

Osborn Company chosen for Stadium architect

The Osborn Company of Cleveland has been approved by the YSU Board of Trustees as architect for the $6 million All-Sports Complex, as announced at their meeting Saturday. The complex will include a 13,000-16,000 seat stadium north of Beechly Center.

In a report by Dr. Karl E. Krill, vice president of administrative affairs, the building of a pedestrian bridge over Wick Avenue from the planned parking deck, the replacement of the CAST building roof, the remodeling of Jones Hall and the occupancy of Bliss Hall were discussed.

Krill reported that the pedestrian bridge, to be built over Wick Avenue from the second parking structure, is estimated to cost $376,819. The garage structure, itself, is expected to reach $3.5 million and general site preparation will be $359,600. The main drives from Wick Ave. and Walnut St. may reach $255,000, which also includes modifications at the streets.

The parking deck capacity is expected to be only 1243 cars, but bids for extra decks will permit construction up to the limit of funds available.

Krill said a report from the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Research Laboratory at Granville, Ohio on the CAST building roof indicates that the severe blistering of the urethane insulation batts is due to differential expansion between the roofing felts and the batts. This is causing leakage of the roof.

The State Architect has been asked by YSU to look into the matter with the associate architect and the supplier of the urethane insulation.

Krill announced in his report that design work is well under way for the remodeling of Jones Hall. Funds for the architect, George Tanner Smith & Associates of Columbiana, have been released by the State Controlling Board. The remodelled building is to house administration and registration and probably conselling. Late April is set as the target date in advertising for bids for construction.

On Jan. 26 the State Architect and YSU accepted the work of the general contractor of Bliss Hall as substantially complete. Krill said YSU now must assume much of the responsibility for the building which is still under construction by three prime contractors. This new arrangement makes difficulties in security problems and damage and the responsibility, and leaves unanswered questions about the beginning date for warranties on equipment and workmanship he said. These situations arise from recent state legislation which requires progressive acceptance of a building as each prime contractor completes his work.

Also approved at the Board of Trustees meeting was a new two-year program in respiratory therapy technology and a new major in management.

Dr. John J. Coffelt, YSU president, announced the early retirement of two vice presidents, Krill and Joseph S. Rook, vice president of financial affairs.

A committee has been formed to help the administration in a nation-wide search for successors.

Skiers stranded in New York after Holiday Valley ski trip

What could have been a miserable time for 37 YSU skiers this weekend turned out to be a "really good time" for all of them.

Returning from Holiday Valley in New York, a bus carrying 37 participants of the Kilmawley Center Program Board recreation committee's Ski trip was forced to be laylaid in Maple Springs (western New York) because of a blocked highway (jack-knifed truck) and extremely icy road conditions.

In Maple Springs the bus was diverted to the local fire station until an alternate plan could be figured out. Kathy Benish, organizer for the trip, stated that earlier in the evening (around 6 p.m. the skiers arrived in Maple Springs around 5:30 p.m.) there was talk that a convoy was going to be formed, consisting of snow plows and other stranded motorists. After discussions with the fire chief, the group decided to stay the night as there had been too many accidents in the area to drive safely at night.

Since they were forced to remain in Maple Springs for the night, the wives of the firemen prepared a hot supper for all 37 skiers. After they had finished their "goulash," the skiers played games and talked with the firemen and their wives.

Sleeping arrangements were made in a nearby "retreat house" owned by a local ministry. Most of the students slept on the floor, while a few lucky ones rested on couches and beds.

In answer to how she felt about the unexpected delay, Benish said, "We really had a good time. All of the people here were really nice too." The skiers arrived back at YSU around 1 p.m. yesterday.

Jazz concert successful; attendance exceeds 4,000

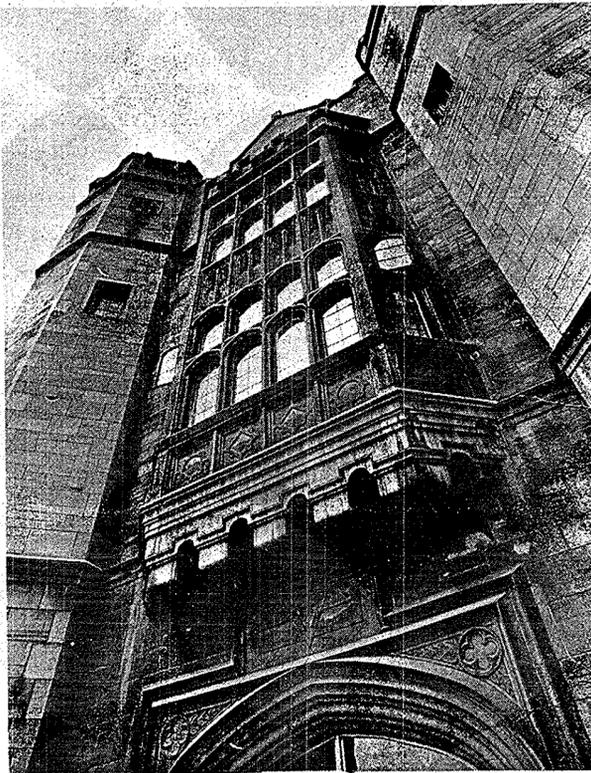

"Overall the concert went very well. We were pleased with the attendance and both performers were very well received." This was the reaction of Mark Shanley, coordinator of YSU Student Activities to the George Benson-Herbie Hancock concert.

Financially speaking, the concert was a success. According to Shanley 2000 student advance tickets were sold at YSU. 1000 were sold in advance at area outlets. Ticket sales at the door numbered 1300 to bring the

OEA outlines their primary objectives for negotiations with administration

Four primary objectives, which include the term of office for department chairpersons, clarification of the retirement program, changes in the present faculty evaluation system, and reduction in teacher work loads, were outlined by Dr. Thomas Shipka, philosophy, head of the YSU-OEA negotiators, at a press conference held Friday afternoon, before the first negotiation session.

Dr. Taylor Alderman, Vice-president of Academic Affairs, and chief negotiator for the University, added that the administration has also drawn up a new plan for submission concerning faculty evaluation.

The OEA and the University will be meeting on Fridays in an effort to come up with an Agreement for the 1977-79 contract by April 15.

Other objectives formed by the OEA included cost-of-living allowances, improvements in major medical coverage, dental insurance coverage, improvements in job security clauses, sabbatical leaves, and check-off of agency-union fees.

It was announced that a press "black-out" will be observed until a settlement is reached. If an agreement is not reached by April 15, an impasse will be declared, and a mediator from the federal mediation and conciliation service will be called in for assistance.

YSU will be closed Monday, February 21, and there will be no Jambar on Tuesday, February 22, because of the University's observance of Presidents' Day.

Some of our classrooms aren't classrooms.

Military science courses are courses in leadership, management and military procedure. You'll learn how to manage people, to handle money and equipment. But you'll get more than just the classroom theory. You'll experience it. So when you study map reading and land navigation, be ready to get your boots dirty in activities like rappelling, orienteering or river-rafting. When you study communications, plan on communicating. And when you study weapons, expect to qualify at the rifle range. Then, when you decide to enter advanced ROTC courses as a junior, plan on applying everything you've learned at a six-week summer leadership camp. Military science courses offer you challenges. Physical as well as mental. To prepare you for leadership responsibility as an Army officer when you graduate. If that's the kind of challenge and experience you're looking for, you're the kind of student we're looking for.

Snow removal crew makes progress, works 10 hours daily, says Garono

Thanks to the reprieve in last week's weather, the snow removal crew of YSU was given the chance to catch up on the backlog of snow and ice encasing the campus.

Last week as the mountains of snow turned into lakes of mud and slush, the snow crew finally managed to clear the abundance of snow and ice off all the walkways and parking lots.

Henry A. Garono, superintendent of campus grounds, said the extreme cold and the heavy snowfall has made the snow crew's job quite difficult.

Garono said the "cost of snow removal has already exceeded the total of last year, with still two months to go." He said the snow removers, consisting of 13 regular employees and five students, are "doing a tremendous job and it's a wonder they're not complaining. The men are working approximately 10 to 12 hours daily, seven days a week, to clear the snow."

The extreme cold, which prevented employees from working outside for too long of a time, was a major hindrance in the snow's removal. Garono said, "It's been so cold, an employee can't stay out there very long. People are human. You can sit in a building and say he's only been out there 20 minutes. How would you like it?"

Another problem was that the snow wasn't melting, so the only way to dispose of it was to carry it out in trucks. According to Garono all the snow was deposited on University property.

Supplies were also difficult to get and slowed down the snow removal. The chloride has almost run out and there is a long wait to get salt.

Garono said other problems they faced were, "all the students don't go one way. Everyone's going in a different direction, so many places, all spread out. The students walking by slow you down and it's impossible to clean the lots when cars are there."

Garono said to add to their problems the YSU crews were forced to "clean city streets because the city hadn't come in."

In shoveling, the removal crews had to be careful not to damage any grass that would have to be repaired in the spring.

Garono feels the crew is doing a good job under the conditions. He said the weather has been so bad that some places had to be gone over three or four times. "The students don't realize we've been doing it. Everything can't be cleaned at one time," said Garono.

Garono said the snow is cleared in order of priorities. These include parking lots, walkways, steep areas and roadways. He said one of the places to be cleaned was the drive at President Coffelt's home. But Garono quickly added that this job was at the bottom of the priority list.

Garono said, "We can handle just about everything, providing employees aren't sick and machines don't break down. The University has seven snow removal machines."

"Being very honest, there's not much more we can do," said Garono. "The only improvements we could make would be if we had more people, then we could go over areas faster."

Says new machines are hard to use

To the Editor of The Jambar:

The library administration, following the example of the YSU administration, has spent huge amounts of money to make things easier for the student, but has instead made things more difficult.

In the library's microfilm room, there are now two new microfilm readers. They replace two microfilm readers which were over 20 years old. The only electricity required for the old machines was for the light bulb. The new Bell & Howell models require additional electricity to drive the microfilm. But the fastest speed is still much slower than was possible with the 20-year old hand-cranked models. And the slowest speed is too fast for the eye to follow. So you have to spend more time in locating the page you want and rewinding the reel.

But the most idiotic feature of the machine is how they are loaded. The old machine loaded from the left. This means that when the majority of the microfilm is put on, it is projected backwards or upside down. The microfilm has to be rewound onto another spool so it is shown forwards, then rewound again so it begins at the beginning. So for every microfilm reel you use, you should prepare to spend five more minutes with the new "labor and time saving" microfilm readers. I'm not even going to mention the machines' sharp corners, easily jammed spindles or the lack of writing space that these new machines provide.

Administration has done it again! It won't stop with smaller tables in the cafeteria or worthless microfilm readers. Next the few good professors on campus will be replaced! All the good administrators have long since been replaced.

Administration cares? Proposes exposing litterbugs at YSU

With all the recent concern over the proposed Sports Complex in Jambar editorials and letters, some people in the University community have become upset because they believe everyone on campus should pull together to promote the Complex. Because of this, there is one particular point which needs clarification so that an understanding of why there is opposition to the stadium can be reached.

Students, faculty and staff see that the administrators on campus are pushing the stadium and they may feel that the administrators are ignoring everything else, which causes them to believe that they don't give a damn about the students, faculty and staff. Whether or not this is true is not the problem. The problem is that the administrators have not done anything to disprove this. The University remaining open during some of the recent snow storms did not do much to enhance the image of many administrators. The President (John Coffelt) has even broadcast a commercial asking for money from the community. But his broadcast was only one instance and he is only one administrator. Maybe the administrators should become more visible. Mingling with the students during lunch, having discussions with faculty and staff might help a little. One thing is for sure, and this is pointed to all administrators on campus, you have to give us (students, faculty and staff) a little bit more respect.

Track but no team

If you have seen the plans for the so-called "Sports complex," they call for baseball and softball diamonds, tennis courts and an eight-lane all-weather track.

One tends to wonder about the purpose of an all-weather track since YSU does not have a track team. Apparently we are building a track for practice running and the local high schools who do have track teams. Also, at most sport's stadiums, the track area is located around the football field. The proposed YSU track is to be located behind the power plant, far away from the gridiron located on Fifth. This location is not beneficial to either spectators or the athletes because there are no stands and it is far away from the locker rooms located in Beeghly. The track also is the only thing to be built between Elm and Wick.

Taking all things into consideration, wouldn't this space be better used for a badly needed parking lot?

To the Editor of The Jambar:

Last Thursday's sunshine and warm temperatures rolled back the snow, revealing roadways and long forgotten sidewalks. Outside the windows of the Student Development Office in Kilcawley, the melting snow also exposed fifteen glasses, three empty cans, a collection of plates, bowls and silverware, one towel, one sock, three ashtrays and approximately one bushel of assorted Hardee's cups and wrappers. I've heard of it raining cats and dogs, but when has it ever snowed litter?

I hate to place the blame on the dorm residents because they are adult college students and adults don't behave that way. Could it be that some children sneaked into the dorm while no one was watching, and got their jollies by dumping trash out of the upper floor windows? They are probably the same juvenile delinquents who practice their Kung-Fu kicks on the doors around Kilcawley and rip all the material off of the bulletin boards.

Adult residents of Kilcawley, beware! There are devious children among you, posing as college students! Seek them out and expose them before the name of your dormitory is changed to "Kilcawley Home for Wayward Children."

Protests people poisoning pigeons

To the Editor of The Jambar:

In the next couple of days, YSU students will be asked to sign petitions protesting the pigeon poisoning program recently adopted by the Youngstown Board of Health. The petition also opposes the recently passed ordinance (No. 93640) prohibiting the feeding of pigeons within the city limits of Youngstown.

Why should you sign? Because the plan itself is extremely cruel to the pigeons, for one thing. Strychnine is a senselessly painful alternative to the birth control method proposed by the experts. Also, there's a serious hazard that other birds and animals will be affected by the poison, and the hundred of dead pigeon carcasses will no doubt pose a health problem more serious than the live pigeons do now.

The poisoning program and the anti-feeding ordinance are a shocking reversal of recent advances in ecology and conservation. They coerce people into anti-life attitudes at a time when we most need to be sympathetic towards our fellow creatures if we ourselves are to survive.

So please sign.

Seeks alumni use of Beeghly pool

To the Editor of The Jambar:

Of course YSU should have a stadium. Then alumni could use it to their hearts content and forget about the facilities at Beeghly. The administration could then abandon the monumental task of drawing up a policy, or signing one, concerning the alumni use of Beeghly.

Of course YSU should have a stadium. Why with a stadium, the administration would welcome alumni (and their monetary support) with open arms, instead of trying to figure out how to draw up and sign a policy. With a stadium, all mechanics of thinking and operating a pen would be history.

A stadium? Why not. The University would grow in prestige. "Wick Tech" with a stadium. Anyone interested in working on a committee which would lobby for alumni use of Beeghly, let the administration know.

Grievance

The new Student Grievance Procedure is barely one month old. Although it is too soon for a detailed report on how the procedure is working, I feel that especially now at registration time, some kind of report is in order. So far I have had six grievances, of which only one dealt with a grade. In this case the grievance was not a grade dispute as such, rather an error in recording. Two students received each others' grades. Thanks to the cooperation of the Department involved, the error was corrected.

The bigger problem (and one which concerns the other five grievances) is advisement, or the lack of it. Since mandatory advisement was lifted, the student's method of locating information has been more or less hit and miss. Where to go to find out what-is the question. It is true that even though an advisor's signature is no longer required for registration, there is nothing to stop a student from getting the advisement he needs. One of the reasons for this column is to try and convince students to ask for advisement. Advisement is not just another bothersome thing to do. Ultimately, the student has the most to lose.

If a student wants to spend money on additional courses, add part or all of a quarter to college time, pass courses to replace others already passed and paid for—then the student shouldn't bother with advisement. However, if a student does care about things I've just mentioned, then that student should heed this advice:

One small paragraph in the catalog is the cause of four of my grievances. Page 46 of the 76-77 catalog states: "No student may receive credit for a course that is a prerequisite for a more advanced course which he had already successfully completed." This is University policy! To repeat—do not take the prerequisites for a course after you've taken the higher level course! And if you have any questions see a professor in your department, or your department chairperson. We also are fortunate to have on campus a volunteer-advisor program where you can get help. Anyone who is interested can contact Dr. Altinger in the Math Department. I'd like to add that you may also come to Student Government for any help we can give. My hours this quarter are: 10 a.m.-noon Tuesday & Thursday. Helping me is Tony Bindas who has office hours on Monday & Wednesday from 2-3 p.m. You may leave your phone number with the secretary and one of us will get in touch with you.

I would also like to add my small voice to those who are asking for the return of mandatory responsible advisement. This article doesn't prove conclusively that such a policy is needed, but it certainly points in that direction. I have been keeping detailed records so that when my turn is up I may be able to give the University community a better picture concerning advisement among other problems.

One final note. I'd like to thank Dean McBriarty, Dr. E. Edgar and Dr. Altinger for their patience with a new (and sometimes fumbling) Student Grievance Secretary. This office is for the students of YSU, but without help from faculty and staff it could not function at all. Thanks!

Suggests alternatives for $6 million

To the Editor of The Jambar:

I have several suggestions on what the University could do with six million dollars, other than spend it on a stadium.

First, part of the six million could be spent on a series of one way plane tickets to the Antarctic for the Board of Trustees and all the misguided administrators who were responsible for thinking up the idea in the first place. Then they would have to spend all their time thinking of ways to keep warm and they wouldn't have time to spend money foolishly.

My second suggestion is to send the money to the United States Olympic Committee, at least the money would be spent on real athletes rather than, as you so aptly put it, "a Football Team (?) who can't scrimmage their way out of a paper bag."

Thirdly, the money could be better spent if it was pumped into the academic program which we all know could use a shot in the arm.

Last, and possibly the most valuable of all suggestions, is to put the money into an account to have all the student parking lots on campus paved so that students would be able to get to class without feeling that they have just braved the Florida Everglades.

Braves Lincoln Avenue slop

To the Editor of The Jambar:

Question: How does a YSU student cross the street?

Answer: With a great deal of difficulty, especially if the student is coming from or going to Lincoln Project.

Those of us who have been brave enough to slip, slide, sludge and dodge across Lincoln Avenue should be congratulated. For not even Sir Lancelot would have dared to navigate across this dangerous moat, filled with four wheeled sharks.

Every winter quarter we students must rely on quick reflexes, good brakes and God's grace to get across this street. I, therefore, take this opportunity to make a plea that something be done to alleviate this problem. Why not take some of that $6 million and put it to good use (hint). After all, how much can a drawbridge cost? Or an even more austere means would be to hire a crossing guard, but then I'm not a sadist.

YSU's Veterans Center is launching a drive to encourage eligible vets to use their educational benefits.

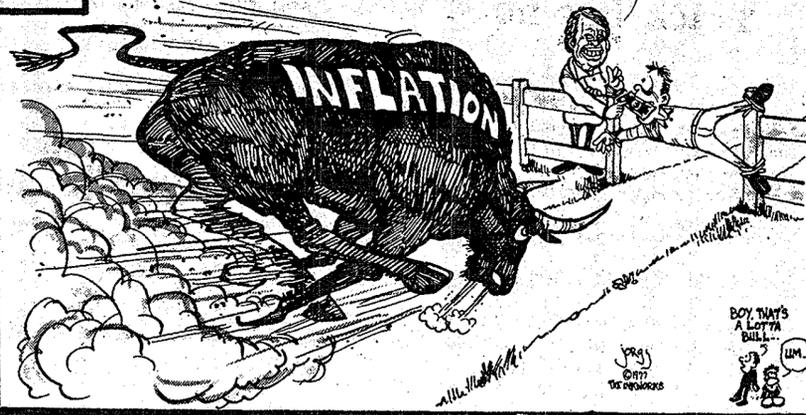

There are many eligible veterans who are not using their GI Bill benefits, explains Thomas Richards, veterans advisor at YSU, and he is hoping they will consider the advantages of attending classes on a full- or part-time basis. A vet attending YSU full-time may receive up to $396.00 per month with two dependents. Active duty military service of 181 days or more performed on and after

Feb. 1, 1955, may qualify a veteran for educational benefits.

Interested vets should contact YSU's Veterans Center 746-1851, ext. 212, for additional information regarding benefits, eligibility, application procedures and payments.

Guam contó con nosotros.

El furioso tifón que destruyó Guam el 22 de Mayo de 1976 ya no es una noticia de primera plana.

Pero ha de pasar mucho tiempo hasta que los habitantes de Guam lo olviden. Y ha de pasar mucho tiempo hasta que la Cruz Roja lo olvide, pues también estuvimos ahí.

Aunque usted no lo crea, en los últimos 12 meses hemos prestado auxilios en 30,000 desastres similares al de Guam. Por eso nuestros fondos están desastrosamente bajos. Y por eso tenemos que contar con su respaldo continuo. ¡Ayúdenos!

Las cosas que nosotros hacemos ayudan a su vez. En su propio vecindario. A través del continente. Y del mundo.

Oasis in Space

Cousteau/Oasis in Space, a series of six half-hour specials about the global environment, premieres at 10 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 23, on Channels 45 and 49.

Produced in cooperation with the Cousteau Society, this series explores some of the most fascinating, as well as disturbing, questions that face the inhabitants of Spaceship Earth—problems related to food, water, energy alternatives, the quality of life, population and the future.

Host Philippe Cousteau, son of the famed oceanographer Jacques Cousteau, helps viewers discover the political nature of most environmental controversies, while exploring such areas as the Hudson River, El Salvador, Lake Superior, Minamata (Japan), Appalachia and Southwest Ontario.

The initial episode, What Price Progress? takes an in-depth look at three cases of industrial pollution and their affect on human life.

Joining Cousteau in this global odyssey each week will be a number of distinguished individuals, including Isaac Asimov, Paul Ehrlich, Barry Commoner, Margaret Mead, Buckminster Fuller, Russell Train and Frank Zorb. Jacques Cousteau will also make numerous appearances in the series with his son.

Microbes and Men

Microbes and Men, a series of six hour-long weekly dramas that chronicles the lives and work of 19th century medical pioneers who made modern medicine possible, premieres, at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 23, over Channels 45 and 49.

This new series dramatizes the vision and tenacity of less than a dozen men who, by establishing the germ theory of disease, made the greatest advances in medical history in 1,000 years. It spans 65 years between 1846 and 1911, focusing primarily on the careers of Ignaz Semmelweis, Louis Pasteur, Robert Koch and Paul Ehrlich. Microbes and Men accurately portrays the intense difficulties the four men encountered in scientific experimentation at a time when what caused disease was not understood.

The series begins with the initial discovery by Semmelweis in Vienna of the contagious principle of disease.

The Way It Was

The third season of public television's award-winning sports series, The Way It Was, begins at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 22, on Channels 45 and 49 with the 1968 UCLA-Houston basketball game.

There was a lot more to the UCLA-Houston encounter than the score. There was the crowd, largest ever to see two college teams play. There was the Bruin streak of 47 straight wins. And there was the anticipated duel of Lew Alcindor against the Big E.

The KCPB trip to the Pittsburgh Penguins NHL Hockey game for Wednesday, Feb. 16, has been cancelled. The $7.50 tickets are now being sold for $5.00, but you must provide your own transportation to the game.

Photography Club will begin for any interested students

Interested in photography? Would you like to learn more, but don't know where to look for help? If so, then there is a new club forming which is made just for you, the YSU Photography Club.

If you think membership is limited to those with cameras, you're wrong. One of the purposes of the club is to get more people interested in photography, from the basics on up.

Everyone on campus is invited to join the club; from students to faculty. The club is presently involved on organizational procedures, but will begin having regular meetings Feb. 17, in the Kilcawley Center. Watch the Jambor for time and place of the meeting. Interested photo bugs who would like more information, should contact the club president, Bob O'Mars. His number is 799-6290.

NOW recognizes Susan B. Anthony's fight for equality

Today, February 15, celebrates the birth date of Susan B. Anthony, the American woman recognized for her battle in the women's suffrage movement in the mid 1800's.

The National Organization for Women has declared today "Susan B. Anthony Day," and the local chapter of NOW is requesting that all who are supportive of the women's continuing struggle for social, economic and political equality wear a yellow ribbon. The yellow ribbon was the symbol of support worn by the women and men who could not join Anthony in her journey to Washington D.C. to express herself before Congress.

Members and supporters of the Organization for Women's Liberation will be leafletting and distributing yellow ribbons in Kilcawley Center today.

On Friday morning there will be a panel discussion, followed by a luncheon. The panel topic will be Employment Opportunities for Minorities, Women and the Handicapped. The guest speaker at the luncheon will be Attorney Carl Nunziato, a member of the Governor's Committee on the Handicapped.

This meeting is being jointly sponsored by Mount Union College and YSU.

Reform of marijuana laws shifts into high gear; focus on the west

(CPS)—Regarding the ever popular subject of marijuana, there are great expectations for the year 1977 as decriminalization efforts are being shifted into the proverbial "high gear" with eyes focusing to the west, specifically California.

William Brown, California Assemblyman, D-San Francisco, introduced a bill in the state legislature on Feb. 1 which would reduce the penalties for cultivating up to six marijuana plants for private use. The new bill, if passed, would make growing and cultivation a misdemeanor, with a maximum $100 fine.

Currently, the law says that this is a felony. Possession of an ounce or less however, is a misdemeanor, handled by a traffic-style citation and a fine not to exceed $100. The new bill is a milestone for the people advocating the reform and decriminalization of marijuana laws and proponents feel that there is a good chance for the bill's passage. Presently, Alaska is the only state in the U.S. which allows people to grow it, smoke it and give it away—in private, though.

Leading the advocates of reform is the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML). Gordon Brownel, NORML west coast director, said that decriminalization bills will be introduced in many western states this year, including New Mexico, Washington, Nevada and Hawaii. Nevada may be considered a special target state, since it is the last with laws treating possession, even of one joint, as a felony. The penalty ranges as high as a $2,000 fine and one to six years in prison.

Decriminalization efforts may be given further help this year, especially with recent studies from several federal and state agencies which contend that stiff anti-drug laws fail to deter usage, particularly with marijuana.

In a joint report compiled by several federal agencies and released in the government's state of the union report on drug abuse, marijuana smoking was said to be approaching the "saturation level" and the report suggested that the government decide on a policy for treating those found in possession of small amounts, either by decriminalization or imposing sanctions other than criminal penalties.

In New York City, a survey of 100 judges and rehabilitation specialists showed that a majority believe that the state's current, tough narcotics laws are not working.

The survey, conducted by the city's Addiction Agency Services, showed a majority supported decriminalization of the possession of small amounts of heroin and other narcotics. Marijuana is lumped in with "other narcotics." Jerome Hornblase, the commissioner of the agency, also noted that "this marks the first major survey in the U.S. that finds judges and drug treatment specialists expressing a common desire to de-emphasize the use of courts and law enforcement agencies to deal with the drug problem and to begin treating addiction (of heroin and other addictive drugs) as an emotional and physical problem, rather than as a crime." It should be noted that at one time alcoholism was also treated as a crime in this country.

In California, the state Office of Narcotic and Drug Abuse has just released the results of a federally funded study which said that the state's taxpayers have been saved at least $25 million in police and court costs since the passage of their decriminalization law last year. Brownel contends that the figure is closer to $50 million.

The report indicates a 47 percent decrease in the number of adults in California being cited for possession charges. Also in notice able decline were the number of grass seizures and arrests for trafficking. In Los Angeles alone there was a 34 percent decline in the number of arrests, contradicting the belief of Ed Davis, L.A. police chief, who had been a very vocal critic and had predicted an orgy of marijuana smoking. The study, in determining its results, compared the first six months of 1976 with the same period of a year before.

And up in the Big Sky country, a Montana state senator is expected to introduce a bill reducing penalties for possession similar to other states with decriminalized laws. The bill, endorsed and prepared by the Montana County Attorneys Association, suggest three penalty levels, the minimum being 10 days in the county jail and/or one year in jail for three time offenders. It still may seem a bit stiff, but if you consider the current penalty, a year in jail and/or $1,000 for the first offense, it is a start.

Is it sick to love a pen?

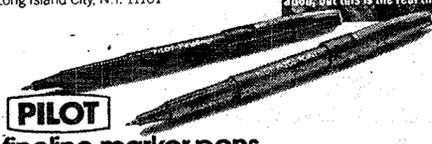

Is it crazy to love marker pens that give you the smoothest, thinnest line in town...and feel so right in your hand? Is it mad to worship pens with clever little metal "collars" to keep their plastic points from getting squishy?

Not if the pen is a Pilot marker pen.

Our Razor Point, at only 69¢, gives the kind of extra-fine delicate line you'll flip over. And for those times you want a little less line, have a fling with our fine point 59¢ Fineliner. It has the will and fortitude to actually write through carbons.

So, don't settle for a casual relationship. Get yourself a lasting one, or two, to have and to hold...at your college book store.

'Futurama in Black' planned by Afro-American Chorale

The YSU Afro-American Chorale will be spotlighted on Friday, Feb. 18, as they present the musical program Futurama in Black at 8 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room of Kilcawley Center.

The program is being sponsored by the Black Studies Department as part of Black History Month and is free and open to the public.

Futurama in Black will trace the music of Black America from the period of slavery, up to the present day. It will be divided into four sections, each dealing with a different type of black cultural music. Two of the sections will focus on spiritual and gospel songs, while a third will spotlight pop music. The last section will feature music from the present, highlighted by music from the smash Broadway hit The Wiz.

This program will mark the second time that the Chorale has performed at the University. Headed by president Debra Owens, junior, Fine & Performing Arts (F&PA), and vice-president Evelyn Toles, sophomore, F&PA the Chorale has played club dates at the Stambaugh Auditorium and the Cleveland Sheraton, and will be playing a future booking at the Mahoning Country Club. They will also be featured at an upcoming spring concert sponsored by the Dana School of Music.

The 16-member Chorale, which also has a special pop music section, is advised and directed by Dr. Adolphus Hailstork, assistant professor of music. The Chorale is celebrating its third year of existence.

If any student is interested in joining the Chorale, he can sign up during the first three weeks of spring quarter in Kilcawley, room 236, or in room 274 of the Student Activities Office Kilcawley Center.

Penguins upend Indiana-Purdue; Tournery bid may be received today

by John Creer

The major goal of head coach Dom Rosselli and his "associates" may be realized today through a simple phone call. Everybody connected with the 76-77 edition of the Penguins are eagerly awaiting a call from a representative of the Great Lakes NCAA Division II tournery selection committee who will announce the berths for the March 4-5 event.

YSU is in fact the leader of the pack for a tournery spot after rival Grand Valley of Michigan (19-1) recently accepted an invitation to participate in the NAIATournery to be held later this season. The Penguins are also hoping to be asked to host the action which would certainly add to the prestige of our sports program.

Going into last night's contest at Westminster (which, unfortunately took place after Jambar press time) the Penguins owned an impressive 16-5 record after defeating Indiana-Purdue, 76-64, Saturday night in a game that ended as a boring foul-shooting match.

An incredible total of 55 personal fouls (20 on YSU) were called by the referees who at times appeared to be having their own little contest as to who could call the most fouls.

Six of the visitors and two of the Penguins, Gerald Parks and Jeff Covington, fouled out and a rarity was achieved when Indiana-

Purdue was forced to play the final minute of action with only four players.

The first half of the winning affair was very slow paced and low scoring with the only excitement provided to the 4,579 Beeghly Center fans being the outstanding shooting of Parks and a slight altercation between Covington and an official after another in a long line of questionable calls. The Penguins built up a 37-27 halftime advantage as Parks connected for 15, including a stellar 7 of 8 from the field.

YSU maintained their healthy margin throughout the remainder of the game, increasing it to as much as 17 at one point and relatively coasted to the win, although the word "coasted" is misleading as the tempo of the game became slower than molasses (sorry about the cliché) because of the numerous fouls handed out.

But a win in any form is alright by YSU, who'll next meet Maine tomorrow night in Beeghly and will then host Gannon on Saturday with the hope of avenging a 85-68 shellacking they received earlier by the Knights.

Parks finished with 23 to lead the scoring brigade on 11 of 16 (70 percent) and 1 of 4 from the foul stripe. Covington followed with 18 and hauled in 10 rebounds to lead the squad. Senior forward, Tony Mitchell, who prior to the game was presented with a game ball in honor of his reaching the 1,000 point plateau in total career points, hooped 12 and senior forward Gary Anderson scored 10 and also grabbed 7 caroms. Gary also turned in a fine defensive performance after being inserted into the game in the final half. Senior playmaker Terry Moore, who appears to have finally recovered from a serious ankle injury, contributed six each of points, assists and rebounds, in addition to playing his usual ball-hawking style of defense.

From the field, YSU shot at a fine 51 percent on 30 of 59 and sank 16 of 31 free throw shots. The Penguins also outrebounded the visitors 35-20.

Indiana-Purdue (9-15) hit on only 27 of 65 from the floor (42 percent) and 10 of 20 at the foul line. Center Dale Taylor led the losers with 22 and Davey Harris and Julius Norman each had 11.

Counting last night's game with Westminster, YSU has only six regular season games left against the likes of competitive foe such as Gannon, Akron and Ashland. With four more wins another team goal of 20 victories will be achieved, but right about now, one of the goals of this season's highly successful cagers has hopefully been realized via a phone call . . . and a new goal of excelling and advancing in the tournery will be created.

YSU currently is second in LEIRC standing with a 22-5 record and with wins over Penn State, University of Pitt and Geneva College, has a current season record of 25-5. The fourth and final 1976-77 LEIRC season tournament will be held at Akron on 4-5 March.

Team scores for the third tournament were:

FLASH!

YSU defeated Westminster 55-54 last night in the first overtime game of the season. The Penguins, who are now 17-5 were led by Jeff Covington with 21 and Gerald Parks with 15. The game was tied at 48-all at the end of regulation time after a controversial technical foul call on Coach Rosselli. Covington converted a crucial three-point play with seconds remaining to ice the victory.
