Pat Morgan, Joe Ashton, Joe Phillips

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week - Nov. 19, Nov. 20 and Nov. 21; the three-act play "An Enemy of the People" will be presented in C.J. Strouss Auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m. The play will be produced and directed by Andrew Hamady, who has appeared in many playhouse and University productions. He has also done summer stock with the Peterborough Players, Peterborough, New Hampshire.

Curtains Going Up For YU

By Pat Riley

Ladies and gentlemen, we proudly present the house-lights dim the curtain opens the performance begins.

The audience becomes one with the actors on stage. Each holds his breath when the leading man forgets a line, each grimaces when a prop is accidentally dropped backstage, each cheers the hero and hates the villain.

'You laugh, you cry, you cheer, you boo, it all depends upon the play and the play depends on you.'

Opinions differ as to what makes a great actor. You may say sensitivity, you may say that the actor lives in a special world of fantasy, or you may agree with the majority who attribute it to that inordinate quality called HAM.

Actors Empty House

Whatever it is I'm sure you can understand that no actor good, bad, sensitive, or unrealistic enjoys playing to an empty house. Weeks, even months, go into that play that you enjoy for perhaps two hours. You depend on the actor to act; the actor depends on you to REACT.

In the coming weeks we will offer you a showcase of productions from which to choose. For the more ambitious among you we will also list a number of plays in Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Our own University Players will present Henrik Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People" adapted for the American stage by Arthur Miller, Nov. 19, 20, 21, at 8:00 p.m.

The first week of December they will do Theater in the Round, three one act plays produced in arena style theater. The plays are: William Sayoran's "Hello Out There", "Minor Miracle" by Vern Powers, and "The Boor" by Anton Chekov.

How true is the observation that nothing is quite so real; quite so exciting as that which we ourselves experience.

Assistant Director will be Gary Norris, who is a graduate of Youngstown U. and had a leading role in our production of "Dark of the Moon". Technical Director is James Sekinger; Dick Dubiel is scenic Designer. Richard Potter is Stage Manager. Vilma Terle is Business Manager.

Three former Ursuline High students have leading roles in the production. They are Joseph Ashton who played Clive Winton in last year's "See How They Run", John Ulloney appeared in our production of "The Boy Friend"; Pat Morgan is a freshman at the school.

James Grohl Has Lead

The leading male role is done by James Grohl of Niles, who has appeared in many Trumbull Theatre productions as well as having played in stock at Stockbridge, Mass. Jeanette Zemko who appeared in our shows of "You-Can't Take It With You", "Dear Brutus" and "Boy Friend", has a leading role. Carl R. Linder makes his college debut in this show and Joseph Phillips who did stock this past summer with the Kenley Players appears also. John Bishara plays a comedy role. The cast numbers 25 students.

"An Enemy of the People" was written by Henrik Ibsen and adapted for the American stage by Arthur Miller. Youngstown University will be the last group in the country to present the play as it is now being prepared for a return to Broadway. Andrew Hamady also appears in the production as 'Peter Stockmann'.

Tickets are $1.00 and students will be admitted by activity books.

SADIE HAWKINS DAY: Kappa Sigma Kappa members prepare for the carry'n on of Sadie Hawkins Day by dressing up in Dogpatch style. Dan "Hardluck Joe" Murphy, Ray "Tiny Yokum" Dolak, Karl "Hairless Joe" Butcher, Sonny "Gen. Bull Moose" Joseph and Tom "Lonesome Pole Cat" Glozer, Bill "Way Out Willie" Senn, and Dave "Henry Cabot Lard" McNicholas donned their Dogpatch Dressin' for the photographer.

CITY PLANNING COMMISSION'S RECOMMENDATION REGRETTABLE

A regrettable action was taken recently by the City Planning Commission. The City Planning Commission voted 5-1 on Tuesday, November 10, recommending a commercial zone change which would allow construction of engineering offices for Lombard Corporation at 631 Wick Avenue, south of the new IBM building and adjacent to Pollock House.

This recommendation is regrettable for several reasons. First, it limits the expansion of the cultural center that has developed in this area. The cultural center, the only one of its kind in the entire Mahoning Valley, has developed naturally over a long period of time. Attorney Theodore Cubbison, representing Youngstown University at the hearing stated, "... the Planning Commission should not be guilty of blocking the future development of the cultural area by extending commercial zoning." We wholeheartedly agree with Attorney Cubbison's statement.

The school is not alone in its opposition of this contemplated zone change. The Butler Institute of American Art, Reuben McMillan Free Library, and the various churches in this cultural area also are opposed to the zone change and were represented at the hearing.

City Council will have to hold another public hearing on the issue before it can act. We implore the students who live in the city of Youngstown to contact your councilman and express your sentiments about the proposed zone change. We feel that this interests every student enrolled at Youngstown University and warrants our immediate attention.

Another regrettable but noticeable feature of this recently held hearing and the vote was that two members of the City Planning Commission who are graduates of Youngstown University voted for the zone change. Dr. Jones frequently expresses his belief in the loyalty of our alumni. We wonder what he is thinking now.

Letter Suggests Religious Organizations Have Solution

Dear Mr. Editor:

It seems that over the past couple of weeks the student body has been disturbed by some of the activities on campus. An outbreak of football pools and heated misunderstandings between various organizations has captured the students' interest. It was gratifying to see most of the students condemning these unethical practices, but it was also tragic to observe the manner in which action was taken.

Greeks and independents alike were shocked by the existing situation. It was then dropped in the lap of Student Council. Something had to be done and regardless of the outcome, I am sure it wouldn't have satisfied all.

The real crime is the injustice that was done to the faculty who had to tolerate it; to each of the students who were harmed by it; and to the Student Council who were prevented from doing their job because of it. Everytime something of that particular nature arises the same procedure occurs and after all is done there still remains much animosity in the air.

Definitely A Problem

I am sure that this is definitely a problem. As to, who is at fault, who can say? If you as an individual have any real interest or desire to help matters toward a solution, I suggest:

There are two organizations on campus created for the sole purpose of strengthening our moral behavior. These organizations were established on our campus by the school administration as a tool for each of us to use, therefore if we don't use this tool we can't possibly derive much good from it. The two organizations I refer to are your Newman Club and

R.I.L. You may ask how can these organizations solve such a problem? The answer is this. If each student was to take it upon himself to attend meetings set up by R.I.L. and Newman and participate in planned activities, he might learn that "the other guy isn't so bad after all!"

I believe that much of the past and previous dissension is due to nothing more than ignorance as to whether or not the other person or group is capable of pulling something underhanded and because of our lack of more personal contact, we assume that they are capable of such.

Religious Atmosphere

What better way can people get acquainted with one another than through a religious atmosphere. Those few persons who would use their position on campus to promote their own selfish interest and those others who would do something underhanded to achieve a certain goal might learn how distasteful their traits are. The invisible wall of mistrust between

Teaching In Foreign Lands Offered

The Advancement and Placement Institute, urges all American educators who are able to do so to take advantage of the many opportunities to teach in foreign lands both for the contributions they can make in interpreting our country abroad and for the enriching experiences in international understanding they can bring to our students in this country upon their return to the schools of the United States.

The Institute, a non-commercial professional information and advisory service for the field of education, has been publicizing foreign educational positions in its monthly non-fee placement journal, CRUSADE FOR EDUCATION, since 1952. Last year the Institute assisted administrators in hundreds of over-seas schools in more than 65 countries in Europe, the Near and Far East, Africa, and South America, to recruit American educators for positions at all levels from kindergarten through university.

While every issue of CRUSADE includes many overseas opportunities, the next issue, the annual International Issue, will be especially devoted to foreign positions in order to give educators ample time to complete application procedure for September 1960 positions. This International Issue will include specific data, including qualifications and salaries, about actual teaching, administrative, librarian, research, and science positions in many schools in many lands. Among those included will be private schools in Australia, Canada, England, Japan and Switzerland; American-type schools in Austria, Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador, Guatemala, Mexico, Puerto Rico, and Venezuela; universities in England, Hong Kong, and Mexico; language schools in Spain; church-related schools and colleges in Africa, Hong Kong, Jamaica, and Jordan; public schools in Australia, Canada, and England; high schools in Jamaica; U.S. Government Overseas Dependent Schools, etc.

Pay Travel Expenses

Many of these positions pay travel expenses and, in most cases, the language of instruction is English. This issue will also feature an article on teaching and living in Colombia and an article describing the experiences of a teacher who has lived and taught in the Government Dependent Schools in Okinawa, the Philippines, Cuba, and the Azores.

The International Issue may be examined at most Deans' Offices, University and Public Libraries, and School Superintendents' Offices or may be ordered from The Advancement and Placement Institute, Box 99-M, Station G, Brooklyn 22, N.Y. for $2.00.

Now is the best time to begin application procedure for foreign education positions. Many educators wait until it is too late to investigate the opportunities available to them overseas. As a result, they often have to wait an entire extra year in order to be accepted for a foreign assignment.

Education Class Attends Conference

The Education 434 class, "Teaching The Severely Mentally Retarded", taught by Mrs. Bertha Martin, recently attended a conference at the Newton D. Baker Memorial Building, Western Reserve University, sponsored by the Mental Development Center of W.R.U., in collaboration with The Woods Schools, Langhorne, Pennsylvania. Those students attending with Mrs. Martin were Mrs. Lucille Baldwin, Mrs. Doris Olynke, Mrs. Elizabeth Lupoo, and Mrs. Hilda Lewis.

The conference is known as the Northeastern Ohio Institute on Mental Retardation.

NEWLAND

ON SOVIET NEWSMEN

Congress shall make no law prohibiting the freedom of speech or of the press . . . thus, in the United States freedom of the press is guaranteed by our Constitution. American newspapers are free to print whatever they choose without any previous license, but they are held responsible for what they print; this is their only restriction.

In the Soviet Union freedom of the press is quite a different thing. Soviet newspapers freedom consists of furthering the Communist cause and nothing more.

Soviet News Congress

Seven hundred and fifty-one representatives of the 60,000 newspaper men in Russia met in Moscow's Hall of Columns last week for the first nation-wide meeting of Soviet newsmen.

Although there may have been 750 newsmen present at the Congress, there was obviously only one reporter doing his job. The same single story describing the news conference appeared in all major Soviet newspapers relating it as "a glorious and exciting congress."

Aim of Soviet Reporter

A leading Soviet-newsmen explained the purpose of Russian reporters with these words: "we are not simply men with notebooks, not analysts indifferent to good and evil, but passionate agitators, propagandists and when the situation demands it we can be organizers as well."

Evidently this particular reporter practices what he preaches as evidenced by his report of a special message from the Central Committee of the Communist party; "once again the hall shook with thunderous applause and hearty cheers."

Leninist Traditions

The Soviet newsmen voted unanimously to promote and develop the Leninist traditions of party spirit and mass spirit of the Soviet press, radio and television. They also resolved to give all their strength to the great task of the struggle for communism.

It is a striking coincidence that the night preceding the news conference, Pravda, the organ of the Central Committee, reported that the congress would vote to create a Soviet union of journalists, "to safeguard and multiply the Leninist traditions of partisanship and the mass character of the Soviet press." And they did.

Pravda went on to say that the party and people regard the Soviet journalist as primarily a political worker.

The keynote address of the congress was given by Pavel A. Satyukov, the editor of Pravda. He elaborated on the Leninist "traditions" by saying that "the Soviet press was devoted to Marxist-Leninist principles and to truth and that it was irreconcilable in the struggle against bourgeois ideology, ideological vacillations and revisionism."

Poor Sales

One of the major problems faced by the newspaper congress was the fact that although newspaper and magazine circulation has been steadily increasing in the past years a large quantity of publications have remained unsold.

This obvious waste of paper worried the party. The reason for it was the fact that certain newspapers and magazines did not meet readers' requirements as to their content.

The party plans to alleviate this problem by applying pressure to the Ministry of Communications and publishing organizations to "bring order" to circulation and distribution trouble spots. The party ordered the elimination of magazines and newspapers that didn't sell, restriction of other publications to subscription sales and working out of contracts that will make publishers financially responsible for copies returned from the newsstands.

The party also plans to step up sales in post offices, trains, subways and rural stores.

The Progressives

As it is now the Russian people will continue to read the dead, dry propaganda associated with the Soviet newspaper. Salvation of these papers may take place if the ideas of the "progressives" are adopted.

The "progressives" urge more "journalistic mastery" and professional skill, more feature stories and more attention to the seven-year plan and the young workers' brigades competing to fulfill it.

If this is freedom of the press in the Soviet Union I'm glad I'm in the United States where freedom of the press means more than being a propaganda machine for the government.

Y.U. CAGERS SET FOR KENT STATE, DEC. 1

Loss of Lake, Cramer, Gordon Causes Rosselli to Rebuild Pero, Wolf, Tupper, Nagy Among Many New Hoopsters on Freshman Squad

By Paul Jagnow
(Jambar sports editor)

As the 1959 grid season bows out this week, Coach Dom Rosselli will be tacking the finishing touches on the 59-60 version of the Penguin basketball squad in preparation for the cage opener with Kent State University, Dec. 1. Youngstown hardwood artists will compete in 23 contests this year, plus a special feature, the Quincy Tournament, which takes place over the Christmas holidays at Quincy Illinois.

Rosselli has been faced with the problem of rebuilding the foundation of his team, having lost such mainstays as rebounding ace, Herb Lake, Jim Cramer and the elusive Jim "Beanie" Gordon. Lake was a graduation loss, while Cramer and Gordon are serving time with Uncle Sam.

Wilsonite Figures As Key Man For Penguins

Returning to the cage spotlight again this year will be Mickey Yugovich, Howie McElroy, Roy Taylor and Bob Chuey.

Yugovich, who is a product of Youngstown's Woodrow Wilson High, has been holding down a forward position with the Penguins for the last four years and is sure to be one of Rosselli's key men again this year. Mickey has accumulated 1388 points during his career at Y.U. and is the only member of Youngstown's "Top Ten All Time Scorers", that is still on the squad. The 6-6 Yugovich socked through 495 points during league play last year to pace the Penguins in the scoring bracket.

Taylor, McElroy, Day Are Probable Starters

To all outward appearances, Roy Taylor has nailed down one of the two guard positions. The 5-10 cager from New York City is starting his fourth year on the varsity team. Taylor figured in 26 games last season and racked up 155 points.

Stepping into the other guard position is Howie McElroy, a 5-11 sophomore hailing from Youngstown South High. McElroy chalked up 222 points in 27 tilts, last year, sinking 91 baskets of 204 attempts for a 44% percentage.

Filling the center position left vacant by Lake, will be Charlie Day, a 6-6 specimen that graduated from Pittsburgh's Schenley High. Day was active on the freshman squad, last season, and will be making his debut on the varsity ticket.

The forward slot left open by Jim Cramer on his departure to the Armed Forces, will probably be filled by Bob Chuey, a 6-2 hoopster from Brownsville, Pa. Chuey who saw only limited play last season, should add his share of buckets to the scoring.

New Freshmen Have Promising Look

To aid the rebuilding problem, Coach Rosselli has gleaned the elite of area cage personalities and has accumulated a very promising array of freshmen.

Vying for a center position on the varsity troup is Jack Tupper, a product of Hartford, Ohio, who stands 6-5 and was an outstanding hardwood artist in high school.

Richard Nagy from Brookfield, Ohio is a 6-4 contender for a forward position on the varsity five and has shown much promise as a college cager.

Tony Pero, another hopeful, from Meadville, Pa., will be attempting to secure himself a guard position along with Bill Wolf, a freshman hailing from Church Hill, Ohio.

Youngstown will play 10 colleges, in both home and away-tilts. This type of "You scratch my back and

DOM ROSSELLI

"I'll scratch yours" scheduling is common in many colleges and universities.

Penguins Shattered Many Records Last Season

A total of 2385 points was scored by the Penguins last season, establishing a new school record. The locals also created a new record for the number of points scored in one game, by running up the total to 112 against Marietta. Last year's cagers also shattered the record for the most field goals in one game, against Marietta, when they tallied on 49 attempts.

THE LOCKER ROOM

By Pete Arlow
(Jambar sports columnist)

The Penguins tied the University of Toledo 8-8 in Thursday night's game at Rayen Stadium.

It seemed as if the tables had turned when the Rockets had one T.D. called back on a penalty and were stopped four times inside the ten yard line by the stubborn local defense.

Although the Penguins struck hard and fast early in the first stanza, they couldn't seem to muster enough power for another sustained drive to paydirt. The lone T.D. came on a Green to Ceremuga aerial. A Green pass to team captain Tom Smolanovich provided the locals with the extra two markers.

Ceremuga Stars

Paul Ceremuga, Penguin right halfback, wrapped up his college football career, demonstrating his pass snagging ability throughout the entire game.

Thus far Y.U. has managed to pullout a 4-4-1 record for the season, with only one tilt left on the agenda, Akron University. Although this record may seem only mediocre, one must consider factors such as the stiff competition and numerous injuries before passing judgement on the Penguins.

The going has been rough throughout the entire season and Y.U. should have won a number of games that they lost. On the other hand, Youngstown has entered a number of games as under dogs, and ended up by fooling everyone and emerging victorious. Among these upsets were such notable teams as Gustavus-Adolphus and Tennessee State. There have been no games in which the Penguins have not put forth an all out effort, whether in a winning or losing cause.

Torso Tee

There is a Herculean character in the locker room by the name of Pat Ungaro. Pat is an avid indulger in the art of weightlifting - and has the physique to prove it. His famous "Torso Tee shirts" show the lines of Pat's magnificent build, of which he is very proud.

It is very seldom that one can combine the fine qualities of a quarterback and those of Charles Atlas at the same time. This reporter and the rest of the Locker Room crew salute you, Pat, for being so proficient in both of your endeavors, especially the one that entitles you to be known as the "Hercules of the Locker Room."

Penguins-Rockets Battle to 8-8 Deadlock

Youngstown University, bothered by injuries through most of the week, turned in an outstanding defensive performance while battling favored Toledo to an 8-8 stalemate at Rayen Stadium last week.

The home finale for a host of seniors, the game produced plenty of exciting moments, especially during the first half when the Youngstown line had to slum back two Toledo penetrations inside the 10 yard line.

One of them reached the one yard line where a fourth down try by 240 pound Jack Campbell, Toledo fullback, failed to bust through Tom Majorsky, Pete Arlow, Larry Jordan, Neil Richter, Tom Smolanovich, Dick Lewis and Bill Davidson.

Youngstown quarterback Harold Green got the Penguins' touchdown through the air on a five yard toss to Paul Ceremuga. Green, bothered by injuries to both hands, toured the area with an assortment of passes to Ceremuga and Green for the score. Green tossed to Smolanovich for the two points, all this coming in the first period.

Toledo's marker came in the second quarter on a 38 yard pass, Jerry Stoltz to big Bob Smith, a 6-4 lad from Warren, Ohio. Stoltz used the air lanes for the equalizing points.

Ohio Hunting Shifts Into High Gear

By Paul Jagnow
(Jambar sports editor)

Last Monday saw many vacant seats in Youngstown U's classrooms as students swapped their books and pencils for shotguns and ammo and headed for the open fields to inaugurate the 1959 upland game season.

Nov. 16 marked the open season on rabbit, pheasant, Hungarian partridge, opossum, raccoon and finally - after more than 40 years - the bobwhite quail.

Nimrods are permitted to take four cottontails per day, with a limit of 8 in possession after the first day. Contrary to the policy of past years, sportsmen will be able to hunt rabbit on Dec. 10, 11 and 12, when deer is being hunted with shotguns and rifled slug.

Quail hunting will be allowed on State owned and operated property only. A limit of six per day has been placed on the bobwhite, with a possession limit of 12, after the initial day.

Three Day Season

Ohio's deer season for firearms runs three days again, as usual, Dec. 10, 11 and 12. When hunting deer don't get too greedy as you are only permitted one a year. The deer season for the bow and arrow enthusiasts is well under way, having begun Oct. 15. It will close on Dec. 31.

Restricted Quail Hunting

Nimrods hunting the bobwhite quail are again cautioned to be sure that the land that they are on is authorized by the state. Areas in and around Mahoning County on which quail can be hunted are: The Berlin Reservoir area, Grand River area, Lake Park and Zepernick Lake in Columbiana County. For those hunters that are brave enough, to try 'em, all public hunting areas are posted with black and yellow signs.

Permission Required

For those that prefer to hunt on private farmlands, remember that you must have the land-owners written permission first.

A word to the wise: Whenever firearms are concerned, the best safety is between a man's ears.

NOSMO KING

Campus Philosopher

by Frank Court
(Jambar feature writer)

During the course of our years at the university, we will come in contact with many types of disagreeable people. But by far, the one that will seem the most disagreeable is the type known as the college social climber.

What is a college social climber? Nosmo King offers this definition: A college social climber is a person that spends three hours a day studying and 12 hours trying to influence people and nourish his already oversized ego.

Nosmo cites the case of Hyacinth Anthropoid as an example of hopeless addiction to social climbing.

Hyacinth entered Nuttsta U. the year after her graduation from high school. At first, college life seemed strange to her. She was lonely and spent a great deal of time seeking friendship.

After weeks of observation, she discovered that more than anything else, she desired to become a social climber. How she envied them, sitting in the Coffee Bar, each one trying desperately to outdo the other and raise his social position on campus.

Hyacinth decided that studies and classes were secondary and that if she wanted to become a true social climber, she would have to lose interest in her subjects, discard her humility, be friendly only to the people that could do her some good, practice corrupt campus politics and spend at least eight hours a day in the Coffee Bar.

She tried, but to no avail. Hyacinth couldn't become a social climber. Week after week she sat in the Coffee Bar practicing her tactics but alas nobody paid any attention to her. Discouraged, Hyacinth turned toward outside guidance. She consulted a man whose destiny it is to replace the bartender -- The psychoanalyst.

A Social Problem

After a brief questioning period, the psychoanalyst hypnotized Hyacinth and began to search her subconscious for some clue to her disturbed condition.

"Relate to me all the social problems you have experienced?" asked the analyst.

"I remember," began Hyacinth, "that as a child I was very self-conscious because I had two protruding front teeth."

"How did this effect your social standing?" asked the analyst.

"It made me very popular," remarked Hyacinth. "My little friends used me for a bottle opener."

"Enough of your social problems," snapped the psychoanalyst. "Tell me something about your dreams."

"Ah yes, my dreams," answered Hyacinth. "That's the strange part." "For the past several weeks all I dream about is spending time in the Coffee Bar." "Every time I fall asleep, there I am, sitting in the Coffee Bar."

"Don't you ever dream about anything else?" inquired the analyst. "For instance, don't you ever dream about going to a movie or reading a good book, or graduating from college Magna Cum Laude?"

"Are you kidding!" shouted Hyacinth, "and risk by social position on campus?"

With that, the psychoanalyst released Hyacinth from the hypnotic trance and sent her back to the college. He could do nothing for her. Poor girl, her case was hopeless. Hyacinth would never become a social climber.

Hyacinth didn't let her failure affect her outlook on life. She couldn't become a social climber so she did the next best thing. She graduated.

Let's Talk About Clothes

By Pat McCarren

Introducing . . . the Young Men's Department of Strouss-Hirshberg's, located on the Mezzanine. The purpose of this department is to provide a place for the fashion-conscious young man to receive advice and select his clothes in keeping with today's new styles.

This separate department is in existence for several reasons. First, the overall build of today's young man differs from that of the previous generation. The average young man today is taller and more slender than his father. He needs clothes that are cut longer and narrower in order to look his best.

Second, a younger person is more aware of changing trends in style, and he has the desire to keep pace with these changes. The conventional men's department does not feature these new ideas in clothes in the quantity necessary to satisfy the desires of the young man.

Third, the college man and the young man in the business world wishes to purchase his clothes at a low price without sacrificing quality in order that he may have a more extensive wardrobe.

The young Men's Department answers these needs . . . high-fashion clothes, cut to fit the stature of the younger man, at a price he can easily afford. In coming weeks this column will feature the clothes we have to offer in the Young Men's Department, such as the new Continental look in suits, slacks, sport coats and shirts, shawl type collar sweaters, clothes for the tall man, and advice on dress. Remember, a well dressed man gives a good impression to others as well as giving himself a feeling of personal pride and self-confidence. In the meantime, stop in and talk with Stan Lerner or myself, and look over the latest styles in suits, slacks, sport coats, ties, shirts and accessories.

Letter to Editor

organizations would be broken and Greek and Independents would find that they do have a common interest after all.

Those of you that feel interest in R.I.L. and Newman isn't for the "big wheels on campus" and that you may be labeled as "out of it" by taking part, will be interested to know that our school, back in 1908, was founded through a christian organization . . . The Y.M.C.A.

If you really want to do something to assist the school, yourself and the various student body organizations you belong to, find out what R.I.L. and Newman have planned for you this Sunday and attend.

Sig Tau's Elect Joyce Billy New Freshman Sweetheart

JOYCE BILLY

Miss Joyce Billy, a freshman majoring in elementary education, was named the Freshman Sweetheart of the Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity at the annual Sig Tau Stomp, Saturday evening, Nov. 14th.

Miss Billy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Billy, 133 Princess St., received a gift from the fraternity and was presented a trophy by last year's Sweetheart, Miss Elinor Walsh, during the intermission of the dance.

The Brothers of Sigma Tau Gamma picked Miss Billy as their Sweetheart from a group of twenty possible candidates. She was a '59 graduate of Campbell Memorial High School where she reigned as the Senior Class Queen and was elected to the National Honor Society.

Miss Billy, a brown eyed brunette, picks bowling, swimming and tennis as her favorite hobbies and plans, for the future, a career as an elementary teacher.

Thomas Knight and Richard Moskowsky served as co-chairmen for the dance.
