Wall Mural Is Planned For Engineering Bldg.

Dean Michael J. Charignon of the Engineering School announced Wednesday that a fund has been started to have a mural painted on the main wall of the new Engineering Building's lobby.

Dean Charignon stated that approximately $15,000 would be needed for the mural. A small part of this amount has been collected already. Most of the contributions have been from alumni of the Engineering School.

The painter will be chosen from mural "painters of renown" through a competitive process, stated the Dean. Painters will be asked to submit samples of their ideas which will be judged by members of the Youngstown Art and other Departments.

Dean Charignon stated that he didn't want a "1910 version of a steam engine." One of the Dean's ideas would be a mural made up of geometric figures which, when looked at from different angles, would represent various machines.

So far contributions for the mural have ranged from ten to $100. Dean Charignon expects that it will take a few years before the necessary funds are collected.
