

The plans for a graduate program in the School of Business Administration have been completed, but for the present it won't exist.

Dean Earl E. Edgar, Dean of the Graduate School, states that the reason that there is no graduate program in Business Administration is the shortage of Ph.D.'s in Business Administration. At the present time there is only one member of the faculty of the School of Business Administration who has a terminal degree, Dr. Dumitru Teodorescu.

When asked why no Ph.D.'s in Business Administration had been recruited to staff the graduate school of Business Administration, Dean Edgar answered that the recruitment of staff was done by the head of the department involved.

He did say that the salary schedule of Y.S.U. is comparable to other universities and that the fringe benefits provided by the administration were, in comparison with other universities, unusually favorable to the faculty.

Dean Robert L. Miller, head of the Department of Business Administration, stated that there is a lack of Ph.D.'s in B.A. which are involved in the field of teaching, because each year industry and government offer fabulous amounts to the new graduates. There is, he stated, an unending campaign to entice from colleges and universities all over the country Ph.D.'s in B.A., who are already involved in education.

Dean Miller revealed that there are 340 institutions in the United States which grant terminal degrees in Business Administration. In the last year these institutions granted approximately 500 terminal degrees. Of these 500, 250 went into industry and government.

The majority of the remaining 250 returned to teach at the institutions which had been cultivating them since they began graduate work. Only the small minority left was made available to universities which want to increase their staff, or start a new graduate program.

Dean Miller explained the long and complicated process of hiring and approving a prospective professor. The process begins with the attendance of the department head, or his representative, at a meeting of their professional organization.

In the case of the Department of Business Administration the organization is the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business or her sister organizations such as the Economics Association or the Marketing Association, among others.

At these meetings Dean Miller, as the head of the department, comes in contact with people who are able to provide him with the names of prospective professors.

A letter is sent to each prospect and, if both are favorably impressed, a visit to the university is arranged.

When the prospect arrives on campus, by means of an all-expense-paid trip, he is shown the classrooms, offices and other facilities which would be available to him. At the same time a committed made-up of the department's faculty meets with the prospect and if they approve, his appointment is sent along its way.

Before a graduate professor is hired, he is interviewed and approved by: the department chairman, head or dean; and Dean of the Graduate School; the Dean of the University; the Vice-president, and finally the President of the University.

Dean Miller and his staff have sent out hundreds of letters to new graduates, and to established professors who may be interested in new or different positions.

Choosing from the replies, Dean Miller has made many business trips to interview these prospects. These interviews have resulted in the visits of a number of the prospects, and from these prospects had come a list of very likely prospective professors.

Dean Miller says that there are a variety of reasons why many prospects will not consider Y.S.U. Some of these reasons are the incomplete plans for research facilities, that the prospects can receive jobs in well-established graduate schools and that they can also receive jobs, at the same salary, at well-known universities such as Harvard.

One example, offered by Dean Miller, which serves to indicate in an indirect manner the level of competition for business administration personnel with terminal degrees is that of a qualified person who came to this campus. He stated that he would teach 6 hours here for a period of not more than 9 months at a salary not unusual for those of his status, provided that a graduate assistant and secretarial services would be at his convenience.

In view of the above stated facts, Dean Miller is unable to set a date when the staff for a graduate program in the Department of Business Administration will be available.

He did say that the programs and the guidelines of the graduate school have been approved, tentative to the hiring of personnel who have been hired in time to open the graduate school in Business Administration, stated that it was simply a 'lack of funds.'

Secretary of Student Organizations, Richard Brienza, announced today that the student bulletin board in the lobby of Jones Hall will be cleared of all notices every two weeks beginning November 1.

PLAY TRYOUTSSCHEDULED SOON

WHO SAYS SO?

QUESTION: Why should I believe in a God I can't see, just because some preacher tells me I should? What virtue is there in a faith like that?

ANSWER: Children believe in that fashion. "My father says so" is proof enough for them up to a certain age. Then they discover that Mom and Dad are not infallible, and they begin to ask questions. Though this is hard on parents, children must learn to think for themselves.

To believe merely on someone else's say-so is not the basis of Christian faith, nor is that what gives it merit in God's eyes. The Bible says that God has chosen to save through "preaching" those who are willing to believe. If and when any preacher proclaims the truth about God, then God's own Holy Spirit speaks through him to those who have open hearts and minds.

If you will listen in that way to a man who faithfully preaches the Bible, God will speak through him to your heart. The first thing His Holy Spirit will do is to convict you of being a sinner. Remember, it is no longer the preacher you are listening to, but the voice of God in your soul.

The second thing the Holy Spirit will show you is that you must accept Christ's death as the basis for your salvation, that you must rely on His atonement for your sins. You are free to disbelieve any of man's remedies for sin, but when the Holy Spirit brings the truth home to your heart, you reject it at the cost of your own soul.

On the other hand, if you believe in Christ as your Saviour, for time and for eternity, you are not being a credulous fool, but are exercising faith in the witness of God's Holy Spirit to your own heart. Then, and only then, is faith a virtue.

Que Pasa??

by Huck and Schmuck

Coming to you almost live from the subterranean depths somewhere in the Little Red Building across the street from the Kacenga-Joseph Memorial Dormitory for Football Stars is the Homecoming adventures of Huckety Schmuckety, the neuter Penguin. Is Pete Penguin really a boy? It has been rumored that Pete Penguin has been seen this past summer in Highland Park Zoo carousing with another male penguin. If the Phi Sig's (especially Mike Wholehan) attempt to find a mate for Pete they must first find out what Pete really is.

We would like to congratulate the Homecoming Queen Margie Sfara and the court which consists of Miss Becky Hall, Miss Madeline Banjo and Miss Florita Stubbs. We hope to see everyone at Saturday night's crowning ceremony.

Congratulations to all those students who passed Dr. Wasserman's test. Yea, test! Boo, Wasserman!

Delta Chi's Chartered

Delta Chi Social Fraternity is one of the newest national fraternities on campus. Chartered by Student Council January 12, 1968 as Phi Theta local fraternity, they must just become a colony of Delta Chi National Fraternity and are very proud of their new house located at 457 Fairgreen Ave.

As Phi Theta, their accomplishments include: winner of the "Ugly Man on Campus" contest at Spring Weekend, first place in Scabbard and Blade's "King and Queen of Hearts" Dance, finished second in Phi Kappa Tau's Sports Car Rally, just to mention a few. The money they received from taking first place in the "Ugly Man" Contest, $512.00, was donated to the Officer Grady Fund.

This year, Gill Knorr triumphed at Sig Tau's "Pete Penguin Dance."

Perhaps the main reason that Phi Theta selected Delta Chi to affiliate with was the parallel of ideas and ideals. These are best expressed by President Kurt Brooks when he made the statement,

"Delta Chi encompasses our ideals of a fraternity, these being: brotherhood, scholarship, and service to our campus and community."

At Delta Chi's National Convention held in Chicago on August 25, 26, and 27, Phi Theta sent a three man delega-

Ohio chapters of Delta Chi at the convention, the Phi Thetas were unanimously granted colony status and are looking forward to initiation at Ohio State in November.

The officers are as follows: President-Kurt Brooks, Vice-President-Bill Davidson, Recording Secretary-James Owen, Treasurer-John Campbell, Corresponding Secretary-Richard Bauman, Social Chairman-Ronald Sloan.

The thirty-seven brothers are looking forward to taking a good pledge class this fall. In one short year...an outstanding job!

28 have not, 44 many times— "Graduate" Longest Run

by MaryAnn Leak

Today The Graduate marks the beginning of its tenth month at the Uptown Theater here in Youngstown. Mr. S.G. Foster, manager of the theater, stated, "outside of New York, Youngstown holds the record for the longest showing at one theater.

Mr. Foster went on to say, when compared to the length of time motion pictures are usually held over in Youngstown, The Graduate has remained for one of the longest periods.

Presently the attendance is not as great as during the beginning months, but after the ten month period, Foster states it is still good.

He explained, "This is an absolute fact, one young lady has seen The Graduate seventeen times and it is my opinion, that the majority of YSU students have seen it two of three times."

The two groups that have been most often represented at the Uptown are the middle aged parents and the college students who top the attendance lists.

Of the one hundred and fifty students who were interviewed on campus, 28 had not seen it, 59 had seen it only once, 44 had seen it twice and 19 had seen it three or more times.

When questioned, many members of the college age group explained that The Graduate appealed to them because of their ability to identify with Benjamin, portrayed by Dustin Hoffman. Ben is not the typical Hollywood glamor boy, but instead, his appearance could be associated with that of a college student on any campus.

Many students agreed that they further identified with Benjamin's feeling of being to totally lost. In the story, Benjamin suddenly realizes that he has been so busy going to school and achieving both scholastic and athletic honors, that he lacks many other insights.

Ben feels lost when he realizes that he has established no close relationship with his parents and that the generation gap has become greater. He also becomes more aware of his need for a companion who would enable him to think of himself as a man and is constantly confronted by thoughts of his undetermined future.

Other college students found The Graduate appealing because of its comical fashion. As Peter Becker, junior in engineering, stated, "The Graduate appealed to college young people mainly because the humor derived from the frankness of the situation. This, tied in with the good music, made it an emotional experience to be appreciated mainly by those still young enough to accelerate their heartbeat."

Many college students stated that the point of view, as presented by Mike Nichols, the director, was appealing.

A former YSU student, who is, incidentally, over thirty, summed it up. "In a very subtle, precise manner, this picture presents an honest commentary on the accepted moral values of American society. It shows society in which sex is used for its own unnatural ends and these practices are condoned as the proper way of living."

In addition, others agree that this film portrays society through family in which the parents build up their own pride and prestige through their child, never taking into consideration his emotions, desires, or reactions.

The majority of persons interviewed agreed on one definite point: The Graduate well illustrates the awkwardness which most persons sometimes experience with the opposite sex. Although this awkwardness is seldom discussed or even mentioned, it is agreed that it is well presented for observation and thought in this motion picture.

Penguin Ski Is Chartered

On Sunday Oct. 13th the Penguin Ski Club held its organizational meeting, and on the following Monday was granted permission to organize by Student Council.

At its first meeting the club approved the constitution and by laws, discussed future events, and elected officers.

The officers are Lloyd Hines; Joes Oles, Janer Pamer; Dennis Pallay.

Activities for the forthcoming season include one day and weekend trips to ski areas in the Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York areas. A Vermont ski week has been planned to take place during the Christmas vacation.

A ski exhibition, style show, and movie will be held in the near future.

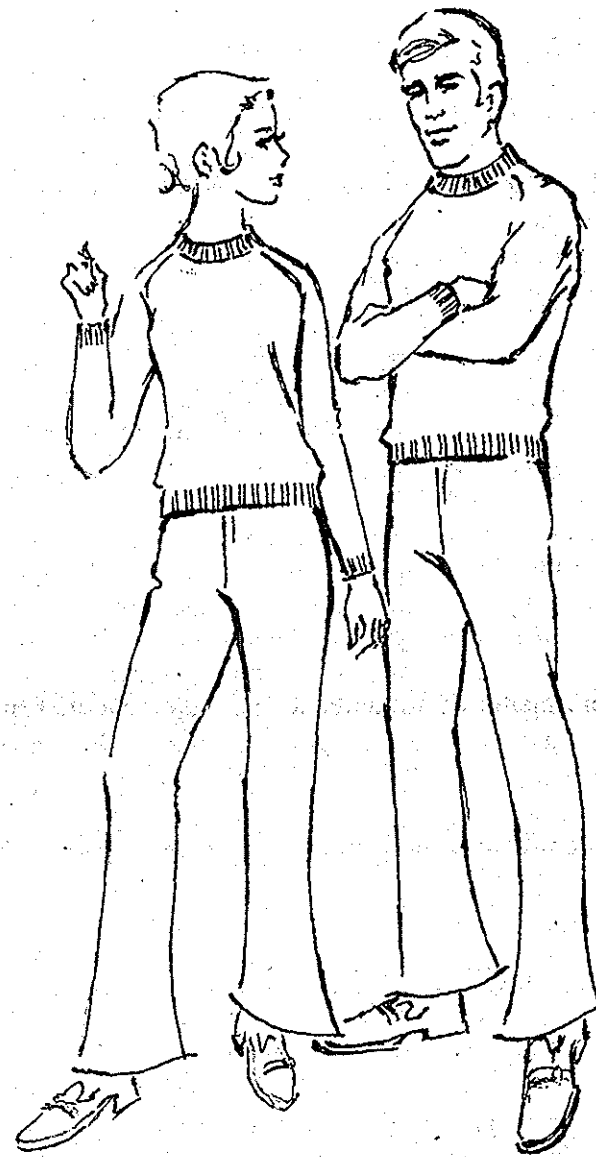

The next monthly meeting will be held in the Cardinal Room on Wednesday Nov. 6th at 8:30 p.m. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Council Highlights

by Rich Will, Vice-Chairman and Penny Laasko, Secretary

Your Student Council met Monday in Room 22 of Tod Hall. The student body was well represented with approximately 30 visitors. Several of the visitors took an active part in the meeting.

Brock Approved

Council unanimously approved the appointment of John Brock as Finance Committee auditor.

Rook Attends

At Council's invitation, Mr. Rook attended our meeting and questions were directed to him pertaining to our budget. He briefly explained the financial operation of a state university and the importance of our budget.

Seat Vacant

There is one Liberal Arts seat vacant on Council. Interested students may apply at the Council office. The final appointment will be made by Dean Dykema.

2 Groups Organized

The American Institute of Biological Science and Lambda Xi fraternity were each granted permission to organize.

Motion Vetoed

The motion requiring a weekly Presidential and Vice-Presidential report was vetoed by President Ray Johnson. However our advisor, Mrs. Dykema, stated that "rule of order" cannot be vetoed.

Defeats Issue

Council again discussed lowering the required point average of all cabinet members from 2.5 to 2.2. Although the JAMBAR and the Major Events committee were present and voiced their approval of such legislation, Council defeated the issue. A roll call vote showed 10 Council members in favor of the change and 11 against, however, 3/4 of the members in agreement were needed for the proposed change.

A disagreement arose between the President of Student Government and Student Council members concerning the appointments of students to the Major Events Committee. These names will be reviewed and again presented to Council.

Elections

Student Council elections will be held November 18 and 19. There will be seats open in every school.

The next regular meeting of Student Council will be Monday, October 28 in Room 22 of Tod Hall. The meeting will begin at 3:30.

A tutoring service has been formed. Tutors will be paid $2.00 an hour by the student. All students interested in becoming tutors may apply at the Student Government offices in 108 Kilcawley.

Testing Adds Interest Test

Mrs. Mary Ann Dobrich, head of the University Testing Department, disclosed in an interview yesterday that the testing department has added a new test to its roster called the "interest test."

Mrs. Dobrich indicated that the test is strongly vocational in nature and centers mainly around subject areas offered by the University. Consequently, it can serve YSU students as a guide to career selection.

However, she further indicated that the test results may point up an aptitude for a non-university vocation.

Mrs. Dobrich feels that this interest test will be of exceedingly more value to students than other similar tests they have taken since the results will be discussed directly with the student by Dr. George Letchworth, Director of Counseling.

Starting Monday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. appointments to take the interest test can be made by either calling or stopping at Ford Hall, first floor. Concerning eligibility to take the test, Mrs. Dobrich noted that all students, regardless of class rank, will find the test quite interesting although probably most beneficial to Freshmen and Sophomores.

Once appointments have been made, Mrs. Dobrich will begin administering the test in the new and quiet testing office now located in Ford Hall.

THE TOPS ARE COMING.

WATCH FOR THEM.

Aid To Students—

Council Begins Tutoring

A tutoring program, which will enable students to get academic help from other students, is being started by Student Council.

Council is sponsoring the program solely as a service to students so that students needing help in a course, and potential tutors will have a place to get in contact.

A student having difficulty with a subject can get the name, address, and phone number of a student-tutor at Council's office.

Requirements for a tutor are that he must have a "B" average in the subject he will tutor and a 2.5 accumulative point average.

Final approval of tutors comes from the academic deans of the university. A list of approved tutors will be available to all potential tutees.

Although there is no set fee, $2 an hour is suggested for the tutoring charges.

Many campus facilities are available for the tutoring sessions. The Purnell Room of the library, Kilcawley lounge and the new studying lounges in Ford Hall may be used although final arrangements for the study spot are left to the tutor and tutee.

The first student to take a unique advantage of the tutoring service was Loretta D. Cello. She needed someone who would read to her since one of her texts were not available in Braille.

Newman Speaks

The Newman Students Organization at YSU welcomes this opportunity to have a weekly column in the JAMBAR. In this first of many articles, we'd like to congratulate the JAMBAR staff on its well deserved "All American" award. If any of you have ever had a fine college paper, YSU has support it.

We are all looking forward to a great homecoming weekend and especially a victory on the "grid iron" on Saturday. Best of luck to all queen candidates, committees, and to the team.

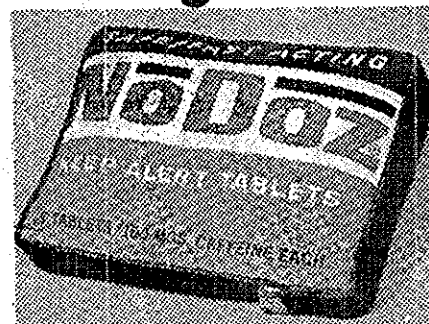

One final observation; YSU athletics need support (it hasn't had a whole lot of it in the past). Let's begin with this Saturday's Homecoming Game and give our athletic program a much needed "shot." Newman challenges all YSU students to support our team on Saturday. Let's do something different this year; let's give a damn.

Boos, Jeers and Sticks—

Trouble Greet's Wallace

Throughout the YSU campus Wednesday, some classes were cancelled and others reported low attendance. This action was the result of the visit of the first presidential aspirant to Youngstown, George C. Wallace.

The former Alabama Governor arrived at Youngstown Municipal Airport at 11:00 and was greeted by a barrage of newsmen, loyal supporters and, as always, the just plain curious.

As his plane touched down, you immediately realized that this was no ordinary candidate, for from the cockpit of his plane flew the "Stars and Bars" and one backer wore a CSA button (Confederate States of America).

The crowd that greeted him at the auditorium differed greatly from their enthusiastic counterparts at the airport. The University students, who had made the hike up the hill to Stambaugh Auditorium, mingled with the large group of spectators and supporters.

Those who loved him cheered. Those who hated him jeered. The rest of the crowd just came because it was "a nice day and there wasn't anything better to do."

As Mr. Wallace looked out into the crowd, he could see numerous signs, such as: "We Need Work Not A Jerk," "One Civil War Was Enough" and numerous others referring to Alabama and his stands on segregation, open housing, and "right-to-work" laws.

The black power advocates hoisted a sweat shirt bearing a black power fist on it, loyal Republicans carried Nixon-Agnew signs and one young lady waved an H.H.H. banner.

Many of the students attending the rally were staunch supporters of the governor. Stephany Laycock, Sophomore, feels that "our country needs more law and order"; Senior, Cheryl Kaylor feels that "He had young ideas," while Senior, Mary Gregg said "He's the first one that has the guts to say it as it is."

On the other hand, Senior, Denise Arnold went to the rally "Just to hear what he had to say, but not to support him." One Junior said that he felt "Wallace was not for the working class."

One of the desenting groups at the rally offered the comment that "Wallace has preached hate and we can't go on living in a country like that." Wearing a McCarthy button, one member of this group added, "Either he gets beat or we go to Canada." One young Negro student felt that Wallace could do nothing but harm the Black People.

Throughout his speech, which was billed as a major address on the labor issues, the former governor was interrupted by students chanting: "Fascist," "Nazi," and "Go Home Wallace."

Wallace turned out to be a very versital man in handling the hecklers. He said that he had been faced with such tactics for the last five years.

"You anarchists had better have your day now," he said, "because after November you won't have a chance to carry on like this."

When disenters showed disfavor with his opposition to the "Open Housing Bill", he told them, "You people probably don't even own a house-you have to work to own a house."

Then as an after thought, he added, "You people ought to go to a good barber, you probably can't think with that load on your mind." Also referring to this group, he commented that he could not "tell the hes from the shes."

He stressed the point that one of the main issues of the campaign was "law and order." If he would become president, he promised to "give full moral support to the police and firemen in carrying out their duties. He feels that the people responsible for the destruction of law and order are revolutionists and Communists "who care little about our country." "I intend to restore law and order and don't you forget it."

On the issue of Viet-Nam he felt that the United States "should never have gone to Viet-Nam by ourselves." We should have made certain that our allies, whom we helped in two world wars, came to our assistance. If they are unwilling to aid us, then he would demand that they pay back the money that we lent them to fight the two world wars and stop trade and foreign aid to these countries.

At this point someone in the crowd began to throw objects.

Mr. Wallace tried not to let the disenters bother him. He told them that he was glad that they showed up "because every time you do, I get a million votes."

Police and County Sherriffs restrain an unidentified youth from further fighting

"You people ought to go to a good Barber"

Students carrying anti-Wallace posters jammed the front rows of the crowd.

"You anarchists better have your day now..."

CHANGES - PART I

For a long time I studied student films because they were usually so mediocre and superficial having been done for grades in hopes of eventually getting a job with the large studios. But now, under the aegis of indie student on campuses, student filmmakers are beginning to work. When the best of films are shown on campus, literally thousands were turned away from over the premises (a line of which was announced at the last meeting) in an 1800-seat theater. The showing received unusually high praise from all circles above the establishment.

(The degree of sophistication that has developed in the last few years is amazing. The one is critical, perceptive and analytical... much as it is fresh and new.)

Message from President

To the Students of Youngstown State University:

During the past summer I have been giving considerable thought to how I might best maintain close touch with the aspirations, opinions, and concerns of the student body. The unrest that has occurred on a number of campuses has sometimes been attributed to failure of the administration and faculty of the university to communicate with students and to work with students on proper courses of action in remedying areas of student discontent. I am determined that no such failure shall exist here.

I shall come to listen as well as to inform and discuss, for it is my intention that his University shall operate in a way that is reasonable and in a way that will command the confidence of each student. It exists to provide educational opportunity to you and we are all trying very hard to see that it is an institution of high quality and real service.

In the event that I find it necessary to be absent for any of these Tuesday meetings, I shall send another top ranking administrative officer as my replacement for that day and I shall also have some of these individuals occasionally with me when I visit with you.

One last thought—I have said before and now say again that my door is always open to students and faculty for private conference, and it is my earnest desire that this policy be followed throughout the institution.

Cordially,
 A.L. Pugsley

Try Again

Due to the cancellation of the regular City Council meeting Wednesday we have still not had the opportunity to address council. However, this had only been a postponement, and we will be there next week.

It is an encouraging sign that an apparently large number of students attended the meeting Wednesday night. We are sorry that they were disappointed.

However, we hope that they will not be discouraged by this week's quirk of fate. Last week, or this upcoming week, or two months from now if necessary, the JAMBAR will need the support of the students if we are to achieve our purpose.

The local news media has been giving the situation the coverage we need. But it will also be necessary for the students to show the council directly that they are also disturbed and concerned.

So again this week, we urge the students of this university to attend the City Council meeting on Wednesday, and take an active part in the drive to have on-the-street parking in the university area.

Letters to editor

To the Editor of the JAMBAR: I feel that the policies advocated by George C. Wallace are unrealistic, irresponsible and untenable in a democratic society, I must, nevertheless, voice my disapproval of the Student conduct displayed at Stambaugh Auditorium Wednesday afternoon.

Certain interested members of our student body in attendance had previously decided that Mr. Wallace was not to be permitted freedom of speech and presently proceeded to chant, pitch objects, and shout down the former governor with an array of vulgarity usually confined to the interiors of the various campus bars.

These students displayed a degree of ignorance and a conscious lack of social refinement that any Southern racist would have been proud of. Dissent is a basic human right when it is done in a socially acceptable manner. When ignorance prevails, however, shame becomes the ultimate consequence.

to their sons and black men can't communicate with the white," he said.

Once asked by a young African if our foreign program is only 'dirty dollar diplomacy,' he commented that aid is given for selfish reasons. The reasons he said were fear of an unsafe world if millions go hungry, and guilty consciences at the sight of the impoverished. The least selfish reason, he said, was compassion on those in need.

To this last charge he countered that the "Indians could not stay as a minority among the majority. They are testimony to the squalor and poverty that will exist. Black people," he added, "must formulate their own destiny."

Mr. Rowan felt there isn't a white man alive mean enough to make him believe that a black colony is the answer.

Mr. Rowan declared that there must be an "exact and universal justice for all men and no nation can prosper without it. A patriot is not someone who can cough up enough money for an old stoner rifle for his wife to take shopping with her, but someone who will do something everyday to attain this exact and universal justice."

During the question and answer period Mr. Rowan was asked how the United States appeared to the countries abroad. "America," he said, "is not shining as much as it should. Many Europeans are concerned about the internal dissension within the U.S. They cannot understand how a man who could stand in a school doorway, refusing to allow certain students to enter, has gained 20 per cent of the backing and support of the voters."

Dow Chemical has been the target of various peace groups opposed to the Vietnam war because it manufactures napalm.

Dr. Morrison yesterday declared that President Pugsley's letter came as a complete surprise to him because he said he had been assured by members of Student Government that the group required no new charter. He explained that only a change of name, and not of aims, was involved.

President Pugsley's letter, however, asserts that "the purpose of the organization has been broadened according to publicity given in the JAMBAR."

The JAMBAR article in question appeared on Page 3 of October 15 issue, and stated:

"This year the group has widened its base of interest to include the critical problems of poverty, race relations, students' rights and the increasing militarization of our society."

The statement was based on a news release given the JAMBAR by James Hagan, then designated as Public Relations Officer for the group.

The group has already held at least one "Friday Seminar" in the Buckeye Room of the Kilcawley lounge, and has announced another for today.

Dr. Pugsley's letter, dated October 22, addressed to James Hagan as President of the YSU Community of Concern, reads as follows:

"I have just seen a copy of your letter of October 17 to Mr. King, Manager of the Midwest Region Recruiting, The Dow Chemical Company. Thank you for your courtesy in sending this to me. In your letter you invite him "on behalf of the Youngstown State University Community of Concern" to meet with your group. You signed it as President of that organization, yet I find in checking with the list of approved organizations of Youngstown State University that this is not among them.

I know from Dr. Morrison, however, that it was intended that his organization replace the Student and Faculty for Peace organization which was active last year and that you were acting upon the assumption that you could organize under the same charter.

This is of course not possible since the purpose of the organization has been broadened according to the publicity given in the JAMBAR. Each organization must stand on its own. If the Students and Faculty for Peace organization is to be disbanded this should be done.

If the Community of Concern is to exist as an organization it should go through the full process of requesting approval from the Student Council under its own charter, and you are not a recognized organization until you have been approved in your own right.

It seems to me therefore that you and other students might very well issue an invitation to Mr. King as private individuals but that you should not do so as an organization until you have been approved.

Copies of the letter were forwarded to Mark Shutes, JAMBAR Editor-in-Chief, Dean Painter, Dr. Morrison, and Ray Johnson, President of Student Government.
