The Jambar The student voice of Youngstown State University since 1931

*Audiences can expect a high-quality performance that we're noted for."

-pq. 8

"You—
the students—will be at the center of everything we do."

~pg.9

uotable

A STATE OF THE REAL PROPERTY AND ASSESSMENT OF THE REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT OF THE REAL PROPERTY AND ASSESSMENT OF THE REAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENT OF THE REAL PROPER

"With new coaches there's equal opportunity for playing time."-pg. 16 me in the past.

NEWS BRIEFS

Sept. 4 set as date for bike ride

A bike ride benefit for Marty Manning, associate director of the Office of Student Life at YSU, who is battling cancer, will begin on the YSU campus at 9 a.m. on Sept. 4 and end at Thiel College.

Internationally known soprano to kick-off Diversity Series

A Youngstown native and former Dana School of Music student, Sophia Brooks, will perform on campus Sept. 2 to kick off the 2010-2011 Community Diversity Program Series at YSU's Ford Theater. Brooks will perform at "An Evening of 19th Century Negro Spirituals," the first in the series of events. The concert will also include a historical narrative and other performers. Admission is free but tickets are required. Tickets can be obtained at the information desk in YSU's Kilcawley Center on Aug. 30.

POLICE BRIEFS

Homeless people found under trees

On Aug. 18, YSU Police responded to a complaint from Parking Services of people sleeping under the trees at the northeast corner of Custer Avenue. Police found six homeless individuals from out of state. None of them had warrants and all were brought to the Rayen Avenue Rescue

Professor's car disrupted

On Aug.13, YSU Police responded to a professor in the Center for Working Class Studies. Someone had entered his vehicle, parked in the Rayen Avenue F-3 lot and went through his console. There was nothing apparently missing and no sign of forced entry.

JAMBAR STAFF

Josh Stipanovich	330-941-1991
MANAGING EDITOR: Lamar Salter	330-941-1807
NEWS EDITOR: Dan Pompili	330-941-1989
COPY EDITOR: Emmalee C. Torisk	330-941-3758
A&E EDITOR:	220 041 1012

ONLINE EDITOR: Doug Livingston330-941-1913

..330-941-1913

SPORTS EDITOR:

A&E REPORTER:

DESIGN EDITOR:
Sam Marhulik	330-941-1807
Nick Young	330-941-1807
ASSIST. NEWS EDIT
Andrea DeMart	330-941-1913
ASSIST. COPY EDIT	DR:
Amanda Bowlby	330-941-1913
ASSIST. ONLINE ED	TOR:
Krystle Kimes	330-941-1913

Jared Buker330-941-1913
COLUMNIST:
Chris Cotelesse330-941-1913
SPORTS REPORTER:
Jordan Uhl330-941-1913
DEAT DEDADTED.

Joe Giesy	330-941-1913
REPORTER:
Alicia Pattillo	330-941-1913
Caitlin Fitch	330-941-1913

Marissa McIntyre330-941-1913

SALES MANAGER:
Jonathon Fauvie	330-941-1990
SALES ASST.
John Mamonunis	330-941-1990
RECEPTIONIST:
Teresa Soos	330-941-3095
BUSINESS MANAGER:
Olga Ziobert	330-941-3094

Mary Beth Earnheardt 330-941-3095

CONTACT THE	JAMBAR
E-MAILec	litor@thejambar.com
FAX	330-941-2322

Increased enrollment marks new era for YSU

Dan Pompili NEWS EDITOR

As of Friday morning, enrollment at Youngstown State University has reached 14,805, a figure provided by President Cyn-

That figure exceeds last year's official enrollment of 14,682 students and will likely grow between now and the 14th day of the semester, when the 2010 official numbers are released to the Anderson said the number balloons at the beginning of every semester and usually balances out as some students withdraw. For example, if enrollment reached 15,500, it would likely drop by mid-semester to 14,900. She also said students opt to work before attending school while others decide college is not for them.

The fact remains that enrollment is up, however, and Anderson attributed the growth to numerous factors.

"It must be realized that when the economy is down, enrollment at colleges and universities increases," Anderson said.

Much of YSU's increased enrollment can be attributed to the down economy, which is the same reason for increased enrollment at other universities across the country.

For example, a September 2009 Houston Chronicle article listed 11 Texas Colleges and universities with increased enrollment. One of them, the University of Houston-Victoria, saw a

The article suggested that many unemployed workers tend to view college as a viable option for increasing their value in a competitive job market.

In 2009, YSU's enrollment increased 6.35 percent from the previous year. If the current figure remained official, the increase for this year would be 0.8 percent, a total of 6.43 percent since

Anderson and officials in the enrollment office said they expect enrollment to increase over the weekend and throughout the first week of classes

Anderson credited those officials, in the admissions and recruiting offices, for their part in the enrollment increase. She said

YSU has some excellent marketing and advertising strategies. "But it should be remembered that the best advertisement is word-of-mouth," Anderson said. "I think we have wonderful students having great experiences and going out and telling people

Presidential Mentorship Program seeks student involvement

Andrea DeMart ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR

A student-based program is hoping for a fresh breath of air under new President Cynthia Anderson.

Now in its seventh year on campus, the Presidential Mentorship Program is looking for students to get involved. The general purpose of the program is to develop student leaders as voices for the university to the president and administration.

The group will provide the president and her executive leadership with firsthand input from students on how to better the campus and campus environment.

"The focus of the new administration is students," explained Jack Fahey, interim vice president for student affairs and ombudsperson. "[The program is] one of many opportunities for students to communicate to the university. [It's an] opportunity for us to get info from students who know best what to improve."

Students interested must be enrolled with good standing, have upper class status and be able to attend and participate in monthly meetings for the months of September through April.

"All campus and faculty administrators and staff can nominate students for selection as long as they meet criteria and provide enough information," explained

Yulanda McCarty-Harris, director of The Office of Equal Opportunity and Diver-

McCarty-Harris hopes that students feel the excitement on campus due to the change in leadership, and she hopes that it will encourage more students to become involved.

"I think their [President's Cabinet] expertise in working with students will heighten awareness about the program. No one really knows about the program," McCarty-Harris said.

The group of student leaders chosen will consist of around 22-23 members, including approximately 15 existing members from last year who have expressed interest in retaining their position.

"I wouldn't be surprised if we get over 30-40 nominations with only 10 spots available," McCarty-Harris said.

"I think that overall the campus gets that they are advisers to the president. They should be voices who have an input of the success of students, will add to academic excellence and fabric of the institution," McCarty-Harris said.

McCarty-Harris describes the group as a "diverse team of leaders."

"Not only diverse in race and ethnicity, but also in study, departments, activities and organizations," she said. "Holistic sense of diversity looks beyond race and McCarty-Harris stresses that students who want to get involved in this program do not necessarily need to already be leaders.

"[Students] don't have to be the president of Student Government or president of a sorority. You look at diversity in its entirety, looking for the best students that will achieve the goals that have been set forth the by the Presidential Mentorship Program," she said.

Fahey is optimistic about how the group will impact the new administra-

"I bet it will be very helpful to us," Fahey said. "In the past we had a very strong and talented group of students. This group will do a great job again of bringing ideas to administrators.'

After submission, the nominations will be reviewed by McCarty-Harris and Fahey. The two will then provide recommendations to Anderson for her input in the final selections.

If students are interested in becoming involved in the program, they may ask a faculty or staff member to nominate them. The deadline for nominations has been extended to Sept. 8 due to the overwhelming interest in the program this year. Faculty and staff have been contacted via e-mail with instructions on the nomination pro-

McCarty-Harris calls the program a

"[The students] are there to learn about the institution and at same time we learn from them how to improve the institution," she said.

Proposed STEM Ph.D. waiting for final approval

Toe Giesy REPORTER

The Youngstown State University College of Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics came another step closer to implementing YSU's first Doctor of Philosophy program after receiving state approval Thursday.

Faculty and administration in the STEM College are now awaiting approval from the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, the institutional accrediting body that oversees YSU. The college must receive this approval for the program before students can apply. If all goes as planned, it is projected that the first students will begin in fall 2011.

Martin Abraham, dean of STEM, expects a few bumps and rumbles as the program gets established, but he is hopeful that YSU will become globally recognized for its work with hard materials.

Abraham said the process of starting a materials science program was in the works long before he started at YSU in 2007.

"There have been people talking about this, probably, for a good 10 years," he said. "The immediate impetuous that led to where we are today really came with the [Ohio Board of Regents] Chancellor's Strategic Plan.'

The Strategic Plan for Higher Education is a 10-year plan introduced by Chancellor Eric D. Fingerhut in 2008 "that details strategies to meet the governor's goal of enrolling 230,000 more students while keeping more graduates in Ohio and attracting more talent to the state."

On page 48, under YSU, the plan proposed, "The state will encourage [YSU's indispensable role in the economic rebirth of the Mahoning Valley] by authorizing and supporting undergraduate and graduate programs that focus on quality and have relevance to economic rebirth."

The choice to focus on hard materials at YSU came from a series of meetings and discussions that focused around evaluating what the college was already capable of and what area the faculty and students would best excel in.

"Our main focus is going to be metals and ceramics, and our technology area is going to be the conversion of laboratory capabilities into commercial products," Abraham said.

Other factors that attributed to the development of the Ph.D. program were the establishment of the Center for Transportation and Materials Engineering, collaboration between a chemistry department faculty member and Fire Line, Inc. and partnership with M7 Technologies to develop cyber-enabled machine tool instrumentation.

"With those three pieces, we had a base on which to build," Abraham said.

Materials science is a field of study that involves an investigation into the properties that make up materials, typically for engineering or research purposes. Types of materials that are more commonly studied involve polymers, such as plastic and rubber; liquid crystals, the technology used for LCD screens on TVs; and hard materials, the area of materials science that will be most studied at YSU, like metals and ceramics.

"Because we do metals and ceramics, it does not mean we're not going to have anything going on in polymers and electronic materials," Abraham said. "It just means those aren't going to be our main focus

There is no undergraduate or graduate program in materials science at YSU, the proposed doctorate will be the first pending approval. The program will be largely research based, and faculty members are hoping to attract the best students from around the globe to participate.

WHAT DO YOU THINK? SEND US AN E-MAIL

THEJAMBAR@GMAIL.COM

The Jambar EDITORIAL BOARD

RELATED STORY

Front page

Is it truly the year of the student?

President Cynthia Anderson said in her welcome letter, "You — the students — will be at the center of everything we do."

The Jambar not only echoes that, but it is the foundation of our reason for being.

We're with you, too. We're the student voice and students have always been at the center of what we do.

This is an academic institution. Learning happens here. It is also a college campus, a microcosmic society. This will be your world, if you are an incoming freshman. If you're an upperclassman, it has already been. We are here to make sure you stay informed about it.

We can't know everything though, not without your help. We're "people-people" too. We have to be. We rely on you just like the

We have to be. We rely on you just like the university does. We've watched the administration and the sports teams and the student groups. Sometimes we bring their goings-on to you. Other times you've brought them to us. That's how it has to work.

With that formula, "audiences can expect a high-quality performance that we're noted for." The Jambar is an award-winning college newspaper. The highest award for us, though, is seeing our paper in your hands and knowing that we're helping you understand this campus community better.

We see all the successes and the mistakes. We've shared in them, we've learned from them. We'll continue to do that ... learning.

We'll have successes. We'll make mistakes too. So will the administrators and the coaches. While it is our job to call them on those, it is your job to call us on ours.

Show us a person who's never made a mistake, we'll show you a person who's never learned anything.

That's what the new coaching staff and new administration will be doing. "With new coaches, there's equal opportunity..." OK, so this one's a stretch, but it fits us too.

There's a new staff at The Jambar. That means there's opportunity for new editors and reporters to improve this student voice. We're excited about the newness of our staff and this new YSU we have the opportunity to cover.

new YSU we have the opportunity to cover.

For that reason we say, "This year will have a new twist on things we've done in the past."

There will be new Web coverage and different print styles. We'll be trying our hand at cutting-edge journalism and technology. We're hoping that you, the students — our audience — will benefit from it as much as we do.

We are all here to help each other learn and grow, to become better at everything we do and have some fun in the meantime.

Let's all learn what it means to be a Penguin, now and into the bright, undefined future.

-ABOUT-THE-JAMBAR-

Since being founded by Burke Lyden in 1931, The Jambar has won nine Associated Collegiate Press Honors. The Jambar is published twice weekly during the fall and spring semesters and weekly during summer sessions. Mail subscriptions are $25 per academic year. Additional copies of The Jambar are $1 each.

OUR SIDE POLICY

The editorial board that writes Our Side editorials consists of the editor-in-chief, managing editor and news editor. These opinion pieces are written separately from news articles and draw on the opinions of the entire writing staff. The Jambar's business manager and non-writing staff do not contribute to editorials, and the adviser does not have final approval.

YOUR SIDE POLICY

The Jambar encourages letters to the editor. E-mail submissions are welcome at editor@thejambar.com. Letters should concern campus issues, must be typed and must not exceed 400 words. Submissions must include the writer's name and telephone number for verification and the writer's city of residence for printing. Letters are subject to editing for spelling, grammar and clarity. The editorial board reserves the right to reject commentaries that are libelous or that don't defend opinion with facts from reliable sources. The editorial board will request a rewrite from the submitting writer based on these requirements.

Letters will not be rejected based on the view expressed in them. Letters may be rejected if they are not relevant to Jambar readers, seek free publicity or if the editorial staff decides the subject has been sufficiently aired. The Jambar will not print letters that libelous, threatening, obscene or indecent. The Jambar does not withhold the names of writers of letters or guest commentaries.

The views and opinions expressed in letters and commentaries on the opinion page do not necessarily reflect those of The Jambar staff. Editorials do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the faculty, staff or administration of Youngstown State University.

The views of this syndicated artist do not necessarily agree with those of The Jambar.

Insisting on our principles

Trudy Rubin
THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

The debate over the "Ground Zero mosque" has evolved into something much bigger than whether a Muslim center should be built two blocks from hallowed ground.

This debate is really about whether Americans still have the self-confidence to stand up for our Constitution's principles or whether we've become so fearful that we're eager to junk them.

I say this although I believe the idea of building a mosque in this place at this time is unwise. And I sympathize with the families of 9/11 victims who are uncomfortable with the prospect (although some of the families support it)

But this issue has been so shamefully exploited by political opportunists and those who believe America is at war with all Muslims that it's becoming a national scandal. It's time we all took a deep breath and considered what's really at stake.

Contrary to the hysteria in the blogosphere, the site would not be a mega-mosque but a community center-cum-prayer space two blocks from Ground Zero. It would not have a minaret.

The imam spearheading the project, Feisal-Abdul Rauf, already leads a mosque 12 blocks away. He frequently engages with Jewish and Christian leaders, and writes widely on the compatibility of Islamic thought with Western democracy. The State Department just sent him to tour the Arab emirates and talk about religious tolerance in the United States. And Rauf is a member of the Sufi Muslim sect, which is despised and attacked by radical Islamists for its willingness to draw from other cultures.

That said, some of his statements blaming U.S. foreign policy for inspiring the 9/11 attack are jarring given his desire to lead a mosque near Ground Zero. The same goes for his advocacy of sharia law for American Muslims in personal matters like inheritance and divorce.

And there are legitimate concerns about where he will raise the $100 million needed to build his center, and whether it will come from Mideast sources.

However, there is zero evidence of any link between Rauf and Islamist terrorism.

So why has the hysteria over this community center risen to a fever pitch?

The answer lies in the willingness of politicians, mainly Republicans, to hype the mosque controversy before elections. Leading the pack, Newt Gingrich says approving the mosque "would be like putting a Nazi sign next to the Holocaust museum." All Muslims are Nazis get it?

New York Republican gubernatorial candidate Carl Paladino has called the proposed community center "a monument to those who attacked our country." All Muslims are terrorists get it?

For Sarah Palin, it's a "knife to the heart" of 9/11 families. Never mind that al-Qaeda wants to broaden America's fight against Islamist terrorist groups into all-out war between the West and Islam. Gingrich and Palin eagerly play into al-Qaeda's hands.

This demagoguery stokes anti-Muslim feelings around the country. Republican pols claim they don't oppose religious freedom. But have any of them stood in solidarity with Muslims in Mufreesboro, Tenn., or Temecula, Calif., or other locales where local Republicans and tea partyers have opposed the building of local mosques? No way. (Democratic Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, pressed by his Republican opponent, also opposed the mosque, but at least he didn't pile on more anti-Muslim slurs.)

Have these politicians totally lost sight of what America stands for? Given Europe's problems integrating large Muslim communities, I'm always grateful our system has enabled so many Arab and South Asian immigrants to become full citizens. That's one reason we haven't had more terror attacks here.

Yes, there have been some imams who preached hate in U.S. mosques; that's a law enforcement problem. In many more cases, Muslim community leaders help alienated young Muslim immigrants find their way.

Yes, it would have been easier if Rauf had chosen a different locale. He could still defuse fears by being more transparent about funds, more modest in scale, or more willing to consider New York Gov. David Paterson's offer of another site.

But if Rauf chooses to go ahead, he is entitled to do so. As President Obama said last week: "Muslims have the same right to practice their religion as anyone else in this country."

And as Mayor Michael Bloomberg eloquently stated: "We do not honor (the 9/11 dead) by denying the very constitutional rights they died protecting." Have we become so fearful that we can't recognize that?

Tear down your altars and lifeless idols

Welcome back my friends to the show that never ends

Chris Cotelesse

Most of this newspaper is dedicated to facts, the dissemination of information. A small portion is allocated for opinion and conjecture, and a smaller portion still is given entirely to me. Until this space is sold for ads, these inches are all mine.

What do I do with them? It's still a job, so my value is directly proportional to number of readers. I'll have to be interesting and watch my language.

I have suspicions to relate. I suspect that some girls don't wear belts so we have to watch them hike up their gloriously filled jeans. I'm convinced that little side-to-side move they do — or when they run a hand along their curves to smooth an invisible wrinkle — is designed to make me surrender focus.

That may be too sophomoric. I'm technically a junior. I could express outrage over social issues, using an anecdotal approach.

I was walking into Cushwa Hall from Lincoln Avenue. The sun was prominent in the sky but not oppressive. It was the kind of day that makes people dress immodestly. Between the door and myself was a young lady performing the most obscene and lascivious acts on a young gentleman with her eyes.

She didn't just glance as she walked by. Her gaze was fixed for four full steps. I may have imagined it, but I think she bit her lip. The only appropriate action in this enlightened age is to return the favor. With a look I told her my intentions were savagely debauched, but the hypocrite's eyes condemned my behavior through squinted lids. Was herstany less lecherous?

Maybe she was embarrassed that I caught her in the act of lust. Maybe she thought I was unattractive — unlikely, but whatever. What matters is that we have an ethical responsibility to be honest, to overcome rebuke for public appraisal of physical form.

It is not lewd. I will not hang my head.
Well, it can sometimes get lewd, but I won't hang my head. From now on, I'm looking. I'm looking good, and I'm looking hard.

That's pretty much all I got. I have 26 weeks planned of crude jokes and Star Trek references. I don't think that's going to fly. I won't get hired back next year if I suck. I'll come up with something.

Live long and prosper!

Welcome YSU Students!

See us for your college success!

The Marion G. Resch Center for Student Progress

- -Individual Intervention Services
- -Adult Learner Services
- -First-Year Student Services
- -Orientation Services
- -Multicultural Student Services
- -Student Tutorial Services
- -Supplemental Instruction Services
- -Disability Services

OPEN SIX DAYS A WEEK

- Breakfast
- Lunch
- Dinner
- 1 1/2 blocks from Covelli Center

CLASSIFIEDS

HOUSING

BIG HOUSES, SMALL PRICES

Chris has nice 2 or 4 bedroom homes available for your group All utilities, appliances, ADT, plus cable & internet. From $395.00 per person. Call Chris to arrange your tour 330-743-7368.

1 BR to 5 BR units. All YSU students. Convienient locations to YSU. Call 330-506-0104

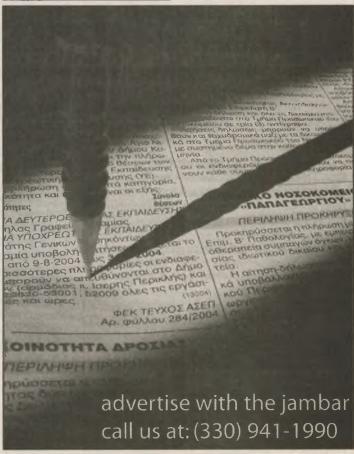

House for rent: 4-5 bdrms, 2 baths, parking, alarm, cable, laundry, semi furnished. Near campus. $650 plus utilities. Call 330-533-4148

House for rent: 2 bdrm, laundry, parking, alarm, cable, near campus. Available August 1. $450 plus utilities. 330-533-4148

OTHER

Get Cash Now. We are buying your used laptops, Macbooks, and desktops.

We also buy broken computers. Act now, while we have cash. 330-272-6256.

Live. Laugh. Learn all you can.

On campus and online,
UnitedHealthcare
StudentResources is with you every step of the way.

Check out the student health insurance plan designed just for Youngstown State University students at www.uhcsr.com/YSU. Online enrollment is easy and takes only minutes!

Then, become a fan on Facebook at www.facebook.com/StudentResouces to learn how you can live better, laugh harder and make the most of your health insurance!

Questions? Just call 800-767-0700

Underwritten by UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company

Smile...

Saving lives is not only a good thing, it makes you feel good too.

Plasma Donors Needed Now

Please help us help those coping with rare, chronic, genetic diseases.

New donors can receive $25 today and $75 this week!

Ask about our Specialty Programs!

Must be 18 years or older, have valid I.D. along with proof of SS# and local residency.

Walk-ins Welcome.

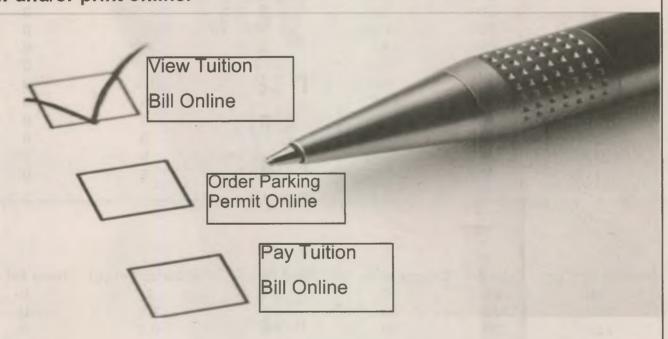

From Nature for Life

444 Martin Luther King Blvd. Youngstown, OH 44502 330-743-1317

IMPORTANT BILLING NOTICE

Effective August 1, 2010 paper statements (bills) for Youngstown State University student tuition will no longer be mailed. An e-mail will be sent to your official YSU e-mail address notifying you that your bill is available to view and/or print online.

You can view your student account at any time by going to http://my.ysu.edu, e-Services, Student Accounts. A short video tutorial to assist you with paying online is available at: www.ysu.edu/vpadmin/studaccts/billtutorial.html

Online student account services include:

- view and print online bill and student account
- make payment (credit card or online check)
- enroll in payment plan
- assign authorized user

Please ... check your official YSU e-mail often! Make all payments promptly to avoid late fees and/or disruption of other student services.

SOUTHERWINE COM

Investigation into campus death ongoing

Dan Pompili NEWS EDITOR

A Youngstown State University maintenance worker died Thursday in what is presumed an accident. YSU Police were dispatched to the University Courtyard Apartments where they found David P. Phibbs lying outside apartment buildings 100 and Phibbs, an employee of Ambling Companies, which maintains the apartments, was changing a light bulb on one of the building's exterior fixtures and was found near his ladder in a landscaped area.

Medics worked for several minutes at the scene, but Phibbs showed no signs of resuscitation and was taken to an emergency

While YSU Police have confirmed that Phibbs was electrocuted, the Mahoning County coroner's office has not verified that electrocution was the cause of death. Two YSU electricians investigated the fixture, according to the incident report, but found no defects or any indication that Phibbs' tools had touched a live wire.

Police took into evidence a pair of wire strippers, a 175-watt light bulb, an autotransformer with capacitor and a screwdriver.

According to the report, maintenance workers had covered the eye of the security camera to trigger the external light sensors, turning the lights on so they could determine which ones needed attention. Police believe Phibbs may have been electrocuted at that time. The matter remains under investigation, and the coroner's report will not be released for several weeks.

"Youngstown State University employees and students express our deepest sympathies to Phibbs' family," YSU officials said in a press release.

Welcome

YSU Students, faculty and staff from your neighbors at First Presbyterian Church

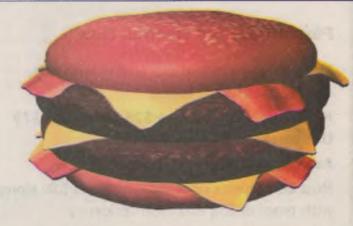

Wick Ave at Wood St.

Please feel welcome to visit or contact us at 330-744-4301

> Lisa@fpcyo.org www.fpcyo.org

Know what you're eating:

Fast food nutrition breakdown

Taco Bell

	Serving Size (g)	Calories	Calories from Fat	Total Fat (g)	Saturated Fat (g)	Trans Fat (g)
Cheese Roll-Up	64	200	90	10	5	0
Crispy Potato Soft Taco	106	260	120	13	3	0
Triple Layer Nachos	142	350	160	18	1.5	0
Cinnamon Twists	35	170	60	7	0	0
Crunchy Taco	78	170	90	10	3.5	0
Chicken Burrito	177	440	180	20	5	0
Chicken Soft Taco	99	200	70	8	3	0
Soft Taco - Beef	99	210	80	9	4	0
Bean Burrito	198	370	90	10	3.5	0
Caramel Apple Empanada	85	310	140	15	2.5	0
Beefy 5-Layer Burrito	248	550	190	22	8	0.5

Arby's

	Serving Size (g)	Calories	Calories from Fat	Total Fat (g)	Saturated Fat (g)	Trans Fat (g)
Jr. Deluxe	128	260	110	12	3.5	0
Jr. Roast Beef	87	200	60	7	2.5	0
Jr. Chicken	122	330	150	17	3 1	0
Jr. Ham and Cheddar Melt	115	200	45	5	1.5	0
Value Curly Fries	77	240	120	13	2	0
Value Homestyle Fries	85	230	90	10	1.5	0
Value Jamocha Shake	284	350	80	9	6	0
Value Vanilla Shake	255	290	80	9	6	0
Value Chocolate Shake	284	360	90	10	6	0
Apple Turnover	110	340	140	15	8	0
Cherry Turnover	110	340	140	15	8	0

Subway

	Serving Size (g)	Calories	Calories from Fat	Total Fat (g)	Saturated Fat (g)	Trans Fat (g)
6" Ham	218	290	40	4.5	1	0
6" Oven Roasted Chicken	232	320	40	4.5	1.5	0
6' Veggie Delite	162	230	20	2.5	0.5	0
6" Cold Cut Combo	245	245	150	16	6	0.5
6" Tuna	245	245	270	30	6	0.5
6" BLT	164	360	120	13	6	0
6" Meatball Marinara	372	580	200	23	9	1
6" Spicy Italian	233	520	250	28	11	0.5

McDonald's

CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY OF	Serving Size (g)	Calories	Calories from Fat	Total Fat (g)	Saturated Fat (g)	Trans Fat (g)
McDouble	151	390	170	19	8	1
McChicken	143	360	150	16	3	0
Small French Fries	71	230	100	11	1.5	0
Side Salad	87	20	0	0	0	0
Fruit 'n Yogurt Parfait (7 oz)	149	160	20	2	1	0
Hot Fudge Sundae	179	330	90	10	7	0

All nutrition facts taken from the respective restaurants' websites and are a partial representation of all information available.

For more information on nutrition facts, planning diets and eating healthy, visit http://www.mypyramid.gov.

THEIRMONE

Alicia Patillo

This year, Youngstown State University's Welcome Week will consist of a series of new activities and old traditions.

With giveaways including an iPad contest; karaoke; a costume party; and an out-of-the-box theme — "Preparing you for an epic adventure; what's your superpower?" — Welcome Week 2010 will likely be "unique this year," said Joy Polkabla-Byers, assistant director of programs and events.

"This year will have a new twist on things we've done in the past," Polkabla-Byers said.

However, Welcome Week will continue to "create awareness of resources on campus, provide opportunities for social engagement, demonstrate to students that college is fun, get students engaged in campus and highlight our traditions on campus," Polkabla-Byers said.

Polkabla-Byers is excited to see some YSU organizations join the Welcome Week festivities for the first time.

"[The YSU College of Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics] and Tech Prep will be adding Geek Fest to this year's events, as well as the planetarium," Polkabla-Byers said.

Polkabla-Byers credits her student staff for their work in this process.

"I'm very proud of the students that have been creating this. They have been creative and innovative," Polkabla-Byers said.

Polkabla-Byers said that Campus Recreation marketing intern Ben Dooley, who also serves as Welcome Week committee chairman, has done an "exceptional job" with the project.

Dooley agrees that the committee played a huge part in the direction of the project.

"My committee has been amazing. So many great ideas. That's what made this process so smooth," Dooley said. "Students will enjoy themselves [during Welcome Week], and this year will be more exciting."

Although Welcome Week is filled with fun activities, Dooley hopes the events will also make new and returning students more aware of campus resources and offerings.

"It gives you full access of what's available on campus," Dooley said. "The college experience is always what you make of it, so after Welcome Week it's up to you to take the initiative from then on."

Welcome Week activities will continue until YSU's first home game on Sept. 11.

WHAT SUPERHERO WOULD YOU BE??

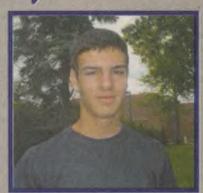

"Batman. He is silly."
-Jack Fahey, interim vice president for student affairs

"Superman. You can't beat flying around and having unbelievable strength ..."
-Eric Wolford, head football coach

"Spiderman. It would be awesome." -Marissa Rea, freshman

"Batman, because he uses a lot of everyday materials to conquer evil."-Ben Smith, freshman

Meanwhile...

YSU seniors pass wisdom to new freshman class

Jared Buker FEATURES REPORTER

What a momentous occasion it is when one finally makes the leap from cushy high school life to the treacherous college grind. Parents and teenagers alike are instantly filled with the anxiety of change and the excitement of what could be.

This transition could be daunting for anyone. Youngstown State University students are plagued with expensive books, term papers and a lack of convenient parking spots. For the incoming freshman class, all of these challenges are about to be dropped into their laps.

Fear not, for the advice of YSU veterans like Joe Rupert can help shine a light on what may seem like a dark and dreary four years.

"Don't procrastinate with anything," said Rupert, who is preparing for graduation in the spring. "It will only make your workload seem heavier."

On the positive side, Rupert mentioned that YSU presents a lot of opportunities to meet new people and gain valuable communication skills.

What exactly worries YSU's incoming students the most?

In fear of being portrayed as the typical frightened freshman, many students were reluctant to divulge their fears. That said many members of the 2014 class seem to have a general unease about the new environment and the classes they will be taking.

"I just don't know how easy, or mean, or hard my teachers are yet," said Mike Lopez, a freshman anxious for his first year of college. "I'm worried that this new lifestyle isn't for me."

Dana Sidney, who is also entering her first year at YSU, fears she does not know her way around campus.

"I feel like I'm going to get lost every day and miss my classes," she said. "I'm just glad I have classes with my sister and my friends."

Senior Mike Bole echoes the notion of friendship as the best way to get your Penguin

"Stick with your friends when college gets tough," he said. "You have to work your schedules out so you can take classes together and have breaks together."

Bole said the start to his college career was easy because of the constant advice and guidance from his older brothers.

"It helps to find someone who knows what they're talking about and ask them for help," he said. "They won't mind because someone probably did the same thing for them."

As a new semester begins and YSU is again buzzing with a new batch of students, remember this sense of community, and don't be afraid to ask your friendly neighborhood senior for a shove in the right direction.

New athletic bands director seeks to improve Marching Pride

Alicia Pattillo REPORTER

Youngstown State University's Dana School of Music has welcomed Brandt Payne as the new director of athletic bands and as an assistant professor of music.

YSU Director of Bands Stephen Gage recalls Payne standing out as the lead candidate during the search for a new director of athletic bands.

"Payne came very highly recommended, very distinguished from colleagues that I have from all across the U.S.," Gage said. "There were a lot of qualified candidates. However, when the dust cleared, Payne rose to the top."

Payne grew up in central Iowa and attended the University of Iowa where he earned a bachelor's degree in music education. Following his bachelor's degree, Payne pursued a master's degree in music at Arizona State University.

Recently, Payne completed his doctorate in musical arts at ASU. Upon receiving his degree, Payne served as a teaching assistant with ASU's band. Despite being a "competitive environment," Payne recalls his experience as a "great opportunity to work with topnotch wind players."

For three years, Payne was associate director of bands at the University of Hawaii and, for one year, interim associate director of bands at the University of Wyoming.

Gage said he's convinced Payne will serve as a great leader on campus and become an "incredible advocate for the Dana School of Music," based on his relevant experience and background.

"I have watched him interact with students, and I noticed he has the ability to make decisions and he has a student-centered mindset," Gage said. "Dr. Payne is very talented, bright and hardworking and Recently, Payne completed has a pleasant personality."

Teaching assistant David Blon is pursing a master's degree in conducting at YSU and will be working alongside Payne.

"He's only been here since July, and the band is already bigger and marching better than last year," Blon said. "I'm excited for the future of the Marching Pride, and I think it will be a great season for the marching band."

Junior Colleen Bundy will be participating in the marching band this year.

"I'm excited so far. I've heard of a lot of good things about him," Bundy said.

Freshman Sarah Gordon said she anticipates the start of marching band.

"I'm so excited. It's my second year, and I'm so excited," Gordon said.

Junior Dustin Roberts said the band this year is a lot bigger than last year's and has high hopes for Payne's leadership.

PAYNE

"[Payne] seems like a nice guy. He is coming in knowing exactly what he wants, and [he's] very organized," Rob-

Payne said he enjoys working with athletic bands because he enjoys college football and the "variety of students he will get to work with."

"I feel like you're directly connected to the university. With the visibility, you are a representative of the university, which is nice," Payne said.

Payne said one of his main concerns is figuring out how to adapt to the increase in marching band members. Another goal for Payne and the band is to improve performance.

"One of my big mottos with ensembles is you never arrive, you're on a continual journey but still taking inventory of how far we've come," Payne said.

Payne said he's appreciative of all the support from the YSU family and the community.

"It's great to be here, it's great to be a Penguin ... and not only the people at the university or the Dana School of Music but also people in the community have just been overwhelmingly kind in helping me with the transition," Payne said.

YSU announces fall theater and music acts

Marissa McIntyre REPORTER

This year, the curtains will open to reveal a new season of diverse performances by the Youngstown State University department of theater and dance

"Audiences can expect a high-quality performance that we're noted for," said Frank Castronovo, chairman of and professor in the theater and dance department. "This year we've chosen acts that represent different forms and styles of theater."

One such presentation is "Blossoms in Bliss," a "totally original, interactive, cabaret-style musical," Castronovo said.

"It'll be as if the audience is seeing an olden-day-style night show," Castronovo said.

Even though "Blossoms in Bliss" doesn't run until April, faculty and students are preparing early.

"Like the audience, we're not really sure what to expect. How it works out, we'll see," Castronovo said.

One thing that hasn't changed this year is the number of productions.

"As always, we have two productions that the students choose and essentially run everything without faculty interference," Castronovo said.

One of the two productions the students chose this year is "Love Song," a comedy that will run Sept. 9-12. The second is a drama, "Love and Understanding," which will run in January.

"We've been doing this for about 20 years so that the students can succeed or fail on their own," Castronovo said.

As always, audiences can expect other acts such as musicals throughout the year. Even a dance ensemble can be expected at the end of the fall semester.

However, faculty members aren't the only ones excited about the upcoming year for music and theater.

Stephanie Ruozzo is a Dana School of Music senior; clarinet is her major instrument.

"Whoever comes to see a performance can expect a lot of good literature ... because we have professors that pick pieces to challenge and reflect what we as performers can do, not just what students can do," Ruozzo said.

Ruozzo is also looking forward to a new guest lecturer the music department is welcoming this year.

"Tamara Levitz is coming to do part of her lecture series with us. I'm excited because she's supposed to give us a different perspective," Ruozzo said. "Usually lecturers give us input on the performance side, but she's going to focus on the academic benefits of the performing arts."

Tamara will be speaking on Oct. 15. The event is open to the public.

the public.

Additionally, Dana School of Music ensembles perform on West adays at noon at the Butler usuate of American Art; these per bances are known as the Music at Noon

Ruozzo This is the semester's big event which includes standard repertoire and new music as well."

SEPTEMBER EVENTS

Dana School of Music:

 Sophia Brooks and Friends YSU Community Diversity Program Series

Sept. 2

University Theater and Dana School of Music partner to bring an evening of 19th Century Negro Spirituals 7 p.m. Ford Theater, Bliss Hall

• Guest Artist Recital Steven Stusek

Sept. 9 saxophone 8 p.m. Bliss Recital Hall

•Dana Chamber Orchestra

Sept. 19 4 p.m. Bliss Recital Hall

• CityMusic Cleveland

Sept. 29-8 p.m. All Beethoven Concert Stambaugh Auditorium

University Theater:

• LOVE SONG Second Stage Blackbox Production by John Kolvenbach (A Comedy Spotlight Arena Theater Sept. 9, 10 & 11 • 7:30 p.m. Sept. 12 • 3 p.m.

THELAND

Meet the administration

Cynthia Anderson
President

Gene Grilli
Vice president for finance and administration

Holly Jacobs
General Counsel

Shannon Tirone
Executive
associate to the president

Ron Strollo

Executive director, intercollegiate athletics

Ikram KhawajaProvost and vice president for academic affairs

Mike Hrishenko
Interim executive director of technology services

Jack Fahey
Interim vice president for student affairs

Yulanda McCarty-Harris
Director, Office of Equal Opportunity and Diversity

Reference of the students

Many more years ago that I would like to admit, I was getting ready for my freshman year at YSU. Nervous? Yes. Uncertain? Yes. Apprehensive? You bet. So, for those of you entering YSU for the first time, believe me, I know how you feel.

Let me say, in all truthfulness, there is nothing to worry about. While YSU is a big and growing university, it is also still very small in many ways. When you enrolled at YSU, you joined the YSU "family" — a family of thousands of students, alumni, faculty and staff. We are here to help, whether it is finding your way around campus or ensuring that you get the academic support you need. Our goal is your success.

As president of YSU, my attention is squarely focused on ensuring the success of all of our students — in the classroom, in the laboratory and out in the community. Through the offering of quality academic programs, taught by some of the nation's best faculty, in state-of-the-art classrooms and laboratories, and with the support of dedicated advisors, mentors, counselors and other staff, our students are and will continue to be absolutely second to none across the country.

Today, maybe more than ever before, every student who comes to this university brings very unique needs. It is our responsibility to identify those needs and do the very best that we can to fulfill them. As a student, you are the lifeblood of the university. You are the reason all of us — faculty and staff — come here every day and do our work. You — the students — will be at the center of everything we do. Every decision we make — from academic programs to facility improvements — will have students at the core.

So what can and should you expect from me as your president? I am committed to listening. I want to hear your suggestions. I will be visible on campus and available to you. I will be truthful and faithful, and I will serve and represent this university well. And, always, I intend to keep my focus on "students" for as long as I hold this wonderful position.

Welcome. Good luck. And have a great year.

lymhia E. anderson

Cynthia E. Anderson, President

Maag Library welcomes you

Whether you are a new or a returning student, the staff of Maag Library welcomes you. Over the summer we've been busy making Maag even more welcoming and more important to your success. We've got iPads and Kindles to experiment with, new flashy display devices to tell you what's happening, new group study rooms with technology inside and new sofas to make studying or even catching your breath even more comfortable. Check us out during Welcome Week, get a snack and maybe win a prize.

Worried about the costs of textbooks? Many of the most popular ones are available for use in Maag ... so "try it before you buy it." Need sources for a paper that's due? Just using Google is so lame. Maag has tons of scholarly papers and even books available online from whenever and wherever you can get online ... things that you can't get just using Google. Visit us virtually at www.maag.ysu.edu. While you are on our website, check out the subject guides and even class pages that will help you get started in many specific subjects. And as for traditional books and even incredible databases, check out what our OhioLINK membership has to offer.

Need help when our website is not helpful enough? IM us ... and hey, text message reference is just around the corner. Need a picture or article from YSU's past? Visit our archives on the fifth floor or our digital archives at digital.maag.ysu.edu. Need to do a podcast instead of a written paper? Visit the podcast labs in our Multimedia Center.

And did I mention that we are people-people? The staff members of Maag Library are here to help you, so drop on by and talk with us.

We know how to listen.

Paul Kobulnicky
Executive director, Maag Library

Transition from high school to college brings new challenges

WATTS

LARSON

SPRAGUE

BOATWRIGHT

Iordan Uhl SPORTS REPORTER

There are plenty of fresh faces to get acquainted with within Youngstown State University's football program, 22 of which are freshmen this season. Four new coaches also look to start their terms off with a bang on YSU's football team.

Jamarious Boatwright, cornerback and a native of Largo, Fla., and Thomas Sprague of Gainesville, Ga. were both drawn away from their sunny residences to Youngstown by the current and upcoming facilities as well as the recruiting of the coaching staff.

"With new coaches there's equal opportunity for playing time," Boatwright said about his decision.

Sprague, a linebacker, received a call from Rick Kravitz, defensive coordinator and linebacker coach, roughly a week before signing day urging him to choose

Sprague agreed with Boatwright's assessment regarding the new coaching staff but added for all freshmen that they lack experience that could possibly hinder their chances come game

Kevin Watts didn't need to travel as far, hailing from Middletown, Ohio, but still faces the same hurdles due to his class

Watts, along with numerous other freshmen, came to campus early this summer to take classes and begin working out with

On the field, Watts also had some adjustments to make. "One disadvantage for me would be speed. I need to get faster. In high school, I was the fastest. Now I'm not," he said.

Jordan Uhl

Although he has little analyst expecessful campaigns at all three levels of play will provide him with unparalleled have a pretty good understanding of the game," he said. "I'll have a pretty good relationship with the coaches both home

the decision at first, but after realizing what a committed individual he was, the

"And he's going to miss Ohio State, Michigan," Hannon said, further ac-

Youngstown State University, he still remains passionate about the university and realizes the vital role YSU plays in the heartbeat of Youngstown," Muransky

YSU football coach Eric Wolford's plan, was a key factor in Muransky accepting

"It's a huge piece of our community,

His desire for the program, along with

"One thing I liked about the glory years with Tressel was how proud everyone was. You could be at the airport in Las Vegas, and see someone with a

YSU shirt on, and it was a sense of pride about our area," Muransky said. "It signified the level YSU football was at. Wol-ford wants to bring the passion back. He struck a chord with me; it was a 'perfect

Hannon said he feels Muransky can

"He played at the highest level; he knows what it takes to get the program back on track, but most importantly, he speaks highly of YSU," Hannon said.

storm.' I couldn't say no.'

also aide in Wolford's recruiting.

Although not having played for knowledging Muransky's loyalty.

Hannon admits he was skeptical about

"I understand what it takes, and I upcoming football season.

years of experience.

Bowl victory.

and away."

insight into the game.

uncertainty diminished.

the community.

this position.

He acknowledged that he's young and needs to keep learning but has been working with his position teammates to do so effectively. In addition to being young mentally, he's young physically, and feels he needs to become stronger.

This is also an insecurity shared by Youngstown native, Zach Larson. Even while listed at 6 feet 3 inches and a whopping 300 pounds, he feels that he is behind the curve since the offensive linemen ahead of him on the depth chart have been lifting for two to three years longer than he has. This doesn't discourage him though; he only focuses on the positive.

"I'm still young and fresh," Larson said. "I haven't been getting beat up on the college level for all these years."

He also has high aspirations for what the team can accomplish this year. First and foremost, he'd like to come home from Happy Valley on Sept. 4 with a victory. After what he hopes turns out to be a successful season, he'd like to be part of a conference title and ultimately a national title.

As the team is built of many individuals, Larson does have some personal goals as well. He said he'd like to become "bigger, stronger and faster" but before that he wants to fine-tune his

Breaking the mold of the typical local high school student eager to attend a university other than YSU, Larson couldn't be

"In the '90s I remember this place being packed and I think Wolford's staff can bring this program back to that," Larson

On the university's proximity to his home, Larson noted, "It's still like getting out. I'll be living down here in the fall and it's not even like being at home but it's close enough. My mom still calls to go to lunch.'

1.VILLANOVA 2. MONTANA

FCS TOP 25

- 3. APPALACHIAN STATE
- 4. WILLIAM & MARY
- 5. SOUTHERN ILLINOIS 6. RICHMOND
- 7. ELON
- 8. STEPHEN F. AUSTIN
- 9. SOUTH DAKOTA ST.
- 10. NEW HAMPSHIRE
- 11. SOUTH CAROLINA ST.
- 12. MCNEESE ST.
- 13. EAST. WASHINGTON
- 14. NORTHERN IOWA
- 15. JAMES MADISON
- 16. DELAWARE
- 17. JACKSONVILLE ST.
- 18. EAST. ILLINOIS
- 19. WEBER STATE
- 20. PRAIRIE ST. A&M
- 21. LIBERTY
- 22. COLGATE
- 23. PENN
- 24. MONTANA ST.
- 25. HOLY CROSS

MISSOURI VALLEY FOOTBALL

1. YOUNGSTOWN ST. (0-0)

- 2. INDIANA STATE (0-0) 3. MISSOURI STATE (0-0)
- 4. NORTH DAKOTA ST. (0-0)
- 5. NORTHERN IOWA (0-0)
- 6. SOUTH DAKOTA ST. (0-0)
- 7. SOUTHERN ILLINOIS (0-0) 8. WESTERN ILLINOIS (0-0)
- 9. ILLINOIS STATE

PENGUIN SPOTLIGHT

KURT HESS

YEAR:

Quarterback R-Freshman HOMETOWN: Dayton, Oh

HIGH SCHOOL: Chaminade-

Julienne

High School Stats (Senior) 1,824 YARDS:

12

SCHEDULES

FOOTBALL

Sept. 4-@ Penn State Sept. 11- BUTLER

Sept. 18- CENTRAL CONN. ST.

Sept. 25- SOUTHER ILL

Oct. 2-@ Missouri State

Oct. 9- NORTH DAKOTA ST.

Oct. 16-@ Western III.

Oct. 23- @ South Dakota St.

Oct. 30- UNI (Homecoming)

Nov. 6-@ Illinois St.

Nov. 13- Indiana St.

SOCCER

Aug. 26-@ IPFW

Aug. 29-@ Toledo Sept. 3- HOWARD

Sept. 5- UMKC

Sept. 12- CANISIUS

Sept. 17-@ Oakland

Sept. 19-@ Michigan

VOLLEYBALL

Aug. 28- vs. Buffalo WVU Classic

Aug. 28- vs. Akron

WVU Classic Aug. 29-@ West Virginia

WVU Classic

Aug. 31- @ Saint Francis (Pa.)

Sept. 3- HOWARD

YSU Invitational

Sept. 4 NIAGARA YSU Invitational

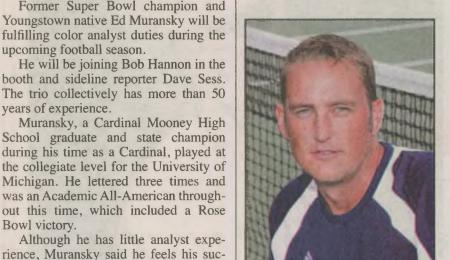

Making the call New faces in YSU athletics

of the Penguin Youngstown native added to YSU football color commentary

Bob Boldon Women's head basketball coach

- In his first year as the women's head basketball coach Sixth women's head basketball coach in
- YSU's history Spent five years coaching Division I bas-
- Coached Lambuth University to a school best 29 wins in 2008-2009
- Spent last season at Florida Gulf Coast University as the top assistant where he helped coach them to 24 wins, which earned them an invitation to the WNIT

Mark Klysner Men's head tennis coach

- Spent the past two years coaching as a Division I assistant
- Coached both the men's and women's tennis teams at Fairleigh Dickinson in 2009-2010 where the women's team won the
- Spent the 2008-2009 season as the assistant for the men's and women's teams at Austin Peay
- Named MVP of the men's tennis team at the University of South Carolina where he played No. 1 singles and doubles

Krista Burrows Head volleyball coach

- Eighth coach in YSU's history
- Assisted Walsh University's average over 27 wins during her six-year tenure including finishing in the top 25 three times Finished at WU with an overall record of
- 164-59 In 2006 and 2008, she was named the American Mideast Conference and Regional IX Coach of the Year

Eric Wolford Head football coach

- Tagged as a top recruiter at the Division I Football Bowl Subdivision level
- Graduate of Ursuline High School
- Coached with Steve Spurrier, Ron Zook, Mike Stoops, Darrel Dickey, Dana Dimel,
- Earned All-Northeastern Ohio honors in

Sixth coach in YSU's history

- Spent 16 years as a college football assis-
- tant, 12 of those for Division I schools Jim Leavitt and Bill Snyder
- Cardinals after graduating college

Signed as a free agent with the Arizona

1988 for the Ursuline Irish