

Dear Dr. Bomonhos,

I would like to thank you for giving me an incomplete as a final grade in your class during spring quarter. It allowed me the extra time I needed to help my uncle recover from his operation.

If it is possible, I would like to set up a time when I could take a make-up exam. I am working weekdays from 8 AM until 6:00 PM, but I usually have weekends free. The exceptions being Aug 5, 6 and 12-13. However I have a week's vacation starting Aug. 14. If it is convenient for you I would like to take the exam on Aug 15.

Please write to me at the address on the envelope, or you may contact me at 412-654-6195 weekdays from 6:10 to 7:30 PM or after 9 AM on weekends.

Once again, thank you for the incomplete, it made a difference.

In Defense of High Culture

By RAYMOND SOKOLOV

Generations of bad teachers in this country have turned writing and reading into painful mysteries, even for their brightest students. The reasons for this intellectual and social catastrophe are many. They include the usual suspects, television and other electronic and chemical squatters in the youthful brain. But the roots of the problem are older and deeper than that. We have always had too many professors who neither loved literature nor knew how to write.

In an earlier generation, modernist pedagogues treated literary texts like puzzles, and the act of writing was like a romantic plunge into the dark woods of the unconscious, not a craft to be practiced and perfected in a rational manner. These days, a new breed of incompetent mystagogues is wearing new robes; call them French frocks. These assassins of literature teach the art of deconstruction, which is a modish and jargon-filled theory that aims to undermine the traditional humanist's "naïve" love of reading and veneration of the classics. The deconstructionists hope to show that the "canon" of books once blithely assumed to represent the best writing handed down from the past was in fact a sinister tissue of propaganda meant to inculcate the supremacy of the white patriarchal capitalist hegemony of Christian Europe and America.

The best refutation of this dangerous and powerfully placed doctrine is to demonstrate the power and beauty of literature as such. And this is what Robert Alter does with such affecting brilliance in "The Pleasures of Reading in an Ideological Age" (Simon & Schuster, 250 pages, $18.95).

In another age, this is exactly the kind of book we might have expected from a professor of comparative literature at the University of California at Berkeley. It might then have served, as it definitely should now, as an introduction to the lay of the land in literature for students about to embark on their first wholesale encounter with the great books.

In the golden days before angry people began demanding that women and black and third-world contemporary writers be added to syllabuses on an equal footing (or better) with Homer and Henry James, in those days before the doctrine of affirmative action was misapplied to freshman surveys in what was then called, without a trace of apology, Western civilization, Mr. Alter's graceful explications of Fielding, Dickens or Keats, in chapter/lectures devoted to such topics as allusion, structure and style, would have been, so to speak, par for the course.

Today, this is a book that ought to be placed in the hands of any young person who shows the slightest interest in serious reading or in hearing a good, practical defense of high culture. Since even our best schools may have abandoned the actual teaching of literature in the old way (and since even in the best of times there were few instructors with Mr. Alter's gift for explication), "The Pleasures of Reading" is a simple substitute for what has been deconstructed in contemporary curricula.

Without quite saying so, Mr. Alter has taken up the challenge of the deconstructionists in a personal way. Or perhaps it would be truer to say that he has put himself forward as the champion of his profession, traditionally conceived, and has dared to show exactly how old-fashioned talk about books can be smarter and tougher and more persuasive than the theoretical attacks on normal reading launched from Nanterre to New Haven.

Summarized here, his elegant little performances would not be done justice. But his basic method is worth outlining. Take, for example, his longish analysis of three-and-a-half paragraphs from chapter 22 of part one of Anna Karenina. This passage (quoted completely) occurs as a section of a chapter on "perspective," in other words, the point of view from which a story is told. This is a technical issue, one much fought over by academic narratologists. But Mr. Alter redeems it with his intelligent and sensitive discussion here of Tolstoy's treatment of the entrance of the ingenue Kitty at a ball.

Mr. Alter shows us how Tolstoy works his magic, how he so famously gives us his characters, makes them live. Mr. Alter calmly dissects the passage, points out its shifting narrative perspectives, its ironic angles of vision. He turns this jewel around and over, missing none of its facets or the different colors they reflect. Succinctly, he offers us a brilliant view of Tolstoy's genius and makes us want to read more.

"The Pleasures of Reading" contains many more of these gems, several necklaces of them. Mr. Alter has things of high interest to say about Pope and Defoe and George Eliot. He is also extremely good on the Bible—his formal title is professor of Hebrew and comparative literature. But I think this book risks misfiring with impatient younger readers because it is not wholeheartedly intended for the innocent. In addition to the passages of literary discussion, in which one breathes the pure serene, there is also much tactical argument of a more technical sort meant, one imagines, for Mr. Alter's colleagues. These passages verge on, and sometimes fall into, profspeak. They have their value; they make their points. But I often wished, as I hurried through them to get to the literary analysis, that they had been tucked away somewhere in small type, in one of those sections that really old-fashioned primers used to entitle "To the Teacher." Careful lector. If Mr. Alter's preambles don't appeal, skip ahead to the good parts.

Uncle Les, Aunt Eva and cousins,

I was glad to see you enjoyed the card I sent. They have over a half-dozen different cards picturing every angle of the Wren Building. I sent the one I thought looked best. To be truthful I have only been to the Wren Building once or twice during my stay here. My dorm and all but one of my classes are on the other side of campus --a good ten or fifteen minute walk.

It was good to talk with most of you on the phone. I regret not being able to speak with Uncle Les or Andrew. My room phone has not yet been installed. It was due in earlier this week. When I get my phone and new phone number I will let you know.

I had received word earlier that the strike had been shortlived. It is a good thing that it was resolved quickly. I hope the details of the contract are agreeable.

I hope you all enjoyed the turkey dinner. I spoke with my father and he said everyone seemed pleased. I am sure it was a step above what they serve here. Marriott food services (like the hotel) has the contract for the dining halls. The food is usually mediocre; it is edible but it lacks any hint of spice.

Hopefully this letter reaches all of you in good health. I am fine here. There is a flu that everyone seems to be passing back and forth to one another, but that is just one of the hazards of dormitory life.

The typing is for readability. This computer printout is much more legible than my lefthanded penmanship. I am using Wordperfect on a PC in the library computer center.

Enclosed is a booklet that I hope you will show to my parents also. It outlines a program that I should be eligible for next fall, provided I keep my grades above a three point. That may be difficult since the popular joke is that this is the only campus where the blood alcohol levels are higher than the G.P.A.s. William and Mary suffers from severe grade deflation. The average freshman first semester GPA is 1.7. A 3.3 will put a W&M student in the top 10% of his graduating class. The college average is about 2.6. These figures are from campus publications. We were noted a couple of weeks back in a national newspaper (I forget which) to be one of the hardest working schools on the east coast. But the same article also noted that many W&M students fizzle out academically after leaving this place. I guess if they are told that grad school is tougher than undergrad school and they are barely making it here how can they look forward to further studies?

With my current grades I would have a 2.7 at the end of the semester. But I do not know how my finals will be. Accounting is the class I am doing the best in (A-). Anthropology is the worst (D+). I am getting a B in Macroeconomics and a C in Math. I took Pre-Calculus, which is supposedly a remedial course here, to make up for the fine mathematical education I received at Jackson-Milton. I have a government class which is quite interesting. The professor is a representative in the lower house of the Virginia legislature. I don't know how he was ever elected in this area because he is so far left that he makes FDR look like William F. Buckley. I think sometimes he is just playing the devil's advocate though because the political back ground of this area, and in particular this college, is very backward and ultra-ultra conservative. I mentioned to him once in passing that I come from a predominantly Democratic area and just a few days later I received two phone calls and a mailing asking me to join in helping his campaign. I declined since I thought it unethical to work on the campaign while taking his class but his campaign manager has called me once again since then. Hopefully it won't affect my grade.

My tentative schedule for next semester will include five of these six courses: Intro. Computers, Probability (the next highest math course), Calculus I, Intro. Statistics (on a pass/fail basis), Microeconomics, and the continuation to my Accounting course. I will schedule for six and drop the one I don't like.

I sent a letter to the president of the college my first week here telling him that a statue should be placed on our campus. We have many prominent alumni of two-hundred years ago (None that I know of recently except for Glenn Close). But the only statue on campus is a likeness of an old colonial Governor that is stored in the basement of the library. He thought it was a wonderful idea and has put it in to action. By 1993 (the school's 300th anniversary) there should be a statue placed in the middle of old campus (the buildings around the Wren Building). He said that he had pondered the idea of a statue before but did not do much with it. My letter supposedly sent things rolling. Already I have had a meeting with the man in charge of 300th anniversary activities discussing the statue as well as lunch with the president in his house. Six of the people on my hall went along in support (and also for the food, it was exquisite). I think he was impressed. I will keep you posted on how things turn out. I am pushing for a Jefferson statue but Washington, Monroe and John Marshall have also been brought up in conversation.

Uncle Les is totally correct that I treasure mail in my box. I have to walk halfway across campus to check my mail so an empty box is doubly depressing, but one with a letter is an unparalleled prize. I hope you found this letter interesting, it has grown quite long. Please send my love to everyone in Ohio. I hope to hear from you soon.

In the college spirit,

Dear Mary:

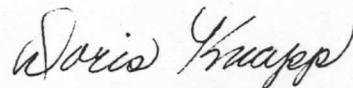

At the recommendation of Dr. Brian Murray, I am making my copyediting skills available to professors in your department. Last summer, I helped edit Dr. Murray's book on H. G. Wells. He was surprised that I had researched his work so thoroughly and he mentioned to me that the professors in your department might be interested in my services. I am willing to negotiate on fees. I am especially interested in working the winter quarter because I am taking only one course.

I am an English major at Youngstown State University and have twenty-five years of working experience in the secretarial field. My curiosity, fortitude, and perseverance in researching a project are my greatest assets. English courses make up the major part of my education, but I have a diversified education that includes chemistry, biology, algebra, geometry.

I have my own library of reference books, including the Chicago Manual of Style, MLA Style Manual, MLA's Line by Line, Judd's Copyediting, Hodges' Harbrace College Handbook, Webster's Ninth, Webster's Third New International (and a second one with a seven language section), Encyclopaedia Britannica, World Book Encyclopaedia, Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, Roget's II, Brewer's, Oxford Universal OED, Encyclopaedia Britannica's Great Books, Magill's Masterplots, and an extensive classical paperback collection that is a hobby of mine.

Enclosed is a resume that will give you more information on my background. I would especially appreciate your efforts in informing Professors George Beelen, James Ronda, and Leslie Domonkos. Do not hesitate to call me at the above numbers any time.

Sincerely,

Dear friend Les,

Excuse the form of this letter. Briefly, a number of my friends have expressed the desire to write the editor of the Book Review section of the Journal of Modern History to protest the unfair (and the only unfair) review I received for my Harvard book. After writing the kind of reply Kates and the editor deserved I threw it away and, on Ed Gargan's advice, wrote the enclosed diplomatic note.

If anyone has the inclination and time to drop Kirshner a note (a diplomatic note), it would be nice. All I can hope for now is that Gary Kates is not given another opportunity by the JMH to write such reviews for some time to come.

If you want a copy of any of the journals I mention to Kirshner let me know.

Meanwhile, I'm revising my MS. on the Hebertistes -- which, if published, will upset the Kates (or, as Shakespeare says, "kites," [persons who prey on others, now obsolete] as in Hamlet's great soliloquy: "I would have fatted all the region kites on that slave's offal"). I can hear some of you muttering: "More matter with less art!" so I'll quit.

Salut,

Morris

My Dear and Distinguished Colleague Professor Dr. Kashkayev:

I was delighted to receive your beautifully written letter of January 10, 1989. It recalled to mind those wonderful days spent at the International Congress meetings in Bucarest and Stuttgart. At the Stuttgart meeting they elected a new president, Professor Dr. Feenstra and now I have nothing to do with the organization of the program. Several members of the United States Commission have complained that we were not given any recognition at the Madrid meeting because the commission now organizes its program in cooperation with the International Commission of Law.

I took the liberty of forwarding your good letter to Professor Dr. Hilda de Ridder Symoens, Secretary General, Blandijnberg 2, B-9000 Gent, Belgium. I am extremely sorry that I cannot be of any assistance to you, but as time goes by and new people take over, the direction of the committee is sometimes changed. Nevertheless, I plan to see you in Madrid because I still represent the United States of America, together with my former student, Dr. Leslie Domonkus, of Youngstown State University, who is chairman of the Department of History. COMMISSION INTERNATIONALE POUR L'HISTOIRE DES UNIVERSITES

Secrétariat général :
Blandijnberg 2

Gand, le 27 mars 1989

Aux sous-commissions nationales de la Commission internationale pour l'histoire des universités.

Sous-Commission de(du): l'USA

Comme chaque année, la Commission Internationale pour l'Histoire des Universités doit payer sa cotisation au Comité International des Sciences Historiques. Pour l'année 1989, ce paiement n'a pas encore été effectué.

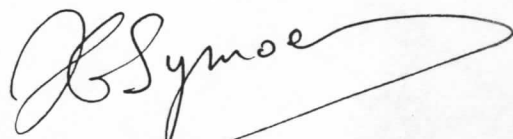

Pour être en règle - dans les délais prévus - avec la cotisation au CISH pour l'année 1989 et pour subvenir aux frais du secrétariat, je me permets de vous demander de vouloir verser dans les meilleurs délais et en tout cas avant le 1er juin 1989, votre cotisation pour l'année 1989. Je me permets de vous rappeler que chaque sous-commission nationale de notre Commission est tenue de verser à la CIHU une cotisation annuelle fixée depuis 1987 à 60 (soixante) francs suisses (ou l'équivalent en toute autre devise).

Vous pouvez effectuer ce paiement soit par mandat international soit par virement au compte chèques postaux 000-0603290-47 au nom de Hilde de Ridder-Symoens, Grote Baan 98, B 9920 Lovendegem.

Il est également possible de verser au compte bancaire 449-3676291-68 de la CIHU, Blandijnberg 2, B 9000 Gent.

Comme les frais bancaires pour ces petites sommes s'élèvent à un tiers du montant, je vous prie d'éviter ce moyen de virement ou bien d'augmenter votre montant de 10 francs suisses pour frais bancaires.

Nous vous prions de croire, cher (chère) Collègue, à notre entier dévouement.

Hilde de Ridder-Symoens
Secrétaire général.

The Department Chairperson is requested to fill in the following:

Class of membership in Graduate Faculty for which nominee is recommended:

Distinguished Member

Member

Proposed duties of the nominee as a member of the Graduate Faculty (please be specific):

Dr. Domonkos has two primary duties as a Graduate Faculty member: he teaches at least one graduate class each quarter and he serves on the History Department Graduate Committee each year. He has served as the Department's Graduate Director some years ago, also.

The department chairperson is required to write a succinct statement giving a critical evaluation of the nominee's (a) ability and experience in teaching; (b) ability and experience in research; and (c) general qualifications for graduate faculty membership.

As the attached vita indicates, Dr. Domonkos is a scholar in every sense of the word: his teaching record is among the best at the University and his ability and experience in research is commendable. Thus, his teaching and research background coupled with his long experience with teaching graduate courses provide abundant evidence of his qualifications for membership as a Distinguished Member of the Graduate Faculty. I recommend him highly.

Kedves Barátom!

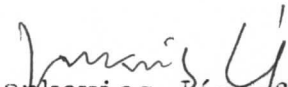

Sajnálattal állapítottuk meg, hogy a III. Nemzetközi Hungarológiai Kongresszus szervező bizottságának 1989. szeptember 30-i adatai szerint nem jelentkezted az 1991-es szegedi kongresszusra, amely a Régi és új peregrináció - magyarok külföldön, külföldiek Magyarországon témakörrel foglalkozik. Elengedhetetlennek tartjuk, hogy a téma olyan alapos ismerője és a terület olyan fontos szakértője, illusztris képviselője, mint Te, részt vegyen a Nemzetközi Magyar Filológiai Társaság kongresszusán.

Tisztelettel kérünk tehát, vizsgálj felül döntésedet, s a mellékelt jelentkezési lapot kitöltve - utólag - jelezd részvételi szándékodat.

Természetesen, ha a fenti határidő óta már elküldted jelentkezésedet a szegedi szervező bizottság címére, tekintsd kérésünket tárgytalannak, s elnézésedet kérjük a zavarásért.

A kedvező döntés reményében,

Monsieur, cher Collègue,

En 1990 nous célébrerons le 500^e anniversaire de la mort de Mathias Corvin. A cette occasion le Centre de Recherches de la Renaissance de Budapest organise du 16 au 19 mai 1990, dans la ville de Székesfehérvár, lieu de l'enterrement du roi, un colloque international sous le titre

MATHIAS CORVIN ET L'HUMANISME.

Nous nous proposons d'élaborer le programme du colloque autour des thèmes suivants:

- 1/ La culture humaniste de Mathias Corvin, ses lectures, les traits humanistes de son caractère
- 2/ Humanistes (historiens, poètes, savants, etc) à la cour et au service de Mathias
- 3/ Les débuts de l'humanisme centro-européen à l'époque de Mathias
- 4/ Le mythe humaniste de Mathias Corvin

Bien que par ce colloque nous veuillions rendre hommage à la mémoire de la plus grande figure de la Renaissance hongroise, le but de la réunion n'est pas simplement de commémorer, mais d'enrichir l'histoire de l'humanisme par de nouveaux résultats. Nous espérons que les communications feront connaître et exploiteront de nouveaux faits et des sources jusque là inconnues, où traiteront de textes et de données connus sous un nouveau jour, compte tenu du rôle de Mathias, de sa cour et de ses humanistes dans l'histoire générale de la Renaissance.

Les communications et les discussions se feront en allemand, anglais, français et italien.

J'ai l'honneur de vous inviter à faire au colloque en question une communication de 20 à 30 minutes sur un sujet relevant d'un des thèmes ci-dessus énumérés. A Székesfehérvár, pendant la durée du colloque vous serez l'hôte de notre Centre qui se charge de votre logement et subvient à vos dépenses. Vu les circonstances et surtout les difficultés existant dans le domaine des devises, nous ne sommes malheureusement pas en mesure d'assumer également les frais de votre voyage, mais nous espérons que ceux-ci seront couverts par votre université/institut.

Je vous prie de bien vouloir nous signaler le plus vite possible (mais en tout cas avant le 1er septembre), si vous pouvez accepter notre invitation, si oui, quel sera le sujet de votre communication et en quelle langue vous désirez la tenir.

Dans l'espoir de pouvoir vous saluer en mai 1990 parmi nous, je vous prie d'agréer, Monsieur, cher Collègue, l'expression de mes sentiments les plus distingués et cordiaux

Ezáltal most irgalmas megfontolást érdemkerül sor mégis jussuk hozzá. És ebben érthető módon főszerepet fog játszani országok, és az első körben országok közötti kapcsolat, mely csökkenni fog, hogy az új feltételek be kerüljenek a

 el kell gondolni a új megvalósítást, hogy

The symptoms of crisis which appeared in Hungarian public life decades before Mohács can be registered in all walks of life. In literature and art the best examples are the work of Janus Pannonius and the buildings planned in the last years of Matthias' rule.

In my presentation I am planning to address the issue of this crisis as it is reflected ⁱⁿ literary genres, topoi, and stance.

WREN BUILDING IN THE SNOW

Built between 1695 and 1697, the Sir Christopher Wren Building stands at the center of the campus of the College of William and Mary, second oldest college in the U.S. Many famous figures of American history studied here, including Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe and John Marshall - all contributors to the Wren Building's stature as the oldest academic building in continuous use in the U.S.

Just a note to say hello.
I hope the trip to FLA was O.K. Classes are fine, the food is O.K. and my room (and roommate) are pretty nice.

Hugo is predicted to hit just south of here on Fri. or Sat.
But I'm far enough inland it won't be too bad.

Tests go through this week and next so I have to get studying.

A könyvtári rituáléhoz tartozik, hogy kb. fél kettő és kettő között kávézunk közösen /ez nálatok fél 8-8 reggel/, akkor utól lehet érni az 5331-808 207 telefonszámon, az NSZK hívószámát nem tudom. Remélhetőleg éppen nem utazom el valahová. Talán jobb, ha egy lapot írsz! Sok szeretettel öllelek Mindnyájaitokat Édes Lacikám, hát most én vagyok a disznó, - aki nem irok. Eléggé kalandos utazás után érkeztem meg április elején Wolfenbüttelbe egy 14 éves Skodával, amelyik állandóan felmondta a szolgálatot, miután előzőleg 60 ezer forintot öltem belé. Itt rengeteg az olvasnivaló, az ember semminek nem tud a végére jutni. Közben sokat utazom, Goslar, Hildesheim, Celle, Lüneburg, Kiel, Braunschweig, Hannover műemlékeit megnéztem, kétszer voltam Nyugat-Berlinben is autóbusz társasutazással /ez a legolcsóbb é a leggyorsabb, mert a személyautók kilométeres sorban várakoznak a határon./ Az az egész fállal körülkerített ország nagyon lehangelő. És miután annyi pénzt kapnak innen, hát nem törekednek a peresztrojkára. Hogy nálunk odahaza mi megy, azt csak nagy vonalakban tudom. Glatz Feri lett a miniszter, s ma ülésezett a központi bizottság állítólag Nagy Imre rehabilitálása ügyében. Itt azonban oly keveset törődnek velünk, Kina és a lengyelek érthetően sokkal érdekesebbek. Nagyon kérlek, írd meg a bochumi terveidet, mert még nem vagyok egészen biztos benne, hogy egy ilyen rossz tragaccsal el tudok-e jutni oda. Sajnos telefonom nincsen a könyvtár vendégházában ! Itt most kiállították mind a 8 corvinát, ami egész nyáron látható. Talán eljutsz ilyen messzire ?

Dear Eva and Leslie,

I cannot express my gratitude to you for accompanying my aunt and grandmother to Detroit; I'm sure it helped to tip the balance in my grandmother's decision to come. Further, it was a delight to have your company and also the lovely gift. It shall receive pride of place in my home. I hope you will come again... Love
Kati

Kedves Laci és Éva!

Regen hallottunk Ribátról. Reméljük jól vagytok. Mi hinned, de nálunk is nőnek a gyermekok. Már Veronika is (a negyedik a sorban) iskolába megy (előkezdő).

Megvettük a házat amiben lakunk, s most nagyban folynak a javítási, felújítási, építési munkák.

Mellettek egy példányt a magazinom legújabb számából, Laci, ha ismerős valakit az art departmenten vagy a communication szektor alatt érdekelhet, legyőztes mintad meg. Sok egyetem Könyvtára is megrendelte (pl. Harvard, Berkeley, Stanford, Bremen, Kent, stb.)

Mindem előfizetés segít az életkörülményeink ban. A lap szépen néz ki, de borzasztó drága az előfizetés és a postaköltség-szépek miatt, ha tudsz bármint is jenni.
Szeretettel csókolomk Mindenkét,

Joska

Dear bet,
14 July 1989
since we just visited Mycenae last weekend this is an appropriate card. Work goes well. The regular crew (mostly from Ohio State) are working diligently on the Roman Bath at Lithnia. We are clearing the various mosaic floors of weeds in preparation for preservation work by a Greek technician. We are also investigating evidence for periods of use and the final abandonment of the sanctuary & bath by looking at pottery, old excavation notebooks and cleared areas of the site. It's the whole

Problem of the late Antiquity-
Early Medieval Transition. A survey of a desert island over the next few days will contribute to the work because of substantial late Roman & Byzantine occupation at the site. There has been time for the beach also! Hope the summer is going well. Greetings to all.
Nick

9/19/89.

Dr. Domonkos;

Just had to write you a note as I used your name among Dr. Roads & Dr. Satler as being the terrific history teachers as they are serious.

Went to Dr. Adornato, this past Saturday for a check-up and learned my left ear is worst (as I was in pain and my hearing was worst) due to a crust build-up around the tube inserted in my ear. I had to purchase prescription eye drops to be used once a day. He said in ten days this crust should be broken up. I hope so. Looking forward to see you but hope to get a

God bless

Dear Dr. Domonkos:

Thank you for coming to Park Vista and sharing your past experiences with us.
Everyone found your talk most interesting but I'm sure some of those experiences weren't too pleasant. Many made the comment they could have listened to you longer - and I didn't notice anyone had fallen asleep and that is most unusual.
