budget details
are released

An eight member student-faculty Senate committee will be evaluating the current football budget released to the Jambar yesterday.

Willard Webster, YSU athletic director, has provided members of the university with a detailed picture of the 1972-1973 football budget. Webster reminded the Jambar that the figures available for release are budgeted amounts and that these budgeted amounts are never exceeded, and in most cases never fully spent.

The total monies budgeted for football equal $215,930 which is partially offset by an income of $38,500 yielding a net expenditure of $177,430. This figure includes salaries, $40,810; scholarships, $98,910; awards, $800; fringe benefits, $6,930; scouting $2,000; and recruiting, $1,000.

The total expenditure also includes transportation (including two airplane trips), $18,700; Camp Fitch summer camp, $9,300; repairs and dry cleaning, $1,200; athletic equipment, $6,820; clinics and meetings, $740; game expenses $6,900; meals and lodging, $6,260; game guarantees to visiting schools, $8,000; subscriptions and publications, $6,050; potography and art work, $1,500; and dues $10.

Income for the football program is as follows; tickets, $16,000; program ads, $4,000; program sales, $1,000; and guarantees from away games, $17,500.

Dr. Ester Neimi, chairperson of the Senate Executive Committee, announced that the committee, which will study football at YSU, is comprised of an equal number of students and faculty, as stipulated in student Senate member Kip Rondy's original proposal.

Student members selected for the Senate football study committee are Skip Davis, chairman of Student Council; Tom Montgomery, president of Student Government; Jerome Parm, Senate representative from education; Gilbert Rondy, author of the motion creating the football study committee and Senate representative from T&CC; and Tom Salpietra, Senate member representing the school of engineering.

Faculty members are Dr. Thaddeus Dillon, professor of mathematics; Dr. Thelma S. Miner, professor of English; Casper J. Moore, instructor of management; Dr. William Barsch, supervisor of mechanical engineering technology; and Dr. Duane F. Rost, assistant professor of electrical engineering.

JANUARY SPRING — Students find a basketball more feasible than snowballs this January.

McLean problems ironed out; Jazz ensemble also on bill

"There are no problems... We are very pleased," insisted Gina Farinelli, chairperson of Major Events Committee for Student Council, in an attempt to dispel rumors regarding this Sunday's concert at Beeghly Center.

The only problem encountered, according to Farinelli, was that Don McLean, the concert's main attraction, is "very particular about who plays with him." This led to the selection of The Persuasions to complete the concert bill, against the wishes of the Major Events Committee. However, Farinelli noted that "the big act has the right to select who plays with him."

Student Government President, Tom Montgomery also informed The Jambar that the YSU Jazz Ensemble will perform at the gala.

Additional controversy arose over the hiring of a limousine to transport the celebrities. Farinelli explained that this "is for safety reasons." She noted that limousine services are covered in case of accidents by insurance and, thus, run less of a risk of being sued. Conversely, students, if used to transport celebrities, are liable if an accident were to occur.

Farinelli announced that ticket sales as of 4 p.m. yesterday totaled approximately 1200. She expects sales to increase as the weekend progresses, and reminds students that all tickets will be $3.00 per person at the door. Therefore, no student discounts will be granted the night of the concert. The price is $2.00 in advance upon presentation of a YSU student I.D.

Northeastern Ohio medical school looms near; three State senators to propose funding bill

by Mike Castranova
Jambar Staff Writer

Possible realization of a medical school for Northeastern Ohio took another step yesterday as

NEW COACH — Rey Dempsey at press conference yesterday. See page 8.

Board of Education specialists presented a general budget outline in Akron, and three Ohio state senators announced a proposal for the school to be presented before the Ohio General Assembly in Columbus.

Senator Robert Stockdale (R-Kent), said Thursday morning that he and Senators Harry Meshel (D-Youngstown), and Oliver Ocasek (D-Akron), would propose a bill calling for the allocation of funds for a medical school to serve Northeastern Ohio, similar to the program suggested by the education specialists in Akron.

Dr. Stanley W. Olson, President of the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education, San Antonio, Texas, and head of the group of seven medical specialists, announced at the press conference in Akron the general budget outline, as planned by his board, for MEDCO-Northeastern Medical Education Development Center of Ohio, Incorporated.

The conference was also attended by President Albert L. Pugsley, who serves on the Board of Directors for MEDCO.

For the first year, an allocation of $500,000 would be required. At this time a director would be chosen for the program to act as the chief executive officer. The second year, $300,000 would be needed during which a chief academic dean and faculty would be picked for the school.

A liaison committee would be chosen during the third year from members of the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges. It would then be decided if the school could be certificated. After certification, the school could then start to recruit students.

The first graduating class, assuming this plan follows the "best optimal rate," would be in 1980, Dr. Olson said.

MEDCO proposes a new medical school featuring a six year, immediate post-high school curriculum, leading to the Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Medicine degrees. The proposal and the corporation are unprecedented in the United States.

Paris peace talks set for next week to 'complete' pact

KEY BISCAYNE AP — The United States and North Vietnam announced yesterday they will resume secret Paris meetings next week "for the purpose of completing the text of an agreement" to end the long and bitter Vietnam war.

The wording of a terse joint announcement by the Florida White House and Hanoi indicated that tentative agreement had been reached on such major points as a cease-fire, the return of prisoners and machinery to reshape Saigon's government.

U.S. officials refused to predict when the text would be completed. But they did nothing to erase the impression that only lesser details, such as the makeup of a peacekeeping force, stand in the way of signing of a final accord.

Emphasizing that he was reading language approved by both the United States and North Vietnam, presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen:

"Dr. Henry Kissinger will resume private meetings with special adviser Le Duc Tho and Minister Xuan Thuy on Jan. 23, 1973 for the purpose of completing the text of an agreement."

The North Vietnamese delegation in Paris said the top negotiators for each side would resume their talks "to complete the agreement on ending the war and re-establishing peace in Vietnam."

Hanoi's announcement differed from the U.S. statement in referring to "the agreement" rather than "an agreement." The North Vietnamese have demanded that the United States sign without major revisions the agreement drafted in October.

Major parts of the October draft were unacceptable to the Saigon government, and Ziegler's reference to "an agreement" appeared to indicate a break with the October text could be expected.

Asked later about the difference in language, Ziegler said: "The intention of both is the same. There is no substantive difference."

Communist officials in Paris could not be reached for comment.

MUSIC Nina Simone

by Elrod Ponder

Up to now, my experience with Nina Simone was at best negligible since I am primarily a rock freak, but as time goes on the musical categories continue to be broken down by excellent recordings such as this one.

This album is not important as soul music or pop music. It is important because it is an amazingly intimate insight into the creative genius of this very black woman. The album was recorded at various places including Fort Dix. Sister Nina was attempting to show the inmates that although their crosses are terribly hard to bear, solitary confinement, poor sanitation and health services, and institutionalized racism, the problems of just living in this straight life are nearly insurmountable. The two sides contain just four songs but the beauty and imagery she weaves during the album's fifty-odd minutes is both inspiring and frightful. Side one includes George Harrison's, "My Sweet Lord" which through it is a poem by David Nelson called "Today Is A Killer" interwoven. Sister Nina's version sounds like the type of thing you would hear at an old camp meeting in the Deep South. It features the classic "call-and-response" melodic configuration with Nina carrying the song at the urging of the Bethany Baptist Choir of South Jamaica, N.Y., gospel singer Lisa Stroud and Miss Simone's brother, Samuel Wayman. She builds the song by changing the dynamics of her piano accompaniment then breaking the tension with passages from the Nelson poem. This pattern is repeated until she finally approaches the last crescendo at which point she recites the whole poem in all its brutality and beauty;

"No matter how hard try/you can't get close to nobody Because today is a killer/And only you can save us Lord."

In the last line she asks, "Who are you, Lord?" and answers, "You Are A Killer" which denies all the song's previous exaltation in religious faith. This disillusionment is carried over into "Isn't It A Pity" which is almost painful to hear because of the disgust and anguish in her voice. She takes her time in delivering the song, almost vocally caressing each word to emphasize its significance. In this one song she wipes out all the talk about the profundity of the interpretations of people like Roberta Flack. In the face of Emergency Ward! Quiet Fire is tepid cocktail music.

When I listened to this album, the title of a book by W.E.B. Dubois came to mind - "The Soul of Blacks Folks". If any one person defines blackness I think it is Nina Simone.

Med School

Plan asks the Ohio General Assembly to authorize the establishment of the Northeastern Ohio Universities School of Medicine, which would serve 17 communities.

A $115 million appropriation is sought for the construction of clinical science facilities in Youngstown, Akron, and Canton and a basic medical science facility with administrative offices and a medical library near the intersection of Interstate 76 and State Route 43. This figure, however, does not include site acquisitions.

MEDCO will establish affiliations with area hospitals instead of building a university hospital.

The Board of Regents' authorization is also needed to enable YSU, The University of Akron, and KSU to award the Doctor of Medicine degree through the Northeastern Ohio Universities

School of Medicine. Students enrolling in the Northeastern Ohio Universities School of Medicine would spend their first two years after high school graduation at YSU, The University of Akron, or KSU, taking basic courses. Their curriculum would consist of 75% basic sciences and humanities, and 25% clinical experiences in area hospitals. During this period they would be classified as provisional medical students.

Third year students, classified as medical students, would attend classes in the new basic medical science facility, located conveniently to all three universities. The curriculum would be 70% basic medical sciences, 15% humanities and related sciences, and 15% clinical experiences in area hospitals.

In their fourth, fifth, and sixth years, the medical student would spend 75% of their time taking medically related basic sciences at affiliated hospitals in the area and at the new clinical science facilities in Youngstown, Akron, and Canton.

Designed to graduate a physician oriented to the practice of medicine on the community level, especially family physicians, the academic year under this plan would be eleven months, instead of the traditional nine.

The Board of Directors for MEDCO are Dr. D.J. Guzzetta (Chairman), President of The University of Akron, Dr. Glenn A. Olds, President of Kent State University, Dr. Pugsley, Mr. Ben Maidenburg, Trustee, The University of Akron, Robert E. Tschantz, M.D., Trustee, KSU, and Mr. John M. Newman, Trustee, YSU.

New student lounge planned in Ward Beecher basement

A new student lounge, which will be located in the basement of the Ward Beecher building, will be ready as soon as possible, and no later than February 1, Philip Rogers, assistant to financial vice president, said yesterday.

The lounge is intended to replace the presently defunct snack bar, formerly located in Central Hall, which was reduced to a virtual pile of rubble months ago, and later in West Hall.

The basic plan for the new lounge was submitted by campus planning and provides for an area of about 800 square feet.

The basement of Ward Beecher became available as a lounge site with the university's purchase of the McKelvey warehouse building, which enabled the movement of maintenance equipment previously stored in the basement.

The new lounge will be very similar to the old snack bar in content. All the Servomation machines which previously inhabited the former snack bar locations now rest in the new site.

Scoreboard

A $20,000 electronic scoreboard and timer will be inaugurated at the Beeghly Physical Education Center tonight when the YSU swimming team meets Wayne State and West Liberty State in a double dual meet.

The new device will judge the swimmers' times to two-one-millionths of a second and will read out to one-hundredth of a second. It has the capability of judging eight places. According to Coach Bob Leahy, "It's one of the finest in electronic devices."

YSU students will be among the many who will take to the streets, again, in protest of the war in Southeast Asia. Demonstrators will again remind the American public that the war goes on, even during these days when a settlement seems imminent. Just yesterday U.S. bombs were dropped on South Vietnam in what was described in one radio broadcast as the biggest raid in three months.

Reports persist that peace is only a matter of days away. If this is so, the Vietnam post-mortems will soon begin to flow; however, one would be well-advised to postpone such analyses because this administration has promised us peace before. Let's hope this is the real thing.

One is still appalled at the procrastination currently engaged in by the administration. To us, a satisfactory settlement of the conflict is no longer a matter of gains or losses negotiated at the peace table. It would seem that, at this point in time, the most salient determinant in the search for peace should be the desire to put an end to the suffering, the death, the destruction. When a peace agreement is finally signed, what political provisions contained therein can possibly justify the years of U.S. military presence in Vietnam?

Vietnam is responsible for dealing a blow that sent the American Dream reeling. In the wake of the past few years of this country's history lie strewn the remnants of the myths which have sustained us for generations. America's pride in its long standing democratic tradition and popular control over all government policy has suffered in light of the feeling of helplessness which has gripped so many Americans for so long.

Such public impotency springs not only from the long, futile experience of trying to sway an intransigent government from its path of willful slaughter, but also from the inability to come to grips with the mentality which allowed this to happen.

Seeks seat for seat seeking Sigma

To the editor of the Jambar

As President of Sigma Tau Gamma social fraternity, I would like to take this opportunity to endorse one of our brothers who is seeking the office of Councilman in the Second Ward.

Don Hanni is a YSU student and has been active in local politics for a long time. He is a good friend of mine and I feel that if he was elected he would bring to the City Council of Youngstown the new vitality it definitely needs.

Hanni has before him a very difficult campaign because of the hard line incumbent he faces in this election. This is not to say that he has no chance, because many young people have campaigned in city elections before. On the contrary, his chances of being successful are very good and as a resident of the Second Ward, I can assure you that the people of this area are ready for a change.

The key to victory for Hanni will be in the amount of help he will be able to get in carrying out his campaign. I realize that many YSU students don't live in this area, but they can still play a vital role by coming out and helping with things like canvassing in the area, talking to people on the phone, and making and putting up signs. These are only a few things, but I am sure that it gives an idea of what will be needed.

The Brothers of Sigma Tau Gamma will be giving their whole hearted support. I am just hoping that other YSU students will join with us.

Boos YSU's non-conference status

To the editor of the Jambar:

One of the main arguments in favor of the elimination of YSU's football program is the lack of fan support. I personally feel it is harder to support a team that plays an independent schedule. If YSU were to enter a league such as the Midwest Conference, or form a new conference with such independent teams as Dayton, Akron, Xavier, Gannon, Cleveland State, or any other school in the general area, all YSU sports programs would probably draw more attendance. Either conference would also limit the traveling radius of the football team. Game attendance should also increase if YSU would play against other high ranking teams.

The Midwest Conference may be setting our sights on a high level of competition, but then isn't that what Coach Beede always stressed? Set your goals high and strive to attain them.

Why wouldn't conference competition be possible, and why hasn't YSU joined a conference in the past?

YSU needs a football team because athletics of every type help to build school spirit and develop a sense of pride in the university. Whether directly by attending games, or indirectly by just being proud of attending YSU, most students do look up to their university's athletic programs.

Fires up junior varsity gunners

To the editor of the Jambar:

Next Friday the Junior Varsity and the Varsity Rifle Teams will be competing in a handicap match. Like bowling, a handicap is given to each participant, depending on his or her average, so that each shooter will enter the contest on even grounds. The Varsity claims that we have an advantage because of a higher handicap, but they have experience in shooting under pressure, so I'd say its about even.

To the Varsity Rifle Team I'm issuing a warning. Don't even bother to show up! I'm going to field my entire team, a group of mighty fine shooters. Our female shooters, Sheri Davis, Mitzi Fill, Sue Schultz, and Jeri Staub, will "out-shoot" any Varsity member. Bob DeLost, Tad Grenga, Jeff Hedge, Bill McNab, Joe Palmiter, David Vinkler, and Wayne Wilhelm, will team together to blow the Varsity right out of the range. In fact, just to give you a chance, I just might shoot left handed.

Like I said Varsity, you are the greatest Varsity Team in the State of Ohio, but now that we are on even terms I hope the Lord takes mercy on you, because we won't!

Penguin swimmers face foes in dual meet tonight at Beeghly

The YSU swimming team will face its first real threat of the season when it hosts Wayne State and West Liberty State in a double dual meet in the Beeghly Center's olympic-size pool tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Both Wayne State and West Liberty State boast highly touted squads. Wayne State's mermen finished among the top 20 NCAA small college teams last season and are expected to do the same this year. The West Liberty State swimmers have been tabbed as the nation's best in the NAIA.

In defense of their unblemished 2-0 mark, the Penguins will open with freshmen Keith Landsness and Randy Heckert, sophomore Rami Yehudai and junior Tom McGee in the 400-yard medley relay. The other starters include junior John Carroll and freshmen Ed Wade, 100-yard freestyle; McGee and freshman Gib Dawson, 200-yard freestyle; junior Jeff Suain, freshman Alan Dodson and Tom Schoborg, 50-yard freestyle; Landsness and senior Chuck Nienhuis, 200-yard individual medley; Heckert and freshman Scott Hamrick, 200-yard butterfly; Dodson and Suain, 100-yard freestyle; Nienhuis and freshman Fred Robertson, 200-yard backstroke; Wade and Carroll, 500-yard freestyle; Yehudai, Dawson and senior Tom Evans, 200-yard backstroke; freshmen John Muchorski and Marty Sullivan, diving.

The services of senior freestyler Dick Tatsch may be lost to the Penguins for the meet, as he suffered a cut hand and has been out of the water for a week.

Only two YSU swimmers are undefeated to date in their respective events. The duo includes Tatsch, 200-yard freestyle, and Dodson, 50-yard freestyle. In addition, the Penguins have not been beaten in the 400-yard medley relay.

"Watson" experiment puts theories into application

The "Watson Project," an experiment in elementary education, enables potential elementary teachers to put theory into practical application.

Under the direction of Dr. Marvin W. Crisp, department chairman, the joint program involves the cooperation of the Watson Elementary School in Austintown and the education department at YSU.

The 25 participating students are given the opportunity to gain experience by spending a quarter at the elementary school in a regular classroom situation.

Once the initial period of concentrated theory study is completed the students become more involved with aiding classroom activities and tutoring individual pupils.

The theory classes held at the Austintown elementary school, are taught by Dr. Margaret Braden, associate professor of elementary education; Dr. A. Duane Sample, assistant professor of music; Juanita Roderick, assistant professor of elementary education; and Joseph Babisch, assistant professor of art.

The favorable reaction towards the "Watson Project" parallels the enthusiasm shown for a similar program conducted last spring. The earlier program entitled the "Harrison Project," involved YSU and the Harrison Elementary School in Youngstown.

Dana graduate to conduct youth concert at Powers

Dana School of Music graduate, Nicholas DeCarbo, will conduct a group of young area musicians at the Youngstown Philharmonic Orchestra concert at 8 p.m., Saturday, January 20, in Powers Auditorium.

DeCarbo, who received his Master of Music degree from YSU, is presently Director of Instrumental Music for schools in West Middlesex, Pa., and for four years has been actively associated with Franz Bibo, musical director and conductor of the Youngstown Symphony Orchestra.

The young musicians were selected by audition from Youngstown and surrounding communities and include YSU undergraduates Cindy Scarfo, Martha Bastress, Jan Carr, Paul Malove and Thomas Mastramico.

The purpose of the Junior Philharmonic is to give young musicians an in depth orchestral training they would not otherwise be able to receive.

Admission is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students.

At 10 p.m., Charlotte Shockley's show is called "Numbers in Opera."

Dempsey outlines YSU grid plans

Rey Dempsey, newly appointed YSU football coach, outlined his plans for the Penguin football program during a press conference yesterday afternoon at the Beeghly Physical Education Center.

Included in his immediate goals is to complete the coaching staff. "We want someone who not only can coach but also can teach," explained Dempsey. He will be adding a fulltime assistant as well as one on a part-time basis. "Our players will be conditioned and well disciplined," said the mentor. He has made plans for a winter conditioning program for the griders that will get underway January 29.

His recruiting plans for the most part will include talent within a 50-mile radius of Youngstown. Dempsey said that he and his staff will concentrate primarily, however, on the talent in the immediate area.

Coach Dempsey promised enthusiasm, organization and dedication of himself. He stressed the importance of support from the YSU student body, faculty and administration, and plans to meet as many people that he can from the university community as soon as possible.

He has already formulated the schedule for spring practice which will be held in Liberty, and begin April 9.

New football coach Rey Dempsey brings the ability to win to YSU

by Bob Wilcox
Jambar Sports Writer

YSU has a new head football coach. After more than a month of conjecture, rumors and controversy, the YSU Athletic Council Selection Committee finally named 36 year old Rey Dempsey to take up the reins of YSU's football fortunes, following the retirement and the subsequent tragic accidental drowning of the only football coach YSU has ever had, the late Dwight "Dike" Beede.

Dempsey comes to YSU from Bowling Green University, where he served as offensive line coach for two years. Prior to Bowling Green, he served as head coach at East Palestine High School, for four years, and then as head coach at Canton Central Catholic for six years. His total won-lost record as a high school head coach is 54-43-3.

Dempsey and his wife, Marion, have four children, girls 15, 14 and 6 years of age and one boy, 9 years old. He attended high school in Pitscairn, Pa., received a degree in Economics at Geneva in 1958 and a Masters in Education from Westminster in 1964.

It must be assumed that any, and all, with any resentment and/or complaints concerning the appointment of the new coach arrive at them through a sincere concern for YSU's football program.

If this indeed is true, then there should now be no problem in tying up all loose ends, taping down any loose flaps and giving new Coach Dempsey a solid and united support.

Dempsey is a very personable, direct and engaging man and has proved his ability as a football coach and program administrator.

Dempsey is highly capable of giving YSU a winning and an exciting football team, and will most certainly do just that if given the type of true and solid support which the YSU student body is capable of giving.

Even those not especially happy with the method in which Coach Dempsey was brought into our midst cannot deny the merit of the choice, nor the authenticity and the ability of the man.

At the beginning of his tough job, he needs help and support of the entire student body and the entire community. This corner would like Coach Dempsey to know that he can be assured of our help, interest and support as he leads the Penguins into an exciting era of YSU football.

BASKETBALL
BULLETIN

YSU dropped last night's basketball contest with Cleveland State University by a score of 72-66.

Frosh breakfast in bed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. AP — About 900 Yale freshmen, bleary-eyed and book-ridden on the last day of final exams, got a special treat yesterday breakfast in bed, complete with cigars for the men and red carnations for the women.

Dining hall workers and some 60 student volunteers teamed to deliver juice, scrambled eggs, home fires, sausage, bagels, cream cheese and coffee to the freshman rooms.

Most of the students appeared happy with the service, although some left "Do Not Disturb" signs on their doors. "I think spirits are better than usual this morning," said volunteer server Julie Melamud of New York City as she ran up and down stairs delivering meals in all-male Bingham College.
