Ohiocon takes over in Kilcawley today

Ohiocon, which may become the largest comic book and comic strip convention held in the midwest this year, will be held October 10, 11, and 12 in Kilcawley Center. The convention is free and open to the public.

Along with the films, videotapes, art displays and guests related to the comic book field, the Youngstown Comic Art Association, which is coordinating the event, is presently negotiating with the Better Broadcasting Company for a performance of an episode of The New Adventures of Captain Midnight, a new syndicated radio serial scheduled for release in November. The performance will illustrate the techniques by which a radio script is translated dramatically on the air, illustrating such things as how sound effects are simulated.

The performance will probably be held Saturday, October 11, sometime in the afternoon, although final arrangements are still being made.

The purpose of the convention is to promote interest and understanding of comic book and comic strip art, the expressive potential of which, according to the convention organizers, has been greatly underrated in the past. The convention also will help comic book hobbyists to complete or dispose of their comic book collections; over sixty tables will be set up on Kilcawley's second floor for comic book dealers to buy and sell rare comic books, original artwork, amateur publications, and other novelties related to the comic book field.

A number of professionals in the comic book industry will be present at the convention, including Paul Gulacy, a local artist who illustrates Shang-chi, Master of Kung Fu for Marvel Comics; Ed Sullivan, a syndicated cartoonist who illustrates Our Way; and Mike Barr, a writer who does stories for DC comics.

Along with the Butler Art Institute's display of cartoons from the 1930's, the convention will feature displays of contemporary comic book and comic strip art by the guests and from local collections.

Two instructors from YSU's English department, Dr. Clyde Hankey and Dr. Jean Kely, will lecture on the comics during the convention. Kely characterizes her lecture as an attack on the

New food service proves popular; remodeling planned for Kilcawley

A report on the food service operations at Kilcawley Center, and plans for the extension and remodeling of parts of the Center were discussed at yesterday's Kilcawley Center Board meeting. Phil Hirsch, director of the Center, stated that Hardee's volume of business is double that of Servomation's from last year at this time, and the Broughton service volume is triple Servomation's at this time last year. Hirsch noted that this indicates students have a positive attitude toward the new food services.

Plans for remodeling the second floor and resident cafeterias and extending the game room, the pub, and the old cafeteria were also discussed. Ed Sturgeon, chairperson of the Building Committee, reported that with the increase in enrollment and the popularity of the Center, extension of the Center is necessary. Sturgeon added that bids have not been sent out yet, but he and Hirsch are hoping the construction will begin early next year.

In other business, a motion recommending that Hirsch look into other methods to pay for security guards for student functions at the Center was passed, after Bill Brown, president of Student Government moved that Security Chief Paul Cress, should pay for the guards. Brown argued that student organizations holding non-profit affairs had to pay for security guards out of their own money and deemed this as unfair. His motion was tabled until Hirsch could look into the matter.

Leck is named chairperson of YSU's foundations dept.

Dr. Glorianne M. Leck, acting chairperson YSU's foundations of education department, has been named chairperson of the department, announced YSU President Dr. John J. Coffelt.

A Wisconsin native, Leck received a bachelor of science and master of science degrees in philosophy and history and a Ph.D. degree in philosophy and philosophy of education from the University of Wisconsin.

Prior to joining the YSU faculty in 1974, she served as assistant professor at both Penn State University and Wisconsin State University Oshkosh. She was section chairperson for cultural foundations of education at Penn State and acted as consultant for Teachers of the Disadvantaged Project in Oshkosh. In 1969 Leck was an organizer of the Moxie co-operative, a community in Pennsylvania which has been highly successful in dealing

Mines made assistant

Helen E. Mines, an assistant professor of health and physical education at Central Michigan University since 1970, has been appointed assistant athletic director at YSU.

She will be responsible for the administration of the women's intercollegiate athletic program and also will coach gymnastics and softball. She has already assumed her new duties.

Mines will focus on the seven-sport women's program which includes field hockey, volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, swimming, softball and synchronized swimming. She will be handling budgeting and scheduling, and any problems specific to the program.

About her new position, Mines said, "I believe my position as assistant athletic director will benefit the women's program because now women will have administrative representation. This will enable women to run their own program the way they want."

"My own personal objective at YSU is to produce the best possible teams and to see the continued growth of the women's program," she added.

One area in which Mines hopes to improve is publicity and media coverage of women's sports. She believes the program needs exposure so the public will be aware of just what women's sports entails.

Mines, commenting on scholarships and recruitment noted, "Scholarships are good up to a point but I don't believe in full rides. However, there are more demands being made on women athletes now and they are giving more of their time. Therefore, the needy athletes deserve some type of financial aid to help them through school. Demand for graduates will grow despite difficulty finding work now

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK AP - Because many of this year's college graduates have had difficulty obtaining work isn't sufficient reason to conclude that higher education doesn't pay.

But Herb Bienstock, head of the Bureau of Labor Statistics office here, says some high school youngsters actually have asked him: "Why go to college when college grads are walking the streets?"

After such questions after a lecture at a nearby school, Bienstock decided to assemble government statistics on the subject. He concludes that "the demand for college graduates is expected to grow at nearly three times the rate of demand for all workers in the American labor force."

The projection to which Bienstock referred, for the period 1972-1985, puts at 68 per cent the expected growth of college graduates in the labor force, compared with a 24 per cent growth overall.

There is more evidence. In March, the government conducted a special survey of the jobs in relation to the level of formal education.

For high school dropouts the jobless rate was 15.2 per cent; for high school graduates, 9.1 per cent; for those who had some college but who did not graduate, 6.9 per cent; and for college grads, only 2.9 per cent.

"There is little question that it is more difficult for college grads to find jobs today," Bienstock concedes, but he contends the difficulties are relative.

"In the 1950s and 1960s graduates were carried off on a magic carpet," he said in an interview. "Companies were stockpiling brains. They were convinced they were going places, and that they could find uses for those brains."

During a recession, however, companies lose this confidence in the immediate future and aren't as inclined to stockpile talent.

Still, that demand hasn't been turned off completely as June graduates are finding jobs, albeit more slowly. In fact, while the nation was losing jobs at the worst of the recession, the number of jobs rose for the professional and administrative categories, Bienstock said.

He also notes that the jobless rate in these two categories, at 2.9 per cent and 3 per cent respectively in August, were the lowest figures for any job category. By comparison, in the same month the jobless rate for factory workers was 12.7 per cent and for unskilled, 16.2 per cent.

Ski Club Meeting

The Penguin Ski Club will have a meeting at 3 p.m., in the student government conference room, second floor Kilcawley Center. Plans for the coming ski season will be discussed and former members are urged to attend. Interested students who ski or wish to learn how to ski are also welcome.

Kappa Delta Pi Meeting

The Youngstown Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15 in the Home Savings and Loan Building, 4005 Hillman Street. "Individualized Education" is the topic and Sister Theresa Winsen will be the speaker. Also, yearbooks will be distributed at the meeting.

athletes, after all, also promote the university."

"Recruiting causes many problems. I don't want to get into high powered recruiting like the men's sports often do. Students should come to YSU for education first and sports second. I do feel though that sports is an educational experience and supplements a student's learning. It helps develop a total person."

Mines does not feel that there will be any added pressure on women's coaches or teams to win. At YSU, women's sports is not a source of revenue and this alleviates most of the pressure, she stated, adding, "There should not be any pressure on teams to win. Sports is for enjoyment and when it becomes work then we've blown it."

Mines earned a BS in physical education from Bowling Green State University in 1965, and added a MA degree from Central Michigan in 1970.

At BGSU, she participated in women's extramural, (varsity), basketball and softball, and also worked as a student assistant in the women's intramural office.

From 1965-68 Mines was the gymnastics coach at Hillsdale High School, Mich. She also served as adviser to the Girl's Athletic Association, organizing tournaments in volleyball, bowling and softball. She continued her coaching career at Central Michigan where she was put in charge of the gymnastics team from 1969-75. She also helped to organize numerous demonstrations for public schools in the Central Michigan area and served as an adviser and consultant for schools interested in the planning and organization of gymnastics programs.

SIMS offers film on TM in sports

Students International Meditation Society (SIMS) will present a film showing how meditation has changed the lives of professional baseball players at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 15 in the party room of Kilcawley Center.

Ohio state coordinator of SIMS, Charles Egner, will be a guest at the gathering of the two-year old YSU chapter of the Society. The Major League's Willie Stargell, among others, is featured in the film.

President of YSU-SIMS is Mark Thomas, a senior majoring in music. He said the group's purpose is to acquaint students with Transcendental Meditation, to foster the practice of TM, as it is known, and to make students aware of how TM can affect both their academic and personal lives. He noted college-credit courses are being taught on TM at such universities as Yale, Stanford University, the University of Cincinnati, and Kent State University.

Julian says progress made in consumer protection

There has been tremendous progress in the formation of consumer protection agencies, with participation by the general public improving, stated local consumer protection director Tony Julian, at the Consumerism Seminar hosted by the YSU Association of Future Lawyers, Oct. 7.

Julian, who stressed the importance of consumer awareness, was a featured speaker at the seminar along with Ohio Attorney General William J. Brown.

Brown spoke about the cooperation of state, local, and privately organized protection agencies. He explained how gaps have been filled between agencies in order to produce better results.

Brown cited one recent improvement as the formation of a committee called "Intervention", which would lobby for the consumer. Before "Intervention", there were 400 and some lobbyists in Columbus, but not one represented the consumer. "Intervention", originated from Brown's office.

Julian also conducted a slide presentation to further explain unfair business practices and how to combat them.

Brown and Julian, both answered questions, after the seminar and Brown gave out a toll free phone number for consumer protection, 1-800-282-0515.

The purpose of the Consumerism Seminar was to Council allocates funds for Student Gov't. workshop

Student Council allocated $220 yesterday, for a Student Government Leadership Workshop. The workshop is exclusively for Student Council and Student Government members; those attending will stay overnight at the Sacred Heart Retreat House.

The purposes of the workshop are: (1) for Council members to become better acquainted with each other (they will be wearing name tags on their backs); (2) develop "some understanding" about the functions of Student Government; (3) learn "some principles" of parliamentary procedure; (4) learn about the responsibilities of individual members of Student Government; and (5) develop some ideas of projects that Student Government can do this coming year.

The $220 will be added to another $220 to be taken from Student Government's travel fund and $100 contributed by Student Affairs to cover the attendance of administrators at the workshop.

help the Student Consumer Organization, (SCO), "get-off the ground" and establish a firm foundation of its basic purposes and principles. The Seminar was to familiarize students with available methods of funneling their complaints to consumer protection agencies. Formation of the SCO originated from the YSU Association of Future Lawyers. (Cont. on page 9)

Measles

This campus is ugly enough already. Why must we put up with an army of zealots, attacking our eyes with what amounts to nothing more than legitimized vandalism?

The army referred to is the Homecoming Committee, whose flood of advertising is clogging all our campus's visual breathing space. Instead of seeing the majesty of Jones Hall stretching upwards to the sky on the corner of Wick and Lincoln, we see a blandly lettered sign cluttering up our otherwise uninterrupted vision. Instead of seeing the inspiring stretch of windows with which Beeghly Physical Education Building faces Spring street, we see crude lettering defacing those windows with the word "Heritage."

But outdoors is still a breeze compared to inside. The innards of Kilcawley Center especially are polluted to saturation with all this heritage hype. One can hardly turn a corner without getting snagged on yet another Homecoming poster or tripping over the irritating table signs littered everywhere.

The public relations theory involved is derived from the worst of Madison Avenue's exploitation of human behavior patterns. Rather than informing the public, most of the posters and displays attempt to seduce our interest with a hypnotic repetition of the word "Heritage" or the homecoming's star symbol. A typical example is a poster design in which the star symbol appears as the dot to a giant question mark, without any explanatory information.

If this is the cure for apathy, we prefer somnambulism. It may be asking too much to expect good taste from people whose idea of fun is a toilet paper contest. But YSU administrators are shirking their duty if they don't protect the campus from these measles.

Protest 'discriminatory' practices

To the editor of The Jambar:

Black students at YSU have become very active in school activities, especially sports. Last year, black students along with cheerleaders, were the loudest and most enthusiastic supporters of the football and basketball teams. They have attended in force every home game, and also provided pep for the Penguins at most of the out-of-town games.

This year the Black student body may have to change this situation. Black students have been asking each other, why support teams if our black players are being discriminated against in sports? If there is a policy that only a certain number of Blacks can play at one time, regardless of their ability, We can only answer yes to non-support!!

Blacks supported teams last year with the belief that the coaches would recognize Black-student-enthusiasm, and that Blacks with the ability to start would be played, rather than warming the benches! During this time of Heritage Homecoming, Black Students must decide if they should continue supporting the team!

Scholarships offered for study of urban and community govt.

A release by Kilcawley Center shows that seventy-three full-time YSU students have since the summer-fall quarters of 1971 received practical experience in the workings of community government through the Urban Intern Program offered by the YSU Center for Urban Studies.

The program was founded by Dr. Ivis Boyer, chairperson of political science and now coordinator for the Urban Intern Program, and Dr. Frank Costa, then director of the Center for Urban Studies and now serving in that capacity at Akron University.

Intern appointments are for two quarters. The intern works 15 hours for a government agency compatible with his field of study. In addition, the intern will attend an hour-and-a-half weekly seminar.

The Youngstown Educational Foundation provides a full scholarship for each intern. In addition, the intern receives a stipend of $200 each quarter from the government agency with which he works, said Dr. F. Stevens Redburn, political science.

Students from various fields of study have participated in this program. Over 20 agencies have sponsored interns with the Youngstown Finance department, the Youngstown Health Department, Model Cities, and the Eastgate Development and Transportation Agency sponsoring the most, the release said.

George Rovder, who interned with the Youngstown Engineering Department in the winter-spring quarters of 1972, is now supervising engineer for the American Battle Monuments Commission in Paris.

Melba Blevins, an intern in the summer-fall quarters of 1973, now works with the Government Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, in Washington, D. C., Redburn commented.

Elaine Pochiro, who interned in the first session of the program is now enrolled in Law School at Akron University. She describes the program as "really great" since "you learn a lot from it that you don't learn in the classroom."

The release reported that the Urban Intern Seminar is designed as a "forum in which interns, faculty, and agency representatives can inquire into problems of common interest." Grades are determined by seminar participation and by internship evaluation papers written as quarter final exams.

To qualify for the program a student must complete 45 quarter hours at YSU be in good academic standing, reside in the local government of internship assignment, and be full-time student at YSU during his internship, according to the Center's release.

For information about candidate interviews contact Boyer in the Political Science department.

Writing Lab Opens

The writing lab is open to all students who desire extra help in developing writing skills. The lab is open daily from 9 a.m.—4 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon. It is also open Monday evenings from 5—8 p.m. The lab is located in Room 305, A&S. There is no charge for the lab's services.

Bus offers cheap ride

Need a lift to or from YSU? One of the cheapest, easiest and least known means of transportation to the University is via a Western Reserve Transit Authority bus.

The WRTA's central pick-up and drop-off location in downtown Youngstown is the Higbee's Parkade on Commerce Street. The location is just a five minute walk from campus and in addition, the reduced fare for students is a quarter.

The busses leave Youngstown every hour, from 5 a.m. to 6 p.m. for most of the routes. WRTA serves all of Youngstown, and outside cities such as Campbell, Struthers, Niles and Girard. Departure times for buses differ, and are posted at the bus stop.

Buses arrive in each service area at least once an hour, but for the precise time of arrival, route, and pick-up point in any area, one should contact the local Chamber of Commerce, or WRTA.

New drug laws become effective on November 21

On November 21, Ohio's newly revised drug laws will become effective. When put into use, the possession of less than three and one-half ounces of marijuana will be charged as a minor misdemeanor with a maximum $100 fine. There will be no criminal records kept for any minor misdemeanor charges, according to State Representative Thomas J. Carney.

Penalties for the possession of three and a half ounces or more of marijuana will consist of possible jail sentences and fines, but will still be considered a minor misdemeanor if the amount is less than the bulk amounts designated.

The sale of any amount of drug will be charged as a felony with strictly enforced imprisonment and fines.

When the laws become effective, anyone serving jail sentences for offenses that now under the new law are minor misdemeanors, may make a motion for a review of his or her case. If the new penalty is less than the one the person was serving, then he/she will be given the lesser penalty.

Also, many persons will have their criminal records erased, if under the new laws, the charges are considered minor misdemeanors.

Carney stated that, "The new laws are intended to have some compassion for the user, and with the use of marijuana up four percent since last year, the penalties must correspond."

Homecoming fete highlights football squads of 39, 40, 41

YSU's "Heritage Homecoming" festivities, (Oct. 16-19), will be highlighted by a banquet Friday, Oct. 17 honoring the football squads of 1939, 1940, and 1941.

The former Penguin grid teams had a combined record of 18-6-2, including a 7-1-1 mark in 1940 and an unbeaten 7-0-1 record in 1941.

The banquet will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Kilcawley Center party room. Among the honored guests will be retired YSU athletic director Willard Webster and members of those football squads.

Veteran WKBN sportscaster Don Gardner, "voice of the Penguins" for more than forty years, will narrate filmed highlights of that era.

Tickets for the dinner are priced at $5 and are presently on sale at the athletic ticket office in Beeghly Center.

In addition to the dinner, the homecoming committee has scheduled a myriad of activities, ranging from a movie and folk festival on Oct. 16 to a Major Events concert on Oct. 18

PHENOMENON—The phenomenally popular Blood, Sweat, and Tears will appear in concert next Sunday at the Beeghly gym as part of YSU's homecoming activities. Cheech and Chong, comedy pair, who last played YSU in 1973, will be featured also.

BST, Cheech and Chong featured with Gary Wright Sun. at Beeghly Popular recording artists "Blood, Sweat and Tears" will headline YSU's Homecoming concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 19, in Beeghly Center. The program is sponsored by YSU's Major Events Committee.

Also featured will be the comedy duo Cheech and Chong and former Spooky Tooth keyboard artist Gary Wright.

"Blood, Sweat and Tears," one of the first rock groups to make full use of horns while defining new realms of jazz-rock, is noted for the quality of its instrumental skills.

Lead singer David Clayton-Thomas rejoined the group in 1974. He was singer and co-arranger for their biggest hits "You Made Me So Very Happy," "Spinning Wheel," and "And When I Die," all gold records.

Their eighth Columbia album, "Mirror Image," is performed in the same brash, sharp jazz-rock style that has been the earmark of the nine-member group since the release of the album "Child is Father to the Man."

Other group members are Bobby Colomby, Dave Bargeron, Joe Giardianni, Tony Klatka, George Wadenius, Ron McClure, Larry Willis and Bill Tillman.

The duo of Cheech and Chong, (Tommy Chong and Richard Marin), has toured both England and America. The gold-record album winners have played to sell-out crowds.

Tickets are $5 in advance on campus and $6 for the public at the door.

Recognizing the relationship of the comics medium to cinema, the Ohoicon will present a number of notable films during the convention. In conjunction with Kilcawley Program Board they will show Fellini's Satyricon at 9 p.m. on Friday; on Saturday, Danger Diabolic, a satire directed by Mario Bava, will be shown; another satire, Barbarella, Directed by Roger Vadim and starring Jane Fonda, will be shown at 9 p.m.; and the classic horror movie Preaks will finish off the Saturday schedule at 11 p.m.

On Sunday an animated film festival is planned, with Max

Videotape programming will be running continually all during the convention featuring popular culture classics such as Star Trek and the new series Space 1999, which is being provided by WUAB-TV Cleveland.

Though numerous creative endeavors by the Youngstown Comic Art Association to put together their own video-tape and live productions for the convention failed, one such effort, a comic book rock opera, was completed and will be performed by local folk-singer Hono at 11:30 p.m., Friday, in the Pub. The opera is titled, Superheroes are Human Too. The YSU Planetarium will show its science fiction program, Entrance to Otherwhere, in conjunction with the convention at 2 p.m. on Saturday. An auction of original art and rare comics is scheduled for 4 p.m. on Saturday.

On Thursday, Oct. 9, a 36-page free program booklet will be distributed on the YSU campus for people interested in attending the convention. Further information may be received by contacting Bruce Chrislip, 799-4098.

Over a year in planning, Ohoicon is sponsored by the Youngstown Comic Art Association in conjunction with YSU's Student Government and Kilcawley Center, and with the additional assistance of the Butler Institute of American Art, the Planetarium, local comic book collectors and the American Comic Book Association.

Future plans of the club include producing a 40 page comic book to be distributed at YSU in February of 1976.

Pub Entertainment

Oblio's

by Debbie Vivalo

Oblio's, the Monday night coffeehouse at the Pub in Kilcawley Center, has been designed for people to come in and relax after the weekend; it is for those who like things mellow. "We have booked mainly folk singers and local groups," said Janice Moskowitz, student manager of Oblio's, who emphasized, "quality is the most important factor."

Quality was certainly evident last Monday night when Arnie Brav, a singer and guitarist entertained at the coffeehouse. Brav, who is from Cincinnati, is touring colleges in Ohio, and has recently played at Heidelberg and Kenyon.

At the onset of Brav's performance things were a little slow, but they steadily picked-up in the second and third sets. Brav tried to relate to his audience by telling jokes and stories about himself, while singing songs that coincided with his experiences. The audience appeared to adapt well to this style of music and seemed to enjoy Brav's original tunes.

Brav's music ranged from mellow blues to hard core beer drinking songs many of which had the audience clapping and singing along. Highlights of the evening were songs by Dave Loggins, Joni Mitchell, and Eric Anderson, as performed by Brav.

Moskovitz stated she was quite pleased with Brav's performance and was glad to see that it went over well. She added that it was an all together enjoyable evening and she hopes to see more students taking advantage of Oblio's artists.

Auditions for Oblio's are held frequently and new acts will be booked at the National Entertainment Conference. Anyone wishing to audition should contact Moskowitz at the Program Board Office, Kilcawley Center.

Farewell My Lovely

by Neil S. Yutkin

Once in a long while, a film is made that not only does justice to the book, but also to the scriptwriter. Goodwin, who did the screenplay for Farewell My Lovely, deserves much credit for the success of Raymond Chandler's mystery brought to the screen.

In the script's plot, the author's style has been skillfully copied. Descriptions and phrases, which I could find nowhere in the book, are used so well in the portrayal of Marlowe, Chandler's Detective, that you cannot tell where Chandler ended and Goodwin began.

In the past two years I had opportunities to view four different stars as "Marlowe": Humphrey Bogart, Elliot Gould, James Garner, and, the star of Farewell My Lovely, Robert Mitchum. Each was good, but except for Mitchum, none was "Marlowe". Bogie was great in his version of the Long Goodbye, but was too much the tough wise guy, and not enough the world-weary detective. Elliot Gould was "Marlowe", but not a 1940's version, a 1970 version. James Garner was Maverick in detective's clothing.

Only Mitchum has captured what Chandler tried to portray. He looks and acts the role. Maybe it's his eyes and the way they always look as if they have seen too much. Or maybe it is just the way he carries himself, tired, yet pressing on. But most of all, he is very natural in the role. His performance deserves an Academy nomination.

And for best supporting actress, Sylvia Miles. She portrays a broken down, alcoholic, ex-chorus girl. Again, as with Mitchum, she is so natural you believe in her. Also in contention, though, is Charlotte Rampling, who is the perfect vamp. She is a combination of Cher and Mae West without the comedy. Perfect in her role, she fills out the perfect supporting cast.

The film deals with an ex-con trying to find his "Velma". The ex-con is portrayed by Jack O'Hallaran, who in his screen debut proves that he is big. He stands about 6'8 and weighs about 250. Never has so much appeared so often, with so little to say. His main lines were, "Where's my Velma?" and little else. Generally, though, while asked the question, the person being questioned was being held above O'Hallaran's head, sometimes with just one hand.

For pure entertainment this film is not one to be missed.

BOOK CONVENTION

Do you have any old comic books? We will have over sixty tables occupied by dealers in rare comics and novelty items, selling and buying old comics.

Red Octopus

by Rick Conner

Musically speaking, the summer of '75 produced some of the best works done in recent years. Many artists who had created dazzling masterpieces on vinyl in the '60's had descended into recordings of mediocre quality or had quit recording entirely over the past few years. But recently, many fresh new groups have risen up and many old ones which had laid dormant for some time began recording with a renewed sense of interest.

For example, Jefferson Starship's Red Octopus is definitely one of their best albums to be produced in a long time. Starship creates music instead of the revolutionary garble which had been prevalent on their earlier albums. There is a more joyous sense of direction indicated, predominately marked by the return of Marty Balin who was the group's founder and had quit a few years ago.

The best song on Red Octopus is probably "Miracles", which also has become a hit single for the group, something unusual for them. It reflects a new positive image which may alter their "tear down the system" image.

Another good song on the album is an instrumental titled "Git Fiddler" by Papa John Creach, the "old man" of the group. Creach's brilliant fiddle playing adds a distinctive flavor to the group and gives it a completely unique sound. Another notable is "Fast Buck Freddie", a good song which deals with a con artist and romance. Here, Grace Slick offers some of her best vocals and is backed by excellent guitar playing which adds an exciting touch to the number.

The second side of the record offers four songs and one instrumental; most of which deal with love. "I want to see another world" is one of those songs which you can listen to continuously and still not get bored. The tune delves into the realm of fantasy, something that has always been connected with Jefferson Starship. Other songs such as "Play on Love" and "There will be Love" are concerned with love in its most basic and simplistic form.

Besides the fact that the album has been in the Top 10 since its release a month or so ago, it is a worthwhile purchase because the music is good and is somewhat of a luxury amidst the "wasted wax" which glutts the record bins today.

PUB PERFORMER—Michael Lewis is back again to entertain YSU. He will play Wednesday and Thursday nights at the snack bar in Kilcawley Center. See story on this page.

Kink Relief

"Americana in Music" is the theme behind all our performances; we try to present four types of music: Folk, Blue Grass, Old Timey, and Country-Western," explained Bob Doyle, leader of the Buffalo Chipkickers, who recently played in the Pub.

The band, which consists of Boyle, on rhythm guitar; Joe Dietrich, on banjo; Matthew Guntharp, on fiddle and mandolin; and Hughie Johnson, on the bass fiddle, were featured as the second concert in a series of National acts being booked for Wednesday nights in the Pub.

The performance was excellent; the audience was easily able to "get into" the music and soon were clapping their hands and letting out an occasional down-home yell. Almost every song had a story to tell, or was based on actual old regional folklore.

Doyle is currently working on two grants in order to list and record, and discover folk songs in the area of Penn., some of which have been incorporated into their sets.

To date the Pub concerts have all been excellent, except in one (Cont. on page 9)

Pumpkin Festival

Beans van Pelt's Great Pumpkin will rise out of its pumpkin patch two weeks earlier this year and settle down for the Circleville Pumpkin Show Oct. 15 through 18 in Circleville, Ohio.

Pumpkin cotton candy, pumpkin pancakes, pumpkin pie and yes, even pumpkin burgers will be featured at the annual event. Other pumpkin delicacies which one may also sample include pumpkin fudge, pumpkin brittle, pumpkin taffy and pumpkin ice cream.

If you think you can survive the rest of the afternoon after having indulged on such a varied menu plan to view the many parades, exhibits and entertainment which have been planned all free of charge, and have drawn approximately 350,000 persons each year.

Some of the exhibits include: a flower show, pumpkin and gourds show, and exhibits of canned goods, and home arts and crafts. Among the various contests to be held are egg tossing, hog calling, and of course, a pumpkin pie eating contest. A variety of parades ranging from a baby parade to a Festival Queens Parade also will be featured.

The highlight of the Harvest festival is the World's largest Pumpkin Pie and the entry for the 2nd annual pumpkin weigh-in.

Circleville may be reached by taking route 23 and driving approximately half an hour south of Columbus.

Shuttle Bus

Beginning with the October 18, 1975 football game, the University will operate a shuttle bus between Kilcawley Center and Rayen Stadium. This shuttle service will begin at 12:30 p.m., making as many trips as possible between this time and the start of the game. After the game, it will also make as many return trips as required to return riders to Kilcawley Center.

The University has only one bus that will be used for this shuttle service which will be handled on a "no charge" basis. This is experimental and we hope that the students take advantage of it.

History Club

Dr. William J. Fishman, professor of history at the University of London, will lecture this afternoon at 2:00 in Room 104B, in Beeghly. Dr. Fishman will discuss the plight of the Jewish artisans and tradesmen who fled the persecutions of Czarist Russia, only to be exploited in the sweat shops of London. The History Club, in cooperation with the History Department and Student Government, is sponsoring the event.

History Outing

The Ohio Historical Society in Columbus is the Sunday, Oct. 12 destination of YSU's History Club. The group will depart from campus at 9:15 a.m. Sunday. Persons interested in accompanying club members can sign up in the history department office, or leave their name with the department secretary, ext. 436, 437, or 438. The trip is free and sponsored by Student Government, and is open to all YSU students.

Gymnasts Practice

There will be a meeting and practice for the women's gymnastics team at 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 11 in the Beeghly gymnastics room. All interested gymnasts are urged to attend and must bring leotards.

Dance Meetings

The Modern Dance Group is looking for open minds and pliant bodies. Anyone interested should attend one of the dance group's meetings. Meeting times are: Mon.: 4-6 p.m.; Tues. 5-7 p.m.; Thurs. 10-12 p.m.; and Sat. 10-12 p.m. in Beeghly, room 100. Previous dance experience is not mandatory.

NEW COACH—Helen Mines kicked off her new duties as assistant athletic director with a press conference Tuesday morning. Mines, a native of Trumbull County, hopes to see continued growth in women's athletics here.

Consumers

Its president is Joseph Rafidi, senior, pre-law.

The SCO has gained the support of Brown, representing the State level protection agency and is working closely with the local consumer protection agency headed by Julian.

The purpose of the SCO is to establish a unified student-consumer protection agency, which will allow students to directly provide input, (complaints), and will channel it to either the local or State consumer protection agencies.

Reid elected

Dr. Charles L. Reid, associate professor of philosophy and religious studies at YSU has been elected higher education representative on the executive committee of the Ohio Education Association (OEA) governing board. Reid, a YSU faculty member since 1968, was recently honored for service on the OEA executive committee. He served as YSU's delegate to this summer's national convention of the National Education Association in Los Angeles.

Homecoming

Saturday's action kicks off with an 11 a.m. parade, "The Minuteman's March" from campus to Rayen Stadium, where the Penguins will tangle with Morehead State at 1:30 p.m.

The traditional after-game party will be held in the Kilcawley Center snack bar with free refreshments for all friends and supporters of the Penguins. Entertainment will be provided by the Dave Lalama Quartet.

An Alumni-Collegiate Homecoming Dance is slated from 10:15 until 2:15 a.m. in the main concourse of Southern Park Mall in Boardman. Rambling Sunshine will perform.

The Sunday concert, featuring Blood, Sweat and Tears, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Beeghly Center. The concert will also feature comic group Cheech and Chong. Tickets for the concert are on sale at the athletic ticket office in Beeghly Center.

respect: attendance. Students will flock to Gabrials to see Woodwork, yet many won't come to the Pub for the same performance free of charge. The Center has booked excellent performances and the majority of the students have all but ignored them. It seems that many students have decided that because Pub acts are not name groups, they are therefore not that good. How wrong. Next week the campus community will be treated to another top performance. On Wednesday, Michael Lewis, from London, Ont., will appear. During his two previous appearances at YSU he was well received, and gave great performances. This time Lewis will play on Thursday night along with Bill Hughes as part of a folk festival for the Harvest Homecoming.

Penguin's defense is praised for controlling offensive attacks

In four games, Coach Wayne Chapman's defenders have recovered nine opponent fumbles, intercepted five passes, and sacked opposing quarterbacks 15 times. Unscored upon in their first two games of the year, the Penguins have swarmed over their opposition.

The Penguins are presently allowing 255 yards per game. That breaks down to 149.5 yards rushing and 105.5 passing per contest. Led by linebackers Jerry Tuscano, a sophomore, and Greg Fitzpatrick, a frosh, the Penguins are limiting the oppositions to just three yards per rushing attempt. In addition, opponents have completed just 39 percent of their passing attempts, (26 of 67).

Tuscano, the leading tackler last year as a frosh with a total of 126 stops, again paces the individual tacklers. He has 61 stops to date, including 23 solos and 38 assists. Tuscano was voted "defensive player of the game" in the season opening 10-0 win over Central State.

Fitzpatrick has twice won the defensive award, against Tennessee Tech and last week against Northern Michigan. He has 57 tackles, including 25 solos and 32 assists. "Fitz" also has a fumble recovery against Central State and an interception against Northern Michigan.

The third leading tackler is Kodak All-American safety Don Calloway, senior tri-captain. Calloway has 52 tackles this year, (including 20 solo hits), on course with last year's total of 92 stops.

End Ron Pentz, a junior, and tackle Tom Rice, a senior, are tied for fourth spot with 48 tackles. Pentz, co-winner of last week's defensive award, has 26 solo hits, a fumble recovery, and an interception. Rice has 21 solos and a pair of fumble recoveries. Tied for sixth spot individually are middle guard Jack Pierson and end Mike Sullivan with 41 stops. Pierson has sixteen initial hits and a fumble recovery, while Sullivan has 18 solos and one sack.

Senior cornerback Al Campman picked off his 12th career pass against Central State, while Pentz, Fitzpatrick, Paul Matune and cornerback Felix Radon also have one each.

The calculations you face require no less.

Today, even so-called "non-technical" courses (psych, soc, bus ad, to name 3) require a variety of technical calculations—complicated calculations that become a whole lot easier when you have a powerful pocket calculator.

Not surprisingly, there are quite a few such calculators around, but ours stand apart, and ahead. We started it all when we introduced the world's first scientific pocket calculator back in 1972, and we've shown the way ever since.

The calculators you see here are our newest, the first of our second generation. Both offer you technology you probably won't find in competitive calculators for some time to come, if ever.

Our HP-21 performs all arithmetic, log and trig calculations, including rectangular/polar conversions and common antilog evaluations.

Its display is fully formatted, so you can choose between fixed decimal and scientific notation.

Our HP-25 does all that—and much, much more. It's programmable, which means it can solve automatically the countless repetitive problems every science and engineering student faces.

With an HP-25, you enter the keystrokes necessary to solve the problem only once. Thereafter, you just enter the variables and press the Run/Stop key for an almost instant answer accurate to 10 digits.

Before you invest in a lesser machine, by all means do two things: ask your instructors about the calculations their courses require; and see for yourself how effortlessly our calculators handle them.

Both the HP-21 and HP-25 are almost certainly on display at your bookstore. If not, call us, toll-free, at 800-538-7922 (in Calif. 800-662-9862) for the name of an HP dealer near you.

Basketball practice begins; seven lettermen returning

Basketball practice begins Wednesday, Oct. 15 at Beeghly Center for Coach Dom Rosselli's Penguins.

YSU was 19-7 during the regular season last year and won the YSU Classic for the second straight time. The Penguins were chosen to compete in the NCAA Division II Great Lakes Regional last March at Charleston, Ill.

Only forward Phil Gaston has graduated from the starting lineup, giving rise to optimism for the 1975-76 campaign. Leading the group, is 6-foot-7 center Jeff Covington. He average 20.9 points and 12 rebounds per game last year to earn second-team All-District IV honors from the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Other returning regulars include: 6-1 junior guard Terry

Moore (4.2 ppg. with a school-record 230 assists); 6-3 junior guard Bob Carlson (9.3 ppg.); and 6-3 junior forward Tony Mitchell (11.2 ppg.)

Pressing for playing time are veterans Gerald Parks (9.9), a 6-foot sophomore guard; Frank Andrews (5.0), a 6-8 sophomore; and Gary Anderson (4.90, a 6-8 junior.

The list of newcomers includes: 6-5 junior college transfer Kenny Young; 6-2 guard Don Thompson; 6-6 Robin Vincer; and 6-6 Augustus Sales.

Soccer News---

Winless in three home games, YSU's young soccer squad travels to Erie, Pa. Saturday for a match with Behrend College.

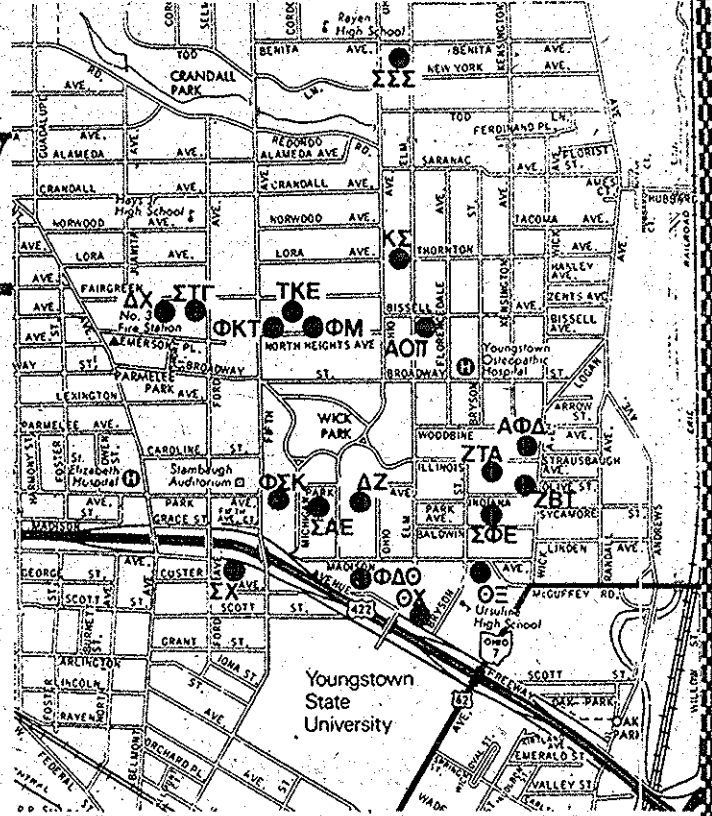

The Penguins dropped a close 5-3 decision to Bluffton Wednesday afternoon at Roosevelt Park in Campbell. They also have bowed to Case-Western Reserve (6-1) and Pitt-Johnstown (3-1).

Bluffton took 19 shots Wednesday, three of them scores by forward Kamara Foday. YSU goals were scored by forward Japar Salem, fullback Billy Cleaves, and halfback Kenny Hvidsak on a penalty kick.

The Penguins are home again next Wednesday against Edinboro State.
