CELEBRATE INDEPENDENCE
DAY WITH WYSU

And then on Sunday, July 6th at noon, radio drama pioneer Norman Corwin celebrates Independence Day with his new play, Our Lady of the Freedoms and Some of Her Friends, starring Charles Kuralt. Our Lady... takes a new look at America's birthday, including reflections on our uniqueness as a melting pot that won't stop bubbling, the significance of why we scattered certain place names across the country, and the phenomenon of a 450,000 pound woman who occupies a very small island off the shores of our greatest city.

Our Lady of the Freedoms and Some of Her Friends was written and directed by Norman Corwin and produced by Youngstown native Mary Beth Kirchner.

Robert Siegel and Linda Wertheimer are two of the three hosts—the other is Ray Suarez—who bring you All Things Considered on weekday evenings from 5:00–7:00.
