

YSU hires Chicago company to assist in classifying staff

by Denise Lloyd

The consultant firm Hayes and Associates of Chicago has been hired by the University to assist in developing a salary classification system for the non-teaching and administrative staff of YSU.

According to Taylor Alderman, vice president of personnel, the project was undertaken after the Board of Trustees became concerned about the level salaries might reach in "longevity cases, and directed President Coffelt" to take action.

The study will affect 140 people, including everyone on the administrative staff—except President Coffelt.

The purpose, Alderman said, is to enable the University to have a system for granting pay increases, promoting personnel, and filling vacated positions.

Each member of the staff will complete a 14-page questionnaire dealing with the difficulty of the job, the necessary qualifications for the position, and the importance of the job to the success of the University.

The immediate supervisor of the staff member then will review the questionnaire and will make comments, but will not be permitted to make any changes.

The appropriate vice president also will look over the form and settle any discrepancies which might arise between the opinions of the staff member and the supervisor.

After reviewing these questionnaires, the consulting firm will place each job in a classification and assign it to a salary range.

The University will then use these classifications as a guide in giving raises, and will grant increases within the range for each position. When an employee reaches the highest salary level for his job, wage increases will come only when the cost of living or inflation warrants.

From the 140 people involved, an estimated 120 classifications will be designated and according to the "study outline" put out by Hayes and Associates, the job study and classification will "deal with jobs, not individuals."

A classification can be made up of one or more person and will consist of people with positions of similar qualifications and similar responsibility, but not necessarily similar duties.

A means to challenge classifications will be set up for those dissatisfied with their ranking.

Alderman, who is acting as liaison between the Chicago firm and the University sees this as "a more effective way to manage the University." He feels that this system will equalize pay differences which might exist between people on the same level of administration but with widely diversified duties.

He also sees the implementation of this new system as a more efficient way of filling vacated positions, because the qualifications and duties of the job will be more clearly defined.

The consultant's contract was not put up for bid, according to Alderman, because personnel services are not required by law to be put up for bid.

He feels this firm was chosen because of similar work it has conducted for other institutions of higher education. Other universities which have used Hayes and Associates are the University

Bad weather closes YSU Classes resume Wednesday

by Jeff Gallant & Sherry Williams

Classes resumed as normal on Wednesday after a Sunday night snow storm caused YSU to close on Tuesday. The University remained open Monday, however, despite a wind chill factor of 30 degrees below zero and a forecast of an additional 2-4 inches on top of the five inches already accumulated, according to the National Weather Service.

All area schools were closed both Monday and Tuesday, but University President Dr. John Coffelt said he made the decision to remain open on Monday after talking to city and county government offices and obtaining a road report. "All roads were open," Coffelt said.

"When there is bad weather,"

Coffelt explained, "I call the City Engineer's office, the highways, the Mahoning County Department of Roads, and ask for conditions. I check the University and if the lots are open, then I do not close the school."

When questioned about the problem of a student making up missed work because he was not able to make it to school, Coffelt said, "If a student has a problem with a class where they miss a test, there's a way to make it up. If the faculty is unfair, there's a grievance process."

Other factors are involved. "If I have to close school, then I have to pay double-time to all those employees who have to come. It costs the University additional money everytime I close the school. And under Board [of Trustee's] policy it has to be an emergency. I cannot close the University on a whim."

Faculty members generally supported the decision to keep YSU open on Monday. Dr. Joseph Altinger, mathematics, said that, despite the weather, 28 out of 34 students in his 9 a.m. class showed up. He said, "Judging from the number of students, I do not think that the University should have been closed." He added, "I do not cover any new material or give tests" when attendance is low because of weather.

Dr. Mark Masaki, psychology, agreed and reported that his 9 a.m. class was about two thirds full. He said, "I would rather that the University be closed, but I have responsibilities." Also sharing the opinion was Randall Gerber, program director of the YSU-TV Center, who said, "I cannot speak for the rest of the University, but I have come to work. The TV Center would still be open regardless of the weather."

Committee reports recommendations Study indicates day care is needed

by Denise Lloyd

The Student Council ad hoc day care committee reported a need for day care facilities at YSU to Student Council at Monday's meeting.

After several months of study, the committee made four recommendations concerning the need for day care services. The first recommendation states that "a day care center be established for YSU students, operating from 7:30 until 5:30 Monday through Friday and serving children 18 months to five years old."

The committee also recommended that "the funding and control of this day care center be an academic department matter; therefore any interested academic department will prepare a proposal concerning the funding and operating of a day care center for YSU students."

The final two recommendations suggested the basement of the bookstore in Kilcawley be used for the center, and that the committee members "be invited to participate in any further developments concerning day care."

The day care committee was formed in spring of 1977 to determine the need of a day care center at YSU and to report back to council.

The committee conducted research by visiting other Universities and gathering information on when their day care centers were started.

The University of Akron, University of Cincinnati, Cleveland State, Kent State, Ohio University, Ohio State University and the University of Toledo, all of which have day care facilities, were included in the study.

A survey was also conducted at YSU by the committee. A

Current wages to remain the same for student employees on campus

Student employees at YSU will not be receiving the minimum wage of $2.65 an hour set by the Federal Minimum Wage Law that became effective Jan. 1, 1978. The students are currently being paid $2.30 an hour.

According to Richard Glunt, acting vice president for Financial Affairs, a pay raise for student employees to the current federal minimum wage would "cost $50 thousand for the next six months." An increase would have resulted in a possible cut back in student employment, either in hours worked or in

William Collins, assistant dean of financial aids, said that none of the other state universities are raising student employee wages to $2.65 an hour. According to Collins, during the budget planning for the fiscal year which beginning July 1, 1977 and ending June 30, 1978, additional funds for an employee pay-raise were not allocated. Collins added that the University is required to pay only 85 percent of the federal minimum wage.

the University must pay its 500-540 student employees the former state minimum wage of $2.30 an hour. The students received a pay raise in January 1977 to equal this amount.

Charles McBriarty, dean of student affairs, said that budget committee meetings resume next month for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979. He added that the topic of raising student employees to the current minimum wage will be discussed. However, McBriarty said that a pay raise depends on the current enrollment figures and the amount of state subsidies received by YSU.

McBriarty added that under the present budget allocations, "fewer students would be hurt by keeping it where it is."

The firm will report their findings to the University Budget Committee sometime in March. The Budget Committee will then make recommendations on new policy measures to the University Board of Trustees, which has the final decision. Any new policy decided upon will not take effect until June 1978.

NEWS BRIEF

The Mahoning-Trumbull Air Pollution Control Board will receive a grant of $120,207 from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for the two-county air pollution control program this year.

Total project costs for the program amount to $204,163. State and local funds cover the non-Federal portion of those costs.

It was also announced that the Youngstown-Warren area will receive $2,194,467 for housing assistance from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in fiscal year 1978.

This money will provide assistance to an estimated 695 lower-income households, including the elderly and the handicapped, under HUD's two major rental assistance programs, Section 8 and Public Housing. HUD adds that the rental subsidy will generate construction work. The availability of the subsidy for renters encourages housing sponsors to seek contracts for new apartments or for rehabilitation of older buildings.

Public inquiries should be made to the Youngstown Metropolitan or Trumbull public housing authorities.

Volunteers needed for drawing blood and donating

Volunteers are needed to assist with the Red Cross Blood Drawing this quarter. The volunteers are needed for both work at the actual drawing and work prior to the drawing. Anyone interested should contact student council member Tony Koury in the student government offices, second floor Kilcawley Center.

25 people are needed to phone donors who gave during the Fall quarter drawing. Volunteers will be making the calls during the week of Jan. 23rd.

Volunteers at the actual drawing may work in one of the following areas:

- registration - take donors name, address, etc. (at least 4 volunteers are needed)
- bag table - place numbers on donor's registration form and on bags and vials (at least 4 volunteers are needed)
- bed area - help donors on and off tables (at least 4 volunteers are needed)
- canteen - serve orange juice and doughnuts to donors (at least 2 volunteers are needed)

All volunteers should be available for at least 1 hour of work, although anyone may work longer. "All assistance is welcome," reports Blood Drive Chairman Tony Koury.

Furnishing problem delays opening of new A&S building

by Sharon Bose

"Moving into the new Arts and Sciences building depends a lot on the furniture right now" said William Haines, assistant director of campus development. The big move into the new building at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Spring Street should begin Jan. 16 and continue throughout the quarter.

The proper delivery of furniture is the big factor influencing the move right now. The University is dependent upon delivery by the manufacturer, said Haines. According to Nick Leonelli, director of campus development, the "moves will be scheduled by the way that the furniture comes in." Leonelli added that "by the end of the month or the first week of February all the furniture ought to be in."

The building is in a "shakedown" period right now said Haines, a time when the physical plant people can become familiar with the building and minor problems can be solved. "There's a small heating problem in the small auditorium" but this appears to be the only problem with the building right now, according to Haines.

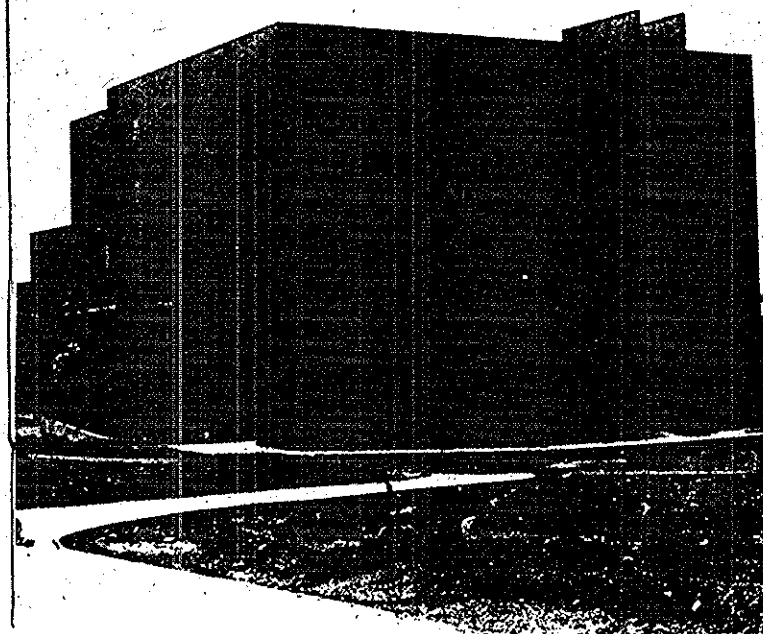

Haines said that the heating problem being currently experienced with Bliss Hall was not discovered until the heating season started. "We may have the same problem with the cooling system in the Arts and Sciences Building when summer comes" said Haines, "but we really won't be able to tell until then."

The shakedown period also consists of small items that the contractor must complete before he can be paid by the University. This is mainly additional finishing work inside the building, said Haines, and includes checking the temperature and thermostats, ventilators the air conditioning controls, light switches and fire alarms. The building is also cleaned, and small items like replacing burned out light bulbs are done.

The outside of the building, of course, is not finished yet, "but it will be completed during spring quarter" said Haines. "By spring quarter the entire building should be utilized, which includes classrooms" added Haines.

Regarding classes, Pat Helsel of the registrar's office says that "If they're all moved in (Cont. on page 12)

New evaluations get an 'F' grade

Day Care needed

An ad hoc day care committee, appointed by Student Council, has after several months of study determined that a definite need for day care services exists at YSU.

A survey conducted by the committee in the form of a questionnaire was given out at winter registration and was answered by 448 people.

The subject of a day care center at YSU is not a new one. According to Vice-president of Student Government, Linda Schajatic, who worked on the committee, the idea of having a day care center on campus has "been brought up several times in the last seven years but this is the closest we've gotten."

Most of the other state universities in Ohio have had day care services for several years. Kent State and Akron University both established their day care facilities in 1972.

With YSU, like other universities trying to broaden its enrollment base by reaching "non traditional students," day care services become increasingly important. Many of these students have young children which prevent them from returning to school.

In fact, the survey given by the committee showed that most of those students needing day care facilities were in the freshman class.

Aside from the fact of showing the need of day care facilities on campus, the committee also made some good recommendations about the establishment of a day care center. The suggestion that "the funding and control of this day care center be an academic department matter" is a good one. Set up in this way, the day care center could be used as a learning experience, while at the same time serving the needs of student parents.

Although the committee has done a good job and Student Council has voted to support the day care center, they are powerless to take action.

The hope is that an academic department will take the initiative and prepare a proposal for the funding and operating of a day care center.

The establishment of a day care center at YSU is long overdue.

As some students may already have noticed, there has been a change in our Student Evaluation of Faculty sheets. It is one which insults the very intelligence which we, as degree-seeking, educated people, are suppose to have.

They, (the administration), call this new evaluation a reform. I call it an outrage! The questions asked are asked in a manner that a third-grade teacher would address their class. Also, some of the questions are down right ridiculous! The question in Part 2, Question "F" reads like this, "The instructor grades my work fairly?" A) almost always; B) frequently, C) more often than not; D) occasionally; E) hardly ever.

The only way a student can answer that question with accuracy is if they stand over the instructor when he grades their work. Hell, if I got a "D" on a paper I felt was better, do you think I'm going to mark "A" on the evaluation sheet? I realize that today most people are pushing for simplification, but this faculty evaluation sheet is not progress, it is regression. The old sheet, with all it's faults, was far superior in asking questions which were relevant.

The three main reasons for the evaluation is: 1) give the administration a base to use for promotions and tenure. Some students do not realize how important the evaluation sheets are in these decisions. 2) Give the faculty feedback on their method of relating a subject to students, and what improvements they may have to make. It can also provide a base to protect competent faculty. 3) Give students an evaluation of the quality of the professors, whether they are good or not.

This last idea is one which is good in theory; however, at the present time, Youngstown State does not publish it's findings for the average student to read, thus enabling them to find out who is a competent faculty member, and who is not. I personally believe that students have the right to have the percentages of the evaluation sheets published and open to the public. This would allow students better selection in class scheduling.

The two questions which must be asked about our new evaluation sheet are: Does it provide consistent and valid data on teaching effectiveness? and Does this new evaluation method meet the student's needs?

To these two questions I say NO! I feel that it is a shame that the Ohio Education Association has adopted this program until 1981, when collective bargaining will again take place on campus. I feel we cannot wait until then, we need action now!

To The Editor of the Jambar:

I wasn't in school Monday or Wednesday. I made no attempt to attend Monday, but did try Wednesday. Try I did, although in futility. I never made it into my driveway, though. I was stuck in a drift, grinding tires and spitting snow, with numb feet and frozen fingers for one-half hour before being unstuck. I was so angry and frustrated, I decided to chuck it.

School is important, but no so important that I'll endanger my health and safety.

I hope my instructors understand my absences, especially those who take into consideration attendance in their grading structures.

But to the point. Why does YSU insist on being open when

by Guz Scullin

Soon the Sheet & Tube will stand idle, well, the buildings will stand idle, that is, if in fact buildings do stand, rather than sit. Buildings definitely do not lie. There has been much speculation as to what will be done with the buildings when they are vacant. There are many rumors afloat.

One rumor has it that a Japanese company will buy the buildings and remodel them into a disco. The disco will be named "The Bump and Grind." It supposedly will serve cold beer and polyester pants. Silk print shirts will be available at a small price.

Another rumor has it that the buildings will be flooded and stocked with trout. As one game and wildlife official put it, "There just aren't enough trout in this area. The building idea holds water I feel. I mean, you ain't had fish, till you've had hot buttered trout. I like mine with a wedge of lemon, and a dab of tartar sauce, but sometimes I like it with..."

There is also a rumor that YSU will buy the buildings, and raze them for parking space. Although the buildings are quite far from the YSU campus, many feel it would be excellent for parking space. I questioned one official about the validity of the rumor.

"Sure we've been kicking the idea around. Lots of people complain about the distance factor, they feel that walking five or ten miles is too much for the students. Ha, I say! When I was young, I walked 100 miles every day to school, and it didn't hurt me!"

There is another rumor that the buildings will be converted into unemployment offices.

There is also talk of converting them into a resort area. It seems a major investor from the west feels that the buildings would make a nice "dude ranch." It is rumored that this mysterious investor has said that the mill area would make a nice corral for all the tenderfoots in the area.

There are so many rumors around, that I find it difficult to believe any of them. Why just in the past week or so, I have heard that the buildings would be converted into such things as a bar, a church (non-denominational), a YSU bookstore, a Sumu wrestling ring, the re-election of Nixon headquarters, an ice cream parlor, an opera house, a Vega storehouse, a college for taxidermists interested in becoming economists and even one rumor of the buildings becoming shoe repair shops.

Yes, indeed, people do have many strange ideas about this sad state of affairs. Do not believe any rumors, until you first have checked with the television weatherman. I am not going to say which television weatherman, but I have it from an excellent source that a certain television weatherman has purchased the buildings, and the decision is up to him.

Day care study completed; student discount plan begins

by Irene Taylor
Student Council reporter

The report of the ad hoc student services sub-committee on day care and the Firestone Student discount program were two major items of unfinished business completed at Student Council's first meeting of Winter quarter, Jan. 9.

The day care report represents eight months of extensive research into the need for day care services on campus.

George Glaros, president of student council, announced that the Firestone Student Discount begins Friday, January 13. According to Glaros, the discount applies to all YSU students and faculty with valid I.D. cards. Glaros also said the discount applies to all Firestone outlets in the Youngstown area.

Glaros announced that request forms for Student Government funding were sent out to all registered student organizations Jan. 5. Glaros asks all organizations effected to attend a general meeting Jan. 25. Instructions for filling out the forms will be given in detail at the meeting. Glaros noted that 4 p.m. Feb. 3 is the first time and day for submission of all funding request forms to Student Government offices.

The election committee reported that a total of nine seats are open for winter quarter student elections. The distribution of seats is as follows: representative at Large, two positions; School of Arts and Sciences, one position; School of Business, one position; School of Education, two positions; CAST, two positions; and School of Engineering, one position.

Nancy Tokarsky, student council secretary, is stepping down. John Carano, chairman of student council reported that Tokarsky was replaced temporarily by Agnes Katsadas, council member from Arts and Sciences. According to Carano, a permanent replacement will be discussed at Council's next meeting.

No School

The University will be closed Monday, Jan. 16, in celebration of Martin Luther King Day. Classes will resume on Tuesday as usual.

Research professorships awarded to nine outstanding YSU teachers

by John W. Kearns

The nine Research Professorships that were awarded this academic year for the first time as part of the current YSU-OEA Agreement will have positive effects on the status of YSU education by reflecting the growing role of research here, according to Dr. Leon Rand, dean of graduate studies and research, who chaired the selection committee.

The professorships, which entail a teaching load reduction of an average of four hours per quarter, but no funding, were awarded in late summer to facilitate completion of on-going research projects.

This year's professorships have been awarded to Dr. Paul X. Bellini, civil engineering; Dr. James Dale, political and social science; Dr. Janet Del Bene, Dr. Charles Gebelein and Dr. Steven Schilderout, all from chemistry; Dr. Saul Friedman, history; Russell Maddick, art; Dr. Eugene Santos, mathematics/computer science; and Dr. Anthony Sobota, biology.

According to section 13.22 of the current YSU-OEA Agreement entitled Grants and Research, "Each year up to nine faculty members whose unsubsidized research is deemed meritorious of support shall be designated 'Research Professors.' A Research Professor shall teach no more than 24 (quarter hours) during the three quarters of the academic year."

"Applicants shall be screened by a five-member committee composed of two senior members of the graduate faculty appointed by the Administration, two senior members of the graduate faculty appointed by the president of the Association (OEA), and the Dean of Graduate Studies and Research, who shall chair the Committee..."

Dr. Leon Rand, dean of graduate studies and research, commented that, while the contract specifies "unsubsidized research," funding is available from a variety of sources.

Funding may come from outside sources like Housing and Urban Development, National Science Foundation, Endowment for the Arts and Humanities, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, state agencies and others, or from inside sources such as departmental research budgets or the University Research Council (URC).

Money from the URC requested by Research Professors is most often used for student help, travel, printing costs, or materials.

Some projects that Research Professors are working on are funded by the URC, some from outside sources, and some, not at all.

According to Dr. Anthony Stocks, economics, a member of the Research Professor Screening Committee, the nine were chosen from about 15 applicants.

Criteria used in the selection, said Stocks, were the merits of the project, determined in a large part by the amount of detail and how well the proposal was written. Those applicants from the sciences, who were in the majority, excelled due to their familiarity with writing research proposals. Most of the research done at YSU is in the natural sciences.

Another criterion was significant work already done by the applicant. As Stocks put it, "I think it's easier for a guy who already has a reputation to get grants than a guy just starting out."

Morrison Lecture

Cliff Morrison, from the Mahoning County Experimental Station, will speak at 12 noon, Fri. Jan. 20 in room 410, Ward Beecher. The lecture is sponsored by the YSU Forestry and Conservation Society and is free and open to the public.

Engineers Seminar

The American Institute of Industrial Engineers is sponsoring a student chapter night, to be held Jan. 18. The night involves meeting and discussing industrial engineering with practicing industrial engineers in the Youngstown area.

The AIIE is also hosting a microprosper and minicomputer seminar at 8 a.m. Sat. Jan. 14 in Room 239, Engineering Science Building. The seminar, open to the public and all students, is for the purpose of introducing the basics of microprosper design and operation with emphasis on practical applications. Reservations are necessary for the seminar and can be made at the industrial engineering office. For more information on the student chapter night or the seminar, call or stop in at the office, Room 237 Engineering Science Building, ext. 337.

Smith Lecture

Dr. Frank Smith of the Ontario (Canada) Institute of Studies in Education will be on campus from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Jan. 19. Dr. Smith is being sponsored by the English department through an Instructional Improvement Grant from the University. He is well-known for his work in psycholinguistics and reading, and especially for his book Understanding Reading (2nd. edition, 1978). The combined lectures and workshop will be held in Kilcawley, room 236.

Counseling Center extends offer for self-improvement courses

The Counseling and Testing Center has nine self-development programs on their agenda for winter quarter. Sessions are being conducted by a member of the Counseling Center staff and are free. Only registration at the Counseling Center is necessary in order to join these groups.

Improving Study Habits is a one-hour session which meets at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 7 or at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 16, and will discuss study habits, note taking and approaches that help improve study.

Time Management is also a one-hour session which focuses on identifying goals and setting priorities for meeting them. This group will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 21 or at 4 p.m., Tuesday, March 7.

A Women's Growth Group for women who want to become aware of themselves will meet all quarter from 1 to 3 p.m. on Thursdays beginning Jan. 19 through March 9.

A Personal Growth Group designed to help students learn how to respond to everyday life more easily and effectively will meet from 7 to 9 p.m., Wednesdays, Jan. 18 to March 8.

If you allow others to make decisions for you and hide yourself, then Assertiveness Training may be for you. Each individual will be given the opportunity to practice new behaviors. The group will meet for two hours on Wednesdays from 2 to 4 p.m. beginning Jan. 18.

A program for students who have not yet made career decisions may find it helpful to attend the Career Motivation Program. These sessions will be held all quarter from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Mondays or from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesdays beginning on Jan. 30.

A panel will give tips to medical school candidates on how to interview in Interviewing Skills for Medical Students. Faculty members and doctors from the community will interview those students who need practice in interviewing from 4 to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 12, in Kilcawley 216.

Good Grief, I'm Different is for women who have postponed their education or have a change in their life-style. The group will offer an opportunity to discuss problems and be with friends, and meets noon to 1 p.m., Mondays, beginning Jan. 23 through March 13.

Individuals may take the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) tests during the third week of each month at the Counseling Center. The exams are designed to give college credit to individuals for what they have learned outside the classroom. There is a cost of $20 for one of the exams, $30 for two and $40 for three to five exams.

To register for any of these free self-development groups, stop by the Counseling Center at 615 Bryson Street or call ext. 461.

Day Care Survey Completed

questionnaire was distributed during winter quarter to determine the number of students who needed day care center facilities and the type of service they would require.

448 students answered the survey, with 185 needing full day services. The largest number of students needing day care services were freshman. Also, 310 of those who filled out the survey were double-parent families and 133 made up a single-parent family.

In the survey, it was found that the largest need for day care services is in the two-to-five-year age bracket. Next were those children under 18 months, and then children 18 months through two years.

When asked if they could pay up to $3 per day for the day care services, 330 respondents said yes while 115 answered no.

Linda Schajatic, vice-president of student government, served in an ex-officio capacity on the committee. She read the committee's report and recommendations to council and the findings received council's unanimous support.

Other members of the committee were Margie Ellis, Helene Olexo and Marita Novicky.

YSU speakers take honors at Ohio University tourney

Six members of the YSU speech team participated in final rounds, and the team placed fourth overall at the Charles G. O'Blennis speech tournament held January seventh and eighth at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio. Twenty-seven schools from six states participated in the event, which marked the beginning of the speech season for 1978.

Topping the YSU squad by taking honors in three categories was Dan O'Rourke, third year speech veteran who is a senior speech and political science major. Dan, who is a Howland High School graduate, placed second in salesmanship (selling the newest Webster's dictionary), third in extemporaneous speaking (talking on current affairs) and fourth in improvisational pairs with Josanna Parenti as his partner. Josanna, from Struthers, is a junior comprehensive communications major.

George Cheney, junior psychology major, continued his streak of placing in at least one event at each tournament by taking fourth place honors in extemporaneous speaking. George is the only member of the team who has not been shut out at a tournament. He is a 1975 graduate of Cardinal Mooney High School.

Another Mooney graduate, Rick Schilling, placed fourth in prose interpretation reading a selection called The Genius, by Frank O'Connor. Rick is a two-year veteran of the speech team and is a commercial art major.

This tournament also marked the winning debut of two new members of the team. Lateefa Duke, from South and Rich Core, from Warren Harding, received fifth place for their interpretation of a scene from James Baldwin's Pulitzer Prize winning play The Amen Corner. Both Lateefa and Rich are freshmen and plan to continue in speech.

In an effort to regain some interest in a debate program at YSU, four members of the speech team participated in the novice debate section of the tournament while not competing in individual events. Those who debated were: Dan O'Rourke and Carole Colburn on the affirmative side and George Cheney, and Matt Sobnoski for the negative. If anyone is interested in becoming involved in debate or individual events, please contact either Dave Robinson or Kai Sorensen in the speech department in Bliss Hall.

all public and private schools in a three-county area remain closed, including some institutions of higher learning? Kent State, a campus where most students live in residence, closed Monday, yet YSU, with its thousands of commuter students remained open.

I consider myself a good student and don't like to miss classes. I just don't understand YSU's reluctance to cancel classes.

Doesn't anyone have consideration for the YSU student? Are we being prepared to become mailpersons (through wind, rain, sleet, snow, icy roads, snowdrifts)? Can't we get a little cooperation from an infallible administration, especially when students' safety is endangered? Well, Excussssse us!!!

Textile tops Penguins in overtime; YSU races to victory over Barons YSU's basketball team would have been better off staying in out of the cold like everyone else on Tuesday night.

Instead, they braved "Old Man Winter" and hit the road where they succumbed in overtime, 73-65, to Philadelphia Textile in the proverbial "heartbreaking" contest.

The Penguins, now 7-4, saw their four game winning streak snapped while giving a fine effort despite the loss of the talented Gerald Parks to an ankle injury.

Parks is now recovered and is expected to start against arch-rival Akron tomorrow night in Beeghly Center at 8 p.m.

YSU gamely battled back from a seemingly insurmountable 10 point deficit to tie the game at 58 with 2 minutes left, when substitute forward Steve Taczak calmly drilled a short turnaround shot precipitating the overtime period.

Unfortunately, the Rams of Textile came out charging in the extra period, outscoring a beleaguered YSU five, 15-7, who's efforts suddenly became as frigid as the weather outside.

The unmitable Jeff Covington led both teams with 28 points and 14 rebounds which should come as no surprise to anyone.

The winners, now 7-2, were paced by guard Steve Rush, who after being inserted midway in the first half, responded with 19 points including three "three-point" plays.

A scoring attack which was as balanced as can be also featured Lloyd Ranson's 16 Al Angelos' 18 and Randy Owens' 12. Textile made good on a heady 29 of 52 field attempts and were unblemished at the charity stripe by converting 15 straight.

The Penguins, on the other hand, were the antithesis of balance as forward Frank Andrews, who seems to be dwelling in anonymity all season, hooped 18 and teamed up with Covington to score 46 of the Penguin YSU's total of 65 points. Guard Donny Thompson, an unexpected starter for the injured Parks, did a commendable job all over the floor and finished with 9 points. Forward Steve Miodrag, an excellent outside shooter whose reluctance to shoot is a mystery, netted 6, guard Joe Votino had two as did Taczak.

Team-wise, the Penguins hit were almost even on 27 of 55 from the floor and displayed an improved free-throw effort on 11 of 12.

Team play was the name of the game in YSU's 96-60 conquest of the Barons of Steubenville in a mismatch Sat. night in Beeghly center.

A total of twelve players saw action and eleven scored for the Penguins, who reeled off their fourth straight victory, all at home, and upped their seasonal mark to 7-3.

The two-time All-American Covington, as usual, led the way with 25 points and the ever improving Parks followed with 19, despite limited playing time as Rosselli was able to clear his bench against the hapless Barons.

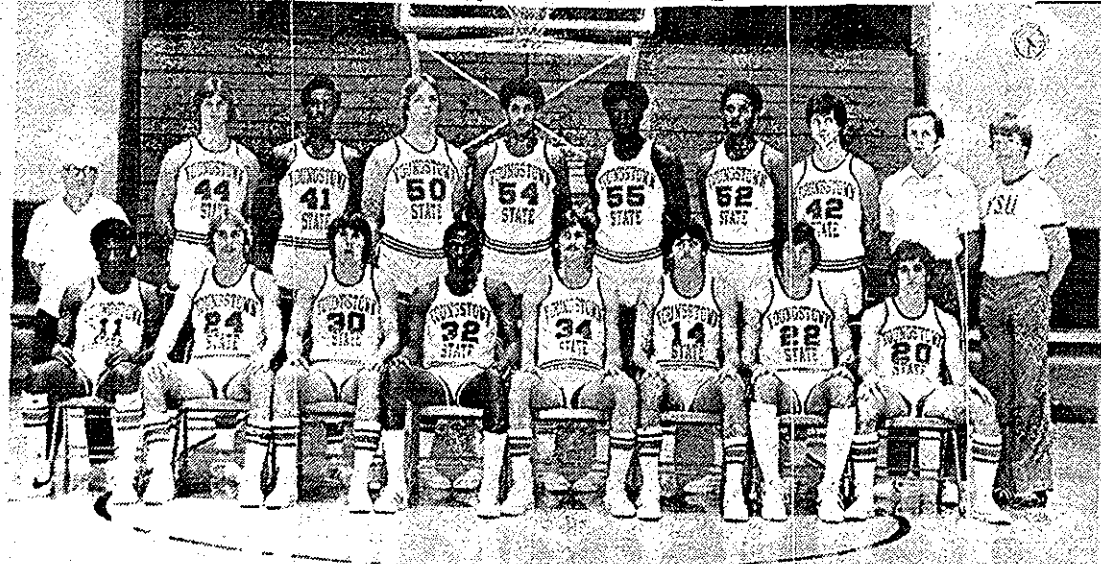

The game's outcome was never in doubt as YSU controlled from the opening tip, streaking to a comfortable 52-35 lead at halftime by unveiling a (Cont. on page 10)

And From the Sports Desk.....

The reputation of the Philadelphia Textile Rams did not seem to frighten the Penguins Tuesday night when they travelled to Philadelphia. It was not so much fear that possessed the team but, rather, the lack of an outside shooter. The Penguins were forced to rely entirely on their inside game because of the absence of guard Gerald Parks who sprained his ankle during practice Monday. Although Parks has been criticized in the past for shooting too much on occasion, you can't afford to lose a scorer of his caliber without feeling it. Don Thompson opened in his spot, which to me was sort of surprising because Don is not exactly the first guard Dom Rosselli inserts when he needs a substitution. As a matter of fact, he is lucky if he sees any action which is true of many of the subs. The Penguins were not going to beat anybody with only two shooters in double figures even though they almost managed to pull it off after the Rams managed to blow a ten point lead. Steve Miodrag came out shooting but all of a sudden he stopped and actually took only one shot the entire second half before being replaced by Steve Taczak. Jeff Covington played a tremendous game under the circumstances. Textile knew that the Penguins would have to go inside with the absence of Parks but, Jeff was equal to the task. If the guards would have shot once in a while, maybe the pressure would have been off of Covey's shoulders.

Gerald Parks will return to action in time for Saturday's clash with Akron. Let's hope that his presence will make for a more diversified Penguin offensive attack.

Tonight, the wrestlers return to action against Eastern Michigan and Waynesburgh State at 7:30 in Beeghly Center. Tomorrow, the women's basketball team opens their season against Hiram at 1 p.m. in Beeghly and the gymnastics team takes on Miami (O) at Oxford at noon. And tomorrow night it's Akron. Stay warm and enjoy the weekend.

Peggie Oberg, runner-up

Women's swim team drops opener at Bowling Green

by Melinda Ropar

The YSU women's swim team was defeated by powerful Bowling Green State University in their initial meet of the season at Bowling Green, Saturday.

Featuring for the Penguins were Mary Bernard, second place in the breaststroke and the 200 meter freestyle relay team of Joanie Peterson, Melinda Ropar, Jeannine Crossley, and Michelle Blum which also took second place. Stephanie Ihle, Barb Wynn, Anne Johnston, and Jeannine Crossley also took third places in individual events.

This year, the Penguins face a difficult dual meet schedule. The teams include Allegheny, Kent State, Indiana, and Miami which are all recognized as national swimming powers.

The Penguins will further be hurt at the loss of butterfly Meridith Rose to graduation. Her spot will be taken by Margie Edling, who will also be swimming in the individual medley event.

Because the team is swimming more highly skilled teams this year, coach Tucker Di Edwardo does not predict many victories. However, he sees much improvement over last year's team. "We have a small nucleus of individuals who have just scratched their potentials."

Wrestlers seek fourth win; 'Big Three' paces Penguins

After a five-week layoff due to the holidays, YSU's wrestlers will return to the mat wars this Friday, Jan. 13 at 7:30 p.m. when they host Eastern Michigan and Waynesburg State in a triangular meet.

After losing two of their first three meets, the Penguins have strung two victories together for a 3-2 record.

Tom Cox, in his fourth campaign as YSU's wrestling mentor, cited the importance of the 21-19 win over Slippery Rock in his team's fourth match of the season.

"That was our greatest victory since I've been here. It was a total team effort."

While six wrestlers continue to provide the bulwark of the Penguins' attack, Cox believes that if several weight classes can shortly be resolved, then his squad will be a formidable and competitive unit in their remaining matches.

Junior Mike Hardy has a 4-1 mark at 134, while sophomore 158-pounder Ken Hrycyk is 4-1. Freshman Joel Petefish owns a 3-2 record at 177. YSU's "Big Three" of Don Hernan, Dane Stilgenbauer, and Ken Moser, continue to give brilliant performances. The trio has a combined record this winter of 14-0-1.

Hernan, a senior who wrestles at 142, is undefeated in five matches. His overall dual meet record at YSU is a spectacular 66-11-1.

Stilgenbauer, is a junior 150-pounder with a 4-0-1 mark. His three-year mark for the Penguins is 46-17-3.

Moser, currently is also undefeated in five matches. Last winter he posted a 14-3-0 mark.

After this Friday night's triangular meet, the Penguins will journey to Ohio State next weekend, Jan. 21-22, where they will participate with 14 other schools in the All-Ohio Championships to be held at St. John's Arena on the OSU campus.

sizzling shooting hand, 20 of 35 field tries for 57 per cent, and by dominating the boards with forwards Miodrag and Andrews hauling in 10 and 9, respectively.

A throng in excess of 5,000 were treated to YSU's finest play this entire season early in the second half as the Penguins cruised to a lead as high as thirty over the exasperated visitors enabling every member of our varsity squad an opportunity to perform. Our reserves then battled Steubenville on equal terms before the clock mercifully ended the action.

A pleased Rosselli, who is the third winningest active coach in the nation with career wins, 531 noted that "our rebounding, especially in the opening half enabled us to get some quick baskets and force Steubenville in a catch-up game. Against Steubenville, Covington and Parks received a lot of scoring help as Miodrag and freshman guard Joe Lombardi each scored 10, and Andrews, Joe Sekora and Thompson all chipped in with six apiece.

Covington led all rebounders with 13 and Miodrag aided with 10.

Team-wise, the Penguins sank 38 of 66 floor attempts for a torrid 58 per cent and didn't do too bad at the foul stripe, 20 of 32, for 63 percent.

Steubenville's effort was led

YSU's undefeated (7-0) Jay-vee squad, under assistant coach Roger Lyons breezed past Kent State's reserves, 77-56. The young Penguins were paced by Tyrone Askew, a big hope for the future, with 30 points and Mark Brown's 19. An elated Rosselli stressed the importance of the reserve squad contests because... "they offer an excellent opportunity for young players to gain valuable experience and affords the coaching staff a chance to analyze their play under game conditions." Rosselli said that "one cannot simply learn simply by sitting on the bench and watching." Praise was handed out especially for Mark Brown, Askew and the "Little Twins", Jeff and Gerald Hoey.

Financial aid given to 122 affected by mill closing

by Sherry Williams

One hundred and twenty-two students have received financial assistance from a special grants-in-aid program implemented by the Youngstown Educational Foundation program to help with the education of dependents and employees affected by the Sheet and Tube closing reports William Collins, assistant director of financial aids.

On Sept. 26, 1977 Howard Jones, chairman of the Board of the YEF, and Dr. John Coffelt, YSU president, announced that $50,000 would be released from the YEF to aid those unemployed workers and their families in the payment of their tuition and fees.

One hundred and eight students have received awards for both winter and spring quarters and 14 have received awards for winter quarter only, for a total of 122 students on the special Sheet and Tube award program. Each student receives $75 per quarter issued to them in the form of a voucher which goes toward their tuition and fees.

One hundred and forty applications were received by the YEF to participate in this program, but several were turned down because the students were not in good standing, they were already receiving YEF funds or they were receiving another form of financial aid.

Of the $50,000 allocated only $17,250 has been used at this point. Collins said it is not known at this point whether the financial assistance will be extended and provide funds for next year.

Those interested may still submit applications for consideration of a spring quarter award. Deadline is Feb. 15.

The YEF is providing the funds on the following basis: awards will be made on a "first come" basis only so long as the $50,000 fund lasts, only students in "good standing" academically are eligible, students receiving any other YEF awards are ineligible, students receiving any other financial assistance awards equal to or in excess of the amount of their instructional and general fees, plus $130 for books and supplies for the winter and spring quarters combined are ineligible.

A special Sheet and Tube grant-in-aid application form is available at the Financial Aids by spring, there will be classes scheduled there."

A possible added delay in moving into the building is the installation of a Centrex Telephone System. The entire University will be converted over to the Centrex System, but the conversion will not be complete until April. "We didn't want to move people into the building until they had phones"

Donald Byo opens Dana series; four concerts planned

by YSU News Bureau

The Dana School of Music will present four concerts in its Monday and Wednesday series during the month of January. All the concerts are open to the public and are scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Bliss Recital Hall on the University campus.

Donald W. Byo, Dana's director of music and a bassonist, will inaugurate the series on Monday, Jan. 9. His program will feature French basson music over a period of two centuries.

David E. Starkey, assistant professor of music and tenor soloist, will present the songs of Mozart, Schubert and Britten in a concert on Jan. 20. Performing with Starkey will be Jeannette McCleery and Ballet Western Reserve.

On Wednesday, Jan. 25, the Dana Chamber Orchestra, under William Slocum, and the Dana Woodwind Quintet will perform a special program of music by Mozart.

Ray Vermino, guitarist, will complete the January concerts on Monday, Jan. 30. He will present a program of Spanish guitar music of the 17th to the 20th centuries.

Additional faculty, ensemble and student concerts are being scheduled by Dana School for the remaining months of the winter quarter.

said Haines. A minimum number of phones is in the building now or will be installed soon, added Haines.

The physical plant began labeling existing furniture on Jan. 5 in the departments to be moved to the new building. Some furniture and/or equipment such as bookcases and files will not be moved out of their old locations until all the departments have moved.

The psychology department and various aspects of research and testing will be housed on the basement level. The first floor will hold the administrative suit, a faculty room, a colloquium room and lecture hall.

The English department and classrooms will be placed on the second floor, and the third floor will be the site of the departments of economics and political and social science, computer rooms, a statistics lab and classrooms.

Philosophy and religious studies and sociology and anthropology will be based on the fourth floor, along with classrooms, and research methods, individual research and specimen repository labs.

The fifth floor will hold the history department and foreign languages, classrooms, and language labs.

Student lounges are on all floors of the building except for the basement level.

Professorships

Committee members desired a broad cross-section to give balance to the program. Thus, Professorships were awarded in art, history, math, biology, political science, civil engineering, and three in chemistry.

Stocks put the Professorships into perspective with other types of research programs and YSU. The most prevalent method is where the researcher pursues his project in addition to his normal teaching load and personal time commitments. Additionally, Professors can take up to two years leave of absence, said Stocks. Another part of the OEA Agreement provides for Faculty Improvement Leaves "to upgrade your skills for the benefit of the University and the University community," said Stocks. Eighteen three-quarter leaves and 18 one-quarter leaves are available.

The general consensus among those granted Research Professorships indicates that the effectiveness of the Professorship is dependent on the nature of the teaching load-if it is easily shifted to graduate assistants or other faculty. Also, most of those granted Professorships didn't learn of it until a couple of weeks before fall quarter was to start, letters of notification having been mailed September 9.
