Faculty vote planned for contract ratification

A vote will be taken next week by the faculty to decide whether to ratify the agreement negotiated by the YSU Ohio Education Association and the University. The ratification session is scheduled for 4 p.m. Wednesday, May 23 in Schwebel Auditorium in the Engineering Sciences Building.

A question and answer session is scheduled for 4 p.m. on Tuesday in Ward Beecher Room 212 and a discussion period will precede the ratification vote on Wednesday.

Earlier this week copies of the tentative agreement between the University and the OEA were distributed among the faculty. Accompanying the 51 page contract was a summary that outlined the 27 articles within the agreement.

The summary letter to the faculty states that the Board of Trustees will meet on Monday to consider ratification and that "problems are not anticipated in this regard."

The university and the OEA have been negotiating for the last nine months for the 1973-75 contract.

The Jambar will publish a summary of the agreement in the near future.

Artists-Lecturers revealed for upcoming academic year

Next year's Artist Lecture Series will feature such luminaries as William Kuntzler, Garrick Utley, and possibly William F. Buckley, The Jambar learned yesterday.

Dr. Daniel O'Neill, chairman of the Artist Lecture Series and assistant professor of speech and dramatics, announced that noted psychologist Bruno Bettelheim, Ballet West, and classical guitarist Carlos Montoya will appear in the '73-'74 Series.

Radical civil rights lawyer Kuntzler, NBC newscaster Utley, Bettelheim, Montoya, and Ballet West, a relatively new touring company, have already been contracted, noted O'Neill. Conservative journalist Buckley is being negotiated for, and O'Neill claimed that "we have every indication that he will be speaking here next fall."

"We are considering getting a speaker to tie into United Nations Week, and we may provide a speaker for Black History Week," added O'Neill while discussing the remainder of next season's schedule.

O'Neill said that many of the exact dates and who the Skeggs lecturers will be are as yet undecided. Buckley will probably be the first of three speakers next year. "We look for people who are outstanding and preeminent in their field," said O'Neill of the Skeggs faction of the Series.

Also next year, the Artist Lecture Series will continue to sponsor the International Film Series in cooperation with the department of speech and dramatics. The Film Series is under the guidance of Dr. Bill Hulsopple, associate professor in that department.

The Series will also provide $100 stipends, noted O'Neill, "to departments for speakers upon request."

A final schedule of Series events will be released when plans are finalized.

Bernstein here Tuesday

Carl Bernstein, Washington Post reporter, whose recently proposed visit to the YSU campus was cancelled due to developments in the Watergate Case, will appear as guest speaker in the Artist-Lecture Series at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 22 in Stambaugh Auditorium. Since his proposed visit Bernstein and fellow reporter Bob Woodward have been cited by the trustees of Columbia University in announcing their awarding of the post of the 57th Pulitzer Prize for its investigative reporting of the Watergate scandal.

The program is free and open to the public. Further questions concerning the speech may be directed to the Student Activities Office.

STRIKE - Members of the Operating Engineers Local No. 66 struck Clark and Fort Construction Company, which is involved in various construction jobs on the campus yesterday. Other unions honored the strike and construction on all YSU buildings came to a halt. (See story below.)

Booths, flicks, rock set for Fair

Student booths in the Kilcawley amphitheatre featuring handmade crafts for sale and display and double feature movies will share today's agenda for the Open Air Fair, sponsored by the Student Council Major Events Committee. The week's festivities are scheduled to run through Monday, May 21.

The double bill, Cool Hand Luke starring Paul Newman, and Where's Papa with George Segal, has been slated for 8 p.m. tonight in the Kilcawley cafeteria.

According to Ken Papagan, chairman of the Fair, four of the original groups scheduled for tomorrow's benefit Rock Concert have cancelled. Joining Poobah, Pegasus, and Jude will be Dynamite, Night Hawk and Tragacanth. Donation is still $1.00 with proceeds going to the Day Care Center and Free Clinic.

The drawing announcing the winner of the Australian pearl opal ring donated by James E. Modarelli jewelers, will also take place tomorrow evening at the Fair. Contest coupons may be placed in the special contest box at Modarelli's until tomorrow.

Free on Sunday is a Folk Concert with Harry Papagan, Sheila Stone, Norm Heck, Hanno and Billy, Terry Ozanich and other noted performers. Master of Ceremonies for this event will be "Holly" of WPIC-FM.

On Monday, Coconut will perform in Kilcawley from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Major Events Committee in conjunction with the Kilcawley Student Faculty Committee will sponsor the event.

Construction crew strikes for back fringe benefits

Construction at YSU has been delayed since early yesterday morning when the International Union of Operating Engineers, local 66, went out on strike. Other workers are honoring the strike lines, halting all campus construction work.

Claiming a violation of a contract agreement, Cal Malone, the union's business agent, said that the Clark and Fort Construction Company has not been paying union members their fringe benefits for the past year, amounting to $1.05 per hour.

The Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania Corporation, acting as arbitrators in the dispute, found the Clark and Fort Company guilty of not contributing to the engineers' pension fund, welfare, hospitalization, apprenticeship fees, and the United Appeal fund. The Clark and Fort Company has refused to open their books for auditing, Malone said.

Malone also said that there is "no way of telling" how long the strike might last.

Assistant professors volunteer time at OCCHA Social Hall

Two assistant professors of the YSU Spanish department are currently volunteering their time and skills in teaching Monday night classes in Spanish and English at the Organizacion Civica y Cultural de Hispano-Americano (OCCHA) Social Hall on Fruit Street.

Assistant Professors Margarita W. Metzger and Mary B. Loud were contacted by Juan Rios, a graduate of YSU and now chairman of OCCHA's board, and asked if they would like to volunteer what spare time they had to assist in teaching native speakers of Spanish the fundamentals of their language and English. Since there exists among the more than nine thousand Spanish-speaking people a need for language education, both professors readily accepted.

According to Mrs. Metzger, "...Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and several Southwestern states have bi-lingual curriculum in operation where subjects are taught in Spanish; and English is taught as a second language." She feels such a program in Youngs-

Authority in White House

WASHINGTON AP—Former campaign office manager Robert C. Odle said there was no doubt that ultimate political authority for the campaign rested in the White House.

Mustaches

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio AP—Middletown's 75 police officers reported for work Thursday clean shaven, at the order of Police Chief James Howarton.

Individual policemen refused comment. There had been 13 mustaches.

Project Newgate

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP—Gov. John J. Gilligan Thursday announced the approval of more than $300,000 in state and federal funds for a pilot program providing higher education to Ohio correctional inmates in what is called "Project Newgate."

Gardner Indicted

CLEVELAND, Ohio AP—A federal grand jury indicted Youngstown realtor James Gardner and his company Gardner Associates, Inc., of Youngstown Thursday for allegedly giving false information to the Federal Housing Administration FHA on credit applications.

Proxy War Powers

WASHINGTON AP—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved 15 to 0 yesterday a bill to limit the war powers of the president.

The measure, identical to one passed by the Senate last year, would allow a president, without prior approval of Congress, to use U.S. troops in combat for only 30 days to repel attack or the threat of attack on U.S. forces or territory, and the rescue Americans endangered abroad or at sea.

Comission to urge OEA, YSU heads on women's pay

The Commission on the Status of Women at YSU agreed to vehemently urge the Joint Committee of the OEA and administration on salary inequity to make a current comparative salary study of women and men faculty, and to rectify cases of discrimination, at a meeting yesterday.

The Commission also intends to nominate persons to the Joint Committee in letters to the OEA and the administration.

The Joint Committee will be formed in compliance with the new OEA contract, and it will be given $175,000 specifically to remedy salary discrimination at YSU.

According to the latest faculty study, using 1970-71 statistics, the basic difference in salary between YSU's faculty Men and Women was $1,821. The average salary for men was reported as $11,901 compared with $10,080 for women.

Dr. Thelma Miner, a representative of women on the OEA advisory committee, voiced her concern of salary discrimination at the meeting. According to Dr. Tom Shipka, president of the YSU OEA, any individual who feels he is being discriminated against should present and support his own case, Miner related.

"It's practically impossible for any individual to find out if she is being discriminated against," Dr. Miner said. She read a written letter to Shipka suggesting an 'across the board' remedy.

Minor proposed that a study concerning three factors — degree held, rank held, and number of years of service — be made using 1972-73 salaries. The average salary in each category should be taken and any case showing inequities be rectified.

The Commission supported this proposal and agreed to send letters to the OEA and the Administration requesting a current study be made and recommended the "across the board" move to eliminate faculty salary discrimination at YSU.

A list of names of women faculty and administration members was compiled and will be sent to the respective parts of the University Joint Committee.

Communication Workshop to offer advisement recommendations

A Communication Workshop, sponsored by Student Government and the Office of Student Affairs, with the stated intention of providing recommendations for changes or modifications in the area of academic advisement, will be held tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Knollwood Pavillion in Boardman Park.

Re-organize orientation

The Workshop is an outgrowth of last fall's Camp Fitch Conference in which the problems of advisement was the issue most often raised in group discussions. As a result of the Camp Fitch conference, plans are already underway to re-organize freshman orientation and to make it a more personal and useful entry into university life.

Participants

Participating in the Workshop will be those students, faculty, and administrators who attended the Camp Fitch Workshop. These persons will be provided an opportunity to receive feedback on the results of the fall meeting. In addition, members of the Dean's Council, members of the Academic Advisement and Registration Committee, Department chairmen, Academic Advisors as well as other students have been invited.

Discussion groups

Participants will be divided into discussion groups that will attempt to find concrete ideas and workable solutions to the problem of improving advisement procedures. Last fall the 60 participating students met in groups of six for two, two hour sessions. Each group then presented a report to Dr. George E. Letchworth and a Steering Committee who decided on the most effective means of disseminating and implementing suggestions.

Bring lunches

Students planning to attend the Workshop are asked to bring their own lunch. Beverages will be provided. In event of rain, the meeting will be held in Room 103 of the Lincoln Building.

Fair Fair

On the whole, Major Events' "Open Air Fair" could be a scintillating experience for all involved. With the absurd "Pizza Eating Contest" behind us, the remainder of the Fair should be worthwhile enough for it to be instituted as a yearly fest.

The idea of providing movies of substantive value (such as Yellow Submarine and Cool Hand Luke), as well as local rock talent, albeit mediocre, to the students at minimal direct cost is a good one. Today's student booths in the Kilcawley Amphitheatre should provide many talented students with concrete avenues of artistic expression, despite the falling temperatures of this reluctant spring.

In hoping the Fair becomes an annual event, however, we feel that the Pizza Eating Contests must be deleted. Watching over stuffed gluttons overstuff themselves does not seem to us the kind of pursuit erudite college students engage in. Of course, it could well be argued that the astute students were not party to this conspicuous consumption. Nevertheless, many of us (and we are sure many Biafrans had they witnessed the waste) were upset by the pizza swallowing event.

Transcends humor of experience

To the editor of The Jambar;

I would like to address my comments directly to Mr. Bill Hagan, author of the satirical letter which appeared May 15th in The Jambar. His letter concerned the articles about the Jesus Movement.

Mr. Hagan: You are very clever, as your letter clearly illustrates. It seems, however, that you are able to distinguish between an everyday "experience" (such as your satire) and a "religious experience" as was written about in the article. It's obvious you have never taken Riley's class on the Psychology of Religion, for if you had, you would have realized the significance of the girl's personal religious experience. (If you can, I suggest taking this course and finding out).

The girl's experience was a deeply emotional and highly revelatory one for her. I might add that because of its personal value, perhaps it was in bad taste to publish the experience in The Jambar. However, since it was written about and commented on, I simply want to set the record straight. Some religious experiences are peculiar and mystical; others are less outstanding and astonishing. I must say that your car and stomach experiences obviously were not of any deep psychological impact for you.

Of course I realize that your letter was meant to be funny. It was. One has to laugh at both sides of every issue. Anyone who is dumb enough to drink beer in the hot sun and who forgets to put water in his car battery, deserves a $47.89 (plus labor) "experience". The girl's religious experience didn't cost her $47.89. (Salvation is a free gift from God). Besides don't knock the Jesus way until you've tried it! You wouldn't have lost your $47.89 and you just might have gained a more valuable life than one spent sitting in the sun drinking beer!

Raps repeated rip-offing rip ups

To the editor of The Jambar;

More and more it seems that school and education have become a business. Every business, of course, needs money (in a school's case it is supplied by the students) in which to operate and should also use a great deal of foresight to accomplish its goals.

A business must keep its stockholders happy. Every student here at YSU holds a certain share in this university and its campus. If YSU is to expand, it must purchase materials and labor to build buildings and keep surroundings nice. Money can buy books for a library, lab equipment, pencils, or concrete and man hours.

Our business has not, it is felt, been using its power of extended or even limited foresight, though. How many times have the sidewalks in front of Kilcawley or Beeghly Center been torn up and repaved? Concrete and labor hours are thrown away every time it is torn up again. Maybe YSU's stockholders could have these walkways ripped up again. That way the University could dig for worms to sell to eager fishermen on the banks of the Mahoning.

Every business (bureaucracy) wastes money to an extent. Could the money wasted in building materials and time for a change be put into educating the students at YSU?

Lavishes laurels on 'ray of light'

To the editor of The Jambar;

It is apparent to all those who do not close their eyes to the facts and who do not lie to themselves that the administration at YSU is not responsive to the student needs. It had gotten to the point where I felt it would be easier for me to transfer to a competent school and let YSU wallow in its own murk. However, I felt that would be taking the easy way out and I also found what I believe is the way to turn YSU into a first rate school from a bureaucratic quagmire.

I took a look at the University and tried to see if there was anything that even came close to representing efficiency. To my surprise, I realized that in this multimillion dollar wasteland there was one blooming flower. This glowing ray of light in the darkness of the storm is the YSU Student Government President.

On close study, one would find that year after year, this office presents productions with the precision of the finest tooling machine that would stagger the imagination of twenty geniuses. To accomplish this feat, there must be more than just a director. There must be a person who has a sense of what needs to be done. Anyone with common sense would be able to see if the person in charge of Student Government has the ability to function at more than a subsistence level.

On the basis of his past performance, I think the students should call for the immediate ouster of the administration and the installation of Tom Montgomery as President of YSU. The efficiency of Mr. Montgomery is apparent to all those who do not close their eyes to the facts and who do not lie to themselves. STUDENTS! VOICE YOUR OPINION! You DESERVE Tom Montgomery.

Blasts Ballet as blatant sexism

To the editor of The Jambar;

While watching the elaborately produced "Water Ballet" show at Beeghly last Friday, I was struck by the blatant sexism displayed in its conception and execution. Especially remarkable was the rather even-handed approach to the offense - both anti-male and anti-female simultaneously!

The anti-female bias was less obvious, inasmuch as the members of the Women's Synchronized Swimming Club were the ostensible stars of the show. They came off as more-or-less anonymous, interchangeable parts of a smoothly functioning machine going mechanically through their routines with no more personality or individuality than a Rockettes chorus line. What spontaneity and virtuosity there was, was derived from the male performers, who had the only speaking roles and who demonstrated individualized diving skills and comic relief.

The most extreme example of this sexual role dichotomy was a number parodying the women's performance, with men in "drag," complete with ballooning breasts and pregnancies. This number was anti-female for its gross exaggeration of female secondary sexual characteristics, and anti-male for implying that the grace and beauty of balletic style is the exclusive province of females -- if only counterfeit ones.

This sexual role distinction was so pervasive that the finale, in which men and women performed as equals for the only time, was in striking and refreshing contrast to the rest of the show.

All this is not to imply that the Water Ballet was not enjoyable. I simply wish that the sexist role-playing attitudes which decree that men should demonstrate leadership, strength, skill and comedy, while women silently display the grace and glamor of their decorated bodies had not been so obvious and, in today's climate of sexual liberation, so reactionary -- or, at best, unenlightened.

Dr. Blue's book published

Dr. Frederick J. Blue, associate professor of history, has had his book, "The Free Soilers: Third Party Politics, 1848-54," published by the University of Illinois Press.

The book is a comprehensive history of an important anti-slavery political party and is a case study in third-party politics of an organization whose policy of containing slavery within the South was used to establish the Republican party in 1854.

The volume shows how changes in the policies of major parties often result from third-party pressures. While the Free Soil party lasted only a short time, its main goal of establishing another major party was achieved.

Dr. David H. Donald, Harry C. Black, Professor of American History at John Hopkins University, writes of Dr. Blue's book, "This first comprehensive history of the Free Soil party is an important contribution to the history of politics in the United States. All future discussion of the history of political antislavery will have to begin with this basic monograph."

Dr. Blue joined the YSU faculty in 1964, earning his bachelor of arts degree from Yale University and his master of science and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin.

Specializing in the pre-Civil War era he has also written an article on "The Ohio Free Soilers and Problems of Fractionalism." A member of the American Historical Association and Organization of American Historians, Dr. Blue was the recipient of a YSU "Distinguished Professor" award last June.

At Honors Day--

Top percent gains recognition

Students in the top one percent of the six schools and colleges of YSU; College of Arts and Sciences, Rayen School of Engineering, Dana School of Music, School of Education, School of Business Administration, and Technical and Community College, along with other outstanding undergraduate students, were recognized and honored at the University's Fourteenth Annual Honors and Awards Program held last Tuesday in the main gymnasium of the Beeghly Center.

Dr. M. Jean Charignon, dean of the Rayen School of Engineering, delivered the main address entitled "On This Business of Leadership," in which he defined, in his words, what leadership is and how it should be used.

"To me," Dean Charignon said, "leadership is the ability of a person to make people want to do what that person wants done. Leadership is the ability to make people want to do the bidding of their leader."

The definition out of the way, Dean Charignon then laid down a few simple rules on how to make people do what you want.

First, he stated, "make those who you would influence feel important. Spend the time and effort to learn each individual's needs...which are -- food, shelter, and all other material things; hunger for appreciation; craving for a feeling of importance; social esteem; security; opportunity for growth; ownership; sympathy; affection; and surplus energy and play."

"In order to lead," the Dean continued, "we must have or develop a decent respect for the other fellow's point of view and his needs. We must point out to those we seek to influence what he can gain in any of the (aforementioned) items he needs. In all our dealings we must soft pedal the I and accentuate the you."

Dean Charignon then illustrated two characteristics that must always be avoided if possible: never give an order, make a request; and if you want to be a leader don't criticize those you wish to influence.

In conclusion, Dean Charignon summed up leadership by saying, "If you wish to lead people, then have a healthy respect for their point of view and go out of your way to make them feel important."

Dr. Earl E. Edgar, vice president for academic affairs, welcomed guests and honors students to the Honors Day Program, and spoke briefly on the purpose of Honors Day. He and Dr. Darrell F. Rishel, dean of Student Affairs, presented the special awards.

Former Jambar staffer---

Carl Basic wins 'Atlantic' award

Carl Basic, former member of The Jambar staff and March graduate of YSU, has received a fourth place rating for his narrative essay "The Run" in the Atlantic Monthly magazine's 1973 college non-fiction competition.

Basic wrote the essay for an advanced expository writing course taught by William C. Baker, assistant professor of English at YSU. The essay deals with an incident which occurred in Vietnam during Basic's 13 months there with the U.S. Marine Corps.

The Atlantic Monthly opens the annual contest to all American college and university students. Basic's essay will be printed in a booklet of prize-winning papers this fall and his name will be listed as a winner in the June issue of the magazine.

Basic, who is now a general assignment reporter for the Warren Tribune-Chronicle, received a bachelor of arts degree from YSU, majoring in speech and dramatics and minoring in journalism.

Basic wrote the popular

Carl Basic

"Catch YSU" column for The Jambar. He served as an assistant editor, photographer and news staff reporter while with The Jambar.

Basic was also active as a varsity debator, sports editor of the Neon and campus writer for Nutshell Magazine.

Marathon foot race will be nation's richest this year

The first annual Mini-marathon foot race, the richest marathon foot race in the nation this year, will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 30, starting at the Central Square in downtown Youngstown.

In addition, trophies will be presented to the top three finishers in the overall competition, and the YSU Inter-Fraternity Council will present a trophy to the Greek entry who finishes first.

The race, sponsored by the downtown YMCA, will cover a seven mile course and will be patterned after the fabled Boston Marathon. Downtown merchants are donating $500 worth of awards to go to the various winners in the contest.

For those who feel they would like to take a stab at this amateur athletic event, application forms are available at the Health & Physical Education office in Beeghly, or from Sam Brown, director of the race, at the Central YMCA. Applications turned in after June 16 must pay a fee of four dollars.

Race organizers have indicated that the purpose of the event is threefold; to promote running as a means for better health; to dramatize the present clean air movement; and to promote the downtown Youngstown area.

Participants in the race will be divided into nine classes determined by age, seven for men and two for women. The first finisher in each class will receive a warm-up jacket worth $20, second place finishers will receive a pair of track shoes worth $15, and third place finishers will receive a short raincoat worth $10. All prizes will be donated by the downtown merchants.

It is hoped that runners from all over the state will participate in the race, and that the race will evolve into one of the top races in the nation. In the future one mile will be added each year until the race reaches its permanent figure of 26 miles. If this happens, the race will first become a 26-miler in 1992.

As an added attraction to the event, Youngstown mayor Jack C. Hunter will play a dual role as both participant and judge in the race.

All participants in the race must pay a $2 entry fee, and an extra dollar for an AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) sanction card. All entrants will receive a post-race dinner and a t-shirt signifying that they participated. A certificate of completion will be awarded to those who complete the seven-mile track.

AAU sanction cards may be acquired either from Tony Vivo at the Mahoning County courthouse, or at the Central Y up to and including the day of the race.

town would greatly assist the large number of native speakers with their original language and their adopted English language. These classes at OCCHA may represent the initiation of such a program in Youngstown area schools.

Dr. Loud teaches English at the center, to Spanish-speaking students who are interested in learning or improving their English. Her qualifications include a B.A. from University of Wisconsin, and M.A. from the University of North Carolina, and a Ph.D. from the University of Kentucky.

Professor Metzger, a native of Guatemala, received her B.A. from the University of Mississippi, her M.A. from the University of Minnesota, and plans to complete her Ph.D. studies at the University of Guadalajara in Mexico this summer.

The night classes taught by the two professors along with several certified teachers are held Monday evenings from 7:30-9 p.m. The curriculum covers courses in Elementary and Advanced Spanish along with two courses in English. They are free and open to the public.

Penguins sweep Mercyhurst

Dom Rosselli's YSU baseballers upped their record to 16-8 Wednesday afternoon by sweeping Mercyhurst College by 4-2 and 12-11 counts at Oakland Field.

Mike Szenborn tossed a four-hitter, striking out 11, to even his record at 1-1 in the opener.

The Penguins got a pair in the first as Neil Guerrieri singled, Chuck Olenych doubled him home and tallied on John Williams' base hit. Bob Gesacion Walked and scored without the aid of a hit in the second while Doug Bosick led off the sixth with a single and scored on a bases loaded walk to Gregg Merrill.

Bosick was the hitting star with two singles in three trips.

YSU outlasted the Lakers in the nightcap to give Jeff maley, the fourth Penguin hurler, his fourth win against two losses.

The Penguins got the victory on Steve Cheredar's pinch-hit double in the sixth. Bosick had walked to lead things off and took second on Gesacion's bunt.

Szenborn and Olenych both went three-for-four for the victors. Szenborn rapped two singles and a double and Olenych three singles. Merrill had a single and double.

Brooks collected three doubles as Mercyhurst's designated hitter.
