YSU intends to enforce no-smoking policies

by Gina DiBlasio

"Since complaints about smoking have been received and in order to reduce the potential hazard of fire, the YSU Physical Facilities and Safety Committee intends to enforce the law," said Nick Leonelli, director of campus development, in his October 20 memo.

Leonelli was referring to an act which was passed by Governor Rhodes on May 30, 1976, prohibiting smoking in areas of public assembly. Violation of the act is a minor misdemeanor and according to the Ohio Criminal Code, has a maximum fine of $100. Removal of "no smoking" signs is also in violation of the act.

According to an August 9 memo issued by Ray Orlando, director of the physical plant, section A.1, says that smoking is prohibited in auditoriums, classrooms, and elevators. Section A.2, defines a "place of public assembly" as university or college buildings, except rooms within those buildings used primarily as the residences of students or other persons affiliated with the university or college.

Orlando stated in his memo that the facilities and safety committee now has a legal and moral obligation to recommend enforcement of a "no smoking" policy at YSU. He further assessed that the faculty is the key to enforcing "no smoking" in the classroom and that while discussing the class syllabus or format on the first day of class, a faculty member can point to the sign and acknowledge that he is compelled to enforce "no smoking" in the classroom.

Leonelli said that the committee is counting on University members to inform one another in order to catch the offenders. He added that it would be the responsibility of YSU security to enforce the law.

Gale Mills, assistant chief of security, noted that before security could make an arrest, the informer would have to be willing to go downtown and sign an affidavit against the offense committed.

Students taught skills at Bethany meeting

Although there were a few problems with workshops running over time and conflicts between workshop coordinators, the Bethany Leadership Conference last weekend went fairly well.

Bethany College, situated in Bethany, West Va., hosted the conference for the weekend. The conference was intended to teach students leadership skills that could be implemented at YSU.

Among the programs presented were such items as: prioritizing goals, brainstorming, mock legislation, mock discipline committee, quad cycles, etc. For example, prioritizing goals involved a list of goals or statements which the students had to write down in order of importance.

Another program, brainstorming, involved giving students a particular item or problem (i.e., a feast or famine card, what to do with the space left by the old executive office) and letting them list solutions or things to do with their particular item.

Cam Cotelesse and Toni DiSalvo, both members of the coordinating committee had these thoughts on the conference. "I think there were highlights and downpoints but in general I thought it was very good because we learned from the mistakes as well as from the good points," remarked Cotelesse. DiSalvo had this to say, "If this was the first Bethany Conference that anyone had attended it might have been a little bit difficult, at times, to understand what was trying to be taught. On the whole it was good but a certain lack of communications existed from some members of the committee."

The coordinating committee existed of five student council members, a faculty member and a few other students who helped implement some of the sessions. Linda Hayes, Cam Cotelesse, Toni DiSalvo, Jeff Gwin, Dr. E. Cobett, George Glaros and Bill Brown comprised the committee and the helpers.

Warns Violators

George Glaros, president of Student Council reported that Student Council election signs have been torn down from various places on campus and that anyone caught will be prosecuted under the Student Council Discipline Committee.

Big voter turnout results in 'Year of the Democrat'

by Neil S. Yutkin

1976 will be remembered as the year of the Democrat even though it was a long exhausting wait finding this out.

Jimmy Carter was the winner in one of the largest voter turnouts in recent history. The vote was close, so close in fact, that no prediction was possible until 4 a.m. There was less than a two million vote difference nationwide which breaks down into four votes per precinct between Carter and Ford.

In Ohio the contest was even closer. Carter narrowly took the "Buckeye" state by 1,000 votes. There are 500 precincts in Mahoning County alone. More than ever this election has stressed the old political adage that "every vote counts."

Howard Metzenbaum, in his third attempt for the U.S. Senate, beat Robert Taft Jr. by some 125,000 votes statewide. This gives Ohio two Democratic senators and coupled with results of the state races favoring Demo-

Art Club sponsors trip to New York Nov. 10-14

The Art Club is sponsoring a trip to New York City on Nov. 10 to 14. Any University student or faculty member may make a reservation by contacting Howard Vari, president of the Art Club, between 12:30 and 6 p.m. in the Kilcawley Center Art Gallery. The cost of $56.00 per person covers one's reservation on a chartered bus and accommodations in the Taft Hotel with four people in each room. Meals and other expenses are extra. The bus will leave Rayen Hall parking lot on Wed., Nov. 10 at 5 p.m. and arrive in N.Y.C. around 1 a.m. It will leave N.Y.C. on Sunday, Nov. 14 around noon and return to Payen Hall about 8 p.m. While the primary purpose of the trip is to visit the various art galleries, according to Vari, everyone will be on his own. One need not be an art student to attend and no scheduled tours are planned. Students who wish to do so, may accompany YSU's art professors, Dr. Louis Zona and Michael Walulis to the galleries.

"New York is the hub of the art world," says Vari. This trip will make us more aware of the contemporary scene... let us experience what is happening today."

The November show at the Museum of Modern Art may be of particular interest to those going on this trip. Featured will be works of American painters from the early 1800's to the 1950's. Thomas Cole, Edward Hopper, Barnett Newman, Jackson Pollack and Georgia O'Keeffe are a few of the artists included.

A survey of drawings by American and European painters and sculptors covering the years between 1919 to 1939 will also be on exhibit. Artists such as Charles Burchfield, Man Ray, Picasso and Modigliani will be represented.

The Art Club usually meets the second and fourth Wednesday of each month in Clingan Waddell Hall or in the Kilcawley Center Art Gallery. Vari says that the 20 active members are "interested art students or those interested in art, all of whom put a lot of time in the club." Their biggest job is the planning and organization of the Student Art Show held in the Butler Institute of American crats creates a veto-proof State House and Senate. With Dick Celeste, another Democrat, as Lt. Governor and Jimmy Carter as president it will be an awfully lonely two years for Jim Rhodes, our Republican Governor.

Locally, Charles Carney beat Youngstown Mayor Jack Hunter in what may be the mayor's last campaign. This was but one of the many victories in a complete sweep of Mahoning County by the Democrat party. In Trumbull county the Democrats only lost one race. The Supreme Court of the State of Ohio is now also two-thirds Democrat.

This all adds up to a great deal of responsibility for the Democrat party. Nationally they control a 68-32 Senate and a two-to-one House. In Ohio they have control of most major posts with only the Governorship being Republican. The Democrats now have only the public to answer to; for this reason they will be watched by everyone with an extra careful eye.

Art each spring. According to Vari, it provides students with one of the few opportunities they have for exhibiting their works. (Cont. on page 5)

by Sharon Levy

"We focus on feelings," explained Dr. George Letchworth, director of the University Counseling and Testing Center. The Center's relaxed, quiet and confidential atmosphere gives students and faculty a place to talk with a professional counselor about any problem or "hang-up" that is on their mind: Whether the problem be large or small, whether it be studying or choosing a vocation or whether it be a personal difficulty involving family, friends, pregnancy, depression or drugs the counselors of the center are willing to listen and assist in any way necessary.

Most of the students seek counseling for personal concerns or for vocational reasons. Counseling may take the form of a one-to-one basis between a professional psychologist and a client or in group growth sessions. In both, students are encouraged to gain information about themselves and to resolve conflicts within themselves and with others as a result of their counseling experience.

Lisa Laitman, a counselor at the Center, says clients are taught to "own up to their statements. They are encouraged to say, 'I feel this way.'" The problem of communications, she says, "is that people speak in general terms when they should stress specific feelings instead."

Students are invited to communicate these feelings in growth and development groups offered each academic quarter on campus at the Center. Currently, a women's growth group meets on Mondays from 2-4 p.m. with Laitman and Carol Sacherman, graduate assistants, acting as counselors.

Interpersonal development groups for men and women meet on Tuesdays from 8-10 p.m. and on Wednesdays from 3-5 p.m. Dr. William Convery, guidance and counseling, counsels the Tuesday sessions and Letchworth leads the Wednesday group. These groups began the first week in October and will end the week of Dec. 6.

Usually six to eight members make up a group and with each week of discussion they reach a level of communications and understanding that a newcomer to the group would possibly have to catch up with. However, if anyone is interested in joining the groups already in session this fall, they may call the Center and the question of their joining would be asked of each group concerning the accepting of a newcomer. New growth groups, however, will be offered winter quarter.

The growth groups are popular because they answer a need for students who have no particular problems but simply want group interaction. It is for those who want to learn how to respond to everyday problems more easily and how to better relate to people. "The groups are not meant to deal with deep psychological problems," says Letchworth. Those serious types of problems are better handled on a one-to-one basis.

"Most people in our society don't have a chance to talk in a group about serious matters and to meet people on a deeper level," says Sacherman. "It is acceptable to open up and talk here. It's safe because one can reveal one's self and experiment with behavior." She adds, "We try to bring the student to the point where he is able to solve the problems for himself."

Letchworth suggests that the groups also satisfy a desire to meet new people, adding that we are all vulnerable." By that, he says, "a person takes risks everyday in his relationships. Just saying 'hello' can mean extending oneself, for we risk being ignored."

Personal problem-solving skills and the expression of one's feelings are topics of major concern in the groups, while private counseling sessions usually center on more personal matters. Dr. Elizabeth W. Atkins, psychology, is another counselor on staff who does much of the private counseling.

VOCATIONAL COUNSELING As mentioned earlier, the Center offers other services. "What should I major in?" laments many a student. Vocational counseling at the Center helps a student find direction. Co-working with YSU's Career Planning and Placement Office the Center gives vocational testing periodically. These tests are interpreted and the student is guided into a course of studies he should pursue.

Sacherman interprets the Strong-Campbell Interest Inventory test which helps a student gain insight into his likes and dislikes. About 350 questions are used to ask a student how he spends his time, what books and hobbies he likes, etc. The answers are fed into a computer and then, analyzed. Another vocational aid is the career library which is located in the Center. Students are free to use the library in locating materials about career fields and types of positions available.

TESTING SERVICE The Center not only administers interest and personality tests as mentioned above but it also schedules the American College Test, Graduate Record Examination, Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, Law School Admission Test, National League for Nursing Test, Medical College Admission Test and University make-up exams. Mary Ann Dobrich, psychology, is director of testing. While counseling services are free to all students, fees are charged for the testing programs.

OTHER GROUPS Other groups have been offered in the past and can be offered in the future would interest be indicated. Workshops for faculty and staff members dealing with interviewing problems, skills and techniques have been held in past years. Groups dealing with assertive training, career talks or study skills can be scheduled if enough students ask for them, as can interpersonal or therapeutic groups which handle individual types of problems.

If you have a personal or vocational problem or if you feel a desire to be part of a discussion group arrange an appointment by calling 746-1851, ext. 461, or go in person to the Center at 615 Bryson St. All information is regarded as confidential.

Tattle-tale

Despite the good intentions of the YSU Physical Facilities and Safety Committee to enforce "no smoking" in the University's classrooms, auditoriums, elevators, etc., the solution does not in any way seem a viable one.

According to Mr. Leonelli's statement in the front page story, he expects the university community to "tattle" on one another. This is laughable. First of all, what student in his right mind is going to risk wrath and possible failing grade from a professor and report his professors' smoking habits in the classroom to Security?

What professor in his right mind is going to risk a bad relationship and possible resentment from his students for reporting their smoking habits in a University place of public assembly to Security? And would professors be willing to tattle on administrators or vice-versa?

Even more crucial, how many of these potential informers would be willing to go downtown to sign an affidavit against the offender in order for the arrest to be made? We guess not too many.

The act signed by Governor Rhodes is a step in enforcing "no smoking" and the Physical Facilities and Safety Committee is headed in the right direction. We just think that the "tattle-tale" method will have to be replaced with a more effective system if the University is really serious about enforcing the "no smoking" law.

Carter

Jimmy Carter has been given his opportunity to prove himself. He has won the Presidency and has also been given a Democratic House and Senate. Now he has to make good on his promises.

His first job should be to "establish relations with the states in the western part of the United States," commented Gene Shalit on the Today Show Thursday morning. Carter lost all the states west of Missouri. Carter has given the country hope and now it is his responsibility to fulfill that hope. We wish him the best.

We would like to commend those who turned out to vote. In Ohio, Carter won by less than 1/2 vote per precinct. This election has proved that every vote does count.

Laments plight of Palestinian people

To the Editor of The Jambar:

Once again world's governments and peoples participate by their apathy to worsen the continuous plight of the Palestinian people. This silence of so many countries who out of humanitarian reasons should be concerned chose to close their eyes about the genocide that is being committed against the Palestinians in Lebanon.

In 1948, the Zionist movement with the cooperation of Great Britain and other European countries launched their first injustice against the Palestinians by establishing the State of Israel. The establishment of an exclusive Jewish state in Palestine was designed to solve the Jewish problem but it was done on the expense of the Palestinians. Not only the Palestinians were forced out of their country but ever since 1948 they were also denied the right to return to their home land. Thus they were deprived of the basic human, economic, political and social privileges. To further increase their tragedy, the Palestinian problem was reduced to mere problem of how to keep those refugees in mere physical existence.

However, the Palestinians sought to restore their rights through armed struggle when no one was able to advance a solution to their problem. The PLO took the initiative and embarked on a massive effort to emphasize the national rights of the Palestinian people, through armed resistance against the Israeli occupiers, mobilizing the Palestinians in and out side the occupied territories and coordinating their struggle, seeking recognition on the international scene, proposing a solution to the Palestinian problem and participating in discussions concerning the Palestinian question. However, the increased activities and the acceptance of the PLO in the international scene was construed by Israel and its allies as a threat to the preservation of the Zionist enclave. To counter this impressive progress by the Palestinians to attain their national rights, Israel and its allies launched their attacks to destroy the backbone of the Palestinians in Lebanon. Using Lebanon's sovereignty as an excuse, the Phalangists were unleashed to spearhead the annihilation of the Palestinians. The objective of this attack is to reduce the Palestinians to just a refugee problem and to force the PLO to be just a signator to whatever is dictated upon them.

At the present time it seems that Israel and its allies, who took different faces, are near achieving their goal. Nevertheless, no one should be under the illusion that killing as many Palestinians as possible their problem will vanish. The Palestinians do not want to live in other people's countries as refugees no matter how well they are taken care of. They as a nation have aspirations and they are entitled to go back to their homeland and exercise their basic human rights. That is the core of the Palestinian problem and as long as these basic rights are not fulfilled there will always exist a Palestinian problem regardless of time and place.

Those who choose directly or indirectly to participate in this genocide also choose to bear the consequences of their silence. Peace in the Middle East will never be accomplished by the massive killing of the Palestinian people.

Praises Wicker Basket advertising

To the Editor of The Jambar:

In regards to the Nov. 2 issue of the Jambar. It has been brought to the attention of many readers that the advertisement concerning Farrah and the new first-rate restaurant the Wicker Basket was in poor taste, "cheap" and panders to male sexual appetites.

I believe Mr. Hamburger and Mr. Hirsch have designed a highly effective advertising campaign. The purpose of advertising is to "grab" the public's attention and even negative feedback demonstrates that somewhere, someone is watching. A better choice of words would have been appropriate as the intimation that Farrah would actually be at the restaurant was blatant and it obviously offended at least one person. I cannot believe anyone would seriously entertain such a narrow-minded attitude about advertising techniques.

However, Mr. Hamburger and Mr. Hirsch caught the eye of the consumer and that was the object. Furthermore, they were promoting the new restaurant its location and interior features, especially the salad bar, in a way that would make it memorable.

Mr. Hamburger and Mr. Hirsch should be recognized for a job well done. I believe it was advertising in a professional and competent manner; nothing more and nothing less.

I used to enjoy singing in the rain but have since changed my tune. On many rainy days I've seen the fountains around campus spraying water full force. Why?

Dear Gene,
Knowing the problems in Landscaping is a difficult procedure. Did you ever notice the man walking around campus with the stick with the nail on the end of it? I thought he was picking up litter but found out he makes holes in the ground so that the raindrops can fall into them. Also, I can't seem to understand why they plant snow in the winter. It never seems to come up in the spring.

Dental Hygiene
YSU is currently accepting applications for its two-year program in Dental Hygiene Technology, according to program supervisor Mrs. Madeleine Haggerty.

Application deadline is Dec. 31, 1976 for the class beginning fall quarter 1977.

New applications should be made through the YSU Admissions Office while current students can make intra-university transfer application in College of Applied Science and Technology building 1072.

All applicants must take the Dental Hygiene Aptitude Test. Applications are available in CAST 1072 and YSU's Admissions Office.

Applicants must be graduates from an accredited high school and have taken one unit each of chemistry, biology and algebra and one unit of algebra II or geometry. Bliss Hall theatre scheduled to open for spring quarter

by Deborah Kibbel

By spring quarter the theatre department of the speech and communications department plans to move to its new location in Bliss Hall.

Current plans are to stage The Glass Menagerie by Tennessee Williams, the department's final production of the academic year, in the building's Ford Memorial Auditorium.

For the past several years both Mr. Frank A. Castronovo, instructor, and Dr. Bill G. Hulsopple, associate professor, of the theatre department have been working closely with contractors on these new facilities which will not only include the old equipment of Spotlight Theatre but also new items purchased from Janson Industries of Canton, Ohio.

Bliss Hall will have two areas

Candidate dance

Tonight at ten o'clock in the Multipurpose room of the Kilcawley Student Center the Student Council elections committee will sponsor a "Meet the Candidates" dance.

Since elections will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week and because voter participation at YSU has been traditionally poor, Student Council believes that a get-acquainted type dance would instill some kind of participation among students.

The idea of the dance is to promote the elections and to give all who attend a good time. Playing for the dance will be "Poppin Fresh" an area band. Beer will also be available for those who prefer liquid refreshments.

At the dance the candidates for student council positions will be identified to the audience and then will circulate and talk to all interested students.

The dance is free to all YSU students.

Courtroom artist to speak in Town Hall Series lecture

Friday, Nov. 5 at 10:30 a.m., Bill Lignante, Courtroom Artist for NBC News, will speak at Powers Auditorium. Mr. Lignante is the second speaker of Junior League's '76-77 Town Hall Series.

Mr. Lignante has covered the sensational trials of the decade for ABC News, before moving to NBC, including those of Sirhan Sirhan, Charles Manson, Lt. William Calley, Angela Davis, The Kitty Hawk Mutiny and Daniel Ellsberg. He also covered the cases of Squeaky Froome, the Harrises and Patty Hearst, the sentencing of Sarah Jane Moore and the inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne. He began his stint with NBC News in mid-1976 covering the Chowchilla kidnapping case.

In his talk, Mr. Lignante will tell of the excitement of the court, the personal impressions he got of the famous and infamous principals, lawyers and judges, and the idiosyncrasies of the jurors. In spite of the serious nature of the trials, there are many humorous happenings, both inside and outside the courtroom, not reported on the news. He will use graphic sketches to illustrate his talk.

Anyone wanting to purchase a ticket for the remaining four speakers of the Town Hall Series may do so for $12.00 at the box office on Friday morning. Single tickets are $5.00 and special student and senior citizen tickets (for this lecture only) are $2.00.

Wrestling: A Candid Shot

by Kathy Tuskan

When you think of wrestling, does George Steele and TV Studio wrestling pop into your mind? Do you imagine a big ring with ropes and a bald headed man with a white shirt and tie? If so, perhaps you have a limited view of wrestling. Scholastic, collegiate and Olympic wrestling are hardly the comic and often fake antics presented in professional wrestling in this country.

In interviews with several YSU wrestlers, misconceptions such as the above were discussed. A returning letterman, Dan Dinger, sophomore, E&S, compared himself to a stocky member of the squad. Dinger is tall and lanky, and he pointed out that many people can't believe that he is a wrestler. "Uninformed people have a set idea about how a wrestler should look, Dinger added.

According to the squad, one of the best ways to clear up these misconceptions is to attend a wrestling match. Don Hernan, junior, H&PE, who is a two-year letterman stated, "Wrestlers feel slighted. In high school we had an identity but people don't care about wrestling here." Hernan added that because of poor attendance students don't identify with wrestlers. "Another problem is that there are no scholarships for wrestling at YSU," said Hernan.

How is wrestling at YSU compared to other colleges? Ken Moser, sophomore, E&S, said, "Coach Tom Cox is more flexible and here at YSU people are more equal." Moser transferred to YSU from Clarion State College, Pa., a school well-known for its wrestling program.

One major problem that wrestlers face is getting down to the proper weight so that they can be the most effective. Most of the wrestlers have their own methods. Cox stated that "It is important that the wrestlers are at no less than 5 percent body fat." This prevents the athletes from becoming too weak.

Cox is in his third year of coaching wrestling here at YSU. The Penguin's record last season was 8-19-1 and the coach stated that he is "optimistic about this season." Cox added that this season's schedule is very realistic. "The team is young and inexperienced in most weight classes," Cox stated. The coach said that the recruiting was very successful even though there are no scholarships.

YSU captures fifth in Ohio Wesleyan Tourney

The YSU women's field hockey team, coached by Bertina Laborde, came through with an outstanding showing in the Ohio State Tournament this past weekend at Ohio Wesleyan by capturing the Consolation Championship and finishing fifth overall.

This is only the second year that YSU has participated in the state tournament and the progress of the women's sports program in such a short time is a credit to the university. YSU uses strictly area talent and is one of the few schools in Ohio that does not recruit players from eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey where hockey is taught as early as grade school.

The tournament was single elimination-consolation. YSU played its first game Friday morning losing a 3-0 decision to top-seeded Dennison. The winners eventually placed third. This loss moved the Penguins into the consolation bracket where it won its next three games against Bowling Green, Muskingum and Kent State.

YSU was tied with all three teams at the end of the regulation game and had to go to the tie breaker called a flick-off to decide the winner. In a flick-off both teams select five of their players and their goalie. The ball is placed seven yards out from the goal and the goalie assumes her position in the cage. The five players on both teams alternate and attempt to get the ball in the cage by using either a flick, push or scoop. The goalie cannot move until the ball is stroked and the player doing the stroke must wait for the official's whistle and can only take one step forward without using any fakes.

Our girls' squad scored first against Bowling Green in their match Friday afternoon. Hildy Deemer hit a drive into the goal in the first half. With only five minutes left in the game BGSU scored sending the game into the flick-off. After the first round of flicks the score was tied 2-2. Dawn Jackson and Sandy Franks scored for YSU. In the second round, YSU's Linda Marker scored the only flick to give YSU a 2-1 victory which avenged an earlier loss to BGSU.

Saturday morning the Penguins tangled with Muskingum. Muskingum scored first and even led 3-1 for a time in the first half. YSU was a determined crew and kept fighting back. Cindy Burazer scored first for YSU and then with less than a minute remaining in the first half Cindy Buchanan scored to make it 3-2 at halftime. Linda Marker scored the only goal in the second half to tie the game at 3-3 and again send it into the flick-off. Marker and Jackson scored in the first and only round and Muskingum scored only once. YSU won the game, 4-3.

YSU met Kent State in the finals Saturday afternoon. It was the first time that two teams from the northeastern part of the state had distinguished themselves. It was a hard-fought match with Kent trying to avenge a 1-0 loss shutout to YSU last Tuesday. The game ended in a scoreless tie and the girls had to go through another flick-off. One round was all that was necessary as Marker and Deemer scored goals while Kent did not score any. The score of the game was 1-0 giving YSU the championship.

One player who deserves much recognition and praise is the YSU goalie Debbie Shea who's outstanding saves insured YSU's victories. In the flick-offs Shea allowed only three scores out of twenty attempts which is an amazing record considering the odds are always with the flicker and not the goalie.

Other members of the championship team are Leslie Ingram, Donna DeFiore, Marilyn Colla, Jan Sebulsky, Jane Petrek, Mary Jane Stroupe, Debbie Fredericks and Katrina Daniel. The assistant coach is Merry Ormsby and the trainer is Jill Hlyne.

The eventual winner of the state tournament was Ohio State who defeated Ohio Wesleyan, the defending champion the past two years, 3-1. Dennison was third and Wooster fourth.

YSU's record is now at 7-4 and they return to regular season action today as they travel to Lake Erie for a 4:15 p.m. match.

Women's Volleyball

The women's volleyball team ran its record to 7-6 on the season with a pair of victories over Behrend and Thiel. However, YSU suffered setbacks to Malone and Westminster.

In an away match last Saturday, YSU lost to Malone in three close games, 12-15, 15-11 and 9-15. In a quadrangular meet last Tuesday at Westminster, the Penguins captured two of three games. In the first match YSU lost to Westminster, 10-15 and 13-15. YSU overcame Thiel easily, 15-9, 15-9 but had some trouble before subdoing Behrend, 15-6, 6-15 and 15-8.

The volleyball team will entertain Clarion tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. at Beeghly.
