Folk Concert is FRIDAY, November 5

Armor

& Sturtevant.

WYSU's 30th-Anniversary celebration continues with a lively evening of folk music. Join us for the fifth annual FOLK FESTIVAL concert on Friday, November 5, 1999 at 7:30 pm at Peaberry's of YSU in Youngstown State University's Kilcawley Center. Featured performers are Armor & Sturtevant, One Way Rider, and Dennis Cheplick. Charles Darling, host of WYSU's Folk Festival, will host the event. Guests are encouraged to use the M-8 parking lot off University Plaza. There is a $3.00 parking fee. The concert is free.

Armor & Sturtevant play a hybrid of East African traditional, Appalachian, and original music on a plethora of instruments, including fiddle, flute, guitar, accordion, mandolin, penny whistle, and kalimba. Performing nationwide at folk festivals, concerts, coffeehouses, and schools, this husband-wife duo comes by its unique sound honestly. Kelly Armor studied flute and composition at Yale before spending over two years in Kenya and Tanzania. David Sturtevant grew up listening to and accompanying the fiddle playing of his father.

Sturtevant's songs reflect his old-time roots and his lifetime of living along the Great Lakes. Their latest recording, You Dance Like You Drive, is currently enjoying air play and was featured on a broadcast of public radio's Car Talk.

Invited back for an encore performance is One Way Rider. This family bluegrass band has spent the past year touring the country and recording in Nashville. The Mayfield family of Diamond, Ohio, includes dad, David Lee; mom, Valerie Fay; son, David Ray; and daughters Amanda Lynn and Jessica Lea. One Way Rider's engaging delivery of beautiful harmonies and fast-paced instrumentals is sure to please.

Singer/songwriter/12-string guitarist Dennis Cheplick discovered songwriting at an early age -- and never stopped! A decade of live gigs and jamming, including a stint in Nashville, fueled his creativity and honed his extraordinary guitar work. His recordings have been broadcast on radio and television, and Cheplick continues to perform live. Now residing in Mercer, Pennsylvania, he has just been invited to record some of his instrumental compositions for radio, TV, and film.

Caption: Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra music director Mariss Jansons is being interviewed by Jim Cunningham, host of Pittsburgh Symphony Radio. A concert by the Pittsburgh Symphony is broadcast every Sunday at noon.

New Dimensions Saturday, 7:00 am

11/6 Meditation Mastery: A Dialogue with Krishnamurti. Acknowledged as one of the greatest religious teachers of this age, the late J. Krishnamurti was a visionary whose ideas are still ahead of his time.

11/13 Truth Is a Pathless Land: A Dialogue with Krishnamurti. The late philosopher J. Krishnamurti addresses love, greed, violence, separation, time, death, conflict, and fear, discussing them all with a clarity and insight that makes the entire landscape appear newly visible and replete with possibilities.

11/20 Turning Crises into Wisdom, with Elisabet Sahtouris. Evolutionary biologist Elisabet Sahtouris blends biology, philosophy, and spirituality to offer a multitude of reasons to remain hopeful despite dire predictions for our environment.

11/27 The Art of Eating, with Deborah Kesten. Deborah Kesten explores the connection between a loving consciousness and food, how food affects your moods, the history of some of our eating habits, and how "spiritual nutrition" enables you to establish a healthier relationship with food.

NPR World of Opera Saturday, 1:30 pm

11/6 MONTEVERDI: Orfeo. Houston Grand Opera/Houston Opera Studio; David Fallis, conductor. Cast: Daniel Belcher, Leslie Johnson, Jessica Jones. A second production this season of this first operatic masterpiece.

11/13 TOD MACHOVER: Resurrection. Houston Grand Opera; Patrick Summers, conductor. Cast: Joyce DiDonato, Scott Hendricks, Kerri Marcinko. Machover's inventively scored drama is based on Tolstoy's novel of the same name. It's a story of love and betrayal, political repression, and soulful redemption, all in an icy Russian setting that rivals the ultimate chill of Dr. Zhivago.

11/20 BOITO: Mefistofele. Houston Grand Opera; John DeMain, conductor. Cast: Samuel Ramey, Patricia Racette, William Joyner. This vivid score is among the most brilliant and powerful tellings of the immortal Faust legend.

11/27 VERDI: La traviata. Houston Grand Opera; Patrick Summers, conductor. Cast: Patricia Racette, Ramon Varga, Vassily Gerello. In the erstwhile Richard Gere film Pretty Woman, Verdi's familiar masterpiece nearly made Julia Roberts...um, you know. And you probably remember the line.
