Honor Seminar to offer year long creative behavior class

by Greg Garramone

The University is offering a year-long Honors Seminar, beginning next Winter quarter. The topic of the course, which will run to the end of Fall quarter, 1978, is "Stimulating Creative Behavior." The seminar will be team-taught by Dr. Joseph Altinger, Math; Dr. Gilbert Atkinson, Psychology; and Dr. Stephen Sniderman, English.

The University Honors Seminar is an interdisciplinary course which covers a topic of general interest. Although it is open to all students, it is recommended that a student interested in the course possess at least a 3.0 GPA. Topics previously discussed in the seminar include "Peace and War" and "Foreign Policy Simulation."

This year's course will be designed to provide insight into the creative process, to teach a creative problem-solving method and help students apply it to the demands of this course, other courses, and other aspects of their life, and to encourage students to participate actively in the educational process.

"We're going to try to give the students a mental framework for attacking problems," says Altinger. "We'll be doing exercises from the Guide to Creative Action and Creative Actionbook, two related texts developed at the University of Buffalo and used in the undergraduate creativity program there. The first two quarters will consist primarily of group discussions and projects. Then during the second quarter, students will get a chance to put all their newly acquired creative techniques to work in planning out an individual project which they will carry out in the third quarter.

Interested students should contact one of the instructors - Dr. Altinger, Dr. Sniderman, or Dr. Atkinson for more information. The course will meet Winter quarter from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays, and from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Wednesdays.

"Too often in education we give a student a problem, and theories to solve those problems, and that's it. We overlook the aspect of creativity in the problem-solving process, the fact that one creative step can be of infinitely more help than just plugging values into formulas. We want to get people to come out with those original steps."

In order to get credit for the course, students must complete the work for all three quarters. The ratio for the 9 hours of credit varies according to the area the student chooses to plan the third-quarter project. "That project can be anything from working in a mill and writing about it, to watching trees grow, whatever is creative to the student," Altinger said.

Three faculty are ordered to pay $118 service fee to YSU-OEA

Dr. Robert H. Secrist, English, Dr. Joan Philipp, health and physical education and John Ritter, civil engineering, have been ordered to pay $118 each to the Ohio Education Association for service fees ruled Common Pleas Judge Sidney Rigelhaupt Wednesday.

The suit was filed last year against the three YSU professors who said that paying this fee was a violation of their constitutional rights.

In a similar case recently Rigelhaupt ruled that 18 YSU plaintiffs would not have to pay the service fee because they had signed a contract with a union dues checkoff clause.

However Secrist, Philipp and Ritter signed a contract knowing they were expected to pay the service fee Rigelhaupt said in his ruling. These three had signed contracts for 1975-76.

Rigelhaupt said since they had signed the contract knowing this, it was not a violation of their constitutional rights.

The defendants were ordered to pay $118 each for their 1975-76 dues.

Dr. Dan O'Neill, YSU-OEA president, said, "What we're seeing here is a question of principles. The agency fee is legiti-mate. The question is the mechanism as to how it is collected."

O'Neill said that Rigelhaupt's decision is not concerned with the legitimacy of the agency fee, which he does in fact feel is legitimate, according to O'Neill, but the question arises as to how this fee should be collected.

Under the old contract, O'Neill explained, faculty were obliged to pay the service fee. The new contract however, states permission must be given by the faculty member in order the University to deduct this service fee from their paychecks. Secrist, Philipp and Ritter have signed under the old contract, whereas the Rigelhaupt's other recent ruling was in favor of 19 faculty covered under the new contract.

Council to have table

Day care need survey set

Starting tomorrow and all through registration Student Council will have a table set up in the Maag Library to conduct a survey concerning day care needs at YSU.

Student Council formed this Day Care Center Committee to see if there was an actual need for a day care program on campus. Council is asking for student input and they need student opinions in order to see if the day care program is necessary.

Those students who are interested and those who are affected by the program are asked by council to take part in the survey and answer a few questions about their personal needs for the Day Care Program.

The survey will decide if any new programs should be added for the Center.

Advisement policy change is effective winter quarter

A recent change in YSU advisement policy "will affect about 49 per cent of the entire undergraduate student body and I'm very concerned that most students aren't aware of the new advisement procedure," said Dr. James A. Scriven, dean of advisement and records.

According to Scriven the new advisement procedure requires all freshmen, first quarter transfer students, former students returning to the University, and all students whose grade point average is below 2.00 to obtain their advisors signatures on registration advisement sheets. Previously, advisor's signatures were only required for incoming freshmen, transfer students and students not in good-standing.

The policy change which is effective this winter quarter, was passed last May, by the Deans Council. The council reviewed the findings of an ad-hoc committee which was appointed to study the old regulation. The Council determined from the study that the old regulation was causing students problems in regards to degree requirements.

"Most of the problems centered around student decisions, usually during the first two years of enrollment, to take courses which did not count toward their degree," said Scriven.

"Many of our students who did not previously have to consult an advisor will have to under the new policy," Scriven said, and in effort to stress the importance of the change, Scriven said everyone should know who his or her advisor is, and anyone without an advisor can contact their department chairperson.

CAMPUS SHORTS

Guest Day

Case Western Reserve University is sponsoring a guest day for candidates interested in library science at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 12 in the Allen Memorial Library on the Case campus. They are seeking senior students who would be interested in one year professional training at the end of which they will be awarded a MS in Library Science. Please contact the Placement Office if you are interested in this program.

JA Management Seminar

An expected 600 high school students converge on YSU this Saturday (Nov. 5) for a management training seminar sponsored by Junior Achievement.

JA spokesmen say the main thrust of the one day seminar will concentrate on teaching students job-seeking skills. It will also offer panel discussions concerning different career paths and it will receive University input from the YSU career planning and placement office, in addition to personnel from the YSU offices of admissions and secretarial sciences.

The seminar from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. will be held in the YSU Kilcawley Center.

The Struggle

The Struggle, a coffee house sponsored by the Organization for Women's Liberation, will be presenting Alice and Staughton Lynd, editors of the book Rank and File, in Room 216 Kilcawley Center at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 5. Staughton Lynd will be discussing "The Unions' struggle with management's misuse of natural resources." A showing of the film Union Maids will accompany their presentations.

Hours Shortened

Due to excessively high utility costs, Butler Institute of American Art is to shorten open hours to five daily, 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Sunday hours will be 12:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. and the Museum will be closed on Mondays as usual.

This change begins immediately, and will continue on an experimental basis until May, 1978. Admission continues to be free.

Graduate Assistantships

Five additional graduate assistantships have been announced for the 1977-78 academic year at YSU. The appointments were made public by Dr. Leon Rand, dean of graduate studies and research.

New assistants in the Department of Management are: Paul W. Smith, 657 Elm St., Youngstown and Sathranarayan Setty, 224 W. Wood, Youngstown.

Working as an assistant in the Department of Civil Engineering will be Phillip Krupa, 3677 Neilson Ave., Youngstown.

In the Department of Chemical Engineering and Materials Science; Khosrow Delalat, 2230 S. Raccoon Rd., Youngstown.

Finally, Ms. Marguerite I. Higbee will be joining the Department of Guidance and Counseling.

Similar practices followed on purchase of used books

The three YSU area bookstores have different philosophies but similar practices concerning the buying and selling of used books.

"We pride ourselves in paying the highest price for used books," states Garth Wilkinson, student employee of University Book & Supply. The book must be hard bound and on next quarter's booklist. Then, depending on the condition of the book, the bookstore's policy is to pay up to 50 percent of the new book price.

The bookstore management has a used book quota said Wilkinson. The quota varies with each book and depends on the number of students enrolled in a class. The number of new books the store has on hand for a class and the knowledge of how many books for a class were sold during past quarters are also taken into consideration.

If a used book is bought by the bookstore for 50 percent, the book is then sold for 75 percent of the new book price said Wilkinson.

Fred Mazzocco, part owner of Campus Book & Supply, said "we pay the least we can" for used books. The bookstore doesn't have a quota, but the book must be on next quarter's booklist. Up to 50 percent of the new book price is paid for hard bound and 33 and one-third percent for soft bound books.

A used book purchased for 50 percent is sold for 75 percent of the new book price said Mazzocco. A used soft bound book is sold for about 60 percent of the new book price.

George B. Conner, director of bookstore services at YSU said that "we buy all the used books we can," if they are on next quarter's booklist and in good condition.

Conner said hard bound and good quality soft bound used books are bought for 50 percent of the new book price. These books are sold for 75 percent of the new book price.

The poorer quality soft bound books are bought for 40 percent of the new book price and sold for 60 percent of the new book price.

A 25 percent profit is necessary for the YSU bookstore to break even, states Conner. The bookstore must be self supporting; it cannot use state funds. Each of the bookstore's 12 full-time employees must receive wages according to their state classification.

Every year, Conner said, he must submit a budget for the coming year to the University administration for approval. The budget includes wages, supplies, equipment, repairs, utilities, and everything the bookstore needs except rent and janitorial services.

All the three area bookstore spokesmen complained that the rapid change of textbooks makes dealing with used books very difficult. Conner said that everyone could benefit if YSU had a policy that a textbook would be adopted for a minimum of two years.

Conner said that "everybody gains with used books; everybody except the publishers."

Political Apathy

The attitude of brushing politics off as it were a tainted subject seems to be in vogue.

College students often feign disinterest in politics, many times because of a lack of knowledge on the subject. Or else they hide under their text books, claiming that since they are still only students those elected as Mayor or Councilman are of no importance to them.

Government, especially city government, is not some inanimate object that has little effect on the average person's life.

YSU is an urban university, bounded on the south by the downtown area and on the north by the freeway.

University problems such as parking and further campus expansion often hinge on the relationship that the University shares with city officials.

Voting and participating in government should not be viewed just as abstract gestures of flag-waving days long gone.

With government beginning to control more and more of our lives, being aware of and having some input into the system is more important than ever before.

Letters:

A Modern Crisis

To the editor of the Jambar:

Man was a clever animal. He could make things. These things became extensions of his body. He could run with wheels, fight with swords, think with concepts. In fact, things were so valuable to man that he soon made them more valuable than man. Now, man is an extension of The Thing. Will man regain his lost sense of values before The Thing destroys him? Maybe it's already too late!

This, I feel, is the modern crisis which Dr. Eshleman's book A New World Ideology has tried to resolve. Whether or not you agree with his solution, I think we should all give him credit for being human. Perhaps if all of us would stop trying not to be human we would be the solution.

Trap Rap:

PRO . . .

by Mike Pernice

"No trapper wants to torture an animal," says Boots Bell, prominent Youngstown area disc jockey, outdoorsman and instructor of telecommunications at YSU.

Bell, who admits to not having trapped since he was a little boy, says he is not in favor of Issue Two. The issue seeks to ban the use of the leghold trap in the state of Ohio utilizing a constitutional amendment.

Bell points out that Ohio is the second largest state in terms of income derived from trapping. According to Bell, the money totals $50 million dollars annually. Bell also believes that the leghold trap is a "nuts and bolts" issue which does not merit a constitutional amendment. He charges that the proponents of the measure have not been able to get a bill passed through the state legislature so they intend to have it placed as an amendment.

As far as the trap itself, Bell maintains there is no pain involved because the trap has no teeth. He says he gives demonstrations to various groups and he often releases the trap on his fingers to show that there is no pain. However, he does admit that a minimal amount of pain is felt when the trap first closes.

In addition, Bell points out that the amount of time an animal spends in a trap is minimal. According to state law, a trap line must be checked once every 24 hours. Bell maintains that the regulations are stringently enforced.

The laws that govern trapping in the state of Ohio also forbid the setting of traps near pets or other domestic animals, according to Bell. Moreover, Bell maintains that a child would not be hurt by a leghold trap if he inadvertently steps into one.

According to Bell, trapping is used to control disease. He says that this is promoted by both federal and state gaming agencies. The disease most prevalent with wild animals is rabies.

Bell maintains that the people who criticize the harvesting of animals are the same persons who eat steaks that used to go MOO, and also those people who wear leather goods. Furthermore, Bell asserts that people would be astonished at the situations in slaughterhouses and at operations where pigs are castrated to produce more meat.

"The leghold trap is an old device but we haven't come up with anything better for the same dollars," says Bell. He maintains that the quick-kill traps can only be used for nonharvestable animals because the pelt cannot be saved.

Bell maintains that there is an issue over the leghold trap because well-meaning people who are partially informed or misinformed are looking at one form of animal harvesting and taking an emotional rather than a logical stand. He maintains that these people become emotional because they have never been close to the out-of-doors.

What will happen if Issue Two is approved by the voters and becomes a constitutional amendment? Bell feels that there will be four effects. First, there will be no harvesting of animals. Secondly, this lack of harvesting will cause an overpopulation of animals. Third, the trapping industry in Ohio would die. Finally, in the long run people would suffer. According to Bell, "rich people don't trap because it's hard work."

Bell did have some comments on the media blitz that the proponents are currently waging. "They are a slap at every man who takes to the field to pursue a legitimate sport."

Bell comments on the one ad which depicts a red fox struggling to release himself from a leghold trap. He says the particular trap is illegal because it is the wrong size.

Bell says that the whole issue was approached on the wrong level. The law was not written by a professional - it was just laced together. Bell foresees a hundred legal tangles in an already over crowded court system.

Trap Rap:

CON . . .

by T. Geoffrey Gay

Florida, Hawaii, Massachusetts, Switzerland, England, Ireland, West Germany, Denmark, Norway, Austria and Chile have all banned the use of leghold traps in hunting. This election day, Ohio will have the chance to do the same.

The Ohio Committee for Humane Trapping (OCHT) is urging everyone to vote "Yes" on Issue Two, the proposed constitutional amendment to the Ohio Constitution that would ban the use of leghold traps in hunting.

According to a fact sheet put out by the committee, the leghold traps are a particularly cruel way of trapping because they cause the animal extreme pain. The jaws of the trap close on the leg or paw of the animal when the animal steps into it.

Sometimes the force of the trap breaks the animal's leg. The OCHT fact sheet states that "as the animal struggles to free itself, the jaws of the trap tear into the flesh, causing extreme pain and fear."

The statement goes on to say that animals caught in such traps "may also swallow fragments of their own bodies, such as broken teeth, fur or claws, in their attempts to free themselves of the trap."

Another frightening aspect of the leghold trap, according to the Society for Animal Protective Legislation (SAPL), is that it traps not only wild animals, but pets and children, too.

In a SAPL reprint of a speech given by Maryland physician Dr. John Beary, Dr. Beary relates the experience of one of his patients who was injured by a leghold trap:

"The patient is a 4-year-old right handed girl who sustained a crush injury to her right hand as a result of getting it caught in a No. 2 leghold trap that had been set near her home," explains Dr. Beary. "The injury caused disruption of the tendons in the three involved fingers, necessitating reconstructive surgery. Her outlook for complete recovery is limited and she will likely always have impairment of fine motor skills in that hand."

The International Fund for Animal Welfare (IFAW) discounts the claim that the leghold trap is necessary to control rabies. In their information on the bill they point out that in 1973 the National Academy of Sciences recommended that trapping campaigns to control rabies should be abolished.

The IFAW also reports that the President's Council on Environmental Quality as recently as 1975 could find no evidence that passage of a bill prohibiting leghold traps would in any way increase the prevalence of rabies in wildlife populations.

The Ohio Committee for Humane Trapping assures that the bill is not designed to hinder trappers or act as "the first step in the domino theory," aimed at bringing to an end outdoor recreations such as hunting, trapping and fishing.

The bill seeks only to outlaw a trapping practice that the committee sees as "a blot of inhumanity." Anyone who finds himself in agreement with such a view is urged to vote "yes" on Issue Two.

Pro-Con voter guide to four state issues

The League of Women Voters of Ohio presents this guide to provide the voter with factual information on the four state issues on the November ballot. They have tried to clarify these constitutional amendments by presenting arguments for and against each issue on an objective manner, giving equal treatment to each issue. This guide is intended to assist you in accepting or rejecting the issues according to your own judgment after weighing the arguments. Copies of this guide are available from the League Office.

Issue 1

Election Day Registration

Explanation: This spring the state legislature made major changes in Ohio law for registering voters. The proposed amendment would invalidate several sections of the new law but would not repeal it entirely. It has been placed on the ballot by initiative petition by citizens opposed to the new law.

The amendment would require voters to register 30 days before an election. Registration at the polls on election day would thus be eliminated. Reporting change of name or address at the polls would not be allowed either. Also this requirement would replace the new 21-day registration deadline with the same 30-day deadline in effect before the new law was passed. Registration by mail would still be permitted, however, prior to the 30-day deadline.

Previously registration lists were checked annually and names of persons who had not voted in the past two years were removed. The new law makes registration permanent. No names will be purged for not voting. This amendment would modify the new law by requiring electors to vote at least once every 4 years to keep their registrations valid and would thus eliminate permanent registration.

Issue 2

Leghold Trap

Explanation: This amendment would ban the use in Ohio of the leghold trap or any trapping device which causes continued, prolonged suffering of wild birds or wild four-legged animals. A leghold trap is a trap designed to close on the leg of an animal and prevent its escape until the trapper returns.

Use of the leghold trap in Ohio would be a crime although no penalty is prescribed. A person observing its use could bring suit in Common Pleas Court to stop it, and could recover court costs and attorney fees.

Issue 3

Financing Housing

Explanation: This amendment would make construction or rehabilitation of housing a public purpose for which the state or a municipality or county could borrow money or loan its credit. When a government borrows money it issues bonds which are retired by a payment each year covering interest on the loan plus a portion of the principal amount. The amendment would permit bonds to be issued and the credit of the public body to be loaned to individuals, associations, companies, or corporations for housing purposes, but would permit direct loans to be made only for low or moderate income housing.

There are two types of bonds that may be issued by a government to finance capital needs. General obligation bonds are bonds which are backed by the full faith and credit of the state and tax money is obligated for their payment. The Ohio Constitution limits the amount of general obligation debt the state may incur. Revenue bonds on the other hand are usually repaid by revenues from the operation of the facilities built with the bond money. The legislature limits the amount of revenue bond debt by law. There is no constitutional limit.

This amendment would permit the state to issue revenue bonds for construction or rehabilitation of housing. It would also permit the legislature to appropriate money into a reserve fund to secure payment of the bonds.

Issue 4

State Debt Limit

Explanation: Most of the state's capital improvements are financed by borrowing money and issuing bonds. The total amount of state debt, or general obligation bonds, that may be outstanding at one time, is limited by the Ohio Constitution to $750,000 for general purposes. (An additional $500 million limit on highway debt was approved by voters in 1968). To finance capital improvements in excess of that limit voters must approve a constitutional amendment.

Issue 4 would repeal this fixed dollar limit and replace it with a flexible limit tied to the annual income of the state. The effect of the proposal would be to authorize borrowing for most state capital improvement by the legislature rather than by vote of the people on a constitutional amendment.

The proposed amendment permits debt to exceed these limits in three circumstances: (1) to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the state in war; (2) to meet legislative appropriations to operate the state, provided the money is repaid within that year from state income other than borrowed money; (3) for any purpose and amount approved by a 3/5 vote of each house of the legislature and then by the voters. A constitutional amendment would not be required but instead a referendum on a law would be held.

Argument For:

The proposed amendment would eliminate the possibility of persons registering and voting more than once on election day. Such registrations can not be verified until after the election-too late to prevent the voter casting a ballot.

Argument Against:

Voting is a right as well as a privilege. It should be extended to all citizens of voting age - not only to those citizens who have made the effort to find a registration place long before election day.

Argument For:

It would eliminate needless suffering of animals and birds. Many trappers do not check their traps often enough.

Argument Against:

The amendment would stop selective trapping needed to control rats, disease, property damage, and research.

Argument For:

Sufficient housing to meet the needs of low and moderate income families is not being supplied through private industry. Governmental action is required to meet this need.

Argument Against:

Private industry has not met housing needs for low and moderate income people because it is not financially feasible to provide such housing without government help. The difference in interest rates between revenue bonds and private construction loans might still not be sufficient to make housing projects self-supporting.

For:

Our system of representative government authorizes legislators elected by the people to allocate the total operating funds for the state government every two years (over $12 billion for 1977-79). These same legislators should be trusted to carry out the wishes of their constituents in borrowing money to finance $300 million in capital improvements annually without a direct vote of the people on each proposal.

Argument Against:

The amendment would appeal constitutional restrictions on state debt which have served to keep Ohio solvent for years.

A discussion by the candidates for Mayor

Emanuel Catsoules

Councilman Catsoules discusses stand on various voter issues

The Republican candidate for mayor, Emanuel Catsoules, is 43 and a native of Youngstown. He is presently the Principal of Chaney High School and has previously held the position of teacher and Principal at Rayen High School.

Since 1976 he has held the position of President of City Council. Catsoules represents the third ward, where he has been elected to four consecutive terms.

Catsoules feels that a long term effort must be made to alleviate the problem of unemployment in Youngstown.

As mayor, he would like to work more closely with the ad-hoc committee that has recently been formed by Congressman Carney.

Catsoules would also like to form an economic task force, which would be made up of people from "labor, government, the University, civic-minded groups and the Chamber of Commerce." He feels that there are enough members of the community with expertise that if the Mayor's office served as a catalyst, they could find ways of maintaining jobs in Youngstown.

Concerning the attraction of more industry into the Youngstown area, Catsoules states that "a sales job is what we would have to do." He feels that Youngstown should "go out and actively seek industry."

"Northeast Ohio, and especially Youngstown, is at an advantage because of problems industry is having in the south and southwest." He feels that this area has much to offer industry in the way of a mature labor force, and good water and highway systems.

Catsoules also feels that Youngstown should take advantage of local talent and expertise in trying to bring more industry to the area.

He also states that Youngstown needs to become more diversified in the types of industry but feels this is going to take "10 to 15 years, more than one or two terms by any mayor."

In the area of crime, Catsoules states that "jobs can cure a lot of evils." He said that as mayor, he would look at the police department carefully and try to make it more efficient.

He states that money is a problem, with 34 vacancies in the police department but with no city funds available to enable these positions to be filled. Catsoules says there are some personnel problems in the department and that new and strong leadership is needed.

Catsoules cites statistics which reveals that in the first half of 1977 there was a decrease in crime in Youngstown in all categories except rape. He said that this was better than the national average.

Daniels outlines position as Independent candidate

Editor's note - Ron Daniels, independent candidate for mayor, was asked to grant an interview to the Jambar. He did not comply, so the following is a summary of an article that appeared in the Jambar last week, outlining Daniels' stand.

Independent mayoral candidate Ron Daniels cites the need for an end to the "dictatorship of the multi-national corporations, conglomerates and giant industries." He feels it is important to allow people a greater input

Richley cites safe neighborhoods, jobs, city services as top concerns

Phil Richley, the Democratic candidate for mayor is 51 and is currently employed at the Cafaro Company as Vice President of Engineering and Construction. He previously served as the first Ohio Director of Transportation from 1972-1975, under the administration of ex-Governor John Gilligan. From 1971 to 1972 he held the position of Director of the Ohio Highways. Richley has also served as the city's first chief labor negotiator. He is married and has two children and two grandchildren.

Richley cites three areas of importance in his campaign.

Making homes and neighborhoods safer from burglaries, robberies and molesters; preserving and creating job opportunities; and more efficient and dependable city services are his main concerns.

In an interview with the Jambar, Richley stated he planned to make neighborhoods safer by reallocating manpower in the police department. He would like to reorganize the police department so that we can disperse more police into the neighborhoods.

Richley feels that "the strength of the police department is at an all time low. There is a need for strong leadership in the police department and a police chief with sensitivity and compassion and the ability to get along with people."

According to Richley, there needs to be an "economic revitalization of the Mahoning Valley." One of the biggest problems is to provide jobs for heads of household and youths.

If elected mayor, Richley would create an economic development unit. Functioning as a nonprofit organization, the unit would be made up of representatives of organized labor, business and industry and government. The purpose of the unit would be to assist local industry to expand and to provide incentives for new industries to move into the area. This would be accomplished with the use of incentives such as tax abatement, low interest loans and loan guarantees. The economic unit would be paid for by the 3 groups involved.

Increase in the quality of city services is another area Richley would like to see an improvement in. He feels there should be a more efficient means of repairing chuck holes, plowing snow, maintaining highways and demolishing abandoned housing.

Richley stated that the city of Youngstown is working with a record budget and a record number of employees, but the result is not the quality of service he would like to see offered to the citizens of Youngstown. He would like to reorganize city employees and integrate CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act.) with the city employees.

He would also like to have a labor relations office which would provide assistance to labor unions of all city employees. Richley feels the purpose of this would be to provide an avenue of communications for city employees and would enable them to speak with someone who represents management.

In the area of housing, Richley would like to see the extension of utilities into the "raw land," or unused land in the Youngstown area so that this land can be made developable. In good neighborhoods he would like to see carried out more inspections and enforcement of building codes so that owners can take action to upgrade their property.

In the case of property where it is not economically feasible to improve the housing, Richley would like "to clear the land and get it back to use again or to provide more open space."

In discussing the relationship between YSU and the city of Youngstown, Richley said "we have got to have police and (Cont. on page 8) companies to move their operations South to take advantage of the right to work laws with regard to union organizing.

The corporate tax reform program is "very dear to me" says Daniels. The program would close this country's tax-loopholes. The money recovered from the loopholes would be used to fund a national health care service, full employment, a national housing bill of rights and a higher education for every one who wants it.

At a recent rally at YSU, Daniels stated that "if I can get some help from you on election day I'm absolutely positive there's no way we can be defeated."

He added that "we're going to win this election and we're going to win it because we are the only candidate who has the audacity and the courage to tell the truth."

Richley

YSU officials work out the problems of parking and give some relief to the campus area. I don't believe that it makes much sense to issue tickets willy-nilly." One possible means of alleviating the problems, according to Richley, might be to prohibit the use of traffic on some streets in the campus area except for local or University use.

One the subject of YSU expansion, Richley said "there are no city programs that can assist YSU expanding. However, the city can provide valuable legal and advisory service and if the University wanted, the city could become involved in helping the University acquire land."

Richley, a former graduate of YSU, said "I think personally that the University is one of the most valuable assets to the community."

Penguins to face EIU; young Panthers are 0-8

by Bill Snier

The YSU Penguins will be attempting to keep their post season playoff hopes alive this Saturday when they tackle the Eastern Illinois Panthers on Dr. Pepper Day at Rayen Stadium.

It will be the battle of two teams which are very similar in the personnel of their players. Both are young teams, with the Panthers having only six seniors on the starting units and the Penguins having only four senior starters.

The Panthers, however, have been suffering because of their youth, while the Penguins are just two victories shy from tying the school record for second-most wins in a season. Eastern Illinois has failed to win a ball game in eight starts while the Penguins come into the game with a 5-3 mark.

This game will be the fourth meeting between the two schools with YSU having won all the previous matchups between them. Last year the Penguins hammered the Panthers 36-14 at Eastern Illinois.

The Panthers come into this game averaging only 12.9 points per game offensively while allowing almost 25 points a game defensively. The Penguins, on the other hand, are averaging 24 points per game on offense and giving up an average of 22 points per game defensively.

A bright spot for the Panthers in a rather dismal season is sophomore halfback Chris Cobb who has rushed for 709 yards in 130 carries and is the team's top scorer with 36 points to his credit.

Guiding the Panther attack is junior quarterback Andy Vogl. He has passed for 330 yards on 27 completions in 74 tosses, has rushed for another 222 yards, and has added four TD's on the ground.

One of Eastern's top players is junior punter Jeff Gossett, who is the top punter nationally among Division II schools with a 44.1 average to his credit.

The Panthers, coached by John Konstantinos, lost last week to Butler 31-13.

Individually for the Penguins, Marschell Brumfield, although he did not see much action against Wayne St., still leads in rushing with 418 yards in 98 attempts, a 4.3 average. James Robson is second with 342 yards in 80 attempts, also with a 4.3 average.

Keith Snoddy has thrown 102 times while completing 42 for 618 yards and five touchdowns. He has also rushed for an additional 217 yards in 88 carries. Jim Ferranti is his favorite target. Ferranti has caught 35 passes for 554 yards and two touchdowns.

Defensively, Greg Fitzpatrick leads the team in total tackles with 87. Right behind him is co-captain Ron Pentz with 83. Kevin Statzer leads the team in interceptions with three.

Saturday's game has been designated Dr. Pepper Day and each student who turns in twenty-five Dr. Pepper caps will receive a free YSU stocking cap. In addition, there will be drawings for prizes at halftime. Game time is 1 p.m. at Rayen Stadium.

Rifle team finishes second in opening LEIRC tourney

The YSU Rifle team took a second place finish in the first of four Lake Erie Intercollegiate Rifle Conference (LEIRC) tournaments staged at Beeghly Center last Saturday.

Akron University piled up 2677 points to clinch first place in the two day competition. YSU scored 2638 points for their second place finish with Edinboro State taking third with

COACHES CORNER

by Bill Narduzzi

Eastern Illinois comes to Rayen Stadium as YSU's 9th opponent of the 1977 season. Your football team is 5-3 and a victory tomorrow insures us a winning season.

The Eastern Illinois Panthers are a ball club riddled and plagued by mis-fortune and injury. They have not won a ball game since mid-season last year and come to Youngstown this week with a record of 12 losses in a row.

You can appreciate that they will be hungry for a win and will go to any length to achieve one. They do not appear on film Haynali. Come watch tomorrow and see what your all-purpose record holding kicker can do.

Mark Stettner, Poke Cobb and Gerald Bell are three running backs of small stature and amence ability and have over the past two years gained acres of yardage, but our Marschell Brumfield and Robbie Robson and Curt Huffman have worked hard this week to be the better of the running backs tomorrow.

The same preparation has taken place at all positions and the Penguins will be victorious because we are a better football team. We enter the game confident but respectful of their desire to pick up a win. We are ready - see you at Rayen Stadium.

Intramural football titles on line; regular season to end this week

by Jon Steen

In this, the last week of regular season play, the division titles are in the balance. In Fraternity Division I, the powerful Theta Chi is the Division winner with a 4 and 0 record, while Phi Sigma Kappa is the Division runnerup. The honors in Fraternity Division II, will be decided between Sigma Chi and Sigma Phi Epsilon as the two undefeated teams will meet this Sunday.

In the Independent Divisions, virtually every division title is on the line this week. In Division I, BMF should capture the number one spot while Kilcawley II and the Austintown All Stars will battle it out for second. The top ranked Ohzones will take on the Red Devils to decide the fate of Division II. In Divisions III through VII, the same situation exists. The top two teams of each division are meeting to decide who will be number one. In Division III it will be the Roundballers vs. Niles All Stars. In Division IV the extremely powerful Richley for Mayor will take on Red Pride. In Division V the returning fourth place team of last year, Gib Stit, will face an explosive Adidas team. In Division VI the legendary Mad Dog ball club will battle it out with YSAS, and in Division 7 Qantas Bears will face the Fishermen. The closest race will take place in Division VIII with the title resting on Hana's Bananas vs. Valley Crew game. If Valley

Crew wins, there will be a three way tie between Hana's Bananas, Valley Crew and the powerful Outlaws. However, if the Crew loses, the Bananas will be the Division winners with the Outlaws as runnerup.

Women's Division

In the Women's Division, the number one ranked Ram Jammers will take one third place Specialty Team to decide Division I while number two ranked Army-Navy has already captured the title for Division II with Stars as runner up.

Coed Table Tennis

The deadline date for entry into co-ed table tennis doubles has been extended to November 10.

Soccer team upsets Kent ; Peck, Azis lead Penguins

by Bill Snier

The YSU varsity soccer team pulled a major upset Wednesday by defeating Kent State, 2-0 at Roosevelt Park.

YSU scored both of their goals in the first half of play. Mike Azis drew first blood with a goal rather early in the half. Craig Peck tallied the other Penguin goal, with an assist from Hamid Shajae.

Goalie Ernie Yacovone played an outstanding match in recording his second shutout in a row.

The win increased the Penguins record to 3-5-1.

The Penguins have made major strides towards a respectable record under first year coach George Hunter. Last year, the Penguin booters were shut out without a victory and only one tie during their nine match schedule.

The best news of all is the fact that Hunter will only be losing five players on his nineteen man roster. This means Hunter will probably have a veteran team for his second season at the helm.

The Penguins will play their final match of the season against Slippery Rock State College.

City of Pittsburgh Junior Varsity was cancelled Monday and will be rescheduled.

Dr. Pepper

For one time only, Dr. Pepper is offering a colorful and warm knit stocking hat bearing the official YSU seal. Fans can obtain this useful Penguins souvenir by bringing 25 Dr. Pepper bottle caps to the YSU-Eastern Illinois football game this Saturday, Nov. 5, at Rayen Stadium.

Field Hockey

The YSU women's field hockey team increased their regular season record to 5-1-2 by soundly defeating Lake Erie College, 9-1, at Lake Erie Tuesday.

The Penguin women were led by Leslie Ingram, who scored four goals to feature in the YSU triumph.

The win increased the Penguin's record, to 6-3-2 overall.

The field hockey team completes their season this weekend with two matches.

Women's Swim Team

Women's Swim Team practice will begin at 3:00 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 7, 1977. Anyone interested in competing on the women's team should come to the pool at 3:00 p.m. Previous competitive experience is not necessary.

And from the Sports Desk.....

(Editor's Note) Beginning with this issue, the sports staff will run an editorial on their pages. The opinions expressed in these editorials will deal with the sports scene around campus in general.

Since this is our first editorial, we would like to start off by saying a few words about a new aspect in the sports section which has become quite popular. I refer to the Coaches Corner. Coach Bill Narduzzi has generously given of his time to write two articles a week for the Corner. These articles have given students some insight into what goes on behind the scenes in preparation for a game. But with football season quickly coming to a close, we would like to keep this section intact. This section of the Jambar is now being made available to coaches of all varsity sports. The truth of the matter is that complaints have been coming in, saying that certain sports are not getting any ink in the sports page. Since we are limited in what we can do, here is a way for you to get some immediate exposure for your individual teams. It gives the coaches a chance to speak their mind without having someone else write it. If you're interested, please submit the article on either Monday or Thursday afternoons by 4 p.m. If you're not satisfied in the work the staff does, here's your chance to do something yourself. If you choose to take advantage of this, fine. If you don't, well...
