Coffelt talks to Council on sports complex issue

University President Dr. John Coffelt, faculty member Dr. Stephen Hanzely and Frank C. Watson, general chairman of the community campaign, spoke on the sports complex issue during the weekly meeting of the YSU Council.

Coffelt had been asked by Council to appear and give a talk on the aspects of the sports complex.

He explained that one of the main reasons for the pursuit of the complex was to alleviate the crowded conditions of present available facilities, namely Beeghly Physical Education Center. "The sports complex was developed for multi-purposes, not just for football or track or any one sport," stated Coffelt.

Coffelt went on to explain fully the facilities the sports complex will house and how monies will be applied to help build the complex.

Dr. Hanzely next spoke on the philosophy of the sports complex. He stated that, "There has been no debate on the facilities included in the project. If you look only at the stadium then you are being narrow-minded."

Hanzely went on to explain that there was, "No indication that education will be replaced as primary importance on this campus."

Also speaking before Council was director for the sports complex community campaign, Frank Watson. Watson spoke on the community campaign and how the public was reacting to the sports complex fund drive.

After Watson had finished, Linda Hayes, chairperson of Council, opened up the floor for questions.

Mark Stec, vice-chairperson of Council, questioned the President on how the money for upkeep of the sports complex was to be raised. Coffelt replied that if there was to be any increase for maintenance it would be an "increase out of what sources

Council discusses YSU sports complex; Campus Escort Service issue resolved

During Council's regular weekly meeting today, YSU President Dr. John Coffelt, along with Dr. Stephen Hanzely faculty/staff fund raising chairman for the stadium and Frank C. Watson, general chairman for the community Sport Complex campaign, gave a talk on YSU's proposed sports complex.

Also included in Council's business was a report on the escort service, a notice of the need for two appointees for an advisory board for Kilcawley Center, an introduction by a new member of council, a budget report and several announcements.

During the chairman's report, Marc Stec, vice chairperson took over for Linda Hayes. Stec reported that the Campus Escort Service will be funded as of next year on a stipend basis with escort personnel receiving stipends instead of an hourly wage.

Council also was asked to provide two appointees for a special advisory board to the Kilcawley Center Board. The appointees did not necessarily have to be council members.

New member of Council, Ralph Orsini, Education, introduced himself. Orsini took over for former member Al Simmons who resigned last week.

The budget committee reported that the Geological Society had not turned their request for

YSU student injured at fraternity rush party

A fight broke out at a fraternity rush party last Thursday night shortly after 1 a.m., after three non-students crashed it, resulting in the hospitalization of Richard L. Knapp, 23, of Niles, a computer technology major at YSU.

Knapp received multiple stab wounds of the chest and back and a slash in his left arm. He reported to police that while he was dancing in the main room he was told that there was a fight in the bar room. After entering the bar room, Knapp saw two men fighting a fraternity brother. While he tried to pull one of the men away, another person pulled a knife and proceeded to stab Knapp in the back. As he turned around, the intruder continued slashing at Knapp in the chest and left arm.

Glaros, Schajatovic plan to be responsive

Editors Note: George Glaros is currently president of Student Government and is involved in the faculty evaluation process, Ohio Student Association, and the General Fee budget subcommittee.

He is a Political Science major. Linda Schajatovic is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and currently is on the Kilcawley Board, Homecoming committee and is Secretary of Student Council. Miss Schajatovic is a junior, majoring in Special Education.

"Responsive and responsible" is the main thought behind the campaign of George Glaros and Linda Schajatovic, candidates for President and vice-president of Student Government.

"Our platform is mostly a three part platform" stated Glaros, "the first part is a review of what we have accomplished; secondly, what we are currently doing or 'Whats in the oven' and thirdly, future proposals."

"I'm very proud of the administration because all of the campaign promises we made last year were met. It wasn't a very broad thing, although we had a few specifics such as the

Hailstork receives award for his musical composition

Dr. Adolphus C. Hailstork III, associate professor of music at YSU was selected by the College Band Directors National Association to receive the 1977 Belwin-Mills Max Winkler Award for his composition "Out of the Depths."

At the band directors' recent annual convention at the University of Maryland, a select committee chose Hailstork's composition from a total of 48 submitted from throughout the country.

Hailstork attended the convention and his composition was performed by the Catholic University Wind Ensemble.

A New York native, Hailstork has been a faculty member since 1971. He received a bachelor of music degree in theory from Howard University, a bachelor and master of music degree in composition from Manhattan School of Music and a Ph.D. in composition from Michigan State University.

In 1974 he was commissioned by the J.C. Penney Department Stores to compose an orchestral work as a bicentennial gift to American youths which was recorded by the Nashville Symphony Orchestra. He also is co-winner of the 1970-71 Ernest Blech award for choral composition.

"Out of the Depths" originally was written for the YSU Wind Ensemble and has been frequently performed by them.

Economics Assistants

The YSU economics department is inviting students to apply for assistantships in its masters degree program.

During their first year the assistants will receive $3230 for the nine month academic year. Interested persons should contact Dr. Anthony H. Stocks at ext. 471 or 472 for further information.

grievance procedure, faculty evaluation, collective bargaining, things like that which we set out to do and we accomplished," said Glaros.

The current president of Student Government continued with a reflection on past performance. "As far as past performance we had the voter registration drive, the faculty evaluation and the student grievance procedure. The re-alignment of the Student Government budget was another thing which we promised to do and I think we ended a lot of the inefficiency and we worked more intensely with the state legislature this year. Also, we had a much more active vice-president and cabinet than previous administrations."

"Currently we have the intramurals program and collective bargaining and work on two new programs is being done. We are trying to get a student discount card that would get students discounts with local merchants and we are trying to put together a student directory for their use," Glaros said.

Glaros stated that his administration will continue working closely with the legislature, although students have not received the right to lobby.

Faculty evaluation was another area of concern for Glaros. "After a year now we've seen that it has some problems, and that the system is not the most effective. Our big hope is that by next year the system will be more compatible for all three parties involved, the students faculty and administration."

On the budget Glaros said, "I think we've really straightened out the budget this time. The budget is financially sounder and a lot of the fat has been trimmed out, although that may sound bad to some students, because they may say they aren't getting as much for their money." Miss Shajatovic added that the cuts included alot of budget abuse, "abuse like requesting more money than they really do need and using the excess for different purposes they requested it for."

Other areas considered important to Glaros and Shajatovic were trying to get more power behind the student grievance procedure, tuition and fees and academic advisements.

 were available."

The parking situation was also questioned by several students in regard to its availability and where students were expected to park.

Coffelt answered that more than 1500 spaces would be lost because of the sports complex and the building of the parking deck. He also said that around 600 spaces had been found in close proximity to the University, but that 600 more students would be forced to park at the Republic Steel lot. When questioned as to a fee for parking, the president alluded to the cost of the buses which run from the Republic Steel lot to YSU, and cost about $100 per day per bus.

Coffelt also answered a student's question on whether or not high schools would be using the stadium and whether The Jambar's story had been correct as to how the high schools had been contacted. The President stated that the people responsible for the scheduling of sports had been contacted over six months ago and that the story which appeared in The Jambar had not been entirely correct.

At the end of his allotted time the President thanked Council and handed the floor back to Chairperson Hayes.

1976 Annual Report entails various functions of OCA

The 1976 Weights and Measures Annual Report briefly lists the numerous protective and money saving functions of the Office of Consumer Affairs (OCA). Here are just a few of them.

In 1976 the OCA received 3,075 complaints from consumers who felt themselves trapped, outwitted and powerless to take action in disputes. A record setting $95,130 was put back into consumers' pockets in the form of refunds and adjustments. The OCA still considers its number one priority to be weights and measures. More money is lost through short weights and short measurers than all other forms of robbery. The OCA certified 993 weighing and measuring devices in 1976.

The Office of Consumer Affairs conducts an extensive program with schools and social agencies to encourage the teaching of consumer education.

The agency also has its own live television program, The Consumer Action Line, sponsored by WYTV Channel 33, at 11 a.m. on Tuesday.

HOW TO TAP A KEG.

Few things in life are as rewarding or as easy as tapping a keg of cold Schlitz draught beer, providing you follow a few simple rules:

1. Do not roll the keg down a hill before attempting to tap it.
2. Do not pump in too much pressure after tapping. This can force the natural carbonation out of the beer and make it foamy.
3. If the person tapping the keg makes either of these mistakes, politely point out the error of his ways. Unless, of course, he weighs 265, plays tackle, and goes by the nickname of Moose. In this case you should simply say, "Nice goin' Moose."

It's About Time

The President's speech before Council yesterday was long overdue. It is about time that somebody appeared before the students' governing body and explained to them what the stadium and sport complex means to YSU students. The President stated during the talk that the reason he or anyone else had never appeared to speak to Council before was because nobody had ever asked him, and it wasn't his responsibility to explain without being asked. Well, Dr. Coffelt, a project such as the sports complex which is supposed to affect most students doesn't need an invitation for explanation. The students should have been the first people contacted when the issue came up, instead of being almost the last to know. If Council had never asked then maybe the President would never have said a word. Who knows? This only shows that the administration is very "lazy" when it comes to informing the students. This campus needs more "alert" and responsible administrators if it is going to, as the President says, keep up with the other universities in Ohio.

Also announced at today's Council meeting was the procedure for nominating Council members for "Outstanding Council Member Award." Any Council member can nominate an old or new member to receive the award. President George Glaros had no report today.

The meeting of the Board of Trustees was announced to Council. The meeting will take place Saturday, April 23, in the Kilcawley Center Art Gallery.

Cont. Educ. holds workshop on "Cardiac-Auscultation"

A "Cardiac-Auscultation" workshop, sponsored by YSU's department of continuing education, will be held at YSU Friday and Saturday, April 22-23. Main purpose of the course is to review physiology of heart sounds and murmurs and emphasize clinical diagnosis of cardiac cases.

Instructors will be Barbara Ann Erickson, assistant professor of nursing at YSU, and Dr. Leonard P. Caccamo, director of medical education and coronary care at St. Elizabeth Hospital Medical Center.

Course objectives include to phonetically mimic and graphically record normal and abnormal cardiac sounds and identify, grade and classify systolic and diastolic murmurs.

Sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday and 9 a.m.-12:15 p.m., Saturday. The $60.00 fee includes parking, materials and luncheon.

The program has been accepted for continuing medical or nursing education credit by the American Academy of Family Physicians, American Osteopathic Association, American Association of Critical Care Nurses and American Medical Association for Category I.

Registration is now being accepted through the department of continuing education 746-1851 ext. 481.

"Mod Squad" gathers info on student clubs

The Mod Squad is alive and well and battling crime and unrest at the University of Pennsylvania.

Five or six UP work-study students, members of the campus security auxiliary force nicknamed "the Mod Squad," admitted to a Daily Pennsylvanian reporter on March 7 that they were paid by the university last June to gather information on several student organizations, including the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA). The YSA is a campus affiliate of the Socialist Workers' Party, which had its New York offices broken into by the FBI.

"We suspected for years that campus security had been spying on us," said Seth Galinsky, head of UP's YSA chapter. "The reporter from the Daily Penn bluffed the head of security by telling him that he already had proof of the intelligence-gathering. Then the chief let him look through several of the files that had been kept."

The files, according to the Daily Penn, contained newspaper clippings, political literature and security reports which described what occurred at YSA meetings. The supervisor of UP detectives told the paper that his force had gathered information on the Revolutionary Student Brigade, the July Fourth Coalition and the Viet Nam Veterans Against the War as well.

Campus Security Director Don Shultis denied in a telephone interview that he has employed his Mod Squad in gathering intelligence. Rather, he said, the work-study students received the minimum pay wage for "routine office administration" and "crime watches such as protecting bicycles from theft and providing a security escort for students."

"Gay Lib" will be topic of speaker Friday in Kilcawley

Miriam Ben Shalom, a poet and past president of the Gay Peoples' Union, Inc. of Milwaukee, will present a lecture and poetry reading at YSU Friday, April 22, and Monday, April 25.

She will discuss "Gay Liberation" at noon Friday, in Kilcawley Center room 240 and present a poetry reading at noon Monday in Kilcawley Center room 239. Both programs, free and open to the public, are co-sponsored by YSU's chapter of the Organization for Women's Liberation and YSU's student government.

A Wisconsin native, Miss Ben Shalom has served the Gay Peoples' Union Inc. of Milwaukee as police liaison committee member and crisis-line counselor as well as president and member of the board of directors.

She lived in Israel from 1968-71 and then enrolled at University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee to further her studies in Hebrew and writing. A member of IMPACT, a pro-

Some former members of the Mod Squad, he continued, graduated and now work full-time for him. One ex-member is now a lieutenant.

Asked if his detectives or work-study students had gathered intelligence on the YSA, Shultis replied, "I never heard of them."

"We do not use covert intelligence," he added. But he said that "we have sent detectives to meetings on this campus."

Shultis denied charges by some YSA members that campus security has been passing its intelligence files on to the FBI. YSA leader

Galinsky additionally claimed that campus security has been supplying files to a local Philadelphia "Red Squad;" in a 1974 university trial of a Progressive Labor Party member who had presented a professor a "racist of the year" award in class, the Philadelphia Civil Disobedience Squad supplied the court with files on the student, said Galinsky.

An FBI spokesman contacted in Philadelphia said that to his knowledge, campus security has not been supplying the FBI with files on any students or student organizations.

"The Young Socialist Alliance is not one of the organizations that the FBI now has under surveillance," he said.

Asked if his organization ever had aided campus security in gathering information on any campus group, he replied, "I don't think that warrants any discussion at this point. It's been litigated in the past."

Similar surveillance of campus organizations by school authorities has appeared at only a few other colleges in recent years. At Central

Accounting Clinic

The 27th Annual Accounting Clinic will be presented by YSU's honorary accounting fraternity Alpha Tau Gamma at 6 p.m., Wednesday, April 20, at the Mahoning Country Club.

Guest speakers will be Lem Roberson, assistant district director of Internal Revenue Service, Cleveland District, and Thomas Monahan, CPA and partner in Monahan and Monahan, Erie, Pa. Roberson will discuss "The IRS Audit Procedure—Why and How" and Monahan's topic will be "Current Developments in Unaudited Financial Statements."

Further information may be obtained from YSU's accounting department, 746-1851, ext 306.

The second edition of Geology of National Parks, authored by Mrs. Ann G. Harris, has been published by Kendall/Hunt Publishing Co.

Harris, assistant professor of geology at YSU sees the work as both a college text and a manual for nature lovers.

The first edition of the 300-page soft cover book was published in 1975 and there were two printings of that edition.

Featured in the 400-page second edition is a comprehensive and geologic history of the 38 United States national parks, ranging from the 900-acre Platt in Oklahoma to the two-million-acre Yellowstone in Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

To be eligible for the Dean's List, students must attain a 3.4 average out of a possible 4.0, and take at least 12 quarter hours. The perfect 4.0 mark was achieved by 531 students.

HARD ROCK WITHOUT THE GLITTER—Nils Lofgren, one of the best (and most under-rated) performers in America will appear Wednesday night at the Tomorrow Club. This show is one not to miss.

ROCKY

by Thom Meister

When was the last time you cheered at a movie? No, not applauded at the end, cheered during the movie! When Burt Reynolds finally scored in the Longest Yard? When Buford Pusser took a baseball bat to his wife's killers in Walking Tall? When the shark got hit in the Jaws from Roy Scheider? Whenever it was, I'm betting the next time comes when you see Rocky. Rocky touches a responsive chord in anyone who's ever believed himself an underdog; from the little guy in class who can't compete in sports, to the jock who can't communicate with girls. That gives any film an admirable base on which to build. Sylvester Stallone has taken this broad base of empathy and put together one of the finest films in years, joining the great fight films like Somebody Up There Likes Me, Champion, and Body and Soul. The formula is familiar. The pugilist with the heart of gold who draws inspiration from his loyal girlfriend to come through when it counts. Rocky is much more than that, because in Rocky we aren't dealing with an up-and-coming fighter who's earned his rightful shot at the title. Rocky Balboa is a "never was" who gets his break because his ethnic background seems like a logical extension of the Nation's Bicentennial celebration. What Rocky does, with the second chance few ever get is the crux of one of the top male performances of the year.

Stallone has been compared to Marlon Brando, and there are valid comparisons to be made. The same smouldering intensity, the same physical power, the same ability to project, the image of a gentle brute, bubbling with thoughts and feelings that can never quite be articulated. But Stallone goes Brando one better, injecting a very real comic sense that wasn't seen in Brando's early work. From Fieldian asides to an affecting shyness, Stallone helps us laugh at the character, even as we begin to share in his single-minded quest for dignity. Watching Rocky train for the bout he never dreamed he'd fight, you can feel the energy build throughout the theatre, and when the final circus/bout takes place the audience is begging for emotional release. They aren't disappointed.

Stallone followed the path of last year's runaway hit One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, perhaps proving that the best way to make a truly great film is to avoid the strictures of Hollywood politics, make the film you want to make, and let the public pass judgement. Stallone's total dedication (he wrote it, starred in it, even supplies his own dog as a character actor) has paid off with a movie that uplifts, touches, amuses, and most importantly, entertains.

See Rocky. You'll find a refreshing absence of profanity, a touching look at characters who can't demand our respect, so they earn it. Before the film is through, you'll find yourself as caught up in the drama as audiences before you have been all across the country. If empathy is a mark of great cinema, and I believe that it is, then Rocky is destined to leave its mark far beyond the winter of '77.

'Derringer'

by Bill Rowan
A capacity crowd greeted Rick Derringer and his band Sunday night at the Tomorrow Club. They started gathering outside the club as early as 5 p.m. Sunday evening in anticipation of being a part of Youngstown rock history.

Many carried signs to welcome Derringer and thank them for choosing Youngstown and its rock fans to be a part of a "live" record album.

Mr. Derringer took time out from a busy afternoon of recording preparation to explain to the Jambar why he decided to do a live album in Youngstown. "We chose Youngstown and the Tomorrow Club to do a live recording for the following reasons: the crowds here are outstanding to play for and because the hall has such a good sound."
Teddy Status of Blue Sky Records, Derringer's record company and Chuck Buchanan, chief engineer for Metro-Audio, who recorded the evenings performance, termed the session a total success.

From all the dedication and effort put forth at the Tomorrow

Gardening

Club during the long and tedious rehearsals in the afternoon and the short week that preceded the session, emerged an evening to be remembered for all time.

Fortunately, if you missed the evening's outstanding performance you have that rare second chance to feel a part of this rock history by purchasing the album which should be released this June.

Soaring coffee prices together with man's growing interest in natural foods have brought herb teas back once again into America's coffee and tea cups.

Although herb teas were once used primarily for medicinal effects and to escape the high tariff on British tea during the Revolutionary war, today they are increasingly sipped for pleasure and practicality. One pound of coffee makes 80 cups, whereas one pound of tea makes 200 cups for less than half the price.

Herb teas are limited only by the variety of herbs in your garden or the selection of tins and jars on your spice rack—as well as your taste and imagination.

You may find a few of the herbs mentioned in this article useful, tasty and loaded with good scents from your garden. Herbs are fun to grow, whether for teas, sachets or cooking uses. If you have limited or no space, window boxes, bushel baskets, crocks or flower pots might be the planting solution.

To begin a herb tea garden, you will need to decide how much growing area you can devote to the plants, for some grow very tall and others spread rapidly. A rule of thumb to follow in determining exactly which herbs to plant—especially if your space is limited—is the tea flavors that you most desire. To begin growing your plants, cuttings obtained from growing herb plants can be rooted in water and then potted or you may purchase herb plants at local nurseries. Packets of herb seeds are also available for persons who want to germinate their own seeds. cont. next week

Faculty Senate to consider Honors Program revision

A proposal for a more extensive Honors Program at YSU is currently under consideration by the Faculty Senate.

The proposal suggests that a student would receive a certificate acknowledging his completion of the University Honors Program at an Honors Convocation after fulfilling the following requirements:

1. Twenty-one hours of Honors courses distributed among at least 3 departments.

2. One University Honors Seminar sequence (9 hours in addition to the above requirement).

3. A grade point average of at least 3.5 in all Honors courses completed and at least 3.4 overall at the time of completion of the Honors Program requirement.

According to Dr. Stephen L. Sniderman, associate professor of English, the proposed Honors Program would provide stimulation, challenge and recognition to the exceptional student at YSU, would lay the foundation for a future Honors College and would significantly enhance the image of this University in the eyes of its own students, its alumni, its friends in the community and at other institutions and its potential clientele in the high schools."

Sniderman added that the adoption of this proposal would also help YSU "keep pace" with other state institutions.

Currently YSU students are not able to take Honors courses in more than four departments and only specially selected students are invited to enroll in these courses.

Penguins win nine in row; face Cleveland State today

by Allen Rock
 YSU's baseball express continued to roll as the Penguins took back to back doubleheaders from Geneva College and John-Carroll University. On Saturday YSU disposed of Geneva by 5-2 and 7-0, then on Sunday swept two from John-Carroll by 5-3 and 3-1 scores.

In the first game against Geneva, YSU used the arm of sophomore Bill Sattler and the bats of first baseman Wayne Zetts and outfielder Mike Zaluski to gain the victory. Sattler posted his second complete game win by tossing a three hitter. Bill also had the strikeout pitch working as he fanned thirteen. Sattler now has recorded twenty-four strikeouts in fourteen innings.

Zetts smashed his second home run of the season in the sixth to highlight the YSU attack. Wayne also drove in a run in the third with a sacrifice fly. Mike Zaluski also continued to rattled opposing pitchers, he collected two hits in three at bats.

The Penguins took the lead early, scoring three runs in the first on an error, three singles and a sacrifice fly. They added a run in the third and one in the sixth on Zett's second home run of the year.

In the second game, YSU pounded Geneva pitchers for eleven hits backing the shut out pitching performance of sophomore Dave Smercansky. Dave, making his first mound appearance of the season, baffled hitters continuously with a sparkling three hit, fourteen strikeout showing. His control was excellent as he walked only one batter.

The YSU hitting attack was paced by second baseman Andy Saxon's perfect "3 for 3" day at the plate. Saxon also produced four RBIs for the afternoon. Zetts and freshman Dan Valentine each added a double and a single to the attack.

YSU's big inning occurred in the fifth when they sent nine men to the plate while scoring four runs on five hits. The big hit was Al DiRenzo's two run single.

On Sunday the Penguin Parade kept rolling when freshman Joe Sekora stopped John-Carroll on five hits in the opener of a twin bill. Sekora won his second game of the year in as many starts. Ron Kohl led the Penguins at the plate going "2 for 3" including a game winning three run home run. YSU was behind by 3-2 score when Kohl ripped his first home run of the season with two men abroad. The homer put YSU ahead to stay at 5-3.

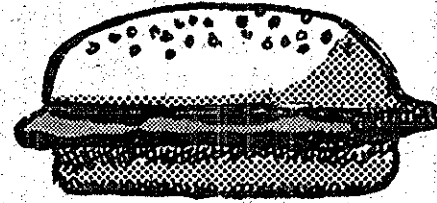

In the second half of the double header, sophomore Lee Rudibaugh proved to much for J-C to handle as Lee disposed of the opponents with a three hit, one run performance. Rudibaugh walked one batter in posting his initial victory of the campaign. Ron Kohl, sophomore outfielder from Austintown Fitch, let YSU's hitting by smashing two doubles.

YSU will bid to extend their unbeaten streak to ten games today as they travel to Municipal Stadium in Cleveland to take on Cleveland State. Coach Dom Rosselli will send junior ace Dave Dravecky to the mound for YSU. Dravecky sports a 2-0 record with a remarkable 0.00 earned run average. The Penguins will also be led by Andy Saxon with a .500 batting average, Mike Zaluski at .433 and Wayne Zetts at .414. Zetts also leads the team in runs batted in with eleven.

Game time is scheduled for 3 o'clock. On Thursday, YSU will return home at Pemberton to face Robert-Morris for a twin-bill. The Penguins will travel to meet Pitt-Johnston on Saturday.

Dravecky off to blazing start on mound for YSU

by Greg Gulas

If an award was passed out tomorrow for the most intense competitor on this year's baseball squad, perhaps the recipient of the first award would be Junior pitcher/outfielder Dave Dravecky.

A blue-chip professional prospect with the gutsiness and sensitivity to take to heart the job he performs, Dravecky's varied athletic background is proof of the competitiveness he displays.

As a junior in high school at Boardman, a bone disease in his left wrist known as Kienboch's disease prevented him from actively competing on the varsity level, a decision Dravecky could not accept. After diagnosed by the doctor, there loomed the possibility that Dave might not be able to perform any more during his scholastic career. However, through a gradual training program and the determination he displayed to want to get back into action, he fought back to eventually become the sixth man on coach Alan Burns' basketball team, a team which made it to the regional finals before bowing to all-stater Phil Hubbard and his Canton McKinley combine.

On another occasion, while playing in the New Castle North County League for Reynold's/Tanner's Mortuary, a collision at home plate in the fifth inning led to him being shelved for over six weeks with a broken wrist. The ironic thing about the whole incident, is that he finished the game with the injury and helped secure the lead that he had held before the accident.

On still another occasion, while jogging during the night, he accidentally ran into a stop sign which sprang back after he hit into it and tore the tissue in his leg, a wound which required 12 stitches to close. This is but another of the injuries which would alter his course of athletic competition.

To term him gutsy is an understatement for while sports to an athlete is the zest of life, to Dravecky, "It has been my guideline," he noted. "Everything I do is built around competition. I love to compete in all that I do," he added.

A well-built athlete with a 6'1", 205-pound frame, he has the natural talents to do everything well in any sport he participates. When 18 years old and playing for McAuley Awnings, he captured the Class "B" batting title with a .413 batting average, yet his greatest honor to date came last season when he led the nation (NCAA-Division II) in Earned Run Average with an 0.50 ERA, and was third in strikeouts per nine innings pitched with a 13 strikeout per game average. "I'd have to say that leading the nation in ERA and third in strikeouts is the most important honor I've received to date, yet it wouldn't have been me getting those laurels had it not been for my teammates," Dave said.

The above is typical of most good athletes and certainly in the case of Dravecky. He is not one to dwell on past success and is the first to point out that "you win with a team, not a bunch of individuals and Coach Rosselli has done a fine job this season of blending youth with veterans to achieve that balance," he added.

Dravecky has always been an interesting character and many times the things he does seem to carry a bit of the unreal with it. Last summer while playing for the

What to tell your folks when you decide to change your major.

Dear Mom and Dad—

No one was ever very successful at something he didn't believe in.

I'm no different.

For some time now, I've been plugging away at my major. My grades aren't bad. My teachers aren't bad. Everything's not bad. But for me, that's not good enough.

So I'm changing. I'm starting from scratch in a field that does excite me. I believe in it.
And I know deep down, I'll be better at it.
And happier at it.

I hope you're not disappointed in me.
I rather hope you're proud of me.
Let's talk about it when I get home.

Salug Gang in Class "AA," he had missed first five weeks of the season due to a broken left wrist. For most people, it would take another two weeks to work the wrist into shape. For Dave, when his cast came off on Friday, he was in the line-up on Sunday and while his team was down 1-0 in the bottom of the eighth, with two down and just one away from defeat, Dravecky cranked one out of the park at Victory field to knot the game at one apiece.

The rains then came and the game had to be replayed so the Salug Gang, on the strength of Dave's blast, was saved from dropping into second place in the standings. On that blast, teammate Bob Choppa called it "the turning point in our season." He may be candid at times, but more often than not expresses his emotion at when he feels he should have done better. It is perhaps for these reasons others look up to him for the feeling to strive to do better each time out seems to rub off on his teammates.

While a student at YSU, it hasn't been the greatest years of Dave's life but being afforded the chance to play ball has more than made up for the above shortcoming. "I'm not down on university life," he noted, "but the various cliques are a drawback to what many expect when they first come here. On the other hand, the friends and acquaintances I've made are ones I'll forever treasure and those that will last a lifetime." Dave said.

Michigan University, for instance, an 18-page excerpt from an FBI document secured under the Freedom of Information Act last fall revealed that an FBI informant had been reporting on the CMU chapter of the YSA. Campus security apparently had supplied the FBI contact the names, telephone numbers, addresses, and campus affiliations of certain students. Kent State students have charged that a former dean of student life there collected information on the Kent State YSA between 1965 and 1968.

Meanwhile, UP's Committee on Open Expression, a fact-finding group of administrators, faculty and students, has decided to investigate the growing controversy surrounding campus security's files. The committee currently is trying to obtain the files from Shultis.

"I'm not sure we can deal with prior behavior," said chairman of the committee Larry Gross. "Still, should there be disciplinary proceedings, our findings should be conclusive for the administration."

The YSA, which claims that the Committee on Open Expression has never found in favor of a student, is discussing legal action.
