Local lawmakers gather ; discuss future of higher ed

Ranking Ohio 48th in its amount of state expenditures for higher education, YSU Student Government President Bill Brown opened the afternoon session of yesterday's Government-sponsored Legislator's Conference.

Brown cited the figure during an address to introduce members of Ohio's legislature who had come to talk about the problems which face higher education today.

"The economic state," Brown said, "is a major detriment to college attendance. For every $100 increase in tuition, Ohio universities lose 1.2 students from middle-income families, and 3.1 from lower-income families."

Reading from a publication by the state Task Force on Higher Education, Brown said that three objectives for higher education in Ohio include equal access to learning for all income groups, lifelong access to higher learning, and long-range planning and adequate financing of state universities and colleges.

By 1977, Brown projected, YSU should be receiving nearly $19 million in state funds, an almost $8 million increase over present state appropriations to the University.

Representative Thomas P. Gilmartin of Youngstown told the audience that, because of the state income tax, "higher education received an additional $127 million. This was a gigantic amount of money to receive, when considering that our student population is decreasing. It is my belief that higher education must become more accountable for the state revenue it is presently receiving."

Gilmartin predicted that changes in higher education in the next few years will be "dramatic."

Gilmartin's opponent in the November election, John Wean, told the audience that students "drop out not because they do not have the brain power, but because they cannot afford it."

Wean called Ohio the state ranked 48th in funding to higher education and 15th in total wealth of its citizens; unemployment here, he stated, is the lowest it has ever been, the number of those on the welfare rolls has doubled in recent years, and Ohio is the most expensive state to do business in, forcing many large concerns to locate in another state.

Claiming that the discontinuance of the draft and the current emphasis on training for a marketable skill has removed many students from Ohio universities. Representative Thomas J. Carney cited as the legislature's top priority in the education field the need to "maintain student fees and tuition at present levels." Considering the current rate of inflation, he said, the maintenance of current fees over the next few years is the same as lowering them.

Carney said that "Education is a process where you learn to get involved in the world community around you. Coming to learn and sharing what you learn with the rest of your community is what education is all about."

Patrick Strange, opposing George Tablack in November in the 52nd district, noted a $300 million gap between revenue the state collected from its state income tax and the money it

Commager to speak ; opens Skeggs Series

Dr. Henry Steele Commager, noted historian and author, will speak on "The Abuse of Presidential Power" at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 9 in Powers Auditorium, launching the 1974-75 Skeggs Lecture Series.

One of the nation's most eminent authorities on American history, Commager is currently Simpson Lecturer at Amherst College. A noted author, his most recent works are Was America a Mistake? and The Commonwealth of Learning. The American Mind, published in 1951, remains one of his most highly-acclaimed accomplishments. He also edited Rise of the American Nation, a 50-volume study now in progress.

Commager served on the War Department's Committee on the History of the War, which sent him to France, Great Britain and Belgium. A member of the National Academy of Arts and Letters, Commager has been Pitt Professor of American History at Cambridge University and Harmsworth Professor of American History at Oxford University.

Commager will arrive at Youngstown Airport at 9:35 a.m. and will be met by host Dr. Sidney Roberts, history. At 11 a.m. he will hold a press conference at Kilcawley Center, room 239, and he will be interviewed by Bob Peterson, program director of WYSU-FM, at WYSU radio station at 2 p.m. A discussion session with students and faculty is scheduled for 2:45 p.m. at Kilcawley Center, Room 216.

Council lacks quorum, absences criticized

Student Council at its second meeting of the school year was again unable to raise quorum, and chairperson Ed Sturgeon stated that he was going to ask for the resignation of Council members who do not attend meetings and have not indicated whether they intend to be active on Council or not.

Sturgeon stated that the executive committee of Council met and voted to accept no excuses for lateness or early departures from meetings from any of the Council members. Sturgeon emphasized the fact that Council members are representatives of the student body and that they should live up to the responsibilities connected with their position.

New member

Council discussed various committee reports and announced the selection of Leslie Horvath, sophomore, T&CC, as a new Student Council member before they adjourned.

Judy Nyers, junior, engineering, chairperson of the student organizations committee, reported that two student groups, the Gay Lib Student Committee and the English Majors Union, have been waiting to be recognized since spring quarter and will be recognized as soon as all forms required prior to recognition are completed. The Gay Lib Student Committee has completed all the requirements needed for recognition as a student organization, but the English Majors Union still is lacking all the necessary forms, Nyers said.

Senate

In a report on student membership in Senate committees, Chairperson Sturgeon announced that no new student members would be nominated to Senate committees until the new Senate was seated. He stated that this small waiting period for student committee nominations would result in less confusion when the changes in the Senate took place.

Disapproval

Sturgeon again voiced his disapproval of any changes being made in the number of students appointed by Council to the Kilcawley Center Board, and Bill Boni, junior, business, stated that the move would give the Kilcawley Board practically no direct student input.

No decision made on Bliss bill ; investigate for additional defects

No decision has been made as to who will pay for the repairs to the $6.3 million Fine Arts building, Bliss Hall.

Dr. Karl Krill, vice-president for administrative affairs stated yesterday that he didn't expect the University would have to pay for the repairs because they were a matter between the contractors and the Ohio Department of Public Works. Dr. Krill also stated that the University has no funds allocated for the repairs.

More investigation

The Mosser Construction Co. of Fremont is investigating the building for any additional defects and has not revealed their plans, nor the projected completion date for the repair work.

'Work stopped Sept. 5 on the project when some 50 building tradesmen walked off the job, claiming the building was unsafe due to cracks in the concrete and "blow-outs" in the post-tensioned concrete beams and slabs.

Construction resumed
Construction has resumed while the repairs are being made.

Contraceptive info given by Planned Parenthood

"We are on campus to introduce Planned Parenthood services to the student body and to answer any question regarding methods of contraception and sexuality," said Robert Lackey, development director of the Planned Parenthood Organization of the Mahoning Valley.

The organization will have a booth in the Kilcawley arcade until Oct. 10. Director Lackey and Associate Director Millicent Countis will be there to answer questions.

The organization provides several services such as medical examinations, contraceptive supplies, pregnancy tests, referral services, and education and training programs.

Lackey explained that to receive a prescription contraceptive, a patient must have a pelvic examination, a pap smear for cancer, a breast examination, tests for venereal disease, urinalysis, a blood pressure, weight, and hematocrit check. All the contraceptives available from the organization are approved by the Medical Advisory Committee. The contraceptives available are pills, intrauterine devices, diaphragms and jelly, jelly alone, and foam and condoms. The patient chooses a method with the approval of the clinician.

There are three pregnancy testing clinics each week in the area, Lackey said. A person may also make an appointment for such testing at other times. There is no age restriction for pregnancy test eligibility. Counselors are also available at these times for advice.

It is a private, non-profit organization that operates on funds from contributions and patient fees. At the present time, it receives a service project grant from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Persons who attend the organization clinics are charged only for the supplies, yet none are denied services because of inability to pay.

CASE plans, ideas are explained, will attempt role of watchdog

Editor's note: Bill Boni is a business major, ROTC participant, and Student Council representative. He is also the former president of the Committee Against Student Exploitation, and is still an active member of the group which advocates the abolishment of the general fee in favor of a pay-as-you-go approach to student activities.

JAMBAR: What sort of activities does CASE plan for this quarter?
BONI: Activities to inform students publicize the idea that there is opposition to the status quo. We plan to endorse a slate of candidates and support them. We're looking for grievances too controversial for Student Council. We are attempting to broaden the base of CASE from one issue into a general watchdog. We're not Student Council brownies who want to get into Who's Who. If there's work to be done, we can do it.

JAMBAR: How many members do you have?
BONI: Twenty-five.

JAMBAR: Do they pay dues?
BONI: Yes, a dollar a month. Membership money pays for an office and a printing press.

JAMBAR: What is the connection between CASE and the Young Americans for Freedom?
BONI: There are several YAFers who are in CASE. It's coordination, we use the same printing press, but CASE is a student, local interest, whereas YAF works on a higher, more philosophical plane.

JAMBAR: I've heard that you, as a Student Council member, abstain from most budget votes. Why?
BONI: I have no right to spend other people's money. The little student bureaucrats over there just love people coming to them because they've got the power to disperse money. In return, those people vote for the person who gave them the money.

JAMBAR: What is your role on Student Council?
BONI: Watchdog, eyes and ears for CASE. I try to keep Council honest.

JAMBAR: Does your idea have any precedent?
BONI: Two or three dozen court cases across the U.S. have been filed about general fees. The fees have been ruled unconstitutional in some states.

JAMBAR: You claim the benefits of the general fee are reaped by a minority of students. Can you substantiate this claim?
BONI: Yes, with a survey Student Government has kept under top security.

According to the figures, 33 per cent of the students attended activities. If you exclude people who only went to one activity, the figure drops down to 12 per cent.

That survey was back in 1972. We want an up-to-date survey. The administration is afraid of this. However, it could show in their favor. Kilcawley Center's arrived since then, providing more of a "campus atmosphere."

JAMBAR: How would you answer the argument that the general fee sponsors essential public relations enterprises which indirectly benefit both the University and the students by encouraging higher enrollment and alumni contributions?

BEST BET, BEST BUY

Right from the start, you knew Tampax tampons were your best bet. They're the only tampons to come in three absorbency-sizes. Regular, Super and exclusive Junior - to help young girls get started.

Tampax tampons always keep you feeling fresh, clean and comfortable. And you always feel secure, too, because you know they're softly compressed for the best absorption. You like the assurance that nothing shows when you wear them and that you can't feel them. You carry them discreetly. You dispose of them easily. You know that they're your best bet when you're buying sanitary protection.

But did you know Tampax tampons were also your best buy? They come in economical packages of 10's and 40's, yet cost about the same as other brands that package 8's and 30's.

Tampax tampons are your best bet. And they're also your best buy.

The internal protection more women trust

Evidence

One difficulty which mars any general fee debate is the lack of concrete evidence supporting either side. The strongest apologists for the fee have no surveys or financial figures to support them, and CASE (the Committee Against Student Exploitation), despite the foolproof appearance of its plan, has not presented any examples of colleges where their system is being used effectively.

The primary burden of proof must rest upon CASE. Not only have they failed to produce an example of a university like YSU which runs on a pay-as-you-go system, but they've shown no examples of schools whose students maintain an intellectually stimulating atmosphere with a pay-as-you-go system. Without such examples, their mechanically beautiful system is meaningless.

The extent of the administration's neglect is less clear-cut. Common sense favors the defense of the general fee as advertising. The couple of minutes Don Gardner and every other local sportscaster devotes nightly to the football team, supported by the general fee, must add up to a substantial duration of free advertising. But is this advertising any good? Bill Boni, a member of CASE, suggests we compare the general fee expenditure with the return in alumni contributions. However, we must put it into the context of all money inlets. To conduct such intricate calculations, the administration will require persuasion.

One mandatory step in any such persuasion must be a new survey of student involvement in general fee-supported activities. Such evidence would be easy to collect and would provide a concrete basis for arguments supporting and opposing individual activities. Furthermore, while CASE can be dismissed as negligent and the administration might be excused as unpersuaded, assigned to this task can be Student Council as part of their duty.

I feel like the whole world's a stage--and Beckett's the playwright.

Feedback

Blasts editorial on advertising

To the editor of The Jambar:

This letter is in response to your editorial entitled Overkill. I am of the opinion that you find fault with the way Student Government handles its advertising. I am happy to hear that you know the reading habits as well as the financial priorities of the students at YSU. In my opinion, you have made an asinine statement with the publication of your editorial attacking Student Government advertising.

It so happens that about .001 per cent of the general fee goes into the cost of a full page ad. A little over 1 per cent, or about $1,500 of the total general fee of about $1 million, goes to the publicity chairperson, for advertising. With the money that the publicity chairperson receives,

Approves 'expose' of board action by Ed Sturgeon

To the editor of The Jambar:

The Committee Against Student Exploitation congratulates Ed Sturgeon in his action in exposing the attempted "coup" of the Kilcawley Board. Once again, the members of the University bureaucracy (including student participants) have shown how far above the students they set themselves.

The fact that the Kilcawley Center Board controls over $300,000 extorted from commuter students should dictate some effort by the Board to be responsive to student needs. Instead they have attempted to establish themselves as a cushioned, self-serving clique. Cutting the number of students appointed by Student Council, lengthening the terms of Board members to two years, and he must advertise all Student Government supported events. This includes advertising Student Council and Student Government elections, Senate elections, as well as posters and circulars for all events. If The Jambar were to cover some of these events more efficiently and without charge, maybe some money could be saved.

If the editor of The Jambar wanted to comment on student money being spent, why didn't he write something about the more than $400,000 allocated to the athletic department? Even more important, how about the more than $300,000 going to the Kilcawley Student Center, which has little student control. No, the editor had to take another poke at Student Government through its publicity department. I believe the editor should take a closer look at his own organization on Bryson Street before he speaks. He should look around campus on any Wednesday and he will find many untouched *Jambar*s still on the rack. Another thing he should consider is getting his morning paper out in the a.m. instead of the p.m. It is a bad turn of events when a responsible person such as the editor of The Jambar makes statements which have neither been investigated nor founded on sound judgment.

I would like to make one thing clear to the editor: there are guidelines which the publicity chairperson follows. These guidelines are self-imposed, in order for him to get maximum exposure with the least amount of cost and time. I am following these procedures in hope that they will pay off in due time. If you are going to judge the intentions and motives of Student Government and the publicity chairperson, then I ask you to judge them with merit and understanding rather than with ignorance.

reapportioning its membership are actions not calculated to increase responsiveness to students by this particular bureaucracy.

The only way that programs and activities of interest to students are to be generated is by making the student "consumer" supreme. The sad truth of the current situation is that a small handful of appointed administrators chooses the activities they think will interest the students. With a budget acquired through force of expulsion they have no real reason to be responsive to our desires. Students should insist on their right to choose their own activities rather than be badgered into accepting what someone else deems "appropriate." We, as consumers who foot the bill, have a right to make our own decisions.

them. If you spend a million from the general fee and you only get $20,000 return from alumni donations, that's ridiculous. How much money does the alumni give? Is Rook afraid to publish those figures?

JAMBAR: How would you respond to this scenario: CASE gets its way, and, as a result, The Jambar, Penguin Review, Neon, Kilcawley Center Program Board, Student Council, the football team, and Spotlight Theatre go under. Is this probable?

BONI: It's only probable if those activities mentioned remain aloof and unresponsive to student desires. If they bring their activity into conformity with what the student wants, they will survive.

JAMBAR: Another scenario: CASE gets its way, and a vast army of accountants, salespersons, and other business personnel are required. Would this not be less efficient than the present system?

BONI: Nothing is more inefficient that what we have now, especially for clubs and organizations.

We've always received arguments like, "Oh, God, the Geology club will go under; there aren't enough people who care about rocks to support the thing." Probably not true. If there are 10 hard-core geologists willing to put up $30 apiece, they can usually raise that $300 they need. CASE is the living example of that.

JAMBAR: Is it true CASE is pursuing a radical road in order to achieve a more moderate goal, such as elimination of the football team?

BONI: We're after the abolishment of the general fee. Any victories along the way, so that some activities aren't financed by the general fee, would prove our point.

People keep saying, "Your idea can't work." I say, "give us a chance to prove our point."

Birds beat Michigan in last-minute surge

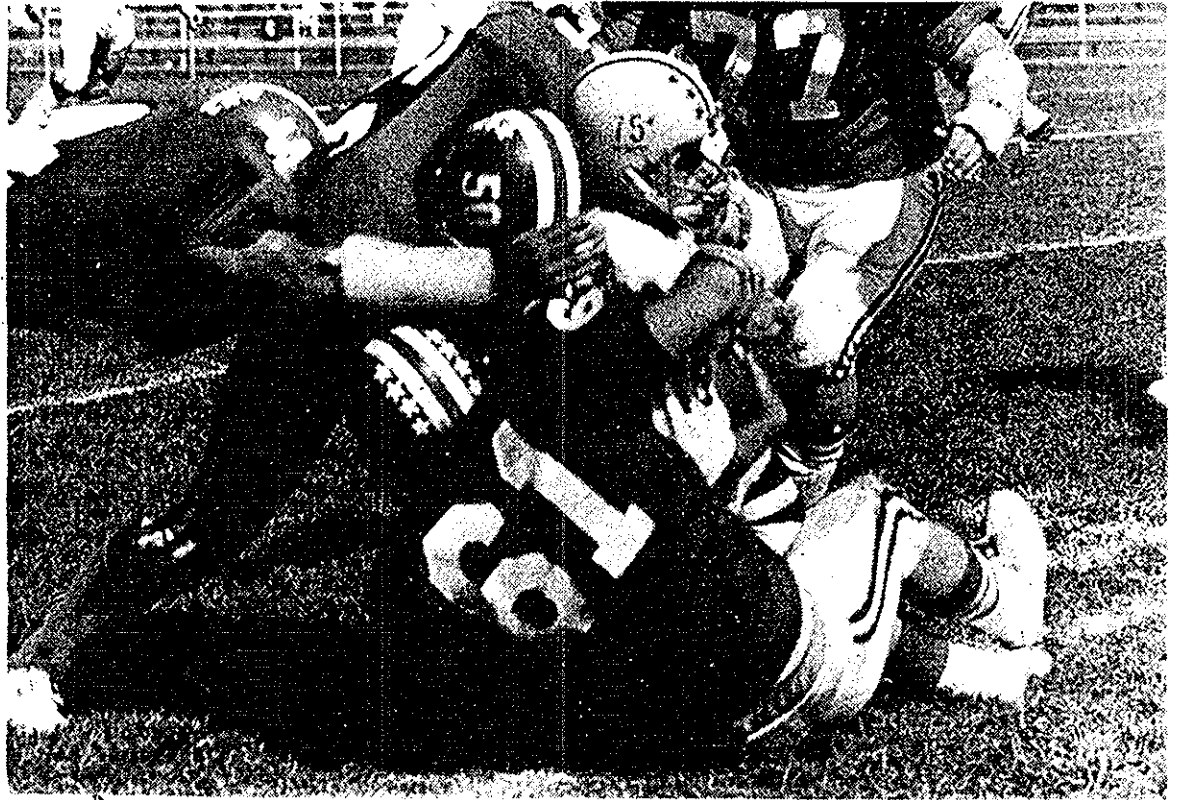

A sluggish YSU football team came alive in the last 50 seconds of the game Saturday to defeat a determined Northern Michigan team 24-10.

An estimated crowd of 5,436 at Rayen Stadium witnessed a nip-and-tuck battle between an undefeated YSU team and a winless Northern Michigan team hungary for a victory. With about two minutes left in the game, YSU started its winning drive on their own 28-yardline. Seconds earlier, Northern Michigan had tied the game, at 10-10 with a 38-yard field goal by Steve Masticola, his longest of the year. Cliff Stoudt, the sophomore quarterback, on the first play from scrimmage threw a 57-yard bomb to Senior Split End Dave Ferguson, who carried the ball down Northern Michigan's 15-yard line. Stoudt later scored a one yard keeper with just 52 seconds left. Max Judeth kicked the extra point and YSU led 17-10.

Twenty seconds later, after Northern Michigan had recieved the kick-off, Frosh Al Campman intercepted a Tuma pass and ran 28 yards for the last YSU touchdown.

YSU had the first scoring opportunity in the first quarter on the Northern Michigan 16-yard line but Max Judeth missed a 33-yard field goal.

Northern Michigan's first score came late in the first quarter when Northern Michigan's quarterback Steve Mariucci score on one-yard plunge.

The only score of the third quarter was Judeth's 37-yard field goal. Judeth was four of five and scored a total of six points.

Once again the defense shined through, especially the defensive secondary. The defensive secondary led by Campman, who intercepted two passes, had a total of four interceptoons (Radon one and Calloway one). The defense has a total of nine interceptions on the year.

A happy Rey Dempsey admitted that YSU could have lost, but was "happy that we came out in the end."

"We learned some lessons today but I'm glad we won," continued Dempsey.

The closeness of the game can be seen in the final statistics. In total yards rushing, YSU had 206 yards while Northern Michigan had 198 yards. The closeness is also reflected in total offense, as YSU had 279 yards as compared to Northern Michigan's 270 yards.

YSU remains undefeated with a record of 3-0, while Northern Michigan remains winless with a record of 0-5. Next week YSU meets Tennessee Tech at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, at Rayen Stadium; Northern Michigan meets Akron at the Akron Rubber Bowl.
