Grad courses planned— Four new Ph.D.'s join Bus. Ad.

The appointment of four Ph.D.'s to the School of Business Administration's faculty could lead to accreditation of graduate programs in business at the University.

A lack of professors who hold doctorates in business fields was cited by the North American Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as the major reason the School of Business Administration did not receive graduate programs in 1967.

Dr. William H. Coffield, vice president for academic affairs, announced yesterday that four of thirteen budgeted positions on the Business Administration staff have been appointed. All have doctorates.

Dr. Coffield explained that the names of the appointees could not yet be announced since they are subject to approval by the Board of Trustees.

Dept. Head Named

Dr. Coffield added that a new chairman of the School of Business' department of merchandising has also been appointed.

Procedures to develop graduate business courses may begin when more appointments are made.

Needs Board Approval

Dr. Earl Edgar, dean of the graduate school, said that the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools Accreditation Board would have to be notified in order to evaluate the business school's curriculum and faculty. The Accreditation Board would have to approve the business school's program before graduate studies could be developed.

Registration for spring in progress

Registration for spring quarter began yesterday and will follow the same procedures adopted for last quarter, Mary B. Smith, Registrar, explained yesterday.

According to procedure instituted last quarter, students register in Kilcawley Basement according to a schedule based on priority of degree hours achieved.

Need Registration Materials

Students must present their Permit to Register, registration folder with scan sheet completed and proposed schedule signed by an advisor, plastic ID card, and any special slips required for students planning to take courses in Education and Health and Physical Education.

Tally stations, showing open and closed classes will again be located in the registrar's office, Jones 209, Kilcawley Student Center, the lobby outside the Planetarium in Ward Beecher, and in the offices of the schools of Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, and Music.

Polls close at seven—

1% vote in SC elections

Two hundred eight students voted for Student Council representatives by yesterday afternoon, elections chairman Don Leone announced at yesterday's Council meeting.

The polls will be open today from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. and from 6-7 p.m. tonight. The results will be announced tonight at Strouss Auditorium after balloting is completed.

Although balloting was delayed 2 hours by late installment of voting machines, Leone judged that the elections were "running smoothly" after the machines were set up. Leone said, "students began arriving at Strouss Auditorium by 11 p.m., but the Mahoning County Board of Elections hadn't come with the machines and no one could vote."

Yesterday's 208 voters represents only 1.4% of the students attending YSU. This figure contrasts with first day totals of 'The Knack', 3-act comedy, opens Thurs.

"The Knack," a mad three act comedy by Ann Jellicoe, will be presented by the Speech and Drama Department at 8:30 p.m. February 19, 20, 21, 27, and 28.

The comedy portrays three young men who make persistent advancements on a seventeen year old girl. Each of the men's techniques, as they approach their target of "innocence," is played into contrast by one another and at the same time offers plenty of laughs.

3 shock absorbers, 2 tail pipes and assorted tie rods were taken from this chuckhole so that its depth could be measured. Campus streets are no exception as frigid weather wreaks havoc with the city pavement.

Universal movie wins ten award nominations

HOLLYWOOD AP — "Anne of the Thousand Days" won top honors Monday in Motion Picture Academy award nominations which reflected the cautious attitudes of Hollywood's establishment.

The Hal Wallis Universal film about Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn took 10 nominations, including those for best picture and best performances by its stars, Richard Burton and Genevieve Bujold.

"They Shot Horses, Don't They?," a dramatic account of marathon dancing in the 1930's, placed second with nine nominations. "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "Hello, Dolly" and "Midnight Cowboy" tied for third with seven apiece.

Of the five top films, only "Midnight Cowboy" represents the kind of youth-appeal movie which has brought a revolution to the film industry. Observers believe that the Academy voters, who comprise the more-mature segment of the film community, prefer to reward the more traditional entertainments.

Awards ceremonies are April 7.

Nominees for the best picture of 1969 were "Anne of the Thousand Days," "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "Hello Dolly," "Midnight Cowboy" and "Z." The latter film, an attack on the military regime of Greece, was also nominated as best foreign language film, the first such double nomination in Academy history.

The performing nominations: Best actor: Richard Burton, "Anne of the Thousand Days;" Dustin Hoffman and Jon Voight "Midnight Cowboy;" Peter O'Toole, "Goodbye Mr. Chips;" John Wayne, "True Grit."

Best actress Genevieve Bujold, "Anne of the Thousand Days;" Jane Fonda, "They Shot Horses, Don't They?;" Liz Minelli, "The Sterile Cuckoo;" Jean Simmons, "The Happy Ending;" Maggie Smith "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

Best supporting actor: Rupert Crosse, "The Reivers;" Elliott Gould, "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice;" Jack Nicholson, "Easy Rider;" Anthony Quayle, "Anne of the Thousand Days;" Gig Young, "They Shot Horses, Don't They?"

Best supporting actress: Catherine Burnes, "Last Summer;" Dyan Cannon, "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice;" Goldie Hawn, "Cactus Flower;" Sylvia Miles, "Midnight Cowboy;" Susannah York, "They Shot Horses, Don't They?"

Fair trial still not impossible

LOS ANGELES AP — A judge said Monday that publicity about the Sharon Tate murders would not make it impossible for Charles Manson to get a fair trial here. He denied a request to change the trial site.

Manson, 35, leader of a band of nomadic hippies types, and five of his followers are charged with murder and conspiracy in the slayings of Miss Tate and six others.

When Manson came to court to request that the trial be moved to another area, Superior Court Judge Malcolm M. Lucas said: "The court finds that there is not a reasonable likelihood that a fair trial cannot be had."

"The court finds that there has been extensive and pervasive publicity concerning the defendant Manson. . . in every county in the state if not throughout the nation," Lucas said.

Thus, a change of venue would be "ineffectual," he added.

In making the rulings, Lucas repeatedly cited the Reardon Report of the American Bar Association concerning publicity of court cases and noted that it suggests delay of trials in cases where publicity might die down in time.

The judge said: "It is the court's belief that a continuance in this matter would be ineffectual because of public interest in the case. There would only be a revival of publicity."

Manson said he wanted to exercise his right to a speedy trial and would not seek a delay.

Manson, hunched over the counsel table, his shaggy hair falling around his face, told the judge: "The papers have really done a thing on this, more than anything that's ever come up, even on the guy that killed the president of the United States. . . To me it's becoming a joke, but a joke that may cost me my life."

Voting machines for Council elections yesterday arrived several hours late. Election chairman Don Leone inspects one of the machines following delivery.

last year and the 717 tally for Student Government and Student Council last Spring. The highest first day vote was 1,800 in the Spring of 1968 when students were electing their first Student Government President along with council representatives and a Spring Weekend Queen.

All candidates are still eligible except Laura Trucksis, a junior in the school of education, who withdrew her name yesterday because she dropped to part-time.

Pill sales same after testimony

NEW YORK AP — Druggists across the country say recent testimony against birth control pills has alarmed many women but sales of the pill have not lagged significantly yet.

Some pharmacists reported, however, that demand for other contraceptives is up.

Results of an Associated Press sampling indicate it may be too early to assess the impact of scientists' claims before a Senate subcommittee last month that oral contraceptives may be harmful to health.

Large Supply

"Most women buy three-to-six-month supplies, so we won't see an instant drop," noted a spokesman for a Los Angeles pharmacy. The pill usually comes in batches for a month or more.

"We've had no decline. . . but people have been asking whether or not the pill is safe," said a Little Rock, Ark., pharmacist in a typical comment.

Some druggists reported a decline in new prescriptions for the pill since the subcommittee hearings. But they said most women who were taking the pill before the hearings continued to refill their prescriptions.

The pill was named at the hearings as a possible factor in blood clots, cancer, heart disease and other ailments. Robert H. Finch, secretary of health, education and welfare, advised doctors to alert women to possible risks but he also cautioned against "over reacting."

On Sunday Surgeon General JESSE Steinfeld said a growing amount of confidence would indicate other forms of contraception would be safer for some women.

However, he said, "I think the pill has saved more lives than it has cost."

To some women, he indicated, the possible risk of taking the pill may be less than complications such as miscarriages and hemorrhages.

$100 million spent

Some doctors say they have noticed an increase in unwanted pregnancies which they attribute to women forsaking the pill.

Meanwhile, big money hangs in the balance. Some nine million women last year bought $100 million worth of oral contraceptives.

Will the sales eventually decline?

Gallup Poll

A Gallup poll shows that 18 per cent of women surveyed who used oral contraceptives in the last three months have stopped using them, largely because of the adverse publicity from the hearings.

But two-thirds of the 895 women between 21 and 45 years of age surveyed believe the advantages of the pill outweighed the risks, the poll said.

YSU to work with Ohio state police

Ohio campuses, including Youngstown State University, will cooperate with the Highway Patrol as part of a program to promote campus security, Paul Cress, Chief of Security, said Friday after meeting with law enforcement officers in Columbus.

Chief Cress said the main issue discussed at the meeting was "non-students" who travel from campus to campus stirring trouble. Until now, the campuses have been unable to cope with this efficiently because they lack contact.

Black aid program to be on campus

A representative of the Consortium, a program which combines five universities for the purpose of promoting graduate fellowships in Business Administration for Blacks, will be on the YSU campus it was announced by Dr. Letchworth, director of the University Counseling Center.

The five graduate schools included in this program are: Indiana University, University of Rochester, University of Southern California, Washington University, and the University of Wisconsin.

The Consortium program includes a fellowship consisting of free tuition at one of these five graduate schools plus a $2,500 stipend each year for two years, provided the beneficiary maintains adequate progress toward the M.B.A. degree.

The representative will be on campus from 9-12 Thursday; February 19, room 16 East Hall.

He said that the state schools "need coordination of effort and communication. The agency best prepared to provide it is the State Highway Patrol. It will serve as a central agency for the universities, so that their separate records and reports will be unified."

The State Highway Patrol will collect information and compile it this month. Any incident that is reported will go directly to them for handling. In this way "traveling disrupters" will be easier to track down and apprehend.

Further action against campus or connected crimes will be discussed at a meeting next month.

YAF sponsors Communism lecture films

YSU-YAF will sponsor a series of lecture films entitled, "Studies in Comparative Communism," this week in the Audio Visual Room of the University Library.

Thomas Anderson, club president, stated "This series of lecture films covers all phases of Communist doctrine including the institutions of Communist and the purposes, organization and methods of Communist Parties."

The time schedule is as follows: 3-4:30 p.m. Wednesday, February 18, "Communism in China"; 3:30-4:30 p.m. Thursday, February 19, "Communist Party: USA"; and 4-7 p.m. Friday February 20, "History of the Party in Russia."

Ralph Nader urged citizen commitment for consumer protection in a Lecture Series speech last Friday night at Powers Auditorium.

Ed. programs receive NCATE accreditation

The National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) has granted YSU full accreditation for its teacher education programs until September 1, 1975, lifting the provisional accreditation formerly in effect, it was announced today by Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president.

Representatives of the council visited the campus at the University's request during the fall quarter, 1969, to delete certain aspects of provisional accreditation which had been in effect.

After screening the institution and studying prepared documents at their January meeting, the Review Board recommended to the Council that the provisional accreditation be lifted and that full accreditation be granted for the remainder of the ten-year accreditation period which extends until the start of the 1975 academic year. YSU will receive its next general accreditation visit from the NCATE during the 1974-75 academic year.

Letters To The Editor

Disappointed in recital attendance

To the editor of the Jambar:

On February 14, 1970 Youngstown State's Dana School of Music presented a Masters Recital at Dana Recital Hall. Being a music major with a desire for experiencing as much music as possible I attended the recital. I was very much pleased with the recital, but very much annoyed and disgusted with a few facts about the recital.

To begin with, there was only a handful in attendance. I'm not trying to pat myself on the back by letting it be known that I was one of the few there, but I am genuinely puzzled to see that so many of the three hundred or so Dana students (not to mention any of the other thirteen or so thousand University students) were all so busy or so unconcerned as to not attend what was to my knowledge Dana's second Masters Recital. Being a cello major I was also a little shocked to see the apparent absence of string majors.

The faculty attendance (or lack of attendance) was not really a shock, but it was a let down. I saw two whole faculty members there, the cellist's teacher and one (not of the string faculty) who I assume came just to hear music. Surprisingly, there were no other string faculty members there.

Dana has a recital attendance requirement which states two years of attending eight recitals a quarter or twenty-four a year in order to graduate. After completion of their requirement many students just stop going to recitals. This is probably the explanation for the usual poor to fair recital attendance here at Youngstown. The purpose of the recital attendance requirement is to expose the "music major" to many forms of music that he has probably not been exposed to in this earlier training. But why should a student want to give up his Saturday night, or any night to hear a recital if the music faculty seems to show such an apparent disinterest. I know most of the faculty have many outside obligations and responsibilities, but their main responsibility should lie in what they do full time. Teach music at Youngstown State University! A very integral part of teaching is setting a good example. Why then, isn't there the example set for something they require of the student? I know that the faculty have all been exposed to probably all the music in the recitals once, twice, or maybe ten, twenty or even a hundred times, but does that mean the music has said all it can to them?

In case there are some who can't see what I'm progressing to let me put it in the key of C major (one octave, right hand alone) I'd like to see a better recital turn out. Maybe Dana should schedule recitals for half time at YSU's basketball games. Then we would at least be assured a full house.

Regretfully

Defends administration's actions

To the editor of the Jambar:

As a full time student of this university I would like to protest the unfair and biased attacks which have been leveled against our administration in general, and our fine athletic business manager, Mr. Morrison, in particular. I am sure it is their untiring efforts that have assured this university is realizing a profit in every one of its numerous endeavors—and thus will someday probably become the largest business in this great industrial valley.

Surely there is no other business in the area which can boast of turning desolate, unpaved urban renewal land into large, profit making, parking lots; or that has the foresight to assure the largest possible profit from even the basketball games it directs.

Let us all hope that the minority of students who have thus far raised their voices in protest, remains small; and that our administration continues its resolute course as it has in the past. For surely those YSU students have been hasty in their judgment of our administration: Personally, when I go to a basketball game I enjoy sitting on the floor or in the aisles. I realize that policemen must be placed all around to keep numerous undesireables from pushing, and fire aisles clear and reserve seats reserved. I don't mind being forced to wait outside for the gates to open or the utter confusion when the line for general admission tickets backs up blocking the only door which the police saw fit to open. I even feel a sense of pride when I'm informed that no one else will be allowed to enter or when the police come and tell those left standing, listening to the applause and cheers from the Fitch gymnasium, to go outside. I am proud of YSU, I feel I understand the reasons behind the actions of our administration. They are to be applauded for their efforts to make this university a profitmaking enterprise—after all, isn't that what universities are for?

Planetarium sun eclipse preview set

Youngstown State University will present its third public planetarium showing of the school year during the month of February with the program entitled, "Darkness at Noon — The Total Eclipse of the Sun."

The showing will preview the total eclipse of the sun which will occur on March 7. The eclipse is expected to be the best of the century and will be visible throughout North America, except for Alaska. The program will also simulate a comet in the evening sky, similar to the brilliant comet which will be visible in March.

"Darkness at Noon — The Total Eclipse of the Sun," will be shown February 20; 2, 4, 8 p.m. Saturday, February 21; and 8 p.m. Thursday, February 26.

Reservations to any of the programs may be made by calling the planetarium at 747-1492, between 10 a.m. and 12:00 noon, Monday through Friday.

Registration schedule

All students will register in Kilcawley Basement (Enter East Door of Kilcawley) according to the following schedule. To enter the Registration Area, a student must present his Permit to Register, his registration packet with all papers completed, his plastic ID Card, and any special slip(s) required for students planning to take courses in Education and Health and Physical Education. (Read the directions included in your packets carefully).

Printed below are schedules of appointment according to priority. Priority is determined by the total number of degree hours you have achieved to date. In other words, those with the most hours will register first. Your total hours have been printed on your Permit to Register. If there are errors in the hours you have completed as they are recorded on your Permit, you must go to the Records Office to have the correction made before you present yourself to Kilcawley Basement for registration. Match your total hours achieved with the time schedule shown below. You will be expected to register at the time assigned. You may not register before that time. Those students with fewer than 15 hours completed will in some instances be admitted to registration by alphabetic breakdown of last names beginning on Wednesday, February 25, 1970. Again, match the letters of your last name with the breakdown shown.

Requests to register at a time earlier than the time indicated will not be granted. If you are unable to register when scheduled, you may register any time after your appointment, except in the case of Graduate students who should carefully read the note below. Any students who have not previously registered may, however, register on Friday, February 27, 1970. After registration is completed on that day, no further registration will be held until Thursday, March 26, 1970 when Late Registration will be held.

YSU-vs-Oxford debate scheduled

Two debaters from the Oxford University debate team will debate the motion "student power is an overrated pastime" against YSU students John F. Greenman and Jim Lanz, at 8 p.m. Friday, February 20, in the Engineering Science Building auditorium.

The British debaters are Kevin John Parkenham a 1969 graduate of Oxford, and Eric Parsloe, a modern history and economics major currently enrolled at Oxford. They will support the affirmative side of the question.

Parkenham was active debater at Oxford and competed in the Observer Mace, the British National Debate Tournament. His other activities at the University included the founding editing of "Cover" magazine, the making of documentary film for television, and activities in the Labour Club.

Parsloe debated at the Labour Party Annual Conferences in 1966, 67, 68, and was a quarter finalist in the Observer Mace Debating competition. He is currently a vocal member of the Oxford University Labour Club.

YSU representatives Greenman and Lanz will argue the negative. Greenman, is a junior majoring in American studies and is the editor of the Jambar. Lanz, is a junior English major.

The debate is an audience participation, English style debate. It is free and open to the public.

Notre Dame T.A. appointed assistant prof.

Dr. William C. Binning, a former teaching assistant at Notre Dame University (Ind.), has been appointed assistant professor of political science at Youngstown State University, it was announced today by Dr. Albert L. Pugsley, University president. The appointment was effective with the winter quarter.

Play Try-Outs

Dr. David Haller, University Theatre director, has announced that try-outs for Samuel Beckett's play, "Waiting for Godot," will be held at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, February 23 and 24, in Strouss Auditorium.

The play, the department's major Spring production, has parts for five men and will be presented April 10, 11, 16, 17, and 18.

Science lecture

The Youngstown State University department of physics and astronomy will present Dr. Robert Cohen, a geophysicist at the ESSA Research Laboratories, Boulder, Colo., in a special lecture program 3:15 p.m., Thursday, February 12, in the YSU planetarium.

Dr. Cohen will speak on "Incoherent Scattering Observations of the Ionosphere."

The lecture is free and open to the public.

YSU plans to enlarge switchboard

Plans are underway to enlarge the university switchboard as part of an overall university expansion program. Mr. Ray Orlando, director of the Physical Plant said Friday. A third position will be added to the board, allowing for prompter service on incoming and outgoing calls. The change is a result of a recommendation made by the telephone company after surveying the increasing number of calls the university has had to handle over the past year.

Plans have already begun with the removal of the Xerox machine from Jones Hall to Central Services. Construction and remodeling is slated to begin February 21 when the partition dividing the switchboard from the Xerox machine will be removed.

Mrs. Lola Cable, one of a staff of 3 operators, said that the new board would be very welcome, for the present one is inadequate for the amount of traffic handled. "With a larger board we can give a better, more personalized service," she said.

The new facility is expected to be in operation by the end of April.

Dana series to salute Beethoven

The Dana Concert Series of Youngstown State University will commemorate the 200th anniversary of the birth of Beethoven when Wilbur Schnitker, a member of the Muskingum College faculty, presents a piano recital of Beethoven compositions, Friday, February 20.

Highlighting the program, which will be held at 8 p.m. in the Dana Recital Hall, are four sonatas by the German composer.

Schnitker, who has been a member of the Muskingum faculty since 1943, is a student of Cecile Genhart and the late Arthur Loesser. He has appeared in numerous recitals throughout Ohio and at Muskingum, where he recently performed the cycle of Beethoven's 32 piano sonatas, which includes the ones selected for the concert at YSU.

The program is free to YSU students and faculty, with a $1.00 charge for the general public.

Cagers travel to St. Vincent

Youngstown State, hopeful of its first post-season tournament bid since 1965-66, journeys to Latrobe, Pa., tomorrow night where it will try to boost its record to 20-2 against St. Vincent.

The Penguins and Bearcats will clash at 8 p.m. with the two junior varsity squads meeting at 6 p.m.

The charges of Dom Rosselli, who have appeared in post-season tournaments eight of the past 13 years, moved closer to tying YSU's best regular season record by downing Akron, 80-69, last Saturday night. The 1963-64 edition of the Penguins posted a 23-2 mark during the regular campaign and were 1-1 in the NCAA Regional Tournament.

Rosselli got stellar games from several of his injured Penguins as YSU won straight from Akron for only the second time in the long series. Forward Ron Smith, playing on a sprained ankle, popped in 21 points and grabbed eight rebounds while forward Bob Patton ignored a bruised thigh to tally nine points and collect a game-high 15 rebounds.

Nixon cites Rosselli for 400th victory

Coach Dom Rosselli received national recognition in a surprise congratulatory letter from President Richard Nixon yesterday for gaining his 400th coaching win.

Penguin center and team captain Will Teague presented the letter that cited Rosselli for making "basketball history." Rosselli, who won his 400th game against Gannon last week, became only the eighth living coach to win 400 games.

As team members gathered around the diminutive 5'3" coach, Rosselli opened the White House envelope and quipped, "I hope its not from the Internal Revenue Service."

The text of the letter is as follows:

"It is a pleasure to congratulate you on winning the 400th game of your career. You have indeed made basketball history --and you can count on me as among your many fans. My admiration for your coaching skill is matched only by my gratitude for your endearing service to the youth of our country. Best wishes to you for the years ahead."

S. C. Fund Deadline
The deadline for Student Council money allocations to organizations has been extended to Friday, February 20. Inquire at Student Council Office room 108 in Kilcawley.

However, the key to victory was the overall floor leadership of ace sophomore guard Bill Johnson. Still limping from an ankle sprain, Johnson returned to the starting line-up for the first time since the Gannon game and got the sputtering YSU offense back in gear. Johnson broke the contest open midway through the second half with 10 straight points including eight of eight from the foul line. He finished with 17 markers and numerous key assists.

Rosselli will probably start all three against the upset-minded Bearcats. Johnson is averaging 24.4 ppg., Smith 12.0 ppg. and 7.5 rebounds and Patton, 7.3 ppg. and 9.7 rebounds. Center Will Teague, 12.2 ppg. and 11.1 rebounds, and guard Chuck Montgomery 10.7 ppg., round out the starting five.

The Penguins jumped out to a 42-26 halftime lead in their earlier meeting with St. Vincent and then coasted to a 91-63 win. Johnson paced YSU to a 27-20 lead in the series with 28 points.

The Bearcats are 7-14 for the season, but three wins have come in their last six games since assistant Harry Miller replaced veteran head coach Oland "Dodo" Canterna who resigned. St. Vincent has won five of its seven at home including last week's stunning 70-67 upset of high-flying Indiana U. (Pa.).

Bearcat wins were over Carnegie-Mellon (74-70), Geneva (78-66), Waynesburg (75-74 and 102-93), West Virginia Wesleyan (99-91), Point Park (79-65), and Indiana of Pa. (70-67). St. Vincent has lost to Duquesne (123-55), Grove City (66-63), YSU (91-63), Waynesburg (71-66), Point Park (84-63), California State (86-78), St. Francis (83-72 and 98-80), Westminster (62-57 and 100-85), Carnegie-Mellon (84-74), Steubenville (83-50), Slippery Rock State (83-74), and Geneva (76-70).

The Bearcats will probably start Tony Yerep (12.6) a 6-4 junior, and Tim O'Shea (16.9), a 6-4 junior, at forwards, Bob Pacacha (8.9), a 6-6 sophomore, at center, and Jim DiMuzio (5.9), a 5-7 junior, and either Chris Kelley (9.9), a 6-5 sophomore, or Joe Rrah, (4.5), a 5-10 junior, at guards. Yerep is the top rebounder with a 12.3 average.

DiMuzio had 14 points and Yerep had 11 and 13 rebounds in the first meeting. Kelley, a transfer from Detroit University, just recently became eligible for varsity ball. He scored 17 points and grabbed 18 rebounds against YSU's junior varsity.
