SC Passes Publications Board

Two star-crossed lovers wander across the springtime world of YU. They had to share their little world with quite a few other people, however, as you can see by turning to page seven to see that spring is really here.

Tucker Proposal Goes to President

The Student Council has passed and sent to President A. L. Pugsley for approval a bill which would create a publications board, independent of student council, which would govern the actions of the three university publications.

The plan, which was drafted by Jambar advisor Jack Tucker, would create a seven member board which would have final authority over the Jambar, Neon and Penguin Review.

It would be composed of three students appointed by the President upon the advice of the Student Council president, three faculty members who would be appointed by the president and a representative of the administration who would act as chairman.

The students on the committee, according to the bill, would not be members of Council or members of the staffs of the various publications.

The money to finance the publications would come directly from the University business office and would be allocated on a per capita basis.

President Pugsley advocated the initiation of the board at a speech before Council during the YU Student Government Day a number of weeks ago. His oral proposal was similar to the final written proposal which was submitted to the president and then sent to council.

The board will have the power to both elect and depose editors of all three publications and will hear complaints made by the students and Council against the publications. They will also be the arbiter of disputes between the editor and the advisor of the publications.

The qualifications for the editors of the publication have been changed to junior or senior standing, 2.5 accumulative point average, and served as staff member of the publication for one year or three quarters.

The Jambar editor will appoint a senior managing editor who is a sophomore, junior or senior, and has served on staff for two quarters and has a 2.5 average; a junior managing editor who is a sophomore or freshman, has served on the staff for one quarter and has a 2.5 average; a business manager who is a sophomore and has a 2.5 average.

He is widely known as a lecturer and radio commentator, has been managing editor of the Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences; editor of the Nation, and editorial director of the newspapers PM and the Star.

Debaters Meet British

Bill McDonough and Mike Polansky were chosen to oppose David James Hunt and Pamela Margaret Ings, two members of a traveling British debate team 7 p.m. Thursday at the Dana Recital Hall.

The "British style debate" is sponsored for the public by The Debate Society, Pi Kappa Delta, and Student Council. In typically English fashion the Britons have chosen to maintain the status quo by supporting the proposition, "Resolved: That This House Would Fight in Vietnam."

All the debaters have excellent backgrounds. Bill McDonough, a sophomore mathematics major, has been a varsity YU debater for two years. He has and Ohio State. This year he qualified for national competition at the West Point elimination tournament. Bill is currently vice president of Pi Kappa Delta, and recipient of a Youngstown Sheet and Tube scholarship.

Mike Polansky, the other member of the negative team, is a senior majoring in pre-osteopathy. He won the title "best negative debater" this year at St. John Fisher College in Rochester, New York. Last year he took third place in the Pi Kappa Delta province tournament at the University of Norwich in Vermont. While attending Emporia College of Kansas he received national recognition by achieving the "degree of special distinction" at the national tournament. Polansky is president of Pi Kappa Delta and is also studying under a university scholarship.

Their first opponent is David Fletcher Hunt, who attended Liverpool College, Montpellier University, receiving a certificate in French studies, and Bristol University, where he earned his LL.B. Hunt was chairman of the Bristol University Debating Society, winner of the Bristol University Debating Championship, holder of the "Observer Mace", and Student President of the Bristol University Law Faculty.

Hunt was chairman of the Conservative Association, and National Vice Chairman of the Federation of University Conservative Associations. He plans to

Quarter System Confusing

Despite Efforts
By Administration
by Jack Murphy

If you are confused about the quarter system, if you wonder what will happen in the fall, then join the group. The group is the faculty Senate.

The senate met last Friday in Dana Recital Hall to hear the Deans of the five schools of the university explain changes in each of the schools. A similar meeting for students will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in Strouss Auditorium.

Dean S. I. Roberts, presiding over the meeting noted the reasons for the change which had been given by John D. Millett, chairman of the Ohio Board of Regents, when he asked that all state schools and schools wishing to be state schools adopt a common calendar and credit hour system.

Dr. Roberts said it would facilitate transferring between state schools, assist in high school counseling, enable an easier credit transfer, utilize the physical plant year round and ensure equal treatment for all the state schools in budget planning.

The quarter system, the dean noted, will offer certain advantages over the present semester system. Students and faculty will have their holidays free from school work, provides an additional opportunity to admit students to the school, an opportunity to take more courses, students will receive three final grades instead of two every year, making flunking slightly less serious, and the result will be a more flexible academic calendar.

Secular Calendar

The dean also said that the new calendar is a more secular calendar. It begins later than normal, Oct. 2, and will continue for an 11 week session, including a week of finals. The calendar disregards religious holidays, with quarter breaks coming at Christmas and Easter season rather than the specific vacations of the past.

The 50 minute class meeting will continue to be observed with a ten minute break between classes. The split summer session, with two five week terms will continue, but Dr. Roberts says they will slowly be discontinued until there is just another ten week quarter in the summer.

The deans attempted to minimize the difficulties of the conversion, said Dr. Roberts, by trying not to change course content and by converting hours by the system: one hour of semester work equals 1½ hours of quarter work.

Academic standards were maintained in the switch, the dean said, and committee which had decided on the changes had tried to not penalize any student caught on the switch.

The number of hours needed for a Bachelor of Arts degree will be changed from the previous 120 hours plus health, physical education and orientation to 180 quarter hours plus health, physical education and orientation. Students will need 45 hours to complete a major, 66 hours to complete a combined major and 21 hours to complete a minor.

Add 400

Course number have been changed by adding 400 to the previous course numbers in most cases, i.e., 201 becomes 601. When the content of a course has been changed, the number changes at the same time.

Dr. Roberts said that, in most instances, students who have completed one course in a hypenated, two semester course, need only take three quarter hours. He explained that anyone phomore, junior or senior, has served on staff for one quarter, has 2.5 average and has completed six hours of credit in accounting; a news editor who has a 2.2 average; a sports editor who has a 2.2 average and a photography editor who has a 2.2 average.

The staff members for the Neon and the Penguin Review have yet to be determined.

If the board is approved by the president, editors for the coming year, with the exception of the Neon editor, will be approved by the Board. John Hitchcock was named Neon editor two weeks ago by Student Council.

The scholarships for the various editors and staff members will have to be determined by the board. The present system of scholarships has been set up on a semester basis.

become a "Solicitor" or "Barrister".

His partner, Pamela Ings graduated from University College of Swansea in Wales. She was first in inter-schools debating competition, Governor of Debates at University College (1965-66), representative in the "Observer Mace" competition, and member of UN Student Association (World University Service). She is planning a career in broadcasting or journalism.

The students, faculty, and the general public are invited to attend. A question and answer period will follow.

who has taken History 201 under the semester system will only have to take History 603 of the History 601, 602 and 603 series. This will complete his requirement in American history.

Dean Karl Dykema, Arts and Sciences, explained that most of the required courses in the school were of even number of hours and easily transferable.

The communication and English requirement, presently 12 hours, will become 18 hours under the quarter system. Twelve hours of communication and six hours of English will be the new requirement.

The social science courses will change from six to nine hours. Social Science 101 and 102 will become Social Science 501, 502 and 503. The American history requirement will also change from six to nine hours, along with the language requirement.

Health and Phy. Ed.

The health and physical education requirement will change from 4 to 9 hours. The health course, previously 2 hours will become three hours. The physical activity courses will be changed from 2 to 6 hours. Students will now receive an hour of credit for the same amount of time spent in the course instead of the half hour of credit previously given.

Athletic Director Willard Webster said that if the course under the semester system had awarded one hour of credit for the time spent in the course instead of the one half hour given, students would have been taking taking four hours instead of two. Students will now be given that number of hours of credit for each course, so, converted, the hours required become six, although the time spent will remain the same.

The orientation course will remain one hour. The philosophy and religion requirement will be changed from three to four hours, as will the psychology requirement.

Dean Miller, Business Administration, said that elementary accounting, which was previously six hours of lab and two hours of non-lab, will become 9 hours of lab, with the non-lab being dropped.

He also noted that the business organization changes had not been consistent and that some of the previous three hour courses had become five hour courses and others had become four hour courses.

Dean Schwartz, Education, commented that the most significant change in his school would be the extension of student teaching from a half day for one semester to a whole day for one quarter. Student teaching, he said, will be given 15 hours of credit because it will normally be the only subject taken.

The dean also said that the courses which have been deleted for next quarter are the ones which will be upgraded and offered as graduate courses in the near future. The prospective high school teachers will still have to have a subject matter major.

Dean Chagnon, Engineering, said there had been few changes in the engineering curriculum aside from Engineering 301, report writing, which has been discontinued and Math 151 which has also been cut.

Dean Charles Aurand, Music, said that there had been no changes in music.

Admissions

William Livosky, director of admissions, announced a new admission policy for fall, under the assumption that the university will be a state school. Ohio students in the upper two-thirds of their class will be admitted without restrictions. Ohio students in the lower third of their class will be admitted with limited hours or programs.

Out of state students must be in the upper two-thirds of their class. Students from Lawrence and Mercer Counties in Pennsylvania are the exceptions and will be treated as Ohio students.

Transfer

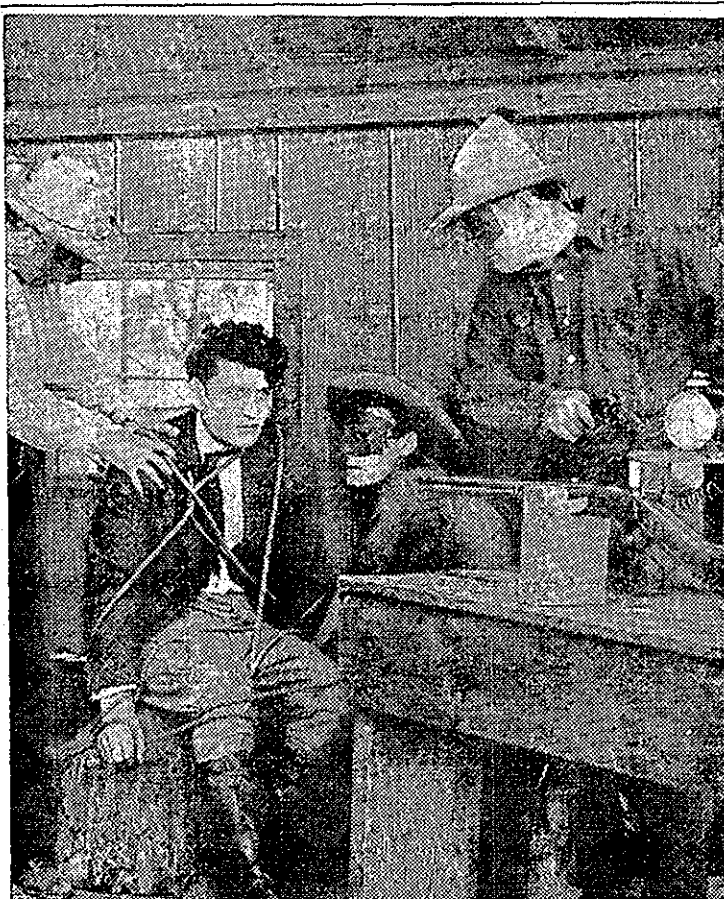

Transfer students from Ohio with a 2.0 or better accumulative point average will be admitted without conditions. If they have under a 2.0 average, they will be on probation. If they have been suspended from another school, they must stay out for one calendar year.

Out of state transfer students must have a 2.0 or better average to be admitted.

Livosky, in announcing the policy, told the faculty that no "favors would be granted to anyone". He also announced a cut-off day for new admissions. For summer the cutoff is May 20; for fall the date is August 28.

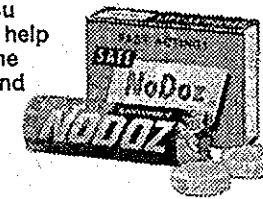

Dean Roberts asked the faculty to not depend on the students to know what would be going on in counseling sessions. He warned that this would be the most confused scheduling process in a great many years and urged patience on the part of both faculty and students.

mon Man, a character who threads the play together but has been divided into a number of different characters in the movie. And Schladen plays the key role of Henry VIII.

Rod MacDonald, veteran Playhouse actor, is Sir Thomas More. MacDonald will be remembered for his performance as George in The Playhouse Production of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", a role for which he won

The Playhouse "Arthur" as the best male actor of the year.

"A Man For All Seasons" plays tonight and tomorrow at 8:30 and Sunday at 7:30 this weekend and next. On the third weekend, it will play Thursday thru Saturday at 8:30 and will close with a 2:30 matinee on Sunday, April 23.

"Youth in a Fix," an inside look at a minister's approach to gangs and drug addicts, was discussed by the Rev. Delmar Ross of New York City at a meeting of the Youngstown University Newman Organization Sunday night at Ursuline High School.

The 30-minute film was compiled by the Rev. David Wilkerson, founder and executive director of Teen Challenge.

The Rev. Mr. Ross told the more than 400 students that the role of Teen Challenge is to carry "the message of the Cross to the people of the switchblade."

The film, Mr. Ross said, "takes you into the perverted world of Greenwich Village where promiscuous sex and perversion are the accepted way of life, into the frightful world of rebellious teenagers who like cops, as long as they never see one."

Teen Challenge was founded in New York City and now operates six buildings in Brooklyn, another in upstate New York and a farm in Rehrersburg, Pa.

SAE Is IFC Champ

By TOM MEEHAN

Sigma Alpha Epsilon withstood a furious second half rally by Theta Xi and went on to win the IFC basketball championship last Sunday by a 54-48 score.

SAE had to win the title the hard way, rebounding from a 42-34 loss in the first game of the afternoon. That was the first loss this season for SAE and it set the stage for the championship finale.

In the second game Joe Murphy netted 26 points to lead all scorers. Murphy and Jim Omodio gave the victors a strong rebounding combination.

Theta Xi jumped to an early four point lead before Omodio put SAE on the scoreboard with a jump shot from the top of the key. Three minutes later Murphy tipped one in to put the new champs ahead 12-10. From then on they were never headed and at the half the scoreboard read

Stan Nozka, who contributed 15 points in the first game, got into early four trouble and was on the bench during most of the first half. In the third period, after SAE had build a 14 point lead, he returned and scored three quick points before fouling out. Field goals by Bobby Laylock and Mike Ceremuga cut the lead to seven.

Early in the final period Theta Xi moved to within one point at 41-40, but successful free throws by Denny Delle-Streto and Joe Murphy gave SAE a five point advantage. The absence of Nozka from the lineup and accurate foul shooting by SAE were decisive factors in the second game.

Laylock was the top scorer for the losers with 17 points followed by Ceremuga with nine and Joe Lutsi with eight. Denny Delle-Streto connected for seven and Jim Omodio had six for the Sig Alphas. The first place finish gave SAE eight points toward the coveted All Events trophy to be awarded later in the semester.

Penguins to Play Pensacola Naval

The Pensacola Naval Station has been signed to meet YU on October 21, announced Willard Webster, YU athletic director. Akron University also returns to the schedule on October 14.

The Pensacola Navy game will be played Saturday afternoon at Pensacola, Fla. The Goshawks, coached by Lieutenant Commander Bob Moss, compiled a 3-6 mark last season.

Pensacola has only one service team on its ten game schedule. This fall they will play an entire collegiate schedule except for their annual contest with the Quantico Marines.

The Goshawks will be the fifth service team YU has faced over the years. In the past Coach "Dike" Beede's squads have met such service teams as Quantico Marines, Camp Lejeune, Great Lakes and Fort Knox.

This year Youngstown University will abide by the freshman rule. In past years the football program used first year men. Beede stated that in the program for the coming year much work would be done with the defensive unit. He also stated that he would initiate experimenting with the backfield and line.

Youngstown will now play a 1967 schedule of nine games, four at home and five on the road. The complete schedule: Sept. 16, at Tennessee Tech; Sept. 23, Central Michigan; Sept. 30, at Baldwin Wallace; Oct. 7, at Akron University; Oct. 14, Southern Connecticut; Oct. 21, at Pensacola Navy; Nov. 4, Southern Illinois; Nov. 11, at Eastern Kentucky; and Nov. 18, Gustavus-Adolphus College (Minn.).

The Tekes held their first annual Northeastern Invitational

Basketball tournament last weekend. It was an event Ronnie St. Clair said he will never forget. Good luck to "Pie", Norm Trainer (STG) who is leaving for the National Guard.

It's been rumored that sorority pledges are getting more dates. Is it because guys can spot them faster with their little tammies on or is it because it's spring?

Thanks to fraternity pledges a guy can take his girl to that romantic rock and fountain and kiss her by a different color each night. Who said this campus has no traditions?

DEAN PAINTER:

Play It Cool, Stay in School

By JAMES CARLISLE

"The majority of college students will probably do better in school if they do not have commitments of marriage," said Dean Edith Painter, commenting on her article "Significant Variables as Predictors of Early College Marriage" which has been published in the 1967 edition of the Journal of the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors.

When asked what prompted her to write on such a subject, she explained that while in graduate school, she became interested in the topic when she was choosing a doctoral thesis.

"I became interested in the factors that took young intelligent women out of college and reduced the advanced learning of women," she said.

Although statistically, the high school marriage breakup rate is much higher than the college breakup rate, Dean Painter attributed this later breakup to intellectual incompatibility on the behalf of women.

This comes about when young women 18 and 19 years old are forced to quit school while their husbands continue to achieve educational status, she said. She cited married women who come back to college to correct this deficiency.

While explaining some of the factors that produce early college marriages, Dean Painter said, "Lots of pressures are on the girls to get married: earlier dating, altered permissiveness. Too many girls push the panic button; they read about the low percentage of available males, they fear ending up old maids."

When asked what would she advise a young couple who were contemplating marriage, she said, "Arrangements should be made to keep both kids in school. Let's not run the risk of educational difference."

She also took into consideration the fact that this might require both parties to work, and the having of children may have to be put off.

Dean Painter commented finally that she was married after finishing graduate school and four years of working.

Doctor Says Break Needed

The Collegiate Press Service
A Princeton University doctor believes that many students might benefit from a one to three-year interval between high school graduation and college entrance.

Willard Dalrymple, director of the National Health Service program, contends that during the intervening non-student years, many young people mature, free themselves from inhibiting past relationships, discover adult values, and learn to recognize their own strengths and weaknesses.

In an article in the April issue of the National Education Association's NEA JOURNAL, Dalrymple also points out that between 70 to 85 per cent of those students who drop out of college eventually return to obtain their degrees. He says "that for some students at some points in their careers dropping out of college can be more educational than remaining in college."

Insecurity

The Student Security Force, which has been ridiculed and manhandled on these pages before, is operating, organized and led. There is only one thing wrong with it. It has never been officially instituted by Student Council.

The bill which would create the Student Security Force is still caught up in the red tape of the Constitution Committee. Therefore this force is operating illegally.

The parking tickets issued by the officers of Student Security have no more value than the paper upon which they are printed.

The so-called legal proceedings which are carried out against violators of the various codes of Student Council and which are enforced by this illegal enforcement agency are in no way binding and students who are brought before the Discipline Committee as a result of being ticketed by this organization should realize that any action taken against them is not binding.

Therefore, students may just as well ignore the Student Security Force, because it doesn't REAALY exist at all.

Riley's Paper On "Voice of America"

Dr. Bruce T. Riley, Associate Chairman of the department of philosophy and religion has been requested to permit his paper entitled "The Birth of God" to be broadcast on the "Voice of America."

His thesis was "written for and appeared on the fall program of The Society for the Scientific Study of Religion" on October 28, 1966 at the University of Chicago.

The international organization is composed of learned men (professors, philosophers, psychologists, scientists, and clergymen) who are actively engaged in the study of religion in terms of "sociology, anthropology, and depth psychology."

Riley's paper was then aired on the University of Chicago's educational radio station, Voice of America sought permission for its broadcast on March 8, this year. Dr. Riley signed for the release.

An abstract of his thesis was earlier released to the Youngstown Vindicator. Specifically it is an "analytic description of the origin of the idea of God in the human psyche." This study deals with the appearance of God and "analyzes this appearance in terms of depth psychology and redefines the terms."

The paper was selected for broadcast behind the "Iron Curtain" probably because it deals with the subject of God "in a paper in a religious frame of reference which is also in a naturalistic frame of reference."

The practice of religion in a naturalistic frame of reference is much more amenable to Communistic atheism than some traditional religious practices. Dr. Riley has been studying the problem of man's notion of God since 1930.

Naberezny, Vacarro Form Artist's Club

Jon Nazerezny, Chairman of the YU art department, and Patrick F. Vaccaro, an art instructor at YU and seven other area artists have recently organized a professional artists' group known as the Creative Artists' Association.

The group includes painters, sculptors and print-makers who are well know in the Youngstown and Warren area who have exhibited nationally and internationally. Their works have been shown in France, Germany, Italy, and the United States and many are included in private and public collections.

The Creative Artists' Association was formed to present to the public a wider range of styles and techniques and to broaden their knowledge through periodic exhibits throughout the year. The exhibits will be shown at the Packard Music Hall in Warren beginning April 23 in conjunction with the annual Fine Arts Week in Warren.

Other members are Clyde Singer and George Breckner, Youngstown, and Al Parella, well known Poland artist. James Walker and Csaba Kur, Warren, and Chester Kwiecinski, Howland painter and sculptor, are also members of the new organization.

Oregon Greeks Must Free Selves

The Collegiate Press Service

Fraternities and sororities at the University of Oregon and Oregon State University will lose university recognition unless they are completely free of outside interference in selecting members.

University of Oregon president Arthur S. Flemming and Oregon State president James Jensen told Oregon's State Board of higher education that the only way to enforce the board's policy against discrimination in Greek houses is to have no interference by national organizations in local selection of members.

Flemming told the Oregon DAILY EMERALD, Greek houses have been able to discriminate even though they had no constitutional clause prohibiting membership by minority group members.

Flemming said that the University of Oregon's policy will be to give the national body of each Greek organization until "the beginning of the academic year following the first opportunity" they have "to bring their basic documents into harmony with this statement."

Both Flemming and Jensen made it clear that local chapters could still consult with outside persons, but that the final decision must rest with the local organization.

Dr. Banks Informative, Entertaining

By JERRY PERLMUTTER

Dr. Murray Banks, former clinical psychopathologist at Bellevue Hospital, was not only informative but extremely entertaining in his lecture in Strouss Auditorium last week.

Dr. Banks, professor of psychology at many universities, began his lecture discussing the basic desires of all human beings, wanting to live, wanting to feel important, wanting to be loved, and wanting variety. He stressed that fulfillment of all of these can never be achieved.

From these four points he moved on to the bulk of his lecture which revolved around ten attributes of a well adjusted person. He asked the audience the questions: Are you happy?; Do you have zest for living? (at any age); Are you socially adjusted?; Do you have unity and balance?; Can you live with each problem of your life as it arises?; Do you have insight into your behavior? (the real reasons why you do things, not what you tell others); Do you have a confidential relationship with someone?; Do you have a sense of the ridiculous? Are you engaged in satisfying work?; and Do you know how to worry effectively? (do something constructive to solve your problems).

A positive response to most of these questions probably indicates a well-adjusted attitude towards life, he said.

An attitude of this kind can only lead to happiness, said Dr. Banks, and "happiness is like chasing a butterfly, always eluding you till you stop, and it will settle on your shoulder."
