Similar to human milk

★The name is never abbreviated; and the product is not like any other infant food—notwithstanding a confusing similarity of names.

The fat of Similac has a physical and chemical composition that permits a fat retention comparable to that of breast milk fat (Holt, Tidwell & Kirk, Acta Paediatrica, Vol. XVI, 1933) . . . In Similac the proteins are rendered soluble to a point approximating the soluble proteins in human milk . . . Similac, like breast milk, has a consistently ZERO curd tension . . . The salt balance of Similac is strikingly like that of human milk (C. W. Martin, M. D., New York State Journal of Medicine, Sept. 1, 1932). No other substitute resembles breast milk in all of these respects.

A powdered, modified milk product especially prepared for infant feeding, made from tuberculin tested cow's milk (casein modified) from which part of the butter fat is removed and to which has been added lactose, olive oil, coconut oil, corn oil and fish liver oil concentrate.

THE CANCER CAMPAIGN.

The attitude of the medical profession toward cancer is swinging away from one of absolute pessimism. Early recognition of the cancer lesion is imperative. Any campaign which broadcasts this information as the current one is doing deserves our hearty support.

The research attack on cancer has heretofore lacked the coordination now common in great industrial research programs. Continuity is often lacking in investigation of diseases which depend on annual grants from individual sources. Resulting insecurity causes many gifted young medical men to hesitate to enter cancer research. The recognition of this fact by the laity has made possible the present well organized plan. This guarantee of a long term investigation of the causes of this disease which next to heart disease is the greatest killer will surely stimulate research.

Developments of the last ten years have been such that there are now far greater possibilities than ever before for fruitful discoveries concerning the cause and cure of cancer. This opportunity arises primarily from these facts:

1. The discovery of the electron microscope and other advanced techniques make it now possible to study what goes on in the living cell.

2. It has been found that there are chemical differences in the bodies of those who have cancer and those who do not. Why?

3. Experimental work with animals has now progressed to a point where they provide a substantial basis for the study of the part which hereditary factors play.

The first step in a comprehensive program of cancer research is to determine what investigations offer the greatest hope and what is needed to fill in the gaps and provide a thoroughly coordinated attack. The following plan seems sensible:

1. Election of nationally representative laymen to a majority on the Board of Directors of the American Cancer Society, thus giving them control over the funds and business management of the society. (Physicians do this sort of thing poorly.)

2. Creation of a board of leading medical men and scientists in the field of cancer, to control the professional and scientific policies and plans of the Society.

3. Acceptance of an agreement with The National Research Council to provide its resources for formulation of a long term cancer research program, with specific recommendations for projects on which money is to be spent.

Our Cancer Committee, headed by Dr. Heberding, has been doing yeoman service in the past several weeks on the radio and platform. Let us all take this opportunity to instruct our patients in the modern concept of cancer recognition.

CANCER Vs. DR. A—DR. B—DR. C—DR. D

(Reprint from Nassau Co. Medical News, N. Y.)

Have you seen the Reader's Digest article? Did you read Waldemar Kaempffert in the recent Saturday Evening Post? Or many other recent authoritative and informative stories in the press and magazines?—And, do you know that more, much more, of the same is coming very soon, via movie, radio and print.

The blockade of phobias and taboos has crumbled. Our patients, whom we group collectively, as the "lay public" are getting cancer information, are absorbing it, and are eagerly asking for more. And they are acting wisely, intelligently upon the facts they are learning. Are the doctors—or better, is each individual doctor—ready, now, to meet the enlightened, frank and cooperative patient who says "Doctor, please examine me. I want to know if I have cancer, or a condition which I hear you doctors calling 'pre-cancerous'?"

Well, let's look at the doctors. First comes for inspection:

Doctor A. He has made a special study of cancers. He, after a preliminary internship, went on to special hospitals where the study of tumors of all sorts is emphasized. And he has done so in his practice with constant study and research. We need have no worry about Cancer vs. Dr. A.—he'll win the fight if there is any chance at all.

Doctor B. He has had good general clinical training, but in the specific problems of diagnosis and treatment of malignant disease, he has only general knowledge. But, he knows when to be alert, he knows and freely accepts his own limitations in this very specialized problem.

Therefore he acts promptly and honestly—he sends his suspected patient to one of the Doctors A. Doctor B is safe, too. We need not worry about Cancer vs. Doctor B.

Doctor C. He perhaps has the same good broad general training in medical practice as Doctor B. But, he's just a little bit too sure of himself—he isn't quite as ready to acknowledge his limitations. So, sometimes—perhaps not often—he will rely upon his own judgment in a border-line diagnostic problem, until the golden hour for cure has passed. Cancer vs. Doctor C? Not quite so good.

Doctor D. Also a good doctor—but a good fellow, too—in a way of speaking. The suspected patient is a brother Elk, a member of the Poker Club, or a close friend of the family. He doesn't want to be an alarmist. Besides, it "can't happen here." So he blinds himself, gives false comfort to his patients—and—Cancer vs. Doctor D? The answer often too tragic.

Yes, it requires years of specialized training, study and research to be fully competent in the diagnosis and treatment of malignant disease, to be a Doctor A. There aren't enough Doctors A, but more and more will come, after this war is over.

And it takes courage and unpromising honesty to be a Doctor B. But there are lots and lots of them—in fact the large majority of practicing physicians are Doctor B's.

Doctor C can become a Doctor B overnight, if he will face facts. And he'll sleep better in the nights that follow.

EVERY FAMILY

should have at least one more quart of MILK
regularly

Although today more milk is being used by American families than ever before, it is such a familiar food and so easily available, its great nutritional value is too little appreciated. No other food supplies so much strength building calcium, more protein or so many vitamins as milk, and in these days of food rationing and shortages it is almost imperative that each milk order should include at least one or two extra quarts. Milk is the most essential food in America today.

ISALY'S

Dairy Specialists

Doctor D's problem is difficult. He has to battle with his own temperament, his own softheartedness, perhaps the true word is his cowardice. For it takes a peculiar kind of courage, and tact beyond measure to meet this cancer challenge in the daily contact of doctor and patient. But Doctor D, too, can and must steel himself and meet the issue head on. Then he too becomes a Doctor B.

This is an hour, in the cancer fight, which calls for a solemn self-analysis by every practicing physician, that he may play his role creditably and in full accord with the traditions of his profession and the confidence and trust of his patients. As many of the contagious diseases are so nearly conquered, and as the newer miracle drugs are changing the course of the infections, more and more thought must be directed to the cancer problem. No one must lag. The more baffling the problem, the more active must be the attack. Nor should failure, in spite of the most thorough and competent treatment permit discouragement.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON RED CROSS

The special committee on Red Cross relationship has had several requests in regard to the attitude of the Profession toward leaves of military personnel. These requests are made by the relatives at home when sickness overtakes the family. The Red Cross is requested to contact the proper authorities to get these sickness military furloughs. We have considered this problem and have come to the following conclusions which we submit to the Council for its consideration and if accepted should be transmitted to the Mahoning Chapter of the American Red Cross for its guidance in this matter.

1. If a medical problem (medical or surgical) is considered serious, the medical attendant in charge should so notify the Red Cross so that the persons in the Armed Services so affected shall be given a leave of absence from duty to return home because of this family disability if the service person is not in foreign duty (that is duty outside the Continental U. S.)

2. If the case is understood by the medical attendant not to be of a serious nature, he or she will so notify the Red Cross to that effect and will make it known to the Red Cross representative that it is not necessary for a furlough because of this medical problem.

3. If the case has been of a chronic nature and other complications develop and if the medical attendant is in doubt as to its outcome, the medical attendant should give the benefit of the doubt to the person requesting the furlough and aid the Red Cross in securing the requested furlough.

4. The Medical Profession should not give aid to families at home for the release or furlough of armed force personnel on physical conditions that cannot be confirmed by the medical attendant.

5. The Red Cross worker after contacting the medical attendant should not state bluntly that the physician in charge of the case in question has refused to give his or her consent to bring the service person home because of this illness but should use as much diplomacy as possible, leaving some of the responsibility to the commanding office of the service personnel. This may be difficult at times but the medical attendants are complaining about the bluntness with which these matters are sometimes handled and thrown back on his or her shoulders.

Submitted—

W. K. Allsop
Ray Fenton
Wm. M. Skipp

NOTE: (1) This was approved by the Council of the Mahoning County Medical Society April 9, 1945, with instructions to get approval from the Red Cross.

(2) This was approved by Miss Crawford and Mrs. McFee of American Red Cross, Mahoning Chapter, during personal interview April 26, 1945.

FUTURE OF MEDICINE

By EBEN CAREY, M. D.

Dean of Marquette University Medical School

The evening lecture at the post graduate day assembly was given by Dr. Eben Carey. He discussed the future of medicine under four headings: 1—"Medical Education for the Profession." 2—"Medical Research." 3—"Distribution of Medical Care." 4—"The Relation of the Medical Profession to the Public." Serious threats have arisen during the war to the medical education, research, and practice. These threats can be averted only by the determined action of individual doctors and County Medical Societies towards a high standard of practice, wide distribution of medical care and better relations with the public.

The speeded-up course in medical school is unsatisfactory and is justified only by war. The boys are not well prepared. It is impossible to digest the amount we expect a medical school graduate to have in the abbreviated course. Medical graduates are in a brain fog. They have been paid to go to medical school. It is not the Army or Navy's business to carry on medical education except in war time. Moreover government subsidization of the student's expenses and the regimented life in the armed forces later rob him of the faculty of personal responsibility and initiative. The short course should be stopped as soon as possible. On July 1, the first group trained under the accelerated program will be graduated. Nobody knows the implanations or implications involved in this accelerated program.

As to research, Dr. Carey said, it's planning by a central committee and it's subsidization by government would be destructive. Harm has already been done by insisting that research be on problems that have an immediate applied value in military work. No one can say what is pure research and what is applied research. Some of the most practical and quickly applicable discoveries such as Penicillin have been made in the course of pure research. What is utilitarian? The actions of Penicillin were first noted by a student in Koenigsburg University. He noted in the morgue that rigor mortis disappeared after the appearance of a white, cottony mold. This was a scientific observation. It set off a spark of imagination and aroused the curiosity of youth. The mind went from observation to experimentation, and then to reason. Today Penicillin gives many important contributions to humanity. It was not discovered by a medical agency, but by independent thoughts of thinking individuals. There is a vicious action in mass action. There is no substitute for the genius and the inspiration of a free individual in free research.

Dr. Carey strongly opposed plans for government intervention to finance and distribute medical care. He complimented the Vindicator very highly on the editorial which they had on the post graduate day. He said that society will follow leadership. We have been crucified by the supreme court but if we stick to our task and to the truth the public will find it out. As to problems of distribution of medical care—each County Medical Society must solve its own problem. They should not pass the buck to the American Medical Association. It is very easy to blame the State. It takes only a few doctors to bring discredit to a County Medical Society, therefore we should hold the ethics high. The public will respond. We should do more than good medical care. We must combat socialized medicine by cultivating better relations with the public. The profession should educate the people as to what real medical care is by using newspapers and radios, and by holding health exhibits and having an annual health day for the public. Some of these activities can well be sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Medical Society. The trouble with the individual doctor is that his hands are so filled with carrying on his practice that he has no time to carry on these other activities. But some of our finest scientists take time to periodically announce what they do. This is true particularly in England. Dr. Carey advised us to familiarize ourselves with the "Christian Lectures," which were first published in 1833 in England. They are put out for the purpose of education for the public. They are written so that they can be understood by a twelve year old child. The medical profession must get down from its Latin and Greek. Dr. Carey advised us to read "Living Machinery," a book written by Dr. A. V. Hill of the University of London. Medicine can be explained to the public. The American Medical Association has many exhibits that they will send out to local Medical Societies. Women can do things that we can't do in regard to educating the public. It is high time to present the truth. We are behind in our social relations to the public in spite of our advances in science.

The United States is in magnificent health, yet in Wisconsin there was a bill to socialize Medicine. This would require a tax of 4% and yet it would take an 8% tax to match the medical care given under the present system. The politicians want taxes. We must educate the public away from false promises. If socialized medicine were ever adopted it would take a revolution to dynamite us out of it. Dr. Carey has seen government medicine working in Austria, France, Germany and England. None of the foreign plans produced anything like the high quality of medical care which free medicine has given Americans. Under our system of free doctors and independent County Societies, this country has had better health than any other large nation in History.

The individual doctor must see that he does not hurt the profession by unethical practice. The County Society must see that medical care is of high quality and that it is properly distributed so that no indigent lack care. If this is done, sooner or later the public will recognize honesty and truth and the dangers that threaten medicine in an unchartered future can be inverted.

Trumbull Co. Medical Society Meeting

The Trumbull County Medical Society will hold its next meeting on Thursday, May 17, at the Warner Hotel at 8:00 P. M. Dr. William Skipp will be the speaker, his subject being "Endocrine Problems as seen in every day Practice." Preceding the meeting there will be a dinner, at 6:30 P. M., to which Mahoning County Medical Society members are invited.

For reservations to the dinner, call Dr. D. L. Beard, President, or Dr. E. G. Caskey, Secretary. Let's give Skipp a good audience.

The Trumbull County Medical Society holds its monthly meetings on the third Thursday of each month. We feel that many members of our Society would like to attend these meetings if they knew date and speaker.

On April 19th, Dr. Russell Hayden, of the Cleveland Clinic, addressed the Society on the topic of "Anemias." Several members of our Society were in attendance and it was a very fine meeting.

"Remember," wrote the instructor of the correspondence school of journalism, "to write on only one side of the paper."

And by return mail came the following inquiry from the new pupil: "Which side shall I write on?"

NURSING PROFESSION TODAY

Impressions are curious things. Many times in medicine clinical impressions on investigation prove to be facts. Progress is often so made. Perhaps, more often, clinical impressions on careful analysis are not supported by the facts. It is extremely easy to remember the occasional unusual case and forget the numerous routine cases which bear on the same problem.

It seems as though this is what is happening with the nursing situation today. Nurses appear to be in the same position that the physicians have been for the past fifteen years. During this period physicians were blamed frequently and often by the public press for most of the ills of mankind; especially those which only economic factors could remedy. For the medical profession the war has changed much of this criticism. The same body of men rather bitterly maligned by branches of government and by parts of the public press before the war are now being held up as shining examples because of the medical work done in war time.

The facts are frequently forgotten. The impressions which may be false are frequently remembered. At present the nursing profession is under considerable strain. The impression is distributed from high quarters that the nursing profession is falling down on the job. Those of us who are connected with hospitals and are working in the hospitals today must certainly appreciate that this is an impression and not a fact.

Recently one of the graduates of some years ago, married and the mother of several children, was seen back in the hospital working. On talking with her it was discovered that her nursing duties did not stop with her term in the hospital. Several patients in the neighborhood of her home who required nursing care were being assisted in addition. This is not an isolated instance.

The training schools of the hospitals have a hard time to keep a sufficient staff for training purposes, yet the increased enrollment of cadet nurses demands more help instead of less. The governmental regulations covering these cadet nurses make it impossible to have these girls on the wards for the length of time which nurses used to serve in that capacity. This cuts down on the amount of nursing care that can be expected of student nurses. Supervision on the wards falls frequently on the shoulders of young and comparatively inexperienced graduates. This is not their choice but a case of necessity. The hospitals of the country are overcrowded with patients. Somehow the nursing profession is meeting this need. One of the older physicians who served in a supervisory capacity in the last war has said that the nursing situation in the last war was such that only a few nurses were found in the very large general hospitals. Today nurses are much more abundant than that in the armed services. The medical profession accustomed to placing reliance on facts and not on impressions owes a definite debt of gratitude and thanks to the nursing profession for the way in which they have met their obligations and carried the tremendous load of the last few years.

A very particular housekeeper was having her bedroom painted. Wanting to learn what progress the painter was making she crept to the bottom of the stairs and listened. Not a sound reached her ears.

She: Painter, are you working?

Painter: Yes, ma'am.

She: I can't hear you making a sound.

Painter: Perhaps not, ma'am; I ain't putting the paint on with a hammer.

By inducing smooth, gradual reduction of pressure over an extended period, Nitranitol eases the burden on the hypertensive heart, thus preventing arterial damage that results from continued, unrelieved hypertension—or which is likely to follow sharp fluctuations in pressure.

Nitranitol has a slow-developing, steady, prolonged vasorelaxing power—its effect lasts—

1½ times as long as erythryl tetranitrate

4 times as long as sodium nitrite

12 times as long as glyceryl nitrate

Nitranitol is nontoxic and safe for clinical use over long periods of time.

Supplied in the form of scored tablets containing ½ gr. mannitol hexanitate. Available at prescription pharmacies in bottles of 100 and 1000.

Post-Graduate Day

Again in 1945 Mahoning County Medical Society has repeated their successful Post-Graduate Day. With conditions as they are and the physicians as busy as the time demands it seems again almost foolhardy to put on this program. However, the effort of the different committees headed by Dr. Rummell proved imminently successful as the day itself showed.

A very fine group from Marquette University headed by Dr. Murphy was up to date again on any number of subjects. We are greatly indebted to this group for their time and effort in coming so far to be with us on this day. The group as a whole and especially those committees who did such fine work are to be congratulated.

Women's Auxiliary

The Women's Auxiliary to the Mahoning County Medical Society staged an afternoon tea and book review on Monday, April 16, 1945, at the home of Mrs. E. C. Baker, Overhill Road, Forest Glenn Estates. About fifty members and guests were present.

Reverend Eugene C. Beach reviewed "The Life of General Eisenhower" and it was followed by a general discussion.

Mrs. A. Earl Brant, president of the Auxiliary and Mrs. L. George Coc, president-elect, presided at the tea table. Hostess chairman was Mrs. Donald A. Gross, who was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Gordon Nelson, Mrs. S. W. Sedwitz, and Mrs. W. K. Allsop.

The Auxiliary will have no further meetings until fall, the next meeting will be a picnic in September at the home of Mrs. A. Earl Brant, Chestnut Ridge Road.

Our Doctors in Service

February, 1945

"Work here is terrific. The Captain in my department has been transferred and that leaves me to hold down my job as section chief as well as ward details and much paper work. I work almost continuously. We are getting many convoys of injured and believe me these coming back from the front can really take it. A convoy came in last night and I had three hours sleep. Our hospital is supposed to receive some replacements soon and we need them.

You mentioned the snows in Youngstown. It seems to snow very little here but the cold is penetrating because of the dampness. However, with all the sweaters and coats I keep very warm and comfortable. I wear a sweater under my shirt, then I have acquired a combat trench coat which is fine for this climate. It has so many fixtures on it that it will almost talk to you. Until recently we had a coke stove that went out every night and we always got up in a cold hut but now we have large paraffin burning oil stoves that are kept burning all the time. I have dropped from 158 lbs. to 140 lbs. and I miss the extra weight for keeping me warm.

Perhaps by now you are having beautiful spring weather, I hope. You certainly have a long and severe winter, so spring will be early. We are having beautiful weather now, the sun is out, it is cool, just ideal for air activity, and there is plenty of that, as you well know. News is good now, if it continues at this rate, perhaps this mess will wind-up soon. I was visiting Brussels yesterday and the town was crowded. The people here have the same custom as the French. Everyone gets dressed in his best Sunday-clothes and goes down town for the usual Sunday Promenade. I know that in Paris, Avenue des Champs Elysee is crowded with Parisiennes and they all had their best and latest fashions. Mail has been very good in the last month, all my mail finally came in. It was time, as practically no mail came in during December or January. I visited 25th General Hospital a couple of times last month, and saw our nurses who are with that group. Their group has moved since and are in operation again. Everyone is wishing and hoping that the war will end soon, as they are all anxious to return home. I know that I am. Best of luck to all.

A few penciled notes to let you know I am well and hope this finds you and yours in the best of health.

I want to thank you for the many copies of the Bulletin and many personal letters that the men of home have sent.

Have been in France since last September, after spending about nine months in Corsica. That, too, was quite a change from sunny, sandy Africa. Had occasion to visit with McElroy and Nelson on one of my trips to Naples. They are both thinner and appeared in good health. My weight is down to 150 pounds so you see the war has done something to us that was rather difficult to do in civilian life.

Have been assigned to the 23rd General Hospital APO 377 about eight miles from where the old 31st Base Unit was quartered in the last war. Have been very fortunate in being assigned to the surgical service ever since the tour of overseas duty began, February, 1943. It not only seems a long time—it really is! This hospital has a capacity of 3000 beds, sponsored by the Unit of Buffalo. You can well imagine how busy we've been in this sector with all hell blown loose!

The war news looks promising and shouldn't be too long before this phase is over and we can start the finishing off process on the other side.

Keep up the good work at home and remember me to the members of the staff and Society.

Capt. P. M. Kaufman

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the Christmas Greeting and the most welcome stationery from the Bureau. I also want to tell you that I appreciate very much receiving the County Bulletin. We follow with great interest the news items contained therein as well as the lectures which I notice are still up to the excellent standard maintained by the Society before the war. As for the Honor Roll, the changes in APO numbers offer material for speculation for us who are overseas.

After a short sojourn in England, I am now in France.

It is always a surprise and a great pleasure to meet someone from your home town. Recently I encountered Captain Sydney Davidow in a nearby General Hospital. The Commanding Officer personally told me he was doing a fine job.

Capt. Clara Raven

Germany, March, 1945

The Novel Christmas card bearing the signatures of the members of the Mahoning County Medical Society was a grand idea. It gave me a lot of pleasure to read each name and try to visualize the owner. Many of the signatures were familiar as remembered from St. Elizabeth's Hospital order sheets, some were strange and a few were missing.

Even with all the doctors and dentists in the services I have yet to meet up with one from Youngstown. However, the Bulletin for January which just recently arrived keeps us posted as to where they are stationed and perhaps my luck will change.

Major Geo. L. Armbrecht

20th March, 1945

Hadn't received any Bulletin for several months, but this past week three of them arrived. So now I feel as though I am caught up on the news again. At this particular base our station hospital is an active one, and has weekly discussions of its interesting cases, which gives us some little cause to get professional for a change. Living in the jungles, without any evidence of civilization for 16 months is bad in more ways than one. Well, it can't last forever, can it? News is very encouraging lately.

While visiting Brussels and the well-known statue, I thought that you would be amused with the picture of the little statue voiding. Ha-Ha. We have a miserable day here, I hope yours is better. Thanks for your card to "Heroes"—Ha-Ha.

Returned from a ten-day trip to London, a week ago. Had a fine time there. Saw several plays, spent a couple of week-ends in Ipswich, and attended a course on fractures for five days. Flew there and back in a C-47 transport.

Happy Easter, best wishes and lots of luck.

We all enjoyed good news of one of the flight nurses. Her husband was liberated from imprisonment on Luzon. He had been a prisoner of war since the fall of Bataan.

Tell Dad my radishes, turnips, onions and peas are up and doing fairly well considering my necessary neglect. No show on string beans, carrots, or beets. Seeds were old though and been through pretty much moisture before planting.

A NEW TECHNIQUE FOR CONTROLLING DANDRUFF and ACNE

➔ Using the drug sulphur, in the form of an active, stable colloid, in a cream which itself is an excellent soapless cleanser, is the basis for the new "Therapeutic Cleansing" technique with Collo-Sul Cream.

In DANDRUFF, cleansing with Collo-Sul Cream results in prompt control and avoids the over-stimulation of the sebaceous glands following the use of soap.

In ACNE VULGARIS and ACNE ROSACEA, Collo-Sul Cream, as a soapless cleanser, avoids the irritating action of soap, and then — used as a vanishing cream, keeps the skin under active sulphur therapy 24 hours a day.

Dr. H. K. Giffin, Pathologist and Director of Laboratories, Youngstown Hospital Association addressed the Summit County Medical Society at the monthly meeting, Tuesday, April 3. His topic was "Illustrated Panorama of Tropical Medicine." The Summit Co. bulletin has this to say about Dr. Giffin:

"Our members are assured a real treat in Dr. Giffin's presentation, as he has had long acquaintance and experience with Tropical Medicine at first hand. Following his medical school and hospital training in Cleveland, he attended the School of Tropical Medicine in London. Then in 1928-29, he studied in the School of Oriental Studies of the American University in Cairo, Egypt. The next two years were devoted to general hospital practice in the American Hospital at Assiut, Egypt. main, pathology and roentgenology. He returned to the United States in 1939 and spent three years in the study of pathology at the Institute of Pathology of Western Reserve University. ## DEXTRI-MALTOSE Equipment Sterilized By Live Steam Pressure PHYSICIANS frequently express surprise that the cleansing and steaming of equipment for manufacture of Dextri-Maltose produces sterility comparable to that in hospitals.

All equipment used for Dextri-Maltose is of the enclosed type and all parts which come in contact with the product are readily accessible for cleaning—smooth surfaces, rounded corners, detachable piping in short lengths.

Huge autoclaves in the Mead Johnson factory steam-sterilize the smaller equipment, and live steam is forced under pressure into storage and processing tanks.

This is but one phase of many precautions taken to make Dextri-Maltose a carbohydrate safe for infants. Unremitting care in laboratory and factory has resulted in a product which over many years has had an extraordinarily low bacterial count. Every step in the process of making Dextri-Maltose is under the watchful eyes of competent bacteriologists.
