

Tuition payers might be granted tax credit

WASHINGTON - Warning that rising tuition has turned a cherished part of the American dream into a nightmare, a story of lost savings and lost security, Senator Bob Packwood (R-Ore) and Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan (D-N.Y.), joined by 41 cosponsors, have introduced legislation to give tax credits to almost every American who has to pay education tuition.

In a proposal they termed "a revolutionary concept in self-help education," they proposed allowing taxpayers to subtract one-half of the tuition they pay, up to a $500 maximum credit per student, directly from the income taxes they owe.

"We are facing an education crisis," said Packwood. Studies show tuition is a major factor in enrollment decisions, and the decline in middle class enrollments has become so alarming that some colleges have been lending parents school funds at reduced interest to boost their enrollments, he said.

"Our educational system is a vast supermarket with a variety of educational programs and possibilities, but if too few people can educate themselves or their children, then the strength of that system itself is in danger. Our strength is built upon freedom of choice for the consumer.

Skyrocketing costs are sapping that freedom. Education is becoming a gourmet item, soon to be savored only by the poor and the well to do," Packwood warned.

It now costs an average of $2,790 for a year at a public college, and $4,568 at a private one - well beyond the means of many with middle-class incomes. This marks a 55 per cent hike in education costs at public colleges and universities over the past five years and a 52 per cent rise in private higher education, he said.

"The loser in this escalating tuition war is, as in all else, the middle income taxpayer," Packwood said. "He is too poor to afford the cost of college, too well to do to qualify for federal financial assistance. The American dream of a new home, a family car, a vacation and a college education for their children has become a withering hope, said the Oregon Senator.

The Packwood-Moynihan legislation blankets all levels of education. To be eligible for the credit, an individual can be a part-time or full-time student at an elementary or secondary school, a vocational school, a college or university. Included

Ad Hoc Committee organized Escort Service is defined

by Jo Ann Nader

YSU's Campus Escort Service (CES), has recently undergone some major changes.

A decrease in the CES's yearly budget from $5500 to $3910 marked the first major change, according to David Stroud, vice-chairperson of Student Council. As a result of this budget decrease, the method of paying the escorts changed from wage to stipend earnings, Stroud explained. Stipend for the escorts is a fixed salary for the college year divided into monthly installments of $127.

Even with the decreased budget, Stroud estimates that the cost to escort one student for a school year is approximately $100.

Another change took place at Student Council Monday afternoon when a motion was passed to turn over the authority of CES to the executive branch of student government. This means that Student Government President George Glaros will now oversee the workings of the CES.

In the fall of 1975, the CES was begun. It was originally operated on a volunteer basis until Student Council found that monetary inducement was necessary to maintain the service, reported Stroud. The '76-'77 school year was the first year escorts were paid by wages.

Also, when CES was first introduced, it began on a trial basis and no rules or guidelines were drawn up, according to Stroud.

Student Council's recent appointment of an ad hoc committee to investigate the CES is an attempt to "lay down ground rules for the CES," Stroud said.

The CES's policy will remain basically the same - to escort students to and from evening classes - but because of such a large turnover of directors (three directors in three months, last spring), guidelines are necessary so that the CES's function is clearly defined, reported Stroud.

Presently, the CES is without a director as a result of the resignation of Jim Frost the first week of school, explains Hahn.

The ad hoc committee is also investigating the impact of CES's publicity. Advertising for the CES has been minimal this quarter for three reasons, said Stroud. One, there were complaints that last year's ads and posters were "frightening," according to Stroud. The ad was a black and white picture of a woman's face. Stroud claims that this made some individuals feel that you couldn't walk at night at all unless you had an escort. Also, the ad implied that only women could be escorted and the CES serves all students, Stroud added.

Interested runners may participate in Peace Race

The first International Peace Race, sponsored by the Youngstown Roadrunners Club, will be held at 1 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 12 in Mill Creek Park.

Olympic and marathon runners from around the world will be racing in this Peace Race, the first ever held in the Free World.

Participating in the race will be world-class runners from 15 nations, including Jerome Dravton, Canada's premier runner and Frank Shorter and Bill Rodgers, U.S. runners.

Entry blanks for the Peace Race are available at all sporting goods stores in the Youngstown area, the Central YMCA, health spas and the YSU physical education department in Beeghly.

The 25 Kilometer race and a 10 Kilometer "run for fun" are open to men, women and children. Prizes will be awarded in various categories.

Drayton, 32, of the Toronto Olympic Club, won the prestigious Fukuoka Marathon in Japan three years in a row and the Boston Marathon this past April. He is sixth on the list of all time fastest marathoners.

Rodgers is the hottest distance runner in the country having won his last eight races including the New York Marathon. The subject of a feature article in the Oct. 24 Sports Illustrated, Rodgers holds the fastest Marathon time in the country posting 2:09:55 over the 26-mile, 385-yard distance.

Shorter took a silver medal in the 1976 Olympics and won the 1976 National AAU 25 Kilometer championship in Mill Creek Park. He enjoys the woodland setting, calling it "one of the best in North America."

The Youngstown Peace Race will kick off Friday, November

In order to be eligible to vote you must be a resident of Ohio for 30 days.

Only thirty percent of some 15,000 eligible YSU students have registered to vote.

Many changes in ODE planned by new director, Phillip Berns

 The Office of Student Development has a new director and a new name. Phillip H. Berns, recently appointed to the Office of Developmental Education, is planning a number of changes in the office's services and organization. Berns, formerly worked with a special service program at Wayne State University in Detroit. This program dealt with the problems of minorities and the economical disadvantages.

Berns replaced Malcolm J. Costa, the original director and designer of the program. Costa left YSU to take a position as director of the Community Action Council in Akron just prior to fall quarter.

The Developmental Education Office located on the first floor of Kilcawley Dormitory, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. It is now also open until 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, one of the changes promoted by Berns. The later hours are designed to accommodate students in evening classes.

The ODE office was originally under the Academic Affairs Office, but is now administered by the Office of Students Affairs.

The ODE, which offers tutoring and peer counseling services, is primarily directed towards handicapped students, veterans, older students, minorities, and students from rural backgrounds; those students who are "educationally and culturally disadvantaged."

The tutoring service employs upper division students to help those students having difficulty with lower division classes. This service is open to all students, though those in the special categories of the ODE receive first priority.

Most of the students employed by the ODE as tutors work part-time and receive the current minimum wage. A total of 30 tutors are now employed by the ODE. Berns cites a difficulty in finding full-time tutors.

Peer counselling involves the employment of students in upper division courses to deal with opinions

Neatness isn't everything

Bliss Hall, the new fine and performing arts building, has an unusual rule. At Bliss, no students are allowed to have food or beverages within the building.

The theory behind this is that Bliss is a new building and those instituting the rule would like to keep it neat, the students using the building were told.

True, Bliss Hall is a very new and a very neat building, but more importantly, it is a place of learning. Students attend classes, practice music, work on art projects and rehearse plays at Bliss.

Some students because of scheduling spend their entire day there. And they feel it would be helpful if they would at least be permitted to have a candy bar or a cup of coffee.

Other buildings on campus have no rule forbidding refreshments and none of these structures seem to be falling into decay because of it.

Bliss Hall is like the story of the couple who spent a large amount of money and many hours redecorating their living room. When finished, the room was so beautiful that they roped it off, never letting anyone into the room for fear something would be disturbed.

A building, especially a school building, is to be used. Bliss Hall is being acclaimed as "the new home of the fine and performing arts." If so, then let the students feel at home in it. Make the students know that their needs are more important to the University than a building.

If the creators of the no food rule are so afraid of abandoned candy wrappers and chocolate hand prints on the walls, maybe they could get security to set up a system like those used at airports. Then each student could be screened before entering the building. This way all those illegal Hershey bars and M & M candies would sure to be confiscated. Ridiculous, maybe, but then so is the rule.

Council assigns CES to executive branch; discusses 'student buying card' possibility

"Now the Student Escort Service is the responsibility of the president of Student Government," commented David Stroud, Student Council vice-chairman, after Council passed a resolution placing the Campus Escort Service (CES) under the executive branch of Student Government in yesterday's Council meeting. Council passed the resolution after hearing the recommendations of a report submitted by an Ad-Hoc committee which had been assigned to investigate the CES. The report said most of the problems encountered by the CES were because it had no administrative base. According to Stroud, a member of the ad-hoc committee, "the previous CES set-up was beyond the control of the legislative branch of Student Government (Student Council)."

Council also passed a unanimous resolution to institute a student discount card themselves, instead of joining Student Buying Power Card Inc. Council decided they could solicit student discounts more cheaply and would have a better chance of landing major accounts than the SBPC could. A committee was also assigned to solicit the student discounts and will report to Council the first meeting of winter quarter.

The "YSU rock" was also an object of Council's legislation in Tuesday's meeting. Council passed a resolution prohibiting student organizations from painting sidewalks, grass, gravel, walls, etc., which are adjacent to the rock.

George Glaros, Student Government President, introduced the resolution yesterday after receiving a number of complaints about the debris and mess left after the painting of the rock by some organizations. Offending organizations will be notified by Glaros. If the mess is not cleaned up within 24 hours of notification, the organization will be billed for the clean-up or proceedings will be instituted by Glaros with the student discipline committee.

Glaros also announced a change in action to be taken against five student government funded organizations who did not attend the treasurers meeting held last Tuesday. Previously the funds of those organizations who did not attend were to be frozen. Glaros decided against this action, however, and will now rescind the funds of those organizations who do not contact him within one week after receiving a letter of notification.

In other action Council approved $50 in traveling expenses for the Liberation of Equality Toward Students. The funds will come from Student Government and will finance a fact-finding trip to the University of Pittsburgh to investigate a brochure Pitt distributed to its handicapped students. Council also approved $75 in traveling funds for Student Government representatives to attend an Ohio Student Association workshop in Columbus Nov. 10-12.

In final action Council passed a resolution asking the publicity committee to run a full page ad in the Jambar for Council featuring all Student Government and Council members. The resolution was passed in order to make the student body more aware of Student Council members.

A brief view of registration

In a report made public Friday, YSU has been named "The Best Doggone Place in the World to Register."

The report specifically cites YSU's modern registration facilities in the Ward Beecher basement as "ideal for registration."

"The Ward Beecher basement registration area is the finest we have ever seen. The chicken wire fence in the front is the perfect 'hello' to students. Also, the idea of having two computers for the schedule printouts is a good one. Since there are two, it facilitates matters when one is broken down. We find this method ingenious."

The study also reads that "the registration area has a perfect atmosphere. We feel that the idea of keeping the temperature unbearably high is excellent. This makes the students want to get out of the area as soon as possible. We also like the idea of frequently closing classes. It is good to have a class close every three seconds; this keeps the students on their toes."

The study went on to criticize the so-called "modern way of registration." "Many universities feel that the classes should be built around the student. If 50 people sign up for the class, they make it a class for 50. With this method, there are no closed classes and everyone gets what they want. To this we say 'bunk.' What then would be the challenge of registration? We feel that YSU has the perfect way to register. A hot basement, caged-in, crammed with people, constantly closing classes - this is the only way to register!"

The above study was conducted by an independent group from YSU.

My doctor pronounced me cured of cancer.

My boss didn't.

So I was let go. A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so, too. Until the American Cancer Society, through one of its service and rehabilitation programs, helped me return to a normal life.

The ACS also has local Units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better.

Today, more and more, cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

Tax credits

are business and trade schools which meet the basic accrediting requirements of the Office of Education. The tax credit is also refundable if the credit is greater than the tax liability.

The advantage tax credits have over any other type of federal help is that they are the "most direct, simple and effective method" to give financial relief to all levels of students without massive doses of bureaucratic bungling. "Tax credits will put decision-making power in the hands of the educational consumers," said Packwood.

Senator Moynihan said he also believed this legislation would provide "a sorely-needed financial boost to parents now burdened with heavy educational costs" and would widen the range of school and college opportunities. "A carefully designed tax credit is a direct and efficient form of financial aid to those who pay tuition, particularly to those attending private schools and colleges that are forced by their lack of state subsidies to charge higher tuition than their public counterparts," he said.

Senator Packwood and Senator Moynihan said they were hopeful that with 12 of the 18 members of the Senate Finance Committee as cosponsors of the bill, and with a commitment for hearings on the bill in January from Finance Committee Chairman Russell Long, chances of passage will be good.

Second; Stroud believes that if many advertisements were circulated this would create too great of a response and the escorts would be unable to handle the increased number of calls for escorts. However, Hahn disagrees and says that last year the CES had more publicity and was able to handle the greater number of calls.

Third, the committee plans to devise a flyer-type advertisement to replace the "frightened-girl" ad, Stroud said. He believes the flyer would be an improvement because it would explain exactly what the CES is all about.

THE DEAN OF BEER'S QUICKIE QUIZ.

Q: A mini-brewery is:

- Hidden in a basement somewhere in Greektown.
- The result of trying to make Broken Toe, Idaho, the beer capital of the world.
- The right way to pretest beer ingredients.
- Both (a) and (c).

A: (c) If you answered this question (a), you obviously know something I don't.

And you are in a lot of trouble. Now, as for the correct answer.

Yes, Schlitz actually does have a mini-brewery where they test-brew the ingredients that go into Schlitz. And if they're not right, they never go into Schlitz.

Which is something to remember the next time you're going into your favorite place for a beer. You know which one.

THERE'S JUST ONE WORD FOR BEER.

AND YOU KNOW IT.

Defensive safety Statzer strives for relaxed inner confidence, unity

by Allen Rock

He stands 10 to 15 yards behind the defensive line, constantly checking the offensive formation while waiting for the play to begin.

If the play develops into a run, he needs the strength to move up and stop it. But, at the same time, if it's a pass play he must have the quickness to react to the situation and get to the ball.

This is the challenge that faces number 37, sophomore safety Kevin Statzer.

Statzer has all the credentials needed to man the safety position. He stands 6 feet 3 inches and weighs a solid 197 pounds with the quickness and agility to go with his size.

"I have the best overall view to see the play develop. I have to read the play and get a good break on the ball. It's my job to be in the vicinity of the ball, no matter where its at," states Statzer.

Kevin brought this play reading ability to YSU after graduating from Fairfield High School in Fairfield, Ohio.

Statzer's play at safety earned him berths on several honor teams. He was a first team choice on the Greater Miami Conference and All-Southwestern District all-star squads. He was also a first team pick on the GMC his junior season.

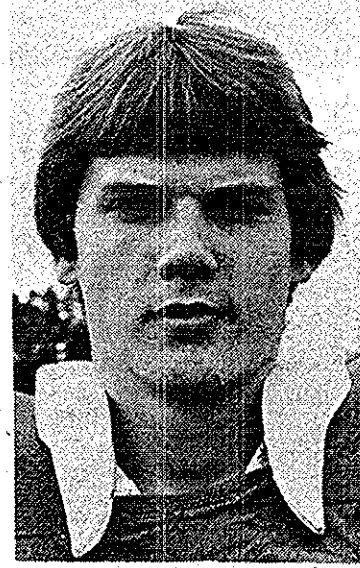

While at Fairfield High Statzer kept his body in shape the year round by participating in basketball and baseball. He played forward on the basketball team averaging 11 points per game and he was a catcher on the baseball squad that finished with a 31-9 record.

As Statzer's high school days drew to an end, it was time for him to choose a college to continue his athletic career. Kevin had schools such as the University of Cincinnati, North Carolina State and Georgetown College to pick from. But when Statzer heard from YSU he visited the campus and liked what he saw.

"YSU was building a program for the future. It was so good that I just wanted to be a part of it," Kevin stated.

Statzer wasted no time in becoming part of the Penguins. As a freshman he started the last

Kevin Statzer, sophomore defensive safety, played in six games of the season at safety. "There was good competition, but I was given a shot to play, and it paid off," says Statzer.

This year, as a sophomore, Statzer is part of a defensive backfield that consists of two other sophomores and a freshman. "We're young but we've learned each others capabilities and we are working together as a unit," Statzer explained.

Relaxed Confidence

Kevin feels that working together as a unit requires each individual to know his exact job. "For me to do my job best, I get to know the patterns of the opposition's receivers. But to make it possible for me to do this, I must be in a relaxed frame of mind," states Statzer.

To get in this relaxed state, Statzer watches films, studies the opponents and practices hard. Kevin says when he has done all three thoroughly, he has completed what is needed and this in turn gives him that relaxed feeling.

After this relaxing preparation during the week, Statzer climaxes it all on Friday night and before the game on Saturday.

When awakening on Saturday morning Statzer will take what he feels is one of the most important steps of preparation. He goes to church.

"Church services help me a lot. It gives me a relaxed confidence. Afterwards I really feel ready," Statzer says.

Kevin takes this relaxed confidence with him to the gridiron and uses it to help him with his job on the field. Statzer says reading the offensive alignment and calling the secondary coverage is a big part of his job on the field.

One important fact Statzer says is a must to remember, is that the safety is the last line of defense, "if he gets past me, there's no one else."

The way Statzer does his job is a big part of what he expects out of himself. "I must be where the ball is, I have to get there quick and hard." By this Kevin means he has to find direction of the play, get there as quick as possible, and then hit someone once he arrives there.

Member of Jubilee

Kevin's dedication to his style of play also reflects his dedication to himself and God. Statzer is a member of a campus organization known as Jubilee. This is a fellowship for athletes through Christ. It meets every other Wednesday and has guest speakers and even some, as Kevin puts it, "old fashioned guitar playing and singing."

Statzer expresses his belief in God by quoting from the Bible, John 3:27. "A man can receive nothing unless it is given to him from heaven."

Statzer's relaxed confidence helps him reflect his feeling for his coaches and teammates.

"I've never been associated with a team that has never let down. We put it together when we needed to," Statzer continued. "I'm not just playing for 'a' team, but I'm playing for 'the' team. I thank God I can be part of it."

Penguins display awesome power; Brumfield breaks season TD mark

by Bill Sniier

The YSU Penguins put on an awesome display of offensive power Saturday, defeating the Eastern Illinois Panthers 52-22 in a mismatch at Rayen Stadium.

The Penguins piled up 535 yards in total offense, 245 yards passing and 290 yards rushing on their way to their sixth win in nine outings.

Amazing as it may seem, it was the Panthers who had the first chance to score early in the first quarter, but Jeff Sanders missed the 52-yard field goal attempt for Eastern Illinois.

The Penguins took over on their own twenty and drove eighty yards for a score with James Robson diving the final distance from one yard out to make it 7-0 after Haynali's conversion.

The Penguins scored again on their next possession on a 21-yard pass from Keith Snoddy to Emmett King which increased the YSU lead to 14-0. The key play in the drive was an option pass from wide receiver Jim Ferranti, who came around on a reverse, to tight end Bob Schiffauer that put the ball on the Eastern 29.

Eastern Illinois again managed to penetrate YSU territory following the kickoff, but a 45-yard field goal attempt by Sanders was partially tipped and fell well short of the mark. Again, the Penguins drove the length of the field with Marschell Brumfield going in from six yards out to increase the Penguin lead to 21-0.

It was on the following kickoff that the Panthers finally got on the scoreboard when Marcus Potts took the ball three yards deep in the end zone and using his blocking magnificently, raced down the left sideline all the way for a score. This cut the YSU lead to 21-7.

With less than two minutes left in the half, Keith Snoddy led a beautiful drive for the fourth Penguin tally of the half. Two passes from Snoddy to Ferranti put the ball in Panther territory and then Snoddy lowered the boom on a 49-yard bomb to Randy Beal to give the Penguins a 28-7 halftime lead.

Eastern Illinois took the opening kickoff of the second half and drove to the YSU 20 yard line. But an Andy Vogl pass was intercepted by defensive back T.C. Reynolds, who returned the pass 84 yards for the fifth Penguins tally of the afternoon. The interception was the first for Reynolds this year.

On their first offensive possession of the second half, YSU again drove into Panther territory, but a 45-yard field goal attempt by Haynali was short of the mark.

On the Penguin's next possession, Haynali did connect on a field goal. This one, a 26-yarder, increased the YSU lead to 38-7.

On their next possession, the Panthers made a change in quarterbacks which seemed to add new life to the offense. The substitute, Don Pittman, raced 55 yards on his first carry of the game to set up the Panthers second touchdown, cutting the Penguin lead again to 38-14.

Once again the Penguins took the kickoff and drove in for a tally. Brumfield dove in from one yard out to increase the YSU lead to 45-14. Key play in the drive was a 30-yard pass from Bill Fink to Emmett King.

But Pittman went to work again for the Panthers, racing 76-yards for the third Panther score and breaking four tackles along the way. Vogl's pass to Tony Scala was good for two points to make the score 45-22.

YSU added one more score on a three yard run by Brumfield, after defensive end Quentin Lowry intercepted a Pittman pass at the Panther 20.

An even more impressive statistic is that the Penguins lost the ball only once on turnovers. The Penguins next opponent in their quest for a post-season playoff berth will be Central State.

Game time for the Penguins final home date of the season is 1 p.m. at Rayen Stadium.

COACHES CORNER

by Bill Narduzzi

Your YSU football team scored one of its most satisfying wins of the year last Saturday with their 52-22 win over Eastern Illinois.

In viewing the film it becomes quite apparent that assistant coaches Dove, DeFilippo, Kish, Fryzel, Nudo, Rochette and McCabe did an outstanding job of preparing for the Panthers and that the players were ready to play.

Keith Snoddy turned in another enjoyable performance by totaling over 200 yards rushing and passing. Marschell Brumfield gathered 3 scores to become the single season record holder for scores by boosting his output to 13. Robbie Robson added 63 yards and a score which is a fine show of strength and depth at the tailback spot. Curt Huffman picked up 89 yards for his day's play at fullback. This all is possible because of consistent and effective line play.

Defensively, T.C. Reynolds experienced the greatest thrill in a defenders career by intercepting a pass (which was deflected by Tom Jaros) and scampering 84 yards for a touchdown. Bob Lombardi and Quentin Lowry led the interference on that play and later Quentin was the recipient of his own interception. 8 defenders tallied their tackle quota for the day and the hitting of the entire unit set the tone in our favor early.

The kicking game produced pleasant and not st pleasant results. Chuck Haynali did in fact "out kick" and "out perform" his counterpart from E.I.U. (the leading punter in Div. II football). Chuck averaged 48 yards per try punting, completed 2 passes on punt fakes for 45 yards - both to Ron Pentz defensive end, kicked 7 P.A.T.'s and a field goal to record 10 points, and did all our kicking off.

The negative portion of the kicking game was in the coverage department. E.I.U. had a total of 253 yards in kick-off returns, including one that covered 104 yards. We will have to strengthen this area if we expect to grab our 7th win this Saturday.

We insured a winning record with the victory, and the win also kept our hope for a Division II playoff berth alive. This week poses the same problems as last week only a bit more intensified. This is the most important game of our season. We must win for several reasons. A victory will insure us of a 7-3 season, second best in the history of the school. Six seniors will be playing their last scheduled intercollegiate football game for YSU. Since they are all winners, that is the way we must finish.

SPORTS SHORTS

Women's Field Hockey

The YSU women's field hockey team completed their season over the weekend by tying the Cleveland Field Hockey Association, 1-1, and by dropping a 2-1 decision to Lorain Community College.

The Penguin stickers trailed Cleveland, 1-0, the entire second half before YSU forward Sandy Franks scored with only 30 seconds left in the game to tie the score.

In the match with Lorain, the Penguins first home defeat of the season, Lesli Ingram scored the women's lone goal in the first half.

The Penguin women completed their season with a respectable 5-2-3 regular season and a 6-4-3 overall mark, including the state tournament.

YSU scored 34 goals in thirteen matches this season and allowed the opposition only 16 goals.

The Penguins were led by senior co-captains Cindy Burazer, Donna DeFiore, and the goalie Debbie Shea.

YSU player in one season, with a record total of twelve goals.

Women's Volleyball

The YSU women's volleyball team will be one of eleven participants in the Ohio State Volleyball Tournament to be held at Cleveland State beginning Friday, November 11 at 10:30 a.m.

Providing the opposition for the Penguins in their three matches will be Cleveland State, who is second seeded in the tourney, Wright State and Toledo university.

The Penguin volleyballers tuned up for the state tourney by playing a triangular meet Saturday. The girls lost to West Virginia 15-11 and 15-6 but defeated Alderson Broaddus by identical 15-2 scores.

The women's record now stands at 6-7, with a triangular meet with Hiram and Westminster yet to be held before the state tourney.

The triangular meet will be held 7 p.m. Wednesday night in Beeghly Center.

The Penguins opening match of the state tourney will be Friday morning at 10:30 a.m. against Cleveland State.

YSU Records

Many records were set as a result of the YSU victory over Eastern Illinois Saturday. Junior tailback Marschell Brumfield set an individual record for the most touchdowns scored in a season, thirteen, breaking the record of twelve set by Frank Horvath in 1961. Jim Ferranti crept closer to older brother Bob's receiving record of most catches in a season. He needs six to break the record. The 52 points scored by the Penguins was the third most points ever scored by a YSU team. The Penguins scored 56 points against Wayne State in 1974 and 55 points in 1960 against Gustavus Adolphus for the top two spots on the list. The game also marked the fourth best total offense output ever by a Penguin football team. The highest was over 600 yards, also against Wayne State in 1974.

YSU Jayvees

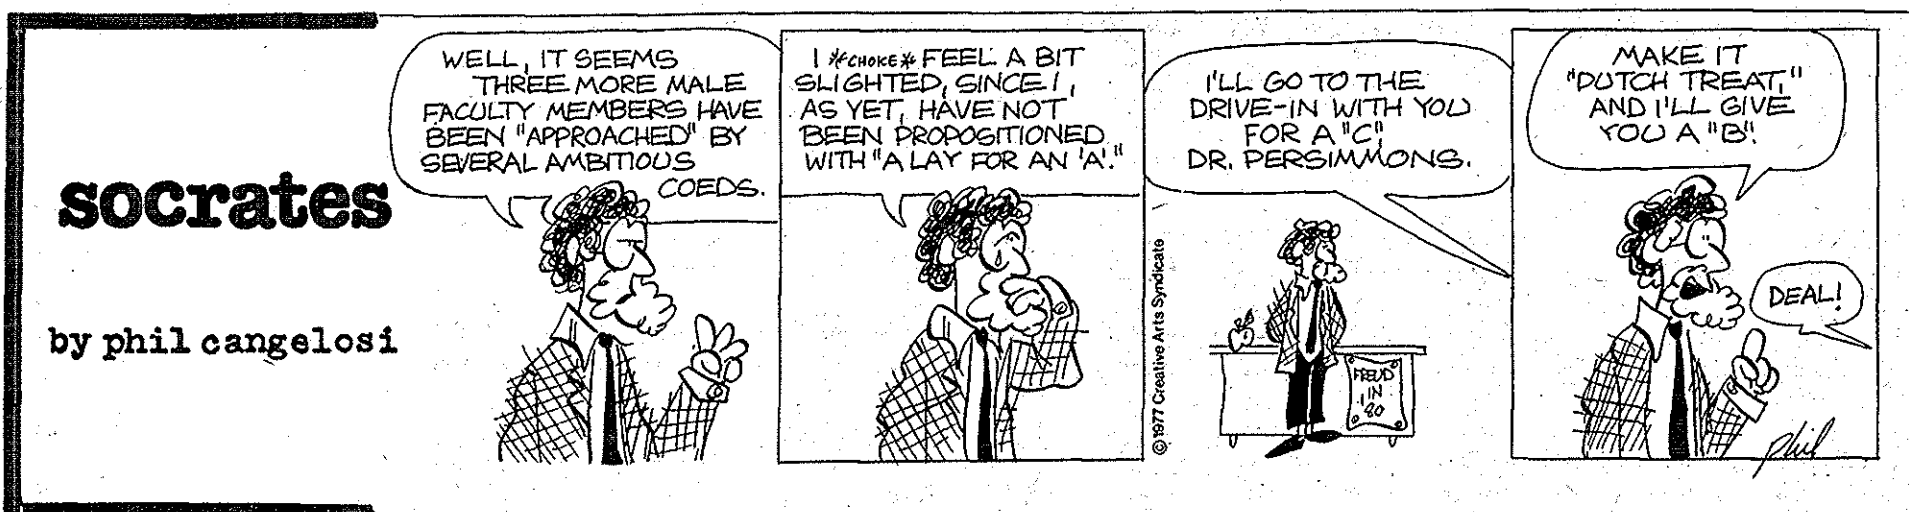

YSU jayvees record slipped to 2-3 as they dropped a 17-13 decision yesterday to Slippery Rock State College in a game played at Austintown Middle School.

And from the Sports Desk.....

In winning their sixth game of the season Saturday, the Penguins showed more razzle-dazzle on offense than you would probably find in a sandlot game. (By the way, please don't confuse the term sandlot with the current condition of Rayen Stadium.) In doing so, Coach Narduzzi might have given future opponents a little something extra to be wary of when they tackle the Penguins. When they look for prospects, pro teams always say they want someone who can serve more than one purpose, not just a specialist.

If that's the case, then Chuck Haynali might have found his second position, that of a shotgun formation quarterback. Of course, it's hard to miss a receiver of Ron Pentz's size when he's open by ten yards. I'd also like to give Jim Ferranti the "Garro Yepremian Passing Award" for his "strike" to Bob Schiffauer. That's definitely not the wide receiver's second position. The Penguin's real quarterback, Keith Snoddy, also discovered a new receiver that he has not used much this year, that being tight end Emmett King.

With Ferranti many times drawing triple coverage these days, that alternate receiver becomes very important. Every time he crosses the line, King seems to be open with the defense, figuring he's only there for blocking purposes. This is becoming more and more the age of the tight end in football. We've got a good one who should be used more than he is.

counselors. Berns calls for student volunteers to meet the swelling demands for both tutoring and peer counseling. The ODE currently can serve only a few hundred students, but it has been estimated by Student Affairs that 5,000 people may need ODE services.

The ODE also works in conjunction with the writing lab. The writing lab is an English Department program designed to help students with problems in composition. Berns would like to be able to fund one or two graduate students as assistants in this program.

A new program suggested by Berns is a summer program directed towards incoming freshmen. This program would involve orientation and remedial course work.

Berns would also like to start "special components" designed to deal with the special problems of veteran, minority, handicapped and women students.

In addition, Berns would like to have a full-time professional counselor at the ODE next quarter.

Berns considers funding to be a serious problem with the ODE.

The program is funded directly through the Ohio Board of Regents, whose guidelines restrict ODE services to Ohio residents. This excludes many who need these services, including foreign students.

The Board awards the ODE a grant, renewable every two years. Berns says the funding procedure makes the entire program unstable. Berns contends that this funding practice makes it difficult to get long term commitments from the administration. The current grant expires in 1979.

One possible solution is the prospect of federal funding, for which, Berns points out, no application has ever been made. This may require, however, a change in the program's structure to adhere to federal guidelines.

Berns says that the ODE will try to coordinate with the problem subjects of English, mathematics and reading.

Although he recognizes "tremendous potential" in the ODE, he maintains that there is a "need for greater institutional commitment for this program if it is to develop its potential for University-wide services."

Ballet Western Reserve

Ballet called most beautiful of arts

by Velina Rosine

Ballet is a disciplined art form, and students are taught this from their very first class at Ballet Western Reserve on West Federal Street.

Michael Falotico, an instructor, director and choreographer for Ballet Western Reserve (BWR) quotes Havlock Ellis when discussing ballet, "dancing in the loftiest, the most moving, the most beautiful of the arts, because it is no mere translation or abstraction from life, it is life itself."

Presently there are 15 members in the company, which is the performing branch of students at BWR. This company was organized in 1970 with Falotico choreographing special works.

The company, as it is known today, performs in eight full scale productions as well as several performances for small audiences. The company performed 50 times in 1976 and Donna Eilers, a staff member at BWR, says BWR plans to perform at least as many times this year.

Full scale performances are held at different times during the year and YSU students can purchase tickets at a discount rate with a voucher. These vouchers are available through the Student Affairs offices in Kilcawley Center.

Usually BWR holds two performances in both the fall and spring with four performances in the winter. However, this year's winter performances of Nutcracker Suite have been cancelled.

The Nutcracker Suite has been an annual event since 1967 and is held during the Christmas season, but this year will be an exception. According to Falotico, the scenery and costumes are re-used each year and most of this equipment is in need of repair. Rejuvenation work will be done over the course of this year. Next year Nutcracker will be back, hopefully bigger and better than before" said Eilers.

BWR also houses an academy which instructs approximately 225 students of ballet, whose ages range from five to 55 years.

The academy charges tuition to students and is self-supporting while the company is supported by the Youngstown Ballet Guild, as well as through funds from the county and state.

Ballet has been termed a disciplined art and this is seen to be true by examining the practice schedules of company members. The company has general lessons six days a week and before a performance practice sessions are held seven days a week. Falotico said that "our dancers work at least 50 hours a week."

This work is rewarded, in part, by community recognition given to BWR. Mayor Hunter proclaimed BWR week in October, and last spring the Youngstown community celebrated Michael Falotico day.

Another way the long hours of work can be rewarded is the attainment of positions in professional dancing companies. Several past members of BWR have become professional dancers in well-known companies, including Dance Theatre of Harlem, National Ballet of Canada, Cleveland Ballet, Garden State Ballet and Heritage Dance Theatre.

Members of the BWR company have been studying ballet for at least seven years while some have been dancing for 10 years. For most of the company members, 10 years of study adds up to more than half of their lives since 13 of them are still in high school. Another company member, Robert Tupper, is a student at YSU where he is pursuing a degree in Fine and Performing Arts.

Falotico has choreographed more than 70 ballets for the company as well as instructed classes of students enrolled in the academy. He has been involved with ballet since his studies began at the age of 10 and he has been with BWR since it was organized in 1970.

When emphasizing the place of ballet in today's society Falotico quotes Maurice Bejart, "The eighteenth century belonged to the theatre, the nineteenth to music, but the twentieth century belongs to dance."

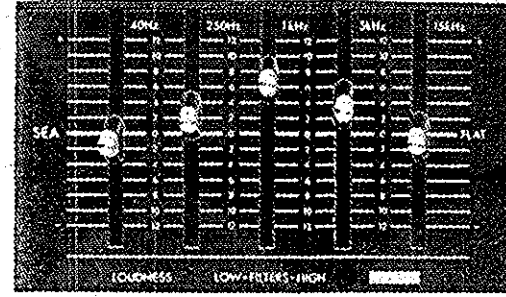

Even for those who do not choose to make a life-time career of ballet, there are benefits to be gained from a study of this dance form. According to BWR's Tenth Anniversary program, "with dance training comes a sense of well being, a better posture, a certain air of confidence and poise, and a heightened appreciation of a very difficult art form."

Ballet Western Reserve to perform

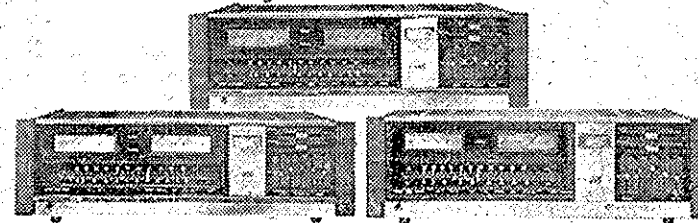

Ballet Western Reserve dancers will perform two ballets at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 9 in Bliss Hall's Ford Theatre. Soldier's Tale is the first ballet on the program, directed by William B. Slocum, department of music.

Sextet which first premiered at YSU in April 1977, is the second ballet of the evening. It features new choreography and a new theme.
