EAT YOUR BRUSSELS SPROUTS! — From left right are Joie Gianotti, Debby Coots and Phil Sekula who are featured in The Spotlight theatre's production of Our Town. This initial production of the quarter will open on Monday, at 8:30 p.m. in Strouss Auditorium. The play will run through Saturday, Jan. 19. Persons interested in attending the play should contact the boxoffice at 746-1851, extension 239.

Center opening delayed again; may see student use in mid-Feb.

After several delays, the Kilcawley Center may be open for student use in the middle of February, Philip Hirsch, director of Kilcawley Center announced today.

Hirsch also said that his office is currently working with Campus Planning on plans for redesigning the student, faculty and residential cafeteria. Hirsch expects the work to begin in the summer with about $100,000 to be spent on new furnishings for the three areas. Some structural changes at additional cost will also be made in the student cafeteria, Hirsch noted.

The Center's opening has been delayed by late deliveries of carpeting and some furnishings, Hirsch explained. He expected an initial delivery of carpeting early next week and the rest of the furnishings by February.

Aside from these delays, Hirsch said that the Center is virtually completed now.

Once the Kilcawley Center is open, seven committees will program activities, Hirsch said.

Some of these committees are — A film committee which will select and show movies. Since November this committee has been running movies on Wednesday in Schwebel Auditorium.

An art selection committee which is now in the process of choosing an opening show for the Center's art gallery.

An entertainment committee that will provide acts like local rock groups for the pub and snack bar.

A performing arts committee that will book traveling performers for the center.

There are also a videotape committee that will rent videotaped shows for viewing and possibly offer machines for student use, a lecture committee that will book speakers and a committee to plan recreational activities.

Hirsch also said that next year the major events committee will come under control of the Kilcawley Center. He said that anyone interested in joining a program committee can get further information by calling 746-1851, extension 514.

Conservationist Udall to speak at St. John's on energy crisis

Stewart Udall, former Secretary of the Interior, will speak at 2 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 16, in St. John's Episcopal Church, presented by YSU's 1973-1974 Artist Lecture Series.

Udall, one of the nation's leading conservationists and board chairman of Overview, will discuss "The Energy Crisis: Agenda for Tomorrow." The lecture is free and open to the public.

Technological optimism," Udall said, has caused us to lose sight of humanistic values. "You cannot save the land unless you save the people. There is a value revolution upon us, and we realize, as never before, that houses alone do not make communities and that the GNP is not a measure of the true American standard of living."

As Secretary of the Interior

Plans go to Senate for T&CC program

Proposals to establish a Dental Hygiene Technology program in the T&CC and to provide a paid co-ordinator for the Student Volunteer Bureau will be presented to the University Senate at today's 4 p.m. Schwebel Auditorium meeting.

The proposed dental hygiene program will be detailed by Curriculum Committee chairperson, Dr. Philip Hahn. Senate approval will be asked for.

A curriculum has already been established for the program and the two-year dental hygiene course will culminate in an Associate of Applied Science degree.

Need for the new program of study was indicated as early as spring, 1972, when a survey showed that there existed an adequate number of prospective high school students interested in entering the program in the fall quarters of 1972, 1973, and 74.

In another area survey, dentists gave their support to the establishment of this program, some claiming that they would hire hygienists if they were available.

The Ohio Board of Regents has already granted preliminary staff approval for the new program. If the Senate ratifies the proposal, it must then gain the approval from the Board of Trustees before it receives the final stamp from the Board of Regents.

Being recommended by the Student Affairs Committee to the Senate for its endorsement is the proposal to create a full-time paid coordinator and part-time student staff for YSU's Student Volunteer Bureau.

The Student Volunteer Bureau reflects a large national movement emphasizing the expansion of University services into the community and the importance of experiential learning in practical situations.

Currently at YSU, there are 102 volunteers serving in the areas of Mental Health, Senior Citizens, Drugs, Courts and Parole, Tutorial, Day Care and other volunteer activities.

Because of the Bureau's involvement in these many areas, the Student Affairs Committee is recommending the hiring of a paid coordinator to act as a liaison with agencies, the community and various academic departments. Hopefully, such a position would end needless duplicity of effort.

The student staff would con-

Major Events pleased with concert sales

"We're really pleased," enthused Gina Farinelli of Major Events when questioned about ticket sales for Sunday's Seals and Crofts concert.

"Considering the shortage of time, this is our best advance sale, comparable to Cheech and Chong," she added. The Cheech and Chong affair sold out.

Seals and Crofts, popular recording artists, will perform at Beeghly Center at 8 p.m. Sunday in their only Northeastern Ohio appearance. Also on the bill is Walter Heath, performing soul music, and seven back up musicians. The concert is sponsored by the Major Events committee of Student Government.

Advance ticket prices are $5 to YSU students, and $6 to the general public at the door. Advance tickets may be purchased at the University Ticket Office, Beeghly Center, and the Bursar's Office, Jones Hall.

Apportionment rationale ---

Senate re-organization detailed

by Jim Pascoe

Why is the University Senate being reorganized? Why will it consist of 70 faculty, 15 students, and 15 administrators?

The advent of the YSU-OEA provided the impetus for Senate re-organization. OEA-University negotiations strongly recommended transformation in the final contractual agreement last spring.

Provided for by the wording of the OEA-University contract was the basic requirement that the new Senate "increase the ratio of faculty to administration in the Senate."

The Senate Constitution and By-Laws committee charged with defining the new body addressed itself to this requisite, among others, and all the other problems encountered in establishing a new University Senate, which will not only reflect the interests of the entire University community, but will also be workable.

Work progressed through the summer and the fall Quarter. The progress report outlining the new proposals was presented to the Senate at the final meeting of the fall Quarter.

A report detailing the rationale underlying the Constitutional and By-laws committee's proposals on the size and composition of the Senate states that the proposals are neither "arbitrary and/or capricious." Some of the committee's final decisions and the reasons underlying them are as follows.

Senate size will number 100 seats, compared to the present membership of 136. The committee felt that a greater number could make for an unwieldy body, and it stated that "there seems to be a widely held opinion that the size of the Senate should be reduced."

The possibility of a much smaller body was discarded not only because it might prove to be inadequate in representing all interests, but also because the committee didn't want to foster what might appear to some to be "elitism," the committee report stated.

The ratio of 70% faculty Senate members to 15% administrative representatives in the proposed new Senate is in accordance with the OEA-University agreed mandate. The old Senate was composed of 45% or 62 administrators and the same percentage and number of faculty.

Although this appears to be a marked difference in relative apportionment, it is not nearly so radical as it seems. The reason for this is that in the old Senate the 41 department chairmen were classified as administrators, and the new plan defines them as faculty. As such they would serve on the Senate only if elected by the members of their department or school.

The method of awarding the 70 faculty seats was recently the subject of a poll carried out by a special Senate sub-committee of the entire full-service faculty. The results indicate that the original plan proposed by the Constitution and By-Laws Committee is favored by 50% of those polled. Because of the complexity of the system, it will be treated fully in a future Jambar article.

Administrative participation has been specified explicitly. The Committee report asks that those administrators who have academic interests as their primary concerns be appointed by the University President. Thus six academic deans (out of seven schools) will gain seats. The remaining nine administrators are to be chosen at the discretion of President John Coffelt.

Student representation will increase from 12 to 15 members. On a percentage basis, this constitutes an increase of nine to fifteen percent. The rationale given in the report for this increase is that although the academic affairs of the University are primarily faculty responsibilities, there is nonetheless a need to increase the intra-university voice of students.

Details for the final version of the new Senate are still under consideration by the Constitution and By-Laws committee.

Faculty workshop planned; interviewing set as topic

YSU's counseling center will present a six hour workshop for faculty members who wish to improve their interviewing skills or learn new interviewing techniques. Special attention will be given to interviewing problems of academic advising.

Three two-hour sessions will be held from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Thursdays, January 17, 24, and 31. Participants are requested to plan to attend all three sessions. Workshop participation is being limited to 10 persons so that all attending may have an opportunity to take an active part in the discussions and demonstrations.

Topics will include "Characteristics of an Interview," and "Techniques of Interviewing." Each session will include activities illustrative of the discussion material.

The workshop will be held at the counseling center, 615 Bryson St. Faculty members may make reservations by calling the Counseling Center, Ext. 461.

Bread and Butter

The Jambar is periodically maligned for not editorializing on the more mundane issues we are confronted with. Well, slice your bread and spread your butter, because we are going to talk inflation.

The major economic indices say the nation is mired in its worst inflation since immediately after World War II. Moreover, leading economists outside the Nixon Administration are less than enthusiastic about the future.

Fed by soaring energy and food costs, the voraciousness of our inflation was evidenced most recently by the wholesale price index, released Wednesday, which showed wholesale prices up 2.2% in December and a whopping 26.7% in 1973 cumulatively. This index measures the prices of commodities at all stages of production except the final, consumer purchase stage. The normal growth rate seldom surpasses three-tenths of one percent in a month. What these portentous statistics make implicit is that we can soon expect another round of sharp retail price increases, giving still further impetus to the inflationary spiral.

The university community will continue to feel the effects of this crunch. With buying power sapped, students (with relatively fixed incomes, if any) are strapped by soaring educational, textbook, transportation, and food costs. Four or more years in college while earning power is virtually nil is becoming one of society's greatest economic liabilities. This exorbitant inflation must be quashed if universities are to remain viable.

The Administration must crawl from the Watergate wallow and take initiative. The president's lethargic economic advisors must be prodded, and as oil is the source of many of our woes, the U.S.'s mid-east policy must be carefully reexamined.

Feedback

Asks Administration's reply on fee

To the editor of The Jambar:

As we are again starting another quarter at good olde YSU, our bills have been paid and the mandatory fee has encountered success for at least eleven more fair weeks. Over 13,000 students have submitted to an unjust fee that involves benefits to only a minority of the student body.

Although many solid arguments have supported the extermination of the fee, only ludicrous answers have replied to its support. The administration seems complacent to prostrate and try to avoid or ignore the issue; maybe its only an earthquake that will pass away if the administration keeps its head concealed underground long enough.

We have yet to hear the administration's reply but some of the arguments which I have encountered from a minority of the students I have conversed with are as follows: "Akron University pays $45 a quarter, be thankful our General Fee is not any higher; well. I go to games, you must not support your team; I could not take advantage of other people's money if the fee was relinquished; nobody would do anything in the school; don't fight it, you have to jump the bandwagon; mandatory fees allow all to participate in any activity; students would lose power that they have gained in the University."

Indeed these statements are rather cynical. The fact of the matter is that all students cannot possibly take advantage of the mandatory fee. Many students work, believe it or not, and therefore do not have the time to utilize its benefits? Some just don't care to use them. The point is that the fee does not benefit everyone and it is a nostrum that has not been subject to student consensus.

Akron's sins do not justify our own; why can't YSU take the first step toward justice? I am an ardent supporter of YSU sports activities, but I am commensurately an advocate of individual liberty, which is the foundation of our great nation. I do not feel anyone has the right to force people to spend their money in order for me or anyone else to exploit it.

Finally, I suggest that the administration pull its head out of the ground and make a statement on the matter, even if the issue does tend to send a chill through its spine. It takes guts to admit you are wrong or at least face the contingency of a loophole in your policy. Remember that the University is for student and if something about it does not benefit the student, it is useless to the institution. Although the plenary abatement of fees is surely not feasible, an amelioration of the mandatory fee as it exists is necessary. The least the administration can do now is to give the matter some serious contemplation and solicit their solution.

Says languages are 'insurance'

To the editor of The Jambar:

After reading the article concerning the new bachelor's degree for T&CC students which doesn't have a foreign language requirement, I realize the Arts and Science's students are being used to supply jobs for foreign language professors.

A statement like the above usually brings forth the reply that you can always use a foreign language. I believe if anyone can use a language such as Spanish, a criminal justice major can, but they are not required to take the hours we A&S students are.

I also noted Dr. Shipka stated the faculty will support the A&S requirement to protect the jobs of the foreign language personnel.

So we students that are fighting for academic change must also fight the organized YSU-OEA. Our argument concerns academic hours we could use in other fields more related to our major. Their argument is purely a money one. This proves that these learned men will walk over academic improvement and fight change just to make sure there are enough students forced to take an unnecessary subject to insure jobs for a few of their members. It is time the students organize the fight for this academic change until there is a working curriculum. An A&S major can use toward getting a job after graduation, not just learn and forget, and not to insure a job for a few faculty members.

Reveals Rangers romp at Beaver

To the editor of The Jambar:

A scheduled skiing trip to Norwich, Vermont sponsored by the YSU Rangers for the week of Dec. 10-15, 1973, was postponed due to the lack of suitable skiing conditions. According to Earl Gillam, commanding officer of the Rangers, this event will be rescheduled at a later date.

As a substitute for the skiing trip, a three day Field Exercise to Beaver Creek was scheduled in which fourteen students participated. They attended classes on outdoor survival, land navigation, orienteering, and communications.

The YSU Rangers is open to all students attending YSU; those students seeking more information are encouraged to contact Cpt. Ronald Goodell or come to the Ranger Room (225), located in the Pollock House on Wick Avenue.

YSU's image is topic of Feb. conference

The Communications Workshop Committee of Student Government/Student Affairs will sponsor "Mountainside Conference," a two day gathering to be held at the Millsop Leadership Center of Bethany College, Bethany, Va. in February.

According to Linda Montevideo, chairman of "Mountainside," the conference will be held Friday, Feb. 8, and Saturday, Feb. 9. Funded by Student Government "to better the image of the University," the conference is open to interested administration, faculty, and students at no charge.

Friday evening's agenda concerns the conference sub-title, "as others see us," by having present for discussion a high school senior, a counselor, a business executive, a transfer student, and YSU alumni. YSU President John J. Coffelt has also been invited.

On Saturday morning, Dr. George Letchworth, director of the counseling center, will moderate a discussion among representatives of the athletic department, faculty, students, Student Government, University Relations, and admissions. Following a mid-afternoon break, individual discussion groups will be held.

Students who are willing to surrender their weekend to attend the conference are asked to complete the coupon below. All coupons must be completed and returned to the Student Government office, Room 108, by Friday, Jan. 18.

Meshel introduces bill to enlarge Board of Regents

State Senator Harry Meshel last week introduced a bill in the Ohio Senate which would increase the membership of the Board of Regents for the State of Ohio.

The bill would add four legislative members to the present nine who are appointed by the Governor.

The Board of Regents oversees the activities of the state's higher education facilities. The board members selected from the legislature would serve terms of two years and may not serve more than two terms, and would serve in this capacity without compensation. Present Board of Regents members serve a single nine-year term.

Meshel said, "By adding two House members and two Senate members representing both political parties and chosen by the membership, we will bring the views of the public and the mandates of the Legislature directly into the decisions of the Board of Regents."

Meshel added, "Too often there are great chasms developed between the wishes of the legislature and the actions of the various boards and commissions of both state and local governments. This bill could aid in building credibility for the Board of Regents with the general public."

Money released for construction

State Representative Thomas P. Gilmartin (D-Youngstown) announced Monday the release of $200,000 by the State Controlling Board for contingency expenses connected with construction of the Music and Fine Arts Building at YSU.

Total construction cost of the new facility is expected to be $6.3 million, all from state funds. The completion date is projected to be February, 1975.

The new Music and Fine Arts Building will provide classroom and office space for the Dana School of Music, and the speech and art departments.

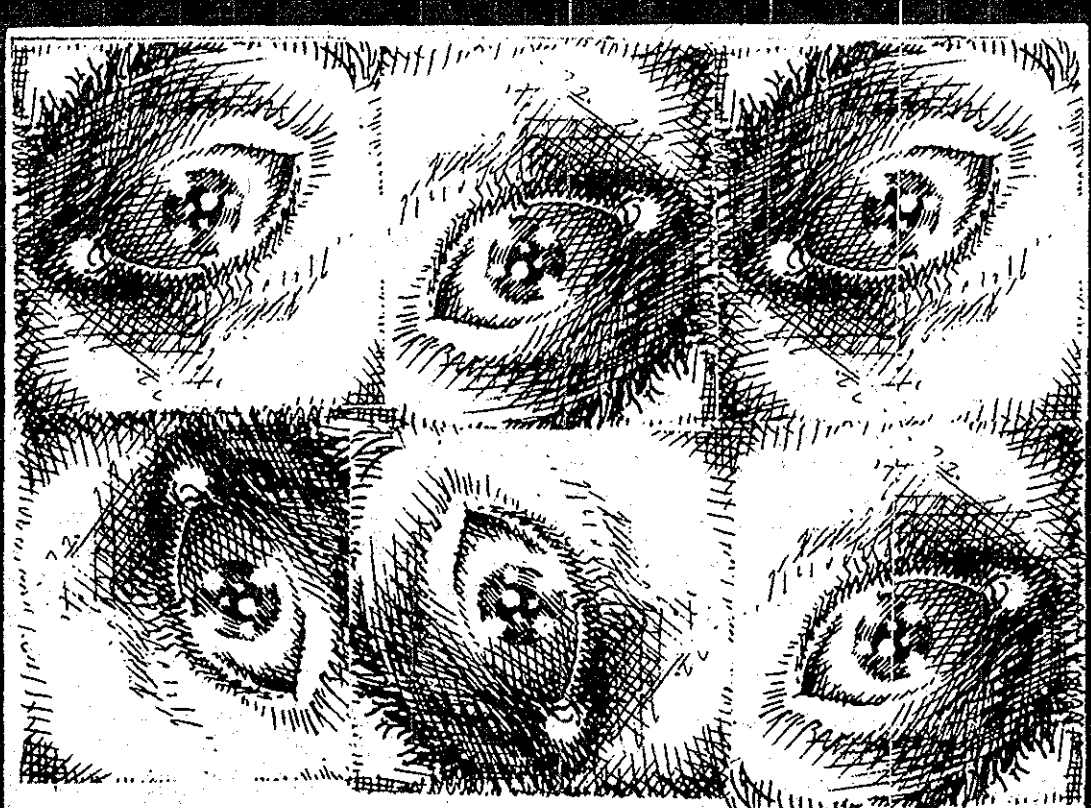

"No matter how diligently a construction project like this is planned," Gilmartin said, "unexpected expenses are bound to arise. The funds released today represent a normal contingency."

Winter sorority rush begins; 17 parties slated on campus

This quarter's sorority "rush" is currently taking place this week informed Patricia Bleidt, assistant dean of student affairs. Rush will continue through Jan. 27. Seventeen parties are slated.

Information concerning an individual sorority the time of the party, and the location may be garnered from the sorority in question.

General sorority information is available in Bleidt's office, Room 116, Kilcawley, or may be obtained by dialing 746-1851, extension 248.

Arguments against an inclusive theory of universal determinism exaggerate an apparent discrepancy between the deterministic viewpoint (the perpetual waltz of cause and effect) and the creative process. Because creativity is the exercise of will, notion, option, preference, etc. by the creator over the art object, the creative process is traditionally used to reinforce the orthodox notion of free will. The artist is an imperfect model of the god-force, the first cause, or the prime mover. A purely scientific deductive analysis of creativity is seen as inconceivable. There seems to be something intangible, even mystical, involved, the aesthetician, though steeped in dialecticism is subtly threatened, on the conceptual level, by the scientific viewpoint. But it was the scientists, themselves, who resolved the problem by introducing the quantum-mechanical principle of indeterminacy into prevailing deterministic concepts. Determinism, while logical, causal, and progressive, is no longer held to be inclusively predictable or compulsive on a grand scale, rather, determinism ingratiate itself with aberration. There is, of course, since Darwin, nothing unscientific about aberration. It is simply the scientist's way of conceding that accidents do happen. The scientist, however, goes one step farther. The cause, he says, may be hidden in an infinite, historical morass of data. If B doesn't follow from A, it might proceed from A' (A-prime) buried somewhere in the prehistory of A.

Creativity is one-half unconscious. The artist's mind is continually sorting out subconscious data and incorporating what is conceptually related into the conscious, embryonic art object. The process defies cognition only because the unconscious sphere is yet to be mapped with the acumen applied to consciousness. The artist is not unique; like any tradesman he is schooled in the technique of his craft and applies it to his work. Success depends upon his willingness to apply unconscious, unexplained processes, anyone can do this.

We at the Penguin Review have no more creative potential than anyone else. We just work at it harder. We've turned ourselves on to Creation; we'd like to turn you on.

WYSU asks support to aid Radio Reader

WYSU-FM Radio Reader Service is broke.

A broadcast program sponsored jointly by WYSU-FM, the Youngstown Society for the Blind, and YSU's continuing education department, Radio Reader transmits readings of newspapers, popular periodicals, and novels, recorded by volunteers, along with occupational and hobby information, and information on community resources for the blind and handicapped.

But approximately $25,000 is needed to maintain operation, said Michael W. Taylor, instructor of advertising and public relations, and public relations director of WYSU-FM. Local businesses and service clubs have been approached for donations, Taylor said, but this has "not been successful."

"If the money is not forthcoming soon, a lot of blind and handicapped persons will be without a Radio Reader service," Taylor said.

Although Radio Reader has never started as a formal program, WYSU has been test programming the service for several months.

The $25,000 budget breaks down into: $18,000 for special receivers placed in the homes of approximately 300 blind and disabled persons; $2,000 for two reel-to-reel tape recorders; $1,000 for tape; and $4,000 for maintenance, mailing and printing, and the services of the volunteer readers.

Taylor estimated that $1,000 is needed initially. If the service is off the air for too long, "interest will wane," he predicted.

Plans are being formulated now to approach more area service groups in hopes to save the program.

YSU wrestling team travels to Pa. for first dual meet

YSU's wrestling team travels to Pennsylvania tomorrow to tackle powerful California (Pa.) for the Penguins first dual meet of the year.

Coach Frank Eisenhower is expecting stiff competition from California due to their overall depth and talent. Two new men will be wrestling for the Penguins due to injuries to two YSU grapplers.

Drew Koynack will compete in the 158-pound category, replacing Dave Novosel, who is out with an injured back. Andy Canady, after an outstanding performance in the scrimmage meet against Thiel last Saturday, will represent the Penguins in the 177-pound class. After missing the scrimmage meet, John Violi will be back at heavyweight.

The rest of Eisenhower's squad includes Hugh Hivlev (118 pounds), co-captains Tom Murray (126 pounds) and John Vargo (134 pounds), Frank Brown (142 pounds), ex-Ursuline star Phil Naples, and Jerry Novosel (190 pounds).

Carps top Tulsy in opener; TBA trounces APhiO

The YSU independent intramural basketball season got underway Tuesday night, and the action is scheduled to continue this evening.

In the opening game of the season, the Carps got off on the right foot by handling Tulsy N & N quite convincingly 54-21. The Carps were led by Carl Freeman's 18 points and Bo McClary's 15 while Tulsy could manage only 10 points from Gene Zagac.

In the second game T.B.A. demolished Alpha Phi Omega 46-7. T.B.A. got a balanced scoring attack from Jeff Conner, John Green, and John Greco, each getting 13, 10 and 10 points respectively. Alpha Phi Omega mustered only 2 points in the first half.

The Brewers fell short to the Untouchables by a 43-23 count. Larry Johnson's 18 points and Mike Roberts' 15 led the Untouchables to victory.

In the final game of the night the YSU Kangaroos failed to

Cagers take loss from Ashland

The YSU Basketball team dropped their fourth game of the season Wednesday night against seven victories to a red-hot Ashland team, 83-67 in Beeghly Center before 4,200 fans.

The game marked the resumption of a keen rivalry between two of Ohio's outstanding basketball teams. Ashland now leads in the series five games to four, and is seven and four on the season.

Led by Bill "the Thrill" Higgins, the second nationally ranked scorer in the NCAA Division III, Ashland hit on 56% of its shots. Higgins led all scorers in the game, canning 12 of 22 shots and hitting on nine of 10 free throws, for 33 points.

The game was actually decided at the free throw line where Ashland hit on 19 of 23 attempts for an outstanding 82%. YSU hit on only five of 13 for a cold 38%. YSU had 31 buckets in the game to 32 for Ashland, but took 78 shots, 21 more than their opponent.

YSU's Tony Mitchell, the sixth nationally ranked scorer with a 24.5 average managed only 15 points, dumping in an off-par seven of 24 from the floor. Three other YSU players finished in double figures, all with 10 points. Phil Gaston hit on four of 11 and hauled in eight rebounds, while John Reed, who played a fine game defending Higgins, made good five of his 13 shots. Terry Moore canned four of his nine shots, grabbed four rebounds, and contributed 11 assists. He now has 97 assists in 11 games.

YSU spurred to a quick 4-0 lead on two bombs by Mitchell but fell behind 16-4 at the half-way mark of the first half before Mitchell's third bucket of the game. Down 30-17 later in the first half, the Penguins came back to within a bucket, 36-34 on a 12-foot shot by John Reed.

Twice in the second half YSU fought back within striking range to have their drives stalled. With 11 minutes remaining in the game, a 15 foot jumper by Terry Moore moved the Penguins to within four points but two quick buckets by Higgins put Ashland out of reach. "We came back," explained Coach Rosselli, "but then our young squad ran out of gas."

YSU will have a return bout

Swimmers sink Fairmont ; set 7 pool records at W. Va.

In an outstanding display of overall team strength, YSU's swimming team under new coach Tucker DiEdwardo, sank Fairmont (W.Va.) 64-49 Wednesday and set seven new pool records. YSU now holds 10 of the 13 pool records there.

Ed Wade, a sophomore from Bedford, Ohio, won two events and set two pool records in the process. He won the 1000 yard Freestyle in 11:06.9 and the 500 yard Freestyle in 5:20.3.

Randy Heckert, a sophomore from Crestline, Ohio, swam away with the 200-yard Butterfly in a new pool record time of 2:12.6. Co-captain Tom McGee captured the 100-yard Freestyle in a record breaking time of 51.9.

Keith Landness, another sophomore, was the victor in the 200-yard Backstroke in 2:09.5, another record smasher for the Penguins. Rami Yehudai, co-captain of the squad, demolished the pool record in the 200-yard Breaststroke in a time of 2:20.

The YSU Medley relay team of Fred Robertson, Yehudai, Heckert, and McGee set the new record of 3:53.0. Freshman Joe Kemper also won the 1-meter diving with a score of 183.40.

YSU, now 3-0 in dual meets, will tackle powerful Clarion State tomorrow at Beeghly Pool at 2 p.m.
